

A. E. EATON, DONOR OF LIBERAL ARTS BUILDING PASSES AWAY

Was Valuable Friend To Christian Education; Tuesday's Chapel Hour Devoted To Memorial Services

He Was Loved by Every Willamette Student, Who Always Looked Forward to Annual Campus Visit of this "Grand Old Man"; Senator Walter M. Pierce Pays Tribute to Doctor Eaton's Noble Life Work

Hon. A. E. Eaton died at the Portland Hospital, Monday, January 15. In his death, Willamette University loses a sincere and loyal friend who did much for her welfare. In 1909 Dr. Eaton gave $50,000 which resulted in the College of Liberal Arts building known as Eaton Hall.

POLICE REPORTER INVADES WEB MEETING

Harry Critchlow, of Evening Telegram, Relates Experiences—Military Training Debated.

Both the Alpha and Omega and the interludes between were of entertaining interest to the Websterians last Wednesday night on the occasion of the first 1917 session of the society members. Although Grafton Webb's X-ray analysis of Hiram Johnson's presidential prospect was somewhat removed from the mental disturbance visible during the Hon. James Bedingfield's pregnant decisions on points of Parliamentary order, the variety which Vice-Proctor Proctor had injected into the program was of winning appeal.

Harry B. Critchlow, an old Websterian of the palmy days of 1911, was an added attraction and that he still can put the Web in Webster in characteristic peppery style of yore, his fellow Webs attest unanimously. Being a newspaper man is synonymous for experiences that are as widely diversified as Dan was from Bersheeba and lunch at the way station; Mr. Critchlow was no exception and his illuminating narrative as a police reporter touched the spot. Although he spoke for nearly an hour, the Webs were loathe to have him stop to heed the call to attend the sessions of the Ways and Means committee at the state house.

In speaking of the newspaper game, Mr. Critchlow gave some of the primary qualities for success in the journalistic profession. The first is natural aptitude for the work, training is necessary, but "God made the reporter." Next is loyalty to your paper, in connection with this point he told of the bribes that a reporter is always offered if he will put this item in a paper or keep that one out. The last requirement discussed was honesty.

The forensic duel on the question, "Resolved, That the United States Should Adopt Universal Military Service," resulted in a unanimous decision in favor of Attebery and Eakin of the affirmative over Flegel and Burleigh of the negative. It was an excellent presentation of the problem and thoroughly enjoyed.

NEW FRAT IS ORGANIZED

Alpha Mu Kappa Latest Addition to Campus Roll.

For the first time in the history of the institution a men's fraternal organization has been launched. It is known as the Alpha Mu Kappa, and is located at 283 South Church street.

With such a fine location near the university it is thought that it will be a success. It is the purpose of this fraternity not only to provide an agreeable place to live but also to add much to the social life of the institution.

The charter members are Earl Flegel, Donald Fletcher, Warren Booth, Harold Miller, Leland Austin, and Sylvester Burleigh.

ASTRONOMY CLASS HAS FINE VIEW OF PLANETS

Telescope of I. L. McAdams Used—Nebula in Orion Subject of Particular Interest.

Through the courtesy of Mr. I. L. McAdams, Salem's noted astronomer, the big Clark telescope was available to Prof. Matthews' astronomy class members Monday evening on the campus. As the sparkling air was clear, the observations of the respective heavenly bodies were remarkable. Saturn and his three rings were distinctly visible for a short time and later Jupiter and his seven affiliated moons hove into splendid range. A nebula in Orion was of particular interest as was also a somewhat extended view of Pleiades. So interested were the class members in the mysterious bodies of space that only the realization that other studies must be investigated forced them to forego further speculations on the nature of the infinite.

FOOTBALL MEN HONORED BOOTH

Premier Quarterback Will Captain 1917 Team; Is Veteran at the Game

Helped to Defeat Oregon in 1913—Only Junior to Receive Football "W" Last Season.

