Prexies Predict Own Victories; Classes Give Noisy Response

By Don Scarborough

A Glee challenge Tuesday followed by a brisk swim in the Mill Stream by a large representation of the Freshman class plus a few upper-classmen, touched off the "Pre-Glee Powder Keg" and ended the disheartening lack of interest shown in Glee proceedings thus far.

Fresh president, Tom Scheidel, united with Glee manager Duane Denney by bonds of mutual sympathy for the other three classes (also by a short length of chain), presented his challenge in the form of a prognostication. By a series of syllogisms, Scheidel arrived at his prediction which saw the seniors wading in the Mill Stream, followed closely by the sophomores and juniors.

The response which followed his declaration gave promise of an enthusiastic songfest and an even more lively Blue Monday. The sophomores, accompanied by a brass trio, pledged support to president Sherm Bliss' reply and in doing so almost shattered a couple of windows with their spirited response.

The air was filled with paper airplanes, and frosh "cigarette girls" distributed candy life-savers to the more pessimistic non-swimmers in the audience as junior president, Bob Skirvin, accepted the challenge. He looked into his crystal ball and predicted a much different picture of Glee outcome.

Odds on the senior's chances to stay out of the Mill Stream dropped to rock-bottom when prexy Ed Cairo made his appearance in mortar-board and swim suit. Amid shouts of encouragement by fellow fourth-year men, Cairo openly declared that the highest, most eagerly sought honor of the whole year was not the Glee banner, but a swim in Willamette's own private river.

The entire proceedings were enlivened by more snap and zeal than witnessed by any Glee challenge since 1908, according to reports received by Denney. But if he and Scheidel seemed unappreciative it was because both were suffering from the effects of being chained to a cement post in the Phi Delt basement since 12 a.m.

A group of ten or more sophomores dragged Denney from his Beta refuge about midnight Monday, kidnapped Scheidel from his own home, under strong protests from his father, and then imprisoned them in the basement of the fraternity house by chaining their legs together around the post.

"They were good to us, though", admitted Denney. "They gave us a blanket to lie on."

Aside from the increase in spirits, Glee plans went along without a change. Denney announced that a dance will be held immediately after the Glee performance. Ticket chairman, Prudence Edwards wished to repeat that all non-participating students must sign-up in the ASWU office or in the Law school building before 4 p.m. Tuesday, March 22, in order to receive a ticket.

The senior committees which could not be contacted last week listed the following chairmen: Rex Lindemood replaces Ray Lotter as senior manager; song leader, Gordon Pratt; formations, Ruth James; marching, Bob Muhr and Bob McMullin; parodies, Bill Gusey. Words and music were written by Gloria Stone and Lloyd Hanson. Thus far, 74 have signed-up for Glee participation.

The junior chairmen include: parodies, Jack Brown; formation, Jack Gunn and Marian Sparks. The song was written by Martha Benard with words by Margaret Guice and Janet Stark. Art Dimond will direct the singing group. More than 80 have turned out according to Margie Powell.

Withey Recites 'Blue Monday' Rules, 'Don't's'

As the gaiety of Glee festivities and preparations began to dawn over the campus this week, Dean Raymond A. Withey reminded students of a list of "don't's", instituted last year, to be followed on the fateful Monday morning after the song contest.

Emphasizing that "No bet shall take advantage of the existing rules or traditional policies of the University", the student handbook indicates that this includes such practices as bringing beer for sale into the Cat Cavern.

The rules state that "Animals are not to be allowed on the campus as a part of Bet Day". Also the use of water bags is prohibited.

The handbook also states that pie-throwing, or any other similar use of food, will not be permitted inside the chapel or other campus buildings. He further stressed that no bets may be made off-campus which attract public attention. This would supposedly eliminate communist rallies on the steps of the state capitol, such as the one last year, or eating breakfast on State street.

No ill effects were felt last year by any students from administration action, and the current Glee manager, Duane Denney, anticipated that this year will be equally quiet.

Bets will be paid off the Monday following Glee at a special 11 a.m. chapel in the gym. Classes that period will be excused.

"Good Will" Program Features Folk Dance, Songs, Yodels

Thirty-one Austrian students and teachers on a good will tour of North America presented a variety program to a large audience Tuesday night. The program was called "Merry Scenes from Austria" and was presented in Waller hall at 8 p.m.

The group appeared in authentic Austrian costumes and presented a program based upon life in the Austrian Alpine mountains and villages. The first part of the program took place in a village. In this part, they sang folk songs and did various folk dances. Harp music and yodeling were included in the first part.

In the second part of the program, the people of the village visited Vienna. They danced and sang in a wine garden. Piano, violin and waltzes were included in the second part instead of folk dances and yodeling.

A preview of the evening's entertainment was given by a small group during the Tuesday morning chapel. Three Austrian dances and two songs were included in the preview.

Dr. Oskar F. Boch is director of the group and Dr. Susanne Polsterer, 24-year-old holder of a doctorate degree from the University of Vienna was mistress of ceremonies.

The purpose of the tour was to spread international understanding and a spirit of cooperation and good fellowship among the students of different nationalities, races and creeds.

The "Goodwill Tour to the United States" was under the patronage of the Chancellor of the Austrian Republic and the Minister of Communications.

