Oklahoma Tops Jason Court Team

Experience proved too much for Willamette University College of Law's moot court team when they met and lost to a seasoned team from the University of Oklahoma at the national finals in New York City on December 8. The law students from Oklahoma were the same trio that a different Willamette team defeated to win the national crown last year.

WILLAMETTE was victorious in its first encounter at the national competition when it defeated a team from Washburn University of Topeka, Kansas, which resulted in the meeting with Oklahoma.

Oklahoma had previously defeated Duke University and South Carolina and went on to ramble over Fordham and then, in the final engagement, fall to the now 1960 champions, Ohio State.

Willamette moot court coach Alister McAlister, assistant professor of law, said for himself and team members Harl H. Haas, Brent W. Bates and William B. Crow, Eugene, "We all enjoyed and got a great deal out of the trip."

HE ADDED that he thought the team did very well in defeating a good Washburn team but in Oklahoma found an opponent that was a little better. He commented that the judging was good and emphasized again that he felt everyone got a great deal from the trip.

The foursome from the west coast stayed until the competition was over Friday night and returned to Salem, Saturday.

Nearly 100 law schools competed in regional competition across the

Blood Drive Sets All Time Record

"This year's Willamette Blood Drive was a tremendous success with 254 pints donated, setting an all-time record on campus," reports Tom Dunham, chairman of the Blood Drive.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon won the competition between the men's living organizations. In second place was Beta Theta Pi, followed by Sigma Chi, Baxter Hall and Phi Delta Theta. In the women's competition Pi Beta Phi won and was followed by Lee House, Alpha Phi, Delta Gamma, Chi Omega, Alpha Chi Omega, Lausanne Hall and Doney Hall.

The competition was based on the percentage of members who gave blood out of those who were able to donate. The competition was particularly close in the women's division with Pi Beta Phi taking top honors by one-tenth of one percent. Sigma Alpha Epsilon donated the most blood with 53 pints.

nation with 21 reaching the finals. In the first round held Wednesday, December 9, eleven of the teams, of which Willamette was one, had byes while the other ten competed.

Willamette began its journey to the finals by defeating the University of Washington and Montana State in the November regionals held in Salem.

Out of the seven times the Pacific Northwest Region has sent a representative to the national competition Willamette has held that position six times, highlighted by the winning of the national crown last year.

Foreign Films Begin Fourth Year in Salem

The Foreign Film Series, under the auspices of the Salem branch of American Association of University Women, will begin its fourth year in Salem, January 9, 1961.

Six movies will be shown in the series and each movie will be run three days in succession for the convenience of the season ticket holder. The films will be shown at the Capitol theater.

"Black Orpheus" is the title of the Portuguese film which will run from Jan. 9-11; "The Light Touch," English, Jan. 30-Feb. 1; "The Seventh Seal," Swedish, Feb. 20-22; "Four Hundred Blows," French, March 13-15; "Seven Samurai," Japanese, April 3-5; and "Ivan the Terrible," Russian, April 24-26.

Season tickets for the series cost $5.00 (two for $9.50) and may be obtained in either the Willamette bookshop or from Dr. Marion Morange. Individual tickets may be purchased for $1.

Money obtained from the Foreign Film Series project will go into the AAUW scholarship fund for women students in advanced study.

'Y' Pool Party Saves 'Big Sis'

The Campus "Y" program, which would have been discontinued unless more campus interest was shown, was re-established through the "Big and Little Sister" party last week.

Campus women were invited to the YWCA pool from 6:30 until 7:30 on Tuesday night, and, according to "Y" secretary Mary Johnson, there were approximately 50 girls in attendance. This was considered a successful group as it was a week night and there were classes.

The Campus "Y" secretary said that the new pledge class representatives were of definite aid in disseminating information about the party to the campus.

Had the "Y" program been discontinued there would have been no more "Big and Little Sister" program. This program gives each incoming freshman woman an upperclass "Big Sister" who contacts her during the summer and gives her information about campus life.

Students Select Projects

Judy Parr, Marcia Ruby and Dave Haugeberg will be among the 100 participants of American University's Spring Semester Plan, which enables students to spend the spring semester of their junior year in Washington, D. C.

These three students will be enrolled in an all day seminar, which will be conducted by government officials. In addition, each will undertake a project in some government department and will write an extensive thesis concerning his observations.

The paper and the seminar are worth six credit hours. Additional credit, up to six more hours, may be obtained by taking additional classes in the evening.

Miss Ruby plans to take, in addition to the seminar, public administration and promotional campaign, which deals with advertising. Her thesis will have to do with image making in public campaigns with special emphasis on mass media and how it affected the 1960 presidential election.

