

4 Brain Trusters Coach Navy Team

Perhaps the most interested onlookers at tomorrow's tussle will be the Bearcat's board of strategy, athletic director Leslie Sparks and chiefs "Duke" Trotter, Lou Carroll and Bob McGuire. They have been working hard rounding the team into a well-functioning machine and deserve a lot of credit. It's been no easy job with such handicaps as inaugurating a new system, working with players who have not played together, a short practice period and a bone-head physics class with some players attending two sessions a week. Add to this the fact that the chiefs are coaching without pay and you get some idea why they warrant such bouquets.

Head mentor Trotter has an enviable athletic record behind him at UCLA and also three years coaching experience at the Bruin institution. Carroll, former Oregon college of education and George Washington university performer and later coach at nearby Gresham high school, has been working with the backfield. Likeable Lou will not be on hand for the game as he is now on leave. Helping to whip both the line and backfield into shape has been McGuire, who did his playing for Santa Clara. He learned his football from both "Clipper" Smith and Buck Shaw and was a hard hitting Bronco quarterback.

Sparks has had the perplexing job of attempting to arrange some competition for the willing Bearcats. He has contacted every suitable competition in the northwest but only the Missionaries have been scheduled.

Navy, Civilians to Pre-Register

Registration for next semester civilian students now on the campus will be held in the registrar's office Monday through Thursday. Civilian students who are completely registered at that time will not be required to appear for registration on Saturday, October 30. Students who do not have the money available at this time for the initial payment of their tuition fee will be considered completely registered if they deposit all cards in the business office and make arrangements with the business manager to make payment of fees not later than 5 o'clock October 30.

Pre-registration for all navy students who will be in school next term began yesterday afternoon and continues today from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. V-12ers may also register from 8:30 until noon tomorrow and from 8:30 until 5 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday. Their registration must be completed by 5 p.m. on Tuesday.

Save Today's Paper For Football Game

Save your copy of the Collegian today. It gives the complete program and roster of tomorrow's game, and will be used at the game as a program. Extra copies are being printed for distribution to guests at the Bearcat-Whitman clash.

It's 'Seniors Aweigh' as Navy Honors Men Leaving Campus

Tomorrow night at 2030 the Willamette gymnasium will be a rhapsody in blue—the atmosphere, the music, and the men of the WU V-12 unit. It's all for the departing seniors leaving for midshipmen's school, and the juniors, sophomores and freshmen gobs are doing their navy best to make the informal dance something to be remembered.

With "Seniors Aweigh" for its theme, Ed Ferguson for its chairman, and the 104th cavalry band for its music, the big shindig just can't go wrong.

Mr. Ferguson and his aides have everything well in hand, and word has it that the dance programs are really something to shout about. John Cutthoff and John Christerson have been the main voices in their planning.

A change in the chairmanship of the decorations committee brought Dave Slater top position in that field, with Budd Chrystall, Bill Stroud, Ben Director, Jim Dyer, Bob Shea, Glenn Lyons and Bob Warner in supporting roles. No information regarding the decorations was forthcoming from pin-up man Slater, who would rather have it all be a big surprise.

Lt. and Mrs. George C. Bliss, Capt. and Mrs. George W. Shepard and Lt. and Mrs. Marshall E. Woodell will be guests of honor at the affair, and members of the Willamette faculty will be special guests. Dr. and Mrs. Robert E. Lantz and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Brennen are to be patrons and patronesses.

A canteen will be set up in the balcony, according to refreshment heads Rees Williams and Hugh Miller, for that intermission pause that refreshes—it'll really be open all evening.

Navy Men Meet Missionaries On Sweetland Turf Tomorrow In Oregon's Only College Game

By Pop Oslund

The checkerboard turf of Sweetland field will taste the cleats of Oregon's only collegiate football contest this season tomorrow when the Missionaries from Whitman college and the Bearcats of Willamette university match their pigskin wizardry and deception in a contest that should keep the fans on their feet from start to finish. The opening kickoff is slated for 1:30 o'clock.

The contest will be the first in a home-and-home series and will constitute one-half of Willamette's schedule. A proposed tilt with the Washington Huskies, which had been tentatively scheduled for next Saturday, has been definitely called off. The reason being that the Husky performers would be in danger of losing a year's eligibility.

The cardinal and gold, boasting a big forward wall, with a pony backfield, will have only a two pound per man weight advantage. The locals have a 196 pound line which will square off with a somewhat lighter line of 184 pounds. The visitor's backfield will scale in at 182 which will give them a 16 pound per man advantage.

Although there may be one or two changes the following boys will probably be on the field at the starting whistle: Bob Sheridan, former WSC basketballer, who will hold down the left end position and will be the heaviest man on the field. The other wingman will be well-built Bill Blade, Oregon State college transfer, who has had no previous collegiate experience. Three year veteran "Truck" Deiner will be back at his old left tackle position and should prove to be one of the Bearcat mainstays with either Brad Schade, "Doc" Peters or Don Schuman taking over the other tackle job. Schade will probably get the call but all three of these former Portland U gridsters will see plenty of action. Although he has had neither college or high school experience, rugged Chuck Anderson former Hoquiam high school boy, has fought his way to the first string and will team with Bob Donovan at the guard

Navy Men Get Refund On Tickets

Bringing to a head the long-debated question of student body tickets was the action of the student council members Wednesday night in deciding to refund to the navy students the part of the sum paid for student body memberships for this term. Men who have signed up for the tickets, but who have not yet paid the $10 fee may not be required to pay the full amount, the council said.

Since the planned social program could not be carried out for the term due to the polio ban and other unforeseen interference, and since the tickets were sold to the navy men on the promise of a full social and athletic program, the council passed the decision to refund part of the ticket fees to the navy men as an act of good will, following the suggestion of Dean Chester F. Luther, faculty adviser.

After the lists of ticket holders are checked, the men who have paid for their tickets may receive their refunds from the office of Robert W. Fenix, business

More About Tickets

Willamette wrapped up the much-talked-about, much-disputed student ticket problem this week when the student council voted that refunds on all tickets held by navy men, who have paid part or all of their ten dollars, will be made.

Much of the credit for the move goes to the hard working council adviser, Dean Chester F. Luther, whose suggestion it was the move be undertaken. An announcement when money can be secured will be made next Friday. Navy men are urged not to report to the business office until after that time.

Another feather should be placed in the cap of the council for a plan now being arranged that will offer student tickets to navy men next semester at a reduced rate when a full activity program will be worked out. The plan came about with theatres and other recreational divisions offering lower rates for servicemen's entertainment.

