

Editor's Note . . .

In reverent observance of the Thanksgiving holidays, and because almost no one will be around on Friday, November 27, your merry Collegian staff will not publish its weekly literary masterpiece.

But fear not! We're eagerly anticipating the regular publication of our paper on Friday, December 4.

Have fun on your first real vacation of the year—Thanksgiving.

Tuesday Convo To Be at Church

Tuesday's chapel convocation will be held at the First Presbyterian Church, on Winter and Chemeketa Streets. This will be the Thanksgiving convo.

The Reverend John Reid Stewart, pastor of the church, will conduct the chapel. Reverend Stewart has served in three churches in Southern California. Educated at the University of California and the San Francisco Theological Seminary, he played football for California and served aboard the battleship U.S.S. Wisconsin. Reverend Stewart has been with the Salem First Presbyterian Church since September, 1963.

Portland Mental Hospital Sponsors Weekend Visit

The American Friends Service Committee is sponsoring a weekend at Dammasch State Hospital on December 4-5 for students interested in mental therapy. This program affords students the opportunity to see what the life of a mental patient is like in a modern hospital.

The students spend Friday evening at Koinonia House on the Portland State campus. There they discuss the problems of the mentally ill with other students, the group leader, and resource people such as psychiatrists.

ON SATURDAY, the students go to the hospital. The day is spent not only observing but also participating in the activities of the patients. In the morning, a general tour of the hospital grounds lets the students see many different groups of patients engaged in musical, occupational, or discussion therapy.

"Blithe Spirit" Opens Tonight For Three-Performance Run

By CHARLOTTE LANGFORD

The stage is set, the actors are now ready for tonight's premiere of Noel Coward's Blithe Spirit. The play will run for three performances: tonight, and a matinee and evening performance tomorrow. Evening performances will begin at 8:15 and tomorrow's matinee will begin at 2 o'clock.

STUDENTS do not need to pay for tickets for tonight's performance and tomorrow's matinee but tickets will be needed for tomorrow evening's performance. These tickets will be available at the ticket windows at the door. Students are reminded that they must show their student body card to get a free ticket for Friday night and Saturday's matinee.

Tickets for tomorrow evening's performance will be available at the door for $1.50 for students and Salem residences. Tomorrow evening is being sponsored by the American Association of University Women, Salem branch, as a benefit.

MR. COWARD termed his play "an improbable farce." During World War II Mr. Coward reached into the world of ghosts to make troubled people happy. He not only came out with one ghost but with two.

It all begins when Charles Condomine, a cynical novelist, is writing a book about mediums. In doing his research he invites what he thinks to be a fake medium to his home to perform a seance. During the seance Madame Arcati materializes the ghost of Condomine's first wife, Elvira. This does not set well with Ruth, Charles' present wife.

IN THE meantime, Elvira has been trying to murder Condomine so he can join her in the after life. But in the process she kills Ruth. In an effort to rid Charles of the ghost Madame Arcati is again called in. Instead of eliminating one ghost she materializes the ghost of Ruth. It seems Charles will be plagued for life with two ghosts, but through the assistance of his psychic maid the ghosts are vanished, leaving Charles to a life of ease.

On stage tonight as Charles will be Paul Wynne. Ruth Younker will be in the part of Ruth Condomine, Shelley Saylor will play Elvira. Madame Arcati will be portrayed by Janice Bailey. Characterizing the eccentric maid, Edith, will be Amy Spalding. Haukur Hazen will be Dr. Bradman and Eda Smothers, Mrs. Bradman. Robert Sibley has been serving as stage manager. Mr. Robert Putnam is the faculty sponsor.

Glee Petitions Due Dec. 4

Petitions for Freshman Glee manager and nominations from each class for the positions of song leader and formation leader must be in to the Student Body Office by Friday, December 4. Petitions can be obtained in the Student Body Office and require the signatures of 25 ASWU members to be valid. The nominations for class song leaders and formation leaders should be submitted by those who would be willing to take either position, to Steve Lowry's desk in the Student Body Office.

Each class will vote for its leaders in a primary on Thursday, December 10; the freshman class alone voting on Glee manager. In conjunction with the final election of Glee manager and leaders, which is to be held on Friday, December 12, there will be the selection of a name for the WU Student Union. The two remaining possible names are "Bearcat Cavern" and the Student Center.

In the afternoon the students return to a particular ward to talk with patients and later take part in a therapy session. They also eat with patients and share their recreation—dancing or ping-pong.

THE EXPERIENCE is unusual, as project director Hugh Cummings said, for most people never see what happens inside a mental hospital. It is an educational as well as interesting experience, according to Nancy Flinn, a Willamette student who has participated in the project.

Those wishing to attend the next session should see Chaplain Cal McConnell or Dr. Derthick for application blanks. A charge of $3 is made to cover expenses, but no one should let financial considerations stop him from applying. Other sessions are planned for second semester.

People to People Plan Coast Retreat

People to People is planning a retreat to the Oregon coast this Sunday for any student wishing to participate. The group will leave at 9 a. m. Sunday, and those interested in attending are encouraged to contact president Nick Wybrandus.

Wybrandus has also announced that entry forms and information on the photo contest being sponsored by People to People are available from the displays in Eaton, the student center, and in Waller basement. Deadline for submitting entries is December 15.

'Hoot' Leads Campaign

Willamette folk song fans will be pleased to note that another all-campus hootenanny will be held tonight in the gym. Led by Mary Sue Gellatly, the "hoot" will feature freedom songs—folk songs which express a deep yearning for individual liberty.

As a Willamette alum, Mary Sue stresses that no charge will be made to attend the hootenanny, which she would usually present as a money-making project for the Council of Federated Organizations.

