Cohn Resigns WU Position; ASWU Manager Not Found

Maurice Cohn, chief accountant for Willamette University and student ASWU general manager, resigned his position this week to accept a job in the accounting department of Paulus Bros. Packing Co., a Salem firm.

Robert Fenix, financial vice-president of Willamette, announced Cohn's successor as being LeRoy Connelly, formerly assistant business manager of College of Puget Sound in Tacoma, Wash.

A new ASWU general manager has not been announced by the university as yet. It is expected that one will be chosen in the near future. Student body president Rollin Cocking has been conferring with President G. Herbert Smith on the matter and when a choice is made, providing acceptance follows, the new managerial choice will have to be placed before the board of trustees for final approval. It is possible that the new choice will be approved at the trustees meeting tomorrow.

Cohn expressed his regret at having to leave Willamette, but said that his new position will afford him an "opportunity to advance faster in my field." Cohn also stated, "I have enjoyed working with the students as ASWU general manager. It has been a profitable experience for me."

Pledges Thanked

Burke Samuelson, Collegian circulation manager, wishes to thank all the sorority pledges who helped him with his duties in getting the Collegian wrapped and sent in the mail each week to customers outside of the University.

"I believe the sorority pledges deserve a hand of thanks," declared Samuelson, "because of their prompt and willing assistance on a job that involves little recompense for their efforts."

Alums to Reunite Tomorrow; Special Lectures to Be Heard

The 1951-52 school year speeds to a close as regular final examinations begin tomorrow morning, and Commencement Monday afternoon will write finis to four years of work and play for 193 seniors.

The events of the day will be climaxed at 6 with the Alumni Day banquet. Walter E. Erickson, president of the Portland alums, will preside at the Baxter dinner, and President G. Herbert Smith and Dr. Robert M. Gatke will be the featured speakers. Betty Jean Mullin will sing several numbers.

Following the banquet the movie "So You're Going to Willamette" will be shown in the Baxter lounge.

June 15 Set For Wallulah

The 1952 Wallulahs will be ready for distribution about June 15, it was announced today by Wallulah editor, Cliff Gregg.

Students living in the Salem area can pick up their annuals at the bookstore in Waller hall after June 20, upon presentation of student body cards from both the first and second semesters. All students living outside the Salem area can have their Wallulahs mailed to them this summer by leaving both semesters student body cards, their summer mailing address, and 25 cents to cover mailing costs in the box provided in the bookstore. This information should be left before leaving the campus for the summer.

Students who have lost their first semester student body cards must verify their attendance during the first semester with either Cliff Gregg in the Wallulah office, or Mrs. Larson in the bookstore.

The cost of a Wallulah to students who have attended Willamette for only one semester this year will be $3.50.

New Staff Still Smiling

New Collegian Staff Named

Don Scarborough, next year's Collegian editor, announced today from his residence in Washington, D. C., where he is presently attending American university, the new staff appointments of those who will assist him next year.

Stan Nelson, now acting as news editor, will keep his old job next year, Scarborough announced. Betty Mayfield, a junior, will be associate news editor.

Taking over as rewrite editor will be Margie Leonard,

In the special pages department, Erwin Weber, sophomore, has been chosen for a second semester as sports editor while juniors Ann Klindworth and Darrell deChaby will take over the society and feature pages, respectively.

Staff members not returning to the Collegian next year include Mary Louise Lee, editor; Kent Lawrence, campus editor; and Keith Lawrence, associate news editor.

Cal Horn, who has already been announced as advertising manager of the Collegian, recently appointed Freshman Jerry Cruson to assist him in that department.

The new staff put out the paper this week without the aid of Editor Scarborough who is still in Washington, D. C. Scarborough plans to remain in the East for the summer and will return to the campus next fall to take up his new duties.

Nelson Named WITS Prexy

Other new officers are Dale Harris, vice president; Mary Alice Andresen, secretary; Mike Tavenner, treasurer, and Erwin Weber, sergeant-at-arms.

Joe Benninghoff and Joan Lanke were elected representatives to the student council. Dick Scott was put in charge of a picnic to be given for the Salem students that will be entering Willamette next year. The picnic will be held sometime this summer.

May Sell Textbooks

Students may sell used textbooks to the second hand book dealer in the bookstore next Wednesday only from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Special Concert Price to Cease

Advance ticket sales of $4 student tickets for the Willamette Distinguished Artist series will end with the closing of school according to Manager Phil Ringle. This is the first time an advance sale has been held in the spring in conjunction with the series and the tickets are available for 80 cents less than next fall's regular price.

Ringle predicts a financial success for the series next year as one-fifth of the auditorium is already reserved.

Reserve student tickets are available through George Buland who heads the sales on the campus.

Scarborough is Our Editor-- But Who Cares?