Senate Forms New Committee

A special committee to find the culprits who destroyed the footbridge across the millstream was formed by the Student Senate, Monday.

This action was taken after Dr. Richard Petrie, financial vice-president, sent a letter to the senate accepting the help "any student organization or individual student can give us in the matter of learning what group saw fit to destroy it."

The foundation for a footbridge next to the Fine Arts auditorium was also destroyed recently according to Dr. Petrie.

Until the culprits are found, a new bridge will not be built, Dr. Petrie intimated. He estimated it would cost $500 to replace the bridge.

The senate also decided to study the problem of sorority women having to report at the Health Center before being excused from classes. The academic-life committee will investigate the situation.

be one of the classes that Judy Parr plans to take. Her thesis will be "The Role of the Conservative in Congress Today." Miss Parr plans to work in Washington in the foreign service for the government after graduation and says, "I will be especially happy to be in Washington this spring so as to inquire about job opportunities."

"Should the roles of the Bureau of Land Management and the Federal Forest Service be combined," is the tentative title of Dave Haugeberg's thesis. He plans to drive to Washington with a friend from Lewis and Clark, who was also accepted for the semester of study. They will leave the 9th or 10th of

Glee Committees Set Early Plans

"Plans for Freshman Glee have started much earlier this year than in previous years with freshman committee members working hard to coordinate their committees before Christmas vacation," stated Nan Means and Gary Wynia, co-chairmen of the publicity committee.

Each committee has been given a tentative budget to work with and an outline of the plans for their segment of 1961 Glee. The main committee, consisting of all committee heads, has set each Wednesday afternoon at 4 as a meeting time and will have held three meetings prior to the holidays.

Faculty Cars Receive Priority In Lausanne Parking Lot

The new parking lot across from Lausanne hall has nearly been completed. The surface has been graded and rolled thus providing room for nearly 100 cars. Dr. Richard Petrie, financial vice-president of Willamette, pointed out that not all of the space would be open to student use. Faculty cars will be given priority rights to the lot.

Petrie also reported that the long silent organ in the Fine Arts auditorium will soon be heard again. In the last several months the organ has undergone a complete overhaul. It has been rebuilt mechanically to improve accuracy of notes, the pipes have been revoiced to eliminate overtones and to lend refinement and all of the parts have been cleaned and checked.

The changes will also bring the organ somewhat closer to the specifications of a church organ. The present instrument was a gift to the university from a Eugene theater and consequently has a stop for symbols, drums, an ocean and even the remnants of a train whistle.

Paul deLespinasse, who is the organist, says that the rejuvenation should greatly improve the quality of the instrument.

Once again the English bicycle problem has come up. The thin tires tend to cut into the turf and mar the surface of the appearance of the lawn in the prevailing wet weather. For this reason Dr. Petrie urges that students and faculty try to stay on the walks until the ground dries out.

Handmades Add Cheer

By MARY WILBUR

Girls, if you'd like to be doing a little preparing for the festive season coming up, here are some good ideas to consider. Right now you could start stenciling your Christmas cards from your own design, or make a silk-screened block printed blouse for mom or a tie for pop.

AH! AND IT'S time for a new hairdo also. An elegant silver streak will be striking for evening elegance, or tipped ends or a satin bow studded with rhinestones would be a noticed change worn by anyone. These are a real boon for a bouffant hairdo.

You can easily make a poinsettia-petaled hair ribbon with petals in a flower shape with a sparkly star pin holding it together in the center.

TRY THESE interesting wraps to make your friends guess what could be inside. Roll a belt in a coffee can; nestle a tiny bottle of someone's favorite perfume in layers of tissue in a hat box. He would never guess it was a neck tie if you wrapped it around a tube like a candy cane or for real fun, buy a skein of yarn and roll it into a ball, placing small charms in it as you roll, then tie a bow at the top and add green leaves—an apple!

A real surprise for golfers is a decorated egg carton filled with eleven golf balls and one brown egg.

A nice way to wrap a small gift is to decorate a match box with sequins and velvet ribbon, then just drop in the tiny treasure. OK, Bearcats, here is the recipe—only the effort is needed!

Jones Leads Study

Dr. Maxwell Jones and three of the State Hospital's staff doctors held a group discussion session with about 35 WU sociology students and professors Tuesday, December 13. Discussion covered the problem of commitment of elder, senile persons, the use of group therapy as treatment in the hospital and the role of the community in treatment.

