

Three Funds Prosper From Wallulah Cut

Office Fund Suffers; Music, Social and Intra-Mural Gain

Prospects of Student Body Dancing and Golf Cause Cut

The constitutional amendments passed at the last meeting of the associated students, May 18, constituted the first major revision since action taken by the student body two years ago. The biggest change came as the result of the 4 1/2 per cent cut from the Wallulah fund. The remainder were small changes which brought various articles up to date.

Most important of the revisions were those having to do with budget reapportionment. Four and one-half per cent were taken off the Wallulah fund, reducing it from 26 1/2% to 22%, and the office fund, from which Lester Sparks pays the expenses of maintaining his graduate manager's office, was reduced from 10% to 9%.

Additional funds were scheduled for the intra-mural sports fund—2%, the student body social fund—2%, and the music fund—1 1/2%.

These new apportionments provide for the first regular funds supplied for the exclusive use of intra-mural sports managers. Previously all intra-mural sports were carried on with little or no actual expenditure on the part of the student body, baseball equipment, some of which was bought personally by Miss Curry for use in her girls' gym classes, being picked up here and there, and passballs and basketballs after use in varsity play having been donated through the courtesy of "Spec" Keene and Lester J. Sparks.

Prompted by encouraging reports from various members of the faculty and board of trustees concerning student body dances here next year the revision committee took the social fund enlargement action for the purpose of providing necessary financial backing for three or four such all-school functions during the year. Supplying adequate funds for the support of a successful band was the main reason given for the added percentage which goes, next year, to the music department. The committee also wished to facilitate the use of various musical organizations, such as the Songmen, the Philharmonic Choir, and the band, in the school advertising program.

Awards Day Chapel

The annual spring awards day chapel is scheduled for June 5, at which time sports and other extra-curricular activity awards will be made. Included among activities for which awards will be given at this time are baseball, track, tennis, girls' sports, the Collegian, and the Wallulah. Four-year trophies and other special awards will also be given out at this time.

Y. M.-Y. W. Send Out Call for Delegates to Summer Conference

Seaback! To those "in the know" the very word spells thrills, excitement, inspiration, instruction, companionship, and joy of living. To the uninitiated, however, there is little or no hint of the greatness for which the word stands. This article is directed toward everyone that they also get into the "big secret"—big enough for anyone—everyone. Seaback is the name and place of the Y. M.-Y. W. Intercollegiate Summer Conference. It will be held this year from June 13-23. Seaback is a marvelous resort in generous grounds situated on Hood's Canal, a branch of Puget Sound, in the state of Washington. Seaback is located on a conference grounds well adapted to handle the students which come from colleges and universities of Oregon, Washington, Montana, and Idaho. It is equipped with fine accommodations and grand recreational facilities. Seaback offers you the inspira-

Eight Seniors To Enter Ore. Med. School This Fall

Entering the country's various medical schools next year are eight Willamette graduates. Seven of these are to matriculate at the University of Oregon Medical college in Portland, while one is to enter the Jefferson Medical college in Philadelphia, which seems to have a peculiar attraction for W. U. alumni.

According to Prof. Monk Willamette graduates have made excellent records at the country's best medical school. No Willamette students as yet have had their application for admission rejected which is a very excellent record. Those entering the University of Oregon Medical college this year from Willamette are Oliver Draper, Howard Roberts, John Ross, Waldo Mills, Elwyn Enamel, and Lawrence Morley. Others who have not yet applied for admission are Bill Thoms who is planning on going to the Jefferson Medical college at Philadelphia, and John D. Welch who is considering the U. or O. Medical college.

Willamette graduates who are receiving their M.D. this spring are: From the University of Oregon, Charles Campbell, Alfred French, and Clarence Poor; and from Jefferson Medical college, Arthur Fisher.

Business Manager Installs New Safe

Recent Theft is Reason for Purchase of Modern Safe

"Come, look at my new safe" proudly begged Mr. Savage, business manager of Willamette University. Then he pointed to the new manganese steel safe, now standing in his office, with its double time lock. Purchased through the State Banking department with the help of Mr. A. H. Schrein, this bit of furniture weighs 2150 pounds and "is as near burglar proof as we could get."

The new grap safe is about three feet tall, circular in shape, with one round heavy door. This door holds the two time locks which enable Mr. Savage to place valuable money and papers in perfect security for any time he wishes. Once the safe is locked, not even its proud master can open it—only Grandfather Time. The inside of the safe holds an open shelf for papers and a small dial inner vault for money and such other valuables.

