

PUGET SOUND DEFEATED BY FAST OFFENSIVE

Wap's Driving Smashes Take Ball Over Enemy's Line for Three Touchdowns.

COACH IS WELL PLEASED

Over Two Thousand Tacoma Football Fans Watch C. P. S. Go Down to Defeat Before Bears; Score Is 24-0.

By Bernard Ramsey

Twenty-five hundred Tacoma football fans saw the College of Puget Sound team go down to defeat before the fast Willamette team Saturday afternoon by a score of 24-0.

Working with the precision of a machine, the Bearcat offense swept down the field for three touchdowns, while Irvine's educated toe converted all three free kicks and added three more points with a field goal from the 25 yard line.

Willamette made 13 first downs for a total of 277 yards, while the Bearcats' stonewall defense allowed C. P. S. only three first downs, two of which were made by the aerial route.

Wapato's line plunging was a feature of the game. The big chief was able to pierce the opposing line for substantial gains whenever called upon. His driving smashes carried the ball over for all three touchdowns. Zeller, Rarey and Irvine displayed their usual brand of football, which is always enough to take the heart out of the opposition.

Rarey in particular, made some long gains which placed the ball within striking distance of the goal. On the line no particular man stood out. Every man was testing thru and tackling behind the line of scrimmage. In many ways it was the best exhibition of offensive and defensive football the Bearcats have yet shown, and Coach Matthews professes himself to be well pleased with the showing of the team.

Summary

C. P. S. kicked off to Zeller who returned to the 25 yard line. Zeller made nine yards off tackle. Rarey made eight yards and first down. Rarey made four, Wap three and Rarey four again for first down. Rarey made four yards but lost two on the next play. Rarey made three yards but failed to make yardage on the next play.

WOMAN IS PROGRESSIVE

Co-Ed of Married Status Progresses in Masquerade of Gop

The American woman is noted for her rapid progress in society. During the war she proved her ability to meet ever increasing demands of society and even donned masculine apparel to accomplish desired ends.

Willamette University is fortunate in having among her students one outstanding, progressive married woman. Armistice Day inspired her to action and she arrayed herself in her gobs uniform. Then she walked cautiously into the yard and approached that dangerous animal, her cousin's wheel. After a struggle she finally conquered the beast and having gracefully mounted, rode straight down Court street and called on her sister. She arrived safe and sound and after resting a few seconds returned at high speed. Pictures may be had of this remarkable woman mounted on her steed, at the Varsity Book store.

ONE WEEK ALLOTTED TO RED CROSS DRIVE

Lorlei Blatchford and Lester Day in Charge of Campaign; News-writers Do Publicity Work.

Much interest is being shown by Willamette students in the roll call of the Red Cross drive for 1921. Willamette has been organized by Lorlei Blatchford and Lester Day, who have chosen two young men and women from each class to assist them. The drive will last through this week only, during which time the workers will strive for a 100 per cent student body and faculty.

Edwin Norene has charge of the Red Cross publicity work. Articles are written by Willamette students and published in Salem daily papers. This work is being handled within the news-writing class and is an experiment as nothing of its kind has been tried before.

Each student on the campus will be interviewed personally by one of the workers appointed for his class. As Willamette has always assisted in worthy causes her students are urged and expected to join the Red Cross in this great fourth roll call.

Armistice Day Program Is Given by Lincolinians

The Lincolinians held their regular meeting in the Websterian halls, last Tuesday evening. The program consisted of speeches, readings, and a debate, all relative to the subject of Armistice Day. Hall in his discussion of Armistice Day, said that it did three things: it recognized the power of arbitration; it saved thousands of lives at the time; and it brought the war to a premature close. Sherwood spoke of Mad Thursday, relating the things which happened in Verdun on that day, and also showing what rumor may do for an army. In spite of all that Bailey could do to refute it, School proved to the satisfaction of the assembly that the war is over. Brock rendered, in a pleasing manner, the poem, "In Flanders Fields." Blenkinsop closed the program with an analysis of conditions all over the world after two years of peace.

