MOOT COURT IN SESSION SOON

PROSPECTIVE LAWYERS TO TRY CASE.

A Murder Trial on for Next Tuesday Evening, at the Court Room.

The first session of "The Moot Court of Willamette College of Law, will be held on Tuesday evening, Nov. 15, beginning at 8:00 p. m., in the circuit court room. The case on trial is one in which Willard Collins, is alleged to have killed his wife Jennie, wherefore he is charged with murder in the first degree.

The attorneys for the prosecution are James Crawford, J. Nyes, for the defense, A. W. Schaupp, E. V. McMechan. Everybody cordially invited.

This should be the banner year for the W. C. L. Ensuing are the words of Dean McNary: "Never has there been such a large class of promising lawyers" and it now behooves the students to keep up to the standard, and furthermore, let us make this session of Moot Court bigger, better than ever before.

The Senior students are taking quite a bit of interest in the election, in their respective parties, as was shown by some of the students recently. It certainly takes nerve to uphold one's convictions. For further information see Lewellen.

Stanford, Schaupp, Srawford, Eakin, Lloyd, W. Chamberlain and H. Chamberlain, all members of the Senior Class, were appointed as clerks on the election boards of the Seventh ward of Salem, as required by the corrupt practices act.

G. W. Smith, better known as Cy, a member of the Junior Class of '09, according to latest reports, will not return to receive the polish of the Senior year.

Y. W. C. A.

Those who were not at our last Sunday afternoon meeting missed a rare treat.

Miss Baker, our local deaconess, gave us an interesting talk on the work of the Deaconesses. To those who were unacquainted with this work, this was unusually helpful and interesting.

A feature of our Sunday afternoon meetings is the special music which is always good.

While the attendance is good, there are still some grins who are missing these opportunities.

Girls, the loss is yours. Come out and yours will be the gain.

EXCHANGE LIST.

We are glad to acknowledge the following exchanges: O. A. C. Barometer, Oregon Emerald, University of Washington Daily, The Simpsonian, Baker Orange, Old Penn, The Round Up, Crescent, The Whitman College Pioneer, The Columbiad, Chemawa American, The Weekly Index, The Clarion, The Tripod.

THE HOME OF HOPE!

Lausanne Hall, November 9. —There is no such thing as despair on these premises, for hopefulness resides here. Thanksgiving is coming and all is well. The wind's in the south and the rain's pouring down, and for what else can a person wish? This is the optimistic view of the people who abide within.

AMENDMENTS POSTED.

Constitutional Committee Submits the Followings

The following are the amendments now posted, proposed by the Amendment committee. They will be submitted to the student body at the regular meeting on the third Wednesday in November.

Article III. Section 2 of the Constitution to be amended to read:

The dues of the organization shall be one dollar and a half ($1.50) per semester, payable upon registration, and upon the payment of which the student will be entitled to an admission ticket to all athletic and other contests and enterprises conducted by the student body for the semester.

Article I. Section 2, of the By-Laws to be amended to read: That the dues of the student body tax shall go into a general fund to be expended by the executive committee.

Y. M. C. A.

Big Crowd, Big Man, Big Subject!!!

The Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday was well attended, all chairs being occupied. Rev. Avison is an interesting speaker and heartily in sympathy with our Y. M. C. A. work. He stated that selfishness is the very essence of sin while unselfishness is the essence of love. The selfish man has a hard time, the unselfish man an easy time, at least within. Never insist on your own way when principle is not involved.

Have you ever visited Salem's noted places? Have you seen the cells and dungeons at the penitentiary, the lawns and buildings at the asylum, the Jason Lee monument, the new mute school, the unusual accomplishments of the blind children, and one of the most beautiful court houses in the United States? Why not, with some one that knows the city, spend an hour in the dome of the capitol building or on Reservoir hill and view eight square miles of city? Get up a crowd and go.

The faculty had finally arranged the chapel seating order and the president announced: "The places where you are to sit will be on the bulletin board".

Bugs threaten the destruction of one of the University of Washington's buildings. Not B. Bugs, tho.

Rubber magnates would make good students in literature because they could stretch their imaginations.

"Mose, they've discovered the North Pole." "Deed!" exclaimed the old negro. "Where at?"

Prof. Cramer—"I did not correct your logic papers as I was not at home Sunday".

Prof. Cramer—"Miss Beckley, how many hands has a monkey?"

