1842—Willamette University in its Second Century—1952
"In Age There Is Wisdom"

Vol. LXIII Salem, Oregon, Friday, January 18, 1952 No. 16

Last Chance Today

Today is the final chance for advance registration and all registration books must be returned to the registrar's office whether completed or not. Registration may be completed on February 4 in the library.

Seniors are reminded that if a June graduation is planned, petitions for degrees must be obtained immediately, and filed in the registrar's office within the first two weeks of the semester.

Ed Armstrong Takes Position As Assistant to Gov. McKay

Ed Armstrong, former Willamette associate director of development, was appointed administrative assistant to Governor Douglas McKay Friday.

The appointment came just a month after Armstrong left the University administrative staff to do field work for the "Oregon for Eisenhower" committee. He succeeds Thomas Lawson McCall, who is now with a Portland radio station.

Armstrong's work at Willamette as director of development started in August of 1950. He served on the scholarship and loyalty fund committees and assisted President G. Herbert Smith in financial developments. This fall he organized the drive for the first bloodmobile on campus, which resulted in the donation of 262 pints of blood by students.

A graduate of the University of Chicago in 1943, Armstrong studied law there and later entered Willamette's law school. During the war he was highly decorated as a first lieutenant

Glee Date Set for March 22; Smith Resigns ASWU Job

The student council set a Freshman Glee date, accepted the resignation of Larry Smith, second vice-president, and voted to sponsor a moment of silent prayer February 29 in its meeting Wednesday.

Freshman Glee has been changed to March 22. Objections to the former date, March 29, were raised by Dean Melvin Geist because Glee would be one week before the choir tour and would be hard on the voices of the choir members. The date now set will leave only one week for practices because the gym will be in use for a basketball tournament.

Larry Smith said he had been forced to resign because of ill health. Petitions for the vacant office are due in the student body office by February 6. Petitions must have 25 signatures. Elections will be held on February 11 and 12, and run-offs February 13 and 14.

The moment of silent prayer will be observed at 8 a.m. It will be up to the individual professor to carry out the program in

Mock GOP's To Convene

Schools participating in Willamette's Mock Republican Convention in May will have their first opportunity for a preparatory meeting tomorrow. The meeting, officially termed National Committee Meeting, will be held at 1 p.m., in Eaton hall.

Bob Small, chairman of the convention, announces that the purpose of the conclave will be a complete explanation of the convention and progress reports from committees on the campus.

In attendance will be the executive committee from Willamette which consists of all committee heads at work at the university and representatives from the following tentative list of schools, Southern Oregon College of Education, University of Oregon, Linfield, and Willamette.

The chairman issued a call today for students interested in the convention. Such students are invited to the meeting.

Smith Re-elected To College Board

President G. Herbert Smith was re-elected this week to the board of directors of the Association of American Colleges which is holding its annual meeting in Washington D. C. Dr. Smith has been a director for two years.

From Washington he will travel to Cincinnati and attend meetings of the Methodist related colleges and senate of the Methodist Church. He will return to the campus late in January.

ity," "poetic feeling," "sensitive musicianship," and "unsurpassable technical powers."

For some artists the New York debut is the begging of a career and for others it is the end, but for Ralph Dobbs it was merely a continuation of the impressive appearances which he had made before and which he has made since.

After the New York debut followed appearances with the Chicago symphony orchestra under Frederick Stock, and with the Los Angeles Philharmonic under Artur Rodzinski. Following this he made many more appearances throughout the West, Midwest and South. Since his appointment at Willamette in 1943 Dobbs has played in Washington and Oregon aside from his faculty recital.

at the age of four."

At the age of seven and a half he began his life-long relationship with one of the most distinguished pedagogues of our time, Alexander Raab, the Hungarian pianist, under whom he developed so rapidly that he was called a mature artist by the time he was 19.