Roberts to Give Studio Recital

Prof. T. S. Roberts, professor of pipe organ in the Willamette school of music, will give a recital for the College Vespers group in the studio of his home at 505 North Summer street, Sunday, June 7, at 6:30 P. M. Each year this recital by Prof. Roberts is a feature of the college Vesper program. This year he will be assisted by Hortense Taylor, violinist, Edna Thomas, pianist, and Bartis Preston, vocal soloist.

Leaving Salem

One-time president of Willamette, Dr. George H. Alden, plans to leave Salem at the end of the present semester when his retirement becomes effective.

Former Dean and President Leaves

Alden Thinks Back Over Twenty-two Years of Service

"To think of leaving the old school, which has stood for more romance and sentiment than can be easily realized," exclaimed Dr. George Henry Alden, one-time dean and president of Willamette University, now retiring history professor, "certainly rends one's heartstrings. I feel a peculiar and definite attachment to every student who has ever been on the Willamette campus, particularly those who have been in my classes. Wherever I may go in the succeeding years, I trust that they will realize that my latch-string is always out for them."

Twenty-two years ago last August Dr. Alden came to Willamette University as dean and acting president. Previous to that time he had been professor of history in the University of Washington. In 1936 marks the last year of his service to Willamette. Although "the trustees have kindly offered to let me teach a class or two next year, and I wish I could afford to do it, I fear that financial and health reasons will compel me to leave Salem." The one-time president of Willamette University retires this year after twenty-two years of his life devoted to this school.

"I have always been proud of the Old School. I am proud of her very honorable and generally successful athletic record. I am proud of the showing made of every one of the twenty-two Freshman Glee I have attended. Willamette's record in debate and oratory has been splendid. Not the least occasion for pride is the high scholastic record which I have had some part in maintaining. As a graduate of the oldest university in the Atlantic seaboard, I have been proud to be connected with the oldest on the Pacific Coast. Wherever I go, and whatever I do, it will always be a source of deep satisfaction to me to remember that I had twenty-two years in "Old Willamette."

Dr. Schulze New Lion Club Prexy

Dr. Daniel Schulze, Willamette dean of men, was recently elected president of the Salem Lions club and Lester J. Sparks, graduate manager here, was elected one of the directors of the organization at the same meeting. Dean Schulze plans to represent the local unit at a Lions club convention which is to be held in Providence, Rhode Island, the middle of this summer. This meeting will be a combination of the international convention of the organization with the tercentenary convention of the state. The local Lions club meets each Thursday noon at the Quella Cafe. Dean Schulze plans to attend this convention during the course of a summer tour during which he and his family will visit the Texas centenary celebration and visit friends in Independence and Dallas of the same state.

Forensic Heads Report Notable Success for '36

A survey of the forensic activity of members of the speech department reveals exceptional success in that field throughout the '35-'36 school year.

Willamette debate teams were entered in the state competition which covers the fields of oratory, debate, and extemporaneous and after dinner speaking. Willamette has held first and second places for the last four years in state competition. This year the women took third in women's extemporaneous. Also W. U. debaters took third place in the state peace oratorical contest.

Last fall, two representatives, Howard Campbell and Lawrence Morley, were sent to the San Francisco convention of debaters. In this the men placed second in a large field of 50 debate teams. They also placed second in the extemporaneous from a field of nine contestants.

Marjorie Thorne, Constance Smart, Randall Kester, George McLeod, and Lawrence Morley were the delegates to the Los Angeles convention of the Pacific Forensic League. Randall Kester placed second out of a field of nine competitors. George took third place in debate. The latter also won fifth place from a field of eight competitors. One of the highest points of the trip was George McLeod's talk before the Los Angeles Breakfast club, an audience of about 600.

The Pacific Forensic League is made up of such competition as this University of Southern California, University of California, Stanford, Arizona, Nevada, Oregon State College, University of Washington, Washington State, Idaho, and Whitman.

Hawaii Exchange Scholarship May Be Discontinued

Hawaiian Prexy Favors Graduate Exchange, Hotel Writes

That the exchange student scholarship between the University of Hawaii and Willamette University might be discontinued for the coming year, was learned here today from an authoritative source.

