Council Adjusts Allocation of Funds

Smith Asked To Discuss Athletic Policy

Allocation of funds from the spring semester sale of student body tickets was the principal business of the ASWU council at its Wednesday meeting with the group making several adjustments in percentages applied in distributing funds during the fall semester.

Athletic Director Leslie J. Sparks stated that expenditures for the football season had left a deficit of approximately $800 on the student body books. The council voted to apply an approximate $200 of the spring athletic allotment on the deficit rather than sacrifice a spring sports program to cover the deficit this year. The arrangement will be discussed with Pres. G. Herbert Smith at a meeting with the council sometime next week.

The forensics department was granted an additional one per cent as was the Collegian and the Wallulah. The Freshman Glee allotment was cut one per cent while the May Weekend cut was upped that amount. Social fund showing a balance of $242 from last semester was cut three per cent.

Bearcats Meet Camp Adair Navy Tonight

Tonight will witness one last basketball game when the Willamette five play host to the hoopsters from Corvallis naval hospital.

Following this, another game will take place between the Maples Sporting Goods team of Salem and a second quintet from the naval hospital.

The main event starts at 7 tonight in the Willamette gym, and no admission will be charged.

Balloting for Class Officers Tuesday; Revotes Thursday

Ballots bearing the names of the candidates nominated for office in yesterday's class meetings are being printed today in preparation for Tuesday's first vote for spring semester officers. Any necessary revotes will be held Thursday and results of both votes will be held for publication in next Friday's Collegian.

Hours for the Tuesday balloting in Eaton hall will be from 9-12 a.m. and 1-4 p.m. Polls will be open in Eaton on Thursday from 9-12 and 1-2:30. Presentation of student body tickets will be required.

Benefits of Student Body Ticket For Navy Listed; Sales Begin

Further inducement to the purchase of student activity cards by Willamette's 147 V-12 sailors was forthcoming at Wednesday night's meeting of the student council, according to Sales Chairman Stan Buch.

Holders of student body tickets which may be purchased by navymen at the reduced figure of $7.50, will be eligible for reduced rates in ticket prices at the state basketball tournament which gets underway next Thursday, Leslie J. Sparks, athletic director, stated. Prices for the regular two-games sessions for ASWU members will be 60 cents rather than the regular $1.20. Admission will be 90 cents for Friday and Saturday evening games. Season tickets may be purchased for $2.40 rather than the usual $4.20 price.

Also outlined at the council meeting was the tentative program for spring sports. Present plans call definitely for baseball games with the Oregon state prison nine and teams from Camp Adair, and the University of Oregon and Oregon State college should those schools undertake a spring athletic program. Tentatively scheduled are baseball games with Whitman and Klamath Falls Marines. Also a possibility is a track meet and tennis matches with Whitman. A full intramural program as well is being planned including softball competition in the city league and with Camp Adair teams. Tennis, golf and track will also be held.

Final arrangements for the ticket sales are being completed by Buch with the aid of General Manager Robert E. Lantz, and Lt. Marshall E. Woodell, commanding officer of the V-12 unit, to offer the tickets on some sort of an installment basis similar to last semester's "chit" tickets.

First Mallett Chapel Show 11:40 Today

Dick Mallett, new chairman for Friday chapels, announces that the new student chapel series will get under way at 11:40 this morning. Les Sparks is scheduled to show the movies of last year's campus activities, including a series from Glee complete with the presentations as well as bets.

Mallett, a junior in pre-med, has been active in chapel shows since he joined the V-12 unit in November, 1943. His piano work and Junior Glee songs have made him known throughout the campus.

A committee has been named by Mallett to assist him in scheduling entertaining programs this term. Members are Bud Davis, former SAX and present Blue Key member, Walt Skrondal, active in chapel programs ever since he arrived at Willamette, and Wilma Froman, social chairman. Miss Froman is to work with Mallett in planning a quick hop some Friday during chapel period, details of which will be announced later.

Mallett is also planning to try to obtain some outside entertainment as the student body has been without such programs for quite some time.

A sum not to exceed $50 was set aside by the ASWU council Wednesday to care for any expenses of the committee.

Drop Indicated In Registration

Figures still incomplete after this week's registration show that enrollment for the second semester is reduced from that of last term. Registration of civilian students Wednesday had reached 398 in the three colleges of the university, with 145 navy students registered.

Last semester's enrollment of civilian students reached the 450 mark with 200 navy students enrolled. Navy enrollment reduction from that of last semester is approximately 50 with the reduction in civilian enrollment approximately the same. Civilian registration is expected to go over the 400 mark before completion, according to Dean Walter E. Erickson, registrar.

Contributions Of Navy Close Tomorrow

With the close of the Red Cross drive among navymen slated for this weekend, the campaign among civilian students in the campus drive for the Red Cross will begin Monday. Goal of the campaign, which will continue through Wednesday of next week, is $300, which means that approximately $1 is asked from each student in order that the drive go over the top.

The drive has been organized this year in connection with the annual national drive for Red Cross funds through the campus Red Cross unit with Bill Stortz serving as general chairman. Aiding him will be representatives chosen from each of the living organizations.

Handling contributions within campus living groups will be Delta Phi, Lee Tingstad; Alpha Chi Omega, Betty Staab; Delta Tau Gamma, Dorothy Zerzan; Frederickson, Doris Bartholomy; Kappa, Nina Graves; Alpha hall, Verna Stocks; and civilian men, Bill Habernicht. Dean Daniel Schultz is handling faculty contributions.

Plans now include a booth to be set up in Eaton hall during the campus drive for collection of students' contributions and soliciting of the campus living groups by the representatives appointed from each group.

The drive among many students was handled through the Salem Red Cross drive chairman and officers of the Willamette unit. Approximately $80 has been contributed by navymen, with the final windup slated for this weekend. Bob Wallace has headed Lausanne contributions.

Last year's campus drive netted $224 from civilian students and $157 collected among navymen.