While at the Chicago Music College under Raab, Dobbs won a scholarship to study with Percy Grainger who selected him to appear as soloist in Hollywood Bowl in 1928. Shortly after this he made his New York debut at Town Hall and won from the New York critics such comments as these: "A pianist of exceptional attainment," "A shining light among American keyboard artists," "Breathtaking virtuosity,"

Glee Committee Heads Set; Schmale Assistant Manager

Fred Schmale of Portland has been appointed assistant manager for Freshman Glee, Ruben Menashe, manager announced. Judy Fullager will serve as secretary for the production.

Committee heads will be: decorations, chairman, Jack Phipps, assistant chairman, Virginia Jones; lighting, chairman, Dave Jackson; tickets, chairman, Jim Cranston; program, chairman, Julie Mellor; chairs and floor, chairman, Bill Briggs; stage, chairman, Dick Adams, assistant chairman, John Kent; publicity, chairman, Frances Smith; entertainment, chairman, Jeanene Findley; and ushers, chairman, Stan Kerzel.

Menashe met with the freshman class council Tuesday to review Glee plans and discuss ideas.

Class song chairmen will be elected next semester, Menashe said. Three students to represent the upper classes will also be appointed to serve on the executive council.

Dobbs to Offer Concert After Finals

By Darrel deChaby

"A genius and the most perfectly trained American pianist I have heard" is the description of Ralph Dobbs given by the eminent pianist composer, arranger Percy Grainger with whom Dobbs once studied in Chicago. Dobbs will make his annual appearance on the faculty series Monday, February 4, in the Waller hall auditorium.

Ralph Dobbs has for eight years been head of the piano department in the College of Music. Before coming to Willamette he had for three years concertized in the United States and Canada with Columbia Concerts Corporation. A native of Chicago he received his earliest training from his father and, as he puts it, "began to study piano seriously

Willamette's Speech Team Takes Second in Contest

Four members of the Willamette forensic squad won second place in the two-day Town Meeting tournament sponsored by Vanport College in Portland last Monday and Tuesday. This was the highest rating that Willamette has ever received in this tournament.

Each school was represented by three speakers and a moderator. Willamette's winning speakers were Elliott Motschenbacher who placed third, Earl Atkinson who placed fifth, and Tom Scheidel who placed eighth. Jim Wood received a third place rating as moderator.

Thirteen schools from all over the Northwest competed in the tournament. The group as a whole spoke to about 50 audiences consisting of high school, college, and civic groups.

Each speaker was scored individually, and then the team member's scores were added to make the school score.

Eight to Get BA Degrees In Ceremony

Eight students are expected to receive their Bachelor of Arts degree at mid-year commencement exercises February 7, Harold B. Jory, registrar, announced. Two of the students finished their college work in August at the end of the summer session, while the other six are taking their final tests at the present time.

The commencement will be held at a regular Thursday chapel in connection with Founders' and Benefactors' Day. Exercises will take place in the gymnasium.

Marjorie Aldinger and Tom Scheidel will be the featured speakers. Miss Aldinger will speak on the life of Eric Hauser, a benefactor, while Scheidel's topic will be the life and contributions of David Leslie, one of the founders.

Dead Week Begins

Dead week starts Monday in preparation for final examinations which begin next Saturday. No tests can be given during the week. No Collegian will be published until the week after finals—February 8.

No Tuesday or Thursday chapel will be held next week and the week following. The next chapel will be Tuesday, February 5. Virgil O'Malley, warden at the Oregon state penitentiary, will speak.

Freshman's Midnight Climb Halted by Police; Wins Bet

A Willamette freshman who sought the pinnacle of success found himself in court instead.

Al Seibert was charged Monday with trying to scale the tower of the Methodist Church. His trial was postponed, but the police will remember for sometime his Saturday night escapade.

According to a reliable account, he and another freshman began the ascent late Saturday night, each betting a dollar that the other would "chicken out" first.

Seibert won. While the other man trotted home, Seibert advanced up the metal framework surrounding the home of Thursday chapels. Soon, police cars came to the rescue in answer to a frantic call by a woman who said some man was swinging from the Methodist church and shouting like a Tarzan.

Police were about to give up the search until, aided by a fellow Willamette student, he was finally spotted by a car search light.

He came down from his perch and was handed a citation for disorderly conduct.

