

Glee Plans Progressing; Songs Due January 20

Plans for the 37th annual Freshman Glee, scheduled for January 27, are well under way thanks to the persistent hustling of many class and general committee members. Manager Jack Stein purrs. Meanwhile fiendish freak bets intensify the competitive spirit.

Background for the contest stage will be a large yearbook containing four pages, one for each class. As each group begins its formation, its special page will be opened. For the seniors, a gowned graduate will provide the backdrop. The juniors will be greeted by a student considering the various fields of learning in search of a major. Sophomores will be studying, while the Freshmen shake a leg to a juke box tune.

Programs bearing out the "Alma Mater" theme with a decorative design of the pipe-adorned chapel are already printed. Chairs, carpeting, construction work, and all the countless details which make for a finished program are being arranged. Stein assures us.

Spurred on by jibes and outlandish bets—Kenny Gilpin will wash Frederickson annex windows in his basketball toga if the freshmen win Glee. The classes are slaving to choose their songs and begin rehearsals.

The sophomores are beginning practice on their entry composed by Betty Lou Sinkola and Alice Rose. Rewording and arranging their song chosen yesterday, the freshmen plan intensive rehearsals next week.

Juniors and seniors are also in the final stages of composition, wording and formation plans.

Contestants are reminded that words and music must be handed in to Dr. R. E. Lantz' office not later than next Saturday, January 20. Three non-carbon copies of each must be provided. The music in vocal form must be written in India ink on 9 1/2" by 12 1/2" paper. The typewritten words must be centered on 8 1/2" by 11" bond paper.

Dr. Rahe's Thespians In Chapel 11:40 Today

The first of two efforts by student DeMilles to be presented for student body consumption is on the bill for today's chapel show at 11:40. Cecil-ing the one-act play, "Whodunit" will be Alice Rose. Other members of Dr. Herbert E. Rahe's play direction class competing in the one-act play contest are Nevitt Smith, Elaine Cloudy and Mrs. Elinor Smith.

Members of the cast of today's play are Mary Ann Brady, Georgia Leupold, Betty Sinkola, Leslie Roberts, Jim Minturn, Marjorie Beadles and Day Morgan.

Soph Honorary to Organize At Initial Meeting Next Week

The first meeting of the newly organized sophomore women's honorary is to be held next week if plans for Freshmen Glee permit the extra time. Officers of the group selected by a student body vote in chapel Tuesday will be elected under the direction of a Cap and Gown member who will supervise the proceedings of the first meeting.

The ten girls chosen are Mary East, Lorah Kate Griffith, Nancy Merki, Pat Mansfield, Pat Otis, Dorothy Robinson, Evelyn Deal, Evelyn Chapman, Betty Sinkola and Phyllis Nelson.

Plans for the organization of the honorary were made last summer at the same time as those for Sigma Alpha Chi. The student council, the faculty and cap and gown each nominated 15 sophomore women with a minimum GPA of 2.5 on the

Chapel Bills For Coming Week Listed

Chapel programs for the coming week have been announced by university offices.

Another in the series of freshman chapels will be held Monday at 11:40 in Waller with Dr. Helen Pearce of the English department speaking on extra-curricular reading. Dean Olive M. Dahl will preside.

Ralph Dobbs of the music department will appear in Tuesday's chapel in a short piano recital. Dean Melvin H. Geist of the College of Music announces. A former Willamette student, Rev. E. J. Aschenbrenner, who is now pastor of the First Methodist church of Grants Pass will conduct the regular Wednesday religious service.

Another of the educational movies obtained through the navy office will be shown during the Thursday hour.

Definite announcement of next Friday's student chapel show could not be made by Jerry Wolfsehr, chairman, yesterday.

basis of leadership, character and service. Only 28 girls were selected due to the overlapping of names.

The purposes of the honorary are three-fold. It is to act as an incentive for freshmen women, a reward for the efforts of the sophomore women, and as a service organization. The group will assist in the annual frosh orientation program.

Bi-Annual Trek to Statehouse Begins as Legislature Opens

The 43rd state legislature session is well under way at this date, once more giving Willamette students the opportunity to watch the workings of Oregon government. The present session marks the first year the legislature has been in session since the navymen have been at Willamette.

Several former Willamette students are serving in the legislature. Those serving in the senate include John Carson, class of '15, Frederick Lamport, '14, William F. Walsh, '27, George P. Winslow, '13. Willamette claims Representatives W. W. Baldersee, '33, Paul Hendricks, '20, John Steelhammer, '36, and Frank J. VanDyke, '31.

Officers were elected Sunday night when the members met in caucus. Senator Howard Belton of Canby, serving his fourth term in the upper house, was elected president of the senate. His election was in contrast to the long drawn-out contest for

'March of Dimes' Begins Monday

As a tribute to one of their members who succumbed to infantile paralysis early in July, the women of Delta Phi sorority have requested the privilege of organizing a March of Dimes drive on the Willamette campus. Goal of the drive, which starts Monday and will continue through January 31, is a mile of dimes—$4,448.

Preliminary plans for such a drive outlined by Prexy Rich Wicks have been turned over to the petitioning group and have been included in the present program of the campus drive. In addition to a campus booth, a sim-

Tickets will go on sale for students Monday in the Student body office with an ASB ticket plus tax required for admission. Non-ticket holders will be charged the general admission price of 65 cents. Tickets for the general public will be on sale Monday and Wednesday noons and Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at Needham's Book store.

Heading the cast of the famous Thurber and Nugent comedy are Charles Strong who portrays the role of Tommy Turner, a peace-loving college professor who suddenly finds his life disrupted by a host of complications, and Pat Otis in the part of Turner's wife Ellen. Both have had previous experience, appearing together in last spring's production of "Ladies in Retirement."

Other cast members are Stan Boyd, a college intellectual; Frances DeLaney, a befuddled colored maid; Jane Mathers, Ellen's college-age sister; Jim Conway, a football star; Dean Smith, Dean Frederick Damon; Virginia Hobbs, Mrs. Damon; Matt Gruber, an outspoken member of the board of trustees; Joyce Feiden, his wife; Nevitt Smith, leader of the college band; Lawrence Fricke, a newspaper reporter. Working with Carola Hays, drama manager, and Virginia Muhle, stage manager, are Glen Widdows, stage crew; Alice Rose, make-up; Corinne Engdahl, Terry Stewart, costumes; Beverly Cox, small properties; Eileen Lytle, Lois Messing, furniture; Betsy Holman, Edith Irvine, sound effects; Ruth Wahlgren, publicity.

Men contestants spoke on the topic, "Future National Defense." Other speakers were Lester Scott of Pacific university, Donald Johnson of Pacific college and Mark Andrews of Linfield.

Wicks has been active in the forensics department since his freshman year. He is a member of the senior debate team and was last year forensics manager. He is a member of Tau Kappa Alpha, national speech honorary.

Joyce Feiden entered the women's division from Willamette.

Topic in the women's division was "Riots of Color." Other contestants were Norma Bates of Pacific university, Mrs. Thelma Winter of Pacific college, and Lee Larch of Oregon State college.

Wicks Wins State Extemp Contest Here

Rich Wicks, ASWU prexy won first place in the state extemporaneous speaking contest on the campus yesterday. Second place was won by Don Dimick of Oregon State college. Taking top honors in the women's division was Alice Hartter of the University of Oregon, while Margaret Marks of Linfield college placed second.

Wicks has been active in the forensics department since his freshman year. He is a member of the senior debate team and was last year forensics manager. He is a member of Tau Kappa Alpha, national speech honorary.

Four Concerts Now Included In Wu Series

HOLDERS of season tickets for the university-sponsored campus concert series today found themselves entitled to attendance at four rather than the previously announced three programs with the announcement by Dean Melvin H. Geist of the College of Music that Georgia Graves, contralto, and Avron Twerdowsky, cellist, scheduled to appear in joint recital would be presented on separate programs. First to appear will be Miss Graves who will arrive on the campus Tuesday for her concert at 8:15 that evening in Waller hall.

Admission for non-ticket holders to this, the third in the concert series, will be 60 cents for students and $1 for townspeople. Tickets will be available at the door.