The polio ban and minimum football schedule placed a serious crimp in the activities program this semester. Plans are already under way for an elaborate sporting and social schedule during the fall semester when navy men should take advantage of their opportunity to enlist in the local student body.

As the present now sees the future, your Collegian will be distributed next semester from the office of the graduate manager and only those students holding tickets will be entitled to copies of the publication.

On the other hand, the whole situation might be completely abolished with speculative rumors predicting that the amount of the tuition at Willamette will be increased so as to include the price of the student ducat. All civilian students now are required to purchase the extra ten dollar ticket.

Should this new system be undertaken, navy men would receive a student activity ticket without cost or obligation as a personal gift from their good friend, Uncle Sam.

Nevertheless, the future is much more glowing.—H. R.

The Male Line

Dearest Rosie:

Well, here I am again—with flash news, exclusive news. The boys are getting a dance up tomorrow night, and Rosie, you've got to come and help me trip the light fantastic. (No reference to Trotter.) It's going to be big doings, though, and you've got to be there—with me.

I wish you could have been here for the Kappa dance last Saturday night. I was a special guest—so naturally I had to go, with a purely platonic attitude, of course. You know the kind, Rosie. It was a little embarrassing, though. One girl I danced with complimented me on my new steps. I smiled and changed the subject—I was losing my garter!

It was really a swell dance, though. Daphne DeMural, the great animal painter, was there and asked me to sit for a portrait. But you know I was never photogenic. I never took a good picture, either.

How's the riveting moving along? I wish they'd let some of you girls get back to your old jobs. The waitress shortage is really getting serious. I was down at the Spa the other night and I asked the girl for some ginger ale. She said, "Extra dry?" I said, "I'll say I am," but all she gave me was a dirty look. Then she brought me some cold old soup and when I asked her for some hotter stuff, she said, "What? And burn my thumb?"

The navy is really soooooo good to me. Really, Rosie. We get to sing while we do our exercises now. The tempo is never even, but with my voice I can sing Faust or slow.

Don't forget our date for the dance! It's gonna be good. (Me, too!)

BLISSfully yours,
GEORGE

Rosie Reverberates

George Gorgeous:

Say, you lug, no more cracks about the size and shape of my dainty lotus-but feet. D'ya hear? Take a gander at those scows you push around! You will probably mangle my po' lil' tootsies at that senior dance. I'm a fool to wear anything but loggers' boots when I'm dancing (?) with you.

Last Sunday nite when I wandered over to the campus to "say" farewell, I sure ran into a veritable horde of—shall we be delicate and say "affectionate"—couples. The Senior bench, Waller steps, Eaton steps, Chresto's steps, Chresto and all of the other convenient locations were swarming with 'em. Just goes to prove that you can't stop true love by merely putting a lock on Waller Tower. As I see it, it's only a matter of time before the sailors find some way to get around this additional obstacle, anyhow.

You know, Geo., there'll sure be a lot of navy wives around Salem if all these affairs work out right. Incidentally, I hear one of the most popular of the ship's company is making quite an effort to find someone to fetch his pipe and slippers—the gals had better brush up on their brush off!

Honey chil', have you managed to keep out of trouble this week? If you fellows are ever caught in your food smuggling racket, you'll be brigged till further notice. How you, clumsy as you are, can manage to creep in the hall with twelve cokes and three dozen donuts is more than I can see. The chiefs must get a cut.

Well, my grumblin' bum, I guess I must end this uplifting epistle, but I'll be thinking of you—every time I drive a rivet into my present contribution to victory.

Gobs of love,

Gary Garrison, who sang "The Navy Is So Good to Me," with such feeling at the Bond Show, has reason to believe what the song says. Gary's been given the best possible treatment during his sojourn at the hospital with an appendectomy. The navy has really been so good to him.

Jim Mallicoat, Bob Brownlee, Jack Watson, Clarke Brown and several other lucky people were on hand in Compartment 40 the other evening to hear Walt Skrondal in concert. The hit of "Spike's Palace" did his incomparable impersonations of Beatrice Kay and Bing Crosby—but the fellows like him best as Walt Skrondal.

The Navy's non-swimmer's class at the Y had a touch of drama the other day. Robert Carney had just jumped in at the deep end to swim the length when something definitely seemed to be wrong. He didn't come up. Chief McGuire hadn't planned on anything so serious, and although he was dressed in swimming trunks he still had on his bath shoes and a wrist watch. He immediately jumped into the water—shoes, watch and all—and set Mr. Carney straight. But it was Chief Carroll's watch!

Review of the Weak

What everyone waited so long for—the great Steinbock spectacle—was just that last Friday.

The Hiestand script, which went back even further than our day, was even too obvious for the audience to laugh at. As was expected, the Steinbock touch embarrassed everyone in Waller hall but the sober-faced cast.

The concensus of opinion regarding the show was "B-r-r-r-ack!" In fact the ending was so poor, the audience got up wondering why they hadn't left sooner. Several "humorous" lines designed for Navy consumption only made it difficult for civilians in the crowd, but got a thunderous "Ha!" from those in uniform. But why?

Funniest parts of the entire show were the "Hells-apoppin" acts that opened the show. Unlike most of the other scenes in the show, they were clean, they were different, they were well-done, and they were funny! Another amusing act was the Dix Moser satire on Trotter. It might have saved the show had it been more extensive.

Everyone was pleasantly surprised by the fine MC'ing of A.S. Herb Rhodes, who nonchalantly did his best to hold the show together.

We are refraining from any comments on the Steinbock specialty dance.

It's all over now (thank heavens!)—and for the first ten minutes of your show, Platoon one, Company B, we thank you!

Paging Emily Post

Oh Emily, what do we do now? Comes the latest on the housing crisis. It seems that with the probability that Sigma hall will not remain open for the use of civilian men next term, that the fellows will room where they can. But they will really get the break of the board deal, for if they want to, says Walt Erickson, they will get to eat at Fredrickson's hall! Now Willamette men have eaten at Fredrickson's for quite a few years past, but in the past, only men ate there. Next year, some 46 Willamette women will be eating and living there, and we'll bet not more than four or six come down to breakfast in a housecoat sans make-up.

CATastrophe

Not a whisper was heard from the gallery as Master Surgeons Brown, Groshong and Gibson stepped to the operating table to prepare the patient for surgery.

Surgeon Groshong placed the inhaler over the mouth of the patient. Soon the patient's eyes were closed like those of one in sleep and soon the chest rose and fell as in deep, natural slumber.