Old editors may never die, but we wish the new ones were around to help us once in a while. We are referring to the fact that this issue of the Collegian, the initial effort of the "new staff," was entirely written and made up — without the aid of our "new editor" — Don Scarborough.

Don is in Washington D. C. at the present time studying under the Washington Semester plan at American university. His absence has not been too conspicuous to the reading public because he was good enough to write a column which was a marvelous addition to the Collegian feature page. But this time, of all times, Mr. Scarborough didn't submit even so much as an inch of copy to help his new staff along. This issue, consequently, has a conspicuous lack of material from Washington D. C. and is entirely the efforts of the new staff, without the editor's help. This may not be the first time in history that a Collegian has been edited without an editor on the first issue, but things like this have been mighty rare, we're willing to bet.

Now we're not angry with Don for being absent at this particular time; neither are we fuming because he failed to send us any copy . . . because we have a pretty good hunch that this issue caught him right in the middle of exams. And if American U is as tough as we think it is, our editor has not had time to ship his cohorts any guff. However, whatever Mr. Scarborough may think of this first edition, he will squirm when he realizes that he is responsible for its outcome, despite the fact that he is 3,000 miles away. We thoughtfully included his name in the masthead to make sure of that.

But in case Don should ever wonder, we did our level best for him and sincerely hope that he will be pleased with our efforts — for it is our paper too, and we take just as much pride in it as he does. A sign of a good paper is when the regular staff can continue without the editor — even on the first issue. We are anxiously awaiting Don's return to the campus next year and are standing ready to help him put out one of the "best darn Collegians" Willamette has ever seen.

Good Luck, "Maury"

The resignation of Maurice Cohn from the job as chief accountant of the University came as quite a surprise. "Maury" has been one of the best liked members of the faculty. He was a valuable aid to the students during the past year as ASWU general manager. We are sure that students and faculty alike will join us in wishing "Maury" success in his new job.

Wallulah Is Treasured Book; Office Messy, Staff Lively

By Darrel deChaby

The Collegian is a commentary and report upon Willamette's many activities as they happen each week, but to this year's Wallulah editor, Cliff Gregg, falls the tremendous task of compiling and editing a year-book representative and descriptive of nine months of activity on the Willamette campus. In order to do this Gregg and his staff spend an estimated 1,200 hours spread over a period of nine months and some $6,300.

Gregg began work on this year's Wallulah early in the fall before school started. At that time he outlined and planned the book and selected its theme, which will remain a secret until the Wallulah is distributed about June 15. In addition to planning the 184-page book he works closely with his staff throughout the year editing the mass of material which comes to his desk.

Wallulah Has Large Staff

Gregg's staff members include Jane Notson who, he reports, "does just about everything," acting as his associate editor. Jane will be editor of the Wallulah next year where her "just about everything" activities will no doubt continue to be livened up with her particular brand of high humor. The Wallulah's budget is augmented by advertising revenues and it is the job of advertising manager Ellis Von Eschen to solicit some $1,600 worth of advertising. He reports that most of the advertising comes from Salem though some is received from Portland.

Diminutive copy editor Sally Bridgeman writes the bulk of Wallulah copy and does a considerable amount of foot-work in gathering her material. Wallulah sports editor Larry Standifer compiles material for the sports section, writes copy and selects pictures. Betty Howat, layout editor, designs the layout for the book and does the art work in the advertising section.

The darkroom crew consists of Bill Mosier, Ivan Wells, Bill McKinney, Pat Sundstrom and Cecil Ristow. They take and develop pictures and make prints. According to Gregg the darkroom receives one per cent of the publications budget and about $250 from the Wallulah budget in its all-important activity. Seeing to it that your names are correctly spelled and placed under your picture are index editors Donna Cheldelin and Charlene Asvik.

It's Not All Work

On the average each staff member spends about 110 hours in the Wallulah office putting out the book; but I'll let you in on a little secret. It ain't all work! All work and no play would certainly make a dull Wallulah but there does not appear to be any real danger of that for editor and staff members not only whistle while they work, they carry on an endless stream of chatter and indulge in other extraneous and often amusing activities.

The Wallulah office itself is one big joke and it is difficult to see how a clean and shining and accurate book can possibly come out of this tremendous and almost indescribable mess. To your wondering eyes might appear some of the following articles on a visit to the Wallulah office:

Three bottles of pop whose vintage no one could predict for apparently they had been there for several months quietly gathering dust. Many cups containing coffee in various stages of evaporation. Old pieces of mouldy pie. Permanent looking spider webs. A gallon of wicked-looking and evil-smelling punch which had been obtained from a house banquet a year ago and has been fermenting ever since. Oh no, scandal-mongers, there is no intention of drinking this witches' brew! I understand that it will provide some lucky Wallulah staff member with a ready substitute for anti-freeze come winter. All this, combined with an endless assortment of papers, scissors, pictures, books and paste-pots, gives the Wallulah office the appearance of Grandma Snazzy's attic after about 40 of her grandchildren have spent in it a restless, rainy summer afternoon.