Rotary International Selects Tripp to Receive Scholarship

Always an "also ran," was the way Russ Tripp, Willamette university student body president, was beginning to feel before he received news of winning the Rotary International scholarship he says.

His first information that he had won was received when a friend heard it over a news flash, and congratulated him for it, he said. Tripp said he was stunned and at first could not believe it, but the fact was documented by the local newspapers.

Tripp, a political science major, was one of 26 students throughout the United States, chosen by the Rotary International to receive the scholarship. He was nominated for the fellowship by the Salem Rotary club and received full backing from the Albany Rotarians. Expenses, including transportation, will be paid from funds raised by Rotarians.

Tripp has chosen the University of New Zealand as his destination and believes it will be an excellent field for observation. As Tripp plans to pursue a career in the political science field he is interested in the recent changes from socialism made there.

Noted Socialist To Address Philosophers

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president six times, will speak before the campus philosophy club Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Leslie junior high school auditorium.

Thomas, an ordained Baptist minister, will speak on "Are Capitalism and Christianity Compatible?" A question period will follow when those attending may ask him any questions they wish.

The meeting is being held at Leslie because the buildings on campus will be in use for Glee practices all week. It is an open meeting.

Library Receives Scrapbooks, Diary of Late Willamette Prof

Two scrapbooks and a diary of the late Dr. James T. Matthews were given to the Willamette library this week by his son, Oliver V. Matthews, Salem resident.

Dr. Matthews, a great personality in the opinion of those who knew him, was on the campus almost 50 years as a student and professor.

When a Collegian reporter asked Prof. Herman Clark what Dr. Matthews position was when he was here, he replied, "He was the University!" Matthews was an outstanding professor and was revered and respected more than any man who has ever been on the Willamette campus, according to Clark. He was admired by townspeople as well as students and faculty.

The diary, which is now in the library, contains remarks about his trip to Australia in 1927 where he was sent by money raised by alumni. One scrapbook contains mementos of his trip to Cornwall, London and Paris in 1908. It is filled with pictures, maps, theater programs, ticket stubs, travel folders, time tables, church bulletins, receipts, newspaper clippings, picture post cards, letters, foreign stamps, menus, and other items of interest that he picked up in his travels.

The other scrap book is filled with clippings and pictures of a trip to the Hawaiian Islands and includes everything from pictures of pretty hula girls to an article on "The Fruit Fly."

Matthews was a popular chapel speaker and his chapel speeches have been published under the title, "Fifty Years at Willamette." The book is in the Willamette library.

Smith Names Myers to Fill Teaching Job

John A. Myers, Jr., has been appointed associate professor of psychology for next year, according to word received from President G. Herbert Smith this week.

Myers, who is completing his doctorate degree at the University of Iowa, will arrive on the campus in September to fill the vacancy in the psychology department. He will replace Dr. Arne S. Jensen, visiting professor in the department this year.

Myers earned his A.B. degree at Washburn university, Topeka, Kansas and his M.A. at the University of Iowa. His emphasis will be on experimental psychology.

Student Requests No Test Change

Dead week for Freshman Glee will be from Wednesday, March 22, to Wednesday, March 29, according to Dean Robert Gregg. These dates were set to comply with student request, he said.

Originally dead week had been from the Monday preceding a major event to the Monday following. The dead week rule originated last year following student request that there be a week preceding major events in which no tests would be given by faculty members.

Fight, Bearcats, Fight!

It has been rumored about the campus that some would like to see the present bearcat symbol replaced by a more ferocious one. The idea seems to be that the bearcat is either non-existent or too tame to represent the fighting spirit of the University athletes.

Since it was disclosed in last week's issue that the bearcat does exist, there is little room for replacement in this argument. And a glance at our neighbors, the "Ducks, Beavers, Pioneers, Missionaries, Badgers," etc., proves that these institutions are not the least bit concerned with the ferocity of the symbol which represents their athletic program. Why should Willamette?

Let the fighting spirit be not in the symbol but in the team and in the enthusiasm shown by the cheering section.

Counseling or Discipline?

Everyone is proud of Willamette's counseling service. Advice is available by the bushful.

There are one or two possibilities for improvement though. First, how effective can counseling be when it is as closely connected to discipline as it is in the two deans' offices?

Let's say you get in a jam and could use a little of the counseling which you have heard so much about. If you are in a jam, you can bet your last year's girdle that one of Willamette's treasured rules have been broken and the little blue book specifies so many lashes for the infraction.

If you run into one of the deans' offices with your troubles you are going to want to make sure that the person behind the desk is the counselor and not the disciplinarian. How do you do this when both are the same person?

There is a serious question whether it is fair to Dean Ewalt and Dean Withey to expect them to assume a Dr. Jekell and Mr. Hyde job. The fact that counseling has not been a complete flop is due to the judgment they have used and perhaps the tendency to be Dr. Jekell sometimes when the situation really called for Hyde's tactics. If in practice counseling has been less than it could be, the reason is that on some occasions when students expected counseling, they received discipline.

The cure of course is to separate the two functions. Then a student could go to the counselor and feel that he could unburden himself without fear. The counselor in his turn could give advice on the basis of all the facts rather than only those which do not incriminate the student.

