

State Officials To Visit Campus

Annual Day to Bring Governor, Legislative Heads, Justices

The official board of visitors for Willamette university will be guests on the campus Tuesday. Slated for the day are a special chapel program, luncheon at Lausanne hall and inspection of work being done on the campus. Dr. G. H. Smith is directing the visit.

The board as provided for in section five of the University charter consists of members of the state supreme court, governor of the state, the president of the state senate and speaker of the state house of representatives. The present speaker of the house is William McAllister, a Willamette graduate.

Supreme Court Judge George Rossman will be speaker at the chapel program. Dr. Smith will preside and introduce each member of the board of visitors. Dean Melvin H. Geist is planning special music for the program.

Visitors will include Governor Earl Snell, Chief Justice J. O. Bailey, Justices George Rossman, Arthur D. Hay, Percy R. Kelly, Harry H. Belt, Hall S. Lusk, James T. Brand, president of the senate, W. H. Steiwer, and speaker of the house, William H. McAllister.

The annual visitation symbolizes the close relationship between Willamette and government, administration heads pointed out.

That Willamette graduates have played a large part in state government is evidenced by the fact that they were recently among the majority of judges of state supreme courts in Oregon, Washington, and Idaho. At present several legislators and the speaker of the house of representatives are alumni.

DePauw Man Fills Post

The selection of Bennett Ragan Ludden, member of the faculty of DePauw university, Greencastle, Ind., as the new instructor in piano to replace the late Clara Eness, was announced this week by Pres. G. Herbert Smith. Ludden will take over his new duties immediately.

Graduated from DePauw, Ludden, 28 years of age and unmarried, also has a degree from the Royal Hungarian Franz Liszt Academy of Music of Budapest where he was an exchange student from September 1938 to February 1940. He holds a master's degree in music as well as bachelor of arts and bachelor of music. He is a cellist and a pianist.

Ludden is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ludden and was born here in Salem.

Ministers Meet at WU

Methodist ministers of the Salem district of the Oregon conference attended a special Bible discussion group yesterday, held in the seminar room of the library and led by Dr. A. J. Walton of Nashville, Tenn., superintendent of town and country life of the Methodist board of home missions. Dr. Walton appeared as guest chapel speaker following the initial conference Thursday.

Ministers receiving training under Dr. Walton will in turn conduct similar conferences on Bible study in towns of the Salem district. Further meetings for visiting pastors will be held today and tomorrow at 10 a. m. at the First Methodist church.

Dr. Walton, members of the study group and their wives were the luncheon guests of Dr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Purdy, Salem district superintendent, following Dr. Walton's chapel address.

Shelton Will Manage Glee; Class Heads Push Plans

Jacquith Named Frosh Prexy; To Choose Committees Next Week

Reid Shelton was named at a class election Wednesday to direct the 1943 Freshman Glee. Paul Jacquith won out as freshman president in the same election.

The new Glee manager stated that he hoped to have plans under way by Monday. A freshman meeting will be held sometime next week and committees appointed at that time. He urged students to publicize the event and to start working on it immediately. "Make your bets early so that you can concentrate on the song, formation and class spirit," was his advice.

Air Corps Notice May Come Soon

Latest development concerning the reserve program is news received this week by the administration that men enlisted in the ERC air corps may expect to be called in the near future. The statement came as a supplement to last week's announcement of pending induction of ERC men into active service.

The air corps decision will affect 14 men while the earlier one affected 11. One ERC student is in the pre-med division.

Included in the announcement was the fact that air corps enlistees will probably be relocated in assigned colleges. The government officials have expressed the hope that men will stay in school until taken for active service. In the relocating of ERC members an effort will be made to keep as many of their credits as possible.

Navy and marine reserve students have still received no word about active service. Latest figures from the university offices show 87 men enlisted in the naval reserve, 8 in marine reserve and 1 in the medical reserve. In the navy program are 62 under the V-1 plan, 5 under the V-5, and 20 under the V-7.

Pianist Slated Today

Frank Sanders, head of the music department at the Oregon Blind school, will entertain the audience with piano solos at the student chapel today. Mark Hatfield, director of student chapels, guarantees that Sanders, adept at improvising and frequently titled the Alee Templeton of Salem, will furnish enjoyment to all listeners.

Alumni Paper Off Press Soon

The first issue of a new alumni newspaper will be in the mail next week according to Editor Murco Ringnald, professor of journalism. Regular publication is planned, with one more edition this year, scheduled for sometime in May. The alumni group will at that time decide if the booklet will become a permanent institution and set the frequency of publication.

Through the establishment of such a periodical, the administration hopes to maintain contact with Willamette graduates and to supply both campus and alumni news coverage for the graduates. The first edition will be sent to all persons named in the alumni directory.

As yet no organized and available file of former students who did not graduate has been compiled. The standing of former students regarding their admission to membership and receipt of the publication will be considered by the alumni association at its annual meeting held at commencement.

Feature of the first issue will be a survey of the school's development in recent years designed primarily to re-orientate and re-acquaint alumni who have not been in contact with the school for some time. Professor Ringnald stressed the fact that the bulletin will also contain present news and personals about the alumni. In future editions more space will be devoted to personal notices, he added.

The format will be similar to the Collegian and will consist of four pages. The present one will be dated February, 1943, and numbered as the first issue of volume I.

Coming to Willamette Tuesday as members of the official visiting board will be Earl Snell, governor of Oregon, and Supreme Court Judge George Rossman, who is scheduled to speak in chapel on that day.

Musicians Plan Eness Memorial

Members of Mu Phi Epsilon, national music honorary for women, at their Monday night meeting voted to establish a Clara Eness student scholarship loan fund in memory of the late piano instructor of the music school faculty and founder in 1938 of the local Mu Phi chapter. It was further decided that a memorial plaque in honor of Miss Eness should be placed in the Mu Phi room of the music hall.

The permanent lead fund will be supported by the proceeds from concerts sponsored by the organization, and by contributions from Mu Phi alumnae and former students of Miss Eness. Although foundational plans alone were laid at the meeting and details have yet to be decided, the plan is expected to be in operation by the opening of the new school year in the fall and will be available to both men and women students.

Proceeds from the all-student concert to be presented under the auspices of Mu Phi on March 22 will be the first set aside for the newly established fund. Contributions may be sent to Mrs. Melvin H. Geist, treasurer, 160 West Lefelle, or Jean Jackson, president, 505 North Summer.