Warren R. Booth, brainy quarterback of last football season, was unanimously chosen captain for the 1917 squad when the football "W" men met Thursday. The captain-elect is a junior and has more than once displayed his ability to lead a team against disheartening odds to a final victory and the fall campaign will see him at his best with every man of the squad following him to their last ounce of fight.

Booth learned the rudiments of the game under Coach Sweetland while he was an understudy to his brother "Bill." He was then a "prep" in the Academy but run the team about half the time, doing the generalship act on teams that held O. A. C. to 9 to 6 and 5 to 3 scores, Oregon 12 to 0 and defeated M. A. A. C. 27 to 0 and Montana 25 to 9. In his freshman year he played end and quarter, piloting the team through part of their memorable 6 to 3 defeat of the Oregon huskies. In his sophomore year he was the backbone of the team playing every minute of time. The success of the season just closed is largely due to his veteran generalship and to his marvelous defensive play.

Booth does not confine his efforts to the gridiron alone but is a tennis and basketball player of no mean ability. He is also a two year letter man in baseball having played shortstop with a clean slate for three seasons, earning his letter in the Academy and being honored with the captaincy in both his freshman and sophomore years.

"UNIVERSITY EVENING" CALLS OUT STUDENTS

Line of March Proceeds From Front of Eaton Hall to First Church—Many Yells Were Given.

Headed by the large W. U. monogram a majority of old Willamette's students met Friday at 7 o'clock in front of Eaton Hall and marched in a body to the First M. E. church, to take part in "University Evening" of the Mathis-Vessey meetings.

The church was decorated with pennants and streamers of Cardinal and Gold. The center section of the building was reserved for the Willamette students who sang a number of college songs and choruses.

Rev. Mathis preached on the subject, "He took God with him." Building his theme about the story of Joseph, who through his numerous trials in Egypt, was always conqueror because he had God with him. A forceful comparison was drawn for the young people who leave home to attend college.

Sandwiches!! will be sold Thursday morning after chapel. Saturday at the Multnomah game the Y. W. girls will sell pop corn.

RANGERS MEET DEFEAT FROM VARSITY QUINTS

Fast Okalahoma Normal Team Meets Third Waterloo in Game with Methodists

FINAL SCORE IS 15 TO 19

Cardinal and Gold Supporters Win Second Game of Season—Game Was One of Fastest Played—Both Teams Showed Coaching.

In what many assert to be the fastest and best basketball game they have seen, Coach Mathews' fighting gym squad defeated the Rangers of the Oklahoma State Normal School by the decisive score of 15 to 19, on the varsity floor, on Thursday evening.

The normal students invaded the Willamette campus enshrouded in a halo of mystery. Reports were rampant that they had played over forty games on their tour and had lost but two. Ideas of their strength was also intensified by the fact that they defeated the University of Oregon quintet the night before by the ratio of 32 to 12.

Those who witnessed the alumni game were reminded of the similarity in the opening of the two contests, but this time the varsity's opponents were the favored ones. After the initial toss of the ball by the referee the visitors made but two passes before the first score was made. A converted foul, by Esteb gave the varsity their first point, which was quickly added to by a basket by Jackson. Fouling on both sides then interfered with the progress of the game until Oklahoma gained their second basket, making the score 4 to 3. But the varsity soon gained the lead by a basket from Brooks, after receiving a side line pass from Jackson. A successful foul throw gave them an additional tally.

At one time only during the contest was the score a tie, this happened when a Ranger succeeded in getting behind the back guard and finished a play including a long pass. However, the varsity soon gained the lead, by a foul throw, which they maintained during the remainder of the game. A long shot by Esteb and a quick throw by Brooks netted the varsity four more points. The half closed with the score of 8 to 11 in favor of the Cardinal and Gold.