President's Fireside Honors New Students

New students will climax their first Willamette week with a fireside at 7:30 tonight at University House, 180 S. Winter street. Campus representatives will act as hosts and hostesses assisting Pres. and Mrs. G. Herbert Smith.

The fireside replaces former receptions due to the small number of students newly enrolled.

Prospective students were guests of honor at a mixer Friday night in the ballroom of the Multnomah hotel in Portland. Approximately 75 prospective students attended.

BuPers Outlines New NROTC Setup Candidates to Complete Eight College Terms

General plans for the transition from the navy V-12 program to NROTC on July 1 were received by Lt. M. E. Woodell, commanding officer, this week. Although the proposed change has been much discussed for the last few months, this is the first official bulletin from the bureau of naval personnel received by this unit.

The rapid expansion of officer strength made necessary by critical demands at the beginning of the war is now no longer necessary, explains the order. "It will therefore soon be possible to permit officer candidates once more to complete a full eight-term course in college before qualifying for commission."

With the exception of pre-medical, pre-dental and pre-theological students who will continue with the present curricula and a few special cases, WU seamen will be transferred into the new program at the beginning of the summer term.

This plan does not include the enforced separation from officer training of any V-12 student for reasons other than those causing "bilges" in the past.

V-12's who qualify for flight training and are selected for transfer before July 1 will not be transferred to NROTC. Those desiring V-5 but not selected before that date will have the same privileges of application under the new program as they enjoyed before the transfer.

Liberty Ship To Bear Name Of University

The SS Willamette Victory, named in honor of Willamette university, will be launched from the yards of the Oregon Shipbuilding corporation in Portland some time around March 30, according to notification from the Maritime Commission received this week by Pres. G. Herbert Smith. The ship is one of 40 Liberty freighters to be named after colleges in the country.

Complete details of the launching are not yet known, according to Smith who will confer next week with public relations officials of the yard on the plans.

More Than a Second

The nation is witnessing the greatest Red Cross War Fund Drive yet conducted. Its goal is to raise enough money to finance Red Cross work for an entire year at an estimated cost of $6 per second.

We are asked to give a "second" or $6 when a volunteer worker contacts us for our contributions, but students can give more than a second—by volunteering for work in one of the many branches of Red Cross activities. Nurses aides, staff assistants, social case workers, typists, motor corps members, blood donors, to mention a few.

The Willamette chapter is a new one, but that shouldn't mean that it won't have capable workers in the varied phases of Red Cross work. The men in the service will be far more appreciative of constructive work such as that of the Red Cross than useless worrying by those at home.

Whatever the work we undertake, let's follow through until the victory is won, not merely on the horizon. L. B.

"Hullo-ullo-ullo"

With the opening of the annual state high school basketball tourney in the Willamette gymnasium next Thursday, the campus will be subjected to a veritable deluge of preppers from all sections of the state. Combined with the staging of the university high school speech tournament, the weekend will undoubtedly attract more high schoolers than any event on any other college campus in Oregon.

Their presence is an opportunity that Willamettes should not fail to capitalize on. For the reaction of our own prep school guests to our campus and students will be carried by them back to their respective schools and communities thus in a measure creating the state-wide reputation of Willamette.

A smile and a hello has ever been a profitable policy but during the coming weekend they will pay double returns. To quote a venerable Willamette sage . . . "Hullo-ullo-ullo-ullo."

Song of Spring

Spring is here! Well, almost anyhow . . . daphne in bloom, dew in the air and birds on the wing! Spring is the season in which everything blooms (even my hay fever) and they say the moon is made of bigger and better cheese!

But these are not the most visible characteristics by which spring is identified. When spring arrives and the books are shoved aside (I'm only kidding Miss Plummer, honestly), a young man's fancy turns to love.

Even today the signs of approaching spring are plainly shown by Royal Hart and Lois Lewis with their touching exhibition of hand-holding. By March 21 hundreds of couples will be holding hands (warning girls: use Ivory to prevent dishpan hands; no chap's hand for the chapped hand). On this same date Marv Goodman will reverse the procedure and chase the women!

Dr. Lantz will hire three additional secretaries, and Jim Conway will get his line ready for—trout. Perhaps the oddest sight will be Joe Mijich practicing for the annual Mijich vs. Mantle 20-yard dash. Joe promises that he'll win by a nose this year (Mantle has gone to middle school!)

However, you'll know the day spring arrives, so there's no use marking it on your calendar. When your chilblains bother you no longer, your sniffles cease and Dr. Kohler's English classes take place on the front lawn with the bees buzzing around, then spring has officially arrived!

Hobby Knobbing

. . . With the Profs

In these busy days, people discuss hobbies much less than they did "way back when" there was no OPA, ODT, WMC and a cigarette shortage. Nevertheless, in this very recent poll of campus notables, we find most of the true hobbyists are still active despite wartime restrictions on materials.

Among the professors, photography was registered the most number of times, with the addition of "but I can't get film" in the same breath. For instance, Leslie Sparks is a very ardent amateur movie producer. He cuts and edits his own films and says the 1945 Glee pictures are colossal. "Sparky" also depends upon badminton, tennis and current magazines as a source of relaxation.

Dr. Lantz says that next to cigars, he likes state basketball tournaments best. He has been associated with colleges in Texas, West Virginia, Nebraska (and Oregon), but hasn't missed a state tourney since 1928! Besides his deep love for cigars and basketball, Dr. Lantz also plays golf and eats steak smothered in mushrooms—(when his wife squanders the points).

In the chemistry department, Dr. Johnson takes the proverbial "busman's holiday" and "tinkers" with organic chemistry as a relief from the daily grind of organic chemistry. Dr. McLeod is quite active as a Boy Scout Commissioner (as is Dr. Lantz) and goes in for badminton and Victory gardening when his off-spring isn't keeping him occupied. Also a very devoted gardener is Dean Schultze, whose specialty—as ye German students know—is begonias.