No date has been set for the dedication of the memorial plaque but it will be an event of the near future, according to Miss Jackson.

Frat Grade Limit Ousted

The inter-fraternity council ruled this week that choice of initiates would be left to the individual fraternities, reversing last fall's ruling that a list of fraternity pledges should be turned in to the registrar's office and that only students with a C average could take exams.

The fact that the grades were lower last semester was attributed to enlistments and inductions. The council, on consideration that many men would be unable to return to school to be initiated next year, made this provision for one semester so that these men would have the opportunity of joining.

Newly-elected Pete Faminow took over his duties as senior class president by conferring with other class officers on Freshman Glee plans. No definite decisions were reached or announcements made. According to Faminow the '43 officers will "try to find the class" before starting to work. Other officers elected were Harriet Monroe, vice-president; Jean Jackson, secretary; Merle Palmer, treasurer.

The junior class will await the results of its Glee song composers before making other arrangements, according to prexy John Macy. The formation plans were discussed by the class executive council but not settled. Ward Miles was selected as junior representative on the Glee committee.

Sophomores will meet today after chapel. Class executives met yesterday to lay general plans and discuss directors. At today's meeting a member of the Glee council from the sophomore class will be appointed. Class officers who were elected this week and compose the executive committee are Richard Wicks, president; Betty Andrews, vice-president; Rosella Bell, secretary; Dave Geddes, treasurer.

Details of plans as revealed by the Glee committee this week may be found on page 3.

State Oratory Meet Slated

The annual state peace oratorical contest is to be held Thursday before the Pacific university student body, it was announced this week by Dr. Herbert E. Rahe, forensics coach, who urges all students interested in the competition to see him immediately.

Willamette delegate to the meet will be selected by the early part of next week. Winners in the contest will be awarded cash prizes by the Intercollegiate Forensics Association of Oregon, sponsor of the contest.

Debate practice and discussion are being held every Monday and Wednesday afternoons between 2 and 4 in preparation for the Linfield tournament scheduled for February 18, 19 and 20. Divisions in debate, oratory, extempore, impromptu, after-dinner and congress speaking have been announced.

No tryouts for the Linfield tournament will be held with delegates to be qualified on the basis of experience and practice. No previous forensics experience is necessary, however, since "practice is the important thing," Dr. Rahe stated.

Student Government?

Ed. Note: The following unsolicited letter has much food for thought for the Willamette student who is interested in promoting democracy in student government on this campus. We hereby print it in the regular editorial column in the hope that it will thus arouse interest in the problems which it presents, whether or not that interest coincides with the views set forth by Miss Matthews, who wrote the letter as a student, not as a member of the Collegian staff. The Collegian invites further letters on any phase of this vital matter which has long been in the minds of many and has now finally been brought into the open.

Dear Editor:

When Dr. Hutchins spoke in chapel Tuesday on "What Does Willamette Stand For," he hit upon a point or two that many silently cheered.

Students know Dr. Hutchins as one among others on the Willamette faculty who is new enough or honest enough to see the University through eyes unfiltered by coloration of traditions or fear of trustees. Tuesday in his best "cold turkey" way he told us about the University, what it stands for and what it should stand for, finding the two cases different, particularly in the matters of scholarship and student government. He reminded us that Willamette's standard of scholarship is as surely measured by those students who "slip by" as by those few who distinguish themselves scholastically.

But it was when he discussed student leadership, making the statement that "Willamette has no student government worthy of the name" that we cheered, and began to consider. Where indeed is our student government?

Upon investigation we learned that we have a student body president, who was an excellent leader those three years he ran for office, but is now rapidly becoming the Forgotten Man. Just the other day someone asked me if Bones was still in school. Also I learned that there is a student executive council, which hasn't met since before Thanksgiving, even to acknowledge that there was nothing to do. However, we cannot lay the entire blame on the leaders, in view of the consistent lack of student interest in ASWU affairs. There is a bare skeleton of class organizations, with officers elected each semester to call meetings to elect officers for the next semester. There are puppet councils for fraternity and sorority government and another for social organizations.

From these latter we hear the most poignant complaints, largely because they are the groups most active. Their opinion indicates that everyone "feels" that faculty control is taking advantage of a new administration unaccustomed to student government to establish precedents of "ruling with an iron hand" the councils and committees under their so-called advisorship, although pinning them down to specific examples to indicate the trend resolves down to personality objections, so often the nature of public opinion. For one example they cite today's letter from Dr. Glatke criticizing sorority informal initiation, with the comment that the called-for action by the intersorority council will result in a decision by Dean Dahl through that body, an action to which they rightly object, and evidences of sorority informal initiation, however harmless, will nevermore appear on the campus. Frankly, these council members themselves are inclined to agree with Dr. Glatke, but they will heartily take issue, unofficially, because they know they will be told to restrict initiation instead of being allowed to decide for themselves. I say unofficially, because the council, by experience knows that open protest, under the precedent of inertia they have come to accept, is unprofitable.

That is what the students are saying. But it takes a criticism like Dr. Hutchins' to make us wonder how we can object to having our governmental authority taken away from us when we fail to exercise what we have. Of course we rankle under domineering faculty commands and injunctions to beware offending the trustees and alumni, but there's more to do about it than talking. Where is our student government? For instance, what is it doing about the problem at hand, namely, the lack of student enthusiasm about Freshman Glee? Are we going to have a Glee this year? Sure, it's a tradition, but student-made after all, and ours to break as well.

Now, an immediate burst of organization meetings isn't going to solve the threat to our student government or stir up a becalmed student body to Glee enthusiasm, but a realization by each of us of the need for a constructive plan and the assumption of its responsibility by our elected leaders will lead to improvement. These are critical times for a college and college students. Many of us are treading the very edge of the precipice of no college at all, and one good push by a "So what? this is war" attitude and over we'll go. And what educator would not agree that a social incentive is important for real scholarship? So, by adjustment, Dr. Hutchins, we may yet have both scholarship and government worthy of the name.

Sincerely,
RUTH MATTHEWS

Dear PRIVATE JOHNNY

DARLING:

I'm feeling very blue and not so true, in the best war widow tradition so guess I'll head for the USO; I hear there's a new batch of second lieutenants in town. No, dear, I'm only kidding. The gals and I are going to the Cavern for a wild coke soon, that's all.

