EDUCATOR EXPLAINS CHINESE SITUATION

China is Now at the Crossroads and Looking to the United States for Help

WORLD PEACE IN BALANCE

China, Russia, and United States Will be Controlling Powers in the Future

In a chapel address Dr. Timothy Lew, a well known Chinese educator and publicist, declared that the three great nations of the future would be Russia, China, and the United States, because they alone are the nations having the necessary resources and population. According to Dr. Lew China is today at the crossroads and is being exposed to new ideas religiously, socially, and educationally. On the one hand China looks to Russia and receives ideas of violence and revolutionary force, while on the other hand she looks to the United States and receives the ideals of peace and liberty realized through the methods of reason and justice. The future of the world depends on which of these two nations China chooses to combine. Therefore it is up to the American student to strive to understand China as China is trying to understand America.

Dr. Lew explained the present situation in China as the result of a period of the sufferings and trial through which China was going in an effort to realize a true democracy in government, to abolish the effects of unequal treaties, and to establish a better and more equitable economic order. China in her attempts to change from a monarchy to a democracy must build from the bottom and remove all the obstacles in the way of a better democracy.

Dr. Lew said that the foreign relations of China for the last 75 years could be characterized in the one phrase "unequal treaties." China is now trying to set its internal house in order and striving toward the abolition of unequal treaties and the admission into the family of nations on an equal basis as she deserves.

Dr. Lew claims that China considers the attainment of these objectives as a matter of life and death. She is striving to educate her people both young and old and is trying to rejuvenate or change her religious ideas. In addition to a well formulated mass adult education movement over 2,000 students are now studying in France and the United States. Also Dr. Lew states that over 10,000 students studied in Japan in the decade from 1900 to 1910.

FRATERNITY WILL SELECT LA VIOLETTE'S SUCCESSOR

Organization Appropriates Funds for the Furnishing of Chresto Cottage

At the Blue Key luncheon held at the Spa on Tuesday noon, Kenneth LaViolette, who has been president of the fraternity since its organization, presented his resignation to become effective in January. This action was taken because LaViolette will complete his college work at the end of the first semester.

The fraternity voted to present for student body approval the calendar of after chapel meetings at the coming student body meeting on Friday.

The fraternity also voted to appropriate $40 of the proceeds from the Collegiate Bedlam to the furnishing of Chresto cottage and appointed a committee to take immediate action to supervise the expenditure of the money which the fraternity has appropriated for this object.

FLESHER CHOSEN MANAGER

At a meeting of the executive committee of the student body Gurnee Fleisher was elected manager of varsity basketball for the coming season. Fleisher was a member of the basketball squad of last year and was captain of the track squad last year. He has also had considerable experience in managing various athletic contests at Willamette. He is a member of the senior class and the Blue Key.

CONFERENCE HEADS MEET

The annual meeting of the representatives of the Northwest Conference is to be held in the first part of December, according to Dean Frank M. Erickson who is president of the conference. At this meeting the athletic schedule for the next year will be made out and applications for membership will be considered.

SAM SIMPSON'S BIRTHDAY PASSES WITHOUT NOTICE

Willamette Graduate in Class of 1865 Was the Poet of the New Oregon Country

November 12th was the birthday of one of Willamette's most renowned sons, the poet, Samuel Simpson. Coursing through all his poems there is such a dominant spirit of the west, that he is called the "Burns of Oregon."

This genuine love for this country is well understood when the facts concerning his life are known. In 1846 he made the long journey across the plains with his parents to a rough little log cabin in Marion County. There he spent his boyhood reveling in the beauties and mysteries of the new country. Formal education troubled him little; his mother taught him the alphabet by outlining the letters in the ashes of the hearth. Although he attended a grammar school for a few months of each year, he really had studied almost entirely by himself until he entered Willamette University.

For a time after his graduation in 1865, he practiced law but he soon turned to journalism. After his death in 1900, his works were edited in a volume called "The Golden West." Any lover of Oregon will appreciate the musical language and the imaginative figures which picture the mountains and forests of the Oregon country.

ORATORICAL HONORS AWARDED TO WITTY

"Darkening Shadows" Given Second Place in National Intercollegiate Contest

Robert Witty, prominent Willamette debater and orator has received notification that his oration "The Darkening Shadows" was awarded second place in the national intercollegiate peace association contest.

The oration will appear in the "Messenger of Peace," a national magazine.