Founders' Day to Be Observed

Founders' Day, which was formerly set for October 27, will be observed in the assembly hall of Kimball College this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The program was postponed because of the death of President Talbot, who was to have been the chief speaker, and the services this afternoon will be in the form of a memorial to him. Dr. Hammond and Dr. Sherwood will each give appreciations of President Talbot as they knew him, and Dr. W. Youngson of Portland will give the main address of the afternoon.

COLLEGIAN SUED FOR VAST SUM

Alexander Caruso, Would-Be Singer, Claims $5000 in Payment for Damages.

Henry Millie and Raymond Bassett Promise to Exonerate Paper as Report of Caruso Recital Was Based on Fact

In the case of Alexander Caruso vs. Willamette Collegian, which will be heard in the moot court of Willamette University on November 22, many startling accusations, it is understood, will be made by the plaintiff against the editors of the college publication. The case is to be tried before Justice James Crawford in the circuit court rooms of Marion county with Lyle "Barnes" Page and Clyde Ellis representing Alexander Caruso, the plaintiff, while Henry Millie and Raymond Bassett will defend the Willamette Collegian.

According to the complaint filed at the county clerk's office by the plaintiff, Alexander Caruso, the Willamette Collegian is accused with gross and wilful misrepresentation which has resulted in the damage of the musical reputation and career of the plaintiff. Mr. Caruso avers that he suffered irreparable loss when the college paper published an erroneous report concerning his recital given at the opera house. Mr. Caruso bases his case on the following excerpt from the alleged nefarious article:

"CALLING MISSED—MR. CARUSO APPEARS IN CONCERTO DISCORDANTO."

"At no time could he be accused of being on the tune. Harmony and discord were most wonderfully blended. Rendition of Schubert's Serenade was most exquisitely perfect."

Mr. Caruso, the plaintiff, alleges that prior to the publication of the article he held a high position in the musical circles of the university and of the city, but that since the ill report circulated by the college paper, he has been ostracized from society, causing him to suffer untold humiliation. Also prior to the publication of the article, he earned $250 a month as a soloist, but now scarcely a cent trickles into his coffers.

Due to the injuries suffered, the plaintiff seeks damages in the sum of $5000, costs and disbursements of the action incurred in the suit from the defendant, the Willamette Collegian.

According to the attorneys representing the Willamette Collegian, their client will be exonerated from the charge made by the plaintiff, as the purported report of the recital was based on authentic fact. The authenticity of the story, it is said, will be established by expert testimony.

During the past weeks several types of cases have been heard in the moot court, covering various fields of legal contentions. Each of the cases have disclosed some thing of interest to the law students, and apparently it has had something of interest to visitors, as many have attended the moot court sessions held every Monday evening. Many students from the college of liberal arts have also availed themselves of the opportunity to attend the moot court sessions. Owing to the lack of seats in the circuit court rooms of Marion county, the seats will be disposed of on the "first come, first served" plan. In the Bernard Ramsey vs. Constance Hoover case only standing room was available.

BLACKSHEEP GRADUATES

New Senior Numeral Offers Pasture to No Domestic Animal

An Armistice day permitted a large number of students to forget the trials of their daily lessons and live away to holiday fun, so the senior blacksheep also took advantage of this holiday to ramble away from the grandstand.

There is this exception. The students returned (gladly, 'tis true), but of the blacksheep there is no reappearance. The '21 stands alone, purple on a field of gold. Even tho the blacksheep does not return to its old grazing pasture, the '22 will remain.

Chrestophilians Enjoy Talk on Irish Question

The Chrestos enjoyed a good program last Wednesday evening. K. Lyman spoke on the Irish question under the topic: "Is Macswiney a Martyr?" He dwelt at considerable length on the Sinn Fein movement and various other forces that are at work in Ireland today.