The cokes are wilder than usual since the reopening, or are there really Egyptian pictographs on the wall. Since I know David Foster did them it wouldn't bother me if I didn't understand them at all, but every once in a while there's a glimmer, like maybe the line of jitterbugger's in the upper right hand corner being just Willamette yell leaders in Poppa Waller's day or the lads chained to their seats in the left hand picture just ancient chapel goers. What really throws me is that in the midst of those important looking hieroglyphics there's an eagle with NRA under it! Believe me!

I have a new quilted skirt that Reggie wants to know is it a skirt that is quilted or a quilt that is skirted or something. She says Scotchmen wear quilts.

The Kappas have come by their dance-attic furnishings in the oddest ways. First there is a large globe lined in blue covering the overhead light. In its past it was a Court street streetlamp. When the globes were taken down to be painted for the dim-out the men were called to lunch during the operation and, what do you know, a whole line of the pretty little things were left lying right in front of the Kappa house—across the street—and needless to say—since it is, I won't. Like me, they can resist anything but temptation.

Then there's the nickleodeon. The fellows rented it two years ago for a dance, the deliverer forgot where he left it and they've had it ever since. Their only fear is that it will be discovered, and imagine paying five bucks a day for the thing. On the other hand they could charge for storage space.

Hey, the Markees are vacationing in Phoenix, Arizona, before settling down to med school. A vacation—what's that? And do you think you can possibly come for Freshman Glee? Much as we dread the next three weeks of preparation we can't get around the old thrill of the thing.

This has been initiation week and almost more than we can bear. Sometimes I think it's harder on the members to look at the pledges than to be one. Bob Lee took one look at Janet Woods and said even he couldn't stand it. And it took me the longest time in class the other morning to figure out why Bev Nordean didn't at least wear a scarf over her hair net if she hadn't had time to comb her hair. At least the girls can think about studying even with their makeup off, but ask a weary frat pledge what he's learned in school this week and stand back for the snore. Anyway, the Delta Phi pledges looked good with shoes, hats, and best clothes on; there are those who say they looked better than the members.

Just a tip in case anyone should ask you. By playing "Basin Street Blues" you get "Six Flats Unfurnished" and vice versa, on the juke box in the Cavern. Thus I leave you, darling. 'Bye.

Love,
WILLA

BEEFS and BOUQUETS

... Letters to the Editor ...

To the Editor:

A number of years ago the inter-fraternity council adopted the rule barring all initiation stunts from the campus. Informal initiation is a matter that belongs within the house, and to bring it on the campus seriously raises the question of good taste and wise policy. It would seem that the intersorority council should give this matter serious consideration before another initiation time descends upon us.

ROBERT MOULTON GATKE
President, Interfraternity Council

Dear Editor:

Each year heretofore as mid-semester exams are completed, the interest of all that have been initiated into the ways of Willamette turn to Freshman Glee. But the enthusiasm customarily found in all circles seems to be lacking this year. The reasons for this waning enthusiasm I find hard to fathom. Are our leaders afraid of the work involved, and the obstacles of a wartime year that confront us?

Freshman Glee is a tradition of Willamette that has lasted through thirty-four years, years filled with problems comparable to anything currently faced. Are we going to let any problems, however large, break a tradition that is in itself the very spirit of Willamette?

Today in chapel the class of 1946 will present the challenge to the other classes, and it is my ardent hope that this challenge will not go unheeded, even by a minority group. I can understand freshmen unfamiliar with Glee, possessing a half-hearted, insipid attitude. However, it is incomprehensible for those of us who have not only seen, but taken part in the preparations, to hold an indifferent attitude.

When I first arrived on the campus last year, all the traditions of Willamette were loudly proclaimed, but above all was the clamor for Freshman Glee. The songs, the marching, the parodies and the bets all present in their own little way the magic of Willamette.

I would like this letter to be a challenge to every one of you. Let's have pep, let's have enthusiasm, and make this the greatest Freshman Glee Willamette has ever known!

Sincerely,
EDNAMEAE HOPFER

For MEN Only

By Gil Lieser

Row, row, row your boat must be the motto adopted by the new managers of the Bearcat Cavern if one is to judge by the extraordinary mural which appeared as if by magic on the west wall of that food and drink dispensary last Monday.

We spent, or should we say wasted, a good half hour the other day, trying to figure out if David Foster's brain-children (we mean the guys in shackles) were supposed to be symbolic of the students in Professor Oliver's classes or the members of Tony Fraiola's 9:35 gym class.

All in all we were very much impressed by the improvements in Huston and Oliver's food emporium even though we'd just as soon they'd give that mural back to the Greeks, because our stomach seems to do the Jersey Bounce every time we glimpse it . . . and as we plod our sticky way the length of the Cavern we wonder if there is any truth to the rumor that the new managers slipped a maple syrup "Mickey" into the floor varnish to discourage patrons from leaving.

Our sixth columnist tells us that the topic of Monday's roll call chapel for little WU misses was . . . guess what? . . . MEN. It seems that drastic steps are being taken to insure the safety of Willamette's fairer sex, and that henceforth any coed who so much as sets foot in one of our nasty old frat houses must be guarded by a minimum of two chaperones on the right and one on the left or be subject to expulsion.

While we are on the subject we feel obligated to print a request from a delegation of Lausanites who inform us they are fed up with a certain element of campus Romeos, who make a frequent practice of visiting the Hall and thumbing their way through the register until they are able to get a date. It seems that the girls would rather have you fellows do your thumbing through a fusser's guide in your own room, and make up your minds upon a date before trekking towards Miss Jack's Haven of Rest for Homesick coeds . . .

We wonder if it was a freshman in bewilderment, or one with a more sinister purpose who "borrowed" the ballot box Monday noon in the middle of freshman class elections . . . tsk, tsk, and at such an opportune time too . . . just when the fraternities were fortifying themselves with enough ballots to stuff a Christmas turkey, let alone one little insignificant ballot box.

Speed Urged In Glee Preparations

International Club Elects

Peter Faminow was elected president of the campus international relations club at the regular organization meeting Monday evening and will hold office through the remainder of the school year.

The time of meeting was set for the first and third Thursdays of every month at 7:15 in the library seminar room.

Other officers elected were David Teeters, vice-president, who will assume the duties of discussion chairman, and Opal Scheuerman, secretary.

Retiring officers are Richard Wicks, president; Peter Faminow, discussion chairman, and Betty Sackett, secretary.

Membership in the organization is open to all students and those interested in problems of international relations are cordially invited to attend.