Martha Jane Hottel, Willamette exchange student to the University of Hawaii, in a recent letter to Dr. Baxter indicated that Dr. David L. Crawford, president of University of Hawaii, desired to build up his graduated department by limiting the exchange scholarship to graduate students only. Since Willamette does not have a graduate school this would automatically eliminate the exchange student policy that now exists.

In her letter, Martha Jane Hottel stated that no really definite decision had been reached concerning the scholarship. Due to the absence of Dr. Crawford, who will not return to the University of Hawaii until June 7, the question has not been given proper attention, Martha Jane said.

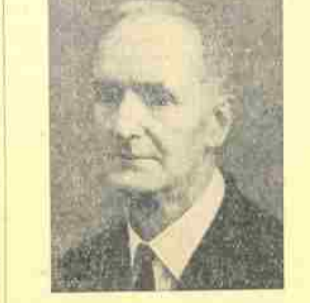

When asked concerning his reaction to Dr. Crawford's announcement, Dr. Baxter said, "I hope that Dr. Crawford will allow us to continue the scholarship for at least another year."

Dr. Baxter has written several letters strongly urging the University of Hawaii president to continue the exchange student policy. "I believe that the scholarship will be continued, although it may be several weeks before the final decision is made," President Baxter said.

Miss Knudt Emoto, exchange student from the University of Hawaii, expressed her deep regret when she heard that the scholarship was in danger of being discontinued. "I am very sorry to hear that Dr. Crawford is thinking of discontinuing the exchange scholarship with Willamette," Knudt said.

There are 12 students who have applied this year for the exchange scholarship. Their names are: Barbara Crookham, Norma Fuller, George Self, Everett Gary, Jean Hollingsworth, Betty Abrams, Esther Galison, Mel V'ken, Bill Hansen, Una Lee, Frank Reed, and Bill Clemons.

Retires

Dr. James T. Matthews, leaving full time service, will leave shortly for California, where he will study astronomy, preparatory to offering a course in it here soon.

Matthews Retires From Full Service

Doctor's Graduation Talk Prophetic of Long Active Life

"The Making of a Life" was the title of the 12 minute oration that Dr. James T. Matthews, professor of mathematics, who retires from full-time active service at the close of this year, delivered at his own graduation from Willamette University in 1889. The significance of the title became much fuller than the oration, however, profound and big words it may have been, could ever have indicated, for Dr. Matthews has made his life one of great service and has helped hundreds of Willamette students to make theirs much more meaningful.

There were nine students who graduated in that class of '89, when the graduation ceremonies, in Waller hall, lasted all day long. Each student gave an address. Another member of the class was Rebecca Brown, who became Mrs. Matthews shortly after their graduation, and who is with him today at their home in Salem. The Matthews have two sons, Oliver Matthews, Salem, and Donald M. Matthews, Portland.

Williams to Speak Of Trip in Chapel

Bronk Williams, this year's associated student body president who recently returned from a California convention held especially for college men who hold the same position in colleges and universities situated up and down the Pacific coast, will speak about his trip during tomorrow's student body chapel appearance.

Other features of the program will be the first appearance of Dolly Dingle as the new song queen and a presentation of popular selections by the blind school dance orchestra.

Variety of Talent Display in Annual Blue Key Program

Ozark Hill Billies, impersonators, singers and other aspiring young amateurs rallied to the call of Major Cameron Marshall Bowes and the Blue Key organization and presented a program in Waller Hall last Friday evening.

Delta Phi and Beta Chi trios were very entertaining. Bill Hanzel and Malcolm Walimon did extremely well on impersonating various movie actors, Professor Matthews and Professor Cam. Marshall.

Three little girls from the Blind school rendered a couple of harmonized selections. Knudt Emoto had evidently coached Frank Pemberton in doing Hawaiian dances.

Margaret Howerton and Hilda Crawford entertained the audience with a piano and banjo duet. A Salem high school senior became a real magician Friday night—fooling most of the audience. Also, he rather ran off with the prize.

Don Armstrong delivered the famous American classic, "The Killing of Don McCreck."

The Ozark Hill Billies, composed of Bill Anton and Gerald Gasstineau, contributed good old mountain music. Warren Peters took charge, and by the large audience and applause, it appeared to be a howling success.

Distribution Date for Year Book Set Thursday, June 4

Members of Groups That Owe the Wallulah Are Able to Get Annual

"It's a darn good book—hope it meets with everybody's approval," exclaimed Wallulah Manager Ely Swisher while he told the rules for obtaining the new Wallulah. On June 4, Swisher and his staff will distribute these volumes to the holders of student body tickets for both semesters.