"It's an ill wind," by Rhebeck was rather unique, in that it was a sort of review of world conditions, as a result of the great war and a natural science lecture all in one. He spoke of the effects of the war as a great whirlwind that is effecting America both favorably and otherwise.

Robert Story's instrumental number was a decided success. As his first number he played "Robbin's Return," and for an encore, "Red Wing."

An extemporaneous parliamentary practice, conducted by Andrew Catten, concluded the program.

Odell Savage '20 Describes Political Meet Held by Wellesley Students.

Upholders of Harding, Cox, Debs, Watkins and Christianson Carry Torches in Monster Parade of Comic Makeup

A lively account of a political rally held by the women of Wellesley College is given in a letter from Miss Odell Savage, W. U. '20, who is taking post-graduate work at that institution.

"In the evening was the political rally. How can I describe it? I never dreamed that girls could carry a thing out so well. In the first place, led by mounted police guards of the riding teams, the parade swung gaily along on its route. A band from Boston furnished martial music and Hardingites, Coxures, Socialists, Farmers, Prohibitionists marched and yelled for their candidates. Tammany in all the glory of cigars and stovepipes strutted forth to cheer Boss Cox. The Democratic washerwomen and professors joined in voting for him. The Jag Brigade proclaiming 'there are times that dry men's souls advertised the wet sympathies.'

"Ask your maid—she knows enough to vote for Harding," said the working girls. Hungry children raised a pitiful plea for Harding as did also a crowd of wild Indians who came to vote for 'Heap big chief.'

"Harding himself bowed complacently from his seat on the famous front porch. Debs reappeared from oblivion, pathetic in his convict stripes and barred cage. A president in prison is powerless," was his main slogan. Round him rallied the residue of red Bolsheviks who in reality were all the red haired girls in college.

"Armed with hoses and rakes, 'tubes' shouted for 'back to the Farm' Christianson.

"The camel of the drys painfully followed the parade advertising Reverend Mr. Watkins, while a flirtatious feminist bore the placard, 'Lips that touch liquor shall never touch mine.'

There were hundreds of real torches and lighted lanterns and it made a picturesque sight, indeed, as the parade assembled before the platform on Tower Court lawn. Here a flaming haired chairman introduced that group of famous politicians who gave woman the vote and no one to vote for. Senator Lodge spoke first but retired amid hisses and cheers. Then Harding was introduced as the author of 'Half a league, half a league, half a league onward,' who left the sanctuary of his front porch for the occasion. In the course of his remarks he said, 'Governor Cox says I have 14 views on the League, but I have only one—as Senator Lodge tells me.'

"Cox next rushed into the speech with a torrent of large words. His grand finale was to explain his vast superiority to all former great men, including Mr. Wilson, Lincoln, Washington, Julius Caesar and Adam.

"Coolidge, Roosevelt, Mrs. Harding, Mr. Wilson, Mr. Tatt, Mr. Bryan, a socialist and Mr. Christianson all spoke. The last speaker was interrupted by a sky rocket which shot its dizzy way heavenward from the hill behind the platform. This was followed by another and then another. The band played The Star Spangled Banner as the figure of liberty with arms outstretched to outline the world appeared on the platform, seemingly upheld by the waves of sound which came from every side as the great audience took up the words of the song.

"Of course the whole was a success. I never heard so many funny things in all my life. We laughed until everyone was sick. But the last was really beautiful. The night was perfect with wonderful stars and the torches and rockets could not have had a more beautiful setting."

DELTA PHI HAS PRESENT

Mysterious Package Causes Shrieks in Early Morning

Altho the season favors of neither Christmas nor May Day, the Delta Phi house was the recipient of a mysterious present last week. The gift was cylindrical, of tin, and had holes punched in the top thru which came sounds of life.

Altho the gift arrived Friday evening, opening thereof was postponed until the next morning. Scarcely had Saturday's dawn shown the least signs of enacting when shrieks awoke the entire neighborhood.