Fowler Art On Display

Constance Fowler, art instructor, is one of 10 Oregon artists invited to display representative works at the San Francisco Museum of Art in an exhibit from January 12 through February 15.

Miss Fowler is the only woman member of the Oregon group of painters, although three Oregon women and one man are displaying their creations in sculpturing.

Miss Fowler is presenting two of her paintings, namely "Itinerant Pigeons," portraying a barn-loft interior, and "Evening Still-life," depicting a table in front of a window with a dark moonlit sky in the background.

The works were collected at the Portland Museum by William Tyler Davis and then sent to San Francisco.

Initiation-Wear Pledges Look Ahead to Respite From Slavery

Unhappy pledges were reprimanded for past misdeeds and severely punished as (censored) week rolled around again. Unusual costumes and customs characterized the underlings' status. Members were always on hand to see that these rules were adhered to the letter.

Delta Phi pledges were seen gracefully floating along the campus looking as if they were ready to attend a tea when in reality they were trying to make an 8:40. They were heard to be murmuring at various intervals certain statements that sounded like, "Today we are ladies."

A confusing array of hairnets, ear muffs, blackmark cards and a noticeable absence of make-up characterized the Beta Chi Initiates. Of course they were allowed to speak to no men and had to obey the commands of the superior upperclassmen.

The Alpha Phi Alpha members-to-be seemed to have forgotten the rules of colors as they nonchalantly strolled the campus in mismatched anklets. Upswept

Committee Reveals Judging Points; February 27 Confirmed as Date

"Each class should have the words and music for its Freshman Glee 'Novelty' song written by the middle of next week," Ray Short, chairman of the Freshman Glee committee announced Tuesday after the committee had verified February 27 as the date for the 1943 Glee. "Speed in getting the songs written is essential so that each class will have time to select and learn their song and adapt the formation for it," Short explained.

DTG Names Ibach Prexy

Members of Delta Tau Gamma, independent women's organization, held their semi-annual election of officers when they met Wednesday for a potluck dinner at the home of Mrs. Bruce Rothrock.

Those selected were Luella Ibach, president; Mary Helen Wilson, vice-president; Doris Doughton, secretary; Rosalie Hoover, treasurer, and Margaret Forsythe, reporter.

The newly elected officers will meet for luncheon Friday, February 5, in the Lausanne hall chafing dish room to formulate plans for the coming months.

Physics Labs Lose Aides

The physics department is losing two more lab assistants, Dale Wertz who left this week for US army service, and Lewis Pentney who leaves soon for pre-meteorological training.

Since there are no students to replace Wertz and Pentney and as Prof. Earl T. Brown's presence is required in the labs of the large mechanical drawing class, two Willamette professors will take over the work. Dr. H. C. Hutchins will assist in the Monday lab and Dr. Charles H. Johnson in the Wednesday section, according to Brown, physics professor.

The committee, composed of Betty Sackett, Jean Jackson, Prof. Leslie J. Sparks and Short, outlined the criteria on which the judges' decisions will be based and tentatively appointed committees who will judge Glee presentations.

Of special interest to song composers and formation committees are the following criteria, similar to those used in 1942, on which the songs will be judged:

- I. Words
 1. Originality 40
 2. Adaptability to theme 50
 - a. Rhythm
 - b. Popular appeal
 - c. Organization around thought
- II. Music
 1. Adaptability to "Novelty" theme 25
 2. Adaptability to group singing 25
 3. Originality 25
 4. Quality of music 25
 - a. Harmonic progression
 - b. Symmetry of form
 - c. Accuracy and neatness of notation
- III. Rendition and Adaptation
 1. Formation
 - a. Adaptability to theme 33 1/2
 - b. Precision 33 1/2
 - c. Originality 33 1/2
 2. Presentation-general effect
 - a. Interpretation 25
 - b. Phrasing 25
 - c. Diction, enunciation 25
 - d. Blend and balance of voices 25

The committee urged that each class elect an on-his-toes representative to work with the Freshman Glee manager. The committee in completing such plans as arranging the times and places for individual class practices, also stressed that each

More Students Swell Rolls

At the latest report, total registration this semester stands at 481, an increase of 46 students since the previous report in the last Collegian. The enrollment of last semester was 497.

Few comparative figures have as yet been compiled, but these few were available. The freshmen compose about half of the student body, as they number 263. This figure is their total for both semesters, and includes 19 new students at mid-year. This means that this year's freshman class outnumbers that of last year by ten students.

Choir Photo Time Set

A cappella choir pictures will be taken Monday, February 8, at 4 p. m. in the music hall auditorium. Nadene Mathews, Wallula editor, announced Wednesday. Dean Geist urges members to be prompt and come dressed for the occasion.

class should know its song perfectly before Thursday, February 25, the first day marching can be practiced with the gym platform.

"It's very important this year in war time that the classes cooperate with one another in developing school spirit as well as class spirit so that our student body may be more closely bound together as a result of the celebration of this unique Willamette tradition," Short concluded.

Waltz Married On Sunday

Sunday at 2 p.m., Mary Jean Doane became the bride of Mark Waltz at the First Episcopalian church in Hillsboro. Miss Doane's cousin was maid of honor and Homer Ireland was usher. Corydon Blodgett sang the vocal selections before the wedding.

The reception was held after the ceremony in the bride's home.

Mr. Waltz was graduated from Willamette in '42 and was very active in campus activities while here. He was president of Sigma Tau, manager of '39 Glee, manager of the choir and also a member of Blue Key. He is now going to the Oregon Dental college in Portland.

Mrs. Waltz attended Pacific university.

The couple will make their home in Portland.

On Behalf of the Visiting Firemen

By PUCK

By special invitation from the visiting firemen we went visiting . . . without the firemen. And although Ripley doesn't know it, believe it or not, there are some coeds who actually own something besides saddles, sweaters, and scarfs. It's nice, isn't it.

As far as headgear is concerned, pill boxes are definitely favored . . . not just the pill box, but all sorts of 'em.

Thelma Lathrop has one of the prettiest. It's in the ever popular shade of fire-engine red (take a bow, Casey). But even more, it has that luxurious velvety appearance, probably because it's velveteen. It sets behind her curls and a spray of feathers lends that carefree air. Her dress is of the same red material and she walks in natty red sandals.