The program will begin at 9:30, but those attending the play are encouraged to drop in afterwards.

Anyone wishing to bring along their guitars and join in or perform in any way are welcome to do so.

Forest Grove Gleemen To Perform

As its first big fund-raising attempt, Willamette's Angel Flight will present the Forest Grove Gleemen and Girls in concert at the Fine Arts auditorium Saturday, December 5, at 8 p. m.

The Angels are raising funds to compete in the annual Sunshine Drill competitions, the closest thing to a national competition. It is sponsored by the University of Arizona, at Tucson, for five days beginning February 6, 1965. They need at least $2000 to make the trip, where they will be in drill competition with Angel Flights from across the nation.

THE FOREST GROVE Gleemen and Girls, an internationally famous singing group which numbers around 50 voices, are noted for adjusting their pieces of light music to their audience. Dale W. Barker is their director.

The original group was organized by men who liked to sing shortly after World War II, and it was only in 1960 that women were added.

THE FIRST Americans to participate in the International Austrian Sangerbundfest in Salzburg, they were the hit of the June, 1963 world-wide choral festival. This world-wide choral festival, held once every five years, brings together the outstanding choral talents from all parts of the globe.

During their Austrian jaunt, they also toured London, Rome, Paris and gave a command performance for Princess Grace of Monaco. They have also appeared in cities in the Northwest, and represented the State of Oregon on Oregon Day at the Seattle World's Fair.

Tickets for the concert are now on sale at Meier and Frank's, Stevens and Sons, or may be obtained from Angel Flight members and

BAGs To Hold Career Day

Attention all Willamette women! "Circles and Squares" is here at last, an event which has been advertised all around campus this last week.

Beta Alpha Gamma is sponsoring this event in an attempt to acquaint the young women on this campus with the career opportunities open to them.

"Circles and Squares" will be held this Saturday, November 21, in the Waller Hall auditorium from 9 a. m. to 12 noon.

AMONG those present will be 15 women selected to speak and lead informal discussions concerning their specialized fields.

From the medical profession there will be a woman psychiatrist, pharmacist, physician, and physical therapist.

Representing the state government is the assistant attorney general of the State of Oregon, as well as the district attorney of Marion County.

TO INFORM the young ladies present about the field of economics will be an assistant cashier from a commercial bank and the data processing statistician for the State of Oregon.

Representing the Women's Armed Services will be a first lieutenant, Women's Army Corps.

FROM THE field of social work, BAGs has invited the superintendent of Hillcrest School, a psychiatrist, a social worker, and a child welfare social worker. Also invited was a teacher of the deaf, a teacher of the blind, and a teacher of the mentally retarded.

Beta Alpha Gamma encourages all undergraduate women to attend "Circles and Squares." Even if a particular career does not appear among those previously listed, the guest speakers will be prepared to speak upon other specific areas of their general fields.

THE IDEAS that will be presented in these informative discussions this Saturday, may prove invaluable in determining the future of some Willamette women.

Seek Dance Sites

A list of acceptable locations outside of Salem for Willamette house dances is being considered by Dean Haberer.

Last week the activities board submitted a list of suggested locations for house dances to the Dean. The approved list will be given to the student senate next week and if possible a list will be given to everyone.

All dances which are to be all-campus affairs must be scheduled two and one-half weeks ahead of time.

The Collegian will carry further news on this matter in future issues.

Performing in the Fine Arts auditorium next month will be the Forest Grove Gleemen and Girls, under the direction of Dale W. Barker.

If you were . . . ?

Someone told us this week that they thought "leaf-kicking was a goofy thing to write an editorial about." We hope he won't be too disturbed if we continue in the unusual vein this week, with questions concerning the unthankful side of Thanksgiving:

If you were a turkey would you be happy about Thanksgiving? If you were a 24-hour service station operator, would you look forward to Thanksgiving day at the gas pump? If you were University of Oregon President Fleming, would you like the reminder of Thanksgiving being a time for cranberries? If you were a Halloween pumpkin would you like the thought of being converted to a pie and eaten? If you were a university would you like to be deserted for four days? If you were a professor would you like talking to an empty classroom next Wednesday?

On the serious side, though, if you were a state policeman would you like telling a Willamette housemother that an extra room would be free, after the vacation? If you were the parent of a college student who hurried home too fast, and never made it, would you enjoy Thanksgiving?

Please be careful on the roads next week, and let's have everyone return to help the campus get ready for Christmas.

The Lady's Game

Now that the student senate has allotted the money to support an original musical by Willamette students, enough tickets must be sold to at least break even, or the student body will have to incur the loss. This means that all the support that can possibly be given, is needed by those involved in the production. The best means of support is to plan now to attend the January musical, "The Lady's Game."

We questioned, as did some of the student body officers, the vanity of the use of student body funds to back the production, and urged careful handling of these funds once given. We feel that the student senate investigation into the financial aspects of the "Lady's Game" has served the students well in reducing the maximum possible costs from $1,000 to almost half of that figure. We debate, however, the precedent set by students apportioning special funds for productions which could be handled by departments of the University by increasing their allotments in the spring.

"The Lady's Game" now exists, however, with the full support of the majority of the student senate. Its financial situation has been passed upon by the senate, leaving the judgment of the creative merit, and the pleasure of attending this potentially entertaining production up to the students. We hope the students will attend.

Question: To Finance Musical?

At a stormy session of the Student Senate last Monday, the ASWU voted to give its full financial support to the student produced musical comedy, "The Lady's Game." The production, to be given January 8 and 9, is an original work of Willamette students Barbara Davis and David Welch.