Suddenly a shrill blood curdling scream pierced the silence as the patient embedded his left canine into Groshong's finger. After he came off the ceiling, Dr. Groshong looked about him and meekly exclaimed "Look, no thumb!"

"Tut, tu, Groshong, cease this supercilious attitude, the respective operation must go on," exclaimed Dr. Gibson.

After eyeing the situation, Brown lifted his scalpel high into the air and with the calmness of an epileptic plunged the knife deep into the body and drove forward in approved hari-kari fashion.

After wiping the blood out of their eyes, Groshong and Gibson spent a frantic five minutes tying off the twenty-four blood vessels Brown had severed.

Proceeding according to plan—well anyway proceeding—Brown surged forward with Groshong and Gibson following closely behind.

As the trio raced madly on, Brown leading by two lobes of the liver and half a stomach, the air became thick with flying debris.

Following the laws of self-preservation, the audience retreated four paces.

Brown broke into a cold sweat as the race rounded the last bend in the stomach and entered the home-stretch. At this stage of the game, obstacles meant nothing, and kidneys were a dime a dozen. Brown moved forward with unbelievable speed, through this, around that, onward and onward with a sound of cold steel echoing in the passageway. It seems as if nothing could stop this madman—in fact he carved away two inches out of the center of the table before he knew it.

The three surgeons stepped back and gazed with awe upon the masterpiece. At last all the vital organs had been discovered (or is that word destroyed?).

The operation was a tremendous success. Gibson lost an ear, Groshong lost a thumb, Brown lost his reputation, and the cat lost his life.

Fifty Navy Men Will Leave at End of Term

Seniors Complete Work Here; Go to Midshipmen's Schools

With the end of the semester at hand, approximately 50 navy men will be leaving the Willamette campus, as they will have completed the seven semesters of college work which the navy V-12 program allows them. Of the seniors leaving, 43 will be sent to one of the three midshipmen's schools at Notre Dame, Columbia University or Northwestern. Eleven pre-medical and pre-dental students will be sent to a naval hospital to receive training while awaiting the beginning of a new term at the medical schools which they will attend.

The University of Oregon medical school in Portland will not begin its new term until January 3.

Lt. George C. Bliss expresses the hope that the number of men leaving Willamette because of low grades will be small. He says that the number will depend greatly on the men's attitude, and he urges each man to "dig in."

Bliss added that the date of the men's departure is not yet definite, but they will leave during the week of October 23. The navy administration is awaiting orders from the schools to which the men will go.

With the departure of the men at the end of the semester, the replacements expected will be largely new V-12 members out of high school, with few college men in the group. There will be some men from the fleet among the new arrivals.

The beginning of a new semester will see few changes in housing and other accommodations for navy men. The new arrivals will be taking the same basic courses, physics and mathematics that have been offered, and they will receive shots and physicals, as the men did at the beginning of this semester.

School Nurse Recovers From Appendectomy

Mrs. Minnie Mortimore, university nurse, is now recovering at her home from an appendectomy performed two weeks ago. Mrs. Mortimore has been at the Deaconess hospital until a few days ago, and she is recovering nicely, it is reported.

Bob Batdorf, Jean Rowland Work on Ads

Putting out an eight-page paper without an advertising manager proved no easy job this week. Publications manager Jan Patterson and her assistant, Margaret Hughlett, who have been soliciting advertising for the Collegian this summer in addition to holding down full-time jobs at local stores, went off on a well-earned vacation this week.

In their place, Bob Batdorf, who has been helping on the advertising this term, took over the management of the paper. He is being assisted by Jean Rowland, who works regularly on the Collegian editorial staff.

WU Interfraternity Council Reconsiders Fall Pledging

Reversing their earlier decision to close pledging for the duration, members of Willamette's interfraternity council will meet next week to reopen the question of pledging men from the naval unit.

Not completely satisfied with the council's action in suspending pledging, the individual fraternities have been discussing the matter among their own members for the past few weeks, and, according to unofficial sources, the majority seem to be in favor of pledging new members next term.

"The group may take any action they so desire," President Smith said yesterday. "All I would like to see," he added, "is a definite policy established by the council and its representatives as to how they expect to operate and handle the pledging question."

"Most of the fraternity groups throughout the nation are making every attempt to survive and increase their pledging. It is up to our council to decide what Willamette will do," Smith reminded the ruling body that, some action should be taken in the immediate future unless the fraternities are soon converted into groups of alumni only.

Pledging was closed at an early meeting of the interfraternity council this summer when it was

Manager's Office Not Yet Opened

Opening of the new graduate manager's office on the ground floor of Waller hall has been delayed pending the arrival of an auditor to inspect the student body official accounts. The auditor was to arrive in Salem August 15, but was granted an extension of time because of the deluge of income tax returns.

At present the office contains little less than a stool, a step ladder and some scattered bits of waste paper. Plans to equip the office with furnishings will be undertaken immediately upon transfer of the books to Dr. Robert E. Lantz, new graduate manager.

Late news concerning Lantz's office situation, however, seems to be that he will be lucky if he ever gets to move in. Someone inadvertently slammed the door and it locked, and what do you know, nobody has a key to the place. Only solution for Lantz is to saw a hole through the three-foot thick wall in the adjoining Collegian office, or tear out a window, or burrow up through the cement floor.

Pep Rally in Chapel Today; Maybe a Platoon Show, Too!

Anything can happen at chapel today, and probably will, according to the latest word from student body president John Macy. Although one of the Institute's speakers had been scheduled for the chapel hour today, a last-minute cancellation gave the student prexy a chance to line up a pep rally for this morning in preparation for the big game tomorrow.

With the band, a song queen and three yell leaders rarin' to go, pep aplenty will be stirred up in support of the Bearcat team. Bill Wetmore of Portland U, Clint Williams of Willamette and Spike Ferguson of U of O will lead out in the yells in practice today and in performance tomorrow, while the bond-bomb-shell, Jean Rowland, will handle the musical end of the thing.

On top of that, there is a chance that Platoon Two of Company A will be ready to perform their chapel show that was scheduled for Wednesday, but this promise is not definite. Leonard Steinbock, platoon chapel director, hopes to be able to complete the platoon performances by Wednesday, so that the announcement of the ice cream feed winner may be made next Friday.

Foreign Language Requirement Changed

Another change in the requirements for freshmen was announced this week from the office of Dean Chester F. Luther, Dean of the college of liberal arts. Formerly the language requirement consisted of a beginning first year course of five semester hours, but this has been cut down to three hours and still holds for two years of a foreign language for graduation.