Second, how much use is made of the available tests which are supposed to be such valuable tools to counseling?

Take the reading test for example. Thus far this year, the reading test has been given to only one student. Was this the only Willamette student who has had trouble keeping up with all his reading assignments?

We think not. During the past week, we have been asking students about their reading difficulties. Most of them said they would like to take the reading test to see if their reading could be improved or speeded up.

What do they have to do to take the reading test? They have to find Dr. Martin who in turn has to arrange an appointment for them to take the test, then Dr. Martin has to take time out to give the test. It is all a lot of trouble. Naturally the student is timid about asking for this much individual attention, particularly if he does not know Dr. Martin.

The reading test is a group test, in other words it may be given to one or two hundred students at the same time. There is no charge for taking the test. Why couldn't this reading test be scheduled at a convenient hour so that any and all students who might be interested in taking the test could do so?

You'll Need More Than a Bedside Manner, Mac

Want to go to medical school? If so, you are only one of many who have come to Willamette with visions of becoming a member of the American Medical Association.

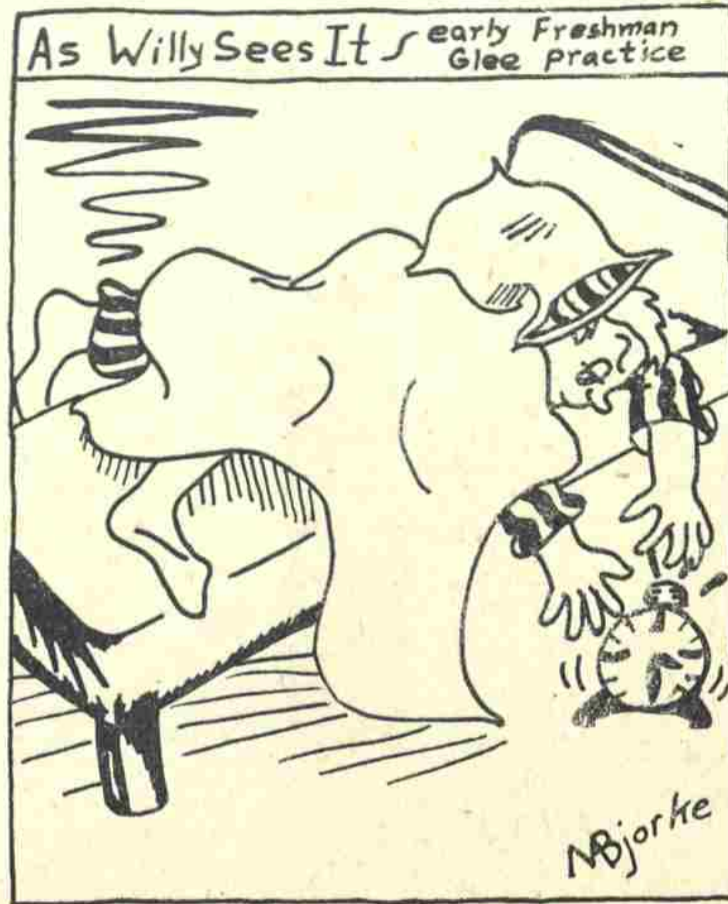

During the last three years 55 incoming students have professed a desire to take a pre-medical course which usually involves either a biology or chemistry major. According to figures given by Dr. Martha Springer, pre-medical adviser, four Willamette students were accepted by medical schools in 1948, three in 1949, and seven so far during this year. From these figures it is shown that of the number who intend to become doctors when they enter Willamette, few actually succeed.

Medical schools accept only small classes in order to keep the profession from becoming overcrowded. At the present time, according to Dr. Springer, the field is understaffed, but when incomes go down, the demand for medical services will drop correspondingly.

The price of a medical education is prohibitive to many students. After graduation from high school it takes eight or nine years and a lot of mazzella to be a doctor. The pre-medical course will range from $500 to $1200 a year. Medical school tuition costs from $300 to $800 a year and this does not include living expenses. Added to this there is the small matter of internship during which time the wages are substandard and there is little hope of "help from the union."

It is difficult to work and maintain scholarship during the medical training. Medical school catalogs state that it is nearly impossible to work in addition to the time spent in studies. Any student who enters medical school should plan to have some kind of an income during his education.

And on Top of All This, He Also Teaches German

Students were coming and going out of his office faster than honey bees out of a hive. The phone rang incessantly, and the general atmosphere was one of never-ending activity. The reporter managed to slip in with some other students and to get his interview.

"Rather time consuming, isn't it?" the reporter inquired.
"You have no idea," replied Dr. Dan Schulze, one of the busiest of the busy in university activities.

Dr. Schulze is a combination of wizard and work horse. He is able to take 36 hours of working time and compress them into an ordinary 24-hour day. He is also capable of maintaining a full teaching load, of serving as general manager of the associated students, of taking part in city affairs, of finding time to be a devoted family man, a horticulturist and until recently, an "A-number-one cow milker."

Aside from his German teaching commitments, Dr. Schulze finds the duties of the general manager of the associated students to be his most time consuming job.

