Judge Fee to Speak On Columbia Theme

James Alger Fee, judge of the U. S. district court in Portland, will speak on "Man's Right to Knowledge and the Free Use Thereof," theme for the nation-wide bicentennial celebration of the founding of Columbia university, in Waller hall at 8 on the Tuesday night following vacation.

Judge Fee, who received his master of arts and bachelor of laws degrees at Columbia, volunteered his time as part of the more than 150 special events to be held over the United States as part of the 200th anniversary observance.

In connection with the celebration, the University library will exhibit 25 panels related to the anniversary's theme, Librarian A. A. Whitman disclosed. The panels will depict such topics as "The Inclusiveness of Man," "The Values of Knowledge," "Man's Right to Knowledge," "Man's Right to the Free Use of Knowledge," and "The Responsibilities of Knowledge."

The panels cover a wide range of topics from the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights to the teacher and free speech, he said.

According to Whitman, freedom of inquiry and expression was declared of paramount importance for discussion by those responsible for the celebration of Columbia university's 200th anniversary.

Putnam Names Cast Members For 'Seven Keys to Baldpate'

Cast members for George M. Cohan's "Seven Keys to Baldpate" were named by Director Robert Putnam after tryouts Monday and Tuesday, for which there was excellent student response, Putnam said.

15 Member Cast

The 15 characters of the May Weekend production include Ron Orlebeke as William Hallowell Magee, the novelist, and Jean Thomas as Mary Norton, newspaper reporter. Barbara Ruhle will play Pyra Thorn-

Queen Carolyn I, pictured standing at the right of Princesses Jane and Alice, will be crowned in May Weekend coronation ceremonies May 1 to rule the annual three-day event.

Spring Vacation Begins at Noon Today

Students will vacate the campus today at noon leaving it to the custodians and repair men who have been assigned a number of minor alterations and to the professors who are preparing the barrage of six weeks' tests which will greet students when they return to classes April 12 at 8 a. m.

Dr. Robert Fenix, University business manager, reports a re-seeding project will be undertaken next week where muddy football games killed the grass on McCulloch field. Other painting and minor repair operations will also take place.

Dean Mark Hatfield announced that Baxter hall and the fraternity units will be open all week for male students who are not going home. He warns, however, that doors be locked when rooms are unoccupied. Lausanne, Bishop, and the sorority houses will be closed.

Delegates to the Oregon Methodist Youth Fellowship convention will arrive on campus this afternoon for a week-

Counselling Parties To Recruit Students

Counselling parties for prospective Willamette students have been scheduled during the spring vacation in several southern Oregon and northern California cities by Charles Paeth, director of admissions.

His itinerary includes a party at Medford next Monday at the Jackson hotel. Wednesday he will conduct a party at the Peninsula hotel in San Mateo and Thursday one in Sacramento at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Taylor, who are alumni of the University.

On Saturday, April 10, Paeth and Dean and Mrs. Robert Gregg will hold another counselling session in Bend at the home of Gwen and Larry Standifer, Willamette students.

Paeth urges that Willamette people from these cities attend the scheduled parties and bring prospective students they know with them.

end conference. Dr. Thomas Bennett is chairman of the event which is expected to attract from 350 to 400 high school youth.

Spring vacation hours for the library have been announced by Librarian A. A. Whitman.

The library will remain open today from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m. and tomorrow from 8 a. m. until noon. Monday through Friday of next week, scheduled hours will be 8 a. m. until noon and 1 to 5 in the afternoon daily.

On Saturday, April 10, the library will be open from 8 a. m. until noon.

Clearing House Directors Due For Two-State Meet Thursday

Willamette's introduction of "Demublican" day to Oregon campuses last Friday will be discussed at the joint meeting of Citizenship Clearing House directors from Oregon and Washington in Salem next Thursday.

The bi-partisan observance sponsored by the Oregon Citizenship Clearing House and organized to stimulate student interest in politics was a "pilot project" for similar days to be held on other Oregon campuses.

The two key speakers, Senator Phillip Hitchcock, republican, and Attorney General Robert Thornton, democrat, opened Friday's meeting with addresses on "Student Participation in Politics."