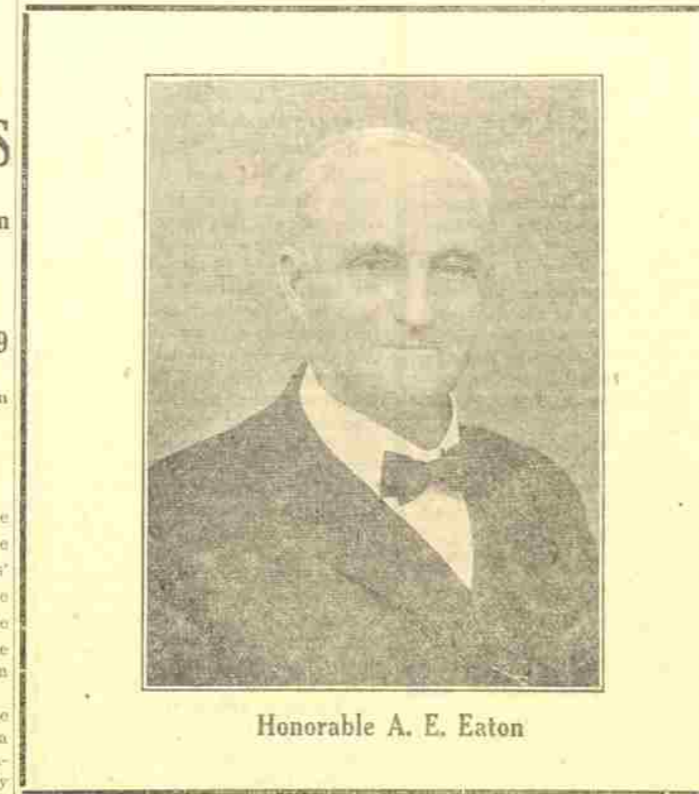

So far as scoring the opening of the second canto was uneventful but after considerable time and fight between the two teams Esteb tossed another two points. Playing then centered around the Rangers' basket, but they were unable to score, until the varsity annexed another score. For a few moments the Normal team had the advantage of the Methodists and annexed four points in quick succession. Jackson made another successful throw for the varsity after the ball had been worked the full length of the floor. In the remainder of the game the visitors converted one foul and bagged another basket, while the last scoring favored the varsity, Brooks making a sensational shot.

On the whole the game was real scientific contest, the varsity supporters made few lax plays, their guarding was nearly perfect. Their quick work in breaking up opponents' plays was a leading factor that determined the results. An attempt will not be made to pick stars as each man showed up well. It was a team game, not an individual affair.

Nothing but praise can be extended to the Oklahoma team, they played a clean strong game, and showed the results of real coaching. Their efficient short passes were the feature of the game. Only pure prowess won for the Willamette team, and as Coach Mathews asserted Thursday morning, the team would make this the third defeat for the Normal quintet.

The lineup and individual scoring was: Willamette, Oklahoma, Flegel, R. F. 5, McKibrick, Esteb, L. F. 2, Dotter, 4, Stewart, Jackson, 4, C. 4, Wilk, Brooks, 6, R. G. 4, Lane, Nichols, L. G. 2, McClure, Referee—Fletcher.

Miss Sterling and Miss Wiggins will have charge of the Y. W. C. A. meeting Thursday afternoon.

NEW PROFESSOR ASSUMES DUTIES

Hancock Meets Rhetoric Classes Monday; Plans for Year's Work Unsettled

Time Needed to Become Acquainted With Work—Number of Classes and Enrollment Is Problem.

Once more the Rhetoric classes are a part of Willamette's scholastic activity. The vacation for part of the English classes has come to an end. In other words, Prof. Hancock has arrived on the campus and has taken up the work which was brought to a standstill by the departure of Prof. McMurray.

Prof. Hancock met his classes of Monday morning but, when interviewed, said he could give no information concerning the department as he was not yet sufficiently acquainted with the work being done. He hopes within the next week after conferences with Dean Alden and Prof. Stauffer to be able to make definite announcements in regard to the continuance of the classes.