"It means taking care of all the business of the associated students," he said. "And believe me, there is a lot of business."

When asked to explain what his office did, he pointed out that the office handled 18 regular and 19 general accounts. This meant supervising the spending, buying, payment of bills, etc., of these accounts—in short, serving as a manager to see that none of the accounts exceeded its budget.

"The biggest account is publications," he said. "But there are others—the four classes, drama, Freshman Glee, etc., all of which add up to quite a lot of work." In this connection, he declared that four part-time secretaries were employed to handle the clerical work of the associated students.

Numerous incidental tasks, such as approving requisitions, petty cash slips, and the like, fill his hours out of the classroom to the very last second. Yet he manages to find time to offer counseling service to the many students who find their way to his office.

An example of the work carried on by Dr. Schulze is the purchase of a false ceiling for the gymnasium. "We bought a new false ceiling for the gym," he said. "After consultation with various student officers, it was decided that we should buy a permanent ceiling. Now that we have it, we estimate that we will save $50 in purchase of materials every time the gym is decorated for a social function."

He added that the task of dyeing the false ceiling was delegated to three "W" men and himself. They descended upon a local dye works, were shown a vat and told to go to work. The result is a sky blue effect, which will lend itself well to color harmony in future gym decorations.

Not all of Dr. Schulze's time is taken by the associated students, however. He is active in local clubs, being president of the Knife and Fork club and a master of the Salem Lodge of Perfection of Scottish Rite Masons.

And at his home in the southwest Salem hills, he finds time to do odd jobs around the house as well as to cultivate some of the prettiest flowers in the state.

Until recently, he got up and milked a cow—his cow—to start the day. "But I sold her," he said.

You'd Rather Hear Commercials?

By Ann Stackhouse

Psychiatrists today state definitely that fully .000000584% of all the mentally deranged get that way from listening to disc jockeys. Think of it! At this rate, at least one person a century will lose his mind because of some "Happy Harry" or "Sleepy Sam!"

Picture yourself on a typical school day dawn. It is 7:57 a.m. You are just waking up for your 8 o'clock. Naturally, you turn on your radio. What comes breezing over the ether but "Cornelius Hauncleshoot, boy disc jockey." He's about to play a record. That is, he's just begun to announce its history. What fun is it for him to tell you the name of it right away?

"Folks, this is the record all the world is talking about! It's by Miffff. Miffff. (Excuse me, George the engineer just brought in my coffee.) Getting a little bald, aren't you George? Ha. Ha. I wish you all could see old George this morning. He's wearing one of those neon ties. That wire in your ear bother you much, George? Heh. Heh."

"Before we play this plater, let's read the names of you club members who requested it: Slim, Sally, Marge and Claude, the gang at Bertha's, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Clinebinger who are celebrating their 75th anniversary today. (Bless you Mom and Dad), Tootsie and Reg, Dona, Bettie and Clara from Joshua, and of course, George. Ha. Ha."

"Well, here we go with this peachy keen platter just as soon as I give you a few hints on the artist. You'll all remember her for such sensash releases as "I Can Scream, Can't I", "Don't Sob, Slob", and "Get Off The Roulette Wheel Mother, You're too Old to Go Around Like That!" Sure you know her."

"Neighbors, I just want to tell you one thing now before it slips my mind. If I do say so, my little girl Gertrude is one of the cutest kids I've ever seen. So you know what she did last night at supper? She took a whole plate of butter and rubbed it in her baby brother's face! Laugh, I thought I'd die! Just like her old man. Remember, George, the time I squashed that pie in your face?"

"Here it is! It's - - - Why George, why have you that knife in your hand? No George, no, no! Ahhhhhh!"

"Ladies and Gentlemen, I will be taking over the program now. I'm sure you've all heard of me? My name is George. And here's your record—"Slaughter on (heh, heh.) 10th Avenue."

Don't think you have a cinch after you "arrive". It is still hard work even if the pay is good and in some cases it isn't so good. The doctor who builds up a steady practice in a city stands to do pretty well, but his country cousin will probably collect a lot of his fees in eggs, potatoes and good will. Family life and health are likely to suffer in the case of the general practitioner who is on twenty-four hour call.

Medicine is considered to be at the top of the professions. Many aspire to it but few achieve it. Some students simply find early in their undergraduate years that they are not suited to the long laboratory periods and extensive courses in chemistry, and they transfer to an "Eaton hall" major. Others may find that their science major opens up fields other than medicine, such as teaching or research, and follow up accordingly.

Willamette university had its own medical school at the first part of the century. As a matter of fact, in 1912 Admiral Ross McIntire, surgeon to President Roosevelt, graduated from Willamette's medical college which was located in what is now the music school.

Them days is gone for good now though, and prospective doctors coming out of Willamette have to hit the competition trail to the 90-odd medical schools that are scattered across the country.

Some say its a good deal. Some don't.

'We Want Funny Magazine' Says Piper, Editor of Puritan

"We want a funny magazine," was the emphatic statement of John Piper, editor, when asked what his policy on the Puritan humor magazine would be.

A search for fresh talent is the goal which the new staff has in mind, he said, and prizes will be offered as bait for prospective writers on the campus whose contributions have not yet been brought to the surface.