A panel discussion by three members from both parties and Dean Robert Gregg as chairman, discussed the same subject.

According to Freeman Holmer, Willamette professor who directed the local observance and who serves as Oregon director for the Citizenship Clearing House, college and Carolyn Crane, a lovely blond senior in art from Portland, whose college career has been graced with honors, received another this week when the student body chose her to reign as queen of the May in the University's annual observance planned for April 30 and May 1.

Miss Crane, student body secretary, was Varsity Ball princess as a freshman and Homecoming hostess last year.

Attending the queen will be music major Jane Gray, from Portland, and art major Alice Girod, from Salem.

While the queen was being selected this week from a list submitted by the senior class, May weekend manager Tom Schrock and his committee were busy setting up a program schedule for the two-day event.

HS Students Expected

Two hundred students, mostly from northwest and northern California high schools, were expected on campus for the weekend.

The program that Schrock announced will begin with a kickoff parade on Friday at 3 p. m. Utilizing the theme, "Hello Salem," the parade composed of school and community organizations and led by the court will wind its way from the campus to McCulloch stadium.

There the traditional sophomore-freshmen competitions will take place. A barbecue and entertainment will wind up the afternoon's activities.

Friday evening, the court will see a command performance of "Seven Keys to Baldpate," the drama department's spring presentation in the Waller hall auditorium.

Sing Opens Saturday Events

Saturday all campus paths lead to the gym for the annual singing competition between University living and social organizations. Time will be 10 p. m. That afternoon, following the coronation at 1:30 p. m., May weekenders will see Willamette's track team, Northwest conference champs last year, in a dual meet with Whitman from Walla Walla.

Crowning festivities for the weekend come Saturday night with the traditional queen's ball in the gym.

Manager Schrock's chairmen include Tom Carr, parade; Frank Jassman, competitions; Dick Moore, barbecue; Jo Terhark, entertainment; Bill Picket, all-campus sing; Jack Phipps, coronation; and Rich Butler, the queen's ball.

Montana Tourney Draws Debate Team

Four members of the Willamette university forensic squad will leave for Missoula, Montana, early next week to participate in the eighth annual Northwest Tau Kappa Alpha speech tournament to be held at Montana State university.

Debating for Willamette will be H. Paul Johnson and Fenton Hughes, both juniors. A sophomore women's team, Gay Kent and Marian Rutledge, also will debate. The four students will also participate in the extemporaneous speaking event.

The tournament will be attended by college and university students from 25 schools in the western third of the United States. It will be concluded on Saturday evening, April 10, with a banquet at which Governor J. Hugo Aronson of Montana will be the principal speaker.

hill, the blackmailer, with George Evans as Thomas Hayden, railroad president, and Dave Frost as John Bland, his right hand man.

The part of Jim Cargan, the crooked mayor, has been assigned to Dave Finlay. Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Quimby, the caretaker and his wife, will be portrayed by Vernon Keel and Mary Jane Thompson.

Hermit, Widow Included

Bob Alfred will be Peters, the hermit of Baldpate, while Jean Kimberling will play the role of Mrs. Rhodes, the charming widow. John Rehffuss as Jiggs Kennedy, chief of police, will be assisted by two cops, Skip Faucette and Loyal Howard.

The owner of Baldpate Inn, which is the scene of the play's action, will be played by Jack Brooks.

Reading rehearsals began Wednesday night with two and a half weeks of practice time left following vacation before the three nights of performances, April 28, 29 and 30.

T'nT at Ten

Post-vacation convocation will be presented by the alumni association, under the direction of Otto J. Wilson. The program is an annual presentation.

Chapel will be held on Good Friday rather than the regular Thursday scheduled period. The speaker will be announced after vacation, according to Dale Gustafson, chapel manager.

political representatives of the organization will hold a planning session for the coming year at the Marion hotel Thursday.

Guest speaker for the meeting will be John A. Dieg of the Claremont graduate school. Dean Mark Hatfield will attend as a political representative and Dean Seward Reese will represent the Law school.

Financial Aid Blanks Should Be Secured

Students applying for financial assistance for the year 1954-1955, should obtain application blanks immediately from the president or dean of student's offices, announced Dr. G. Herbert Smith.