Dr. Jones pointed out that many of the old people in the State Hospital could be living in their homes if their relatives would be willing to have them back. One of the staff suggested that more services should be provided in the community so that these people would not have to be put in an institution. Day nurseries could take a large load off the relatives and perhaps they would be more willing to keep senile parents.

Community cooperation is very important to the hospital program. "The hospital needs to help patients more with their adjustment on returning to the community," Dr. Jones commented. He explained that this is one of the many things that the hospital is working to improve.

A feature which especially interested the students was the treatment program. The doctors and staff hold discussion sessions with the patients every day. Each ward holds a one-hour session. The purpose of the session is to give everyone, especially the patients, a chance to say anything that is on their mind.

The staff tries to show that there are reasons for each person's behavior. Dr. Jones explained that it is hoped that the patients and staff will carry this analyzing attitude over into their informal group discussions and conversation and thus begin to understand their own behavior.

The doctors emphasized the fact that the staff needs to analyze their behavior and reactions to the patients as much as the patients need to analyze theirs.

AWS Names Gail Larsen Month's Outstanding Coed

Gail Larsen, senior, has been announced as Coed of the Month for December, according to Judy Teufel, AWS president. A member of Alpha Chi Omega, Miss Larsen has served as Panhellenic vice-president, Beta Alpha Gamma treasurer, May Weekend secretary, AWS representative, class secretary and a member of the Varsity ball court.

She has also acted with the Circle Theater, and has been active in choir and student senate. Glee committees and the Meier and Frank college board are also listed among her campus activities.

Everybody Hails New Year

By DAVE HUBBARD

When, in 45 B.C., Julius Caesar instituted the Julian calendar, he began a custom that has since become one of the favorite holidays—New Year's Day, January 1.

OF COURSE, the bald-headed emperor didn't realize what a celebration moderns would make of this day. Tinsel, confetti, tiny horns blaring out their greetings, groans of Auld Lang Syne and aspirin bottles to soothe the morning-after pains are a part of the American celebration of New Year's Day.

New Year's celebration was originally designed to be a day when all past debts would be paid and everyone would look forward to the New Year with expectation—and all his bills paid.

THE AMERICAN celebration of New Year's Day is international in content. The Scottish ballad of Auld Lang Syne has become the theme song of New Year's parties with French wines and confetti adding to the gaiety. Not to be forgotten are the street celebrations of New York, inheriting some of their flavor from Chinese and European customs.

Holland's way of celebrating New Year, according to Peter Verloop, is a big street party complete with bonfires and fireworks. After Christmas Day, Dutch boys collect the old Christmas trees and prepare a big bonfire. At midnight December 31, the fire is touched off and the celebration begins.

BUT THE Netherlanders add another custom, one all their own. They make pastries called Oliebollen and Appelflappen, pastries which are prepared only at the New Year's time.

Lale Refioglu of Turkey relates that it is a Turkish custom to have parties and at midnight turn out all the lights and kiss. Was this a Turkish custom or a romantic innovation? "That depends on who you are with," she coyly remarked.

THE CHINESE celebrate their own New Year's Day sometime between January 21 and February 19, climaxing it with the Feast of the Lanterns and the Parade of the Dragons.

Jewish people also have their own New Year's Day celebration, the Rosh Hosanah, falling sometime between September 6 and October 5, on the first day of the month Tishri.

The Americans do have one New Year's Day custom which they can call their own. Settled back in a soft chair, surrounded by food-stuffs, they turn on the TV set to watch the nation's finest college football teams clash.

Baxter Bowlers Sweep Past Phis

Baxter's number one team rocketed into first place with a 4-0 sweep over Phi Delt No. 1 to highlight last Wednesday's intramural bowling activity.

Moving into first place by three games over the Phis, Baxter twice broke its old single game pin record and set a new overall series mark with scores of 747, 647 and 743 for a total of 2,147. This amounted to a game average of 178 pins per bowler.

In other action, Bill Slimak recorded a 238 for a new high individual game mark as he led the SAE No. 1 team to a 4-0 sweep over Phi No. 2. The Sig Alphas thus moved into a second place tie.

The Arnies moved into a fourth place tie with an impressive sweep over Beta No. 1. Dick Higginbotham led the victors with a 233 game and 595 series, while Jim Blinn had 213 and John Rodgers a 212.

In other games, SAE No. 2 earned a 2-2 split with Beta No. 2, while Baxter No. 2 edged Sig No. 1 by 3-1, and the Hi-Lows scored a four game sweep over the Sig No. 2 team.

Charlie Saverude held a close lead in high individual averages among those who have bowled most of the season, holding a 173 average. Close behind are Bill Slimak and George Douglass.