Staff Plans Party

Adding to the fun of Wallulah members is the second annual Wallulah party and dinner which will be held in the Wallulah office Saturday night. The banquet is for present editors and staff members and former staff members and editors and for Wallulah advisor, Professor Murco Ringnald. This may be aside from the point—in fact if there was a point I am sure I don't feel it any more, I've been sitting here so long—but Prof "Ring" is an accomplished magician. In fact he is the only magician I have ever seen who looks like a magician. Perhaps the Wallulah staff will prevail upon him to use a little of his magic on their office. "Presto, Chango, VANO and Razazaza doople booble," and they will have a clean office and a place for everybody to sit.

It's All Yours!

When you receive your Wallulah, remember that its production adds up to a lot of work, a lot of time, a lot of money—and a lot of fun. More than that, this nine-month diary carefully kept for you by Wallulah editors and staff is something you will treasure all your life.

Buying your tickets now will not only provide you with a worthwhile saving but will also help the current Distinguished Artists' ticket sale drive.

Willamette university through his acting and work in the drama department and we wish him lots of luck in the pursuit of his career.

On Exhibit

now at the art gallery at Elfstrom's is the work of two Willamette university house mothers. They are Mrs. Tom C. Watson of Lausanne hall and Mrs. Elvah Stanley of Alpha Chi Omega. The exhibit is sponsored by the Salem Art association.

Mrs. Watson has in this exhibit, her first, two oils, "Savies Island" and "First Frost," a fall pastoral. Mrs. Stanley's exhibit includes "Marine Scenes," "Tillamook Beach," "Mount Alaska" and "The Moors at Seaside." Mrs. Stanley has also recently won awards for her etchings at the Washington Artists' Exhibit in Vancouver.

DICK SCOTT, better known as "Scotty," will not be on the Willamette campus next year as he plans to enroll at SMU in Texas. SMU's gain will be our loss. Dick has been active in the independent town students' organization here on campus and has been an assistant concert manager under Phil Ringle, handling publicity in the Salem area. We'll miss Scotty's friendly smile and vitality in the concert series and hope he has all possible success down Texas way.

UNESCO Banquet

last week was a whopping success. Over forty members and honored guests Dr. Edward Kollmann, who has served as UNESCO advisor for the past two years, and Dr. Marion Morange, new advisor, enjoyed French onion soup prepared by Carl Blanes, and other foods representing the Mediterranean area. Barbara Manley, new UNESCO president, acted as mistress of ceremonies. Both Dr. Kollmann and Ted Loder, past UNESCO president, were called upon to address the group. Dr. Kollmann was given a pen and pencil set and a standing ovation by the group in appreciation of his contribution to UNESCO and Willamette university. Loder will take graduate work at Yale next year, while Dr. Kollmann will work for the government in the Far East, according to last reports.

This Is the Last

Kampus Kaleidoscope as the writer will next year confine his activities to writing play and concert reviews and occasional features in his capacity as feature editor. It's been a lot of fun writing the column and keeping tab on the various activities of the university. It hasn't been easy noting all the activities and some went unmentioned, but we tried to hit the high spots. All in all it's been a great year and we look forward to another come the fall semester. See you then!

Profs to Show Color Variety

When the faculty marches in academic procession for Commencement Monday a rainbow of colors will be furnished by the various hoods. Actually these colors all have a meaning and are arranged under several rules.

A doctor's hood is four feet long and has side panels, while a master's hood is only three and a half feet in length. A doctor's gown is also faced with black velvet and has black velvet bands on the sleeves.

The lining in a doctor's or master's hood is in the colors of the school which granted the degree. Therefore the hoods of all those getting advanced degrees from Willamette will be lined with cardinal and gold.

Edging the hood is a velvet band, three inches wide on the master's hood and five inches on the doctor's, which denotes the field in which the degree was earned.

All law professors' hoods will be edged with purple, and faculty members with arts and letter degrees will have white edging.

Pink means a degree in music; olive drab shows commerce; and those with a degree in education have light blue edging. Philosophy hoods are edged in dark blue; science in golden yellow; and theology degrees are represented by scarlet.

The colors for music and law are also carried in the tassel, although all holders of doctors' degrees may wear a gold tassel if they wish.

Willamette's AROTC Unit Ends Year of Drill With President's Review; McKay Attends

By Stan Nelson

The first Willamette AROTC President's review, held in honor of President G. Herbert Smith, was stepped off Tuesday at McCulloch stadium in an impressive performance.

Warm spring weather greeted the AROTC cadets as they marched before President Smith, Governor Douglas McKay and other visiting dignitaries at the reviewing stand. This was the last performance of the year for the local unit, winding up the first year of the Air Force ROTC on this campus. It was by far the group's most impressive appearance to date.