Tall, dark, handsome and plenty rugged are these two newest additions to the Willamette gridiron flotilla who come from Kamehameha high school in Honolulu to play for the Bearcats. Left is Herb Heu, 205 pound tackle, with running mate Mack Taylor, experienced wingman, on the right. Both of the men played under Art Gallon, former Willamette star, in the Hawaiian Islands.

Spec Keene Here on Visit

A welcome visitor to the campus during the weekend was Spec Keene, former coach, who just finished his indoctrination training at Fort Schuyler, New York. Spec stopped in Salem to visit his family on his way to report at San Francisco, where he will be physical fitness head for the 12th naval district.

Spec was on hand for the captain's inspection Saturday and added to the impressive array of navy blue and gold braid that inspected the battalion lined up on Sweetland field.

He said, "They really kept me busy but there is nothing like the navy." Lt. Commander Keene served in World War I in the army, but this time he tried the navy.

After watching the Bearcats scrimmage, he expressed firm belief that they would show Whitman a bad time tomorrow. During his 18 years here, Spec produced eight Northwest champion football teams.

Give Me Gym Class Any Day

The gym class which was dismissed from callisthenics to do some extra work in the interests of the library, didn't get off as easily as they thought they would. A large number of government documents and other material was carried from the Eaton hall attic to the basement of the library, where more armfuls of documents were piled into the willing arms of the navy men. The presence of the papers in the attic represented a dangerous fire hazard, and they were needed in the libe.

Lovell Speaks at AAUW

"The Earth, Man and Civilization" was the topic Dr. R. I. Lovell chose for his speech Tuesday afternoon for the Salem group of the Association of American University Women.

Bob Blanding Now Ensign

Among the many visitors to the campus this week was Ensign Robert Blanding, a graduate of the class of '42, who has just returned from duty in the New Hebrides. On his short furlough, Blanding took time off to return to the campus and to visit the Collegian staff and some of his Kappa Gamma Rho fraternity brothers.

Blanding received his commission in December and has been in active duty since that time. While at Willamette he was a member of the Collegian staff, of the Homecoming committee and of the Willamette News Bureau.

Woe to the absent-minded seaman in Miss Doughty's Accounting class! The unsuspecting victim who gets absorbed in his workbook immediately after roll call risks the penalty of 15 demerits. As soon as some poor dope sticks his nose in a book, a gleeful sailor in the back row proclaims, for instance, "Miss Doughty! Hey, teach, Gib Kister ain't here." So Miss Doughty unsuspectingly takes out the card and checks the guy absent. Favorite victim appears to be gullible Gib, but The Mole Barnick runs a close second. Didn't know you were in sick bay, didja fellas?

Exams on Tap For Pre-Meds

Willamette pre-medical students are scheduled to take the medical aptitude test on Friday, November 5, Dr. Cecil R. Monk, head of the biology department, announced yesterday. Both the naval and civilian students will take this test which will be given under the auspices of the Association of American Medical colleges. It will be given at 2:00 p. m. in room 124 of Collins hall.

Due to the war situation it is important that all students who expect to enter medical school by June, 1945, take the test, Monk said. All students who have not already indicated their intention to take the test should make application to Monk at once.

Holy old mackerels in the pickle barrel, but those Whitman Missionaries had better begin praying if they expect to get a smell in their contest with the Bearcats here tomorrow. According to a campus-wide poll conducted yesterday among 15 individuals of faculty and student representation, the invading Whitman flotilla hasn't a chance to beat the Willamette club and only a slight chance to tie them.

Here is what they said: Dr. Robert E. Lantz gave the Bearcats a one touchdown advantage with a 20 to 14 score, but Mrs. Lantz, wife of the good doctor, said the score would be 14 to 0 for the locals.

"We'll not only beat Whitman, but we'll beat Washington too," was the comment of optimistic Frances Doughty, teacher of mathematics. "I'm naming the score to be 14 to 7." Dr. Monk called the final tally to be either 13-6 or 6-0 as the great Zodiac hadn't given him the final word yet.

Dr. I. R. Lovell, on a hunch, picked a 17 to 5 count with rival Dr. R. Gatke drawing a 20 to 6 decision in favor of the WU's. Dean Chester E. Luther looked for a high scoring contest and with a slide rule predicted the count would be 20 to 13.

Veteran great Dean Erickson nearly agreed with Dr. Luther but was not so confident about one conversion. He placed the final reading at 19 to 14. Syb Spears was much more confident and predicted "We'll beat 'em all to pieces . . . 20 to 0 at least."

Dr. Earl Brown, without the aid of a slide rule, came to a conclusion that neither of the two squads will score, thus the final story will be a 0-0 tie. Dr. Tschudy and Businessman Fenix each reported a 12 to 7 count.

"If we work together, it'll be a cinch for Willamette. I'm saying 21 to 7 . . . why the boys will hardly even get a sweat going," commented Professor Clark. Dean Melvin Giest also selected the 21-7 combination.

Hubert Schmidt, our severest critic, made one of the closest predictions, giving us a 14-13 margin. We're picking the Bearcats to win at 13 to 6.

Meet Mr. McGuire

If silence is golden, then Chief Bob McGuire is a solid little nugget for securing his "life story" this week was rougher than sandpaper on a baby's cheek. Anyway, here's a few things we found out and a word to the wise is plenty. First of all don't cross the blushing Irishman for, not only was he a verbal debator, but tossed the leather for Santa Clara a trio of years.

Chief McGuire, who gave up a crack at a marine corps commission to qualify as a navy athletic instructor, spent three years quarterbacking for the Broncos in addition to serving a hitch with the hoop squad and three seasons on the diamond-armada.

After the war, McGuire will return to either teaching or commercial photography. And, by the way girls, the good looking Mr. McGuire is a married man . . . so forget it.

WU Draws Hawaiian Duet

Like the U.S. Marines, the laurels of this Willamette university travel far and wide for two new football prospects came to the Bearcats last week in Mack Taylor and Herb Heu, both of the Hawaiian Islands.

In the land of pineapple and palms, the duet played for Kamehameha high under Art Gallon, former great WU blocking back, who is now head man at the island school.