Hailed by the New York Times as "that rarest of voices, a true contralto," Miss Graves comes to the campus with a wide background of concert experience. American performances include solo work in oratorio, opera and concert throughout the country. Five years were spent as a regular member of the National Broadcasting company staff during which time she sang in more than 1000 programs. Outstanding performance on the continent was her appearance before the great Finnish composer, Sibelius.

Twerdowsky, who is termed one of the most prominent of America's young cellists, is tentatively set to play on February 10.

Capt. Sears Inspects WU Naval Unit

Capt. A. W. Sears, director of training for the 13th naval district, and his aide, Lt. G. M. Turner, inspected the naval unit yesterday and are in Portland today examining the naval contingent at the University of Oregon Medical school. As well as extensive tours over quarters and facilities, the officers held conferences with university officials.

Purpose of the inspection was to evaluate the state of the unit, its progress, and its needs for improvement. Lt. Marshall Woodell explained.

Considerable elbow grease was applied upon windows and floors by the V-12's to make the USS Lausanne ship-shape for the scrutiny of Captain Sears.

PUBLICATIONS MANAGER _____ JAN PATTERSON

Introducing - -

Under three chairs, ten plans for programs, a three-foot list of committee members, and a furrowed brow, we behold our boomer of the week, Freshman Glee Manager Jack Stein. Catching his breath between decorations meeting, tramping the streets in search of carpets and—oh, yes—cramming for exams, Jack has just time enough to gasp, "I never felt better in my life," before he collapses. Now all Jack needs is to get over that disgustingly energetic yell-leader voice of his, get a mike to lean on and the world will beat a pathway to his door.

"Oh, Glee plans are coming along beautifully," breathes the human dynamo. Of course, a few minor details like 300 chairs, a couple 100 yards of carpeting, sheaves of printing and hospitalization facilities on Sunday, January 28, for 750 participants have not, as yet, been arranged, but on the whole . . . Seriously though, Jack's untiring efforts promise a smooth-running, impressive program.

Back to the subject, namely: Where did you get those eyes—no! no! Tell us, good sir, are you an Oregonian? When the static cleared away, we gathered that perhaps Jack was not—shall we say—overly exuberant about the "land of the golden sunshine." The manager hails from the teeming metropolis of Albany, Calif. All we could gather from Jack's glowing description was that dear, dear, DEAR (no, not you) Albany has one main street appropriately bordered with eight or ten bars.

Jack's interest, hobbies, extracurricular activities, studies, occupation, and goal in life may be expressed in one word, "Margarie." True, he has torn himself away long enough to shake a few yells from Bearcat throats. (He got those mighty lungs from screaming at his playmates—also as yell leader in high school.) He has also served on the Homecoming committee and "as a general nuisance."

As soon as Uncle Sam releases him, Jack plans to turn from yelling at people to slicing them up—as a physician-surgeon.

Of course, in his capacity as Glee manager, Jack's mind is completely blank on the question of who's going to win the pennant. Therefore, acting upon absolutely impartial principle, Jack has broken six junior arms, cut several senior throats, and struck his ex-manager roommate Royal Hart deaf with his screams of "48." Incidentally, if (heaven forbid) the sophomores should win Glee, Jack will be found outside of the Capitol Cleaners shouting "Press while you wait."

Is Love Necessary?

The problem of just how to discuss the necessity of love, has definitely left your humble observer of "nature in the raw" at a loss concerning the best method of approach. However, after due contemplation, and serious scientific evaluation of theorems and hypotheses, it seems only proper to take the natural course—that of placing both female and male together in the same amphitheatre for a most engrossing study. Thus, before the very eyes of science is manifested the greatest psychological dilemma of all time—that exalting emotion called love.

To love is an active verb, and can be defined simply in a few words as a feeling that you feel when you feel that you're going to feel a feeling that you've never felt before. Through the years, collected reports from observers of this strange state of etheral unconsciousness have lead us to conclude that love may be found anywhere—even in Idaho. Although in Idaho as in Africa, love is harder to distinguish because of existing primitive conditions.

People the world over think differently on love. For example, the dietician considers love to be a biological idiosyncrasy caused by improper diet, thus overactivating glands, etc. However, those persons of a less professional nature herald love merely as a call to arms which may or may not result in hostilities.

History proves that love is here to stay. However, through the ages, tactics have been modified so that crude, primitive WOO has largely given way to the methods of the modern intellect. Whereas in early times, brute strength was all a man needed, he now needs a powerful vocabulary as well. And thus arises the modern theory—"If you can't catch it, throw it a line."

More important, however, than the nature of love, is the state of love—which ordinarily exists either as half-conscious, subconscious, or unconscious, but never as a normal active mentality. Everybody at one time or another gets the call.

Love as an affliction can be easily detected by many common symptoms, a few of which are: dancing with closed eyes, forgetting whether you use mustard or cat-sup in your coffee, girls being ready for dates on time, forgetting whether today's train leaves tomorrow or yesterday and attempting to shave with Pepsodent.

Thus, since history began, females and males have been under psychological oppression and frustration because of love—but, whether love for you results in servitude, bliss, or psycho-neurosis, always remember:

If you've got yourself a kewpie doll,

With curls upon her brow,

Or maybe a tall handsome bean,

With wavy hair—and how!

Don't hesitate, my cherubs, please.

Love 'em now—every eve.

For when age someday comes to thee,

Your fortune is a family tree.

Adrift in Marble Halls

Do you have a habit of standing with your mouth agap . . . like a drink of water at the wrong time . . . have a craving for running a self-operating elevator . . . haven't got a temperature have you? You have? Well, what do you know!

Then in reference to the aforementioned drives, or are they related to the emotional pattern? . . . well, at any rate herewith is related the newest experience of your three humble mor . . . reporters.

Having heard through various underground channels that the Oregon state legislature was scheduled to convene this week, we decided to go across the street and take a peek.

We surmised someone was following us, so we decided to enter at the most strategic moment, and we did too. Who was following us? . . . the illustrious head of the sociology department of our alma mater, that's who. Well, anthropology's no snap you know.

Two minutes later came the thrilling moment. We were standing on the threshold of the senate chamber—but how to get in. Our eyes fell on the key hole. After emerging from the close quarters, we paused for a brief breath and in that moment formed our first opinion of the state senate . . . Nice rooms over there!

Glancing about the spacious room we saw the founder of the Burke Wine Bill; hm, any you fellas want an introduction? Then we met the president. After recovering from the shock of actually shaking the hand of a president, we quickly inquired as to the possibilities of revolutionizing the page system, but were quite deflated to find that you have to be literate. Gee, you can't do nuttin' these days without an education!

Is it an idle rumor or is it a fact that there is a cigarette shortage? The theme song of the legislature might well be "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes." Some of you who are hard hit for cigs might try standing outside the senate chambers. Or don't you inhale?

And, on those elevators, the self-operating ones. It's so much fun going up and down, up and down, especially when you don't come down and don't go up, course it makes a difference who you're with.

But so goes a passing glimpse in the inner life of the tax-planners . . . there is only one thing which puzzles us . . . whether the pine trees or fish are the more good-looking . . . meaning the rugs of course.

Your three roving correspondents,
HOAK, OTIS and STUART

For There Are . . . Girls, Girls, Girls

The big question in each of the men's minds at present, is whether the Inter-Dorm Formal will feature all the attractions that the Panhellenic Formal produced. As examples—girls, glaring spotlights—girls, "shady" balcony, and—girls.

All manner of themes have been thought about and mulled over until we'll probably end up with "A Broad in the Daylight."

The next item to be covered will be a space, area, or plantation upon which the dance may be suitably presented, and large enough to retain all those pairs of size 12 shoes. (G.I.'s.)

Then comes the Sadie Hawkins angle. The women are wondering if Abija will be too short, whether Leukemia (Luke to the working class) will be too young, or too old and sophisticated, or whether handsome Ptolemy LeRoy Jones, jr., is a jerk and won't talk because he lost his vocal chords in the change of adolescence.

But then, Lil' Abner had his view-point, too. Which of the Scraggs will be dumb enough to ask him? How about Fanny Mae—there's a lot to that woman, but the trouble is that it's all in one place. Then there's Bubbles—she's the type of woman that would wear a sleeveless, strapless, backless evening gown, and then go right in the house at 12 o'clock.