From the second deck of Collins hall come two more photographers—namely Drs. Monk and Tschudy. Monk, however, devotes the major portion of his hobby time to the baby. Tschudy (being an extremist) is also very enthusiastic over mountain climbing and (who'd 'a thought it?)—deep sea diving for abalones and such. Methinks that super 2½ gallon wind-swept sombrero is a hobby too! (Oh—if he only had a silver studded saddle for his bicycle).

To represent the navy, Chief "Duke" Trotter plays lots of handball and works crossword puzzles when he gets tired. When home in California the "Duke" operates a small metal and wood shop. "Mac" McGuire, aside from his undying love of clicking the candid, is quite interested in foreign languages. Judging from "Mac's" legal vocabulary of ex post facto, etc., we may also assume that he is an amateur lawyer.

The prize of them all, however, was Prof. Knight's reply to the question, "What is your favorite hobby?" Without a moment of hesitation he answered, "Besides my wife?"

So the moral of this tale is—whether you snap pictures, play hop-scotch, or collect bills from Breithaupt's—a hobby now as after the war is your key to "Sack-off Gracefully and Like It."

Introducing - -

"M'name's John but they call me Bill" Stortz in spite of his recent wound, Lee Tinglestad and that becootiful convertible has just accepted the leadership of Willamette's campaign for funds for the Red Cross. "The drive will start on Monday," the collector states, and students are urged to start cleaning out the mattress now.

Bill has been getting all kinds of sympathy from his fellow students as he has strolled the campus for the past week with his paw hanging limp before him. He hastens to explain that Lee is cleared of all blame for his disability. Lee's such a "nice kid" sighs the passionate lover.

As one of Bill's closer friends commented on the recent arm injury, "Um hum, he thought Lee said to stand up, while she really said shut up!" However, whether this bears any truth or not, Bill is mighty proud of his "queen."

Bill must admit that he attempted the amputation of his digits all by himself by plunging his fist through a window pane, cutting an artery. You see, he was changing a tire, and was putting the finishing touches on his masterpiece by stamping it into place, balancing himself against the window, when . . . well, we all can't be Quizz Kids.

"Contrary to the general belief among the profs," Bill spends most of his time studying. If anyone wishes to doubt this statement, Mr. Stortz advises him to try a poly sci major under Gatke, the book-mad monster of the Eaton halls. Sigma Tau and Blue Key also claim a portion of Bill's time, however, and he tried his hand (what hand) at baseball managership in his freshman year.

Born and bred in the briar patch, the Red Cross chairman has been a Salem boy all his life. In the summer time, he has taken to truck driving, hauling sawdust. Always anxious for free advertising, Stortz here puts in a passionate plea, "Does your sawdust taste different lately?"

If you ever wish to find Bill, it's a pretty sure chance that you'll find him in the "Cat Cavern" with his cohorts Val Sloper, Marilyn Nelson, and ah, Lee, playing cards. (In case anyone of authority is reading this, Bill really spends a great deal of his time in pursuing knowledge, honestly).

Suffering an attack of infantile paralysis at the age of three, Bill is now unable to enter the service, so he is concentrating his energy on his studies preparatory to a law course . . . And from what his fellow students (who might be just a wee bit bitter) and Lee (who might be just a wee bit prejudiced) and his profs (who ought to know) say, he'll make Dan'l Webster sit up and take notice.

Minute Observations . . .

Gee, springth bath sprungth! Luff ith in bloomth . . . and lth got hayth fever in my noad! Ohp dis owfull daffodillys!

Consternation

While strolling through Collins the other day, a most horrible outburst rent the quiet of the halls (resembling a somewhat high ghoulish "yelp." It seems the transgressor was Dr. Tschudy. It all started when Tom Stern, in his most professional manner, entered the "serene" laboratory of the previously mentioned prof and requested an attentive ear to his serious tale of woe. He had come to report that Chuck Strong (asking if the good doctor "remembered" such a personage) would not be able to make his afternoon lab as he was at the Deaconess hospital on the operating table. While trying to gain composure of himself, Stern decided that perhaps the shock was unduly great and so further informed the bac prof that Selrahe Gnorts (spelled backwards) was giving his Type Q blood in a transfusion!

Accentuate the Positive

Had to go over to the DP house the other day and witnessed a very interesting item on the bulletin board: "Betty Randall, Male called, 'I love you,' signed, Betty Randall." Nothing but true love!

Spell of Ill Humor

Reminiscing over the past vacation, we mustn't forget to overlook the fact that "Duke" Trotter spent the time entertaining mumps!

The Check, Jeeves

So many people had such good times during inter-semester "holidays," especially a certain group who spent a few days in Los Angeles. Since the food bill was mounting, and since the English movie actor Alan Mowbray was present, they decided he might be in a benevolent mood and so approached him and proceeded to tell him they were headed for Collins Island in the Waller group on the USS Lausanne! Were they successful? Who paid the bills? They did! Including the movie actor's!

Don't Give Up The Ship

Yessir! It seems our boy came thru again. If ever you find yourself in a situation of not knowing which form of transportation (modern or otherwise) to indulge in, just ask Parkin. He tried all kinds getting back from leave!

It all started in Fairfield, Iowa, which is just as you'd expect, nothing but a mediocre plain; another interesting point is that it's Parkin's hometown. "Nothing fancy about that place," Bill screams hysterically, "just plain." Our hero left this fair city and headed for Des Moines where his buddy, the pilot, and his plane were waiting just for him.

Upon his arrival he was shocked to hear that there were shorts in the magneto. Don't get excited now, girls, it's just an electricity failure in the engine . . . that postponed the take-off until the next day, so Bill just had to make the best of it. That by the way, was WAC payday at Des Moines and Bill assures us that he's never had so much fun since the pigs ate his little brother.

Then there was a terrific snowstorm and they were grounded again. The next morning brought better weather and the big C-46 army transport took off and there was our Billy hanging by his toes from the wingtip trying to make sure that there were no strings attached this time.