There came an explanation. He had just seen "Frankenstein" and "The House of Dracula."

Plays to Use Arena Stages

Arena staging will be introduced to the Willamette campus next Friday with the presentation of two one-act plays, "Suppressed Desires" and "Way of a Maid," which are the last events in a series of workshop productions presented this month.

Both dramas are to be presented in "theater in the round" in the Little Theater in Walker hall at 8 p.m.

Dorothy Judd will direct "Suppressed Desires" the Susan Glaspell drama in which psychoanalysis, the subconscious mind and dream theory receive comical treatment.

"Way of a Maid," by Charleston Gray and directed by Bob Witham, is the story of two young lovers who persuade the cautious father of the young man that the young girl is worthy of his son.

OSC Professors To Give Concert

Two artists from Oregon State will be heard in the second of a series of exchange faculty recitals Sunday at 2:30 in the Willamette College of Music recital hall. Featured will be Robert Walls, tenor, director of the department of music, and Joseph Brye, associate professor of music.

The public is invited to the admission-free concert, said Prof. Stanley Butler, who presented the first exchange concert at Oregon State last fall.

Walls has done extensive concert work and has appeared on network radio programs. Brye is noted as a piano soloist and marimba artist and toured Europe in 1931 as a member of the 100-piece International Marimba symphony.

Play Tryouts Tuesday

Auditions for the Religious Emphasis Week play, "Through a Glass, Darkly," will be held next Tuesday in Waller little theater from 7 to 8 p.m. The play includes 4 men and 3 women. Anyone is welcome to try out. Garold Meinke will select and direct the cast.

For his recital February 4 Mr. Dobbs has chosen from his extensive repertoire the following works:

- I
 - Gavotte and Variations in A minor Rameau
 - Sonata op. 47, B flat Major Clementi
- II
 - Sonata op. 5, F minor..Medtner
- III
 - Rhapsodie op. 11, C major Dohnanyi
 - Rigaudon Scott
 - Polka A flat Major Rachmaninoff
 - Three Etudes Chopin
 - E flat minor op. 10
 - C sharp minor op. 10
 - D flat Major op. 25
 - Scherzo, B minor Chopin

Good Luck

The Collegian takes this last chance to wish good luck on semester finals. It hopes, however, that examinations will not be marred by any tinge of cheating. It is not the Collegian's place to say what students and professors should do, but we do advocate, for the sake of both, that tests be given in a manner to discourage cribbing. We contend that examinations should test one's knowledge and not one's roving eyes. Good luck.

Chapel Appreciated; Dobbs' Talent a Goal

By Jim Miller

Last Tuesday's chapel marked an epoch in spontaneous and unanimous audience approval. This abundance in spontaneity is not an unusual thing, for the very presence of Ralph Dobbs in concert characterizes such abundance in appreciation of his talent.

Praise of this artist is not meant primarily as a lure for the reader to attend his coming concert on the 4th of February for such description has been ably taken care of in another portion of the paper. I would like, however, to extend a sincere feeling of gratitude for this man's very presence on our campus. The student body has been demonstrably appreciative of this honor thus proving a fidelity to that which they regard as worthy of such demonstration.

It was my pleasure last Tuesday to have a seat in the front row right below the maestro. From this point of vantage I seemed not only physically closer to the man's ability as a pianist, but subjectively even closer to what his music means as a contributory force in the lives of both students and faculty alike, as well as the praise that his presence brings from the populace of Salem and vicinity.

We are very fortunate. It's even hard to get very excited about the presence of outside talent when there is, within our own group, one of such ability. His artistic work certainly is an example of just how far one can go with persistence and constant, undivided attention to a goal with achievement in perfection as an ultimate finality.

Through my few years here on campus he has become a symbol of just such perfection. As I watched and listened last Tuesday to his renditions, I could only marvel, as did the entire audience, at the masterful way with which he handled the more difficult passages and the melodic motion of grace and ease that was employed in the quieter moments of the score — seemingly molding pianist and piano into a single entity. I'm not a student of music and can only speak of this appreciation of his ability from the standpoint of a listener who, even in ignorance, recognizes the finite talent displayed by this man each time he honors the assemblage with a concert.