Mary Jean Huston has a similar outfit in brown and gold. Her dress is of brown velveteen and gold wool . . .

the waist and sleeves of the former, the skirt and buttons of the latter. Crowning her hair is a brown velveteen pill box that might be cousin to the beret.

Suede is another top notch for top notchers. (Some people like Habby haven't even read this far.) Yvonne Moeze wears a simple pill box in brown of that stuff. And her shoes are two of the cleverest . . . brown suede with an ankle strap that's attached to the heel of the shoe, it has open toes and rope soles.

Jane Findley has a smooth looking number besides Furno. It's a brown suede of the same pattern as the others, with a big enough—small enough bow in front. And she wears a twilight blue box coat with it.

It may be a little early to mention this, but roomers here and there say it's Junior Glee this year . . .

SPORT SCRIPTS

By Wally Olson

Now that our Willamette Bearcats have definitely established themselves as a power not to be taken lightly in northwest small-college circles as a result of their recently posted victories they certainly should be given the support they obviously deserve, for the games that really count are coming up. With this week-end's home-and-home series with Pacific U opening Willamette's bid in Northwest conference hooping, Spec Keene's boys are due more backing from the student body in general as far as attendance at the games are concerned. And when we get in the stands, how about a little more whooping and yelling. Anyway, enough so as to be heard over the whispering conversation of the fair-sized group of townspeople that attend.

And by the way, where were the living-in members of the Beta Chi house at the last two games? Their absence was greatly noticed by others than just your humble correspondent. Tsk, tsk, girls.

What with Hank Lever's Linfield Wildcats, who are just about the hottest hoopers ever to assemble under the "Old Fox's" watchful eye, and Willamette and Pacific fighting it out tooth and nail in the western end of the division, don't forget Whitman and College of Idaho, between whom the eastern division title rests. Both clubs are considered top calibre in the eastern Washington and Idaho area. The Bearcats get their chance to see what the other side of the mountains has to offer next weekend when the Whitmanites stop over for a double meeting here Friday and Saturday.

Baseball Around the Corner

While basketball may now be enjoying its hour of popularity among the sports minded public, baseball is just around the corner and any day now you may expect to hear Willamette's pitching pros, Earl Toolson and Bill Hanauska, calling "their boys" out for conditioning drills as soon as the last of the snow fades away on Sweetland field. Toolson and Hanauska have been named to relieve some of the coaching burden that has fallen entirely on the shoulders of R. S. Keene since the departure to Alaska of Howard "the happy one" Maple, and are already eyeing prospects and chances of repeating the 1942 Northwest conference baseball championship which was gained last year largely through their pitching efforts.

Athletic Equipment Needed

Monday night of next week the Willamette Bearcats meet the Camp Adair Timberwolves in a benefit game in behalf of the state drive for athletic equipment for the northwest's army camps. This game will be played on the Willamette floor with all proceeds going to the equipment drive fund and in order to get more equipment admission for the general public will be any usable piece of athletic goods or any amount of cash they wish to contribute. This, however, does not apply to Willamette students who have their constitutional rights which allows them to attend any Willamette athletic contest played on Willamette property through the medium of their ASWU ticket. Even so, it wouldn't hurt the student body to do their share to help make the equipment drive a success and dust off any old pair of boxing gloves, baseball shoes, basketballs or baseballs, etc., and drop them off at the gym ticket office. Anyway, get out and boost those Bearcats. They deserve it.

Axis Delayed Baird

Art Baird, former "W" club president, football and baseball letterman, returned to school this semester to finish up before going into the Naval Reserve officers training at Northwestern university and, as he has a year of baseball eligibility left, may well help the Willamette cause at first base, over which he bounded during the '40 and '41 seasons. Baird, who made a trip to Australia last summer aboard a merchant vessel, was to have returned to school last fall but a little longer stay in Sydney plus a longer trip back via Panama Canal and New York detained him a little longer than he expected, so "Arter" didn't arrive back in Oregon until about the first of December, which was just a trifle too late to make the fall term. But he's back now and none the worse for his harrowing experiences which included two encounters with axis U-boats.

Wolf Game Monday to Aid Benefit Drive

Billed for Willamette's gymnasium Monday night for a benefit basketball game are the returning Camp Adair Timberwolves who will furnish the opposition for Spec Keene's Bearcats in the first of three games next week.

Listed earlier for this week the game was moved back in order to allow more time for preparation of the event that is to be part of Salem's share in the state-wide drive for athletic equipment for the northwest's service men.

Plans have been made to admit each fan into the game who presents at least one usable piece of sports equipment at the ticket office, or if no old equipment of this type is available, pay out as much cash as he wishes, to be used to purchase new equipment for the various military camps in Oregon.

Suggested equipment includes old boxing gloves, baseball shoes, basketballs, baseballs, bats, gloves, footballs, ping-pong sets, patches or Chinese checkers—almost anything will do and help. Whatever it is, dust it off and bring it to the Willamette gym Monday night and help make Salem's and Willamette's part of the drive a real success.

Toolson Sold To Louisville

Earl Toolson, junior from Burley, Idaho, and one of Willamette's three professional baseball players this week was notified that he has been sold to the Louisville, Kentucky, baseball club of the American Association.

Toolson, who played basketball and baseball at Willamette during his freshman and sophomore years, signed last summer with the Boston Red Sox direct from Willamette and was immediately farmed out to Greensboro, North Carolina, of the Piedmont league, where he turned in a very successful season before returning to Willamette last fall. His sale to Louisville, a double A club, is two steps nearer the major leagues than Greensboro, which is in a class B league.

The sale of Toolson to Louisville gave him an outright release from the Greensboro team and he is now awaiting a contract from Louisville after which he may go south for spring training.

Women's Gym 'Conditions'

The freshmen women's gym classes are now being instructed as conditioning classes. The purpose of such training, according to Gale Currey, director of women's physical education, is to improve muscle tone, increase endurance and to improve posture.

Skill tests are also a part of their training which aid in balance, agility, coordination, strength and flexibility. Recreational games for relaxation complete the freshman program.

Miss Currey states that she plans to carry out a similar program for the remainder of the year.

'Arsenic' Cast to Meet

Mrs. Margaret Ringwald, drama coach, has called a meeting of the cast for "Arsenic and Old Lace" in the Little Theater on Tuesday at 2:10.

Keenemen Favored Over Badgers In First NW Conference Game

Os Gates, new athletic director and varsity coach at Pacific university, will bring his Badgers from over Forest Grove way to the Willamette gym tonight to do battle with Spec Keene's Bearcats in Willamette's initial Northwest conference hoop game of the season. The two teams will meet again Saturday night at Forest Grove.