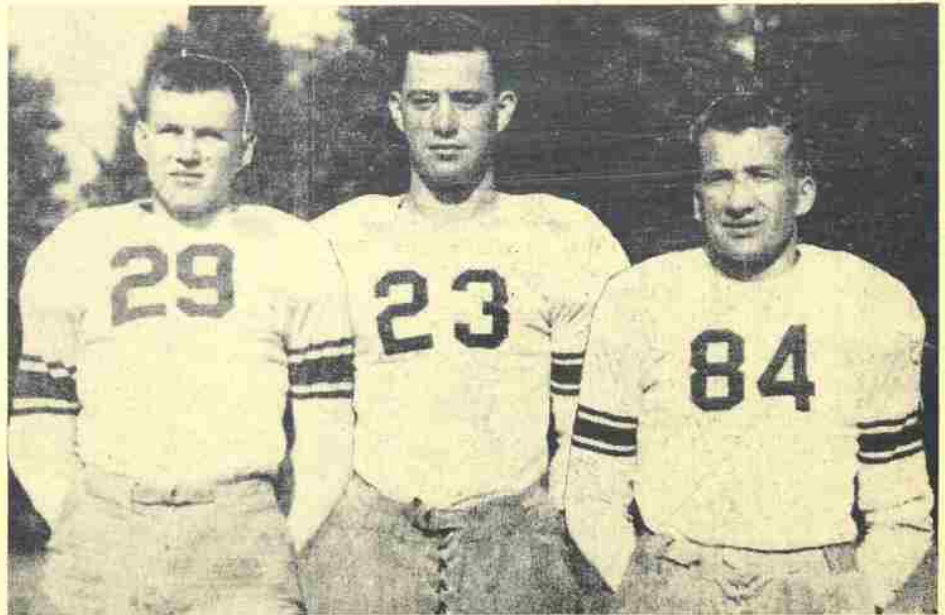

Both youth are interested in the navy V-12 program.

Sidetracks

The Cougars at Washington State have given up the grid sport for the first time since 1894, but the veteran mentor Babe Hollingbery is still in the harness. Not long ago the Babe, who would have started his 18th year as coach of the WSC eleven, made a wager to Pullman high school students that if they sold their war bond quota he would assist in coaching the prep group without obligation. At their first auction, the kids unloaded over $8,000 worth of the green certificates and the Babe went back to coaching . . . The former Willamette king of football, Spec Keene, now Lieut. Commander Spec Keene, has a real assignment. He will be head of the physical fitness program for the entire 12th naval district . . . which, incidentally according to Chief Trotter is really a toughy to handle . . . we're bettin' on Spec anyway.

Laugh of the Week

The Washington Huskies backed out on the poor, defenseless little Bearcats. Maybe Washington will go to the Rose Bowl, if there is such a thing, with an undefeated record after all.

Previously slated to see action, a dislocated shoulder has taken Ronnie Runyan, guard, from the game with Whitman tomorrow. However, Chuck Anderson of Hoquiam high and the University of Oregon will see his first college game at that time. Andy Boho, fleetman with two years high school football experience, will play fullback position.

Army, Navy Qualifying Test Given at Willamette Nov. 9

The second qualifying test for the army specialized training program and the navy college program V-12 which will be given throughout the country on Tuesday, November 9, will be administered at Willamette university, Dean Chester E. Luther announced yesterday. A pamphlet of general information which contains an admission-identification form may be obtained here. This form, properly filled out, will admit to the test students between the ages of 17 and 21, inclusive, who are recent high school graduates or who will be graduated by March 1, 1944. Intent to take the test should be made known immediately to Luther in order that the necessary test supplies may be ordered.

The same examination will be taken by both army and navy candidates. The examination is designed to test the aptitude and general knowledge required for the program of college training and all qualified students are urged to take the test. At the time of the test each candidate will be given a choice of service preference, but taking the test does not obligate the candidate to enlist in the service.

Sig Hall Fate Still Undecided

Little more substantial than rumors can be found out as to the fate of Sig hall this fall. At present the general consensus of opinion seems to hold to the belief that the hall will be closed, as most of the men now living there seem to be hunting for other places to stay. There has been no real manager since Jay Oliver dropped his position as head of the group.

American History Institute in Fourth Week

Eminent Writers and Lecturers On History Agenda Next Week

With Philip Parrish, feature editor of the Oregonian, and Ernest Haycox, prominent western writer, scheduled to appear before the student body next week, Willamette students will have an opportunity to hear two of the coast's most experienced lecturers as the Institute of American History and Civilization begins its fourth week.

Today's lecture includes an address by Alfred Powers, outstanding authority on Oregon Literature. He will discuss "American Literature" at 9:55 o'clock this morning.

Parrish will appear at the Thursday chapel and will describe the story and colorful background of the "Columbia River." Haycox is scheduled for the Friday chapel program and will cover "American Character." Morning periods will be shortened to allow longer chapel hours.

Leslie M. Scott, who was originally scheduled to speak today, will appear at 8:55 Monday morning. His topic is "Oregon in Relation to California and Texas."

Other Institute lectures next week are as follows: Tuesday, Dr. Paul S. Wright, pastor of the Portland Presbyterian church, whose topic is "Contributions of Religion" will speak at 8:55 o'clock with the Hon. Dean Walker discussing "Legislature" at 2:00 o'clock. Thursday morning Dr. Thompson Shannon will discuss the "Contributions of Religion" at 8:45 o'clock.

No Drill Tomorrow

Navy men were giving three cheers today to find out that there will be no drill tomorrow afternoon. Since the Willamette-Whitman game is scheduled to start at 1:30, the time of the regular weekly Captain's inspection, there will be no inspection tomorrow.

Byrd Chosen First Class

There's another chevron attached to the naval unit at Willamette now with Yeoman William Byrd being the proud possessor. Byrd, who handles more typewriter keys and documents in a day than the office of civilian defense, recently received a much deserved advancement to first class yeoman.

The promotion marks the second on the Willamette campus within the past few weeks. George Norrin, unit pharmacist's mate, received the last bid to first class honors.

Repair Work Starts On Alpha Psi House

News of interest to prospective residents of Alpha Psi hall next term is the fact that work on cleaning and repairing the house was begun Wednesday. Carpenters and repairmen will be working there throughout the next two weeks, and it is expected that the house will be ready for the residents to move their belongings in during the week between semesters. A fire escape is to be installed to conform to the city fire prevention regulations.

Lt. Delisle Leaves For New Duties

Lt. Albert Delisle left at 5:30 yesterday morning for Portland to assume his duties as executive officer of V-12 schools in Portland. Delisle has been at Willamette to receive training for the duties which he now assumes in Portland.

Blitzstein's Music On Institute Program For Monday

As a part of the American Institute program of American music, Marc Blitzstein's political and social satire, "The Cradle Will Rock," will be played Monday at 8:00 in the music auditorium.

Blitzstein's work is one of several new albums of recorded American music which were received recently by the music department. The work is constructed in short scenes with biting musical accompaniment and songs interpolated with music derived largely from the jazz idiom.