Principal objections to the bill granting financial assistance to the production were led by ASWU second vice-president Steve Lowry:

"I think the production itself is a commendable work, and am wholly in favor of student-created projects. However, the managers have been planning this production since last May, yet have waited until now to seek financial support for the musical from the student body. They showed neither the responsibility nor the initiative to ask the ASWU for the money in early September, when the finance board allocates the student body funds for the semester. Since there is no provision in the ASWU constitution for miscellaneous expenses which come up during the school year, expenses such as this cause a severe drain on the student body funds. If such expenditures are to be sanctioned in the future, then some provision for this ought to be made in the ASWU constitution. A miscellaneous fund to handle expenses incurred during the year might be an answer to this problem."

The bill also provides that the musical's co-managers, Barbara Davis and David Welch, will make every effort to insure the financial success of the production, through an extensive ticket sales campaign and a sound business-like attitude. Finally, the bill provides that in the event there is a loss suffered on the project, this loss will be assumed by the ASWU, and in the event there is a profit, this amount shall be added to the ASWU social fund.

Music Therapy Major Joins Willamette Roster

By GLORIA MIYASHIRO

There is another first at Willamette this year—a music therapy major. If you are as informed about current events as I, you probably think that music therapy, which is a relatively new field, has something to do with teaching a struggling musician how to become great.

Actually, there is quite a discrepancy in that definition. A music therapist is a musician, recreation leader, psychologist, and teacher all in one. He works with mentally ill or handicapped-retarded children, using music to help them learn to listen, exercise, learn rhythm and in general, modify their behavior.

Brennan Instructs New Field

Professor Maurice Brennan, director of the University band, spent a year studying music therapy at Michigan State University in 1962, and is now teaching core courses in music therapy. These include Psychology of Music, The Influence of Music on Behavior, Music Therapy Techniques, and Hospital Orientation.

There are presently two students, both Willamette graduates, who are taking these music therapy courses.

Hunt Is One of Two

Wendy Hunt, who graduated last June as a Music Education major, was awarded a scholarship by the Phi Lambda Patrons of Mu Phi Epsilon to study music therapy. She became interested in this field of study through the activities of the campus Mu Phi at the State Hospital.

Ron Kingsley, who has worked at the State Hospital and also taught school, is the other music therapy major.

Underclassmen Show Interest

Mr. Brennan, who is planning to get his doctorate in music therapy, says that there are several freshmen and a sophomore who are also interested in the major.

After the core courses are completed, music therapy majors are required to spend six months of internship under a registered music therapist doing clinical work. At present, the State Hospital is lacking such a person, so music therapy majors will have to go elsewhere for this part of their training.

Alums Compare 'Golden Days' To Present Scene at WU

By JON CARDER

"We had more fun in 1901!" "48 was really great!"

These are typical of the many alumni reactions to the questions asked them about the Willamette of the present, and the Willamette of their day.

My, How You've Grown!

Many of the alumni were greatly impressed by the growth and development at WU. Dr. Philip C. Armstrong, '33, now a flying dentist in California, put it this way:

"I'm amazed at all the growth and physical development of the school! And such a fine student body!" (Dr. Armstrong is the father of two WU students, Wes and Pat.)

Buildings Not Under Bridge Yet

Attorney Merton R. De Long, '12, remarked that "A lot of water has gone under the bridge in the last 50 years. In 1912 the only dorm was the old original wooden Lausanne Hall. The only buildings still here today from that era are Eaton, Waller, and the Music Hall." Mr. De Long's grandchildren, Garry and Deanne, are WU students.

The alums also commented on the current student body. Mrs. Jean White Potts, '29, said the school is much more cosmopolitan today. "In 1929 the students came mainly from the Salem area, whereas today a great percentage of the students are from out-of-state."

This opinion was backed up by Miss Dorothy Judd, '53, and a former assistant dean of admissions at WU, and by Bruce and Maxine Van Wyngarden, both of the class of 1942.

We've Lost Our Support

Elma White Montgomery, '29, also agreed with Mrs. Potts that the student body doesn't support the athletes as it used to, "especially at basketball games." (Larry Potts is a returning letterman on the WU basketball squad.)

Many alumni agreed that the student body was a more closely knit unit in the days when the school was smaller, and as Jay Coulter, '23, commented, "Everybody knew everybody else." They felt the larger student body has lost some of its unity, and consequently, its spirit.

They're Not So Different

But Fran Miller Batchelder, '56, and Dr. Armstrong did not go along with this. Dr. Armstrong said: "The spirit manifests itself in different ways today, but really isn't much different from the spirit in our day."

"This difference between the students of today and of our day is due to all the technological improvements in the world," said Mrs. VanWyngarden. "There has been greater pressure on students ever since the first Sputnik was launched." "Today's student is and must be better prepared than the student of the past, if he is to succeed!" added Mr. DeLong.

Impressive Improvement

All the alums were impressed by the new student center, which they felt was a long needed improvement.

Alums also added a little historical data. For example, did you know that:

-The Class of 1908 instituted Freshman Glee, stole the cornerstone from Eaton Hall, and put a cow in the Waller Chapel? (Sounds like a pretty good group, doesn't it?)

-1938 was the first year that WU allowed dancing? (And look at it now—yeeek!)

The Van Wyngardens were surprised to learn that the moldy old cottage on the Mill Stream (now known as the Collegian office) was still in existence. "They ought to use it as firewood for the bonfire!"

Chords, Ions Vie For Prof's Time

By MARY MARTIN

Is a 'cello similar to eons of ions or is an ion possessed of great lyric power? Irrelevant? Not really, for just such questions might form the cornerstone of any discussion with Professor Mildred Edmundson, a new addition to Willamette's music and physics departments.