The magazine will be smaller in its next issue, Piper stated, due to lack of advertising. The price, however, will remain at the former 25-cent mark. There will be fewer pictures in the new issue, also.

Piper's assistants on the Puritan are Scott Thompson, associate editor; Don Carpenter, technical advisor, and Barbara Garrett, campus feature editor. The staff, however, is not in search of humorous or satirical material alone, and will welcome serious contributions as well.

Winners of the contest will be announced in chapel, with the first prize as $10, second is $5, and the third prize will be announced later. Deadline for all entries is April 13, 1950, and contributions can be taken to the Puritan's mail box by the switchboard or to John Piper.

Willamette Alumni Conference to Be 'Most Extensive'

"The most extensive alumni conference ever attempted," is what the alumni meeting on March 31 at the First Methodist church in Portland will be, according to Travis Cross, director of information.

Four Willamette professors and Pres. G. Herbert Smith, Coach Chester Stackhouse and Cross will attend the meeting which was arranged between Cross and Dean Pollock, Willamette trustee and alumnus.

Smith will speak on "Willamette Today" and Dean Robert Gregg will speak on "War Clouds—Do They Have a Silver Lining?" Seward P. Reese, dean of the Law school, will speak on "Legal Training, Willamette 1950"; A. Freeman Holmer, professor of political science, will speak on "Sewers Aren't Pretty; Willamette Studies Government"; Ruane Hill, instructor of drama, will speak on "Humor and You"; and Coach Chester Stackhouse will speak on "Alumni and Athletics."

Churchmen Host Portland Singers

Ennis Whaley's well-known Chordsmen, a group of Portland singers who have met increasing popularity in the Northwest, will present a concert of spirituals and folk songs at the First Methodist church Sunday.

Led by Whaley, the pastor of the Hughes Memorial Methodist church of Portland, and the father of Willamette's Marilyn Whaley, freshman, the men will be paid by a freewill offering, which will cover their travel expenses.

They will be at Wesley fellowship for the student gathering there, and will appear before the general public in their evening performance in the sanctuary.

Tour to Take Choir to B.C.

The a cappella choir spring tour, which will begin March 30 and end April 10, will carry members of the choir all the way from Corvallis to Vancouver, B.C.

Beginning their tour Thursday, March 30, at Silverton, choir members will then travel and perform at such places as Seattle, Vancouver, B.C., Bellingham, Portland and other towns. The tour will conclude Monday, April 10, with a concert in Corvallis.

Three officers of the choir—Bob O'Neill, business manager; Bob Robbins, publicity manager; and Earl Fedje, president—have made most of the arrangements for the tour. These officers, as is the policy of the choir, have arranged the concerts, transportation, housing and publicity under the guidance of Dean Melvin Geist.

Cinderella, Prince to Receive Gifts at Local Spring Opening

Willamette students who can afford to leave Glee practices for an hour Thursday evening, March 23, will find the Salem Spring Opening offering prizes, food and entertainment.

Sponsored by the Salem Retail Business board, the annual opening is trying something new this year in the way of awarding prizes. Six judges will roam the business area during Spring Opening for the purpose of choosing a Cinderella and a Prince Charming who will win many glorious prizes.

Science Classes Plan Field Trips

Field trip plans for both the geology and biology department classes were being formulated this week, as spring made its appearance.

Prof. Herman Clark, professor of physical science, said that the geology trip is scheduled for May 25, 26, and 27. All students will be transported to a region east of the Cascades in private cars.

Biology field trip plans call for a tour on May 4 to the coast, where the students will study sea life and coastal plants.

Football Ducats Scheduled For Sale at Rally Friday

Season tickets for the new football stadium will go on sale next week, with a rally scheduled for Friday, March 24. Applications for reserved seats are being mailed to all holders of last year's Booster tickets as they will hold a priority toward next year's seats.

All alums in this area will be next on the list for applications for the reserved seats, and after these tickets have been sold, the rally will inaugurate the sale of season tickets to the public.

The rally will be held at the Marion hotel at noon, Friday, March 24, and is being held in connection with the Salem breakfast club meeting.

There will be ten two-minute speakers at the rally who are as follows: Al Loucks, president of the Breakfast club; Dr. G. Herbert Smith, Willamette president; Mayor R. L. Elfstrom; Coach Chester Stackhouse; Bruce Williams of KOCO; Dave Hoss of KSLM; Al Lightner, Salem Statesman sports editor; Fred Zimmerman, Capital Journal sports editor; Clair Brown of the Chamber of Commerce; and Travis Cross, Willamette publicity manager.

Band to Participate

The Willamette band is scheduled to participate in the rally, which is primarily to sell the seats in the grandstand before it is built, in order to purchase the lights for the field. Theme for the sale will be "you buy a ticket and you buy a bulb."

The Breakfast club members will be given reservation applications to pass out for the rally, and the member selling the most will get a blanket. The runner-up will receive a framed picture of the 1950 champion Bearcat basketball team.

Following the rally the ticket booth will open in front of the Howard Maple sporting goods store manned by lettermen and rally squad members, and will be open for two days.

12 Named for Hoop Letters

Twelve men, including nine sophomores, are to receive the block W awards as members of the Northwest Conference Champion Bearcat basketball team, it was announced by coach Johnny Lewis.