And why eliminate Daisy June? She is the type of gal who smokes (your cigarettes and drinks, (not a bar in town), chews, (coal tar, that black stuff they put on roads. It does the work of Pepsodent without the danger of Irium), and a few other minor details. So, you've finally accepted, not only because you couldn't think of a refusal fast enough, but you have decided that she's a nice person at that.

Now comes the question? Wherefore art thou, locomotion? A person needs something besides a popo stick on nights like these last few have been. You ask your roomie for space in his heap, but there are already four couples in the Model T Ford coupe, now, and the only available space is the windshield wiper.

Finally, you persuade your woman to drag out the family chariot, which doesn't turn out half bad due to some of the amazing modern conveniences, such as a built-in crystal set, and a portable wood-burning stove.

Delving into a serious train of thought, if the Inter-Dorm Formal, in any way approaches the Panhellenic of a week ago, it will be a huge success. See ya' there!

We Have Been Hurt . . .

It is indeed a sad commentary upon the human personality that indifference to suffering is replaced by appreciation of its agonies only when that suffering is experienced. The freaks of nature are remote until earthquake, flood or fire encompasses our own little city block. The disasters of the social world are ignored until a telegram from the war department proclaims them only too real. "Give until it hurts" might well be restated "Don't give . . . until it hurts."

The spectre of polio was remote, not vivid enough to prompt us to take part in an effort to prevent its tragedies and to alleviate the pain of its victims. But we have been hurt. The sudden viciousness of the disease cannot now be forgotten or ignored by those who knew the shocking impact of the realization that a loved and respected fellow student and friend has been cheated of the privilege of fulfilling the ideals which were hers by the ruthlessness of polio. We have been hurt. We shall now give until it hurts.

A Stage Manager's Life . . . or, We Ain't Got Nuttin

The play must go on and it certainly does, but boy, is the choice of dramas limited around this Stagedoor Chapel when you've got to pick a play that requires only a davenport for property—since that is the only hunk of stage setting Willamette owns—obviously! "Two on a Sofa," "Hit the Deck" or "After the Lights Went Out" isn't much variety, you've got to admit, and I wanted to produce "Night Life of the Gods." Oh well, I'll just change it to "The Weekend of a V-12" and use the standard stage arrangement! Ooooooh, what I said! Of course, I am not kidding and nothing is as easy as all this besides.

Sooo—on with the show and the well-known backdrop and what have you got—a beautiful bird in a gilded cage and a Willamette audience feeling maddeningly at home! At least you're one jump ahead of the crowd—they get the bird before they can give it to the actors!

Here's the flashback—dress rehearsal—and when you haven't got properties like we haven't got properties, it's more fun than the opening performance, believe me! We also ain't got no light plug, no flashlight, no matches, no script, no love, no nothing (oh, oh, wrong column) and what's worse, no actors! So sorry, says Prof. Rahe, no play practice! The stage manager, being the typical manic-depressive and hardened like arteriosclerosis to such happenings by this time, takes out an ice pick, punctures the jugular of the nearest jerk and bashes her brains out against the beams. No brains. Also no sound effects, someone having used all the records in a previous play to make the sound effect of a stack of records breaking into a billion bits.

Which brings us to "The Male Animal" and a scene backstage. "Oh, I ate the salads, I got so hungry." No one will know how hungry he got, 'cause he also got shot, all shot. "Where's my shot? I ain't got no white shot! Howja expect me to look like a football player widout no white shot?"

After the prompters have learned their parts, and the prompters' prompters have been taught to read the script, it's opening night and the stage hands and managers are backstage playing tiddliewinks and jackstraws while the audience howls at the confusion on the stage and subsequently proclaims the play a huge, rollicking success!

Sophs Dance, Practice Tonight

Dancing in Bearcat Cavern Follows Waller Hall Practice

Sophomores will combine work with play tomorrow night when they hold their Practice Party in preparation for Freshman Glee. Members of the class will meet at 7:00 in Waller Hall for an enthusiastic and profitable singing and marching practice and after the evening's workout they will adjourn to the Bearcat Cavern for dancing, entertainment and refreshments.

All sophomores who intend to participate in Glee should be present tomorrow night according to Royal Hart, sophomore president. The practice session is an important one and entertainment, relaxation and refreshments are promised afterward in the Cavern.

Campus Red Cross Begins Two Courses

First Willamette coeds to receive training in specialized Red Cross activities under the auspices of the newly chartered campus unit will begin courses soon. Study in both the Red Cross home service setup and the nurses aid program are scheduled with the former study group getting underway on Tuesday.

The home service course is tentatively scheduled to meet in 213 Collins under the direction of Mrs. Bynon, Red Cross director in Marion county. Hours for the session will be from 7 to 9 p.m. each Tuesday with a total of 18 hours necessary for completion of the course. Interested enrollees may sign up with Jan Patterson or Phyllis Ryan.

No necessary qualifications are listed for enrollment in the course which will acquaint the students with the office procedure and organization of Red Cross work. Regular attendance is thus necessary.

It is suggested that juniors and seniors in either sociology or psychology will find the course an excellent experience for the type of work they may enter. Positions open are in clerical personnel, filing clerks, receptionists, typists, shorthand, war fund office and public health office.

Likewise, no qualifications are necessary for enrollment in the nurses aid course. Classes meet Tuesday and Thursday from 7:30 to 10 p.m. and last a month. The coed then is assigned to work in a hospital and puts in 150 hours over any period of time. After completing 150 hours of work she is then considered a full fledged nurses aide and receives her cap.

Anyone interested in the training may arrange to enroll in the classes by contacting Dorothy Kenny or Elizabeth McGee.

New System Delays Screening Results

A change in the screening system for V-12 second semester students has caused a delay in the completion of classifications. Lt. Marshall E. Woodell announced this week. Until the new system has been put into effect, recommendations cannot pass the proper authorities. Meanwhile, 46 gobs who took part in the interviews quietly chew their fingernails.

New USDA Head Describes Coming Broadcasts by Staff

Among his first statements upon his appointment as officer in charge of the USDA laboratory in Collins hall on the Willamette campus, W. Emery Hobbs announced that the women inspectors, Ursula Smith, Ruthmary Schrepel and Elizabeth Adams are to take part in a series of radio programs over the local station KSLM beginning the latter part of this month or early in February.

The staff members will use script prepared by the USDA covering the inspection work of the department, particularly the part the women inspectors play in such work. The series will be in the nature of short before or after-breakfast talks on "food education." The USDA is undertaking the presentation of such programs over the entire nation. The time of day, the date, and the frequency of such programs over the local station have not yet been determined. When the facts are available Willamette students will be informed through the Collegian.

Hobbs, before he joined the staff of the Salem laboratory several weeks ago, was a member of the department's laboratory at San Jose, Calif. Hobbs, a native of Salem, has returned after four year's absence. During that time, he was employed by the USDA at several of its laboratories in the west. Hobbs is a member of the graduating class of '38 of the University of Oregon. There he majored in business administration.

Oregon Geology Lecture Subject

The geological period during which the northwestern part of Oregon was under the sea will be the subject of Dr. Earl L. Packard's lecture at the regular monthly meeting of the Salem Geological society this Thursday. The meeting will be held in the Collins hall lecture auditorium and is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. with all students invited.

"A Glimpse of Oregon in Cretaeous Times" will be the featured topic. Packard, who is head of the geology department at Oregon State college and chairman of the graduate division of the Oregon state system of higher education will illustrate his lecture with lantern slides.

Prof. W. Herman Clark, an active member of the society urges everyone interested in geology to attend as the meeting is open to the general public.

Four Tunes All Tied Up in 'Cal Tune Race

Indecision marked the trend in Cavern tune choices this week with four songs nickeling their way to a four-way tie. Sharing the top honors are "There Goes That Song Again," "Honeysuckle Rose," "Don't Fence Me In" and "Accent-telu-ate the Positive." Taking the second spot was "I Dream of You."

Four Frosh Enter Service; Jory Becomes Acting Prexy

Today is the last on the campus for the duration for George Frum who becomes the third member of the class of '48 to answer greetings from the President of the United States this for this term. Bob Busick, frosh prexy, relinquished his duties to Evelyn Jory, earlier this month at the request of Uncle Sam.

Rabbi (Irving) Hausman

Rabbi Irving Hausman WU Chapel Guest

In a powerful address to the Willamette student body Tuesday, entitled "The Meaning of Good Will," Irving Hausman, Rabbi of Temple Beth Israel in Portland urged the cooperation of Judaism and Christianity in spreading the philosophy of life necessary to insure lasting peace.