Shortly after flying over the great Salt Lake—things had been uneventful until now—they encountered a fierce snowstorm (again). Trying to fly over this menace, they ran into many difficulties. At 14,000 feet their riding was rough and everyone became airsick; at 16,000 feet there was no air, no oxygen masks and no heater. The outside temperature at this point was 16 degrees below zero and it wasn't too comfy without that heater!

They finally had to chance an emergency landing at Fallon, Nev. The landing gear was smashed by no one was hurt. All this time, our Bill was up in the pilot's compartment shooting the breeze with his toy pop-gun . . . rather the pilot was slowly going crazy at the controls of his trusty ship!

The rest of the trip is just routine. He caught a navy bus to Reno, wired home, caught a train to Oakland, a boat to Frisco, hitch-hiked to Hamilton field, and caught a bus to Eureka. From this point, he finished out his "destination Willamette" by extending the thumb of the right hand north.

BEEFS and BOUQUETS

Fellow Students:

As last semester so hastily ended, and the Anchor's Aweigh dance becomes past history, it came to our attention that much of the time-taking efforts of sub-committees on decorations went by unacknowledged.

These men designed and built separate features of the entire decoration plan. After the dance, many of the "bouquets" were directed to the co-chairman and the decorations chairmen. It is we who now wish to acknowledge with sincere thanks the willing labor of Stan Boyd, Tom Ashford, Chuck Strong, Bud Davis, John Schoppert, Carsty Lien, Ron McReary, Chuck Larkin, Dean Smith, Dick Mallett, Marv Goodman, Bob Carpenter, Art Dickerson and Con Pavlock.

Without the help of these men, and the men who so willingly aided the sub-committees, the decorations would have been impossible!

Orientation For Freshmen On Chapel Bill

Chapel schedule for next week will include no Monday chapel, according to Dean Olive Dahl, who remarked that the class of newly registered freshmen is too small to necessitate a special chapel.

Tuesday will feature the orientation of students. Pres. G. Herbert Smith plans to discuss something of Willamette's outline for the future. Dean Walter E. Erickson and Rich Wicks, student body president, will also have a few words of welcome for new students.

Prof. John Knight has secured Dr. Jesse Bunch, pastor of the First Methodist church of Corvallis, as guest speaker at religious chapel Wednesday. A large part of Bunch's congregation is constituted of college men and women at O.S.C.

Thursday chapel plans have not yet been announced but are underway, states Louise Cutler, newly appointed chapel committee chairman. Actively interested in making the most of chapels, she stressed in particular her desire to talk over any suggestions or complaints. All students who are interested in seeing better chapels and who have helpful ideas to offer are asked to get in touch with Miss Cutler or one of the other two members, Mary Goodman and Maxine Wagner. The committee's slogan is, "What the Students Want Is What We Want."

'Cat Counter Now in Annex

Sipping their cokes at the Cavern Annex, 'Cat enthusiasts peered at the fountain, still not installed this week. The delay in getting service ship-shape has been caused by the need of a new copper tank, Manager Geneva Brown explains.

Until the remodeling work has been completed, the Cavern's wares will be supplied in the Annex, served from a table in the doorway. The usual orders will still be available.

In spite of extra work caused by renovations, the same hours will be observed this semester:

Mondays through Fridays: 8:30 to 5 p.m.—7:30 to 9.
Saturdays: 8:30 to noon.

10 Speakers Compete in First Major Tourney at Linfield Today

Ten students are representing Willamette at the 16th annual northwestern invitational forensic tournament now being held at Linfield college with final decisions awaiting tomorrow's developments.

Representatives from Montana, Utah, California, Idaho, Washington and Oregon have entered the contest in which 20 to 30 schools are participating. Prizes will be awarded to final winners and the finalists will be chosen from three preliminary rounds.

Representing Willamette at this tournament are Joyce Feiden, interpretation and extemp; Lois Messing, interpretation; Kay Karnopp, interpretation, after dinner and extemp; Caroline Cooper, interpretation and impromptu; Bettyann Boettcher, interpretation, extemp and impromptu; Rich Wicks, debate, extemp and impromptu; Matt Gruber, debate, extemp and impromptu; Nevitt Smith, oratory, interpretation and after dinner; Chuck Strong, interpretation, and Stan Boyd, interpretation and impromptu.

The practice tourney also held at Linfield last week included the team representing the university today in debate, composed of Wicks and Gruber. The team tied for second place out of the 12 teams competing.

In this first tourney, Wicks took first in impromptu and extemp and Gruber tied for third in impromptu and took fourth in extemp. These latter positions were won from among a field of 30. Students from Pacific university, Pacific college, Linfield, OSC, and Willamette served as judges for this contest.

Another tournament coming up is the Seattle Pacific tourney to be held in Seattle next Tuesday and Wednesday. Latest announcement is that the university may be represented but it is not definitely decided as yet. Dr. Herbert E. Rahe, head of the speech department, is in charge of the arrangements committee for the contest.

Two Speech Tourneys Set For WU Soon

Announcement was made this week that Willamette is to play host to two speech tournaments within the next few weeks.

The annual Old Line Oratory date hasn't been set as yet but tryouts will be held on Tuesday, March 20 at 2 p.m., in Dr. Herbert E. Rahe's office. All manuscripts must be written by that time but they need not be memorized for the tryout. Each entrant may choose any subject he desires but the maximum time limit is 12 minutes.

The men's and women's divisions will be judged separately and first place carries with it $10, second place earning $5.

The other contest to be sponsored by Willamette and held on the campus on Friday and Saturday of next week, is the high school speech contest with nine schools from the state participating. These will be Roseburg, Hillsboro, Gresham, Corvallis, Medford, Salem, Sheridan, Albany and Beaverton. Divisions will be oratory, extemp, humorous interpretation, serious interpretation and debate.