Two seniors, center Al Fedje from Salem, and guard Pete Bryant from Astoria and one junior, guard Ray Osuna from Dallas, were the other monogram winners besides the sophs. This was the third letter for Fedje and Bryant, and the first for Osuna.

Four of the sophomore letter-winners are repeaters from last year and ranked 1-2-3-5 in the scoring column. They are forward Ted Loder from Milwaukie, center Doug Lague from Astoria, forward Dick Brouwer from Portland, and guard Lou Scrivens from Portland.

The five sophomores receiving their first awards are, forwards George Matile from West Linn and Dan Montag from Portland, center Chuck Robinson from Gresham, and guards Hugh Belinger from Salem and Claude Nordhill from Newberg.

Among the fourteen returning baseball lettermen are seven members of the champion 1950 basketball team. They are Dick Brouwer, Cliff Girod, George Matile, Dean Nice, Ray Osuna, Lou Scrivens and Burnell Ambrose.

Brouwer trotted the outer pastures between hits last year while Matile, at short, was the team's leading hitter. Scrivens was one of the Bearcat's better pitchers.

Laugh Contest Sees Faculty Top Lettermen

When the annual Faculty-Lettermen laughfest was over a week ago Thursday night, the gag meter registered a bounding 1000 while the scoreboard only credited the Profs with 22 and the Lettermen with 18.

Dr. G. Herbert Smith, looking more like Ed Wynn every day, cheered his faculty five to victory in the fifty-minute sidesplitter. His squad was composed of Coaches Genial Jawn (Hot-shot) Lewis, "Les-ell" Sparks, Amby D'Eagle and Buck Smith (Injun Joe), Prof. Egbert Oliver (the friendly undertaker), and Prof. Charles Derthick (in straight jacket).

The other costumed kids were Prof. "Dangerous Dan" Schulze, Registrar Harold Jory (trainer), Travis "Sonny Boy" Cross, Maurie "Cupid" Cohen, Coach "Cave-man" Stackhouse, Prof. George "Bubbles" Martin, Robert Fenix, Jim Johnson, Freeman Holmer (Bowery boy), and Prof. Robert "Emma" Haley.

Lou "Dirty" Scrivens and Don "Gertie" Aasen led the Lettermen in gentle sentiments. "Dirty" provided the biggest rib-tickler of the evening when he misplaced certain essential equipment, but thanks to "Doc" Pete Hoar, the patient recovered.

Women Archers Score High Total

Sixteen Willamette girls hopefully await the results of the winter intercollegiate archery meet finished here March 10. Last year Willamette placed fourth with a score of 5964 and 14 all golds. This year with 6166 points and 50 all golds the figures add up to advancement for Willamette archers.

This year's top honors for perfect ends go to Shirley Allen, 18; Joyce Kelly, 13; Lei Keoloha, 12; and Pat Click, 7. This tournament is conducted under the auspices of the archery subcommittee of the national section on women's athletics. Sixty arrows are shot at 21 yards at a regulation 48-inch target, an end consisting of six arrows. The meet requires 10 ends once a week for three consecutive weeks.

Beta, Baxter Top V-Ball Tourneys

With two rounds of the intramural volleyball play-off played, Beta Theta Pi is the A league favorite so far with two wins. Baxter Hall is tied for second with a win and a loss, the same as the Campus Y.

Sigma Chi was eliminated when Baxter Hall edged them out after dropping the initial test 16-14. The second and third tilts were taken by Baxter by identical 16-14 scores. Baxter rallied when the score stood 14-10 favoring Sigma Chi to top them 16-14.

In the B league play-off, Baxter has two teams. The Baxter B's played Beta while the Baxter C squad tangled with Sigma Chi. The unbeaten Beta B's lost to Baxter B, 15-4 and 15-10 but won by forfeit over the Baxter C's.

The Baxter B crew continued to win as they beat the Sigs two out of three.

The A league Campus Y squad met Baxter last night and the winner of this tilt will seek the A title when they meet the Betas.

Meeting the gang to discuss a quiz—a date with the campus queen—or just killing time between classes—the Field House at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge is one of the favorite places for a rendezvous. Out On A Limb

By David Card

Spring sports are very much in evidence on the campus of "ol' Willamette" now, with baseball, track, tennis and golf all seriously under way. Prospects seem to be pretty good for the Bearcats in all the aforementioned activities, with baseball and track looking especially bright.

Coach Johnny Lewis has a pack of letterwinners back to man his varsity baseball squad, although there are several weaknesses on the team and it is by no means a world-beater. The Bearcats should be pretty strong around the keystone sack with veteran George Matile at the shortstop position, and several outstanding candidates for the second base spot. Among those trying out for second are Cliff Girod, up from last year's frosh squad, Ray Pointer, last year's regular second baseman, and Dave Perlman, a freshman flash. Pointer may take a hand on the mound this year instead of playing second, as is the case with Gordy Lenz at third and Bob White at first.