Marle stood on the porch swing and sadly wrung her hands. Vivian dashed madly in search of the butcher knife. Marguerite cried, "Oh, girls! oh, girls! oh, girls!" in a flustered tone. But they couldn't keep their gift at home.

The man next door came out with an axe, and glowered in the direction of Delta Phi. He did not commit murder, but his looks proclaimed, "Keep your rats at home. I don't want them in my basement."

Students Assemble at S. P. Station When Bearcats Leave for Their Northern Combat

Quite a crowd assembled at the Southern Pacific station last Thursday evening to give the team a send-off before it left for Tapoma. Pussing and other activities were temporarily suspended and a rousing rally was held. Using a baggage truck as a platform "Geeter" and "Fergy" led the crowd in some real yells for the players, individually and collectively. Numerous songs were sung and the band, which was there in force, played several lively numbers. The train was a little late in leaving, but none begrudged the time spent in showing the team that the school was behind them.

Idiosyncrasies Subject of Philodorian Program

"Philodorian Idiosyncrasies" as presented and discussed by Mr. Bain were highly illuminating. Bain showed a thorough knowledge of his subject by the various angles from which he presented it.

Berry and his "Jazzy Babes" composed of Allen and Bullock, made their presence known all over the building. This organization promises to outshine the "Tin Pan Trio" and the "Bum Strummers" of last year and to become a fixture on the campus.

Craven and Dave Lawson held a heated discussion on the subject of the last election. Dave said he was still a democrat, the very still, while Craven maintained that he was the biggest fool in the republican party. After they got worse than him, according to Craven, they turned demagogues.

Radspinner told in detail what may happen to the new men tonight. He explained that no one had been killed for a long time in initiation. White followed with a formal announcement.

Wapato followed with his critique and then after a short business session the meeting adjourned.

PILGRIMS' DAY IS PROCLAIMED FOR DECEMBER

Colleges Urged to Observe Day by Appropriate Exercises and Lessons.

ANNIVERSARY OF COMING

President Wilson Asks That Nation Honor Pioneers of New England By Keeping December 21 Open for Ceremonies

President Wilson has issued a proclamation in which he requests the observance by schools, colleges, and universities of the three-hundredth anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims. At the same time he named three members of the United States Pilgrim Tercentenary commission. Six members had already been appointed by congress.

The text of the proclamations follows:

"My Fellow Countrymen: December 21, next, will mark the tercentenary of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth in 1620. The day will be becomingly celebrated at Plymouth under the auspices of the Plymouth Pilgrim Tercentenary commission and at other localities in Massachusetts. While this is proper and praiseworthy, it seems to me that the influences which the ideals and principles of the Pilgrims with respect to civic liberty and human rights have had upon the formation and growth of our institutions and upon our development and progress as a nation, merits more than a local expression of our obligation, and makes fitting a nation-wide observance of the day.

"I therefore suggest and request that the 21st day of December next we observe throughout the Union with special patriotic services, in order that great events in American history that have resulted from the landing of these hearty and courageous navigators and colonists may be accentuated to the present generation of American citizens. Especially do I recommend that the day be fittingly observed in the universities, colleges, and schools of our country, to the end that salutary and patriotic lessons may be drawn from the fortitude and perseverance and the ideals of this little band of church men and women who established on this continent the first self-determined government based on the great principle of just law and its equal application to all, and thus planted the seeds from which has sprung the mighty nation.

"In witness thereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done in the District of Columbia, the fourth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and forty-fifth."

"Woodrow Wilson."

Suggestions for the celebration of the Pilgrim Tercentenary prepared by the pilgrim D'Arcy Mackay have appeared in The Playground. This material may be secured by mimeographed form by application to Community Service (Incorporated), One Madison Ave., New York City.