Miss Edmundson professes an equal interest in both the 'cello, her musical specialty, and science. She began formal 'cello lessons at a pre-school age, but it was in physics that she took her first college degree.

The Willamette campus has played an important role in Professor Edmundson's life. Not only is this her first teaching assignment; but this campus is also her alma mater.

Intensified study followed her WU graduation, first at Vanderbilt University in physics and then at the University of Washington in music. It is, however, to the 'cello that she plans to devote further study. She has not as yet determined the scene of exact time or place of such study.

Like many Northwesterners, Professor Edmundson, a native of Hood River, Oregon, is an ardent ski fan. At present she is looking forward to the beginning of an active winter of snow plowing, slaloming and sitzmarking.

Major Hundemer Explains New ROTC Program At WU

By MAJOR H. L. HUNDEMER
Professor of Aerospace Studies

On October 13, 1964, the President of the United States signed Public Law 88-647, Reserve Officers' Training Corps Vitalization Act of 1964. This law repealed provisions of the previous law under which AFROTC functioned. The new legislation provides such drastic changes and new benefits to AFROTC students it can be considered an entirely new program. Because it is new, it behooves each male Willamette University student with two or more years of college remaining to investigate the new AFROTC program's application to him.

Training More Attractive

How has the AFROTC program been changed? For one thing, the on-campus training is more attractive than before. The basic course for freshmen and sophomores will not be required beginning fall semester 1965. The course will consist of 12 semester hours, three hours each of a student's last four semesters of college. There will be no requirement for leadership laboratory (drill) nor for a cadet organization with its related activities to create a time drain from other courses. Advanced cadet retainer pay of $40 per month for a maximum of 20 months is now authorized.

What steps are necessary for participation in this new AFROTC program? Any full time male student in good standing enrolled in a program leading to a degree and who has not reached 26 years of age is eligible, providing he has two years of college remaining. The program is voluntary as before. First, interested men must pass a battery of aptitude and interest tests, the Air Force qualifying test (AFOQT). These tests will be given in the gymnasium on December 5, 1964. Next, each man must pass the AF officer commissioning physical examination or a Class I flying physical if he is interested in pilot training. The final requirement is that he successfully complete a six weeks field training unit (summer camp); for FTU he receives pay, transportation, uniforms, room, board and medical care.

Contract Signed

The next step leading to formal enrollment is to schedule aerospace studies for three semester hours in the junior year. Each cadet will then be asked to sign a category agreement and enlist in the Air Force Reserve, ineligible reserve section. The contract is an agreement to complete the course, accept a commission and serve on active duty for four years. AF reserve enlistment is a new requirement bestowing draft exemption, space available travel on military aircraft, entry on military installations with use of certain facilities among its benefits. Advanced course students who for reasons beyond their control, or who, without intent to defraud the Air Force, or who do not wilfully violate the terms of the advanced course contract will, if disenrolled from the advanced course, also be discharged from enlisted reserve status at the same time, if they so desire.

The present requirement for a summer training unit of four weeks is retained. This camp offers pay, transportation, medical care, room, board, and uniforms. It may be completed between the junior-senior years or after the senior year.

Senior Year Pilot Training

Students qualified for pilot training will be taught to fly during their senior year. AFROTC has a contract with Salem Aviation Company at McNary field to provide 36.5 hours of dual and solo flight instruction. Ground school instruction is provided by the Department of Aerospace Studies. On completion of FIP and passing the federal aviation agency test, each student is qualified for a private pilot's license. All fees and transportation costs are paid by the Air Force.

Three ideas should be emphasized in summary. First, the Air Force officer education program is designed to provide education that will develop skills and attitudes vital to the career professional Air Force officer. Second, the program is designed to qualify for commissions those college men who desire to serve in the United States Air Force. Third, while it entails no obligation, the AFOQT is the initial step along the road leading to an Air Force commission; this test will be given in the gym on Saturday, December 5, 1964.

Interested students who desire additional information concerning this new program are advised to contact the Department of Aerospace Studies in the gymnasium or call Ext. 232 or 233. A series of meetings will be scheduled in the near future.

SEA Desires New Members

All students who have an interest in teaching as a career, including freshmen and sophomores, are encouraged to join the Student Education Association. SEA is a statewide organization of college groups who are affiliated with the Oregon Education Association and the National Educational Association. By joining SEA a student automatically becomes a student member of these state and national professional groups.

Forensians To Travel To Idaho; Pratt Wins at UO Tournament

Four Willamette students will represent the University at the Western Speech Association Forensic Tournament at the Idaho State University in Pocatello over Thanksgiving vacation. Competing in debate, interpretive reading, oratory and impromptu and extempore speaking will be Carol Pratt, Charles Olson, Stephen Blixeth and Stan Heisler. A total of 60 schools from the western third of the nation will be represented in the tournament at Pocatello.

A number of honors were won by Willamette University's delegation of speakers who participated in the University of Oregon Forensic Tournament in Eugene, November 13 and 14.

Virginia Bell, freshman from Coos Bay, won first place gold trophy in oratory among a field of competitors all of whom were college seniors and juniors.

Carol Pratt, sophomore, won first place trophy in junior women's interpretive reading. This was her third top place award in this event in the fall season's three tournaments.

Carol Curtis, sophomore, tied for second place in women's extempore speaking. Stan Heisler and Douglas Bosco, both freshmen, took second place in debate on the basis of only one defeat in six contests.

Twenty-six colleges and universities from four states were on hand for the tournament. The Willamette group compiled an overall record that was among the highest in the tournament.

Library Staff Tests Freshmen

The library staff recently held a written test for WU freshmen to gauge the amount and type of assistance which they might employ in the library.