This form of assistance includes scholarships and grants-in-aid, which are awarded on the basis of need, scholastic record and campus service.

Applications must be submitted to Dr. Smith's office by April 29, and must be signed by the student's parents.

The Problem Is Primary and Secondary

This is Oregon's Teacher Career week to focus attention on Oregon's acute need for teachers. According to the Oregon Education association, the state teacher training institutions are training only about one half of the number of teachers necessary. They explain, "Next fall it is estimated that we will need 1,198 new Oregon elementary teachers, but our Oregon teacher training institutions will provide us with only about 300 plus elementary teachers." The greatest shortage is now in the elementary schools, but by 1960 it will have reached the secondary level.

Promotion can do a lot to interest qualified young people in the teaching profession. Suggesting to a high school student that he is qualified for a teaching career should be a compliment to his abilities. It should also be a challenge. College students are often very influential in helping to set the goals of high school seniors. Make the teaching suggestion a serious and appealing one.

Over the Transom

Spring Thoughts Turn to Water, Papers, and Sex

By Duane Alvord

After a cool, refreshing rain the sun is once again shining on Willamette's campus and although the air is still a bit nippy, spring is officially upon us.

With this change in the weather it is inevitable that things like swimming, dancing, and tests accompany it.

Sophomores weren't the only creatures who braved the waters of Willamette's Millstream involuntarily this last week. Chuck Murphy will attest to that.

Mr. Murphy was practicing with his fraternity's softball club on Sweetland field when the ball accidentally "blooped" into the stream. Fortunately for Mr. Murphy the ball was close enough to reach... with a little assistance.

"I've Got It," He Yelled

While a fraternity brother held him by the belt Murphy reached far out across the water and grabbed the ball, yelling "I've got it, I've got it!" At that Murphy's belt and his brother's grip slipped and he plunged to the bottom of the stream.

A few moments later Murphy came to the top wet and disgusted, with an accompaniment of boisterous laughter. In his hand Chuck still held the ball.

Flowers are another sign of spring, and many could be seen at the Varsity Ball last week. Quite impressive and even more amusing was the large "W" framework which appeared to be adorned with yellow daffodils at the west end of the gym.

Flowers Not Smelly Type

Those who were as curious as to smell them as I, were rather amused and slightly embarrassed at their composition. They weren't flowers at all. Actually it was just a bunch of paper... of a rather notorious nature, at that.

Most of the couples who had been fooled by the yellow lights playing on the framework and had come to smell the "flowers" hurried away from the scene as soon as their identity was established.

A sophomore transfer student who enrolled at Willamette this semester has little regard for the "Five-Liner" testing system employed in several liberal arts courses.

Five Lines, Just Five

She attended Oregon State college a number of years ago and was not acquainted with this "new-fangled" testing system. When she was told to write five-liners the coed wrote just five lines... "like it says you should," she said.

I wrote as small as I could, but still couldn't put in all the information I wanted to, she remarked. She got a "B" on the test, but still claims she could have done better.

Topics for conversation this week on the Willamette campus are sprinkled liberally with that of vacation. It seems that the usual caravan of students are heading for the sunshine and fun of the California "bay" area.

Judi Wood Attends Meet

Willamette Panhellenic delegate Judi Wood left Wednesday to attend the Panhellenic workshop this weekend at the Empress hotel in Victoria, British Columbia.

Special information sought by the Willamette group concerns open rushing, the invitational bid system used by Montana State college and money-raising projects.

Also to be discussed are public relations, pledge training, rushing standards, scholarship, social activities, inter-sorority contacts and Junior Panhellenic.

Miss Wood, the first delegate sent by the local Panhellenic group, stated, "This conference is for the benefit of all women's fraternities in order to broaden their contacts. Through information gained at the conference we hope to strengthen Willamette's Panhellenic group."

If the conference proves beneficial, she said, plans will be made for greater local participation next year.

The four-day training conference which began yesterday is sponsored annually by the University of Washington Panhellenic and is attended by schools from the Northwest.