The line of students will form in the Student Body office before the telephone window. Here the student body tickets for both semesters must be shown else they will not receive a book. Manager Swisher emphasized the fact that two student body tickets will be needed.

Only members of organizations which have fully paid their Wallulah assessments will receive books. Only three organizations have failed to pay their obligations in full. These three will not include a large portion of the student body.

ANCIENT PROBLEM

A FEW short years ago it was a crime punishable, at least theoretically, by expulsion from this college, to be discovered in anything near a dancing posture.

Finally organization dancing became legalized. Now, various members of the faculty recognizing the breaking down of unified student body spirit coming as the result of the lack of social activity with which the whole student body is in sympathy, efforts are being made to abolish the ban on dances for the entire campus.

Although the argument is advanced from some quarters that all the students on the campus are not dancers, it is generally assumed that universal dancing is the present social trend, and that it is more feasible for the non-dancers to learn to dance than for the dancers to become satisfied with any form of "parlor games" that might be devised.

Student body dances are almost a certainty for next year. Although practically all the adventure, always an important feature of Willamette dancing heretofore, will be all but forgotten by this step, it is hoped that Willamette will now cease to be considered "different" from the normal college as far as its social life is concerned.

INTRA-MURAL GOLF

THE prospect of golf being made available for the entire student body is one of the most attractive features made possible through the new budget reapportionment adopted, on the recommendation of the constitutional revision committee, at the student body meeting May 18.

A local golf course management has offered to allow any and all Willamette students the privilege of playing golf at any time throughout the school year for the yearly green fee of $100, this sum to be taken from the intra-mural fund.

If enough students are at the present time, or are willing to become, golf conscious, this offer presents an admirable opportunity.

or all the barrenness and isolation of the North.

This style of telling a story might be called impressionistic. It did not seem impossible to classify as following a certain literary technique a narrative so simple and sincere. She records her impressions because that is the way in which she experiences life around her. But she feels more than the impression of the moment—she draws upon all her past experiences and realizes their connection with the present. In speaking of the picture of glamour, color, magic, and mystery which attracted them to the Orient, she writes, "For there is no other way of labeling the emotions which rise from scattered impressions throughout life: a Ming horse, the syllables Marco Polo, a silk kimono, the ragged head of a chrysanthemum, the color of a mandarin coat, and a pearl-white bowl seen through the glass of a museum case. Irrelevant, slight impressions which, pieced together, make one's picture of the Orient aluring." Books, music, painting, school experiences, home memories—all her life is brought forth in this flight to interpret it and give it meaning.

came to Willamette University to teach. He had been teaching at Lincoln grade school in Salem. That school, significantly, is being replaced this coming school year with a new building. He had been elected to teach another year, and it was a surprise when President Willis C. Hawley came to him and asked him to teach here. For many years the lengthy title of "Professor of Mathematics, Ethics and Psychology" adorned his stationery.

"In the years I have been here, I think I have taught everything except Greek and chemistry," he said.

At the time of his first coming to Willamette as a professor, when the school had about 35 students in the college and 200 in the academy, he wore a "big, brown beard, which was trimmed occasionally," as he described it. There were about eight professors at the time. Waller hall was the only classroom building on the campus. Professors wore Prince Albert coats.

Contrasting students of today with those of earlier years Dr. Mathews said:

"I think the students now are more articulate than then. They speak more freely about things. They express their feelings and wishes more accurately. They are just as mischievous and just as saintly. They perform less outlandish jokes, such as stealing the Bible from chapel, taking the stovepipe from chapel, or setting an alarm clock in chapel. Athletics and rallies have allowed them to express their feelings in another manner. The trustees objected when President Hawley first introduced a mild form of athletics, a trapeze system in the top floor of Waller hall, which they maintained would shake the building down."

three Willamette teams got as far as the finals when they met defeat. One of the teams, Lorene Tompkins and Marjorie Thorne, went through the preliminaries of six debates, but lost in the finals.

Four freshmen and sophomores, Lorene Tompkins, Maxine Hill, Bob Farmer, and Waldo Kleen, went to the tournament at the College of Puget Sound. Both teams passed preliminaries but lost finals. The teams participated in four debates, and won in three out of the four finals.