Hoopsters Routed on Visit, Return Home This Weekend

Willamette saw its undefeated season abruptly ended last weekend when they lost basketball encounters to Pacific Lutheran, 90-66, and University of Puget Sound, 76-57, at Tacoma.

COACH JOHN Lewis considered WU's bad ball handling and poor defense as important factors in the disappointing defeats. The Bearcat mentor pointed out that in the PLC game the winners were held nearly even in rebounds but Willamette lost the ball many times on violations and intercepted passes.

rebounded, 59-37, by the taller Loggers.

WILLAMETTE jumped off to a quick 11-10 lead but then fell behind for good, trailing 37-25 at halftime.

Tonight the Jasons return home for an encounter with Humboldt State, preceded by a game between the WU junior varsity and Camp Adair. Tomorrow, Eastern Washington will invade the gym, with starting time 8 o'clock, the same as tonight.

Tonight's encounter will pit the Bearcats against a relatively small Lumberjack team that is being led in scoring by 5-10 guard George Milionis. Larry Kripska, 6-6, will provide the rebound strength.

"When a team loses the ball without getting a shot off as many times as we did last week, it can't expect to win," commented Lewis.

LAST FRIDAY the Bearcats ran into a well balanced Pacific Lutheran squad as five men hit double figures. The Lutes, led by Norm Dahl with 20 points, jumped into an early 8-2 lead and built this to a 42-24 margin at the half.

Buz Wilfert paced the Bearcats with 12 points and Ted Gooding had 10.

Lewis said that the highly spirited PCL partisans of about 1,000 people may have played a part in the wide gap.

Rebounding was a big factor in the loss to Puget Sound last Saturday as the Bearcats were out-

Rinky Dinks Top Tuesday Hoopers

The Phi Delt broke into a quick lead and had an easy time beating the Sig Alphas, 24-12, last Wednesday to move into a tie for first place in intramural basketball. The Sigs won their third straight via a forfeit by Baxter.

Tuesday action saw the Rinky Dinks move into lone possession of top spot with a crucial 30-26 win over the Betas, who dropped their first game.

In other Tuesday games the Law School upended the Sigs, 40-32, and the Sig Alphas beat the Phis, 40-21.

Last Saturday the Rinky Dinks slaughtered the Betas, 41-9, and Baxter turned back the Phis, 37-18. The Laws edged the SAE Phis, 35-32, while the Sigs trounced the SAE Alphas, 41-18.

Heart Attack Takes Former Diamond Star

A heart attack Monday claimed the life of William Bryan McKittrick, former WU basketball and baseball star who played under "Matty" Mathews. McKittrick, who graduated in the class of 1922, lettered in basketball and baseball all four years.

McKittrick served as coach and teacher at the Arcadia Union high school until he retired in 1957.

He is survived by his widow Myrtle Mason McKittrick, a Willamette graduate of 1921, and his son, James, who is currently a lawyer in Arcadia, California.

Teacher Plans Recital

Alice Rose Jones, soprano, will appear in a voice recital at 8:15 p. m. Wednesday, January 4. The recital, given in partial fulfillment for the degree Master of Music Education, will be held in Waller Hall auditorium on the Willamette University campus.

Mrs. Jones, who is a vocal music instructor in the Salem public schools, has appeared as soloist in performances of "The Messiah" and "Elijah," and has served as assistant organist and choir director at the First Methodist Church in Salem.

Mrs. Jones received her Bachelor of Music degree with a major in music education from Willamette University. Postgraduate work has been taken at Willamette and at the University of Washington. She began her formal study with Lena Belle Tarter, supervisor of vocal music in the Salem high schools and continued with Dean Melvin H. Geist during her undergraduate program at Willamette. For the past several years she has been a voice student of Clorinda Topping under whose guidance she is preparing this recital.

Mrs. Jones is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon, professional music sorority, and Pi Kappa Lambda, scholastic honorary society in music. She will be accompanied at the piano by Catherine Schnelker. Jeanette Scott will assist on the violin.

Books Emphasize People's Customs

On the south wall of the main lobby in the campus library is a special collection of books known as the "World Friendship Collection." This collection was started in 1951 through a gift from Mrs. Lucetta K. Ratcliff, a friend of the University. The collection contains approximately 160 books which emphasize the customs and thoughts of people around the globe. Some are fiction and others are non-fiction.

New titles for additions to the collection are chosen by a committee consisting of Professor Dan Jaffe, of the English department and Miss Maureen Chenoweth, head of the library catalog department. While some regular library funds are used to buy these books, they are mostly bought with money donated by Mrs. Ratcliff who was a teacher in Salem until her retirement. She is convinced that knowledge and understanding of how other people live and think will contribute to the promotion of world peace.