The Collegian is indebted to the War Camp Community Service for Pilgrims' Day proclamation printed in this issue. With this proclamation came a survey of dramatic material suitable for use by student bodies in commemorating this important event. This information has been prepared by Ethel Ames who introduces her article with the following appeal:

Shall the American colleges let the twenty-first of next December pass without any recognition by pageants, plays, tableaux or ceremonies of any sort?

Are American institutions of learning to permit the Pilgrim Tercentenary to go by unobserved when for this three hundredth anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers there have been prepared, as never before, both the materials and the methods of observing the day by striking community activities.

The opportunity of linking history with drama and pageantry lies before hundreds of American colleges and universities which can translate to the present day the historic events and episodes of 1620 that are commemorated in this harking-back to the great early adventure in Americanism.

This comes as a challenge to Willamette University. One month is a short time in which to prepare anything on a large scale, but the ingenuity of college students has been known to turn many an obstacle into an elevator shaft rising direct to victory.

Who will initiate the undertaking? There are many organizations with the potential ability. The literary societies, separately or collectively; Theta Alpha Phi; the public speaking department; the class in colonial history; or that in American literature; why could not any of these lead Willamette in honoring these brave pioneers by means of a program, a pageant or at least special chapel exercises.

SOME MORE ABOUT ETIQUETTE.

More or less comment seems to have been aroused by editorials which appeared in the last two editions of the Collegian. The first which appeared under the title, "A Matter of Etiquette," was inspired by the fact that many of the young men of Willamette have fallen into the habit of grasping their lady companions by the arm when walking down the street with them. Considerable pains was taken to look the matter up and all authorities on the subject were found to be agreed on one thing, namely: that it is a serious breach of etiquette for a gentleman to confidentially hold the arm of the lady with whom he is walking. When it came to some of the details, some difficulties presented themselves.

Chief of these was the matter of assistance over the curbs and other rough places. Authorities differed sharply upon this point, some stating that it was improper for a gentleman to touch a lady's arm at any time, while others made conflicting statements, one even going so far as to say that etiquette required a man to occasionally assist his partner in walking even during daylight. Even this was meant to apply only to crowded city streets, however. The question of the lady taking the gentleman's arm was another matter upon which opinions came far from agreeing, excellent authorities making statements both pro and con.

In one way the most sensible course would have been to explain that authorities were not agreed upon these details. But an editorial is supposed to outline some definite stand, not to re-hash the various stands which others may have taken. Of the two sides the more radical, more Bolshevik one, was chosen in the belief that it would be apt to cause more discussion, speculation, and investigation, without which the editorial could have but very little effect.

Paraphrasing it may be remarked that as it turned out little enough change was effected anywhere.

The stand taken, then, was the most revolutionary one for which any authority could be found, and the language used was as forceful as it could well be without offending the dignity of our editorial page. The article was written in full knowledge that some of the statements made could easily be contradicted. However, none of them could be completely refuted, for there was good authority for everything said.

As the event proved the editorial was contradicted just the next week Paul and Lester Day took the trouble to present the other side of the question quite completely and forcefully. Now the discussion started might continue for an indefinite length of time, but probably nothing could be gained by so doing. Apparently the intent of the original editorial has been realized, which was to impress upon our students the fact that it is most improper for a young man to walk down the street keeping hold of his partner's arm. Of this there seems to be absolutely no doubt. However, complete cure upon this point seems to be far from being effected.

In conclusion let me state that the above is not pretended to be any opinion of my own, but merely what I have gathered from consultation with various authorities. —Rodney Alden.

KEEP OFF THE GRASS

When the student body president feels constrained to take a stand on the front steps of Eaton hall and hurl "no trespassing" phrases at the by-passers, it is time for each loyal follower to question in his own heart, "Just how am I treating this campus?" Grass is planted to grow and to beautify, and by means of these processes to cheer. The Willamette campus is for the benefit of Willamette people. It is not to be placed in a glass cage from where upon state occasions it may be gazed upon with awe. It is for enjoyment and inspiration. But bare paths running helter skelter across corners and chaperoning all the cement walks are neither beautiful nor inspirational. They do grow.