The examination was in the form of two tests, each covering the same eight categories of tools or aids in such areas as the physical sciences, the card catalog, biography, reference books in the social sciences, and others. Each test required 40 minutes to answer.

Out of 416 freshmen, 327 took the test. No grades were reckoned but the number missed in each category was tabulated in order to certain the student's area of weakness.

Freshmen are asked to stop in the library at their convenience and give the library staff an opportunity to go over their paper with them and to introduce those tools or aids indicated by the test results. Teachers and counselors will be informed as to the students' needs in library instruction.

Mr. Stanbery noted that, for the most part, the freshmen did very well on the tests, which indicates that the majority of them have had a good public or high school library experience.

Tours of Europe Scheduled

The American Heritage Association is offering tours in fourteen different fields, including French, Spanish and German.

Any student who has studied one of these languages for one year may participate in the tours.

The tours last 12 weeks, 7 of which are spent in intense language training.

The tours, leaving Vancouver, B.C., on June 14, will contain about 45 members in each group. They will return in late August.

The coed, conducted and pre-arranged 12-week tour with language instruction costs $1400. Those interested in the program are asked to contact Professor Mandl in Eaton 34A.

Glee Date Reset

Looking ahead—Freshman Glee has been rescheduled for March 13 rather than March 6 because of a possible basketball tournament conflict. The regular basketball season ends February 27, but it is likely that March 6 will find the WU gym in use.

The Bearcats may be competing in the tournament here, or the gym may be used as neutral territory for a game between other schools.

Come Back Early!

Returning students will pre-register during the week of January 11-15 it was announced at Student Senate. Registration for new students only will be on Monday, February 1. Students also return to class Monday, February 1, not Tuesday, February 2, as listed in the catalogue.

Student Senate Seeks Managers' Petitions

Positions of May Weekend and Spring Blood Drive managers are yet to be filled by the Student Senate.

Any interested students may obtain a petition from the student body office and get the signatures of 25 ASWU students. The petition must then be turned in by December 6 to the student senate.

On December 13, the student senate will meet and all those who petitioned for manager of either event must give an account of why they want to be manager and what they would do if they were chosen for the job. The student senate will then select the person whom they feel is best qualified for manager of the event.

The person who is selected must give periodic reports on the progress made until the event has taken place.

Persons who are interested in being Spring Blood Drive manager may contact Bruce Harmon, last year's Spring Blood Drive manager, or Arlene Rice, manager for the Fall Blood Drive. Nancy Hutchinson was manager of last year's May Weekend and will give information to anyone interested.

Marg's Musings

By MARGARET ALLEN, Collegian Society Editor

"BRRR"—as our cold snap continues, students are really bundling up! And it also has served to somewhat "pep up" the freshman boys, as several women's organizations witnessed last Monday night. Hm! Hope this cold spell doesn't last too long! One noticeable result is the growing number of "Cossack boots" on campus and even earmuffs.

Last Wednesday the SAE's serenaded all of the women's living organizations to announce their house dance, being held tonight.

SORORITIES again exchanged last Tuesday night. The plan of including women from the independent dorms has proven very successful and the program will be continued.

Chi Omegas recently initiated seven new members into the "Magnanimous Order of the Owl." It's an honorary Chi Omega service group of men on the Willamette campus and initiated were Steve Ditewig, Dave Good, Jim Hall, Dale Herman, Dale Nelson, Don Stout and Gary Wyatt. The Owls assist with service projects and with the up-and-coming Christmas caroling.

BETA ALPHA Gamma has really been busy with their Circles and Squares program, which is planned for tomorrow morning. It sounds like a wonderful opportunity to see a gamut of professions and different opportunities, especially for freshmen and sophomore women aren't sure of their future plans—and even for those upperclass women who don't know what they want to do with the majors that they have! So be sure and attend—you'll have an opportunity to speak to women in two different fields of interest, out of six available subject areas.

Working really hard for their trip to Tucson for the annual national competition are the girls from Angel Flight. So far they've earned money from ushering at football games, sponsoring dances, and selling the Homecoming mums—and many more schemes are "cooking." Their biggest project is the sponsoring of the Forest Grove Gleemen for December 2, and all of the profits will go toward sending them down to Arizona.

Along pledging lines, Shirley Newhall recently pledged Delta Gamma.

Inter-Fraternity Council held its first open house last Sunday afternoon, giving those freshmen men interested in rushing second semester a look at fraternity life. Fellows visited all six of the fraternities during the afternoon, in a series of six half-hour parties.

A Yearly Scrutiny Of The WU Coed

Freshman

She never drinks.

She's interested only in men who are intelligent, athletic, sophisticated, and wealthy.

She never swears.

She smokes during finals.

She's collected, calm, naive, and blase.

She is naive.

She knows lines from Shakespeare and Dickens.

Sophomore

She never drinks except at parties.

She's interested only in men who are sophisticated, and wealthy. She never swears, except when extremely annoyed, or amazed.

She smokes during mid-terms and finals.

She's collected, calm, and blase.

She's learning.

She knows lines from Shakespeare, Dickens, Swift, and Pope.

Juniors

She never drinks, except at parties and social functions.

She's interested in men who are wealthy.

She never swears, except when extremely annoyed, amazed, or incredulous.

She smokes during mid-terms, finals, and when frustrated.

She's plenty collected.

She's smart.

She knows lines from Shakespeare, Dickens, Swift, Pope, Joyce, Ibsen, Tolstoy, and Shaw.

Seniors

She drinks.

She's interested.

She swears.

She smokes.

She's collected plenty.

She's too damned smart.

She knows all the lines.

AWS Taps Castor

JOYCE CASTOR

Chosen as AWS co-ed for the month of November was Joyce Castor, a senior political science major. Her activities include historian of Alpha Lambda Delta, and vice-president of Beta Alpha Gamma. She was first vice-president of the ASWU in her junior year.