The cadets marched from Sweetland field to the stadium led by the AROTC band conducted by Maurice Brennan. Cadet commander of the band is Herbert Brower.

Arriving at McCulloch stadium the cadets lined up in flight groupings on the east side of the field facing the stadium. They stood at attention while President Smith conducted his formal review. The other dignitaries at the reviewing stand made the trip with Dr. Smith in his review. The whole group was conducted by Major Norman W. Campion, commander of the Willamette AROTC unit.

Big Features Seen

One of the big features of the hour-long review was the presentation of awards to group and individual members of the unit.

Governor McKay presented the coveted Governor's Pennant to squadron A. Squadron A won the right to bear the banner on their guidon until next year's competition between the squadrons, of which there are only two at Willamette. Cadet Capt. Robert J. Dyer, commander of the winning squadron, received the banner from McKay.

Individual awards went to Robert Platenberg, who received the award for being the most outstanding advanced student; Bill Colvard, named as the top basic student; William P. Mosier, who got the award for being the most outstanding rifle team member; and Bill Van Horn, the most outstanding drill team member.

Awards were presented by, in order: Ashley Greene, commander of the Oregon wing of the Air Corps association; Bill Baldwin, a fill-in for W. L. Barnett, commander of Salem VFW post 661; Hollis Hull, department commander of the American Legion; and Carl G. Steelhammer, exalted ruler of Salem Elks lodge.

Guests in Attendance

Other distinguished guests present in the reviewers' stand were Dean Mark O. Hatfield and Dr. Howard Runkel, members of the AROTC affairs committee; Alfred L. Loucks, mayor of Salem; and Major Norman W. Campion, professor of air science and tactics at Willamette and WU AROTC commander.

Following the regular review, the drill team put on a marching performance as an added feature. Bill Van Horn is flight leader of this group, Willamette's best marching outfit.

Governor McKay, in a statement after the review was over,

Stearns Receives Navy Commission

Douglas Howard Stearns, who graduated from Willamette last year, is among the 179 enlisted men to receive commissions in the naval reserve next Friday at the navy's officer candidate school in Newport, Rhode Island.

Members of Stearns' class received staff corps commissions in the supply corps and civil engineer corps and specialist commissions in such fields as naval architecture, electronics, ordnance, intelligence and marine engineering.

Convo Calls 2 WU Ushers

Bob Batchelder and George Buland have been selected to usher at the National Convention of the Republican party in Chicago early in July.

They have been chosen because of their work with the campus Young Republican group. Both are officers of this organization. They will leave for the convention about July 1, possibly with a motor caravan from the area, in order to be there at meeting time on July 6.

Lilles and Lawson Appointed To Convocation, Chapel Posts

Amaryllis Lilles was named as manager of Tuesday convocations at a recent student council meeting and Norman Lawson was appointed as manager of Thursday chapels by the Inter-Faith council.

Miss Lilles, a member of the convocation executive committee since September, assumed full managerial duties while ex-manager Tom Scheidel was in New York recently. She is the third student manager since the meetings were turned over to student control in 1950.

Her tentative plans for next year include political speakers of the calibre of Paul G. Hoffman in view of impending national elections. Also scheduled are continuation of the music program, addresses by campus professors, and exchange assemblies with other universities.

Three other students will be named to the executive committee by Miss Lilles. This year's committee consisted of Scheidel, Miss Lilles, Marlene Vincent and Paul Barkla.

The committee is budgeted about $540 to pay for the assembly programs. Over $200 was saved in the budget this year because of more events such as exchange assemblies during the second semester.

Lawson, a pre-ministerial student and the vice-president of Wesley fellowship, will also appoint several students to work with him as a chapel committee. He says, "through the action of the committee of the Inter-Faith council, we will try to have more of a variety of chapel programs based on the suggestions from a wider representation of the student body."

The council has worked out a program whereby representatives from all the religious groups on campus as well as the chaplains from the living organizations will formulate plans for more varied programs.

Chester Stackhouse Leaves Willamette; Makes Many Outstanding Achievements

Next Friday will mark the end of Chester Stackhouse's three-year coaching career at Willamette university.

Stackhouse has not announced his future plans, but he may stay in the coaching profession or take up full-time architectural work. While at Willamette, he designed his own home and made famous his "Stack" houses.

His duties as head track and football coach will be taken over by Ted Ogdahl who has coached at Grant high of Portland for the last four years. John Lewis, head basketball and baseball and assistant football coach, will assume the position of athletic director left vacant by Stackhouse's resignation.

Lifetime Record

In 15 years of football coaching in college and prep circles, Stackhouse - guided squads have amassed a total of 103 wins, 37 losses and four ties with five undefeated seasons. In one three-year span, his teams won 25 of 26 games with the setback being a 16-13 loss. It was lost when the other team kicked a field goal in the last minute of play.