"We must educate and emancipate the slavery of men's minds, eliminate the anti-democratic tendencies in the US, fight the tyranny that exists even in the countries of our Allies, Great Britain and the Soviet Union," stated Rabbi Hausman.

Merely removal of the dictatorial powers will not solve all of the problems of the postwar world, intimated the rabbi when he continued. "The tyrant is eliminated, but the slave remains."

He further stated, in effect, that we have to reconvert a godless world steeped in the belief that "Judaism and Christianity are weaknesses of spiritual neuroasthenia."

"The church is the only qualified institution to teach the heroism of peace," he concluded.

Frum leaves for San Francisco Tuesday for training in the US merchant marine cadet corps. San Mateo, Calif., is the next stop for his training on land which precedes two years of training at sea before he becomes an officer in the merchant marine.

Busick left for the army air corps after being called from the reserves. He was sent to Fort Lewis and will be stationed in Mississippi for training. Miss Jory, who assumes his duties was previously class vice president.

Dick Hill will become the fourth member of the class of '48 to leave the campus at the request of Uncle Sam when he responds to the call of his local draft board January 30. He will report to Fort Lewis where he will be assigned to be a basic training center.

First to leave of the group was Wayne Kunze who had nearly a week of school before entering the service last November. He is training for the army air corps in Mississippi.

'11 Pints a Week' Is Blood Bank Resolve

A plea to start the new year off right with a full quota of university blood donors was issued today by Betty Randall, blood bank chairman. Procedure for the contribution of the requested "pint" remains the same with arrangements with Miss Randall for an appointment at the First Methodist church blood center all that is necessary for inclusion in the Willamette weekly quota of 11.

Cards for obtaining the parent's consent of would-be donors under 21 may also be obtained from Miss Randall who may be contacted at the Delta Phi sorority house.

Miss Schrepel and Miss Smith are spending this week in Eugene inspecting canned carrots at the Eugene Fruit Growers' plant.

Raymond O. Henry, dehydrator chief for the western division of USDA, arrived in Salem last Wednesday from San Francisco. During his short stay in Salem, he was a visitor at the local laboratory and made routine inspections of several of the canning and food processing plants in the Salem area.

Paris in War Described

In a letter recently received by Marion Morange of the French department, Charles B. Perry, a Willamette graduate, described wartime Paris. Perry was in England for two years associated with a branch of the service known as the bureau of records. Soon after the invasion of Normandy, he was transferred to Paris which he found much more attractive than the drab city of London.

In his letter Perry says that there is a tremendous shortage of coal in Paris. Electricity is used only during certain hours of the day as a result of the shortage of fuel. There are no public buses running and the renting of bicycles is so expensive that servicemen find themselves walking most of the time. He says that he has fine quarters, that is if one likes walking across the street for hot water. One thing, though, that is plentiful and reasonably priced is perfume. The GI's are buying the article in large quantities to send home to their wives and sweethearts.

Hall Women Plan Formal January 20

Setting next Saturday, January 20, as date for the annual "Inter-Dorm" formal the social chairmen of the women's housing groups on the campus have been busy this week making plans for the coming dance. "Rhapsody in Blue" has been chosen for the theme of the dance to be held in the Willamette gym. Hours will be from 9 until 12 p.m.

Arrangements have been divided among the four houses. Fredrickson hall will handle decorations. Frances Sopp will head the committee.

Kappa hall will be in charge of inviting patrons and patronesses. Social Chairman Saralee Ferguson will be heading this committee.

The women from the "Y" will take care of refreshments for intermission. Marjorie Grenfell will handle this.

Joyce Hanks from Alpha Psi will be in charge of securing programs.

No definite plans for decorations have been made as yet but they will carry out the formal theme as nearly as possible.

Five Initiated By Mu Phi

Five new members were initiated into the local chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon at initiation ceremonies held Tuesday evening in the music hall auditorium. The new members installed in the national music sorority were Margaret Scraggs, professor of music on the campus; Wilma Froman, senior, Dorothy Niles, Betty Louise Sinkola and Alice Rose, all sophomores.

These new members are the first to be taken into the local Phi Lambda chapter since the national organization assumed its new classification as a national music sorority with professional standing.

Following the initiation, an informal reception was held in the music hall. Town and campus members of the sorority were present including Mrs. Mary Schultz Duncan, Helen MacHirron, Mrs. Walter Denton, Mrs. Melvin Geist, Mrs. Gayle Finley, Mrs. Marcia Fry Johnson, Mrs. Mary Martin Bradley, Faith Id's'o, Gloria Wunsch, Yvonne Mjzee, Marian Erikson, Eunice Masee, Virginia Knight, and Louise Wrisley, president.

DTG's Stage Ice Skating Party

Delta Tau Gamma coeds held a skating party at the Salem Ice arena last Friday evening. The evening started at 8 p.m., and after receiving a series of bumps and chills the women adjourned to Kappa hall. There they were treated to hot chili.

Heading the committee planning the affair were refreshments, Phyllis Haverty; decorations, Pat Johnston; cleanup, Cloise Wallace.

Festivities During Holiday Season Reveal Romantic News of Campus Women

The holiday season brought forth a number of engagements of campus women that are the special news of the week.

Mathers-Catching

Janie Mathers, a freshman pledge of Alpha Chi Omega from Portland, received a diamond for Christmas from Cpl. Fred E. Catching, USMC.

Catching is now stationed in Corpus Christi, Texas. He and Miss Mathers attended Grant high school together last year. As yet no date has been set for the wedding.

Finley-Cochrane

RoJean Finley from the Barham house announced her engagement to A/C William Cochrane during Christmas vacation. Miss Finley and Cadet Cochrane are both from Van Nuys, Calif. She is enrolled as a freshman at Willamette. They attended high school together.

Cochrane is stationed in Marfa, Texas, for training.

Wetstein-Hazelett

News of the last week is the engagement of Pat Wetstein to Jack Hazelett, both Willamette freshmen.

Miss Wetstein is a graduate of Jefferson high school in Portland and belongs to Chi Omicron sorority.

Hazelett, a Commerce high school graduate expects to leave for the army air corps soon.

No date will be set for the wedding until after the war.

Gorton-Gearhart

Announced to a group of friends at a New Year's party was Wilma Gorton's engagement to Russel Gearhart. Their names were placed on white cards hidden in the green spirea centerpiece with ribbons of pink and white leading to each place.

Gearhart, a Colorado man, graduated from Salem high school and is now working at the Oregon Pulp company.

No date for the wedding has been set.

Kook-Strickland

Of surprise to their friends on the campus this week was the announcement of the engagement of Elsie Kook and Jean Strickland.

Miss Kook, a sophomore, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Kook of Salem. She was manager of the Bearcat Tavern this summer and has been active in campus affairs.

Strickland is a pre-med student in the V-12 unit. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Strickland of Eugene and attended high school in Newberg, Ore. A member of the junior class, he has been an active photographer for the Wallulah, the Willamette yearbook.

As yet no definite date has been set for the wedding.

Randall-Dickerson

Another Christmas engagement was the announcement of Laurie Randall's betrothal to Art Dickerson.

Miss Randall was a freshman on the campus last year and a pledge of Alpha Chi Omega. Though her home is in Benton Harbor, Mich., she has been living with her sister in Salem for the past year. She is attending the Oregon College of Education at Monmouth this term.

Dickerson is a pre-med student in the V-12 unit on the campus. He is a member of the junior class this term. His home is in Southold, N.Y. He attended the University of California and was in the fleet previous to coming to Willamette.

Thurston-Henderson

The engagement of Mildred Thurston to James Henderson, seaman second class, is being announced this weekend.

Miss Thurston will reenter Willamette as a sophomore this spring. She is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. At the present she is employed at the state automobile registration department in the statehouse.

Henderson is a graduate of Jefferson high school and is at home on an extended leave following 18 months duty in Alaska.

Adkins-Fukuyama

Betty Adkins and Rev. Tom Fukuyama chose New Year's eve to announce their engagement.

Miss Adkins was visiting the Minitoka Reallocation center at Hunt, Idaho, where Fukuyama is the young people's minister. The announcement was made at a watch party at midnight. Scrolls with a poem announcing the coming event were given to the guests attending.