MUSIC STUDENTS APPEAR

Archie Smith and Miss Hockensmith Please Students.

Although the shivering students were loathe to leave a favorable proximity to the stove in the rear of the Chapel, Monday morning, and take their regular seatings, their hearts were warmed by the presentation of two music students. Mr. Archie Smith sang a baritone solo entitled "A Slave Song" by Del Illego. Miss Hazel Hockensmith interpreted two compositions, one "For You Alone" with words by P. J. O'Reilly, music by Henry E. Geesh, the other was one of Browning's poems, "Oh! Love But a Day" with music by H. H. A. Beach. This was Miss Hockensmith's initial appearance before the student body. She has a clear voice with good carrying qualities.

SPELLING IS SIMPLIFIED

Willamette Follows Suggestion of College Presidents.

Following a suggestion made by the College Presidents' Association, Willamette has approved the simplified spelling of the following words: Program, catalog, desecrate, probe, demagog, pedagogue, thorax, thorators, thru, throust.

The spelling of the above 12 words was also recommended by the National Education Association, and will be considered correct wherever used.

Alden to Attend Eaton Funeral.

Since Dean Alden was chosen by the faculty to represent the institution at the funeral services of the Hon. A. E. Eaton, he did not attend the Friends last night. He departed on the 4 o'clock train for Union, Or.

QUARTET GIVES FIRST CONCERT

NO MOCK LEGISLATURE

Contrary to the custom of holding an inter-society mock legislature during the sessions of the state law makers, such an organization will not be formed this year. This statement is made official by the passing of a motion in Websterian Society meeting to that effect. The reason for their action being that the mock legislature does not afford training equal to the regular work of the organizations.

DR. W. S. HALL OF NORTHWESTERN VISITS SALEM

Social Hygiene Specialist Addresses Students; Small Institutions Praised

CITY Y. M. SERVES DINNER

Noted Lecturer Gave Views Favoring Old Fashioned Square Dances, Virginia Reel—Women's Dress Theme of Informal Talk.

After pent up enthusiasm over the victory of the night before had received its proper airing in Friday's chapel, the student body was favored by a message of greetings from Northwestern University extended by Dr. Winfield Scott Hall, a faculty member of the university's Medical College.

Dr. Hall spoke particularly in defense of the West and South, mentioning the football game between Oregon and Pennsylvania, and the effect of the Western states upon the recent election. He also stated that a dry West will force the East to go dry within the next decade. The West is the first to line up for universal suffrage. Institutions of education are also rivaling those of the East, their undergraduate work does not compare with the western.

In speaking of small colleges and universities Dr. Hall believed them to be the ideal place to do undergraduate work. The large institutions of the nation as Columbia, Harvard, Johns Hopkins, etc., should offer graduate work only.

After the chapel hour a meeting for men only was held. Dr. Hall is a specialist on Social Hygiene, and in this lecture treated of problems peculiar to men. Problems that everyone has to face and which for their right solution depend on each individual being informed aright. Advertising sharks that prey upon supposed diseases were given a severe blow. After his address the men extended to him a rising vote of thanks.

During the noon hour a dinner was served for the university men and the doctor at the city Y. M. C. A. At this time the problem of choosing a wife was the speaker's theme.

In the afternoon Dr. Hall spoke to the women of the university concerning questions that are peculiarly puzzling to them. In effective words he sketched pictures of girl-life at different ages from the time of the ugly-ducking period, until the time when the little girl becomes a charming young lady with "eyes that are windows into the soul." In the heart of every woman, one may find purity and altruism.

In speaking of dress, Dr. Hall said that while in Europe he observed that the most cultured, Parisian women were not imitators of the extreme, popular fashions, but were distinguished by their refined, modest dresses. The gowns of the well-dressed woman are always modest, artistic, comfortable and hygienic.