In track he has tutored his teams to 82 wins with only four setbacks. In 15 years in track, there have been 13 unbeaten seasons for Stackhouse. He has also been head basketball coach during eight years of service and totaled up 180 wins with 47 losses.

At one time his teams had won 19 straight games.

Stackhouse in his three years at Willamette has coached the Bearcats to two track titles, the only ones in the history of the school. His record for the three years is 12-3 with the three losses coming in his first year. Stackhouse has seen his products crack six school marks including some which have stood for years. In the regime of the departing mentor new marks have been established in the mile by Ralph Adams, pole vault by Ray Fretheim, shotput by Jim Hitchman, broad jump, low and high hurdles and 100-yard dash by Ted Mertz, javelin by Stan Neperud, 880-yard run by Lowell Wesse, and the 880-yard relay by Bill Van Horn, Darrell Corkery, Bob Shangle and Bill Patton. Van Horn also has tied the century at 10 seconds flat.

From the Cellar

When Stackhouse arrived on campus three years ago, the track team was the doormat of the conference. The Bearcats were beaten five straight times and finished last in the conference track meet. Stackhouse has spent a great deal of time with each man on the cinder field and has encouraged them to give it all that they had. With this unselfish attitude, Stackhouse has brought the Willamette track team from the cellar to two conference championships.

In football Stackhouse's Bearcat teams have won ten games in 25 starts while tying two. Through his efforts, the series with the University of Hawaii was resumed and the Bearcats will play the Islanders this fall in a return game in Honolulu.

Perhaps Stackhouse's chief claim to fame has been his founding and development of the now widely known Willamette relays. Conceived two years ago, the mammoth cinder meet, which this season boasted a field of more than 1700 high school and college school athletes, has been given wide attention throughout cinder circles as an organization gem.

Also during his tenure as Willamette the construction of the new McCulloch stadium athletic plant was achieved.

"There Are Many Rewards"

Shown above is Chester Stackhouse, Willamette athletic director, who leaves the university next Friday. The Collegian, along with the many athletes who have played under Stackhouse, wish him many more rewards. (Capital Journal cut.)

Eight Blankets, Twelve Jackets Given To Seniors Participating in Athletics

Eight seniors received Willamette blankets and fourteen were given senior jackets at the awards chapel held Thursday, May 22.

The blankets are given to those seniors who have lettered in a sport three years and have participated the other year. Don Hosford received his award for his athletic service in football. Lewis Speaks on Stack

One of Willamette's greatest athletic years is over. We've had our greatest basketball team in history and won titles in track, golf and tennis—but the event that rocked the school the most was the resignation of Chester R. Stackhouse, head football and track coach and athletic director of Willamette. Opinions about Stack have been varied, ranging almost from one extreme to the other. We've expressed ourselves before on the matter and will not harp on the subject any more, but as a final salute to a great guy, we are printing a statement written by John Lewis, one who has been closely associated with Stack during his three years at Willamette.

Says Lewis: "We in the athletic department will miss Stack more than we realize. His work as athletic director at Willamette will long be remembered. No one could have worked harder, given more of his time unselfishly and left a deeper imprint on the boys he handled. Personally, I will miss Stack, not only as a friend—but as one whose advice has been so helpful. It goes without saying that all those who have had the privilege of working with Stack these three years will have gained from his high standards of sportsmanship and clean living. We all wish him well."

Kerr and Boatman: Objective Achieved

A final note by the man who is leaving is in order, and here it is—Stack's last at Willamette: "My association with Willamette university has been nothing but pleasure and the friendship that I have made among faculty, students and townspeople will always remain a high point in my memory."

It seems a time for more sentiment than usual at the end of this year. We have one more tribute coming from John Lewis to a couple of guys he'll never forget. They are living reminders of some of the same things that Stack always preached. Says Lewis again: "The athletic department would certainly like to speak a word of tribute to two boys who lettered in their senior year after four years of striving for a place on varsity teams. They are Gene Kerr and Bruce Boatman. Gene and Bruce should be admired above all other athletes receiving awards this spring as theirs were the hardest to win. It takes an extra something within a person to stick it out four years and to be forced to sit on the bench most of the time. So, hats off to Gene and Bruce—your efforts have been appreciated and we all congratulate you on your perseverance and contributions made to your track and baseball squads."

Lettermen Chose New Officers, Set Ball Date

Verne Shangle was elected president of the Lettermen's club for next year at the Lettermen's meeting held last Tuesday.

Other newly elected officers are Bob Miller, vice president, and John Kent, who will serve as secretary-treasurer.

Dan Montag, this year's president, announced that the lettermen have decided to hold their Varsity Ball in the fall of next year instead of the spring as it has been done in the past.