Miss Adkins is a junior on the campus from Cottage Grove. She was a member of the Willamette Methodist Student Council and attended a Methodist youth caravan last summer when she met Fukuyama.

Fukuyama is a graduate of Seattle Pacific college and Berkeley Baptist divinity school.

No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Pi Phi Mothers Hear Art Prof

Constance Fowler, head of the Willamette university art department, spoke to the Pi Beta Phi Mothers' club at their meeting Tuesday.

Her topic concerned the part played by the art department in a liberal arts college. Miss Fowler stressed the idea that art is not just drawing pictures, but that it shows the painter's underlying emotions and outlook. A group of exhibits done by students in the art department was shown and explained at the meeting.

Lovells Pi Phi Dinner Guests

On Monday evening the members and pledges of Pi Beta Phi held an informal buffet supper. Dr. and Mrs. R. Ivan Lovell were honored guests.

Lovell talked on the subject of "Growing Up." It was decided to make these dinners a monthly affair.

John Pike Claims Bride At Christmas Eve Wedding

A wedding held during the holiday season of general interest to Willamette students was that of John M. Pike and Emma Magdalen Fichtner who took the wedding vows on December 24 in the First Evangelical church in Salem. Rev. Kenneth Wishart performed the double-ring ceremony.

The church was decorated in holiday greens and white chrysanthemums. Lighted cathedral tapers were at the altar and placed at the aisles.

The bride chose a dress of white slipper satin, fashioned with shirred bodice, sweetheart neckline and full court train. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Grace Pike, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. She wore a pink taffeta dress and carried a nosegay of old fashioned flowers.

The best man was Rev. Gerald Jaffe and ushers were Rev. Leo Thornton, Rev. Bob Bennett, Rev. William Cooksey and Rev. Willard Backer.

The bride came to Salem from Grand Forks, N.D., in July. She attended Mayville State Teachers' college, N. D.

Pike is a graduate of Cascade college, Portland and is now a senior at Willamette university. He is a member of Tau Kappa Alpha, honorary speech fraternity, and is serving as pastor of the Fruitland Evangelical church.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception for guests was held in the church parsonage.

Dahl Fireside This Sunday

A Faculty Fireside will be held at the home of Dean Olive M. Dahl Sunday from 4 to 6 p.m. This will be the first faculty fireside of the new year.

Students who have signed up to attend the fireside are Charles Allenbach, Eddy Barron, David Campbell, Tom Kellis, James Lake, Charles Nichols, Lester Farris, Larry Horton, George Frum, Darrel Ditty, Bill Staples, Edna Allenbach, Betty Jean Merten, Carole Cox, Beverly Fouch, Verolou Janin, Claire Purvis, Helen Wilson, Winona Varner, Frances Foote, Ellen Forslund and Wilma Gorton.

The committee members who have been working on plans for this fireside are Dorothy Zerzan, chairman, Hendrina Van Leeuwen, Doris Marvel, Betty Corbett, Betty Willard and Ina Monroe.

Panhellenic Presents First Campus Formal with 'Lady In the Dark' Dance Theme

The theme "Lady in the Dark" was cleverly carried out in the decorations at the Panhellenic formal held in the armory Saturday night. Women from the four sororities and their dates danced beneath a false ceiling of wide strips of chartreuse and white paper. Murals on the wall were life sized "Varga" imitations. The chartreuse color scheme was worked into the murals also.

Al Benning's orchestra from Albany played for the affair. Cokes were served for refreshments during intermission.

Alpha Chi Omega took charge of decorations with Dorothy Hoar heading the committee. Delta Phi was in charge of securing the armory and the band. Kay Wilson headed the committee. Pi Beta Phi secured the programs and Barbara Korell of Chi Omicron was in charge of the refreshments.

The dance was well attended by women from all four houses. Those attending from Chi Omicron were Grace Carsh, Howard Elson, Arline Boehl, Prun Schappacher, Dorothy Boyd, Gerald Hawley, Barbara McDonald, John Hampton, Evangeline McKinlay, Bob Thompson, Juanita Moe, Ward Cummings, Joan Newman, David Campbell, Edna Roop, Paul Stoff, Phyllis Ryan, Lyle Shum, Betty Sievers, George Frum, Harriet Stewart, Bob Ayers, Wylene Walker, Don Drake, Pat Waters, Mack Brown, Pat Weinstein, Jack Hazelette.

Delta Phi coeds and their dates were Von Kauffman, Jim McIlraith, Pat Otis, Jim Conway, Dorothy Deal, Don Burnett, Caroline Cooper, Jim Minturn, Caroline Cooper, Day Morgan, Betsy Jean Holeman, Dennis Cunningham, Lois Messing, Jack Jones, Patt Gillilan, Hank Quade, Eileen Lyde, Brad Young, Edith Irvine, Norman Kerring, Elizabeth Zimmerman, Bruce Davis, Bette Burkhardt, Bob Tate, Kay Wilson, Dean Smith, Jean Fries, George Peterson, Jeanette Mack, Lyman Smart, Peggy Johnson, Dick Hill, Virginia Hobbs, Keith Markee, Betty Randall, Charles Strong, Arlene Schwartz, Gibbs Zauft, Marilyn Nelson, Val Sloper, Leona Tinglestad, Bill Stortz, Coralee Nichols, Doug Baker, Ruth Wuhlgren, Tom Williams, Pat Anne Sly, Duane Drake, Marjorie Beadles, Ralph Lemon, Carola Hays, Treve Lumsden, Virginia Case, Carsten Lien, Barbara Hobbs, Joseph Schiessier, Marge Noll, Willis Irvine, Delores Schmierer, Walt Buchanan, Jan Patterson, Bill

Graves Will Sing Here

Georgia Graves, a brilliant contralto who will appear on the campus Tuesday night for a concert at 8:15 in Waller hall, is one of the most vibrant and interesting of artists.

Miss Graves has a special love for travel and has traveled in 45 countries, usually paying her way by singing enroute. She has made a wide variety of unusual collections from these countries, including flags, wood carvings and ancient vases.

Miss Graves' recital will include:

- E Dove T'Aggiri (Il Pome d' Oro) Cesti
- Thou Shalt Bring Then In (Israel in Egypt) Handel
- Brindisi (Lucrezia Borgia) Donizetti
- Lovely Lilac Time Chauusan
- The Statue at Czarskoeselo Caesar Cui

Cavern Jerk Roster Filled by 23 Lovelies

"The Cavern's staff is complete at last," sighs Manager Geneva Brown, "and they're doing a wonderful job."

On hand for hungered Wallerites with sumptuous sundaes, et cetera, are waitresses: Margaret Stone, Gerry Nelson, Dorothy Deal, Evelyn Deal, Edith Shifferer, Florence Lewis, Deloris Rodie, Kay Wilson, Arlene Schwartz, Nancy Merki, Melva Williamson, Yvonne Kauffman, Mary Nims, Mary Kanoff, Virginia Hobbs, Dorothy Simes, Mary Donfrio, Meryl Mathison, Carol Herman, Betty Ann Bottinger, Angela Herrmen, Mary Lou Hillton and Bonnie Batcher.

Counter girl Deloris Rodie quotes the Willamette coke brigade's slogan, "The customer is always right—well, almost always."

Bookstore Gets More Stationery

The bookstore has received a new supply of stationery in blue and ivory with a cut of Eaton and in crimson. Mrs. Delois Larson is expecting some more new stationery soon with the Willamette seal printed on it.

Other new items in the campus establishment are pins of mother of pearl with "Willamette" written in gold across them and "flashy" belts and belt buckles in the Willamette colors.

Art supplies have not arrived yet but are expected at any time.

Reporter Reveals Mysteries Of Waller's Inner Sanctum

As our readers trundle down the hall in the basement of Waller (which of course, they must do every Friday for their Collegians), they may have wondered what goes on behind the little door marked "Carpenter's Shop." The mysteries of the inner sanctum of jig saws and tack hammers as discovered by your reporter are herewith presented for the enlightenment of the uninformed.

The workshop under the direction of E. A. Kenney is responsible for the necessary little odd jobs in the upkeep of the school. Kenney's work includes cabinet work, making bookcases, filing cases, tables and shelves, repairing furniture, (remind us to tell him about that broken arm—the chair in Eaton 2) painting and varnishing. Kenney himself has added a band saw and a paint spray gun to the equipment of the shop.

