Sunday Will Be Gleaning Sunday December 17, 1922

Let me glean and gather after the reapers among the sheaves.
Ruth 2:7.

Willamette University Bulletin
Vol. XV No. 3
Extra Edition Dec. 16, 1922

The earth is the Lord's, and the f
the world, and they that dwel

Looking at Yourself

What do you see, taking a square, honest look at yourself? Is the image one to make you proud? Does it show a person of far sight, lofty purpose, unselfish citizenship?

Do you see yourself as one who strives to make the world better than you found it, unable to be selfish, unwilling to be little, incapable of narrowness?

As in a glass, do you see yourself interested in great forward movements of men, concerned with educational policies, willing to give yourself and your money to worthy undertakings?

If so, you will line up with Willamette University at Salem. For that is the big interest in the educational program of Oregon today. What touches Willamette, touches Oregon at a vital spot.

Willamette must realize its good goal by December twenty. Looking at yourself, are you willing to give generously to assure a great future to this outstanding, oldest educational institution in the Pacific Northwest?

What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits toward me?

Psalms 116:12.

The pastures also are for joy, they

lness thereof; therein.

Psalms 24:1.

The silver is mine and the gold is mine, saith the Lord of Hosts.

Haggai 2:8.

Our Second Wind

Runners of a race we are, with all the besettments that occur in such contests.

The race is long and hard, the grade is steep, the hill is high, the goal is worthy. We are running for Willamette—not for the sake of its past, though that is worthy; but for its future which cannot be estimated.

As to all runners in all races there comes a time when strength seems exhausted and courage gone. Then is the test, the time to keep on. Second wind always comes.

We must carry on at top speed, with courage high, until December twenty. As we run, our hearts should be tuned to victory. For Willamette must have resources that will make it more potential on the campus and in the big world.

We are in the race for Willamette, and for Christian education, for the future of Oregon, the safety of the nation, the leadership of the world and the Kingdom of our Lord.

In such a race, for such a cause, we must be victors.

are clothed with flocks; the valleys overed over with corn; they shout so sing.

Psalms 65:13.

Partners

Willamette wants you as a partner; to share its success; help finance its program, lighten its load, extend its usefulness, and make larger life possible.

In other words, Willamette wants your partnership.

Buildings, betterments and endowment are the principal material needs at present.

Will you go into partnership? And help?

To be a partner, costs. But it pays!