Looking forward to next year's forensic program, Prof. Rahe plans to send two men and two women to Los Angeles for a similar tournament. Also, according to amount of competition, trips may be made into the midwest and to the Atlantic Seaboard.

A year ago, for the first time Willamette University tried intensive debate touring. The touring team was William Moser and Garfield Barnett. They went east to Chicago and as far south as New Orleans. During this time they met about 25 different teams, among which were those of Harvard and Princeton. On the strength of this successful venture, a similar tour may be made in the coming forensic year.

Lausanne Hall Gives Ship Party

The Lausanne Hall informal was given last Saturday night in the Salem high school gymnasium. A nautical idea was carried out, turning the gym into the deck of a ship. Soft blue lights and a profusion of spring flowers made it unusually attractive. Chaperones were Miss Clara Eness and her mother, Mrs. Harriet Eness, Mrs. Mills, Dr. and Mrs. Schulze, and Dr. and Mrs. Ray Smith. Cook's orchestra from Portland furnished the music. Thirty-six couples attended.

Alpha Psi Delta's spring serenade was given last Friday night, May 22. A vocal trio and a dance orchestra from the State Blind school were featured along with Maynard McKinley, who gave several vocal solos.

Miss Eness, Miss Schulze, Professor Roberts, and Professor Marshall represented. A particular feature was Miss Belle Brown's rendition of the first movement of Beethoven's C Major Concerto, assisted by Miss Ina Bennett at the second piano, and by a stringed choir made up of the Misses Hortense Taylor, Marian Chase, and Mabelle Lilburn, and Hume Downs, violin; Leonard Olsen, viola; and John Whittaker, cello. Other piano numbers were given by Miss Mary Laughlin, Miss Mary Jeannette Sargent, Miss Jean Rasey, Miss Mary Virginia Nohlgren, Miss Ina Bennett, and Cloyd Riffe. Juniors Give Annual Banquet

The traditional Junior-Senior banquet, given each year by the juniors in honor of their upperclassmen, was held Friday evening, May 15th, in the Fraternal Temple. The dinner was formal by dress but very informal by nature, and the seniors' victorious record at Freshman Glee was the very informal theme of the evening. Jane Fisher, junior class vice-president, was in charge, and Burt Cray furnished the dinner. Dean and Mrs. Frank Erickson were special guests. Jimmy Barnett, junior class president, acted as toastmaster, calling for informal responses from Frank de Lespinasse, senior class president, Martha Warren, and Dean Erickson.

Cap and Gown Initiates Honored

The new pledges of Cap and Gown, campus senior women's honorary, will be initiated at a formal dinner given by the old members next Saturday evening at the Beta Chi House. Esther Gibbard and Jeryme Upston will cook the dinner, as their official senior Home Economics dinner requirement. Guests will be Dean Dahl and Mrs. Laurence Burdette, special guests, and the initiates, the Misses Julia Johnson, Lucille Brainard, Helen Purvine, Gwen Gallaber, and Constance Smart. Hostesses will be the Misses Lois Underwood, Winifred Gardiner, Doris Enryh, Florence Du Rette, and Helen Knight.

Breakfast Given By Delta Phi's

Delta Phi sorority initiated Miss Althea Stevens and Miss Eleanor Johnson into formal membership last Sunday morning. A breakfast in their honor was given by the house following the ceremony.

In the evening, sorority mothers gave a picnic for the members in the Delta Phi back yard. Special guests were Dr. and Mrs. Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Bishop, Miss Mary Elizabeth Smith, Miss Virginia Melton, Mrs. Charles Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Keene, Miss Jessie Woods, and Mrs. E. T. Brown.

Y.W.C.A. Honors Miss Kuulei Emoto

Miss Kuulei Emoto, exchange student from the University of Hawaii, was honored by the campus Y. W. C. A. at an informal tea in Cresto Wednesday, May 20th. Since Miss Emoto will leave early in June to return to Hawaii, the affair was in the nature of a farewell party, to which the student body, faculty and townspeople were invited. Spring flowers were used extensively about the rooms.

Dean Dahl and Mrs. Paul Ellis, Y. W. faculty advisors, poured, and Rosalie Goulder, Marian Steigerwald, Elizabeth Sears, and Suzanne Curtis served. Rosamond Weston was in charge of the tea and Betty Abrams of the decorations.

Salem High School Seniors Honored

The annual formal tea honoring Salem High School seniors was given by the campus Y. W. C. A. Thursday, May 14th, in the Lausanne Hall parlor. Spring flowers decorated the rooms and the attractively appointed serving table.