And speaking of the carpenter's shop, leads to other questions. Who trims the shrubbery? And who does the housework and keeps the home fires burning around the campus?

Business Manager Robert W. Fenix states that Willamette employs five custodians, two groundsmen and a watchman. Edward Beach is superintendent of buildings and grounds. The workers clean classrooms of the dirt and rubble of class activity, working well into the night. Gardening, special maintenance work and the maintenance of the heating plant is taken care of by the buildings and groundsmen.

The AMEN CORNER

Hot news has it that Lyman Smart of, LDS, incorporated, threatens to organize his Mormons and take ye old Methodist Willamette campus away from Con Pavlock's Catholics. Well! All we can say is "well!"

If This Weren't a Religion Column . . .

This week we are chiefly concerned with Inter-Varsity news. Perhaps the reason is that John Burnett, one of the secretaries of this group turned in a lot of information. By the way, there are two secretaries because of the immense amount of business. Aloha Maw is the other member of this secretarial (?) team. Now, we would like to say something but since this is strictly a religion column, maybe we'd better not. The president's name is Gloria and the vice president is Kenny. Sorry, can't divulge their surnames as this is not a name-calling column. Besides, we couldn't find anyone who knew. Not even the secretaries.

On with Inter-Varsity, Rally, Rally!! Meetings are held daily from 1 to 1:20 p.m. in the Little Chapel in the top of Waller hall (The little chapel whose little chairs are a little late in arriving) Tuesday is spent in Bible study and other days are for devotional and prayer meetings. Bible studies are held on Thursday nights from 7 to 8 p.m. in Chresto. Everyone is invited to attend and participate in the meetings, too. (These ads will creep in!)

might as well tell you that Inter-Varsity is a Christian college youth organization which strives to bring about a more sincere fellowship and understanding among those of the Protestant faith.

Prof. Knight tore his hair after correcting papers from his last Bible history exam. "Altheiah was a 'ruiler,'" one student said. "Why Jehu usurped the 'thrown,'" another explained. Who threw that, that's what we want to know.

Amos Strikes It Rich!

"Jezebel was a 'bail' worshiper." There seems to have been a difference of opinion for others identified her as a 'bale' worshiper. Either way, seems to us she had a queer taste for nick-nacks. And the crowning error again this year was the statement that Amos was a 'profit'. Amos may have been profitable but, we think, kiddies, that you meant 'prophet'. Twenty-two pulled this boner last year but Willamette is improving! This year's score is only 11.

Watch for the January 31 religion chapel. Something really worth while is in the wind—clear from Mississippi.

Mrs. Gerald Wrisley will speak in Vespers on Sunday night at 6 using as her topic of discussion "1945, Here I Come!" Mrs. Wrisley is the wife of a prominent Salem YMCA - USO worker and is the mother of Louise Wrisley, a WU senior. Her husband is actively engaged in USO mobile unit work.

Let's Not Get Personal, But . . .

And if we may be so daring as to ask such a personal question, Mr. Pavlock, just exactly what is that "very worthwhile project" which is in the offing? We refer to the Catholic Club, of course. Of course, of course. Hallelujah!!

'Cats, Marines Tangle in Return Game

'Cats Gunning For Victory In Return Tilt

The Willamette Bearcat casaba squad is journeying to Klamath Falls to encounter the tough Klamath Falls Marine quintet tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the Marine barracks gym. The 'Cats have been practicing hard for this game as the Marines gave the Trottermen a trouncing in last weekend's game. Nothing but a clear-cut victory will be acceptable to the WU quint.

Demetriovich, Marine guard, was the lad who led the way for that squad last weekend and will be the man the 'Cats will be striving to bottle up. Also, to counter this man will be Gibbs Zauft, hard-driving guard, who tied for scoring honors with the aforementioned Marine in the first encounter.

The height advantage which favored the Marine squad was probably the turning point of that initial meeting of the two teams, but the Trottermen have been working in practice to counteract this and will be aiming to get the ball and hold on to it. Had the 'Cats been able to do this last week, the score would probably have been different.

The WU men will travel to southern Oregon either by train or bus. In either case, they will be at a great disadvantage, but this fact doesn't dampen the spirits of the Cardinal and Gold squad. They confidently expect to take the Marines into camp.

The starting five for the Bearcats will be Bob Tate and Kenny Gilpin at the two forward posts, Paul Stofft at center, and Gibbs Zauft and Marv Goodman in the guard slots.

STAN-DOFFS

By BOYD

K-Falls Again . . .

Only action for the varsity this week is the return game with the Klamath Falls Marines in that city tomorrow night. In their first encounter, though losing, the 'Cats were working smoothly; that is, whenever they could get the ball from the rangy K-Fallers. Gib Zauft kept things moving from his guard position as well as potting ten counters for the home team, netting him a good evening's work. Whether the local five will be able to counterbalance the Marines' big advantage as to altitude, is to be seen in this return encounter.

'Murals . . .

As we stand off and take a look at the intramural casaba tussles, we notice that at last the C-2 quint has been humbled. A hustling A-2 squad thoroughly whipped the C-men 30-15 in one of this week's tilts. Bill Cate, playing his first game of the season led the underdog quint with 19 counters, while Dick (D) Olson accounted for eight more to pretty well account for the scoring. Cal Wardrop dropped in the other three. In the first round play, it was the A-2 five that gave the C-2 men their closest game, losing 24-21.

Another shining light in the intramural picture this week is the sparkling performance of Bob Finney who rattled the hoop for 20 points in one game. And it wasn't a series of free throws, for Bob accounted for his score with nine field goals and but two gifters. Bob has been fairly consistent all season, now being among the top ten scorers.

One Man Outscores 'Cats . . .

Speaking of one-man performances reminds us that Zimmerman, lanky Oregon Medic center, outscored Willamette in the game at Portland just before the holidays. It was a mixed frosh-varsity squad that faced the med student five in that tussle, as some of the varsity had already left for their Christmas leave. This gave some of the reserves a chance to get in some game playing time, too.

Next Term . . .

Though the end of the semester is still some time off, there has been some discussion as to what will be going on in the sport program next semester. No inter-collegiate athletics are on the ticket, arousing the necessity for a full intramural program. One thing that should go over big next term is another navy Happy Hour. The first and last of these boating, wrestling, entertainment fests was held during the last spring term and was well received indeed. Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who can't remember Henry the Tewwah, et al? Really, with no other big athletics on the fire at that time, a terrific show could be put on. Right now, there is a lot of talent going to waste, for lack of a boating ring.

Also, another swimming tournament might reveal some hidden talent. We're not referring to the swimming tournament which will take place January 29, with the freshman class in the lime-light, or rather in the mill race. Trotter, McGuire and Cottingham ran off an efficient swim meet last semester, which gave the chance for a lot of men to enter the competition. We will need more things of that sort, even though the enrollment of men students may be less than at present.

Two Footballers . . .

Two of Willamette's pigskin stars, Jerry Wolfsehr and Marv Goodman, have both received communications from pro football clubs. In fact, it has all turned into kinduva game. First of all, Jerry heard from the Boston Yanks, then Marv heard from the Chicago Bears. The conversation between these two guys from then on was dominated by the discussion of the respective merits and general classification of the two clubs, during which time much mud was slung from one to the other and back again. However, things quieted down somewhat the other day when Marv, too, received a letter from the Boston Yanks, the club that Jerry originally heard from. Well, it's nice that a couple of Willamette men have been noticed outside of the Willamette valley, and cheer up, Jer, you may yet hear from the Peoria Pansies.

Ex-Willamette Man . . .

A communication from the Persian Gulf command states that ex-Willamette man Dan Moses placed second in an Inter-Allied ping pong match held in Iran, in the presence of the king and queen of that country. The press release stated that Moses, though runner-up, played a brilliant offensive as well as defensive match. This is the second time in one year that the Willamette grad has had a crack at the title. He has reached the quarter and semi-finals of many Allied tournaments held in that part of the globe.

Med Center Outscores 'Cats As Docs Cop Victory 54-22; Marines Tip Bearcats 41-36

The University of Oregon Medics handed the Bearcats a resounding defeat just before the holidays, 54-22. Playing with only three of the usual starting five, the 'Cats were behind from beginning until the final whistle. While Zimmerman, lofty Medic center, was pouring more points through the hoop than the entire Willamette squad, the WU men tried vainly to stop the onslaught. Diminutive Bob Tate was again the big gun for the Trottermen, racking up ten counters for the local quint.