The work was originally written for the WPA theater, but it was produced by Orson Welles on Broadway. The work is considered an historical document of the hectic depression period, and illustrates the desperate social struggles of that period.

The public, as well as any Willamette students, is invited to hear Blitzstein's work.

Doris Holmes In Bookstore

The comely lass working in the bookstore the past few afternoons is none other than the Collegian's news editor, Doris Holmes. She is helping Mrs. Helen Savage for the remainder of this term and will work there during the week between semesters and during the rush season at the first of the coming term.

Business manager Robert W. Fenix said yesterday that there is a possibility one more student will be hired for work in the bookstore and any student interested should contact him.

Amateur Compositions In Thursday Chapel

A concert of compositions by amateur composers will be presented in chapel Thursday. The program is designed to include compositions by those who compose purely for pleasure rather than to set the world on fire, Bennet Ludden, who is in charge, said yesterday.

Any compositions submitted by residents of the Salem area will be considered by a committee for presentation at the concert. The types of compositions to be presented at the concert are solo pieces for piano or violin, or compositions for small instrumental ensembles.

JCC Seeks Talent for Service Entertainment

The Salem junior chamber of commerce is in quest of talented women to appear in shows for the entertainment of service men at various camps and recreational centers. Vocalists are not in any particular demand, according to Black, but specialty numbers are vitally needed. Those interested in an opportunity to display their talents, should call Mr. Black at his home or office before Wednesday.

David Happy Hazen Describes Interesting World Interviews

By LeRoy Hale

He likes his job because it's fun!

David Hazen, Oregonian feature writer, is one of the happiest men in the world. He's happy in all he does—and he does a lot to be happy about. He's the top feature and interview man for Oregon's top newspaper.

Willamette has had Mr. Hazen in its grateful clutches for the past week. The Hazen lectures in the library on the "Ups in American History" have been more than something to shout about.

Gatke Finishes History Talks

Plans are being made in each department of the American Institute of History for the work to be done, and a schedule has been drawn up for the department of American and Northwest history announced Dr. Robert M. Gatke, director of the History work to be completed in the institute. A textbook has been chosen for those who are taking the course for credit hours, and this history of the Northwest by Hicks will supplement the lectures given by Dr. William Warren Sweet, special lecturer from the University of Chicago, and Dr. Gatke.

Dr. Sweet has completed a two-week period, and Gatke, head of the political science department of Willamette, will continue in the history lectures with work on the field of special interest to him, Northwest History.

New Sees In Eaton Hall

The friendship committee should get busy with the two new secretaries on the campus. Helping Mrs. Helen Murdock with the alum files is Mary Helen Richards, while her husband, Corporal John Richards, is on maneuvers in eastern Oregon. Mrs. Richards is from Delaware, Ohio, and worked at Ohio Wesleyan university in the business office handling records for their centennial war fund.

Since Margaret Ewing left Leslie Sparks for Bob Fenix and Margie Noll isn't due back on the campus until the November semester, Mrs. Clyde Reed is cleaning up the work and handling the office. She is also a temporary army widow while her husband, Corporal Reed, is on maneuvers. Before coming to Salem, she worked in Princeton, Kentucky, as secretary to the county superintendent.

Having seen these two, speaking for myself if all the army wives are like this—the poor navy!

Belles Ring Bells With No Charges Reversed

The human interest story of the week comes from the registrar's office where we find Miss Ruth Hedges, recorder, and Mrs. Frances Dick, secretary to Walter E. Erickson, making out a bill for their services as bell-ringers for the summer session. When Miss Hedges was looking through the files, she found that a certain George Austin had submitted to the university in the year of 1892 this bill for ringing the bell between classes for a five weeks period. His bill came to $3.12½ for the five weeks. It was also found in the file that one student was paid 10c an evening for lighting the lamps on the campus.

Since the navy's arrival on the campus and the change of classes, Miss Hedges and Mrs. Dick had rung the bells because the automatic bell has not yet been synchronized to the new class schedule. They wish now that they had kept an accurate account of their services so they could collect in full.

Mr. H. started his journalistic career as a printer's devil on the Erie, Kansas, Sentinel—at $1 a week!

"I never have made much more," he said, "but it's been a lot of fun. No other job in the world can give you so much amusement and education at the same time. There's so much variety; you meet every kind of personality. It's wonderful!"

Hazen's long record of interviews has reached an approximate total of 20,000 people—and that's not a typographical error. There was William Howard Taft, Franklin Delano Roosevelt (when he was governor of the state of New York), Frank Knox, Henry Morgenthau, Harold Ickes, Henry A. Wallace, George Ade, Booth Tarkington; the list is endless.

Three books that we know of with the Hazen by-line are his "Interviewing Sinners and Saints," "Giants and Ghosts of Central Europe" (written after his trip abroad) and "Mr. Lincoln."

A picture of happiness and a model for aspiring journalists, Mr. Hazen left the campus Wednesday to return to his desk at the Oregonian and an even brighter future in his interviews and features.

Calling the signals will be Mac Barr, a fast and cagey back from the Palouse hills. Jack Anderson, the team's best passer and student prexy John Macy, number one potential threat will fill the half positions with Andy Boho, fresh from the fleet and with two years of high school experience, handling the fullback duties.

Industrial Relations Project Undertaken by Fenix Class

Three of the V-12 personnel will participate in a three-day demonstration of industrial relations techniques at the close of this semester. The project has been undertaken because of the inspiration of Robert W. Fenix, business manager, who has had the satisfactoriness of this system proved in his previous experience. Fenix believes that much can be learned through practical implication of the method.

Walter Schade as the head of the group listed the other members and their duties this week. Garrel Deiner, who will take the first day's lineup which includes placement and counseling interviews with applicants for a position.

Don McClain will have charge of the second day and will give a five minute dissertation on the exit interview and the preliminary interview.

inary interview.

Schade as the chairman will take the third day and information on Findex tabs and advertising campaign. The fourth day of the series Fenix will give a summary of the previous demonstrations, on the last day of the present semester.

Notifications of rehearsals will be given later.

Music Library Hours

The new schedule of open hours for the Carnegie library of music as announced yesterday by Dean Melvin H. Geist are as follows:

Monday—3:15-4:00; 5:10-5:45.
Tuesday—4:00-5:45.
Wednesday—2:20-4:00; 5:00-5:45.
Thursday—1:25-2:20; 4:00-5:45.
Friday—1:25-5:45.