Anyone who is experienced in speech contest work is asked to see Rahe or Matt Gruber immediately to assist in the judging and arrangements.

"Beginning to See the Light" Tops Parade

"I'm Beginning to See the Light" starts this term's pen-pushers off right on the top of the Bearcat juke-box hit parade. The popular selections turn pensive, however, with "You Always Hurt the One You Love" and "The Boy Next Door" claiming second and third place honors.

"What Am I Here For" moans the fourth place ditty, while fifth place "Opus I" claims the attention of more serious music students—of Tommy Dorsey.

Slated Artist In Service

The disappointment of holders of campus concert tickets at the failure of Avron Twerdowsky, cellist, to appear last Monday evening as scheduled can be chalked up to the war. Dean Melvin H. Geist of the music school this week explained that he had received a communication from Twerdowsky stating that he was keeping a date with his draft board and would thus be unable to fulfill the Salem engagement.

Twerdowsky was to have been the fourth artist to appear in the series, previous performers included Hazel Hildred, mezzo-soprano, Gertrude Hopkins, harpist, and Georgia Graves, contralto.

Gremlins Score Three Direct Hits on Unsuspecting Navymen

The gremlins must have been hired by the ODT over leave for they lured three of our boys into the dens of scalpel-bedazzlers during vacation.

Frank Jungers spent his "Ten Days with Baby" at the Salem General, having a recapping job done on a couple of abdominal muscles. He's in the pink again, however, and will be back on the campus to wing at all his pretty little dark eyes this weekend.

Joe Sanford is in the ship's health factory with infectious mononucleosis. In case that 50-cent word isn't in your vocabulary don't feel blue, for even Joe doesn't know what it means. He does know that it has taken so much strength from him that he isn't able to turn the top off a bottle. Although very weak, our Joe Ferguson of "The Male Animal" was able to make this statement for the press, "You may tell my public that I am resting easily and plan to be convalescing in the Cavern sometime next week."

Bud Davis, the new battalion commander, has not yet returned from leave. He is AWOL by virtue of an appendectomy that took him off his feet two hours after arriving at home in Rexburg, Idaho. He first planned to go "South of the Border" with Bob Forman over leave to demonstrate his famous Willamette style at the Mexican bull fights, but altered his plans when he heard that his brother was home on leave. Bud plans to be back at the helm on the steps of Lausanne sometime next week.

Hurry up and get well, fellas. We are waiting — especially Duke. He's so lonesome without you.

Battalion Contributes To Navy Relief Fund

Men of the Willamette battalion contributed $60.12 to the navy relief fund in a recent drive. It was announced this week. "The unit is to be commended on its generous response to this appeal," Lt. M. E. Woodell, commanding officer, stated.

V-12's 'On the Tree' ... in Front of Waller

The 3.0 lists come out after each grading period, but this morning there's a special list of those, literally, "on the tree." Posted on the tree in front of Waller are the names of new SAX pledges Matt Gruber, Dale Hunsaker, Jack Schoppert, Claude Knecht, Bill Bannecker, Chuck Ott, Bob Tate and Bob Ward.

In the Spring A Young Man's Fancy.....

Romance is in the air, wafted on the first breath of spring. The announcement of engagements and the revealing of wedding plans by many Willamette students and alums holds the highlight in romantic news of the past vacation. With many women returning to the campus wearing the traditional "third finger left hand" ring, and others making plans for leaving for eastern weddings or planning weddings here, romance is in full swing. News of marriages of many ex-Willamette students and alums has reached the campus during the holiday season and their friends on the campus will be interested in the announcement of these marriages.

Alums Reveal Wedding Plans and Dates; Tracy-Hunter Rites to Be Read March 21

News of wedding plans of many ex-Willamette students and graduates has reached the campus after the holidays. Friends on the campus will be interested in the revealing of these ceremonies.

ON THE BALL

With Pav

According to past records, editors come and editors go on this sports sheet to the average of about one a semester, and from all far-sighted predictions, it'll probably happen again next semester, but meanwhile we'll do what we can in giving you as good a roundup of campus sports as possible.

Recognition, of course, to ex-sportsster Stan "Doff" Boyd who has blossomed out to take over the Wallulah sports section in addition to lending aid on this page. Loads of promises to Headwoman Cathie Thomas, and out goes the welcome mat to the new sports staff.

Varsity sports are at a standstill for the present. Basketball officially over and the spring sports program not yet drawn up forces us to turn to intramural which is sticking indoors awaiting the kind disposition of old man weather.

More Competition for 'Cat Baseballers . . .

Big things are planned, however, for both 'mural and varsity, with the latter probably majoring in baseball. The announcement of a baseball season at the University of Washington, Washington State, Whitman, Reed college, Klamath Falls and good intentions from the University of Oregon, Oregon State and the new navy base at Corvallis speak for the possibility of a well-rounded season. Maybe, too, a little warm-up game with the Portland Beavers for the 'Cats, no? Let's hope that this athletic situation here at Willamette gets squared away fast and permits the boys to display some of the really good baseball talent to be found on campus.

Additional troubles to be ironed out come as to available playing days. Saturdays, yes; Fridays, doubtful; Sundays, by some ancient pious rule, no. Have to do something there.

Sunshine, You Say . . .

Spring fever has precipitated itself on the campus already as numerous eager beavers have been taking over Sweetland and the tennis courts, basking in what they optimistically call sunshine and swinging rackets and bats. More power to them, but we're inclined to be more critical of the qualifications of sunshine.

Volleyball Tourney in Offing . . .

For the forthcoming 'mural program, we must needs await the state high school tourney which will be run off on the university court next weekend. Following that will be an all-school volleyball league which is now in its development stages. The idea in this league is for coed participation, and Don Drake and Les Sparks have worked out what appears to be an interesting setup. Civilians, navy, coeds and faculty all entering teams with femmes and males on the same teams. Looks like lots of fun, and another chance for closer school relations. Watch for the opening runs on Tuesday, March 20.