On Saturday afternoon Dr. Hall met with a small group of the college women in a more intimate and personal talk. Among other problems to be discussed the different kinds of dancing. In his confidential, friendly manner he showed how different the modern dance is from the old-fashioned Square Dance. He classed the Square Dance and Virginia Reel together as floor games of following the leader. These artistic games originated in earlier times among the lords and ladies of the courts. But the Waltz, Tango, Heistation and later steps are entirely different in themselves and in their reaction upon participants.

During his talks he emphasized the fact that the highest and most beautiful type of womanhood is the one in which pure and unselfish thoughts contribute to a fine, winning personality.

This is Dr. Hall's second visit to Willamette. His first visit was in the fall of 1913. He spends half the year lecturing at the colleges of the country and the other time is devoted to his professional duties at Northwestern.

As the flames crackled there suddenly began a weird tattoo inside the coffin. The crowd was filled with horror. "He's alive trying to get out!" Just then the coffin took fire, and there was an explosion, scattering red embers in a shower over the mourners, who turned to run, but presently a pillar of fire shot up from the now visible body, and at its shimmering summit they saw a beautiful pyrotechnic flower expand and disappear. PRIZE ESSAY CONTEST CLOSING MARCH 15, '17

Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration Offers a Prize for Best Essay.

On March 15, 1917, closes the ninth Pugsley contest for the best essay on "International Arbitration, for which a prize of $100 is offered. This is under the supervision of The Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration.

The conditions of the contest are: Any undergraduate man student of any college or university in the United States or Canada may compete.

Each essay should show an understanding of the nature and history of international arbitration apart from and in connection with the Hague Conferences and Hague Court, and may also refer to (or subject to the above requirement, emphasize) such subjects as the Permanent Court of Arbitration, the proposed Judicial Arbitration Court, Good Offices, Mediation and Commissions of Inquiry, as treated in the "Conventions for the Pacific Settlement of International Disputes" adopted by the first and second Hague Conferences, and in the "Draft Convention Relative to the Creation of a Judicial Arbitration Court" agreed to by the second Hague Conference.

Each contestant is requested to append to his essay a list of works consulted, if possible with specific references.

Essays must not exceed 5000 words and must be written, preferably in typewriting, on one side only of plain paper of ordinary letter size.

Each essay should bear a non de plume or arbitrary sign which should be included in an accompanying letter giving the writer's real name, college, class and home address. Both letter and essay should reach H. C. Phillips, Secretary Lake Mohonk Conference, (address, until December 1, 1916, Mohonk Lake, N. Y.; December 1, 1916, to April 1, 1917, 3521 Fourteenth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.) not later than March 15, 1917. Essays should be mailed flat (not rolled).

The award of the prize will be made at the Lake Mohonk Conference in May, 1917, to which the winner will be invited.

For additional information, references, etc., address the Secretary of the Conference.

The eighth Pugsley prize brought out forty-three essays. The prize was won by George R. Fairlamb, Jr., a sophomore in the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland. Mr. Fairlamb's essay is published by the Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration and can be obtained on application to the secretary. The next in order of merit were Ralph S. Underwood, of University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn., second place; Charles M. Ross, of Eureka College, Eureka, Ill., and Summerfield Baldwin, of Harvard College, Cambridge, Mass., tying for third place.

POPULAR WILLAMETTE LEGAL TRIBUNAL AFFECTS SETTLEMENT BETWEEN TWO IRATE FARMERS

In the Moot Court last Monday night Mr. Holder, defendant in the hog case instituted against him by Mr. J. P. Owner, was accorded $75 in damages to annul the pecuniary suffering attendant upon an untimely invasion of his celery patch by 10 of Mr. Owner's hungry hogs. Allan Bynon and "Tubby" Hendricks acted as counsel for plaintiff, while "Cap" Gregg and "Bill" Ellis showed the defendant how to take $75 away from the plaintiff without turning burglar.