'Cats Take Upset Victory Over Trotters

Flashing their best form of the season and passing more accurately and effectively than ever before, the Willamette Bearcats hooped out a 39-38 upset win over the professional Harlem Globetrotters on the home court last Saturday night.

Coming from what looked like a helpless cause in the early minutes of the first half, the 'Cats matched basket for basket with the "Harlem boys" until the closing minutes of the game. This defeat was the first handed to the Trotters by a Willamette team in over three years.

Starting fast, led by 6 foot 5 Bob Powell, the Globetrotters took an early four-point lead, but fast breaks by Gene Schmidt and Don Barnick knotted the score, the first of eleven times the score was tied. The teams then played nip and tuck, first one team breaking through for a small lead and then the other. The first half ended with both teams in a deadlock at 16 all.

Vaughn, Schmidt and Barnick teaming with Ragsdale, Miller, and Weaver paced the Bearcats in their final period in which they matched every point made by the Trotters plus the extra point which turned out to be the winning point. The score was tied at 18, 20, 22, 24, 30, 32, 34, before Julian netted the final Harlem basket to give them the lead, 38-37.

With three minutes to play, Perry stole the ball away and dribbled down the floor to score the final point. Willamette then went into a stall, holding the ball long enough to give Willamette the victory, 39-38.

a 66 to 33 shellacking last Tuesday night, the Badgers won't be incapable of upsetting the favored Methodist clan.

With this in mind, Coach Keene has spent the remainder of the week since the Tuesday encounter with Portland drilling his club against a zone defense even though the Badgers are reported to use man-to-man tactics. Plays also have been stressed which would enable Don Barnick and Bob Perry, Willamette's pocket guards, to get in more attempts from the keyhole.

Leading the Pacific attack will be sharp-shooting Ernie Gettel, sophomore forward from Oregon City. Newest addition to the Badger squad is husky Bob Wells, freshman guard transfer from the University of Oregon who prepped at Tillamook high.

Both clubs will be out for a double victory in an effort to overtake the Linfield collegians who are riding on top in the Northwest conference race with two wins and no losses.

'Cats Split Annual 'Civil War' Series With Pilots in Rough Tilts

Willamette Dunks Portland 50-39, But Rally Fails to Cop Return Game

The little civil war in basketball between the Portland university Pilots and the Willamette Bearcats stands even for another year with the two teams splitting their home-and-home series this week. The Bearcats won here 50 to 39 last Friday night in a knock-down drag-out affair and the Pilots winning the second tilt in Portland Tuesday night by a 35 to 28 score in what wasn't exactly a ladies' aid party.

A nip-and-tuck first half was played in the opening game with Willamette coming from behind to take a half-time advantage of 25-24 when Bob Weaver, Bearcat forward, flipped in a one-hander from the side to tie it up at 24-all seconds before the half ended. Weaver, who was fouled on the play, made good his free throw to give Willamette the lead.

Coach Keene, choosing to leave in part of his second club, found a combination that had little trouble in building up a sizeable lead that kept the 'Cats out of danger. With his club ahead 42-36 and only five minutes of playing time left, Keene sent in his fresh starting five to finish off the Pilots whose wild shooting at this late point netted but three points.

Whistle blowers Al Lightner and "Doc" Regele called a total of 41 fouls, with the Bearcats connecting for 14 of theirs to 11 for the Pilots. Paul O'Toole, Pilot forward, scored high with 14 points, while Perry and Douglas each got eight for Willamette.

Getting off to a 4-0 lead in the return game in Portland Tuesday night, the Pilots kept up the pace holding a 20-16 half-time advantage chiefly through the firing of point-maker Paul O'Toole who again set the pace, dunking 14 points for the evening.

Stretching their half-time 4-point lead to eight points midway in the second half, the Pilots began to coast but led by Bearcat center Gene Schmidt the Willamettes took hold and came within one point of tying the score at 28-29. The Bearcat rally didn't last, however, as the Portland stars, Huntsinger and O'Toole, crashed through the Willamette defense for six consecutive points putting the wild and ragged game on ice.

O'Toole, with 14 points, again scored high while Schmidt paced the Willamette attack with 10.

Freshman A's, 9:35 Class Win Games to Top 'Mural Ladders

With two official games being played before the Collegian's deadline and one to be played late Thursday night, the end of the first week of tournament games found the Freshman "A" at the top of the "A" ladder and the 9:35 gym class at the head of the "B" standing.

The Freshman versus the game, much to the surprise of the "A" team's supporters. The "A" team, sparked by Rex Hardy, led the game from the opening minute, but a last minute drive by the "B" squad saw the score knotted at the close of the game. In an overtime period the A's eked out a narrow win.

The opener in the "B" league games saw the 8:40 gym class matched against the 9:35 class. Due to the lack of hoopsters from the 8:40 class, Intramural Director Earl Toolson was forced to account the win in favor of the 9:35 club.

According to Toolson, the schedule for the coming week is Tuesday, Rubes against Sigs; and Thursday, Frosh "A" versus Alpha Psi. The "B" league schedule has not been finally drawn up but Toolson hopes to finish it late this week.

A complete cast of characters appearing in the series of radio broadcasts to be presented every other Wednesday evening at 9:15 over KSLM by the University radio drama class under the auspices of the Russian Relief program, was announced this week by Mrs. Margaret Ringnald, drama coach.

Those selected to play permanent roles throughout the series dealing with the adventures of Russian guerrilla fighters include Lois Phillips in the part of Tamara, a girl guerrilla, and Leonard Steinbock as Mischa, a leader of the outlaw bands. Dale Golluhur will play the role of Boris, Tamara's brother and a member of the red army. The American technician will be played by Leroy Long. Barbara Hathaway will appear as a woman blacksmith; Lenore Meyers will play Tanya, a friend of Boris and Tamara. Helen Newland Jones will portray the part of the mother of Boris and Tamara in the series.

CE Begins New Series

The Christian Endeavor group of the First Christian church at High and Center streets will take part in the first discussion of a series dealing with the general topic, "Christianity—Its Modern Challenge." Guest speaker for the evening will be Mr. C. O. Goodman, pastor of the United Brethren church, who will speak on Judaism as a necessary background for Christianity. Margaret Ewing will lead the discussion.

