SILVER CREEK FALLS TRIP TOMORROW

CAST WINDING UP REHEARSALS FOR 'BEGGAR'S OPERA' NEXT WEEK

The cast of "The Beggar's Opera" settled down in earnest this week to put the finishing touches on the play to be given next Friday and Saturday.

Although called an opera by the author, the play is actually a rollicking comedy written by John Gay in the 18th century satirizing high society manners and corruption.

To accomplish his satire Gay takes all his characters from around Newgate prison: beggars, highwaymen, informers, fences and corrupt prison officials, whose ethics he felt did not differ greatly from those of the aristocracy.

The leading male role is played and sung by Reid

Shelton as the highwayman. Feminine leads are divided between Terry Cokes and Pauly Wallace as rival wives of the highwayman.

Supporting parts are played by Palmer Lee, Helen Ward, Bob Gould, Ray Fedje, Bill Smith, Beth Sherman, Isabel Mason, Ron Jean Finley, and Goldwyn Kulbel.

Katherine Shissler and Wallace Bjerke will play incidental music on piano and violin.

Admission is 50 cents.

LEWIS ARRIVES

John Lewis, Willamette's new head basketball and baseball mentor, arrived on the campus this week.

SIGN-UP FOR TOUR DUE TODAY

A last reminder on the Silver creek falls trip. The party will leave from in front of Eaton hall at one o'clock tomorrow.

The trip is planned so that you can return to Salem in time for the evening meal. Those desiring to take lunch for evening meal at falls may do so.

There is a definite need for cars, and those furnishing cars will receive 50 cents for each passenger.

All those contemplating on going should have their names in by 3 p.m. Friday. Sheets have been placed on the summer session bulletin board for this purpose.

CONSTRUCTION JOBS UNDER WAY ON CAMPUS

Several construction jobs are making progress on the campus during the summer session.

Plans are definitely established for the complete revamping of the bookstore with work beginning next week. The Wallulah office will be joined with the present book store and with more space available, congestion during the first week of school will be eliminated. All textbooks with the exception of the law school books will be moved to the Wallulah office. Additional counters will be installed.

The new Wallulah office will be in the carpenter shop. All plastering and work in the new Wallulah office has been finished, and is ready to occupy.

The two new buildings to house the art and music department facilities just west of the Sweetland field grandstand, are to be completed within 90 days, according to the contractors interviewed Thursday.

The buildings will be constructed separately and are 25 x 90 feet in dimensions each, one to have a tee entrance on it. They will extend approximately 200 feet westerly from the grandstand immediately adjacent to the creek.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To the editor:

Journalistic positions carry with them a duty to those who read the printed word--a duty to tell the truth and to tell it in the spirit, as well as the letter, of truth. News-paper publishing is a crusade, primarily, to inform for monetary gain, whereas pure journalism is a crusade to inform the public fairly and honestly on all matters. Often, Journalists prostitute their high calling and abilities to the passions of gold, but in a college publication this is not necessary.

Issue No. 6 of the "Willamette Summer Collegian," published on August 1, 1947, states, in headlines on page two, "Students Believe U.N.O. Inadequate," and then continues in the first paragraph, "By a slim margin of one vote... the group believed the U.N.O. at present inadequate...." In other words, one person dictated the writing of that headline, a minority controlled the spirit, as well as the letter, of the truth. Surely students of journalism realize the value of headlines in one, promoting circulation, and two, conveying impressions. Since the object of the "Collegian" is not sales; this publication must be, and has every possibility to be, a publication which conveys at all times the correct impressions drawn from assembled facts.

May editors and staffs of student publications be ever alert to the implications of their positions and be ever ready to sacrifice sensationalism and misleading statements to letter and the spirit of truth.

A people that wants to be free must arm itself with a free press, and this includes freedom from bias, outside control, selfish interests and misleading and sensational statements unfounded in truth.

Yours for successful and fearless journalism,
Richard J. Welsh

BETH SHERMAN

WED IN DALLAS

Mr. and Mrs. Fritz L. Fjoldheim (Beth Sherman) were married at 7:30 Sunday evening in Dallas. After the ceremony there was a wedding supper at Normandie Manor. Other members of the party were Terry Orken and Mrs. and Mrs. Byron Platt.

Mr. Fjoldheim is connected with the Atkinson Construction company as project manager on the campus dorm construction job. Mrs. Fjoldheim has worked as secretary for Mr. Fjoldheim and Mr. Platt for approximately three months. At present the couple are living at the Marion hotel.

ALUMNI FILES BEING REVISED

Mary Laughlin, graduate of Willamette and daughter of Dr. S. B. Laughlin, is presently working over the some 4500 cards in the alumni office files to bring them up to date for next fall. It is rumored that the alumni office will move to the second floor of Eaton into the present publicity office and that Mr. Erickson, as director of admissions will move his office into the present alumni office.

ERICKSONS ON TRIP

Summer Session Director Walter Erickson and family left Thursday afternoon for Breitenbush springs, and will return Monday, his office announced today.

RIGGS STRESSES MATURITY OF PARENTS AND CHILD

The "moral equivalent to the atomic bomb" asked for in a recent Time was suggested by Dr. Lawrence A. Riggs in Tuesday night's lecture. He said the answer might be the putting-across-to-children the attitudes and direction of living which is necessary

EDUCATION PROFESSOR APPOINTED

Dr. J. Russell Morris, now completing his work for his doctor's degree at Stanford university, has been appointed assistant professor of education for the ensuing year, Dr. G. Herbert Smith, university president, announced this week.