The Medics more than doubled their lead in the second half, leading at half time 25-10. Tate, Paul Stofft and Bob Gray were doing their best the whole game, being the three top scorers for the Cardinal and Gold. Other Willamette men that saw action were Bill Gallagher, Art Dickerson and Tex DuHadway.

Lineups:
Jensen (10) (3) Gray
Irvine (8) (10) Tate
Zimmerman (23) (4) Stofft
Brown (7) (2) Zauft
Schaeffer (6) (2) Dickerson

Concentrating on looping the ball through the hoop rather than resorting to the hiping, elbowing, pushing and other tricks so customary in recent games, the K-Falls Marines nipped the Bearcats 41-36, in a clean, hard-fought game on the Willamette floor Saturday night.

So clean was the game that no fouls were called in the first 11 minutes of play and the Marines were whistled down for infractions only nine times all told.

The visitors floored a tall team and used that height to good advantage. Bob Gilbert, tall Marine center was a standout under the bucket, consistently taking the ball off the backboards and making brilliant tip-ins.

Willamette stayed in a threatening position throughout, mainly through the efforts of driving Gibbs Zauft who led the 'Cats with ten points, sharing scoring honors with Demetriovich of the Marines.

The half-time score was 18-17 with the winners in the lead. Willamette stayed close behind for a time and once tied the score, 31-31, with eight minutes left, but the winners rallied and forged ahead to clinch the verdict.

Wins, Losses Chalked Up By Fraiolamen

Getting off to a bad start in the New Year by losing 19-17 to General Finance of the City league, the Frosh came up with a 31-20 victory over Funland Monday night. Jensen with 12 points was high man for Willamette in the Funland game while on the Funland team Morris and Jensen were tied for high honors with eight points each.

Another win for the Frosh was Saturday's 44-23 shellacking of Mt. Angel high school. Cummings was top scorer for this game with 11 points but Roberts with ten and Jensen with eight were not far behind.

The Kittens go seeking revenge tomorrow night at Linfield college in McMinnville. Probable travelling squad will be Cummings, Jensen, DuHadway, Thomas, McLeary, Zeller, Staples, Roberts, Nixon, McKay, and Girod.

Cate Sparks A-2 in Surprise Upset of League-Leading C-2

In the intramural hoop circuit to date, C-2 and B-1 still retain their grasps on first and second places respectively, but A-2 has been forced to share third place honors with sixth place C-1, who has emerged from the cellar which is now occupied by B-2. Fifth place is held by A-1. Among the high-point men, Jensen has been displaced as high scorer per game by Finney and Cate, who sport 20 and 19 points as game highs, while Menashe has retained top point honors with a total of 54 points.

The most outstanding recent game in the intramural circuit was A-2's solid setback to the high-flying C-2 outfit, which up to now had boasted no losses. The A-2 quintet was sparked largely by the efforts of Bill Cate, who accounted for 19 of his team's 30 points.

There was no doubt as to the outcome of the game, as A-2 very nicely handled everything that C-2 could put on the floor. Utter's three buckets and two free ones were tops for the losers. The halftime score of 14-5 was even more overwhelming than the 30-15 final tally. Lineups were:

A-2	FG	FT	PF	TP
Larkin	0	0	2	0
Olson	2	2	0	6
Cate	9	1	4	19
Wardrop	1	1	3	3
Bauman	1	0	0	2

A-2 Over B-2

In the first intramural game following the holidays, A-2 bumped B-2 one more step towards the cellar with the comparative ease of a 19-10 score. Larkin highpointed the evening with a total of eight points, closely followed by Olson with seven. Melver left the game via the foul route for the losers. Lineups were:

A-2	FG	FT	PF	TP
Olson, R. D.	3	1	1	7

C-1 Over B-1

C-1 managed to eke out a narrow 29-27 victory over B-1 to garner a tie for third place in the mural hoop league. Bob Finney's 14 points were high for the evening, while Sol Menashe highpointed the losers with nine. Finney left the game early by merit of five personals. Lineups:

C-1	FG	FT	PF	TP
Finney	6	2	5	14

C-2 Over B-2

C-2 crashed through again in its usual winning style for its seventh win out of eight starts by being on the happy end of a 26-12 score over sixth place B-2. High point honors for the game were split between McDonald of the winners and Lane of the losers with 7 tallies each. The game, which stood at the relatively close score of 9-5 at halftime, opened up to a greater degree during the final quarters to permit the Company C boys to win with ease. Lineups:

C-2	FG	FT	PF	TP

C-1 Over A-1

In C-1's second win since the holidays, the first platoon of C managed to pull up into a tie for third place by merit of a win over the gridiron quint of A-1. The 10-6 halftime score blossomed into a 28-18 final tally, with Bob Finney developing a streak that netted him 20 of his team's 28 points. This feat placed Finney in the lead in the mural top honors for a single game, just one point ahead of A-2's Bill Cate. Lineups:

C-1	FG	FT	PF	TP
Finney	9	2	1	20

Erickson, Oliver Take Match In Initial Badminton Tussle

After a hard fought match at the local YMCA, Dean Walter Erickson and Dr. Egbert Oliver quelled the Y duo in a badminton match last week.

The faculty roster has approximately 12 regular players. One of the leading duos is the Oliver-Erickson combination which takes the number one doubles position. Other standouts in doubles play are Tschudy and McLeod, Monk and Brennen, and Sparks and Luther.

In individual performance, Sparks takes the lead, displaying a deceptive game and a good backhand.

Greatest rivalry lies between the Oliver-Erickson pair and the Sparks-Luther combination, both having won games in recent matches.

Two new enthusiasts have turned out recently for the weekly Monday and Friday swat sessions. Teaming up, the newcomers, McMurtry and Fenix, play a good game. Others who play occasionally are Moellering, Graves and Lantz.

The women of the faculty have not turned out for the matches with Gale Currey and Marion Morange the sole upholders of the feminine profs. But hope is expressed that the interest of the weaker but deadlier of the species may be fostered soon.

'CAT CAGERS

By Wolfsehr

Wayne Mayfield, playing center on the Bearcat squad, stands 6' 2" and tips the scales at 180 pounds. Although playing on the second string, he is plenty capable of holding down his spot at any time of the game.

Before coming to Willamette in the navy, Wizard Wayne played frosh ball for OAC, or is it OSC; we keep confusing the two, being originally from Oregon. Well, anyway, we won't hold it against Mayfield 'cause he's good in spite of it. He played his high school ball for Redmond.

Well, let's take a look at the Wizard's playing ability. He has fine legs for jumping, combined with a lot of height, which is one thing Willamette needs. Also, he plays the backboard nicely and in getting the ball, makes it possible for us to pile up the points. One of his outstanding features to the fan is his smooth fake shot. He fakes his man out of position and then drives up and around for two points in a manner pleasing to the eyes of any basketball lover.

When Wayne finishes here, he goes on to the air corps and he has our best wishes for good luck when he does. Before dimming the spotlight on "Maizie," we should like the reader to recall the excellent performances turned in by the Wizard last fall in football; it was he who gathered that pass that was good for our six points against Washington in the second game.

Here's What Who Does . . .

Referee, umpire, timekeeper and scorer, respectively:

1/11—Olson, Wardrop, Elvrum, Mantle.

1/15 — Gallagher, Jensen, Edwards, Anderson.

1/16—Olson, Wardrop, Ludwig, Hausey.

1/17 — Dickerson, Gray, Gatewood, McGinnity.

1/18—Mclver, Schumacher, Elvrum, Mantle.

1/22—Dickerson, Gray, Anderson, Ludwig.

1/23—Olson, Wardrop, Anderson, Schumacher.

3 Profs Take Luther's Spot In Classes

Dean C. F. Luther's prowess as a mathematician has become one of the traditions of Willamette but the fact was proved beyond doubt this week when it took three profs to substitute for the dean. Confined at home with an acute sinus infection, Luther has not been able to be at school for several days. Profs Spelbrink, Schultz and Brown have organized a cooperative movement and taken over Luther's many navigation classes and Spelbrink has further aided him by handling the calculus class. At last reports before presstime, Mrs. Luther stated that the dean was under doctor's care and much improved. He expects to return by the first of next week.