Successful Year Ends

Willamette university has completed one of its most successful years in the school's history as far as the athletes are concerned. The Bearcats won four conference titles and established themselves as a power not to be overlooked in next year's competition.

The greatest year was climaxed two weeks ago when Willamette walked off with top honors in the golf and track meets and won the conference tennis doubles while finishing second in the singles.

Footballers Finish Fast

Coach Chester Stackhouse's eleven opened their campaign with a 20-13 victory over Whitworth, but dropped their conference opener to College of Idaho 10-0 when breaks of the game decided the issue after the Bearcats had dominated the play for the first three quarters.

In the Pacific game, the Bearcats trailed from the first as Gerald Millis ran the opening kick off back for a touchdown and the final score stood 27-7 in favor of the Badgers. Lewis and Clark followed up as they trounced the Bearcats 41-12. In the Homecoming game, College of Puget Sound edged Willamette 12-6 although the Bearcats dominated most of the play. After dropping a 20-12 game to Whitman, Stackhouse started an all-freshman team against Linfield and Willamette came out the victor 19-7. In the last game of the year Willamette smashed Chico State 53-7.

Basketball Record: 14-1

Linfield spoiled Willamette's chance for a perfect conference record as the Wildcats upset the Bearcats 69-67. It was the fourth straight conference championship under Coach John Lewis. The Bearcats finished the year with an all-game total of 21-5.

Two games reached the century mark. The first one was against Lewis and Clark when Freshman Benny Holt sunk his first field goal in his college career to push the Bearcats over the 100 mark. The final score was 103-62. The last game came with Willamette on a short end of a 100-77 score against the Portland Pilots in the NAIB district finale. The Pilots went on to Kansas City where they placed fourth in the national finals.

Perfect Season for Trackmen

For the second straight year the Willamette cinder team enjoyed a perfect season. Each time the Stackhouse-coached squad won five meets and walked off with top honors in the conference meet.

Schools who fell before the Bearcats were Portland university, Linfield, Pacific, Whitman and Lewis and Clark. In the Linfield and Pacific meets, the Bearcats reached the 90's as they easily whipped their opponents. The Lewis and Clark clash was the closest in two years as Willamette won by eight points. Willamette was 30 points ahead of their nearest opponent, Lewis and Clark, in the conference meet as the thinclads won the league honors for Stackhouse who leaves the university next Friday.

Too Many Games in April

It was too many games in April and not enough in May for this year's Willamette baseballers who finished in a second-place tie with Linfield in the conference standings.

The Bearcats finished the season with a seven-game winning streak and all seven games came in May. In 12 games in April the Bearcats came out on top only five times. Willamette finished the year with a 13-7 record. The Bearcats opened the season in March with a win over the Oregon State Pen.

Whitman, this year's conference champs, was the only team to down the Bearcats twice in league play, while Willamette won two games each from Linfield and Pacific. The series with College of Idaho and Lewis and Clark were split.

Freshman Trio in Tennis

Coach Les Sparks' tennis squad was led by a freshman trio of Chuck Carter, Dave Wisnom and George Watts. In the conference meet Watts and Wisnom captured the doubles title while Carter lost out to Bob Bratton of Whitman in the finals of the singles.

The Bearcat netters went through conference dual competition undefeated and finished season's play with a 6-2 record with both losses coming at the hands of Oregon State.

Winning Golfers Will Return

Willamette's golfers went through conference dual meets undefeated and captured top honors in the conference meet with six Bearcat linksters who will return next year.

Bill Wittenberg, Kent Myers, Ellis Von Eschen, Ken Baines, Dick Church and Dan Callahan are the Bearcats who will again carry the Cardinal and Gold chances in golf next year under the leadership of Coach Sam Vokes.

Ted Loder

Ted Loder Receives Booth Athletic Award

Ted Loder received the coveted J. H. Booth Athletic Award at the awards chapel held Thursday, May 22.

The annual prize, given to a senior who, in maintaining a high scholarship standing, has exerted a fine moral standing in athletics, is considered the top athletic prize given. Bill Ewaliko won the award last year.

Loder played basketball all four years and lettered each time. He scored 1392 points to establish a new four-year mark and broke the previous record in his junior year.

Fifty Lettermen Complete Successful Seasons with Championship Squads

An even fifty Bearcats were awarded letters in spring sports this year, according to Chester Stackhouse, athletic director.

Willamette Bearcats who received their first letter will be able to join the Lettermen's club next fall. There were 21 men who won their letter this spring.

Eighteen Willamette baseballers were receivers of the "W" award. Dick Brouwer and John Markoskie won their fourth letters. Third-letter winners were Cliff Girod and Mike Glenn. Millard Bates, Bruce Boatman, Jack Hande, Alva Brown and Duane Shield won their second letters. Seven freshmen were awarded letters. They were Harve Koepf, Andy George, Benny Holt, Dave Gray, Elmer Haugen, Gene Jones and Denny Elsasser. Managers who won their letters were Erwin Weber and Howard Wilson.