What with the recent topsy-turvy changeabout of rooms at Lausanne, who can now rightfully boast of ribbons, pennants or past 'mural athletic crowns in the various platoons? Seems as though we'll have to start with a clean slate again and forget the past.

No information has been handed as about the Knecht-Griffith-managed badminton tournament which is to alternate with the volleyball run-offs, but there seems to be plenty of interest in such a tourney, and it'll be set up soon. Also expected this semester will be another 'mural swimming meet, surely a repetition of the successful navy smoker, and, when the weather permits, softball.

More Basketball . . .

Although the basketball season is officially closed for the 'Cats, a number of the boys—practically the 'Cat varsity without legal representation—are meeting a pickup squad from the hospital base at Corvallis here in the gymnasium tonight. A second game will feature a team from Maples against another Corvallis Navy quintet. The Corvallis boys have lots of talent but no real organization; however, they have gathered a couple outfits together and will be here in force this evening. Drop over—it's free.

Some More . . .

The Northern division Pacific Coast Conference wind-up is only a week away between the University of Oregon and Washington State. The first game is to be played on the Cougar's stamping ground, but the second and third, if necessary, will be at Eugene Friday and Saturday nights, March 15 and 16. So, what with the state high school tourney here and the play-off at Eugene, there's going to be lots of good basketball played around here next weekend.

Willamette's two All-American aqua-stars will be preparing for action soon, with an eye on some nearby meets. Both Merk and Sue will be emerging from a winter's hibernation and will be in for a lot of intensive shaping-up again. Lots of luck, gals, and let's hope for new laurels.

'Cat Netters Revive To Meet Adair Navy; Maples On Twin Bill

Basketball will be revived for one evening when the Willamette basketballers again don their tops tonight to engage the Corvallis naval hospital five. Maples Sporting Goods team of the city league will play another quintet representing the naval hospital. The first game will begin at 7 p.m. in the Willamette gym.

The Bearcats will try to come out of retirement to hand the naval hospital, manned by ex-college stars, a set-back. Although just recuperating from a leave, most of the 'Cat cagers believe they can regain their shooting abilities that gave the Whitman Missionaries such a bad evening prior to the vacation period.

Ken Gilpin and Sandy Sanderson will be missing from the 'Cat lineup as a result of inter-semester transfers. Despite this loss there will be plenty of substitutes for the Bearcats.

A starting five will be picked from the following men: Vic Odegard, Bob Ward, Dick Olson, Marv Goodman, forwards; Paul Stoffts and Wayne Mayfield, centers; Gib Zauft, Bob Tate and Ken Waldroff, guards.

The starting five for the Maples quintet will probably consist of Statesman Sports Editor Al Lightner, Navy Chief Bob Maguire, Schwartzkopf, Bill Magness and Bill Waite. No information is available on the hospital teams.

The game will not be considered as a portion of the official Bearcat schedule, however, with the team composed entirely of Cat varsity men, it will be actually representing the university.

No admission is to be charged. The first game will start at 7:00 p.m.

Prep Casaba Playoffs Start Wednesday

Willamette university will again be host to the annual Oregon state high school basketball tournament next weekend. The 20th annual meeting of district champions in the A and B divisions will begin on Wednesday and wind up with the championship playoff Saturday evening, March 17.

This year's entry field has many teams with almost spotless records which should make the coming tournament one of the best in years. Some districts have yet to produce a representative. In this group and waiting to play deciding tilts are Hood River and Baker in Eastern Oregon, Medford and Prineville, Eugene and Myrtle Point in Southern Oregon. Experts are following these games with much interest.

Last year was the first time in six years that Portland had an entry in the competition. This year Washington high will again represent the Rose City. Boasting a long win streak, they will enter the tourney as one of the favorites.

The state B division championship will also be played along with A division games. B division championship games will be played as a preliminary to the A division championship game Saturday evening.

Gym Floor Refinished

The university gym floor has now acquired a new face. Athletic director Leslie J. Sparks stated today. The floor was completely refinished at the cessation of classes last semester, and now sports a clean glossy surface in readiness for the state high school tourney next weekend.

The greatest difficulty in refishing the floor this year was the problem of the removal of black marks made by gym shoes with reclaimed rubber soles, and the smoothing over of mars and scratches from various sources.

Although the floor is now ready for use, physical education classes are being held, for the most part, outdoors in order that the court may be kept in as good a condition as possible for the tournament.

Kendall Tops Navy Fitness

February 13 of last semester marked another day of weary muscles for the navymen as physical fitness tests were the order of the day in the gym. A total of 191 sailors took the tests, of whom only two Charlie Atlases emerged with scores of over 80.

Upholding past findings that size and physical brawn are not everything, medium-sized Bill Kendall stepped into Jack Watson's shoes as battalion Muscle Man with a score of 82. Schumacker was close on his heels with the fine showing of 80.8.

Nineteen additional men rang up scores of 69 and over in the following order: Tyndall, 78.6; Cummings, 77.4; Silvis, 75.8; Bennet, 74; Simmons, 73.4; Gray, 73.4; Fogle, 72; Pavlock, 72; Stern, 72; Thomas, 71.2; Odegard, 71; Smith, W. P., 70.8; Ayers, J. E., 70.2; Murphy, 70.2; Boyd, 70; Dickerson, 70; Parkin, 69.8; Kellis, 69.2; Allen, D. O., 69.

The physical fitness tests consist of a series of five endurance exercises and are given universally in all V-12 units. The exercises are squat thrust, sit up, push up, squat jump, and pull up.

Individual high in the squat thrust was Schumacker with 50 thrusts followed closely by Dickerson, Gray and Cummings. In the situp exercise, Murphy and Kendall tied with 206 each; Parkin scored 200. Kendall again tied for first in pushups with Schumacker, each doing 50. In squat jumps, Chuck Strong outdistanced the rest with 92, three ahead of Schumacker and Gray with 89. Floyd Simmons and Tyndall were top men in the pullups with 25 pulls apiece.