As this symbol, this man, in his own field of endeavor, displays a measure of perfection which might very well be striven for by any student. In watching him play, I was able to observe closely his hands and how each and every finger seemed waiting for its proper command; eager to fulfill the master's bidding showing how meticulously and patiently these very hands have responded to years of running through scales; years of training in simpler bits of music until now, when they can respond to the wishes of their owner as the proper messages streak from his brain to his fingertips. Only through this training and devotion has he managed to achieve such perfection.

As an example of this achievement, in the fulfillment of his life work, Ralph Dobbs should be heartily commended as a tribute to anyone desirous of finding a trulism or reason in academic sincerity with one's self. If this discovery can be found while in residence here on campus there is every reason to believe that a portion of it may be retained by an observer and utilized as a guide in his own vocation.

Kampus Kaleidoscope

By Darrel deChaby

Attention Dr. Kohler

When the principal of a business college in London, England, asked six of his students to name any one of Shakespeare's plays they were stumped. When asked to name the best film of recent months, however, they all agreed that it was "Hamlet."

Ballet and Popcorn

Mr. Charles Sprague, editor and publisher of the Statesman, and former governor of Oregon, recently made the following significant observation in his editorial column:

"Last year Americans spent $45 million for admission to performances of serious music—opera, ballet, symphony and concerts. That is $5 million more than for admissions to professional baseball—but it just about equals the amount spent for popcorn in movie theaters. If you use these figures to get an index on American culture what is the answer?"

Mrs. Durkee's Brilliance

Mrs. Ella Durkee, manager of the Cat Cavern, in addition to running that establishment where you can still get a good cup of coffee for a nickel, is also an accomplished equestrienne. Her horse, Illinois, Brilliance, a dark chestnut, recently won first place in the annual Willamette Valley Intramural Flat Saddle Horse show held at the fairgrounds. Brilliance was trained by Mrs. Durkee but ridden by Charlen Woods as Mrs. Durkee was hostess for the affair.

Thoreau's Pond-erings

"Nothing can be more useful to a man than the determination not to be hurried," is an observation attributed to Henry Thoreau, author of "Walden." This might certainly be true of Thoreau who, reportedly used to spend the entire day floating in a boat on Walden pond (weather permitting). No matter how interesting these quotations may be in themselves they are always the highly personal views of those who make them and occasionally those who live by them. For example, Thoreau's remark might be countered by that of some general or other who said "Get thar fustest with the mostest." Also, "All's fair (or fare) in love and war," but "War is Hell."

Webster says love is "A feeling of strong personal attachment, induced by that which delights or commands admiration, by sympathetic understanding or by ties of kinship; ardent affection as, the love brothers and sisters." What do you think, hmmm?

Kabuki Coming

Joshua Logan, the New York director and writer, announces plans for bringing to America next season a troupe of 50 Japanese actors of the Kabuki theater, a form of art combining song, dance and drama. The Willamette drama department has recently been experimenting with this form also and there is a very interesting article on this ancient art form in this month's "Theatre Arts" mag.

Engagements, Wedding Plans Surprise Students

Shirley Clifford

Of interest to many Willamette students is the engagement of Shirley Clifford and Vernon Groves. The news was told Tuesday evening at dinner at the Oregon School for the Blind where both are employed.

Miss Clifford is a junior majoring in philosophy, and Groves, a junior, is also majoring in philosophy.

A summer wedding is planned, and the couple plan to attend Boston School of Theology after graduation.

AXO Senior Engaged

Announced at the Alpha Chi Omega chapter house Wednesday evening was the engagement of Marceline Hutchison and Bob Klosterman. Red carnations decorated the dinner table, and

Music Recital This Afternoon

A student recital will be presented this afternoon at 3 in the recital hall of the College of Music. Students and faculty are invited to attend.

First on the program will be Jane Gray, piano, who will play "Rhapsodie in G Minor" by Brahms. She will be followed by Gladys Blue, piano, who will play the "Eleventh Nocturne" and "Eighth Barcarolle" by Faure. Gerrylee Gilkey, piano, will play two numbers by Schumann, "Leaves of Different Color" and "Whims."