Last year Mr. Witty delivered this oration in the chapel for the Keyes oratorical contest and was judged the best school orator of the year. This oration has also received second prize at Newberg for the state peace oratorical contest and second award in the contest of the Pacific Coast Forensic League held at Salem.

Mr. Witty, a senior in Liberal Arts, is a most able speaker. For two years he has participated in oratory and last year he carried both oratory and debate.

TAU KAPPA ALPHA STAGES PROGRAM IN CHAPEL WED.

Charles Redding, Irene Broiphaupt, and Robert Witty Are Members

The three student members of Tau Kappa Alpha, national forensic fraternity, had charge of the chapel hour yesterday. All made speeches; Irene Broiphaupt spoke on women's debate, Charles Redding on what constitutes a good debater, and Robert Witty on the flights of oratory.

WHITMAN HAS HUMOR BOOK

WHITMAN COLLEGE, Nov. 15.—(P.L.P.)—Whitman College will again be listed among those institutions of higher education which publish humorous magazines. The "Blue Moon" which was so popular on the campus a few years ago has been revived. Last year the publishing of this magazine was discontinued because of the debt hanging over it. It was in truth a "Blue Moon." But Thanksgiving Day nineteen hundred and twenty seven is to see the efforts of the energetic staff rewarded by a publication that beats all previous editions.

U. C. L. A. ENTERS LEAGUE

15.—(P.L.P.)—"Disarmament" and its relation to World Peace" was the subject of UCLA's first men's varsity debate here November 7. This contest with U.C. at Berkeley marks the entrance of U.C.L.A. into the Pacific Coast forensic league.

Several other members of the league will be met during the year. The disarmament argument was not a decision contest, and following it an open forum was held.

This was the first Home-coming game that Willamette has ever won. Home-coming was started in 1923 and Willamette has lost two games each to Whitman and to Puget Sound.

MORONI OLSEN CAST TO PRESENT COMEDY

First American Performance of Turner's English Success, "Lilies of the Field"

DOROTHY ADAMS IN LEAD

Moroni Olsen players will present John Hastings Turner's comedy, "The Lilies of the Field," at the Capitol Theater this evening. This play carries a distinct appeal to every type of audience as it abounds in laughable situations and yet displays a keen insight into human nature. The play was a great success in England, and has never before been performed in America.

The plot concerns a lovable Englishman who has two daughters, twins, one thirteen minutes the elder. Their grandmother brings as a birthday present to one of them ten yards of pink crepe de chine. The other is to spend a month in London with her that winter. She makes the first male visitor unwittingly responsible for the decision. The girl who most obviously attracts him will go to London.

He proves to be an antiquarian. One daughter tries modern flapper methods. The other poses and costumes herself as a shy Victorian maiden and wins.

In London the man appears again regularly. So do the crinolines. A new style in dress is started. When the twin wants to stop and have a good time, she cannot. Worse, she becomes really attracted to the man, and is afraid to undeceive him. It need be she is prepared to wear crinolines and act prim all the rest of her life.

Eventually all works out satisfactorily, however, and ends in a happy and pleasant manner.

The cast includes such experienced players as Dorothy Adams, Janet Young, Leora Thatcher, Byron Poulger, Moroni Olsen, Gordon Nelson, Joseph Williams, Harry Adams and Marian Clayton. Many of these will be recognized as well known actors of Moroni Olsen productions in seasons past. This time the leading role is to be given to Dorothy Adams who was featured in "Friend Hannah" two years ago.

CLASS DEBATE CONTESTS FOSTERED BY FRATERNITY

Tau Kappa Alpha Announces Plan for Conducting Interclass Forensic Contests

Tau Kappa Alpha, the national forensic fraternity on the campus, plans to sponsor several interclass debates.

Robert Witty, the president of this organization, has announced that these contests, three in number, will probably be held during chapel hours, points in interclass rivalry being given to the winning classes. Informally will predominate in these encounters, and such opportunity will be granted for individual cleverness and humor, as opposing the mechanics and austerity of formal debate.

It certainly looked good to see the group of alumni in the grandstand rooting for their alma mater.

WORLD DEBATE TOUR RECEIVES APPROVAL

Joint Faculty-Trustee Committee Appointed to Back Important Forensic Venture

CIVIC CLUBS GIVE SUPPORT

Correspondence With Colleges Begins Arrangements for Definite Itinerary

With the appointment of a joint faculty-trustee committee and a favorable response from Salem civic clubs in support of the venture, the continental-European tour of a Willamette university debate team next year is practically assured.

Letters are being dispatched this week to a number of notable debating schools which have been selected to make up the schedule in the United States. Contracts with many of them will probably be definitely entered into before next summer.