Joyce also has been on Homecoming court and the Delt court. She is presently serving as the president of her living organization, Delta Gamma, and vice-president of Mortar Board, and has also been on the honor roll. She was announced last week in convocation.

Swingin' House Dances Scheduled

The Willamette campus will be a swingin' place this weekend with five house dances scheduled.

Tonight the campus will be invaded by Al Capone and his gang with "Capone's Capers" sponsored by Beta Theta Pi. Decorations will follow a Roaring Twenties theme. The dance will be held at the fraternity from 8:30-12. Earlier this week to publicize the dance, Don Duffus and Jerry Juve, traveling in a 1930 car, held up a bank downtown. Phil Parks, assistant social chairman, says, "It's going to be a real roarin' affair."

"Hillbilly Heaven" is the theme of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon dance, also tonight. House decorations will include a well and a hillbilly shack. Live music by the "Mark Fours" will be featured for the dance lasting from 8:30-12. Spike Bowman is directing the affair.

The activity will be high in the women's living organizations as some of them sponsor their fall house dances.

Doney Hall will be transformed into a beatnik pad as they sponsor "Blue Beet." The dance will be from 8-12 in the basement. Grubbies are the appropriate dress. The dance plans are being coordinated by Marg Horn, social chairman.

The highlight of the evening at Lausanne is the "After the Bomb Prom." The dining room will be decorated as the aftermath of a nuclear bomb attack. Dress will be dressy grubbies and a special feature will be ration packets as refreshments. The dance, beginning at 8 o'clock, is under the direction of the social chairman, Shirlee Baird.

A discotheque atmosphere will be the rule as Pi Beta Phi sponsors "Wisky a Go-Go." The dance will be held at the sorority house which will be decorated in an "antique and sophisticated" manner. Music will be provided by a juke box. Marlyn Latham is the dance chairman.

Couple Announces Betrothal

A white gardenia and red rosebuds graced the candle passed recently at the Pi Beta Phi house. The candle announced the engagement of Maradee Oliver and Dick Olmscheid.

Maradee is a senior biology major from Portland, presently student teaching at South Salem. While at Willamette she has been a member of Angel Flight, Beta Alpha Gamma, and Alpha Lambda Delta. At present, she is a member of Mortar Board, and treasurer of her living organization.

Dick also hails from Portland. He is a senior chemistry major, planning to attend medical school upon graduation. He has been a member of Phi Eta Sigma and served his living organization, Beta Theta Pi, as corresponding secretary.

Wedding plans call for a June 5 ceremony in Portland.

WU Whips College of Idaho; Linfield To Playoffs

Maze Scores Three Times; Bearcats 4th

NWC STANDINGS

Linfield	5	0	1.000
Lewis & Clark	4	1	.800
Pacific	3	2	.600
Willamette	2	3	.400
Whitman	1	4	.200
College of Idaho	0	5	.000

Spike Moore eludes two Coyote defenders as he collects blockers on one of his long kick returns. He ran the second half kickoff back for an 86-yard touchdown and a punt back for 48 yards. The Bearcats rolled over the College of Idaho 34-7 last Saturday at McCulloch Stadium ending the season with a 5-3 overall record and a 2-3 mark in the NWC.

A frost-bitten homecoming crowd saw the Bearcats defeat the College of Idaho 34-7 last Saturday afternoon at McCulloch Stadium to finish NWC play in fourth place. Walter Maze scored three touchdowns, with Jack Deja and Spike Moore tallying one apiece.

The College of Idaho was unable to move the ball in their first series of downs and were forced to punt from their own 41. Eight plays later the 'Cats scored their first goal on a Maze power play from the one. Tom Edwards' extra point kick was good, making the score 7-0.

Later in the first quarter the C of I was forced to punt again. Moore received the kick and ran it to the Coyote 24, setting up the second touchdown by Maze. Edwards' PAT again was good, raising the tally to 14-0.

In the second quarter the C of I burst into Willamette territory, but the Bearcats held the Coyotes on the one-yard line. The Bearcat defense was tough as usual as Bruce Anderson duffed Coyote quarterback Elmore Brooks several times.

Moore received the halftime kickoff on his own 16-yard line and broke loose for an 84-yard touchdown sprint. Edwards' kicked for the extra point, making the score 21-0. Moore, also in this quarter, made a 48-yard punt return.

The C of I moved for a first down but were again forced to punt. Four plays later Maze broke around the end for a 17-yard touchdown sprint. Anderson kicked the PAT, making the score 28-0.

WU, in the third quarter, drove 64 yards in 13 plays to set up a one-yard touchdown plunge by Jack Deja. Bruce Anderson's second attempt in college was unsuccessful. The score was then 34-0.

The Coyotes' only score came on a 9-yard pass from Brooks to Gary Hirai. Tom Staab made the extra point, making the final score 34-7.

In the last quarter Anderson, who generally played defensive end, played fullback. Tackle John Travis filled the wingback spot. Jack Deja, normally a fullback, came in as guard and guard Dick Takei played defensive end.

WU Basketball Underway

Winter rains are now replacing autumn rains and with them goes the change from the oval-shaped ball to the round ball. The first manifestation of this metamorphosis—aside from midnight oil being burned at the gym—will be the 6th Annual NAIA, District 2 Tip-off Tournament, played the first weekend after Thanksgiving Vacation.

Willamette will meet OCE at 9:15 p.m., Thursday Dec. 3. Lewis & Clark will play SOC in the preliminary game at 7:30. Friday night a winner-winner, loser-loser schedule will be played. The finals on Saturday night will include four other teams playing a similar schedule at Linfield on Thursday and Friday nights. All eight teams will culminate the Tournament Saturday at Willamette.