The plaintiff stated his grievance in a very few words. He said that about a month ago 10 of his fat hogs broke through the defendant's fence and trampled on about 150 bunches of frozen celery, for which there was no market. He also alleged that the defendant drove the hogs into his own pen, and refused to give them to their rightful owner until he paid $50 damages, which the defendant claimed was the reasonable value of celery destroyed by the hogs. The plaintiff also stated that he had sought to effect an amicable settlement by tendering $40 for the damages done to the fence. The defendant refused this offer, saying that the hogs ate $50 worth of celery for which the plaintiff must pay. This the plaintiff refused to do because the celery was so badly frozen that the hogs would not eat it, and therefore could be of no value whatever.

The defendant, on the stand, declared that he was holding the hogs as security for the devastation wreaked upon his celery patch. He further alleged that the plaintiff did not feed his hogs, so they were forced to rustle their food off the neighbors. He also denied that the celery had been injured by the inclemency of the weather. In addition to the $50 damages for celery, the defendant begged the court for $25 as a reasonable charge for keeping and feeding the hogs for four weeks.

The plaintiff's lawyers then proceeded to prove that the celery had been frozen. They introduced expert testimony to the effect that celery freezes at 34 degrees above zero. They next introduced Mr. R. Thermometer, who has charge of Hartman Bros. Tycoos Barometer. He testified that his machine had registered 24 degrees above zero on several occasions just prior to the time the marauding hogs ravaged the defendant's celery patch.

"I can't see," objected Gregg, "what the temperature here in Salem has to do with that of Brooks, where the celery is located."

"This thermometer," replied the witness, "is adjusted so as to take the temperature of the entire country."

"I don't know," interposed Judge Van Winkle, "what kind of a machine this is, but it has always been my observation that a thermometer can only record the temperature where it is located. This court cannot recognize the existence of this machine until better proof is offered."

No better proof being available, the jury soon returned a verdict in favor of the defendant.

Pfaff Wins Bet by American Diplomacy

Like a prestidigital tale from Arabian Nights is an account of Peter Pfaff's debut with a brand new derby. The story leaked out on the occasion of the jolly 1915 alumnae's recent visit to Salem. To make a short story short, Peter bet with a rival instructor in the Port Angeles school in which he was teaching that the one of the two who was married last must present the other with a $5 derby. The anonymous instructor announced his marriage in the Port Angeles papers for a certain holiday date, but what does Peter do but announce his own through the same medium for three days earlier. On the strength of that the instructor bought Peter the derby, but—Peter forgot to get married and is as yet blissfully existing in a state of bachelorhood and incidentally protecting his dome with the $5 derbatorial sky-piece. The lesson in premature betting might well profit those contemplating any such method of letting the press disseminate the news, if such there be around old Willamette.

GLEN McCADDAM

Among the successful young men in the business world, Glen J. McCaddam must be rated among the first. Since his graduation from Willamette in the spring of 1915 he has gained a permanent place in the managing department of Chautauqua and Lyceum systems of the Northwest. The success of the Lyceum in Salem during past years is due to his efforts, and the character of this year's course will undoubtedly meet the public's expectations.

While a student in Willamette Mr. McCaddam was a member of the Glee Club for four years, being the manager two seasons. He served as Yell Leader one year, won his Bar "W" in Oratory and Debate, and won the Inter-society cup during his sophomore year. The varsity book store is the product of his initiative. It was established and placed on a firm business basis at opening of school year 1913-14.

A.E. EATON PASSES AWAY

mentioned the wonderful accomplishments and splendid character of Dr. Eaton. "He keenly felt the handicap of a limited education, and it was this which prompted him to give the gift of Eaton Hall to an institution which was giving higher Christian education. This will be a memorial to him because it has broadened the influence of Willamette."

(Rev. R. N. Avison, pastor of the First M. E. Church, concluded the exercises by showing the relation of these great lives to the students. "Young people, it is for you to dedicate your life to the interests for which they gave so much.")