It is planned that the tour shall start January 1, 1928, occupying practically a six month period, the debaters returning to Salem in time for the commencement exercises.

The southern route will be followed on the trip to New York, and a return visit made to the University of West Virginia which sent a debating team to the coast three years ago. Returning to Salem from New York, after the European tour, the team will travel the northern and central route. It is probable that debating relations with Wheaton college, Lawrence college, Denver university, and University of North Dakota will be resumed, although as far as possible contracts will be entered into with schools Willamette has not previously met, so as to increase the local school's debate contracts.

European institutions on the tentative list are University of Sheffield, University of Edinburgh, University of St. Andrews, University of Aberdeen, University of Glasgow, Queen's university of Belfast, and University of Dublin. Two or three Canadian institutions may be added to the list.

Try-outs to select the personnel of the team have been set by coach John O. Hall for January 16. Each candidate will be required to prepare a 30 minute argument and a 14 minute rebuttal in written form 10 days before the oral try-out. A committee of three will judge these efforts.

In the oral test, each aspirant must deliver a 30 minute main speech and a 14 minute rebuttal speech on both sides of the question used.

The four highest ranking candidates will be formed into two teams for still another test, and in case they are so evenly matched that a selection is impossible, the work during the coming debate season will be prorated.

Five prominent state and city persons will judge the oral arguments.

To insure still further, competent personnel of the team, no student will be permitted to try out for it who is not in the highest scholarship group of the public speaking classes.

The faculty-trustee committee consists of President Carl Gregg Doney, Dean Frank M. Erickson, Dean Roy Hewitt, Dr. B. L. Steeves, and C. P. Bishop.

DR. LEW HAS APPOINTMENT

BOSTON, MASS. Appointment of Dr. Timothy Tinsang Lew as visiting professor of missions and religion at Boston University School of Theology has been announced. He will take up his duties in the second semester. Dr. Lew is president of the China Christian Education Association, and was dean of the faculty of theology in Yen Ching University from 1921 to 1926. During the past year he has been visiting professor at Yale and Columbia Universities and at Hartford and Union Theological Seminaries. He was China's delegate to the World Conference on Faith and Order held at Lausanne.

STUDENTS SUPPORT SELVES

University of Idaho, (PIPA)—Over 28 per cent of the students enrolled are totally self-supporting at the University of Idaho. Some of these students work for deans as stenographers, some have merely odd jobs to work at now and then and still others are "hushers" in the different houses and halls.

DEAN HEWITT ADDRESSES MANY DIFFERENT GROUPS

Law School Leader Appears on Armistice Day Programs; Also YMCA Activities

Dean Roy R. Hewitt, of the Willamette Law school has been filling a number of speaking engagements of late. On Armistice day he delivered an Armistice day address at Albany at ten o'clock and another address at Independence in the afternoon. Sunday he was the special armistice day speaker at the Sellwood Methodist church in Portland.

Dean Hewitt will spend the coming week-end in Seattle attending a Y. M. C. A. young men's conference. Dean Hewitt is the adviser for the young men's division of the Salem Y. M. C. A. On his way to Seattle, Dean Hewitt will stop at Oregon City to address a teachers' institute on the subject of "War and the School."

SCHREIBER LINES UP GLEE CLUB ITINERARY

Tentative Plans Include Eastern Oregon, Columbia River, and Southern Oregon

The Men's Glee Club, which promises to be one of the best in the history of Willamette, is practicing hard twice a week on preparation for their coming series of concerts. Professor Hobson directs the practices on Monday night and William Wright directs on Wednesday afternoon.

This year between semesters the club will take a trip through eastern Oregon and Washington. Manager Schreiber reports that plans for the trip are almost completed and many of the contracts have already been signed. The members of the club will take their semester exams early and will be gone two weeks. The following towns are included in the tentative itinerary:

West Linn, Portland, Hood River, The Dalles, Pendleton, Athena, in Oregon and Walla Walla, Kennewick, Prosser, Yakima, Ellensburg, Tappanish, Goldendale, and Washougal.

Last year Willamette Glee Club received an invitation from University of California to participate in an all coast glee contest. No definite word has been received this year from California but if the club does make the trip it will probably be sometime in February and they will give a series of concerts through Southern Oregon and Northern California and take about two weeks for the trip. In case the trip to California is not realized, Manager Schreiber is planning a trip during Spring vacation down the Columbia River including St. Helens, Longview, Astoria, and either Raymond and Aberdeen or Seaside and Tillamook. This year local concerts will be given at McMinnville, Jefferson, Monmouth, Albany, Corvallis, Woodburn, Mill City, and homawa. At nearly all these places there are Willamette Alumni and Manager Schreiber is trying to enlist their support of the enterprise. Some time in the spring the Home concert will be given probably at the Capitol Theatre.