In the line were Mrs. Baxter, Dean Dahl, Julia Johnson, and Julia Philp. Pouring were Helen Knight, Florence Du Rette, Harriet Burdette, and Lois Underwood. Freshmen and sophomore girls served and assisted about the rooms. The Beta Chi trio, composed of Mary Virginia Nohlgren, Luella Corn, and Rosalie Goulder, sang several times during the afternoon.

Miss Virginia Thomas was the guest of Miss Lucile Brainard at the Beta Chi house for several days last week.

The International club picnic was held two weeks ago at Newkoin, with 30 members in attendance. Miss Lattimer, Dr. and Mrs. Schulze, and Merlin Schulze were special guests.

Lausanne Hall and the sororities and fraternities were both surprised and pleased, but more pleased than surprised last Saturday night, when the Sigma Tau's inserted a special "surprise" serenade into their calendar. Besides the group singing, the Sig quartet sang, and Miss Carol Smith, accompanied by Miss Ina Bennett, played several violin numbers.

New officers for the Alpha Phi Alpha sorority were elected for the coming year. They are as follows: Rae Yocom, president; Norma Fuller, vice-president; Jean Anusson, secretary and treasurer; Kathryn Thompson, manager; and Echo Johnson, corresponding secretary.

The Alums of Alpha Phi Alpha gave the members a dinner on Wednesday evening, May 29. The table was in a "U" shape, and decorated with daisies and sweet peas.

The Alpha Psi Delta's spring picnic will be held Saturday at Winema, three miles north of Newkoin at the coast. Burt Cray has been secured as caterer.

The Alpha Phi Alpha sorority gave its annual Spring Informal at Hazelgreen on May 15. The hall was decorated with enormous snowballs. The music was furnished by Bill DeSouza and his orchestra, and the chaperones were Mrs. C. H. Brock, Dr. and Mrs. Schulze and Prof. and Mrs. Oliver.

The annual Freshman-Sophomore picnic was held at Hazel Green last Saturday. Refreshments were served late in the afternoon, picnic style, and in the evening a dance was held in Bob Hagg's music. Dr. and Mrs. Aden acted as chaperones.

Globe of the World

By JACK BELLINGER

THROUGH THE courtesy of Ross Gladden, the Globe of the World turns on its axis once again, and for a final time. The world happenings of a short college semester are brief in the great compass of time, but it has been a real privilege to comment upon them in this column.

I shall turn from the traditional editorial "we" today to use the first person singular, for what I write here I want to be personal, from me to you, so to speak.

I CLIMBED to the top of a mountain one day. Below were the clouds and fog through which I came, trudging up a steep and winding hill. I had not come alone. There had been others ahead of me to show me the way. Behind were still others following.

I paused to think what it had all meant: Those four years in college, the friends I had known there, the ideas and ideals that had come from the years of study and preparation to follow a profession. Were these dreams of yesterday to be shattered at the feet of a god of stern economic reality? Jobs were practically non-existent then for college graduates. Was there to be a place in the world for me?

I grasped the arm of the friend who had trudged up that steep pathway with me. Together we talked it through. We saw ahead the greater challenge that was ours, to have graduated from college at a time when the going was rougher and harder than it had been for those who finished school in the '30's, when a diploma was practically a pass to a good job. There was the opportunity to begin by doing the menial tasks, the kind of work that thousands of people must do every day. If one stood in line long enough and came down to the plant early enough day after day, he might get a job in a cannery; or it might have been on a freighter, or in a mill, or in the harvest fields. But it would be a beginning, and eventually something might open up in one's chosen profession. We thought the thing through that day.

And the fog and clouds beneath and below began to disappear. Looking down we could see the pathway up which we had trod, and looking out and beyond our vision carried us to the horizon. We breathed deeply the fresh, pure air that one finds at the top of a mountain, and seemed to take new life from the vision before us. The towns and cities, steeples and smokestacks, fields and pastures below opened up before us. We were ready for the task ahead!

THE SENIORS going out from this or any other university this year have a real challenge to meet. Of these things, platform speakers will tell them much in finely polished oratory. It may all sound like so much stuff and nonsense. But three years out of college have convinced me that the foundation upon which one builds his life is much more deeply bedded if it has within it the ideas and ideals formed and tempered in college.