Following the regular program the group will take charge of the evening church service celebrating the 62nd anniversary of Christian Endeavor. Delvon Long and David Teeter, Willamette students, will take part.

Boydston Accepts Teaching Position

Betty Boydston, graduate student, has accepted a position at the Sweet Home high school where she will teach English and the social sciences.

Miss Boydston was graduated from the Dallas high school, and attended Willamette, majoring in English and minoring in French. She received her bachelor of arts degree last spring with the class of '42.

First Aid Class Open

Among the new courses this semester will be a class for beginners in Red Cross first aid, starting February 15. Prof. Lestle J. Sparks will instruct the class which will meet for two hours at 7 o'clock every Monday night for 10 weeks. One semester hour of credit will be given students enrolled in the class, and they will receive a Red Cross card at completion of the course.

Fifteen students are required before the class can be given, Sparks said yesterday. Willamette students interested in the course may enroll by filling out an add-a-course card in the registrar's office.

Prof's Article Tells of Work

The January 22 Science magazine contains an article written by Willamette's assistant professor of biology, Dr. Robert H. Tschudy, and Marston C. Sargent on agar-bearing seaweeds at La Jolla, California. The article brings to the scientific public the results of research work done this summer at Scripps Institution of Oceanography of the University of California, La Jolla.

In summarizing their findings, Tschudy and Sargent say, "The most important information obtained is that out of five species of red algae not previously considered agariferous, harvestable in moderate quantity at La Jolla without special equipment, four readily yielded agar, in quantity and quality equal to that obtained from red algae at present commercially exploited."

Class Collects Sea Urchins to Study

The sea urchins used in the study of early embryonic development in biology labs this week were secured Sunday at Boiler Bay, near Depoe Bay, by Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Tschudy, Barbara Viesko, Dorothy Tate and Hume Downs.

Dr. Tschudy hinted that a biology class trip to the coast may develop this spring if enough cars are available.

Coeds Ready Intercollegiate Archery Meet Participants

The sophomore women's gym classes are now participating and practicing for a winter intercollegiate archery meet designed to provide opportunity for competition between those schools which have indoor ranges or outdoor climates suitable for winter shooting.

The meet will be held during the weeks beginning February 8, 15, and 22.

Several classes of shooting are provided in the regulations, which Miss Currey received recently, allowing an adjustment in competition to meet limitations in available time, space, or number of archers.

The Willamette women will be entered in class C, specifying sixty arrows at twenty yards with two-foot regulation targets.

The meet will last for a three-week period and one score will be sent in at the end of each week.

The teams will be composed of four members and each team will shoot once a week for a period of three weeks. The winner of the meet will be the team shooting the highest cumulative score for the three weeks.

Any number of archers may shoot each week in each school, making it possible to select a new team each week, which will give more women a chance to participate. With the four highest scores being selected to make up the team each week frequent changes will be made in the team's personnel.

Reporter Finds New Prof 'Regular Guy'

By Myra Madsen

Bennet Ragan Ludden, new instructor of piano, arrived on the campus yesterday amid many whispered rumors and varied guesses as to what he would be like, but except for his long, sensitive hands he in no way resembles the proverbial long-haired pianist. The very young Ludden looked more like a student in his blue tweed suit and with his blue-gray eyes laughing at himself at being interviewed and at recollections of his past. His conversation was studded with down-to-earth American slang despite his two years of training in Europe.

Ludden went to Hungary in 1938 to study at the Royal Hungarian Franz Liszt Academy of Music, the name of which he termed a "wow." While there he studied under Zoltan Kodaly, one of the foremost men in the world of music today.

Returned Through Finland

Before he left Europe, Ludden worked for six months with the American Counselor service in Stuttgart, Germany. Part of this time he was in the office of representation of British and French interests. The remainder of the time he worked in the immigration section. This particular office was the largest immigration center for Jewish refugees from Germany.

His return to the United States in 1940 was by way of Petsamo, Finland, and he traveled on what he called the "much tooted" American Legion, a refugee ship used for rescuing American citizens stranded in Europe.

In regard to the political situation in Europe, Ludden said that he was not at all informed on the subject since the Americans in Europe kept to themselves, and also because he had no knowledge of politics upon which to base any statement he might make.

Agrees With Taylor

Ludden is definitely in agreement with the statement of Deems Taylor, music critic, that not all great musicians must, of necessity, be either born or trained in Europe. He says that American schools are entirely adequate for training young people for musical careers, and that they are becoming more and more advanced. However, he states that the reputedly adequate American schools of music 50 years ago were "lousy" and that the sketchiness of their training was amazing. Thus, he believes, has the idea come about that European training is vital to a career of music. Present day standards in music education have made this no longer true, although the musically uneducated person in Europe has more respect for the art of music than does the same type of person in this country.

Since his return from Europe two and a half years ago, Ludden has had what he termed a "speckled" career. He worked six months at Lockheed Aircraft company, and then returned to school to receive his master's degree in 1941. Later, the youthful musician admitted in embarrassment, he worked as a floor-walker for Marshall-Field and company in Chicago.

Ludden received his bachelor of arts degree in 1937 from DePauw university. The following year he earned his bachelor of music, and in 1941 after his return from Europe, he was granted his master of arts. His undergraduate major was piano, and his graduate major was musicology.

Ludden was born in Salem and spent the first ten years of his life here. His mother attended Willamette for a short time. He said that although it has been 18 years since he left, and that he has seen but little of the city as yet, he already feels glad to be back. He spoke of the setting of the campus with the park and state house so near, and also said that the country was even prettier than he had remembered it. He seemed very much interested in campus affairs and in the history of the university, asking many questions about the school.

Without doubt this dynamic young man will become an integral part of campus life with no difficulty because he is charming, and talented but still a "regular guy."

'Guide' Needs Corrections

Are you one of the students who has telephoned a faculty member only to be told by the one who answered that you had the wrong number?

Since the Fussers' Guide was published last fall, several of the faculty have moved to other residences than those listed in the Guide, and numerous and continued complaints have been made that students are calling the phone numbers now incorrect since the faculty members have moved.

Such calls, often made after 10 p. m., are naturally disturbing to townspeople. Therefore, it is urgently requested that all students make the following corrections in their Fussers' Guides. This will not only save townspeople inconvenience but will be helpful to those who want to contact faculty members by telephone.

Campus Museum Hours Changed

The hours during which the Willamette museum will be open this semester will be Wednesday 1-4 p. m. and Thursday 9:30-11:30 a. m., Prof. W. Herman Clark, museum curator, announced today.