The Glee Club this year is especially good according to reports from Professor Hobson who says that nearly all of the first class section is of solo quality. The first tenor section is the same as last year and all the members of quartet are back. Margaret Lewis will accompany the club again this year and Paul Trueblood may again fill the capacity of reader although he is not a member of the club this year. The personnel of the club is as follows: First tenors, Craven, Wright, Robinson, and Taylor; second tenor, Geddes; Schreiber, Smith and Crane; first bass, Hathaway, Deacon, Patton, Wilkinson, and Herman; second bass, Kelley, Miller, Holtzel, Kaufman, Haldeane, and Gilheuser.

At the last meeting Lester Smith was elected to the vice presidency to take the place of Hugh Roberts who was unable to continue.

FAMOUS CANADIAN SINGER SECOND ARTIST OF SERIES

Tenor, Whom John McCormack Acclaimed the Greatest Will Come to Salem November 25

Edward Johnson, favorite tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company will come to the Elmore Theatre on November 25 as the second number of the Salem Artists Series. He will come to Salem as one of the best loved of all singers, and certainly one of the most widely heralded.

About three years ago Johnson sang in Portland with the Chicago Opera company. One prominent critic observed: "Wild with enthusiasm Portland music lovers threw their hats in the air, shouted and whistled for encore after encore at the marvellous singing of Edward Johnson."

According to Dean Erickson—Willamette university students will have the privilege of a two day holiday for the celebration of Thanksgiving. There will be no classes on Thursday or Friday, November 24 and 25. Instruction will be resumed again on Monday, November 28.

LAW SCHOOL FORMS NEW ORGANIZATION

DeSouza, Goodenough, Stadter Chosen Presidents of Respective Classes

COOPERATION IS OBJECT

Development of a Better Group Spirit and Professional Training Purpose

At the request of Dean Roy R. Hewitt the students of the law school have taken definite steps looking toward the perfection of the student organization of this specialized group. The object of the organization is to provide a means for the students of the law school to develop a better group spirit both in the professional group itself and in the university as a whole. The organization will have as its leader a student body president elected by the law students.

The election of the presidents for the three classes has been the first step taken. Joseph DeSouza was chosen leader of the seniors, Edwin Goodenough president of the juniors, and Ed Stadter head of the freshmen. These three class presidents served as a nominating committee for selecting the candidates for the president of the student body. Walter Fuhrer and Farwell Booth were the candidates selected by this committee.

It is the plan to hold regular meetings of the group where matters of interest to the group will be taken up. It has been suggested that the group bring in prominent attorneys and other speakers who could bring before the law students matters of interest and importance. It is also the purpose to stress the importance and possibilities of the moot court sessions.

THANKSGIVING JOLLY-UP PLANNED FOR VACATION

Gaynelle Beckett Heads Committee Planning Entertainment for Salem Students

No one need be homesick and blue because they stay in the town over Thanksgiving vacation, because Friday evening after Thanksgiving the annual Jolly-up will be held. The place has not been decided and no definite committees have been appointed but since Mildred Mills, the second vice-president is fortunate enough to be able to go home for the vacation she has given the job of head hono to Gaynelle Beckett.

Gay says that she doesn't know how it is going to be done but everyone will have a good time. If any one is feeling blue the Thanksgiving Jolly-up is the place for him and those in charge want all the "blue" people in school there. Of course if you aren't blue come anyway because are there going to be cats? Well—maybe!

GRADS GIVE TOTEM POLES

University of British Columbia, Nov. 10.—(P.L.P.)—Monday afternoon ended the program for the second annual Homecoming when grads returned to revive again memories of their own "college days." Forgetting their superiority these ex-varalites students quietly submitted to be "shown around" by obliging freshmen.

The main feature of the afternoon was the presentation of two totem poles to the University by the Alumni Association. These totem poles had been brought from the Manquean reserve in Point Grey; and were given to the Alumni on condition that they be erected on the University site, which at one time belonged to this tribe of Indians.

REPORT REVEALS DEFICIT

The Willamette Collegian of last year was not financially a success according to the report submitted to the executive committee by Everett Faber the manager of the publication for last year. The report reveals a difference of $117.50 between the receipts and disbursements. This does not include $70.70 which was drawn from the permanent Collegian fund for making permanent improvements and purchasing equipment.