The Bearcat representatives at the Tournament will include nine of last year's twelve lettermen. Returning forwards are: Kirk McNeil, 2 year letterman-senior, Larry Potts, 2 year-junior, Bob Burles—who hung up his pads in favor of basketball shorts just this week—1 year letterman-junior, Pete Slabaugh, 1 year-sophomore.

Willamette is well stocked at the center-post spot with three returnees: Jim Smith, 2 year letterman-senior, Lyle Smith, 2 year-senior, and Charlie Roberts, 2 year-junior. At guards are Phil Marsh, 2 year-junior, and Spike Moore, 1 year-sophomore. Spike was last year's leading scorer, followed by another (then) freshman Slabaugh.

Rounding out the squad will be Dennis Kauahi (6'4") soph., Mike Aley, a junior guard with 2 years of jv experience, Jay Brack, jr. guard transfer from the U of O, and Eric Bennett, soph.

Walt, Tommy Rule Stats

With the ending of the grid season, halfback Walter Maze emerged as Bearcat rushing leader with Tom Edwards tops in the passing department and Stan Traxler king in the aerial reception field.

Maze, who carried 124 times for 518 net yards, averaged 4.2 yards per tote. Jack Deja, WU's rugged fullback, was close behind with 462 yards and 3.9 per carry. Edwards completed 44 of 82 passes attempted for a .537 average and 560 net yards.

Traxler captured a total of 31 aeriels for 267 net yards and an 8.6 yard average. Rod Allison followed with 12 completions for 185 yards and 15.4 average. Bill von Arns-waldt took honors in interceptions with three, with Ed Lincoln and Bob Shields each nabbing two apiece.

Maze also took the top spot in scoring with five TD's. Deja and Spike Moore followed with four and Jim Dombroski with three.

Wes Takes First

Wes Armstrong earned a trip to Omaha last Saturday afternoon at Bush's Pasture by winning first place in the NAIA District II cross country meet. SOC took top honors in the team division with Bearcat runners taking second.

SOC finished with 32 points, Willamette with 72, OCE with 76, and Lewis & Clark with 79. Since SOC finished first in the meet, they will be sending a team of six runners to the meet which will be held at the University of Omaha on Saturday, November 28.

Armstrong finished first and John McCray of SOC came in second. The other four runners for Willamette were Bob Ladum, ninth; Pat Armstrong, 13th; Bill Thomas, 22nd; and Gary Everson, 27th.

Wes Armstrong finished first in the NAIA district cross country meet here last Saturday. The WU team got second overall.

Intramural Season Ends

The Sigs came close to seeing their title match with the SAE's reduced to something less than that. But they managed to squeak past both the Betas and Belknap by one point margins, leaving their unbeaten skein intact.

The Belknap-Sig game set a new season scoring record—a 48-47 barrage. The Sigs earlier put down the Betas, 26-25. The pair of Sig wins relegated Belknap and the Betas to a (5-5) tie for fourth place.

In other action, the SAE's polished off their last opponent before meeting the Sigs in a 28-6 drubbing of the Deltas. The Deltas also lost to the Kappa Sigs, 27-25. The Phi Deltas easily dispatched the K-Sigs in their other game 45-19. Law Frosh picked up a forfeit over Matthews.

After several weeks of promises, the results of the Sig-SAE game will be announced next week. A final wrap-up will also report the Law-Baxter and Law-Phi Delt game played this week.

Wildcats 3rd In NAIA; To Tilt No. 1 Concordia

The Linfield Wildcats clinched not only the NWC grid crown by smashing Pacific 63-0 last weekend, but also earned an NAIA playoff berth for the second time in two years.

The powerful Linfield squad, ranked third in the latest NAIA poll, will meet the number one team, Concordia College, of Moorhead, Minnesota, tomorrow at 11:30 a.m. (PST) in Fargo, North Dakota. The victor will win a spot in the NAIA Championship Bowl game December 12 in Augusta, Georgia.

Concordia, undefeated in nine straight contests, is champion of the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference and conqueror of league rival St. John's, last year's NAIA grid champions. The Cobbers' unblemished record is the first for Coach Jake Christensen, a veteran of 24 years.

Against Paul Durham's Linfielders Christensen will bank on the locomotive-like running of 213-pound fullback "Dangerous" Dave Heide and the passing of signal caller Bob Nick. Heide has scored 12 touchdowns and leads the Cobbers in rushing with 993 yards for a 5.6 average per tote.

Nick, an outstanding passer all season, has end Paul Brynteson as his favorite target. Brynteson caught seven TD aeriels during the season and also kicked three field goals.

'Serenade' Lets Off Steam

When the Pi Phi's took a picture of Baxter Hall's namesake last weekend from the Baxter lounge, they hoped for a serenade by the freshmen to request the return of the picture.

For the past week Deans and the students involved as well as observers have been debating what kind of "serenade" occurred Monday evening when the men went to regain the picture. In a dorm meeting Tuesday evening Baxter men were told that the Dean's office would greet further activities of this sort with expulsions, but that this week's incident would result in no action outside the dormitories.

According to Baxter "raid" leaders, and Pi Phi sources, Monday evening the men of Baxter organized in the men's quad to go to the Pi Phi house for the picture. They were joined by small groups from Belknap and Matthews. Leaders, increasing the men's agitation over the loss of the picture, began the yell of "panty raid" and "Baxter."

Observers said men attempted entrance into freshmen women's dorms, but finding themselves unsuccessful, crossed the mill stream, gathered on the intramural football field, and from there charged the Pi Phi house with a roar of yells.