Golf members who won their first letters were Dan Callahan, Dick Church and Ken Baines. The three remaining letter-winners all won their second award. They were Bill Wittenberg, Kent Myers and Ellis Von Eschen.

The track squad had the most letter winners with 21. The only four-year letterman in track was Bob Hall. Their were three Bearcats who won their third letter. They were Rod Beals, Wally Boe and Mark Cotton. Layton Gilson, Bob Goff, Jim Hitchman, Bob Miller, Stan Neperud, Larry Standifer and Bill Van Horn were second-year letter winners. The trackmen who received their first year awards were Gene Kerr, Rollin Cocking, Verne Shangle, Jim Bergmann, Merlin Schulze, Ralph Adams, Darrell Corkery, Ray Fretheim, Mike Hovis and Bill Patton. Manager Bob Whitaker was awarded his first letter.

Five Willamette netters received letters for the service on the tennis squad. John Ambler won his third award and Jim Morgali received his second one. Three freshmen, George Watts, Chuck Carter and Dave Wisnom, won their first letters.

Groups Express Appreciation For Student Sociology Work

Dr. John A. Rademaker, chairman of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology, has recently received letters of appreciation for work of the students of the department from several organizations in and for which students have been carrying on research projects.

Mr. William Munroe Hamilton, chairman of the Marion County Health Council, wrote to express the appreciation of the Health Council for the "diligent, thorough-going work done by the members of the Senior Sociology Seminar and other sociology classes who participated in the Marion County Health Survey." He expressed the conviction of the members of the Health Council that the members of the Sociology Seminar in particular "had made a contribution of lasting benefit to the health of the people of Marion county by their devotion to the cause and work of scientific research into the health needs and services of the people of Marion county." Members of the Senior Sociology Seminar who participated in the planning, instructing, supervising and executing of the fielding of the Marion County Health Survey include Marcella Davis, Joseph Dwight, Janice Gladden, Ernest Gordon, Lydia Graham, Jan Hajda, Martin Horn, Charles Johnson, Gloria Kainu, Lei Kealoha, June Keider, Mary Louise Lee, Jean Miller, Sally Ogle, Ralph Onzuka, George Smith, Carolann Snarr, Esther Roake, Robert Shangle, Pat Stanton, Betsy Stuller and Eugene Walters.

Rademaker Praises Work

Dr. Rademaker feels that the quality and enthusiasm of the work done by these students is of a very high quality. Their initiative, zeal, understanding, and willingness to put in long, hard hours in planning and carrying out the survey is a classic example of the desire of students to learn the best ways of getting at the truth and applying it to the problems of the communities in which they live when they are given an opportunity and encouragement to go ahead to achieve their self-formulated and self-implemented goals. The quality of this research compares favorably with similar research projects carried out in other institutions in large departments of sociology, and to some degree to research carried on by first-year graduate students in institutions which have been observed by the sociology staff.

MacLaren School Uses Report

Dr. Alfred W. Sheets is also in receipt of a letter of appreciation from Mr. C. Stewart Clarke, chief placement advisor of MacLaren School for Boys. Mr. Clarke commends highly the report produced by three Willamette students of Dr. Sheets' Juvenile Delinquency class, Delores Miller, Marlene Vincent and Dorothy A. Clarke. The report is being used in further studies of the problem of parole failure at the school, and will be continued next year to even more conclusive and valuable results.

Mr. Clarke wrote: "I personally was impressed with the interest and sincerity of the students who did this work, and I found it a pleasure to make the material available to such an interested team. Copies of the report are to be sent to several agencies which cooperate with the school in its parole work."

'52 Rally Squad Posts Announced

The results of the run-off election for cheer leaders showed the victors to be Edwin Whyte as yell king and Ruth Joseph as the song queen for 1952-53.

The assistant yell and song leaders were announced Monday afternoon. Assistant song leaders will be: Elizabeth Gunn, Marilyn Withams and Clara O'Neel. Fellows picked for yell leader assistants were Jack Phipps and Dick Church.

Cocking Selected Rotarian for May

Rollin Cocking, junior majoring in business from Salem and student body president of Willamette for the year 1952-53, was chosen "Rotarian of the Month" by the Student Council Wednesday.

Cocking has been active in many campus activities during the year. He was a representative on the Student Council and a member of the track squad. He headed the entertainment at the May Weekend barbecue and was a co-director of the Varsity Varieties show earlier in the year.

Frances Geer, pianist, will conclude the program with the Arabesque in A Flat by Leschetizky, and Debussy's "Dr. Gradus Ad Parnassum."

Military Ball Set for Sept.

Plans for a military ball were discussed at the activities board meeting Monday. It was decided to give the AROTC the date of September 26 for the Military Ball and to loan the organization $200 to cover advance guarantees necessary for putting on the affair.