"Hey, there, don't you swipe Prof. Peck's tooth-brush."

BIG GAMES TO BE HELD SATURDAY

NORTHWEST HONORS AT STAKE.

Three Teams Yet Undeateated Will Play.

This Saturday will see the final reducing of football honors of the Northwest College League to two teams. University of Washington, Seattle, O. A. C., and University of Oregon teams have not been defeated this year. U. of O. plays O. A. C. at Corvallis, and Washington plays W. S. C. at Pullman Saturday.

The winning team at Corvallis will play Washington on Thanksgiving day.

The scores for last Saturday's games were:

U. of W., 29, vs. Idaho 0, at Seattle.

O. A. C., 9, vs. Whitman 0, at Portland.

U. of O., no game.

A NEW COURT STORY.

The attorney after asking if any of the jurors were related in any way to the defendant or prosecuting witness, asked if any were related to any of the lawyers in the trial case. One old man stood up and as he yanked at his long whiskers said: "Well, judge, I don't just know about that, but one of them lawyers and me married the same woman."—K-C. Star.

Emperor William was fearful of a bomb during his stay in Brussels, not so much on his own account as because he dreads to leave Europe to shift for itself.

A Portland bachelor had forgotten whether his friend's baby was a boy or a girl so he played safe in this way: "Well, well, but it's a fine little fellow, isn't she? How old is he now? Do her teeth hurt him any? Looks like his mother, doesn't she? Everyone says it does."

Students Given Reception.

On Saturday evening the Epworth League of the First Methodist church gave its annual reception to the students, old and new, of Willamette. The church parlors were the scene of this cordial, informal gathering. Program and games were provided, which made the evening pass very pleasantly and rapidly, and all present voted the League's capital entertainers.

Students Hold Voter's Meeting.

On last Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock a goodly number of the voting population of the school gathered in the chapel. Some of the measures voted upon Tuesday were discussed and the working of the primaries explained.

Twelve M.

Richter: Suddenly awakened from a dream to correct a sentence in Second year English—"Why it seem to me that if she is a good cook that is all that is necessary!"

SAY!

Did you ever hear the man of Matthew-matics fame? You will get a chance on Sunday, Nov. 13, at the Y. M. C. A. meeting in the Websterian Halls. This is the last of "The Fourfold Touchstone" series and should be well attended as we have the live subject, "Love", and the live leader Prof. Matthews.

ADELANTE SOCIETY.

Parliamentary Practice a Good Feature of the Meeting.

As usual the Adelante met for program and business on Friday afternoon, at 3:15. Roll call was answered to with quotations from Francis Hopkinson. Then followed a sketch of the life of this early American writer, by Frieda Schindler. Elva Bartlett read his poem, "The Battle of the Kegs". One of the best and most interesting numbers on the program was a paper on "The Trials of a Freshman", by Esther Plumer. It was humorous and quite characteristic. The musical number by Mrs. Wann was highly appreciated.

After the initiation of three new girls a very lively and instructive parliamentary practice, with Miss Edena Clarke in the chair, took place.

"PREP." CLASS MEETING.

First Year's Organize and Elect Officers.

A meeting of the first year academy students was called Wednesday, Nov. 2, for the purpose of organizing and electing officers. Following are the names of officers elected:

President—Mr. Percy Stoute. Vice-Pres.—Mr. Clair Alford. Sec'y—Miss Edna Poulson.

Treas.—Mr. Martin Schreiber. Critic—Miss Phorna Fisher. Sergeant-at-arms—Mr. Malcolm Gilbert.

Reporter—Mr. Rollin Armstrong.

A constitution was drawn up and adopted by the members of the class.

COLLEGE LIFE.

McNess—(Closing an announcement in Chapel)—"Lots of fellows here, especially the boys—"

Prof. Matthews takes his usual nap at 9:30 a. m.

We regret that the Multnomah game on Tuesday was canceled, for we missed showing Portland a carload of live Willamette spirit. But if they come here Wednesday, those big huskies will find the best trained and the strongest team and most loyal student body W. U. has had within the last five years.

Day says that refrigerator making is not a complimentary task.

"Some people never worry, lucky people, but they never get very far."—Prof. Keller.

Hollister Chamberlain's smile is here with us again. He looks to be a senator.

Sunday-School Superintendent—"Elsie can you tell me anything about the epistles?"