A wink to the intelligent speaks volumes. This is rainy weather and the ground becomes soaked. In that condition it is sensitive to every footfall. The next time your toe succumbs to the lure of one of these little byways, just whistle a retreat for it. If you must cut across campus, take to the high grass and avoid all paths and worn spots. Give the poor, downtrodden grassblades a fighting chance. In the winter, why not keep to the walks? Next spring you may frolic to your heart's content over the flourishing green sward with never a scolding from Collegian or A. S. B. proxy—providing you steer clear of the paths.

Miss Esther Goodman, prominent in Oregon for her work in military hospitals during the war, died at Neuilly, France, according to cablegram news received by her Portland relatives from her sister, Rose, who was with her abroad.

Miss Goodman was a grade school teacher and very active in the Grade Teachers' association. Following her war service she faced a physical breakdown. She and her sister were traveling to recuperate from their strenuous service. No particulars are known as to the circumstances of her death.

Miss Goodman was born in Portland 55 years ago and attended the Monmouth Normal school and Willamette University. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. N. Goodman, her two sisters, Rose and Mrs. Lillian Alexander, of 730 Everett, and four brothers, Maurice and Joseph, principals in the Goodman Brothers Shoe company; Dr. Albert Goodman, Portland physician, now in Mexico, and Jules Eckert Goodman, noted playwright of New York.

Mrs. James T. Matthews, A. B. '88, Oliver Matthews, A. B. '13, Chauncey Pruner of this city, and Miss Allison French of Portland, had an interesting auto trip to Yellowstone park this last summer. They were gone one month, covering 3000 miles, traveling by way of Seattle, Spokane and Butte, Mont., returning by Salt Lake City, Boise, and eastern Oregon.

Fine trout fishing was enjoyed in Montana, the fish measuring an average of 15 1/2 inches. Several hot springs were also visited en route.

During the stay in Yellowstone park the party had the unique experience of being awakened by a bear which visited their camp in search of food, but which beat a hasty retreat on the arrival of the small dog of the party.

One of the most enjoyable features of their journey was a dip in Great Salt Lake. Here on account of the 23 per cent solution of salt it is impossible for a person to sink. An organ recital given in the Mormon tabernacle was also enjoyed. The organ used is the largest in the world, consisting of 500 pipes.

The peaches and watermelons secured in the state of Utah were exceptionally fine, watermelons selling for 10 cents each, any size.

The birthday of Kenneth Power was indeed celebrated when Mrs. Barnes and Mrs. Power entertained several of his friends at dinner Sunday, November 7. Each of the five courses was exceptionally delicious and elegantly served. The guests were: Kenneth Power, Benjamin Rickli, Walter Socolofsky, Edwin Socolofsky, Robbin Fisher, Raymond Dimick, Russell Rarey, Harry Rarey, Clarence Gillette, Loren Baesler, Lester Day and Ralph Barnes.

The Philodossians met Friday afternoon to enjoy one of the best rendered programs of the year. The spirit of music pervaded each number, the first of which was an interesting paper entitled "Thru Music Land," by Margaret Bowen. Genevieve Findley expressively interpreted "Japanese Sunset" and Audrey Montague pleased with a vocal solo, "Sing, Smile and Slumber." As the final number Vivian Isham delighted her audience with a "Norwegian Bridal Procession."

The Reynolds cabin offered hospitality on Thursday to a group of hungry hikers who had managed to strike that vicinity about dinner time. All manner of good things being prepared by way of bon fire and fireplace were promptly attended to. In the afternoon entertainment was found by means of an exploring trip around stump and strawberry field. Where a natural amphithe-ter thrust itself upon them, two brilliant members of the troupe entertained their companions and a friendly cow with a plotless drama. Apples, songs, stories, toasted buns and jam, all before the fireplace, hastened the hour of departure with another hike to town. Those who thus celebrated the peace were the Misses Muriel Steeves, Margaret Leage, Fay Peringer, Marguerite Cook, Sibyl Smith, Myrtle Mason, Mrs. Floyd Bates, and the Messrs. Paul Wise, Ralph Thomas, Maurice Lawson and David Lawson. Mr. Cook was a guest for dinner.