Waterproofing Continues On Basement of Waller Hall

Perhaps you've been hearing the pick of an axe as you've gone down to the Cavern lately. If you have, it is only the waterproofing work that is being done to help keep out the water that generally seeps through during the winter time. Mr. Edward Beech and Mr. Mac Magowan are putting in foundation tile that will bring the drainage out to the drains in the rear of Waller hall. They had to take out some of the shrubs and these are now placed around the front of the music hall.

Beech said that they have had trouble getting material to help them, but with the progress being made now, he anticipated that the job would be done in two weeks. Now he is trying to locate a man to run the air-pressure hammer which they have to use to penetrate a large rock that they have located directly in the path of their work. In putting in the ditch they found that the water pipe that serves all of Waller was so rusted that they are having to replace it also.

Cat Cavern Stays Open On Saturday

The Cat Cavern, the place where Willamette meets, will now be opened on Saturday mornings from 8 o'clock until noon for the remainder of the semester. Velora Williams, manager of the Cavern, announced yesterday.

A long political dispute came to an end last week when a new nickelodeon was installed in the Cavern under a joint agreement with a juke box company. After maintenance and repair of the machine have been provided for, the excess profits will go to the Cavern funds.

Previously the associated students operated the Cavern music box with proceeds going to the Cavern. Old records from the machine will become property of the student body to be used at collegiate functions.

Lovell Teaches At Extension

Dr. R. I. Lovell of the Willamette history department will find himself serving two masters beginning next week, for he will start a series of lectures under the auspices of the University of Oregon Extension Division on Wednesday evening at 7:15 at the Salem high school.

Lovell's lectures under the Extension service will be on the Background of the Present World War, a class he is now teaching at Willamette with more than 100 navy and civilian students enrolled.

Officials Expect Record Number Of Women Students

Although only a limited number of civilian men students are expected to enroll at Willamette university for the fall semester, university officials are looking forward to a record enrollment of freshmen women students and both the Alpha Psi Delta and Kappa Gamma Rho fraternities will be used to house the women, President G. Herbert Smith said yesterday.

Because of the current shortage of civilian manpower, only two of the fraternities will be operated by the university. The third local chapter house, Sigma Tau, has been released by the institution back to the fraternal organization to be used accordingly.

More than 145 freshmen women have applied for residence at Willamette, Registrar Walter Erickson said yesterday. During the two winter semesters of last year, only 116 fresh women students were enrolled at Willamette.

During the fall quarter women will be quartered as follows: Fredrickson hall 46, Kappa Gamma Rho 24, Alpha Psi Delta 20 with more than 40 girls being housed in private homes throughout Salem.

Navy Quiet on Pre-Chaplains

Although no official word has been released by the navy department yet, no theological students will be sent to Willamette university for the fall semester, Dr. G. Herbert Smith, president of the university, told the Collegian yesterday.

While in New York last month, Smith learned that certain colleges and universities throughout the nation would be designated by the navy to handle the pre-chaplains. "As yet, however, I don't believe any schools have received notification of the move," Smith said.

Plans will be arranged accordingly to handle the regular quota of 258 navy men stationed at Willamette. Most of the incoming group will be men fresh from the high schools who have not had any previous college training or men from the fleet.

Volumes by Chiang Kai-Shek Among Library's Collection

By Margaret Geisler

The university library contains some of the most recent books put out concerning the orient. One of the best of these is the publication containing the magnificent messages of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, leader of China, to his gallant people. The international importance of this book, put out by John Day company in 1942, is stressed by Clifton Fadiman, prominent book critic. "Never has a statesman been at more pains," says the New York Herald Tribune, "to make plain the course of national destiny for his people." The book is now available at the library. It is called, fittingly, "All We Are and All We Have."

Another volume written by China's able generalissimo is "Resistance and Reconstruction," the only book to date which contains his entire actions and speeches relevant to the invasion of his country by the Japanese. With the exception of his speeches since Pearl Harbor, the sixty published by Harper's have never before appeared in the United States.

A critical discussion of China's republic, and Chiang Kai-shek's wartime dictatorship presents Creighton Lacy's views on why China is a great democracy in spite of her one-party political system, and other apparently totalitarian measures.

Discussing the Japanese menace is the report of James E. Young, newspaper man, "Behind the Japanese Mask." Mr. Young is well qualified to present his point of view in this vital account of our Asian enemy.

One of the most widely-read books of World War II is Wendell Willkie's account of his meeting with the national leaders who are shaping the world's destiny. Several editions of this book have been received by the library. Called a "must" by American readers of all types, the book gives an engrossing account of Mr. Willkie's worldwide plane flight.

There is a good collection of recent books on oriental relations now available in the library, many of which have been widely recommended in reviews by American critics.

Dorothy Tate Now Working On Campus

The tall, pretty blond seen around the science hall lately is none other than Willamette's own Dorothy "Scarlett" Tate, who is back in her old haunts, only this time she is working in the office of the U.S. Department of Foods on the first deck of the building. Last year, she was senior scholar and lab assistant to Dr. Robert H. Tschudy of the biology department, on the second floor of the science building.

A graduate of the class of '43, Miss Tate was also first vice president of the student body last year and a member of Alpha Phi Alpha. Her sister, Laura Lee, who graduated in the class of '41, is now at Syracuse working for her master's degree.

Kappas Honor Navy Men With Blue Jacket Hop

"The Blue Jacket Hop" at the Kappa house Saturday night was the last dance the Kappas had before turning their house over to the female contingent who will live there next term. The Kappas were host to the navy men on the campus. The only decorations for the affair were blue lights. In charge of plans was Mark

Hatfield, president of the fraternity. Special guests besides navy men were Dean and Mrs. Walter Erickson, Dean and Mrs. Melvin H. Geist, and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Tschudy.

Waters and Hamilton To Marry

Miss Marjorie Zoe Waters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Waters, is leaving Monday for New York City where she will be married to Robert Hugh Hamilton later in the month.

The wedding of the popular young couple is planned for October 20, the date of Hamilton's graduation from midshipman's school at Columbia university. At that time he will receive his commission as an ensign.

Miss Waters is a graduate of Willamette university in the class of '42 and later attended the University of Oregon on a scholarship. While at Willamette she was vice president of the student body, active in forensics and a member of Beta Chi sorority.

Hamilton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh R. Hamilton of Gardner, Oregon, formerly of Shelton, Washington. He was president of the student body and a member of Blue Key fraternity.

Phyllis Haight Engaged to Cpl. Bauer

Miss Phyllis Haight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Haight of Ritzville, Washington, revealed her betrothal to Corporal Wesley Bauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bauer of Ritzville, Friday night at a dinner party for which her aunt, Mrs. Tinkham Gilbert, was hostess at her Orchard Heights home.