Carroll Graber, bass, will sing "Revenge, Timotheus Cries" from "Alexander's Feast" by Handel, and he will be accompanied by Ann Gibbens. Jeanette MacMillen, mezzo-soprano, accompanied by Beverly Gustafson, will sing "Beau Soir" by Debussy and "Je Ne Veux Autre Chose" by Widor.

Miss MacMillen will be followed by Barbara Young, soprano, who will sing two French Bergerettes, or shepherdess songs, entitled "Maman Dites-Moi" and "O Ma Tendre Musette." Miss Young will be accompanied by Francis Gear. Marilyn Hunter will conclude the recital program by singing "Sunlight" by Harriet Ware. Her accompanist will be Ann Gibbens.

names of the couple were found inside a box of chocolates which was passed.

Miss Hutchison, a senior majoring in economics, is a member of Alpha Chi Omega. Klosterman is now in Los Angeles doing graduate work at the University of California at Los Angeles.

No date has been set for the wedding.

June Wedding Planned

News of the engagement of Sally Ogle and Ove Tønning came as a surprise to members of Delta Gamma Saturday night.

Door of the chapter house was decorated with a picture of a bride, and decorated mirrors in the house forecast a wedding in June. Bride's magazines were scattered around the living room. After dinner the names of the couple were disclosed, and the traditional box of candy was passed.

Miss Ogle, a senior majoring in sociology, is a member of Delta Gamma. Tønning, a senior, is preparing to enter medical school in the fall.

The wedding date has been set for June 15. Plans have been made for a trip to Norway after the wedding.

Bearcats Take on Pacific Tonight; Face Leading Pioneers in 'Crucial' Tomorrow

Willamette's Cardinal Crew hopes to make easy work of Pacific's Badgers tonight in order to pave the way to meet an undefeated Lewis and Clark quintet tomorrow evening in what promloff's Crimson and Black hoopers are not to be reckoned with lightly, although Lewis and Clark's record appears far more impressive on paper.

Agee, Ball Outstanding

In addition to their two victories over Pacific, Lewis and Clark have downed College of Idaho twice and Whitman once.

Among Pacific's more outstanding men are two six foot, six-inch men, Clint Agee and Ed Ball, the former tipping the scales at 220 pounds. Agee plays the post position. He got a late start at basketball because of a football injury, but promises to be one of the conference's big men. Ball, a senior, has a good right hand hook shot and a good jump shot. Another Badger starter is Frank Buchiewicz, who was an all-conference halfback last season in football.

Pioneer Coach Eldon Fix appears to be well-satisfied with the way his team has been performing to date. He is particularly satisfied with his reserve strength. Against College of Idaho and Whitman there was little to choose between his number one and number two units. Fix pointed out that Willamette probably will be able to put the brakes on L-C's fast break, making it necessary to brighten up the set offense. Practice sessions have been pointing toward that end.

Servas Top Rebounder

Lewis and Clark has averaged 73.8 points per game in conference play to date, while holding the opposition to a 47.8 per game average. Center John Feuz is the team's leading scorer with 242 points in 17 games, followed by Ed Reid with 189, Ken Servas with 186, and Gary Jackson with 181.

Servas is the leading rebounder with an average of 15.2 for the season and 19 plus for the conference games. He took 21 rebounds in 23 minutes against Whitman Monday night.

For Coach John Lewis' Willamette Bearcats, the starting line-up will probably be Ted Loder and Dick Mase at the forward positions and Doug Logue at the pivot post. The two starting berths in the back court will be decided between Hugh Bellinger, Daryl Girod, and Lou Scrivens.

Bearkits Ready For Prelim Tests

Pacific's and Lewis and Clark's freshmen squads are the targets for Willamette's eager Bearkittens as they host the two quintets in Friday and Saturday preliminaries. Tip-off time for both games is set for 6:10 p.m.

Coach Sam Vokes' Bearkittens, beaten only once, captured their seventh and eighth victories of the season as they dropped the Linfield Frosh 60-54 last Saturday and Reed College 63-33 last Monday.