A. E. Eaton was born 80 years ago, May 29, 1836, in New England. At about the age of 30 he came to Union, Or., where he was successful in the cattle business. By hard work he earned a considerable fortune with which he has been exceedingly generous. Although deprived of an extensive education in schools, he was granted the honorary degree of L. L. D.

His widow is left alone, as he had no children.

Dean Geo. H. Alden left last night to attend the funeral which will take place in Union, Or.

HARRY McCAIN SPEAKS AT CHAPEL EXERCISES

Old Varsity Student Now in Prohibition Work Gives Address Under Auspices of Y. M. C. A.

With his old time earnestness and force, Harry G. McCain addressed the student assembly Thursday morning. He chose for his subject, "What the College Y. M. C. A. Can Do for a Man." He said that no college man could afford to miss the help which the Y. M. C. A. can give him personally. First of all his experience in the Christian Association will give him confidence in himself. This is absolutely essential to a successful life. It will also increase his confidence in others. In order to work for the uplift of humanity one must have faith in it. But the greatest thing which the Y. M. C. A. can do for a man is to give him a firm and abiding faith in a higher power whatever it may be. If there is a greater being than the God of the Christian or any higher manifestation of him than the Christ of the Christian religion, worship that being. The leading young men all over the country are lining up with the Y. M. C. A. because of what it stands for.

Athletic Heart Not Caused by Athletics

New York, Jan. 10.—A comprehensive investigation of college athletics will be made if the National Collegiate Athletic association can gain the aid of the Carnegie foundation, the Sage foundation or the general educational board in a country-wide movement. The association yesterday adopted a resolution providing "that the executive committee of the organization request one of these foundations to make a survey of athletics in colleges, with particular reference to their moral influence."

It was announced that the executive committee immediately will get in touch with the foundation and try to launch a movement copied after other great educational surveys.

One of the interesting discussions at the convention revolved around the "athletic heart." Dr. Roger I. Lee of Harvard university said there is no such thing. He professed to have proved this with Harvard experiments by means of new instruments devised to take graphic records.

With these he was able to study the cardiac rhythm and natural rhythm and he said that cardiac irregularities are in no way related to physical exercise, but rather to increased nervous sensibility.

He said these irregularities frequently are found and are not peculiar to athletic persons.

FOOTBALL REPRESENTS SOCIAL EVOLUTION OF MANKIND, SAYS AMHERST PROFESSOR

New York, Jan. 19.—In an address on "The Value of Football," delivered at the eleventh annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic association here today, Prof. Raymond Garfield Gettler of Amherst college said:

"Football is not a contest between individuals. It is a contest between groups of teams. The union of eleven men under their captain typifies the characteristic human factor of organization. In no other game is the individual, as individual, of so little moment, and the unit, or team, so closely integrated. The success of almost every maneuver depends upon a detailed division of labor, a distinct part being assigned to each member within the machine; and the success of a team in competition with others depends mainly upon the perfection of its organized teamwork. Football, then, demands co-operation, the subordination of the individual interest to the welfare of the larger unit. It reproduces on a small scale the progress of organized social effort by which man first attained supremacy over the world of nature, and by which the more highly organized and more closely co-operating peoples have conquered and surpassed their less advanced rivals."

"Football, while retaining the virtues of physical combat, remedies its worst evils by emphasizing organization, co-operation and obedience. These necessitate self-sacrifice, subordination, natural aid and fair play. They discipline the individual, teach self-control and inculcate principles of honor and loyalty. Especially do they build up an ideal."

"More than any other sport, it retains the vital elements of physical combat and necessitates an exhibition of all its essential factors—strength, speed, skill and cunning. In addition to this primitive lust for battle, it satisfies the higher and distinctly civilized interest in organization, co-operation and the skilled interrelation of individual effort directed to a common purpose. It typifies the highest human achievement in its unusual emphasis on discipline and obedience on the subordination of the individual to authority and law. Finally, in its purpose and in its spirit it represents that highest craving of the human soul, the striving for an ideal."