Ex-Willamette Pigskin Star Is Decorated

Lt. Bruce Williams, former Willamette University, All-Northwest Conference center in football, will speak tomorrow to Dr. Lovell's Naval History class. He is certainly well qualified in that respect in that he received five major decorations in one month for his flying exploits from a navy carrier. Besides the Distinguished Flying Cross with two gold stars, in lieu of a second and third DFC, he was awarded the Navy Cross and the Air Medal.

While at Willamette, he was an outstanding football star, playing the rough and tough center assignment on Spec Keene's pre-war teams. In his last year he was selected on the All-Northwest Conference team.

Bond Drive Collections Lag; Quota Topped 928 Percent

Although the bond drive is officially over, Chairman Connie Pavlock is having difficulty collecting the dollars from the students with which to pay the prizes to the winners. Pavlock stated late Wednesday that sorority groups and navy units were responding well but that there were still some living organizations and independent women who had yet to turn in their dollar.

Pavlock stressed the importance of everyone's cooperation in paying the dollar in order that the announced prizes might be awarded in chapel in the near future. It is hoped that the collection can be completed within the next week.

Last minute returns too late for presstime for the last Collegian showed that the Willamette students had sold $320,000 worth of bonds or topped their original quota of $34,500 by 928 per cent. Oregon State college students topped their $50,000 quota 524 per cent. No returns from other colleges in Oregon were available. Willamette's highest previous record was to go over the top by 440 per cent.

A report is being turned in to the war finance committee by Chairman Pavlock telling of the school's success in the drive. About half way through the contest, the committee sent Pavlock a letter of commendation. A plaque for the tank to be purchased by the student body will be discussed the next time Pavlock contacts the committee.

Red Pencil Turns Tables on Tschudy

The same red pencil which Dr. Tschudy wields with such disastrous results on biology lab reports was turned against him this week when a group of sailors decided to disprove a law of Nature.

Tschudy, demonstrating that red ink stained only a certain area of a plant stem, was horrified to behold his pet experiment a solid crimson in hue. After frantically tearing apart more stems to discover what had gone wrong, he was interrupted by smothered giggles from the guilty parties.

Chances are the pranksters have not seen the last of the little red pencil, but it was fun while it lasted.

Woodell Successor Leaves Armed Guard for WU Post

Lt. James F. Kee, successor to present Commanding Officer Lt. Marshall E. Woodell as executive officer of the Willamette naval unit, looked up from his recently acquired desk this week long enough to grin and say he's "looking forward to a pleasant stay here at Willamette."

Kee received his orders in Virginia where the Standard Oil tanker on which he served as gunnery officer put into port. He had just returned from 15 months' armed guard duty on merchant ships which carried him to India, the Persian gulf, South Africa, British East Africa and France. He reported immediately to Willamette, arriving here December 21.

His recent landing at the Normandy beachhead and a visit to Paris five days after its liberation proved the high point of his wanderings. A student of medieval history, Kee saw, "like historical pictures coming to life," the cathedral of Notre Dame, the Louvre, the Invalides and Napoleon's triumphal arch.

Incidentally, the women were still "pretty demonstrative" over the liberation. The tall, twinkly eyed lieutenant also remarked about the pulchritudinous eastern belles. Mrs. Kee, an elementary school teacher in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, has been told all about these femmes and doesn't mind a bit, Kee explains. "She knows us sailors."

Before his entry into the navy in March, 1943, the new executive officer did both teaching and administrative work in the public schools.

Reed Aids In Dorm Work

Meet Ruth Reed, BS, graduate of Kansas State college now on the Willamette campus as the full-time assistant to Lorena Jack. Miss Reed specializes in planning menus for the Willamette coeds besides her other duties as assistant dormitories director.

Last summer at the Horst labor camp, Miss Reed was kitchen supervisor for the 600 Mexican men who were brought to Independence to harvest hops, beans and other farm products. Nineteen Mexicans assisted her as cooks, cleanup men and sandwich makers. The day and night shifts of diners consumed approximately three cabins of food three days a week—peppers, onions and tomatoes constituting most of the grocery list. A 23-year-old Mexican interpreter was the only link between Miss Reed and her assistants.

These 600 Mexicans, under government contract for a certain period of time, came from the poorest part of Mexico and a great many of them had never seen anything modern. The food, clothing and wages given to them were excellent. If anything gave them the wrong impression of the United States it was the unfriendly attitude of the surrounding communities.

Methodists Slate Eugene Conference

The annual state convolve of Methodist Youth is scheduled to meet in Eugene February 2, 3, 4, announced Marjorie Beadles, president of the Oregon Methodist Fellowship group. Larry Horton is vice president of the organization; Melvin Gison is in charge of recreation and leisure, and Evelyn Chapman is in charge of publicity.

Rev. George D. Goodwin, a classmate of Prof. John L. Knight in Boston, will be the main speaker. The theme of the convolve will be "The Crusade for Christ."

Five officers of the group and the first eight students to sign up will be the Willamette representatives at the convolve.

Capt. Jack Haek, right, a Willamette graduate is presented the Distinguished Flying Cross by Brig. Gen. Jesse Auton, fighter wing commander at an Eighth Air Force fighter station in England. Haek was awarded the DFC for extraordinary achievement in aerial flight over enemy occupied continental Europe. (Statesman cut.)

Privilege List Upped by 36

V-12 activity boosters, battalion officers and projector operators this week received Lt. Marshall E. Woodell's announcement that they will join their 30 shipmates on the special privileges list.

Those who lent their talents and toil to Waller's student body functions include P. M. Brown, Boyd, Cate, Gruber, Hart, Mallett, Pavlock, Strong, Strickland, Stern, Smart, Stein, Wolfsehr, Tate and Goodman.

The leather-lunged battalion officers number Larkin, Taylor, Hogan, Fritts, Purcell, Harper, Schlewitz, Nichols, Shum, Gray, Golson, Rea, M. E. Brown, Utter, Shapiro, Thompson, Akland, Stunz and Waldroff.

Projector punchers Boyd, Farris and Johnson also earned places with the privileged.

Many of these men earned excellent GPA's in addition to their participation in activities.

9 lbs., 4 oz. Won't Do; Fenix Hard to Please

Robert W. Fenix' generous distribution of cigars and overly eager desire to engage in conversation may be explained by the arrival of a nine pound, four ounce daughter in the Fenix household January 4. Although quite satisfied with the robust addition to the family circle, who has been named Mary Grace, Fenix yet expressed regret that the Erickson offspring of last May weekend outdid Mary Grace in the weight department, tipping the scales at a neat ten pounds. Since the Fenix daughters now number three, their father plans to start a sorority.

MODERN DESIGN

Warren Durham was among 1023 men commissioned as ensigns in ceremonies held in New York City recently upon completion of midshipman's training. The group was the 21st class to be graduated from this oldest and largest naval reserve officer's school and brings the total number of graduates from the New York school to more than 18,700.

Durham was a member of the battalion here and had the male lead in the production of "George Washington Slept Here" presented last fall.

For "extraordinary achievement" in aerial combat, First Lt. John R. Burget has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross in the European theatre of operations. Burget had completed two years at Willamette as a history major when he enlisted in the army air forces June 1, 1942.

A Flying Fortress formation lead navigator serving with the 381st Bomb Group, Burget has completed 30 heavy bombardment missions against enemy targets to date. In more than six months overseas he has also been awarded the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters for "meritorious achievement" in action. Since his promotion from second to first lieutenant last September 4, he has been flying in Fortresses leading his group over the target and has turned in 13 such lead operations to date.

Word was received by Dr. C. R. Monk of the expected assignment of Pfc. Lola Bell Sanders to overseas duty. Pfc. Sanders is a member of the class of 29 and was a French major.

After enlisting in the WAC in 1943 she was assigned to Wright field, Dayton, Ohio, where she is attached to the public relations section in the photo unit.

Work of Student Artists in Exhibit

On display in the library are some examples of Willamette's artistic talent. The exhibit by Miss Fowler is the work of university art students for the first ten weeks of this semester and includes a portrait in oil of Virginia Pope by Joyce Fieden. The examples were selected to show a progression from technical problems of a design type to the composition of an idea.