THE NORTHWEST CONFERENCE

The Northwest Conference football session is practically over and we will soon be able to pause and consider another season of activities in this particular sport. In light of this particular fact in the history of the Northwest Conference and in the interest of the advancement of a better spirit between the colleges of the conference The Collegian wishes to reprint the following editorial which appeared in a recent issue of The Puget Sound Trail:

"With the formation, two years ago, of the Northwest Conference, a new organization was established with the general purpose of furthering athletic relations between six of the colleges and universities in the Pacific Northwest.

"The original purpose of the conference has been accomplished. The represented schools have met each other in practically all of the major branches of sports. The organization has given them opportunity to hold meets and games on a much more pretentious scale than before the conference was organized. More sports have been engaged in, and more men have been given the opportunity to take part in them.

"Thus the Northwest Conference is a success, in that its original purpose has been fulfilled.

"But The Trail believes that the conference, or the schools that make up its membership, can go even further in their relations with each other.

"The Northwest Conference should become a sort of fraternity of colleges. A closer friendship between the student bodies of the schools, a sort of brotherly interest in the activities and occurrences on the other campuses, a willingness and a desire to see the others advance, all of these should be included in the mental attitudes of the Northwest Conference students.

"Whenever a Puget Sound student picks up a newspaper, his first interest is naturally in his own students. The Trail hopes that there will come a time when the interest of the student, after that first looking for the news of his Alma Mater, will focus on any news of the other colleges in the conference.

"In other words, the colleges in this northwest association should feel set apart from the other schools of the Pacific Coast, and should manifest a special interest in their comrades in the organization. The Northwest Conference is our conference; let's all be loyal and true to it and to its members."

Truly the Northwest Conference has in many respects been a success. The number of special trains which were run this season to accommodate students who desired to witness the conference football is only indicative of the increasing interest on the part of the various student bodies in the activities of the conference. Previous to this year there had been no organized efforts to provide facilities for the transportation in mass of a large group of the students, but there were three special excursions this year. Willamette ran a special train to Tacoma, Linfield had an excursion to Salem, and Puget Sound brought a delegation of rooters to Forest Grove.

However, it occurs to The Collegian that there is one respect at least in which the schools of the conference are not exploiting to its fullest possibilities. There is no effort among the college newspapers of the conference to provide a method or system for the direct exchange of important news, sport and otherwise. All of the papers of the conference are weekly as is The Collegian. By the process of clipping ordinary exchanges news is two weeks old by the time that it is printed. The newspapers of the conference ought not to be satisfied with this present method of news exchange when a little effort would greatly improve the news value of the articles appearing concerning other schools of the conference and would go a long way towards promoting greater interest in the conference.

ON DRESSING FOR DINNER

It is a well known stock story which tells of a group of Irishmen, Englishmen, and Scotchmen who were ship wrecked on a desert island. As the story would have it the Scotchmen immediately organized a golf club, and got along famously, the Irishmen instantly fell to fighting among themselves and soon exterminated themselves, while the Englishmen starved to death because they had lost their dinner coats.

We of this day are not very much inclined to waste any sympathy on the gentlemen from the British Isles, in fact we are altogether too prone to look upon many of the formalities and social graces with at best an unwilling tolerance and at worst an intentional disregard. In our efforts to realize efficiency and to evaluate everything in the light of utilitarian standards we fail to realize that good manners are essentially in the long run nothing more than the easiest way to do things, and that courtesy is the simple lubricant which makes the machinery of our social contacts run smoothly.

Good manners are not company manners. In addition company manners are rather unnecessary because company has to stay for only a short time and can endure almost anything. It is for the group with which we have to associate every day that we should practice the fine art of good manners assiduously. Especially is this true in most cases of college students who for the most part live in rather large groups and associate on more or less intimate terms constantly throughout the year. These associations can be profitable and stimulating or they can descend to the reputed depths of the meetings of a group of small town spinsters or the sessions of a gang of loafers gathered around the village store.

The necessity for good taste and the best manner, as well as the highest test for them, is found in our every day campus activities.

My heart is like a singing bird
Whose nest is in a watered shoot;
My heart is like an apple-tree
Whose boughs are bent with thick-set fruit;
My heart is like a rainbow shell
That paddles in a halcyon sea;
My heart is gladder than all these

Because my love is come to me.
Raise me a dais of silk and down;
Hang it with vair and purple dyes;
Carve it in doves and pomegranates,
And peacocks with a hundred eyes;
Work it in gold and silver grapes;
In leaves and savor flour-de-l'ys;
Because the birthday of my life
Is come, my love is come to me.