More Conventions

Speaking of conventions, three delegates are leaving soon for the annual Associated Women Student's regional convention, to be held from April 8 to 11 on the University of Arizona campus, in Tucson, Arizona. Attending the workshop will be AWS president Judy Finch, with Nina Hines and Mary Reeh.

Topics for discussion at the conference will include student orientation, foreign student programs and the position of AWS on campus.

SAE's Pledge Hall

Recently pledged to Sigma Alpha Epsilon was Larry Hall. Queenly Gifts

Local merchants were very generous last week, when donating gifts to the Varsity Queen and her court. Besides those listed in last week's Collegian, the court also received gold medals on chains from Howard Wickland's; two blouses from Schlesinger's and the Towne Shop; a rhinestone pin from Pomeroy and Keene, hose from Sears; a rhinestone bracelet from Miller's; candy from Gay's; and the trophy for the Varsity Queen was donated by the "W" club.

Spring's Coming

Signs of spring... tanned faces from skiing, sun porches and the Baxter roof; bicycles in evidence on the front lawns; tennis rackets instead of books being carried by students; and students drowsing everywhere—in the library, on study table and in classes!

Three Couples Tell Betrothals

With spring in full bloom on campus, news of three engagements have reached the ears of Willamette students.

Balloons Reveal News

Messages found in large colored balloons led to the announcement of the engagement of Mary Jo Ewell and Layton Gilson, at the Alpha Chi Omega house Sunday evening.

Miss Ewell is a junior majoring in sociology and has been active in her sorority, holding the office of scholarship chairman.

Gilson, who is senior scholar in physical education, is a senior member of Beta Theta Pi. He has been active in sports and intramural events on campus.

Flowers Bring Announcement

Daffodils and camellias containing messages told members of the Chi Omega house of the engagement of Carol Hinds to Cyril Zeigler last week.

Miss Hinds is a freshman majoring in sociology.

Zeigler is employed with the First National bank in Bend, and attends Central Oregon Community college, where he is majoring in business.

Plans have been made for a Christmas wedding.

Alumnae Tells Troth

A poem and a box of heart-shaped candy revealed to Delta Gamma members the engagement of Betty Foster to Don Bishop.

Miss Foster attended Willamette for three years, and is now in her senior year at the University of Washington, where she is majoring in home economics.

While on campus, Miss Foster was active as president of Canterbury club, and corresponding secretary of her sorority.

Bishop, a senior at the University of Washington, will be serving with the air force after graduation in June.

SB ROUNDTABLE: Are We Rolling Up Our Sleeves

By Jim Hitchman

What do you personally think of the student attitude toward convocations and chapels? What do you personally think about our overall behavior in this University? The following opinions are from one person only. I sincerely hope for your own good and for Willamette's good that you have some opinions of your own. My remarks are intended to focus your attention and to let you know where I stand. I hope that they are of help to you in your thinking about Willamette.

These points about inadequate seating, mediocre speakers and influencing events just prior to a chapel period are certainly valid. But they need the support of a more important fact. It is an insult to your own intelligence to simply label the cause of restlessness as the above three reasons. There is more to it.

I believe that we have to look to ourselves, not to other people or events, as the biggest cause of unrest. This chapel attitude that also manifests itself elsewhere is nothing more than a childish lack of control on the part of individuals. We just are not willing to open our minds and try to see what the other fellow is trying to say. What it amounts to is that many of us are too spineless and are quitters. I say all this in light of the belief that we are in college to grow. Another thing, if these statements apply to you, look at them and think over their implication as applied to yourself. If you feel that they do not apply to you, then treat them as things which concern some of your fellow students.

Burke Samuelson, Sally Jo Grimm, Dale Gustafson and their committees are trying to provide the most meaningful convos and chapels possible.

The way some of you act, you'd think that these managers deliberately went out and found the worst speakers they could in order to torture you. Others make almost as many mistakes as you and I do.

You certainly have every gripe possible when we have a string of miserable convocations. We want to hear these suggestions and complaints. And your attitude will be greatly determined by the quality of program staged. There is a student sub-committee from the student council considering the whole idea of compulsory convos and chapels. What we'll come up with, I'm not quite sure, but our conclusion will be determined by trying to do the best we can for the student body.