After a narrow one-point half-time margin at Linfield, the WU Bearkittens walked off the floor with a 60-54 victory. A pair of Larrys, Baggett and Scheelar, captured high point honors for Willamette with 20 and 15 points respectively.

In the Reed College clash, the Bearkittens had a rough go of it for the first quarter, but then the Cardinal and Gold machine began to click and after that they were never in trouble. Dick Bertram tallied 20 points to pace the victorious Kittens.

Ted McKee, Linfield Sink 'Cats, 69-67; Loss Knocks Local Cagers From Top

Ted McKee and the Linfield Wildcats, sunk the Willamette Bearcats 69-67 last Saturday night at McMinnville. The loss dropped the Bearcats from first place down to a second place tie with the Wildcats.

With three and one-half minutes left in the contest, the Linfield five enjoyed a 69-59 lead over the Bearcats and went into a stall. But the scrappy Cardinal quintet fought back to within two points, 69-67, before the final gun stemmed the surge.

Coach John Lewis' Bearcats jumped to a 6-0 lead in the first three and one half minutes of play on two baskets by Ted Loder and a field goal by Dick Mase. Then the Wildcats began to click. McKee, who hooped 28 points for the night, and Jack Leonard, who had 12 counters, led the Wildcats to a 16-9 first quarter lead and a 38-27 half-time bulge.

Loder, Doug Logue and Dick Mase, who tallied 20, 19 and 13 points respectively for the Bearcats, led the charge in the second half. But the Linfield quintet managed to hold a seven-point margin most of the time until the final spurge by the Bearcats.

Loder started it with a short shot from the side. Mase took a pass from Lou Scrivens on a fast break and laid it up to make it 69-63 in favor of Linfield. Loder hit another short one from the side and Daryl Girod added the final two points in the game to make it 69-67, still with the Bearcats on the short end.

State, Federal Income Tax Hints Given by Prof. Elliott

How will the average college student stand with the State of Oregon and Uncle Sam come tax-payment time?

Prof. James Elliott, assistant professor of business administration and economics, had these words of wisdom and advice for students who will be facing federal revenue men March 15, state collectors April 15.

Married students are advised to file a joint return. A wife (or husband) cannot file a single return and claim the spouse as a dependent. A joint return is practically always the cheaper, said Elliott.

Only income earned in this state is taxable under Oregon tax laws. This means that a California or Washington student who earns, say, $400 during the school year, must file an Oregon return if he wants to recover State withholding tax. If he made something in California, he must file a California return, also.

The State, however, allows a person to earn $750 before taxing his income. If you earn more than $750 you are taxed 2-3 percent on the additional income. In filing a return for an amount over $750 you can figure the tax on a percentage basis, or you can use the optional table by which lump sums are scheduled. The form to use is 40.

In State returns, the income of the dependent is added to the income of the parent. This means, said Elliott, a parent must also pay tax on the income of his dependent. The additional few dollars may possibly put the parent in a higher tax bracket. This is the price for letting junior work, he said.

For Uncle Sam, however, the incomes of the parent and the dependent are figured separately. However, pop loses at least $122 if son or daughter earns more than $600 in one year.

Elliott advised students to watch their income and to consider what would happen if a dependent made slightly more than $600. It would be wise to remember, he said, that your parent loses at least $122 and you, some of your ~~worth~~ held wages. If you don't think you can make about $750, it might be wise to stop at $599, it was advised.

Elliott advised Willamette students who earned more than $600 to use the optional table when filing Federal returns. This table accompanies form 1040 and will allow you to earn up to $750 before paying a tax. The parents, however, are still the losers if you make over $600.

There is nothing to be gained by either claiming, or not claiming, yourself as a dependent when you take a job, said Elliott. If you make less than $600 all the money will be returned anyhow. And if you make more, you will get back the same proportion of your total income, regardless of how much was withheld from your pay envelopes.