NOCTURNE

The slumbrous Night comes, stealthily stealing
Over hedges of dewy twilight
To a wee hidden garden of beautiful dreams.
Here the myrtle trails a purple path,
And night birds, twittering, lull to rest.
A sky of gray makes a chiffon hood
As Day glides off through the drowsy wood.
The linden boughs move gently.
A somnolent nodding wind
Softens and deadens the sounds of Day,
And brushes the sordid, old world aside.
While my body is softly sleeping
My soul sets out and tiptoes, creeping
Down the way of the sunset that Night has dimmed.
The walls so high around this secluded place

We shine everything
And everything shines
that we shine

Are built of the world's crash and noise;
Only those who turn vagrantly from its confusion
Can scale them and dip in new delight.

Nothing can ever be told of the queer sounds
That are heard in this garden of dreams.
Not a whiff of the musk of its flower escapes
To someone without, stand he ever so near.
But I rest there quietly, I court the night wind
Till the pale disk of moon and the stars fade away;
Then the sun comes up like a great golden moth
From the sheath of black night, to deepen
The rose petals, to warm the chill air
And wake me from dreams, at the coming of day.

Mad Hatters Inn

We hope you missed us last week. Rather inopportune to have nothing to say right after Homecoming, thus giving the impression that we were elsewhere during the week end—but we weren't. We will stick our reputation as a Hatter on it.

Since we are now having what the Californians call "million dollar mist" — we ought to be making plans soon, to pay off the European war debts with the dividends.

It's too bad we haven't more football games at home. Think what an honor it would be to go down in the annals of history as having the first football team that won a game by means of the Australian crawl.

Campus Opinion

Something Wrong in Denmark

An Answer to the Collegian editorial "When in Rome".

I have read with some interest the editorials that have appeared in the Collegian with reference to the alleged insubordination of the present freshman class. May I suggest that to my mind there has been a lot of sloppy thinking on this matter by both faculty and students.

I have no intention of disputing the matter as to the guilt of the different parties, but I do question these utterly silly traditions that have been so nobly defended with paddle and pen. The "logical basis" for the practice of wearing the green cap is not so self-evident as one would be led to suppose. Is it to develop in our new students "the gentle art of getting along with other people" that we make them wear this humiliating headgear? From my observation it would appear that it is to teach them the gentle art of framping on someone else. If the green cap tradition did not give to men a license to walk up and down other men's vertebrae every time upperclassmen's privileges were appropriated, no one would care two cents about it. Take away from these brave knights of the hazing inquisition the brutal satisfaction that they receive from dealing pain to those who question their superiority and see how long their moral passion for the uplift of "cocky" freshmen will last.

There seems to be some inconsistency about this tradition business. I see the righteous upperclassmen instilling the cardinal virtue of humility into freshmen by pounding them into a concrete pavement. It is a matter of training, they tell me. It is a part of the discipline so necessary to this "cocky" and rebellious generation. It is the enforcement of tradition, one of these fine Willamette traditions, you know. I wander down town and meet these same holy upperclassmen rolling Camel smoke over one shoulder. How awkward of me to notice the smoke curling up from a "pill" cleverly concealed in the hand. How unfortunate that I should remember about some Willamette tradition I had heard or read in the distant past. Unfortunate again, I hear some one talking out loud about a delightful orchestra. Woe is me! Where are my Willamette traditions taught so thoroughly by vigilance committees and Cubs? Well I must think this thing through. Unfortunate that God made me a thinking man isn't it? In the final analysis, I find little moral significance in any of them. If there is anything seriously wrong with any of these things it lies back of the practice and not in the thing itself. After all, one finds it hard work to make a real issue out of whether a man may wear his old faded corduroys or not, and whether he can be compelled to wear a useless piece of green felt that in no way serves the place of a cap. Why do we not frankly admit that these are some of the means we use in maintaining our vicious system of class distinction in which each of four groups may claim to be somewhat superior to the group below? Why not be honest enough to say that the medicine tradition I had heard or read in the distant past. Unfortunate again, I hear some one talking out loud about a delightful orchestra. Woe is me! Where are my Willamette traditions taught so thoroughly by vigilance committees and Cubs? Well I must think this thing through. Unfortunate that God made me a thinking man isn't it? In the final

What Does a Bearcat Look Like is the Question

At the game between the University of Idaho and W. S. C. Governor Hartley presented an eight foot cougar to the Washington State College to take the place of their stuffed mascot. Oregon State also has a resemblance of their emblem in the form of a monster Beaver that they haul on a truck to their games. If Willamette tried to find a live Bearcat or to make a likeness of one, we wonder what kind of an animal it would be.