Use of the museum, located on the second floor of Waller hall, is thus made possible two days a week instead of one as was the case last semester. Either Clark or his assistant, Alice Jones, will be on hand to direct interested students through the outstanding historic displays.

Collegian Accidentally Grays Grad's Beard

A letter this week from Ken McCormick, '28, good-naturedly called attention to a typographical error in a recent Collegian article about him with the comment, "Thanks a lot, but next time please don't light heartedly clip 22 years off my life. I graduated in 1928 and haven't developed the gray beard that would be appropriate if I had graduated in 1906."

The article dealt with McCormick's success in the publishing world. With all due apology, we hasten to place McCormick back in his own generation.

Senior Test Schedule Set

April 1 will mark the beginning of senior comprehensive examinations, according to the schedule prepared this week by the heads of the literature, language, social science, and natural science departments.

Seniors in the last semester in the social science, literature and language departments must take one written and one oral examination in their major field. Natural science students are required to take only an oral examination.

Written comprehensives in the literature and language departments will be given April 6, the Tuesday following spring vacation, as has been done in previous years.

Oral examinations are distributed over a period of approximately two months, beginning in the natural science department sometime after April 1 and in the liberal arts department after written comprehensives. Students are allowed a choice of the time when they wish to take the oral examination, according to Dean Chester F. Luther.

The library will be reserved April 6 for the use of the students taking written comprehensives.

The date of the examination is somewhat earlier than usual this year because the term is ending earlier.

Lausanne Upsets Fruit Basket As Coeds Move to New Rooms

By Nadene Mathews

"Fruit basket upset!" Lausanne coeds reverted to childhood between semesters to play this little favorite of grade school days. More furor and fuss went on while rooms and roommates underwent changes of inhabitants and habitats. Two rooms divested themselves completely of occupants, and nine women are living alone and looking it. (No roommate to trade clothes with and to tell you if your—is—ing.

Changing rooms presents all sorts of problems which present all sorts of solutions. For instance, how do you make furnishings for a green room look good in a blue room, except by shutting your eyes or turning out the light? And how do you cram furniture for a $40 emporium into a $20 cottage? This was neatly solved by two who parked their beds smack in front of the door so that they merely have to do a handspring over them to land neatly in their desk chair.

And then there's the couple who moved into the stamp vendor's former room and awake from a peaceful study to find a fistful of grimy pennies under their noses and hear the demand, "I wanna couple o' thræes!"

It's great sport, too, to bound into your cohort's room demanding "Dadja get any perishables

Yearbook Assembling Begins As Pictures Near Completion

With band and living groups pictures out of the way, and the faculty-class section at the printers, the actual assembling of the 1943 Wallulah is now under way.

Monday's picture schedule calls for pictures of the class presidents and the inter-fraternity council at chapel time, pictures of the a cappella choir at four p. m. and pictures of the Wallulah staff at a special staff meeting at 7 p. m. in the Wallulah office.

One-Semester Students May Get Wallulah

Freshmen and transfer students entering school this semester who pay for the second semester student body ticket may obtain a 1943 Wallulah this spring upon payment of $2 to Graduate Manager Lestle J. Sparks. Publications Manager Ralph Schlesinger said yesterday.

Since $2 from the student body fee for each semester is allocated to the Wallulah fund, holders of the two semesters' tickets are immediately entitled to a copy of the publication. Students who pay the fee for only one semester, however, must pay the additional $2 if they wish a Wallulah, Schlesinger added.

Those students who have to leave school during the second semester may make arrangements with Sparks to have a copy reserved for them and mailed to them. Many students who left at mid-term paid the extra fee in order to have a copy of the 1943 Wallulah reserved for them.

'Cat Cavern Trade 'Brisk'

Brisk business followed the re-opening of the Bearcat Cavern Monday under the new management of Hollis Huston and James Oliver, who expressed delight at the assistance given in preparing for use of the Cavern this semester. They commented that the room was at times almost too crowded with helpers during last week's remodeling period.

One panel remains to be placed upon the wall of the student union, with credit for the art work going to Dave Foster, hard-working protege of Constance Fowler, art instructor.

Editor Nadene Mathews will be in Portland today and tomorrow completing final arrangements for the lithographed cover, starting the assembling of the activities section and purchasing photographic supplies. In her absence Jean Fries and Margaret Pemberton will be in charge, finishing last minute work on the class-faculty section, with the aid of staff assistants Teddy Nelson, Sybil Spears, Ruth Farmer and Betty Adkins.

Sports Photos Slated

Stepping into the vacancy left by Al Barrett, who enlisted in the navy, Ted Ogdahl and Merle Palmer set to work immediately this week to complete work on the men's sports section, scheduling intramural basketball pictures this week and varsity basketball next week.

Although they did not realize at the time that they were important in the production of the Wallulah, several of the profs have contributed to its publication. Editor Mathews said this week. Prof. W. Herman Clark and Prof. E. T. Brown of the science department both loaned their paper cutters for the staff to use in trimming class pictures. Brown aided in setting up arrangements for the physics lab shot and for one of the division page pictures.

Profs Help

Dr. C. R. Monk and Prof. Lestle J. Sparks are both contributing pictures which will be used in the book. Prof. Lewis Pankaskie and Dean Melvin H. Geist of the music school are playing a large part in the success of the music department pictures by their work in getting band and choir members to turn out and by their suggestions for a different type of picture for these pages. Miss Mathews pointed out.

YW Panels War Work

An informal panel discussion on the subject of the contributions college women can make in the war effort through choice of wartime industries as summer employment and through active participation as a member of the armed forces will be the principal feature of the regular YW meeting at 7 p. m. Monday in the parlors of Lausanne hall.

Members of the forum who will present material based upon official publication issued by the office of war information will be Margaret Hoover, Opal Scheuerman, Barbara Hathaway, Betty Helsby and Catharine Thomas.

Four Finish Requirements

Four members of the senior class have completed requirements for their bachelor of arts degree at mid-term. The new graduates are Elvy Fredrickson, Jean Moore Williams, Margaret Siegmund and Charlotte Ellingsworth.

Miss Fredrickson, senior scholar in math first semester, has a position with the Boeing plant in Seattle, as interpreter of statistical data. She plans to return next year for her graduate work.

Mrs. Williams is now with her husband in Seattle. She has made an application for part time teaching.