Last Thursday, the call of the woods was too strong for some to resist, so a jolly crowd of W. U. students enjoyed a mistletoe hike. They walked miles away and were rewarded by finding plenty of mistletoe. A lunch of sandwiches, buns, steak, doughnuts, coffee, bananas, and peanuts was greatly enjoyed. Those who went were Dean Hatton, Mildred Strevey, Lucille Tucker, Benjamin Rickli, Sheldon Sackett, Paul Day, Raymon Dimick and Lester Day.

The regular meeting of the Adalante Literary society was held on Friday afternoon. A very interesting program about the sea was given. The opening number was a reading by Martha Ferguson. This was followed by a paper by Grace Collins, which told in beautiful language of the lure and the wonders of the sea. Sadie Pratt sang a solo, all about the nymphs and charming mermaids. The concluding number was the sailors' hornpipe, which was danced by Dean Hatton and Mildred Strevey. After a brief business meeting the society adjourned.

Robert Story entertained a few friends at his home for dinner on Thursday evening. The guests were Raymond Schmale, Dean Pollock, Edwin Norene, Edward Notson, Hugh Doney and Truman Collins. After dinner the guests all attended the rally.

A dainty party at the home of Maxine Buren on Court street was enjoyed by a number of Willamette girls on Saturday night, a week ago. Those who partook of Miss Buren's hospitality were Dorothy Thompson, Helen McInturff, Jamie Farmer, Pauline Rickli, Grace Collins, Gretchen Brown and Marjorie Fieg-el.

Helen McInturff and Sadie Pratt entertained a group of students at a mistletoe party Thursday. Among those in the party were: Fern Gleiser, Grace and Irene Brainerd, Sadie Pratt and Helen McInturff, Elsworth Anslow, Bruce White, Bryan McKitt-riek, Floyd McIntyre and Orin Thomas. Mrs. Thomas and Miss Feree chaperoned the party.

Another group of young folks enjoyed a canoe trip up the Willamette river Thursday. Those who took part in the paddling were Ivan and Howard Corner, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Street, the Misses Marie Corner, Fay and Irene Pratt.

Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Doney entertained the members of the faculty at their home Saturday evening. After a pleasant evening, refreshments were served. Misses Helen Satchwell and Edna Gilbert assisted.

Glen Campbell and Hubert Lamphere entertained at an informal fudge party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hunt on Court street, Saturday evening. Those present were the Misses Mildred Wells, Alice Wells, Mary Wells, Gladys Morton, and the hosts.

Miss Mildred Garrett spent the past week at Newport, where she obtained a much needed rest. She accompanied the Misses Evelyn De-Long and Pauline Remington, who are to remain at Newport for some time.

Pester bossed the job of putting in wood at the Delta Phi house Armistice day while waiting for the girls to pack the lunch for the mistletoe hike.

Miss Lois Schmale, of Gresham, was an overnight guest of Miss Winifred St. Clair at the Beta Chi house on Wednesday.

The parents of Sibyl Smith and Byron Arnold drove to Salem on Sunday from their homes in Vancouver, Wash.

Thornton Gleiser was a dinner guest at the Alpha Psi Delta house last Wednesday night.

The house members of the Beta Chi sorority entertained their resident sisters with a slumber party

INTERNATIONAL ITEMS

"I am glad that I am an American, and that I live in the United States." This was the expressed sentiment of nearly every soldier in the World War who had seen service in Europe. This is the expressed sentiment of every American citizen who understands, in at least a small measure, the conditions which prevail in the other countries of the world.