After the Homecoming game a Willamette alumnus was heard to remark that the Willamette teams can now do something more than win my chum. We take it that she did not mean to undervalue the ability to win my chum, but that the Willamette teams had acquired an additional asset that is also worth something.

We beg permission to repeat that which was noted in the Capital Journal. Willamette was the first team of the season to gain more yards from scrimmage than Linfield itself could make.

The Great Marjish at the Capital Theater refused to interview two students desiring to know the probable result of the Willamette Whitman game.

Willamette promises to face the Missionaries with a thoroughly recuperated team. Cranor and Lang ought to be over their colds and will be going great guns by Thanksgiving. Woodworth has been suffering with an infected knee but ought to recover long before the game. Mumford who has been kept out of most of the Conference games because of his knee ought to be in good shape by the Whitman fray. Zeller will play his last game against Whitman. He is the only senior on the squad. This year he has suffered much from his knees but he and Lang ought to tear big yardage by their powerful line plunges. In Depoe, Eaton, and Cranor, Willamette has an array of open field runners as has never before been displayed on the Bearcat gridiron.

Willamette awaits the Whitman game with much anticipation. Whitman has a veteran as well as a colorful team. Mickleson, star halfback for the Missionaries, is probably the best kicker in the league. Neilson, it will be remembered by all those who saw him play last year, is a back who drives hard and hits as soon as his interference forms. In this regard will be found one of Willamette's great weaknesses. The ball carrier fails to follow his interference fast enough. The pictures taken of the games show the ball carrier three or four yards behind his interference. Last year Willamette could not gain consistently thru the line and their passes were nil. This year Willamette has developed along these lines and Whitman will find a very different team facing her.

The Bandon, Oregon football team coached by Hiram Fasnacht former Willamette three sport letterman has had a perfect season. Bandon for the first time in the history of the school is the county champion. Fasnacht has developed a team that defeated Myrtle point and Coquille for the first time. Fasnacht is principal of the school as well as athletic coach.

BEARCATS VANQUISH LINFIELD WILDCATS

Large Armistice Day Crowd Witnesses Hard Fought Game; Team Shows Improvement

The Willamette Bearcats showed themselves superior to the Linfield Wildcats in every department of the game and won 12 to 6 before a large Armistice Day crowd. Willamette consistently completed her passes, made gains through the line, and made yardage on her punts.

All the scoring was done in the second half but the first half was not devoid of excitement. In the first quarter a pass Eaton to R. DePoe put the ball within scoring distance but after failing to gain on three plays, R. DePoe tried a place kick which went wild. Woodworth played a good game, once smothering a Linfield pass for a 12 yard loss. Dietz returned the Linfield punts for a good distance each time.

In the third quarter two passes, Winslow to Eaton for 30 yards and Eaton to Dietz for 15 yards put the ball on the 2 yard line and Lang bucked it over on the second play. The place kick was just a little to one side. Immediately Linfield opened up an aerial attack and on the first play after the kickoff completed a pass to a man hidden on the side of the field for a 30 yard gain. Another pass put the ball on the 12 yard line from where they bucked it over to tie the score. They failed on the try for point.

With the score tied the Bearcat eleven went in determined to win and with Cranor playing at half they carried the ball from their own 10 yard line for a touchdown without losing possession of the ball. They made six first downs from scrimmage and from the two passes which they completed. Cranor and Lang ripped through the line for big gains and Cranor carried it over for the winning score.

Willamette threatened to score again when R. DePoe attempted a place kick from the 25 yard line but was short. Cranor broke away for what looked like a touchdown on the last play of the game but he was tackled from behind.

Willamette played its best game of the season. The line was charging and the backfield was picking the holes like a championship team. The whole team was playing so well that it is hard to pick any individual stars. Agee and Warren of Linfield played a good game.

CALDWELL TIGHTENS CHAMPIONSHIP HOLD

Thanksgiving Day Games Will Close Northwest Conference Football Season

	W	L	T	Pct.
College of Idaho	4	0	0	1000

Willamette	2	1	1	666
College of Puget Sound	1	1	1	500
Linfield	0	3	1	000
Pacific	0	4	1	000

Games this week end
College of Idaho vs. Puget Sound.
Time is just about to put its fins upon the present football season and the College of Idaho has a strong hold upon the coveted title.