The average score in the battalion was 62.5, a bit lower than the average for the summer semester, as was Kendall's 82 for top honors somewhat below Jack Watson's 86.4.

Volley Tourney Organized; Drake Lists Regulations Featuring Coed Players

This week marks the realization of a new idea in co-educational sports here at Willamette. Mixed teams are now being organized by Chairman Don Drake within the houses and campus groups to compete in a mixed volleyball tournament.

Those troupe include the six navy platoons, Alpha Chi Omega, Chi Omega, Delta Phi, Pi Beta Phi, Fredrickson hall, Alpha Psi hall, Kappa hall, the Y, town women, civilian men and faculty.

The games have been arranged to be played in a round-robin fashion with the first two to be played Tuesday, March 20. The play will probably run about seven weeks as the schedule calls for two games a night both Tuesday and Thursday nights of each week. The starting time will be set at 4:15 p.m. and all teams will be required to be there at that time.

The rules as laid out by the rules committee are to be followed to the letter, states Drake. They have been listed as follows:

1. Men's groups must choose three women to play upon their team. Any coed who is registered as a student is eligible.
2. Women's groups must choose three men to play upon their team. Any man either navy or civilian is eligible.
3. A team is to have at least a minimum of six players and a maximum of nine; however, if less than six are present, the team may elect to play with the smaller number only if the required three guest players are included in the team.
4. Failure of a team to appear automatically forfeits the game to the other team.
5. Two out of three games will be played with the game score at 21.

According to Leslie J. Sparks, the leadership classes will referee this newest of sports upon the campus and the decision of the "ref" will be final.

Ed Gothe Heads SAX This Term

First of Sigma Alpha Chi's activities this semester will be initiation of new pledges whose names are made public today on the tree in front of Waller hall. At a meeting early this week new officers were elected to head the sophomore men's honorary. Ed Gothe is this semester's president with Joe Mijich as vice president and Con Pavlock serving as secretary-treasurer.

Plans for the semester's activities of the honorary were made at the meeting, but no definite dates have been set for social affairs.

Draft of Term Dates Posted for Correction

A copy of the tentative schedule of social events for the spring semester is now posted on the bulletin board in Eaton hall. Representatives of the various campus organizations are requested to check the calendar for the dates petitioned by them at the social calendar meeting held earlier.

Corrections and additions must be made in the office of the dean of women by Monday of next week to allow sufficient time for preparation of a final draft which will be distributed to those organizations.

Aqua-Stars Start Training

With the advent of a little sunshine, reminiscent of summer, the two coed swimming stars on the campus are commencing to prepare for summer swim meets. Nancy Merki and Suzanne Zimmermann are the two women with the mermaid tendencies, and after a comparatively "dry" winter, the pair are again ready to begin a long training period in preparation for local, national and perhaps international aquatic contests.

In the next couple of weeks, the crawling coeds will be beginning to dog-paddle at the local "Y" pool. They will be training from that time straight through until summer and their first meet. It will be the Western Women's Championship contests held in Los Angeles. They will be working so steadily that they won't even take time out for the first local event at Portland's Multnomah Club late this month.

Their second big meet this summer will also be in Los Angeles, this one the National Women's Championships in the Colosseum pool. The coeds hope to get to South America while they still have fins, and if all goes well, with the war as well as in the water, this may be the year. We all certainly hope so, as we know of no two fish—pardon us, swimmers—who deserve it more.

Dormitory Fund Drive Commences

General solicitation for the dormitory fund drive will begin around April 1, according to Pres. G. Herbert Smith, who serves as chairman of the executive committee conducting the drive. To date, $120,000 of the goal of $321,000 has been collected.

MODERN DESIGN

Lt. (JG) Quentin H. Isely, ex '42, visited the campus this month after returning from 13 months' duty in the southwest Pacific. Isely has been seeing duty on a PT boat.

Graydon Anderson, '38, and his sister, Mrs. Homer Millard, (Chloe Anderson, '42), were recent campus visitors. Anderson has returned from two years' sea duty and will report to New Orleans, La., at the termination of his leave. Mrs. Millard is working in Portland while her husband is overseas.

Wally McCall, former member of the class of '45, and prominent participant in forensics, spent some time on the campus recently and told friends here of plans to go to Stanford university. McCall was in the army and has received a discharge.

Harold Malde, another member of the class of '45, is back on the campus and has enrolled this semester. A former Alpha Psi Delta, he was an ensign in the navy before receiving a discharge.

Marvin Humphreys, ex '41, is in Salem on 30-day furlough following time spent in an army hospital in Spokane. Humphreys served 35 months in the South Pacific after being called with the national guard. Following his furlough he will return to the hospital.

He is a pilot with the 10th air force. His wife, the former Helen Kestly, is making her home in Salem while he is overseas.

Robert Blanding, '42, has been assigned to a recently commissioned ship, the USS Granville. Lt. (j.g.) Barnick's promotion came after giving an emergency blood transfusion while seeing duty in the South Pacific where he has been for nearly a year.

Drive for WU Blood Donors To Continue

The Red Cross blood donor drive is still underway with Willamette's quota set at ten donors per week. Those wishing to sign up may do so by contacting Betty Randall, blood bank chairman. Students should be over 18 years of age and all civilians under 21 must have their parents' consent. Free coffee and doughnuts are served at the First Methodist church center, and chapel excuses may be granted to the students. All navy men should register with Bud Davis.

Although Willamette students are not under obligation to go with the Willamette group to the blood bank, it is to the university's credit that it be represented.

Miss Randall and Dr. Kenneth McLeod are now members of the Galloner club, as each have donated nine pints of blood.

WU Man Plays Leading Role In Drama of Jap Internment

William Chittick, member of the graduating class of '21, recently freed when American forces entered Manila and liberated those people interned in Santo Thomas university, played an active part in relieving the internees suffering as long as possible and for a while managed to outfit the Japs at their own game.