Some of the girls, however, began serenading the men, returned the picture and were in turn serenaded by the Baxter residents. The Pi Phi's then ushered them from the house.

The men re-formed on the intramural football field, and incited by the yells of a few leaders, stormed to a window at Lee House's first floor level, attempting to remove one of the screens. They were unsuccessful in gaining complete entrance. The group, according to the leaders, then returned to the men's quad, and to their dormitories.

"I wouldn't consider it a panty raid and the facts we have don't indicate that it started that way or ended that way," was Dean Blake's comment on the incident. Blake added that no one with whom he talked was directly involved in the incident.

Tuesday the Deans met with representatives from the freshmen men's and women's living organizations to discuss how to guide energies into more constructive channels. Tuesday's dorm meetings were planned then for explanations of the consequences of such actions continuing. Blake added that he felt only a few leaders were at fault for "anything getting out of hand."

When asked why he thought the men had panty raids, Blake said, "It's midterm time usually when these things happen, and with all the pressure they try to find some way to blow off steam, usually outside of the dorm."

In reply to the same question, a Baxter participant said, "Nothing else to do. No one was supposed to be in the rooms, and as far as I know, no one was."

Parker Represents Law School

Louis M. Parker, a third-year law student at Willamette, and national vice-president of the Twelfth Circuit of the American Law Students, represented law schools from Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and Montana at the annual meeting of the Board of Governors held in Chicago, Illinois, at the American Bar Association Center November 7-9.

He, along with 11 other members of the Board of Governors, is responsible for formulating policies and procedures to be followed by the Association during this academic year.

At the meeting, the American Bar Association set up a new loan fund of 3 million dollars, at the insistence of the American Law Student Association. ALSA is an organization composed of 44,000 law students throughout the United States and Puerto Rico. It is sponsored by the ABA.

Closer to home, Parker is in charge of the annual Twelfth Circuit Conference, which will be held at Willamette sometime around Easter. One hundred to 150 people are expected to come from law schools in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana. Ron Gregory, a second year law student at Willamette is his assistant.

Another event in which Parker is involved, is the ALSA membership drive this week. Any student in an accredited law school is eligible for membership. ALSA has 5000 members nationally. Bob Robertson, another second year law student, is in charge of this campaign at Willamette.

Parker is a graduate of the University of Oregon, and attended Harvard Law School for one year before transferring to Willamette.

Schedule Portland Symphony

Three works of three composers are scheduled to be played by the Portland Symphony when they appear in the Fine Arts auditorium, December 1.

As featured guest artist, Maestro Jacques Singer will present the American-born violinist, Charles Treger. Winner of the Wieniewsky award, Mr. Treger will be touring 11 countries this fall, making several appearances with the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra.

He will play Rossini's "Overture to The Barber of Seville, and Wieniawski's Concerto No. 2 in D Minor for Violin and Orchestra, Op. 22, accompanied by the orchestra.

Berlioz's Symphonie Fantastique is the orchestral number of the evening.

Student tickets may be again purchased at a first-come, first-served basis by signing up for them in Dean Bestor's office. The cost per ticket is $1. Any ticket not sold by noon Monday, November 30, will be on sale at the box office on the night of the 8:30 concert.

WU Groups Set Concerts

Willamette's band, chorus and orchestra have several events lined up for the near future that may be of interest to students.

THE WILLAMETTE Community Orchestra is presenting a concert on December 9 at the Fine Arts auditorium. Selections by Giovanni Gabrieli, Joseph Hayden, Archangelo Corelli, Healey Willan, Aaron Copeland and Samuel Barber will be rendered. The piece by Corelli, "Pastorale from the Christmas Concerts," is especially appropriate for the coming season.

Willamette's band is looking forward to an active schedule of concerts, the first being presented at Walden Junior High School on December 10. Three days later, they, together with the WU chorus, will render an afternoon of religious Christmas music at the Fine Arts auditorium beginning at 4:30. The band will give a concert of its own towards the start of the second semester, January 14, during the convocation hour.

WU's CHORUS is entering a rather hectic period right now, due to the arrival of the Christmas season. They will be singing at the Thanksgiving Vespers service this Tuesday at the Presbyterian Church, as well as the Christmas service to be presented on the 13th. The chorus will do a bit of traveling on December 12, when they go to Eugene for a concert. They will then present another songfest, together with the band, back in Salem at Four Corners, at 8.

All three musical groups, the band, chorus, and orchestra, will join forces for the taping of a TV show on December 15.

Convo Offers WU Originals

Original compositions written by students in Dean Charles Bestor's composition class and a piece by the Dean himself, will be presented at the College of Music's convocation Tuesday, December 1, at 3 p.m.

On the program are: Dave Welch's Piece for Solo Trumpet, to be played by Richard Cook; Paul Huebner's Piece for Solo Flute, played by Wendy Hunt; "Do Not Go Gentle," Welch's composition on Dylan Thomas' poem, with Lou Ann Neill, harp, and Doug Ward, baritone; Barbara Davis' setting of T. S. Eliot's Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock, to be sung by Elizabeth Anderson with Miss Davis accompanying her on the piano; and A Wind in the Willow, Dean Bestor's composition for solo flute, to be played by Mary Ellen Johnk.

The Dean has had varied experiences with music composition, having studied with the late Paul Hindemuth, Peter Mennin and Vincent Persichetti.

He taught for the last five years at the University of Colorado at Boulder, and eight years before that was on the faculty and staff at the Juilliard School of Music, in his native New York.

DEAN CHARLES BESTOR

Bestor in Concert

Speaking at the December 1 convocation will be Charles Bestor, Dean of the School of Music. Willamette's composer-dean will present the topic, "The Place of the Artist in Twentieth Century American Society."