What we are mainly talking about in this roundtable is strengthening some of the weaknesses in human nature. If we work on supporting worthwhile ideas and activities instead of standing by and criticizing, then we'd feel much better, toward both ourselves and our fellows. Analysis, criticism and diverse opinion are essential for good living. But never forget that we are more emotional than rational and we must stop criticizing some time and just roll up those sleeves and pitch in. It is normal for college students to be critical because they are looking for the best way to do something—but now we are in danger of forgetting that while we may theorize we also have to simply get out and do something about our thoughts.

Finally, this is a manifold plea. Look to ourselves as partly at fault, be intolerant of people with closed minds, be intolerant of parasites, try to inspire those who will not try. And all this implies selfless hustle.

Bennett to Head European Study Tour; Eleven to Sail From Quebec on June 8

Eleven Willamette students, under the guidance of Dr. Thomas Bennett, professor of philosophy, will sail from Quebec, Canada, June 8, for a summer study tour through Europe. The group includes Augusta Krause, Lorraine Landrud, Carla McKeen, Carol Hewitt, Dale Harris, Don Sandstrom, Paul Baker, Ray Owens, Hal Hargreaves, Dave Finlay and Larry Monk. Most of the trip will be traveled by bicycle, with a few train hops over the longer stretches. The group will be housed in hostels and in homes of friends and relatives of the group members. All equipment, which will weigh not more than 25 pounds per person including sleeping bags, will be carried on the bicycles.

Arriving at La Havre, France, in mid-June, the group will take delivery of bicycles ordered through Scotts Cycle Shop in Salem. They will go directly to Paris to begin a circle through southern France, northern Italy, Austria, Germany and northern France, returning to Paris for about five days of sightseeing there.

While the other tour members are at Innsbrook, Austria, Paul Baker will take a side trip into the Russian zone to Vienna to visit people with whom he has corresponded and to whom he has sent packages since the war.

Following the Paris stop, the group will cross the English channel from Calais to Dover, England. They will spend three weeks in the London area, covering such interest points as Cambridge, Oxford and Stratford-on-Avon. After going by train north to the Lake country and into northern Scotland, they will round out their trip by visiting the Edinburgh Festival, held in the latter part of August.

They will arrive back in New York City about the first of September. The ship on which the group has booked passage is a student ship; the passengers are comprised solely of students touring Europe.

The Willamette group is financing its own trip and may enroll for three hours of credit in philosophy as a summer school class. Each member is doing advance study in a field such as history, literature, art, music, architecture, government, politics and culture of the areas to be visited and the group will pool its research information on the way over. The purpose of the trip is to study, as well as sight-see.

A map outlining the tour route is mounted in the periodical room of the library.

Nine Men to Enter Air Force in June

Nine seniors have received official orders for reporting to active duty in the air force following graduation. The men will report to Lackland Air Force base on June 25 for processing and will then split into two groups for primary flight training.

Training at the air force base in Columbus, Miss., will be Dorence Noteboom, Laurie Peterson and Bill Van Horn, while Stan Steindorf, Joe Harvey, Norm Battaglio, Don Fisk, Stan Neperud, Neil Wineman and Verne Zeuske have been assigned to Malden Air Force base in Missouri.

Bob Platenburg, Willamette graduate of last year, is now taking primary training with the air force at Hondo, Texas. He is the first Willamette ROTC graduate to enter flight training.

Student Activity Survey Approved by Council

A questionnaire to sample student attitudes toward and participation in campus groups and activities was approved by student council Wednesday.

Personal and classroom interviews will be administered by Buz Oerding during the week following as a research project for his sociology seminar. Seventy-five will also be sent to Linfield for comparative purposes.

For Seniors Only

Freshman Glee banners are available in the student body office to seniors only—free.

The three closing classes have provided the funds for the purchase of the miniature red felt banners awarded annually to the winning class.

Men Not in ROTC Eligible for Reserve

Lt. Col. N. W. Todd of the Air Force ROTC Detachment announced this week that college students, who do not complete one of the army, navy, or air force ROTC programs, are now eligible for enlistment in an air force reserve wing.