Chittick was vice president and general manager of the Western Equipment and Supply company in Manila before the war started. After being interned he was appointed to run the front gate liaison and supervise the "package line"—the means by which outsiders could send food and clothes into camp to the internees. Often the package line meant the difference between starvation and survival until its abolishment in February, 1944. Objects were sent in by friends and loyal houseboys and servants.

When the camp was first set up, packages were thrown over the walls but the Japanese civilian administration soon set up a line and inspection system by means of which they examined the contents of the packages. Chittick and his crew were present during these line inspections and were able to send out orders for food and clothing by subterfuge means.

The line reached its height in 1942 when 900 outsiders were sending supplies to internees. But as the food situation tightened within Manila, the packages grew less and less in number and the Japanese subsequently laid on more restrictions. When this crisis arrived, Chittick managed

Trustees Act On Faculty Promotions

Dr. Chester F. Luther, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, was named to the James T. Matthews chair in mathematics at the annual winter meeting of the board of trustees. The first person other than the late Dr. Matthews, mathematics professor for 50 years, to hold the chair, Luther will continue his work as dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

Maurice Brennen was promoted from instructor to assistant professor of instrumental music. Dr. Robert E. Lantz, Dr. Kenneth McLeod and Dr. Robert Tschudy were all advanced to associate professors in their respective departments.

Jesse J. Gard, vice president of the US National Bank in Portland, was named to the board of trustees. Dr. J. C. Harrison, president of the board, was authorized to appoint a committee on campus planning and new buildings. Among the work of the committee probably will be the plans for a men's dormitory.

to set up a smuggling business by using bribery and cajolery among the Japanese guards. It is his opinion that he was able to keep it working this long because the guards got a kick out of beating their own rules. Polite blackmailing was even indulged in when Chittick would catch a guard pilfering food and use this knowledge to further the line.

Lantz Nears End of Oregon School Survey

For the purpose of strengthening the university's department of education, Dr. Robert E. Lantz has visited 27 high schools in Oregon during the last semester.

Lantz wished to become familiar with educational conditions in Oregon in order that the university may best serve the needs of the education systems. He discussed various problems with the principals, superintendents and Willamette graduates who are now teaching in Oregon high schools. "By doing this," states Lantz, "I was able to find out their attitude toward education and to obtain suggestions as to how a teachers' training may be improved." Besides talking with faculty members, he discussed the matters with members of the communities in which he visited.

A complete file of this year's Collegians was taken to each of the high schools by Dr. Lantz for the interest of the teachers who were formerly Willamette students. Copies of the annual and the Fusers Guide were also taken.

Lantz still plans to visit two more schools in the near future to complete his survey.

Glee Banners Here For Soph Winners

Glee banners for the winning sophomore class are now in Dr. Robert E. Lantz' office. Any member of the sophomore class who participated in this year's Glee may obtain one of the miniature banners there.

Banners for last year's winning class are also available to those who did not obtain theirs last year.

The AMEN CORNER

Well, what do you know? Back again on the old stomping grounds and the semester not far enough along to have anything to stomp on. Too bad.

Change of Management

By the way, just a word for you curiosity-bitten people, this effervescent column has changed hands, or wagging tongues, because of the departure of Winona Henderson who was responsible for this corner of the paper during last semester.

Religious interest on the campus is at least starting out with unaccustomed fervor, every time your reporter wanted to gather some goo from the various societies, club and "gathering of people," they were having a committee meeting. That's a polite name for exchanging all those little tidbits of delightful drool derived from doings over the vacation. After all, you have to keep up with the gossip some way.

However, religious interest on ye olde campus really received a shot in the arm this week when student leaders met Tuesday afternoon with Dr. John Owen Gross, from the Nashville office of the Methodist board of education. With the helpful hints of Dr. Gross, the various organizations outlined a number of projects for this semester, some of which are the completion of the Little Chapel, an appropriate and inspirational student chapel on Good Friday and the improvement of the chapel programs each Wednesday.

If You've Got a Beef...

These are excellent suggestions that will increase considerably our religious life on the campus—if they are carried out. Some of you brain-stormy kids waddling around the campus ought to give them a slug of solutions—they would be greatly appreciated. After all, if you have any beefs, do something about them instead of bearing them under your bonnet.

How About a Date?

Attention all members of the Methodist Student Movement. Keep your ears and your eyes and the date of April 21 open. Big things are planned.

Speaking of big deals, the Negro students from Rust college deserve a hearty cheer—they really hit the jackpot in entertainment. They were not only grand singers, but good sports as well. The girls toured the campus, climbed the seemingly innumerable steps ("I was there") to the capitol dome, went walking all over the city in our beautiful liquid sunshine and participated in all the other activities planned for them without a murmur, despite the fact that they have been touring Oregon for over seven weeks, sometimes giving three or four performances a day. Pretty darn swell, we call it.

Willamettes Politically Minded

They just can't get away from Willamette students. We're just too good for them. Succeeding Marjorie (Bugs) Beadles as president of the Methodist Youth Fellowship for the Oregon Conference is Lois Messing, second-term freshman from Portland. Also elected at the meeting held February 25 were Larry Horton for vice president and Melvin Gilson for recreational chairman. We ought to have smooth sailing, huh?

A Little on the Serious Side...

Doody-doody-doo. Time out for a serious deliberation of the most important question, "Is a zebra white with black stripes, or black with white stripes?" Has that anything to do with a religious and stuff column? Well, it all goes to show you never can tell what some of these organizations are really doing, or does it, especially if they aren't doing anything.

Pavlock must have got sidetracked in another biology expedition. Couldn't even find him to learn what the Catholic Club is doing.

Superintendent of Schools Frank Bennett will speak at Vespers Sunday evening. A party is planned for the latter part of the evening.

Now Is the Time for All Good Reporters

There comes a time in the life of every reporter when he must come to the aid of his paper. So—so long.