What was supposed to be the feature game of the year last week, that of Idaho and Whitman, proved to be rather an easy game for Idaho as they won by a 12 to 0 score. The Coyotes scored both of their touchdowns on passes, the first in the first quarter and the second in the third on a fake quarter back pass. Whitman fought bull-doggedly until the end. Just before the final gun was fired they had carried the ball 70 yards up to Idaho's 5 yard line and were only stopped by the gun.

The College of Puget Sound, after trailing the heavy Pacific eleven for three quarters, opened up in the last quarter on an assortment of passes and deceptive plays to score a touchdown and win the game. Pacific has a strong line and some good backfield plungers but the backfield are too slow on their feet and consequently can not cover passes as well as is necessary. As a result they have finished the season without one conference victory. The opposing teams have all taken advantage of this weakness except Linfield, but they played the Badgers on such a wet field that passing was out of the question.

Willamette defeated Linfield College by outguessing them and by displaying an offensive that was not to be denied. Linfield fought hard but was outclassed when it came to consistent playing. They played a six man line and failed to shift to the regular seven man line when they saw that they could not stop the Bearcats.

This Saturday the Coyotes and the College of Puget Sound wind up the season. The dogs would give the College of Idaho the odds but the Puget Sound team have a passer and two receivers that will give any team worry until the last whistle is blown and the ball is dead.

This game finishes the season for these two teams. Linfield and Pacific ended their season with their armistice day games. The one remaining game is the Bearcat-Missionary fray. This game will have no importance upon the conference standings as to the title unless the College of Puget Sound is to defeat the College of Idaho. In such case if Whitman defeats Willamette, she will tie the Coyotes for the Championship but in case that Idaho and Willamette both win, the Coyotes will have the undisputed first place and the fighting Bearcat eleven will rest in second place.

Willamette has never defeated Whitman in the years that the two schools have met and Willamette this year has the best chance of defeating Borleske's eleven that it has ever had. This fact together with the fact that it is the final game of the season will make the Thanksgiving day game one to be remembered by all.

JUNIORS VICTORIOUS IN BASKETBALL FRAY

Two Overtime Periods of Play Necessary To Determine Interclass Championship

In the deciding game of the interclass series the Juniors downed the Freshmen 20 to 16 in a hard fought game that required two extra periods before either one could forge ahead.

The game ended with the score at 14 to 14, and in the first overtime period DeHarport and Beck each made a basket which left the score tied at 16 to 16. In the second overtime period Minto and Silke of the Juniors each made a basket and clinching the game and series.

White and Minto made most of the points for the Juniors and DeHarport and Waddel starred for the Freshmen.

The Freshmen started the interclass basketball series by defeating the Seniors 22 to 20 in a close fought game.

The Freshmen were ahead by a good margin at the end of the half but the Seniors got their eye on the basket in the second half and almost tied the score. DeHarport made a good share of the Freshmen's points and handled the ball in nice fashion. Gill also showed up well for the Freshmen. The second team substituted for a short time but they couldn't keep the Seniors from scoring.

In the second interclass basketball game the Juniors trounced the Sophomores to the tune of 19 to 6.

Rountree, diminutive Junior forward, was everywhere at once and he scored most of the Junior's points by long shots. The Juniors took the ball on almost every tipoff and the Sophomores lacked the teamwork to take the ball and carry it down the floor. The final score was 19 to 6. Sophomores 6 Position Juniors 19

In the third game of the interclass series the Juniors won from the Seniors 23 to 14 in a rather one-sided game. Minto and Beck of the Juniors did most of the scoring. Rountree who ran wild the day before was unable to repeat but his teammates were sinking long shots consistently although they were poor when they tried to shoot short ones.

The Freshmen overwhelmed the Sophomores 25 to 9 in the fourth game of the series and thereby went into a tie with the Juniors who were also undefeated.

Dwight Adams who did not play in the first game was the high scorer. The Freshmen showed possibilities of future development and they also showed improvement in their teamwork and shooting. Gill at guard handled the ball well and showed a good shooting eye. Coach Sparks used three teams in the game and all of them were able to score on the Sophomores.

Loren Basler, who graduated from Willamette five years ago after a good record as an athlete and student, is attracting considerable notice in Idaho where he has been coaching Boise high school.

Basler's team overwhelmed their chief rival, Nampa, 20 to 0.