Miss Haight is attending Willamette university and is a Delta Phi.

Her fiance is with the United States marine corps and is stationed at the naval air base at Jacksonville, Florida.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Piano Duo Will Present Recital

Faith Idso and Earline Gleason will be presented in a joint piano recital Wednesday evening at 8:00 p.m. in the music hall auditorium. Miss Gleason's selections will include "Sonata, Opus 26" by Beethoven, and Miss Idso will play a group of Chopin preludes and Chopin's "Ballad in F Major, Opus 38." They will play together Debussy's "Petite Suite." The recital will be open to the public.

Frosh Week Plans Laid

Another long-standing tradition of Willamette has fallen this week with the announcement that the YW and YM formal reception would not be held this year as a feature of Freshman Week, as has formerly been the custom.

Instead Pres. and Mrs. G. Herbert Smith are to have a reception at their home for the school during the first week of November.

Other tentative plans for Freshman Week were also outlined at this time. Freshmen will register the Friday and Saturday of vacation week, October 28 and 29. The following Wednesday will place the sororities in the limelight, with their open house and rush teas that will be held during the afternoon. These will occur on November 3. Friday evening, the 5th, will give new and old friends a chance to meet more of their Willamette friends, at a game party.

Savage Wed to Sgt. Barclay

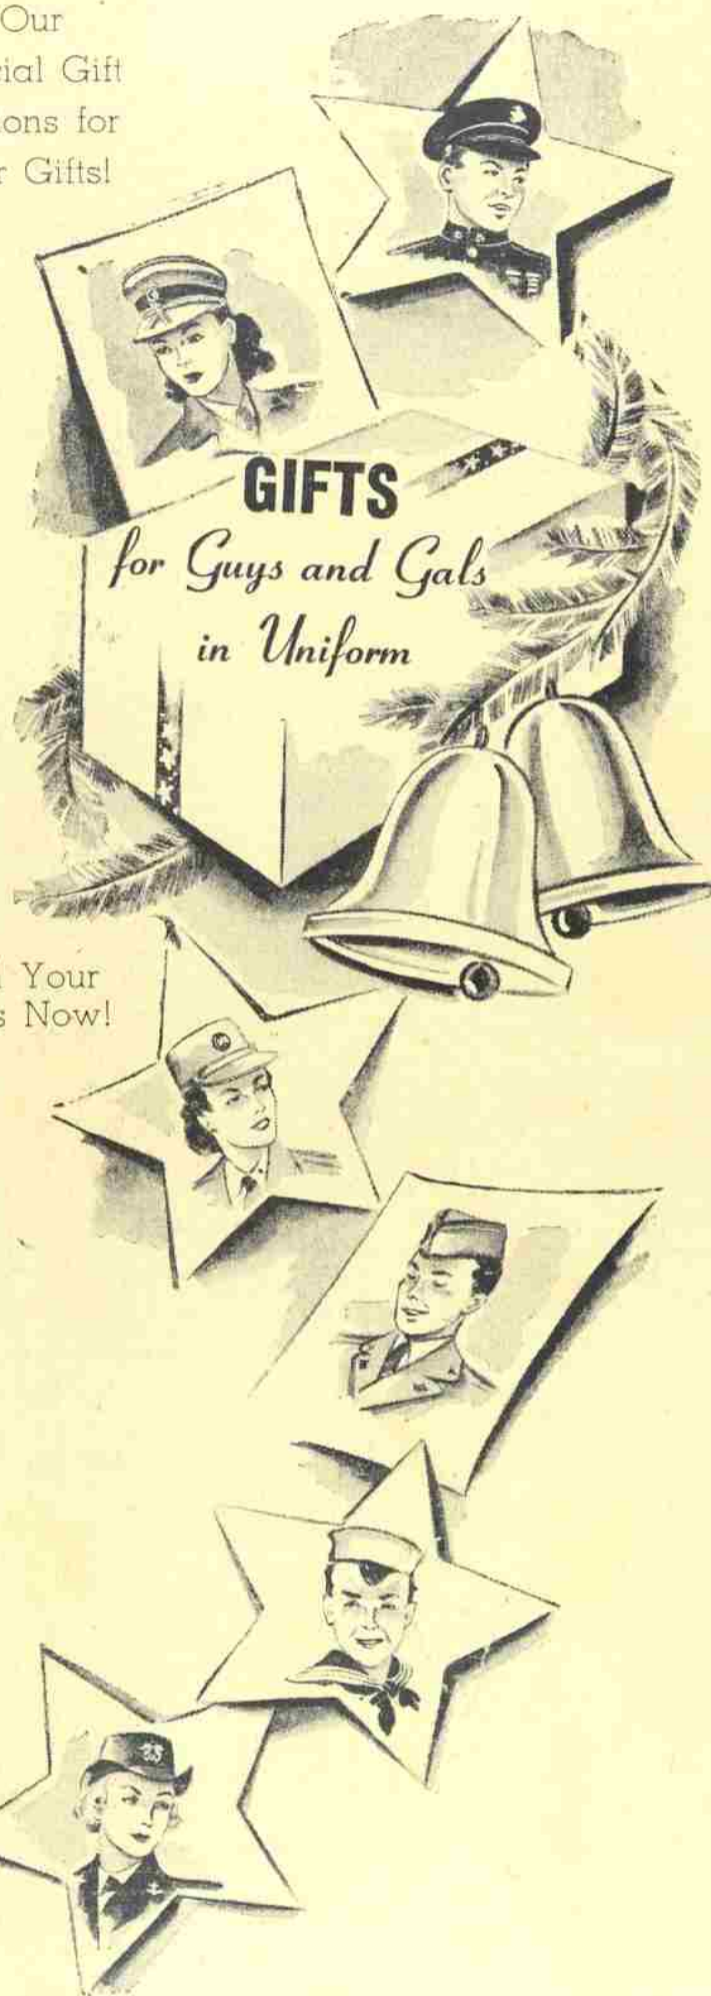

Miss Donnabelle Savage, daughter of Mrs. Laurel V. Savage, became the bride of Sergeant Robert J. Barclay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barclay of Portland, at a ceremony performed in the Alpha Phi Alpha house Sunday.

Rev. S. Raynor Smith of the Jason Lee Methodist church read the service. Miss Lorraine Taylor sang, accompanied by Miss Wilma Froman.

Sergeant Barclay, who is with the United States marine corps, will report to Santa Ana, Calif., and his bride plans to join him later. He is a graduate of Salem high school.

Miss Savage also attended Salem schools and Willamette university. She is a member of Alpha Phi Alpha sorority.