Elliott said that parents of college students receive no more compensation for the added expense than any other parent. The extra cost of sending junior to college cannot be charged to depreciation, bad debts or to any special exemption. Furthermore, the government is considering no change in its policy. This policy is: A dependent (1) is a close relative (2) who receives at least half support and (3) who does not make over $600. It's tough luck if one child costs $2000 a year and another, only $1000.

Is there any way for a student who has earned more than $600 to escape the penalty? Not honestly, said Elliott. If you've got a problem, see the Bureau of Internal Revenue at the Post Office.

Hoop Star Logue January Rotarian

Doug Logue, captain of the basketball team, was selected as the January Rotarian-of-the-Month. Besides leading the Bearcat hoop squad, he is the leading scorer for the team.

Logue was voted this honor by the student council at their regular January 9 meeting. As Rotarian-of-the-Month, he will lunch at the Rotary club each Wednesday in January.

Logue, a physical education major, is now a senior at Willamette and will complete his college basketball career this season. He is from Longview, Washington.

Wanted: Hopes, Crosbys, etc., For Future Radio Broadcasts

Willamette's radio department opens the field of broadcasting to the general student body Thursday, February 7th, with an audition to be held in the "little theater" from 2 until 5.

Voices of all types, along with ad lib experts, forum speakers, and dialect masters, are needed for the department's future programs, according to Prof. Dean Graunke.

No previous dramatic experience or classwork is necessary for immediate broadcast possibilities. All stress in the auditions will be placed entirely on vocal quality, with the judging done by directors who hear participating students over a public address system.

Prof. Graunke added, "lawyers and engineers seem to have the best radio voices."

Gregg Names New Editors

Several new staff appointments for the 1952 Wallulah are announced this week by Cliff Gregg, editor. Jane Notson, art editor, will assume the position of associate editor and Betty Howat will take over the art editorship in addition to her duties as layout editor. Sally Bridgeman is copy editor and Charleen Asvik and Donna Cheldelin are serving as co-index editors. The position of sports editor is still vacant but will be filled in the near future.

The scheduling of portrait sittings at Steimonts will be resumed immediately after final exams. Several days will be set aside for those members of living organizations who have not yet had their Wallulah pictures taken to do so. Post cards will be sent to all Town Students giving them appointments at the photographers. If they are unable to keep the appointment given them, they are urged to contact the Student Body office immediately to make a new appointment.

Promotion Tours Slated by Haynes

Miss Nickie Haynes, assistant director of admissions, will travel to the schools in the Salem area from January 28 to February 1 to promote enrollment at Willamette university next fall. The program that will be given to the high school seniors has been planned in cooperation with the other private universities in this area. On February 4 Miss Haynes will travel to northwestern Washington to address the seniors there.

Miss Haynes will visit McMinnville, Corvallis, Junction City, Albany, Lebanon, Sweet Home, Cascade, Silverton and Woodburn in Oregon and Mt. Vernon, Bellingham, Lynden, Everett, Snohomish, Kirkland, Bothell, Fife, and Enumclaw in Washington.

Charles Paeth is planning a trip to the bay area in California from March 10 to 22, and Miss Haynes has a trip scheduled for Eastern Oregon and Washington.

Drive Fails Goal; $819.05 Collected

The Campus Chest collected a total of $819.05, reports chairman Felix Caulkins. The World Student Service fund will receive 50 per cent of the collection, and the YMCA, YWCA, UNESCO, the Community Chest and the Red Cross will each receive 10 per cent.

The goal set before the drive was $1200.

"Thanks to all students who helped to make the drive a success and special thanks to Rollin Cocking, Ardat Bailey, and Nancy Lumijarvi," said chairman Caulkins.

Return Proofs

Will all students who have not returned their Wallulah proofs please turn them in to Steimont's Studio or the Wallulah office immediately.

EDWARD WILLIAMS

When He's Dangerously Near You!

When you're dancing and he's dangerously near you, he'll get ideas alright—the question is: What kind of ideas? Will his idea be that you're the sweetest thing he ever held in his arms? Or will there be something to mar the perfect picture? Clean—really clean clothes and soft, smooth hands will help. Let the LAUNDERETTE do it for you.