The policy established this year when the student body withdrew financial support from the Varsity ball will be followed next year. The exception to the rule will be the $200 loan being offered because of the lack of finances of the AROTC organizations.

The student council, in their last regular meeting of the year Wednesday, voted officially to lend the $200 to the AROTC for the military ball.

The ball will be sponsored by the whole AROTC unit, but the work will be done by the drill team, rifle team and the Arnold Air society.

Because of the heavy schedule of dances and queen selections during the fall semester, the Varsity ball will again be held in the spring.

Discussion was held on the Panhellenic dance but a motion was passed to table discussion until the fall meeting of the activities board.

Women's Groups To Get Profits

AWS funds from the "Daffy Drag" dance are now available to women's organizations on campus. The leap year dance was presented to earn money for these organizations, and distribution is on the basis of need.

Allocations in view of the May 1 balances are: Mu Phi Epsilon, $16; Pepcats, $2.50; YWCA, $12.50; Alpha Lambda Delta, $1.50; Beta Alpha Gamma, $16, and Cap and Gown, $1.50.

The first AWS scholarship was awarded this year to Edith Wheeler. Funds from the songbook, "A Decade of Songs," will be the nucleus of next year scholarship.

Young GOP's Fill Top Posts

Bob Packwood and Bob Batchelder were named to the top posts of the campus young republican group at the election of officers during a recent meeting.

Packwood will take the reins as president after having served during the last term as vice-president and Batchelder, retiring president, will be the representative of the local chapter to the Young Republican Federation Executive board.

Other officers elected were Dave Card, vice president; Dolly Montag, secretary and George Buland, treasurer. Paul Johnson will assume the office of the representative to the College League board.

According to Packwood, summer plans of the organization include the fact that "individual members will work on the Eisenhower presidential campaign following the national convention."

Work Outlook Looks Bright

Barring difficulties with the draft, the job picture for college graduates this June is bright according to the Associated Collegiate Press, which points out opportunities in several of the major fields.

In education, the greatest need is for primary and elementary school teachers. In the high school level, teachers are needed in home economics, agriculture, library work and physical education.

With 42,000 engineering job openings this year, and only 24,000 engineering graduates, the field of engineering promises excellent opportunities.

Corporation lawyers are in the greatest demand in law, with quite a few government jobs open also in such departments as price stabilization and the FBI.

Medicine, dentistry and nursing have created a great demand for persons in all three of these fields, with nursing taking top honors. According to the U. S. Labor department, there will be 50,000 less nurses than are needed by 1954.

With a combined degree in accounting and business administration, jobs will be plentiful in accounting. If trained only for the accounting field, jobs will be scarcer but not impossible to get.

Social work is a young field, but the present demand for social workers far exceeds the supply. Students with graduate training generally get the better jobs, however.

Sororities Reject Deferred Rushing

Rushing plans were made at the last Panhellenic meeting of the school year Tuesday afternoon. A plan for deferred rushing, with rush week the sixth week of fall semester, was defeated. Council members tallied votes from the four sororities, which totaled thirty for and one hundred forty-two against the change.

Summer correspondence with entering freshmen women is prohibited, the council members decided. Exceptions are big-little sister letters sponsored by the YWCA. No organized functions may be given before the formal rush period, September 9 to 13. Rush booklets will be given women who are admitted to Willamette.

Salem Panhellenic will entertain high school graduates of the Salem area planning to attend Willamette, Oregon State college or the University of Oregon, at Lausanne hall, August 24.

Ranton Heads '52 Varieties

Loren Ranton was appointed Wednesday to head next year's Varsity Varieties by Frances Smith, Campus Chest chairman. The benefit show with proceeds for the chest drive is scheduled to appear next October 10.

Ranton served as assistant manager to Rollin Cocking for Varsity Varieties last fall and declared his intentions this week for a "good show to insure good profits." Not only does the production provide an opportunity for amateur showmen, but funds for a charitable cause as well.

Varsity Varieties will be presented only three weeks after school begins next fall. As this is an extremely short time to assemble a show, Ranton urges anyone interested in any sort of production work to contact him immediately.

The show will probably be staged in the Salem high school auditorium, as it was this year. All student talent will be incorporated in writing, direction and production.

Registrar Wants Schedule Books

All pre-registration books should be turned in to the registrar's office, according to R. O. Wilson, recorder. The books will be alphabetized and returned to students next fall to complete their registration.

Wilson said the 522 books have been turned in. In lower division 223 have registered with 278 in upper division. Twenty-one students have signed up for music school. Registration for law students will be held later.

The system is designed to cut down unnecessary confusion during registration week next fall and to give students a working plan in advance for courses next year.

Registration and orientation of new students will be held September 9-13 with classes beginning on September 16.