Little Elsie—"I guess they were the wives of the Apostles".

EDWARD BUCKLEY IS HEARD FROM

AN OLD STUDENT OF WILLAMETTE IS BUSY.

Wants to Secure Protection of Americans in Mexico.

The following is a clipping from "The Crawfordville Review", (Crawfordville, Ind.) concerning Dr. J. Edward Buckley, and his work in endeavoring to make Mexico safe for Americans. This article is of interest to readers of the Collegian, inasmuch as Dr. Buckley is a Willamette student of the old days, having attended here during the year 1882-3. Many Willamette students have achieved prominence along many lines. The Collegian is always glad to print anything of interest regarding Willamette's former students:

"Dr. J. Edward Buckley of Spokane, Wash., is in Crawfordville for a few days visiting relatives in the city and county. Dr. Buckley is well known in this section and he is well known in Washington, D. C., where he has probably caused more discomfort in the state department than any other man. Dr. Buckley is hard at work to secure the proper protection of American citizens in the Republic of Mexico where he has lived for some time. If the statements of Dr. Buckley are to be believed there is an absolute lack of respect for the American people and their government in Mexico and riots and stonings with Americans or their homes and business places as the point of attack are frequent.

"Dr. Buckley has viewed the situation at first hand and is thoroughly aroused to the necessity of securing some sort of protection for his countrymen in Diaz's domain. He is constantly bringing pressure to bear on the state department at Washington but has been given little satisfaction by the smug gentlemen who cling to that particular governmental pie counter. Dr. Buckley has, therefore, started out to secure some sort of favorable action on his plan through congress."

DEBS' IDEAS.

Socialism is a pure democracy. The constitution is a denial of democracy.

The big dollar, the little man. They hate Rockefeller who are little Rockefeller.

The incentive under socialism is to work for ones fellowmen.

The Socialists poll 12,000,000 votes. It is the largest party in the world.

We are looking toward a perfect civilization.

The trust is the 20th century tool of distribution.

If the railroads were publically owned we could ride from the Atlantic to the Pacific for one dollar.

We are not ready for socialism but we are rapidly approaching that period.

I have little confidence in the worm theory of life.

All he lacked was quills—goose quills.

The campaign movement, taken up by the Y. M. C. A. of the college, for the purpose of enlisting students for Bible study, was most successful. The result is an additional enrollment of over one hundred men. The men who sacrificed their time and labor for this great movement should be most heartily commended.—O. A. C. Barometer.

THE BREATHLESS KISS.

(Perry Keigelman.)

'Tis evening; and the firelight shadows dance,
Then, flicker slowly and grow red.
A moonbeam through the window trails its lance,
A dreamy radiance to shed—
A hush, a quickening pulse, a yearning throb,
An eager straining of the eye,
The quick repressing of a sigh,
A joy that barren ages cannot rob,
And she comes gliding to my side,
My hope of years a-gone, my bride.
Ah, tell me not the narrow house ends all,
And that the Light of Life, once quenched,
Is fled, to burn no more, beyond recall;
Or, that Death triumphs there, entrenched.
For, Love, I know, from breathings on my brow,
From arms that softly cling,
From voices in my ear that ring,
That thou art ever-present, with me now.
Thy lips meet mine in breathless kiss,
And love unites thy world with this.

THE LOCKET.

On one of those cold, snowy evenings in January that are so common in northern Wisconsin, the only sounds that broke the stillness were the merry voices of a crowd of skaters and the crunch of the snow underneath the foot of the passer-by.
One of the girls in the party of skaters wore an old locket, an heirloom in the family. While she was skating the chain of the locket, being quite old, in some way became entangled in her furs and was broken and the locket was lost. She didn't notice her loss until she reached her home and then it was too late to go back and search for the locket. During the night a heavy snow fell so when morning came the search could not be made.
One warm afternoon in the summer this young lady and several others were engaged in making fruit punch. One of the party volunteered to chop some ice that was needed. Much to her surprise she saw a round object about the size of a half dollar imbedded in the ice. Chopping it out, she took it in to show the other girls. The young lady—to whom the locket belonged—jumped with surprise at seeing her locket after thinking it lost forever. The locket proved to be uninjured by its long stay in the ice and still is worn, but on a stronger chain, and is a more interesting heirloom on account of this unique history.