Willamette's First Baseman Tops Team Batters for Season

BURCH ALSO A SLUGGER

Sutton Comes Third in Hits Gathered for Season; Stone is Fourth

"Slugger" Manning for the fourth and final year at first base of Willamette's baseball team again led the team's batting average for the Oregon Champions of 1935 by pounding the horsehide for a healthy clip of .391. Manning finished his collegiate career against the University of Portland last week but for the first time in the season failed to bang out a base hit. He played errorless ball all season and his security around the initial bag has been largely responsible in bringing the title "Oregon Champions" to the Bearcats.

Don Burch, number one ace hurler for the past two seasons, has been another deadly hitter and this season blasted the pill at a .421 pace. Don's control in putting the ball where he wants it while on the mound has gained him the title as one of the most dependable pitchers Willamette has ever had. This year he won 5 games while losing only one. The one loss was against C. P. S. with two men out and two strikes and no balls on the batter—an error at this point with a man on third in the eleventh inning let the run in that not only cost Burch his only defeat but also the Northwest conference playoff. Bill Sutton, who has been de-

Huffman and Yocum Win
Willamette's feminine racquet swingers entered the Northwest intercollegiate tourney on the Reed college courts last Saturday.

Rosemary Huffman and Ruth Yocum trounced the C. P. S. doubles combination, 7-5, 6-2 and the Whitman team, 6-4, 6-3 to enter the final round along with Linfield. The McMinnville duo won out over the W. U. combination in two hotly contested sets, 6-4, 6-4.

Pill Punchers and Alpha Psi In Title Play

The championship playoff of the Intramural Softball League proved to be a knock-down drag-out affair between Piotta's Pill Punchers, Alpha Psi, Lemmon's boys and the law school.

The championship games were run off by a double elimination tournament, each team having to lose two games to be put out of the running.

In the first round of games Lemmon's boys took the measure of the Alpha Psis in a long drawn out game by the score of 9 to 7.

Peterson on Mound for Alumni; Sutton Stars in Final Classic

The season ends for Willamette's strongest baseball team in history with a 7 to 6 victory over the 1931 conference champions on Olinger field yesterday. The Bearcats won their 17th game of the 19 played this season.

Weaver, freshman hurler and speedball artist, for the thirty-sixers retired to the bench after the alumni found him for five runs in the first five innings. Four of the runs came in the first two innings when a couple of errors contributed to the score.

Andy Peterson who was on the mound for the 1931 team, and failed as the greatest pitcher ever to wear a Bearcat uniform, kept his blows well scattered for five innings but in this number the varsity nine managed to get a run in each inning except the fifth. Sutton proved not only a men's double out of two trips to the plate, but topped off the day by stealing third and home in the first inning.

Summary
1936 Champs 7 11 3
1931 Champs 6 19 5
Batteries: Weaver, Erickson and Weisgerber; Peterson, Woods and Messenger.

The same day the Pill Punchers defeated the Law school 5 to 2. This brought the Pill Punchers and Lemmon's boys together. Brandon, Pill chucker, held Lemmon's outfit to a single run and led his team to victory by the score of 5 to 1. The same day the Alpha Psis came from behind to beat the Law school 6 to 5.

In the semi-finals the Alpha Psi and Lemmon Boys were brought together again for the second time and the Alpha Psi came out on top with a 9 to 6 decision.

The final classic comes today, Thursday noon between the undefeated Pill Punchers and the Alpha Psi.

BURCH WITH WOODBURN
Don Burch, No. 1 pitcher on Coach Keene's mound staff, will pitch for the Woodburn Townies this summer in the state league.

Burch admits this is the chance he has been waiting for as he will face his old teammates who have signed to play with the Salem Senators this year.

"On the Bearcat Front" ROY FERRIS

The setup is: Willamette wins 16 out of 18 baseball games and yet fails to get in the Northwest conference playoff. C. P. S. was one of the teams that managed to squeeze out a victory in a eleven inning pitchers' battle, 3 to 2. Oregon was the other team that was able to register a win against the Bearcats—taking one game in four.

Fourteen consecutive conference football victories have been recorded, yet Willamette in the two years in gaining this distinction have failed to gain the complete title as champions.

Yours truly had a critical story about the horrors of the Northwest conference to Willamette athletics. However, after having a chat with the enduring mentor, Spec Keene, he convinced us that such a thing could bring about more harm than good. Spec is using the same cool judgement at the crucial point which cost him the supremacy in Northwest baseball circles as he did last fall, when at the end of a two year winning streak on the gridiron, found the bearcats tied with another team with a much easier and lighter schedule.