Mertz Decathlon Threat

Track looks good also, with several letter-winners back plus a lot of new talent Coach Chester Stackhouse has brought out. Talk about your outstanding performers, take Bearcat trackster Ted Mertz. Except for the pole vault and the shot put, Ted would be a serious contender for decathlon honors. Mertz has ran the 220 in the fastest time of any on the squad in time trials, tied for first in the 100 yard dash, swept the hurdle events, defeated the other high jumpers easily, and topped it all off by broad jumping just under 20 feet on his first attempt.

Before we forget it, congratulations to the lettermen and the faculty for their outstanding performances in their annual hoop mix. Al Lightner says in the Salem Statesman that the lettermen better watch out or their event will take the place of Freshman Glee as the year's outstanding extravaganza, and if they keep up their present pace, it just might. There was no doubt that the great majority of those attending the game received two-bits worth of amusement, if only to see "Lovely Lou" Scrivens lose part of his costume while attempting a lay-in. A vote of thanks should be extended to the faculty for their excellent co-operation in making the game a success.

94 Points Scoring Mark

It looks like the Willamette Bearcats put a new scoring record in their books with the 94-point performance against the Lewis and Clark Pioneers in the final conference encounter. According to statistical sheets dating back to 1924, the 94-point outburst tops any other scoring jag of the Bearcats by six points. The previous high-point mark of 88 points had been accomplished several times. Another Willamette record that was equalled this year was the individual game scoring mark tied by Ted Loder with 26 points against this same Lewis and Clark quintet earlier in the year. Loder, incidentally, led the Bearcats in all departments including fouls, field goal attempts, field goals, free throw attempts, free throws, and total points.

It is interesting to note that the Bearcats almost made the national NAIB tourney despite losing to Portland in the finals of district two. Nevada, a district winner, was ruled ineligible because of gambling support, so a representative to take its place was to be chosen from district one, and if no team was available there, a team from district two was to be selected. College of Puget Sound was chosen from the first district, and had they been unable to make the trip Willamette would probably have received the nod, but the Loggers went to Kansas City and the Bearcats will have to wait until another year.

Here an' There

The Willamette-Clark JC bowling match is said to be the first intercollegiate bowling match in Oregon . . . it is stressed that this was not a school sponsored affair . . . we wonder if coaches Lewis, Stackhouse and Sparks saw any future Willamette prospects at the state basketball tournament . . .

Bearcats Pick All Opponents

The Willamette Bearcats, champions in the Northwest Conference, picked an all-opponent team composed only from conference competition.

All of the Bearcats's five conference opponents received near equal attention by the Jasons, as two members of each of the league opponents were named to the two squads. Chosen for the first five were Chuck Anderson, Whitman; Ed Rooney, Pacific; Bob Pollard, Lewis and Clark; Rod Downey, Lewis and Clark, and Bill Green, Whitman.

Bearcats Behind 103 Pins at Halfway Mark in Bowling Match With Clark JC

Clark Junior College of Vancouver took a 103 pin lead over Willamette university at the end of the first half action in a inter-collegiate bowling meet between the two schools held at the University alleys last Sunday. Sunday's action marked the halfway mark in the meet, with the two squads scheduled to tangle at Vancouver next Sunday.

The Clark keglers held a 11,373 pin handicap total after each of their four teams rolled three lines, while the Bearcat bowlers were right behind with 11,270, and were ahead in scratch scores 8,981 to 8,559.

The Willamette team was composed of the top 20 men in the Intramural bowling league. Willamette's Howie Lorenz carried off both high individual game and series honors, rolling a 222 game and a 527 series. Right behind him was Ben Valdez with a 525 effort.

Willamette also captured high team game and series, as the Willamette No. 3 team captained by Gil Davies rolled a 795 scratch game, and the Willamette No. 1 team captained by Valdez came through with a 2344 scratch series.

Scores:

Clark J. C. No. 1 (1)—Peru, 446; Deluo, 358; Emter, 367; Armstrong, 438; Theriault, 480. Willamette No. 1 (2)—G. Halliday, 486; Collier, 414; Collins, 444; Joseph, 475; Valdez, 525.

took three out of four from SAE No. 1, and the Phi Delt No. 1 and Sigma Chi No. 2 teams split two.

Blackie Valdez of SAE No. 1 holds the individual honors with a 570 series and a 225 game in action up to date, while the Sigma Chi No. 2 team has the high team series with 2691 and the SAE No. 1 squad has the high team game with 919.

Valdez also leads the league in individual averages with 171. Others in the top ten are: R. Halliday, 163, Davies 158, Lorenz 158, G. Halliday 157, Coen 157, Jole 152, Harris 151, Collier 151, and Adams 150.

Chuck Harris of the Beta team took the individual honors for last week, rolling a high 209 game and a 493 series.

Big Glee Event Is "Javelin Day"

The big track event of Glee week, Javelin Day, is to be held on Tuesday the 21, and all men are asked to come out and try their arm. It is hoped that Javelin Day will become an annual event. The meet is planned for 2:30 in the afternoon at Bush's pasture.

Although the date for the intramural track meet has not been set, all hands planning to compete should be working out. It was announced this week that no varsity track lettermen will be able to compete. This was done in order that the meet will not be a mere workout for the varsity men, and give the less experienced runners a chance to shine.