Christmas Party Broadcast Theme

A Christmas party theme will be the highlight of the second radio show of the year featuring Willamette University on KSLM, 1390 kcs. at 7 p. m. Sunday.

The program, a production of the radio class under the direction of Carl Ritchie, features Mrs. Clorinda Topping, voice instructor, and Robert Putnam, drama coach, in an informal Christmas party scene.

Mrs. Topping will sing Christmas selections with Putnam reading some holiday prose and poetry selections.

Paul de Lespinasse, organist, and Mike Potter, vibraharp and tympani, will be the featured guest soloists.

The radio show is a regular production of the radio class which is heard every third Sunday featuring Willamette activities, news, sports and coming events.

Seitz Announces Candidacy For State YR Presidency

Jim Seitz, president of the Willamette Young Republicans, has declared his candidacy for the chairmanship of the Young Republican Federation of Oregon (College League).

A senior in political science with emphasis on public administration, Seitz has exhibited leadership qualities in the positions of president of the local YR's and as an active member of the Executive Board of the Marion County Central Committee. In addition, he attends the Central Committee's meetings.

From now until convention time in early March, the Willamette Young Republicans will be actively supporting Seitz, campaigning on all the college campuses representing the Oregon College League.

On the local level, Seitz has promised a variety of activities and

CR Committee Picks Matthews As Speaker

The Christian Resources Week committee has received a wire from Dr. John Matthews saying that he will be able to be the chapel speaker during CR week.

This year the theme of CR week is "Beyond Controversy." It is divided into three sub-topics: "Life of the Free Man in the World," "The New Mood on the College Campus," and "The Word of Possibility for Our Time."

Any students who have suggestions to make should contact the head of the appropriate committee, or Elaine Pflugmacher, CR week chairman. The committee heads are Jim Seely and Diana Dawson, chapel; Muriel Smith, program; Martha Boyer, firesides; Gail Durham, seminar; Sandy Cline, publicity; Sandy Stageberg, promotions and hospitality; Pete Blewett, special projects; and Dexter Maust, follow-up.

Network Announces Writing Contest for College Students

"What do you most want the United States to do at home and abroad in the sixties?" was announced as the title of an essay contest sponsored by the American Broadcasting Company in connection with the Edward P. Morgan Show.

In announcing the contest, which is open to all university and college undergraduates, Morgan stated, "President-elect Kennedy says the country must move ahead to a 'new frontier.' The people with the greatest stake in this movement are the men and women known as America's Youth, so it is fitting they should be asked what they want most the United States to accomplish at home and abroad in the 1960's."

Timed to climax with the winners' participation in coverage of President-elect John Kennedy's Inauguration Day, the contest runs through December 28. Each contestant may submit any number of entries, each with a maximum of 600 words.

The winners, one boy and one girl, will be flown to New York on January 18, to lunch with industry leaders, visit the United Nations and meet officials there, attend a Broadway hit and participate in other events. The following day, winners will leave for Washington and meet with government and labor leaders

Students Discuss Discipline At Mortar Board and ODK

By KAREN HENNINGER

Mortar Board and Omicron Delta Kappa, meeting in the home of Dr. G. Herbert Smith on Sunday evening, discussed the students' place in university discipline. A student committee was set up to feel out all-student opinion dealing with this problem.

This committee, composed of four Mortar Boarders and four ODK members, will meet with President Smith in mid-February to evaluate and consider their findings.

The main problem, as students present at the meeting saw with the present discipline and rule system, is that students do not feel a vital part of decision-making. Too often rulings tend to "come from above" and the student does not understand the reasons behind them. Examples of the sun lamp episode and of the abolishment of the Lettermen's Club were brought up.

Mortar Board and ODK felt that, although had students handled these situations they might have reached different decisions, even if the same decisions had been reached either by the students or by the administration, the students would have been more satisfied and felt less "ruled" if they had simply been presented with the thought that went into the rulings.

However, things that can be changed do get changed when the students show interest and take the initiative. Examples of this are the lights-out hours in the women's dorms and the change in Glee which was decided by a student committee last spring.

Students also are represented on the disciplinary board. But, merely complaining about an issue and taking no active part in changing or modifying it helps no one, including the one who complains.

John always did take things too seriously . . . like that habit of locking his Coke up in a safe! Sure everybody likes Coca-Cola . . . sure there's nothing more welcome than the good taste of Coca-Cola. But really—a safe just for Coke! Incidentally—know the combination, anyone?