Hardly a day passes but we are reminded, thru the newspapers, of our fortunate situation, and of the unfortunate conditions under which so many of the people of the world are compelled to exist. Hunger, with but little means of satisfying this need, poverty, misery and sin to an extent that we can hardly realize is the portion of hundreds of thousands of human beings in China, in India, and in other parts of the world. These are facts of which we have been aware for a good many years.

The world War, and its inevitable consequences, turned the countries of Central Europe into a seething cauldron of strife, revolution, and of social unrest. Hunger stalks everywhere, and there is huge shortage of clothes. These people are without proper food and clothing, are crowded together in the cities in a way which we cannot conceive of. They need assistance—now!

We live in a land of plenty. We lack neither food nor clothing. How thankful are we for these things? Enough to be anxious to help others less fortunate than ourselves?

AT THE OREGON

The combination of Robert W. Chambers, author; Marion Davies, star; and Joseph Urban, famous designer of settings, is successful in "The Restless Sex," in producing a picture that is notable for its lavishly artistic backgrounds and lively romance.

Feminism is the underlying note of "The Restless Sex," though there is nothing in the picture about votes for women. It is rather the modern woman's craving for excitement and ambition to become more than just a wife. The heroine is a society girl of this type and her turbulent course to peace and happiness forms the theme of the story.

Miss Davies is ideally suited to portray a Chambers heroine and her supporting cast, headed by Ralph Kellard and Carlyle Blackwell, is an unusually competent one. An elaborate ballroom scene, in which over 600 costumed people take part, is a feature. The picture is a Cosmopolitan production for Paramount release and was directed by Robert Z. Leonard.

YE LIBERTY

In "Gouverneur Morris," famous story the chief character is a brilliant man whose legs were amputated at the knees when he was a little boy. To get a man without legs who was also an accomplished actor was a difficult task. Finally Chaney volunteered for the part. Every day he gets into a harness which straps the lower part of his legs to his back, thus enabling him to walk about on his knees and giving the effect of a legless man. The strain of holding the position is so great and danger of stopping the circulation so imminent that the actor cannot keep the harness on for more than 12 minutes at a time. On the screen, however, he is a wonderful imitation of the character made famous by Mr. Morris.

Chaney first came into prominence as a delineator of cripples in "The Miracle Man," where he appeared as the distorted thief, who faked his injuries, in order to get alms.

"The Penalty" is to be shown at Ye Liberty theater, commencing next Sunday for four days.

AT THE GRAND

Lucille Lee Stewart, the emotional star who appears in "The Eleventh Commandment," the Ralph Ince production, is credited with the greatest success of her career in this big dramatic play.

Miss Stewart's portrayal of the character of Doris Chester in her new picture is said to afford the popular star a role in which the power and charm of her distinctive emotional talent is given full sway. This delineator of screen characterizations is at her best when the situation is one of tense and restrained feeling.

Never overacting, the surety with which she approaches her part and the magnetism of her personality gives an individuality to everything she does. A big scene in "The Eleventh Commandment," which calls upon her resources to the utmost is when as a happily married young bride, worshiped by her husband, she is confronted at night in the privacy of her sleeping apartment by a visitor who turns out to be her former fiancé, determined to wreck her happiness by revealing to her husband an unhappy episode of her past.

The culmination of the scene is dramatic in the extreme, resulting in the death of the midnight intruder, but only after a succession of dramatic situations that call upon all the resources of this great actress. It will be shown at the Grand next week.

Goucher College, Maryland, is the first woman's college in the country to provide for the education of women voters as a result of the Nineteenth Amendment. This was made possible by the will of Mrs. Elizabeth King Elliott, a pioneer suffragist, who left $25,000 in trust to be used for the purpose as soon as equal suffrage should be secured.

Only one in forty of the Freshman class at the University of Texas was found to be physically defective, announced university physicians after completing physical examinations of the new students. This percentage was declared to be unusually low.