Dr. Morris replaced Dr. Robert Lantz who resigned last spring to take over the superintendency of the Woodburn public school system. Dr. Morris is a graduate of San Francisco State college and before entering the army he had teaching experience in the grades, the high school and as a high school principal. Dr. Morris was active in athletics at SF State college. He played four years of varsity basketball and participated in baseball. He is 6 feet 3, weighs 210 pounds and has a wife and one child.

Mrs. Morris is the daughter of Dr. A. C. Roberts, former president of San Francisco State Col.

President Smith states that he still is in need for two houses for faculty members.

in a democracy. Dr. Riggs was speaking on "What is Expected of Home Life."

Maturity of both parents and children is required in a democratic family, according to Riggs.

He named two functions of family life from the child's angle. First, a wise restriction, guidance and support to help the child develop a conscience and a sense of values. Adolescent opposition to parent's ideas, he pointed out here, is a part of growing up and should not necessarily alarm the parents. A second function is to help the child grow away from the family.

Riggs stressed that parents should play their parts adequately because children develop quite young an idea of what their role as grown-ups will be.

BURTON PONDER'S ON PEOPLE

Dr. Arthur Burton, new chairman of the psychology department wonders what makes people tick (including himself.)

This curiosity is what led him eventually into psychology. Burton gives the impression of being a man intensely absorbed by his work. A question as to his hobbies brought a mention of golf, but in a rather off-hand manner.

Contrary to a former issue of the Collegian, his field is clinical psychology, in which psychoanalysis is only one form of

KOREAN VISITOR ON CAMPUS

Dr. Moon Chang Wook, director of the office of foreign affairs of the South Korean interim government, visited the Willamette campus Wednesday and conferred with President G. Herbert Smith and Summer Session Director Walter Erickson.

Wook had visited Salem previously in 1929 and recalled his "good friend"; the late Dr. Bruce Baxter, former president of Willamette, whom he first met when Baxter was advisor to Korean students at the University of S. Cal. in 1932-33 when Wook studied there.

Dr. Wook intends to be in the Salem area this week, during which time he will visit the Oregon State college campus at Corvallis.

He plans to visit other college campuses throughout the nation in connection with his mission of investigation of American educational facilities.

 treatment. However, several allusions to it during an interview with him, indicated that he might consider it one of the more interesting types of treatment.

Burton himself censored what he recalled as his most fascinating case. Consequently, those interested will have to wait for the publication of his book, Case Histories in Clinical and Abnormal Psychology, which is promised by Harper Bros. in time for consumption by fall classes.

ALPHA WINS 2 IN PLAYOFF

	W	L
Alpha	2	0
Rubes	0	1
Faculty	0	1

Alpha Hall's rebounding softballers surprised the Rubes and Faculty and may be themselves by tromping on them by disrespectful scores of 6-1 and 10-3 last Tuesday and Wednesday.

Windmill tosser Johnny Roth takes most of the credit for Alpha's change about. In the first tilt he limited the Rubes to four hits and gave up only one in the second against the Faculty.

Timely hitting and a tighter defense also helped considerable. In the first frame of the Rube fracas, third sacker Mason drove out a triple to put across the first two runs.

Again in the second inning, a triple by Waldron, a bingle by Miles, and a Rube error scored two more runs. Murphy's triple in the third with two on scored the last two runs.

Faculty errors, of which there were seven, helped Alpha grab a substantial lead in the early innings of the Faculty-Alpha tilt.

In the second inning, with the score tied at one all, four Faculty errors plus a bingle by Roth gave Alpha a 5-1, game cinching, lead. Three runs on three hits in the fourth, and two on two in the fifth, concluded the Alpha scoring parade.

Next Monday, the Faculty and the Rubes will meet to decide who will play Alpha on Tuesday. If Alpha loses on Tuesday, the final game will be played later in the week.

FIRST FOOTBALL RECRUIT NOW ON CAMPUS

Al Minn, 20 year old Hawaiian halfback became the first football recruit of the year at W.U. when he arrived on the campus last week.

Minn, who is 5'8½" in height and weighs 180, is one of a family of seven boys, six of whom saw service in the armed forces.

While in high school, he earned four letters in track and football and played another year of football while in the Army from '44 to '47.

As far as Al is concerned, Willamette and the Northwest are okay though he admits being homesick.

While waiting for the season to start Al spends his time playing softball and generally keeping in shape.

COLF TENTATIVE

The possibility that the golf tournament will not be completed was quite likely this week as many of the lower flight matches were still unplayed.

RUBE REEL

By Ovilco

The reel has consulted the sports editor, Jim Cakes, in regard to dropping Chuck Furno and Travis Cross from the #1 and #2 positions of the Big Six batting leaders.

It seems that these two failed to show up for the last Rube contest. They apparently wanted to protect their present averages. This is taking unfair advantage of the fellows who are out for every game striving their best for the team.

It is not customary for a Rube to pull a "Typical Rube Trick" on the Rube Organization. Also, we are recommending punishment for this dastardly act to the president of the Rubes, Joe Btfsplk.

Bob Donovan is investigating a possible "fix" in the Rube-Alpha ball game last week. Likely suspects are, Bob Bailey and Gordy Kunke, the "error twins"

BIKE SPECIAL: A rumor is passing around that Harry Mason, an arbitrator in the city softball league, was seen entering a local optician office. Suppose this is true? It could be.