Col. Todd pointed out that such enlistments will provide students with credit towards their eight year military service obligation, and will also entitle them to enlist in the regular air force ahead of any applicants on the waiting list. Such an enlistment in the regular AF would be in grade E-2 (airman third class) provided they hold that rank or higher in the air force reserve.

The local professor of air science and tactics said that students between the ages of 17 and 25, inclusive, are eligible for the reserve enlistments, provided they have not received a selective service classification of 1-A and are otherwise qualified.

Death Takes Builder Of Sweetland Field

Dr. George James Sweetland, who coached football at Willamette in the early part of the century, died Monday in Constantine, Michigan, at the age of 82.

The football field behind Eaton hall, which was developed while he was coach, later was named for him. It is now the site of the million dollar building program where the Fine Arts building will be constructed. As coach in 1912 he personally directed construction with student labor of the gridiron that served until the building of McCulloch stadium in 1950.

Relays Host 1600 Athletes Tomorrow on McCulloch

Tomorrow afternoon at one o'clock will be the start of the fourth annual Willamette Relays which will be held at McCulloch stadium.

Sixty-three high schools and 17 teams in the college division make up this year's entries—about 1600 athletes. The entire meet is scheduled to be completed approximately at 5:45.

The two invitational races of the afternoon have been drawn up and will have some of the top talent in the Northwest running in the two events. Bobby Gaytas of Pacific leads the 100-yard dash contestants with the best time of 9.8 seconds which he did while in high school in New Jersey. Kenneth Mischell of Mather Air Force base has the best time for the invitational 120 high hurdles at 14.3 seconds.

Willamette will send a full squad minus Dean Benson, ace hurdler for the Bearcats. Benson has been forced out for the entire season with a blood ailment diagnosed as mononucleosis.

The unique part of the relays is that every race is a final race. And because of the high number of high school athletes who participate in the relays, the class is broken down into novice and senior groupings. There is also the college and university class in the college division which limits the larger schools to the university class while the smaller schools may enter either class.

Betas Win Intramural Track Championship

The Betas successfully defended their intramural track title by taking this year's meet by a margin of 30½ points on the McCulloch stadium track last Saturday afternoon.

The winners gathered in 101½ points by taking six firsts and 17 other placings. The Sigs finished in the runner-up spot with 71 points. The Phi Deltis were next with 48½, the Baxter team followed with 21 points and the SAE's were last with two points.

Bearcat Netmen To Open Season Today; To Travel

The Willamette tennis squad will open their season's competition this afternoon against Pacific on the home courts.

The Bearcat netters will leave tomorrow morning at 6:30 and play Southern Oregon College of Education in the afternoon at Ashland. The team will then play Sacramento State in Sacramento the following Monday, San Jose State in San Jose Wednesday, College of Pacific in Stockton Thursday, Chico State in Chico Friday and return home Monday, April 12, to play Oregon College of Education.

Two Baseball Spots Remain Vacant; Bearcats Face Beavers Wednesday

With the baseball opener set for next Wednesday against Oregon State in Corvallis, the Willamette lineup is all set except for two positions.

Shortstop and second base are the two vacancies still to be filled before the team opens play in preparation of their Northwest conference title defense.

Three men are battling for the shortstop position, one being letterman Bill Nelson. The others are sophomore Jerry McCallister and freshman Terry Ziegelman.

At second base it is between two first-year men. Gary Shugarts and Ziegelman, who is also trying out for the vacant shortstop slot.

The remainder of the infield is complete. Sophomore Pete Reed, a letterman, is again the choice at first base and Harvey Neffendorf. Portland freshman, has earned the third base spot. Harvey Koepf will be behind the plate, the same position he has for the past two years.

In the outfield the top candidate is Dale Patton who is also listed as catcher behind Koepf. Other garden standouts are Cliff York, Duane Shield and Jim Scott.

In the pitching department it is Andy George, Dave Gray, Mickey Coen and Dan Feller. Only the latter is new to the squad.

'Cat Golf Team Awaits Pacific; Lose Opener

Willamette university's golf team will take on Pacific this afternoon on the Salem golf course for their second match of the year.

In their opener, Portland university trounced the Bearcats 11½-6½ last Monday on the wind-swept Columbia Edge-water course in Portland.