This week-end Spec and graduate manager, Lester Sparks, will depart for Walla Walla, where they plan to put their cards on the table in form of a round-robin schedule. This means that each team of the conference must play every other team. This is expected to be met with great protest from some of the schools which have practiced "game-dodging" in the past and from some share of the financial burden. The main purpose of this round-robin schedule is to determine a real champion and to prevent "loaded dice" schedules in the future.

Spec believes that this type of schedule will give every team an equal chance—those teams that are low in athletic standing and cannot stand the expense will be put on the same basis as Idaho and Montana in the Pacific Coast conference and their percentage figured accordingly.

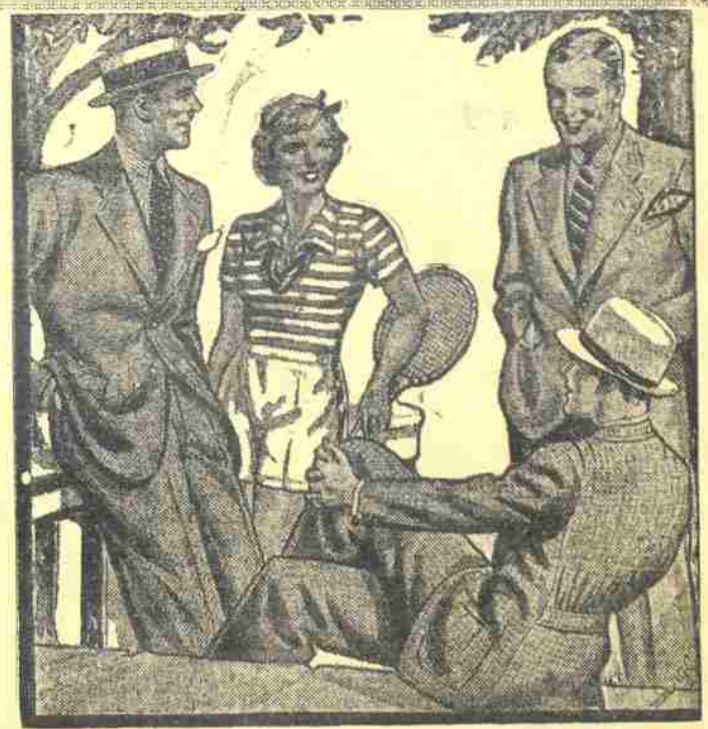

The Pacific Coast conference encountered the same difficulty as Keene expects to run up against in promoting his round-robin schedule. Only two teams, College of Idaho and Albany, should find it difficult, to play every other team at this time. These two teams can schedule games to their own liking but must be put in a different division like in the case of Idaho and Montana in the Coast conference. As soon as these teams prove that they are financially able and can win their share of the games they will be promoted to the other division. The distinction in the caliber of games played by the various schools in the past few years has evolved to this development.

Track Team Goes To Walla Friday

Willamette Will Rely on Strongest Entries to Place In Conference Meet

Willamette's track team will make its final debut of this season in the Northwest conference meet at Walla Walla this Saturday. Although the squad has not experienced too great amount of success this season, Coach Leslie Sparks is making the trip with his strongest bidders for first place honors.

The Bearcats took fourth place in the meet at Forest Grove last week. Men who placed in this meet will make the trip to Walla Walla except Vagt and Newhouse.

Enlargement of Field is Begun

The workers on the new Willamette University grandstand are hurrying to finish before June 15 for the first soft-ball night game.

The old grandstand is falling to the ground and trees on the banks of the present mill-stream are being contracted for removal. One important question remains to be definitely settled, the new enlargement of the lighting system on the south side of Sweetland Field.

In the present, the present mill-stream course from the railroad bridge behind the Willamette gymnasium until the water runs opposite Lausanne Hall—a distance of over 750 feet—will be directed in an entirely new and artificial course. The water will flow beneath the people sitting in the grandstand. A duct 20 feet wide and three feet deep will carry the water beneath the spectators.

The canal will be made of double re-enforced concrete and in the 200 foot length of the grandstand will have a drop of two feet. The movement of the mill-stream within a very small distance of the railroad gives much more room for grandstand and for Sweetland Field.

The new field is being financed through the Salem Softball association, the State softball tournament, the University and from other athletic events.