The results of last Saturday's time trials were much better than expected in so early a workout. Several new men showed very surprising improvement. In the 100 yard dash Ernie Gordon, a sophomore who is turning out for the first time, was right in there with the veterans in his heat. Buck Killenger made a 124 foot throw in the discus which nearly equaled the school record. This was the first time that Killenger had tried his skill at the discus.

Coach Stackhouse states that he would like more men with the try of Killenger. Buck is a 29 year old veteran with a family, besides being a freshman. Coach Stackhouse stated, "this is an ideal example of real athletic incentive."

Risque Debates, Pantsless Men Top Glee Pay-offs

By Ann Stackhouse
 With Blue Monday looming ominously in the near future, the time has come to speak of Glee bets. Several fiendish souls have already placed their bets with the fond belief that their "bookie" will have to pay off.

Baxter hall is full of budding gamblers. Stan Aschenbrenner and Rex Lindemood have a mutual agreement that the loser will come to supper minus a very important item of apparel . . . his trousers. This will be especially gay as no doubt, there will be young ladies serving the food.

Four biology students, who wish to remain anonymous have agreed, on losing, to hold a debate in chapel on that current crucial item, "Let Other Countries Know About Sex!" This should put a "blazing" finale to their collective careers at Willamette.

Norm Lawson and Rosie Wilhoit are going to pay their respects as losers by stopping all cars on Winter street, approaching the drivers confidentially, and whispering "You're Crazy" in the driver's waiting ears!

Your humble reporter has agreed to canoe sedately down the mil stream in a canoe wearing her formal and football shoulder pads. So far, no one will accept this challenge.

Bill MacDougall and Bob McMullen have agreed to make their professors generally unhappy by slamming their books shut, putting on their coats, and stomping out of class everytime the professor makes a remark. (This is new?)

If anyone reading this, has twenty dollars to spare, a prominent newspaper man of Salem has a super idea for a bet. All you have to do is buy an old car and then wreck it. Fun, Huh?

Eugene Takes Sweepstakes In High School Speech Meet

Two hundred Oregon students participated in the Willamette-sponsored high school speech tournament last week which saw Eugene take the sweepstakes by winning four first places.

Taking all three places in extemporaneous speaking, the Eugene squad also acquired firsts in impromptu and both senior and junior debate. Hillsboro won first place in humorous interpretation and tied with Oregon City for first place in serious interpretation. Other awards went to Medford and Beaverton.

Jack Gunn, captain of the Willamette debate squad, directed the tournament with the clerical assistance of Betty Ferguson, senior scholar in speech. Awards were presented by Prof. A. Freeman Holmer, debate coach.

Judges included members of the debate squad and speech classes and the high school coaches. In expressing her thanks to all students who helped with the judging, Miss Ferguson commented, "The cooperation of all concerned made this tournament most successful."

Danish Linfield Student to Head European Tour

With a promise of a European summer tour, led by Bent Kromann, a Danish student at Linfield college, that will be inexpensive but absorbing, an invitation to Willamette students was sent this week.

Centering mainly in Scandinavia, but touching also in Belgium, England, Germany, Denmark, and France, including Paris, the tour will stay overnight in student houses where possible which will eliminate some of the expense. Kromann says the tour including meals, room and transportation, will cost about $150.

Students as well as professors, mainly from Oregon colleges, will lead the group, and will combine an insight into the culture of the lands as well as sight-seeing. The tour will begin in Europe on August 1 and last until September 10. Further information can be obtained from Les Aldrich at Baxter hall.

Spanish Students See New Movie, Famed 'Quixote'

Students from all sections of the Spanish department were visitors last week to the Northwest premiere showing in Portland of the Spanish film, "Don Quixote."

With several carloads of first, second and third year students touring to the city, the trip was made in the midst of six week tests.

"One of the best films ever made" and "It surpasses anything Hollywood ever produced" were some of the comments the viewers made, even though the dialogue was completely in Spanish, with only English subtitles.

Class of '12 Originated Glee To Create New WU Songs

That big event coming up on March 25—Freshman Glee—made its debut on the Willamette campus 'way back in 1909 when the freshman class, the class of 1912, challenged the other three classes to a song competition.

The Wallulah of 1912 declares, "Aside from the pleasure of competition the glee has another object, which is to arouse interest in creating airs and words distinctly Willamette."

In the first glee contest, which was held in the chapel in Waller hall, each class presented a song of original words and music. In those days of smaller classes every member of each class participated in glee.

The class of 1912 which originated freshman glee, or "college glee" as it was sometimes called then, won the first two glees. Apparently, that class was justified in challenging the three other classes in song competition.

The 1912 Wallulah states that the glee, then in its fourth year, was well established on the campus, and added hopefully in its conclusion of the article on glee that it would become a tradition.

Today, 38 years later, freshman glee remains the most important tradition on the Willamette campus.

WU Duo to Try For Performance On Amateur Hour

Betty Jean Mullin and Bob Gwinn will attempt to sing their way into the chance to perform for the Original Amateur Hour radio program next Thursday at 7:30 p.m. on KEX in Portland.

KEX urged as many supporters as possible to attend the broadcast, since audience applause is the determining factor in winning the contest. The broadcast will be over a nation-wide hook-up of the American Broadcasting company.
