BOYS SURPRISE.

Willamette Plays Multnomah M. A. A. C. to Close Score on Portland Grounds.

Sweetland's Babes went down to Portland Saturday and met the pig-skin artists of the M. A. A. C. on their own field and dropped a score of 11 to 0 to the Winged M aggregation. It was a hard fought game from start to finish, Willamette fight-an end run would be made that would net nearly ten yards.

Early in the game one of the Multnomah men was carried off the field, and later, in the second half, Sullivan, left half, was hurt so that he had to be taken out of the game.

The game was not of the spectacular kind, only two runs of any length being made. Multnomah, by sending a man around Willamette's left end, got away and carried the ball to Willamette's five-yard line, the run being about 40 yards.

ing every inch of the ground and putting up a gritty and stubborn contest. Though Willamette was hard pressed at times, still, by superhuman efforts it seemed, they pulled together and held like a brick wall, against which Multnomah butted in vain. It was, however, on the defensive that the local boys played their most brilliant game. Willamette showed herself rather weak in pushing the ball through the opponents' line, and the gains made by straight line plunging were small. When the collegians had the ball the plays would be two downs with a gain of about five yards, and then a punt. However, several times

Multnomah kicked off to Willamette at 3:30. The ball was then in Willamette's territory and remained there during the greater part of the half. However, after sesawing about, exchanging punts and line plunges, Multnomah forced Willamette back to their five-yard line, at which point the 'varsity held the clubmen's rushes, gained the ball and punted out of danger. Then the same thing was repeated and gradually Willamette was forced back to the five-yard line, then with three hard plunges, the ball was sent over for a touchdown, the only one that was really earned. ## FOOTBALL RALLY IS HOWLING SUCCESS.

'Varsity and High School Unite in "Jolly-Up."

Rah! Rah! Rah!
Zip! Boom! Bah!
Old Willamette
Hah! Hah! Hah!

Intermingling yells and songs, students from the Salem High School and Willamette University assembled on Willamette field around the gigantic bon fire whose flames illumined the entire field last Friday night. Singing and yelling, the enthusiasts danced around the huge conflagration which cast a rosy light over the happy scene. Immense serpentine lines were formed which twisted and curled around the field while school and college yells boomed and rolled. Speeches were made in the grand stand that gave such an impetus to the expression of enthusiasm that it was found necessary to parade the streets of the Capital City, the long lines teeming with college life and spirit.

Forming on Willamette field with two hundred and fifty students from the Salem High School in one line, and two hundred and fifty stalwarts from Old Willamette in the other, the band of youths and maidens marched throughout town, stopping occasionally on some particularly promising corner to give the perspiring yell leaders an opportunity to catch up and lead in some rattling, crashing yell. After nearly an hour of this, the exhausted but happy rooters marched back up State street and sought their respective homes well satisfied with the night's accomplishments.

The affair was a decided success. Students from both schools turned out in good shape, a large proportion of those in attendance at each school being present. Then the fact that Salem High and Willamette united in putting the thing through to a successful culmination speaks propiti-ously for the future relations to be entered into between the two educational institutions. A spirit of jealous rivalry subsisting between two schools in the same small city is to be deplored and we are to be congratulated on the manifestation of friendly and co-operative interest that prevailed last Friday night. Co-operation, and the desire to help, was the spirit of the occasion, and it is to be hoped that this same sentiment may prevail for years, and be the sounding key note in the relations of future generations of students in the Salem High School and Willamette University.

M. A. A. C. has finally decided to remain in the State Basketball League.

FOR 40 YEARS

SIMPSON HEARD FROM.

Vancouver, Wash., Oct. 11, 1909.
Mr. James W. Crawford,
Salem, Oregon.

Dear James: I found on my desk this morning the "Willamette Collegian," and, say, it looked good to me. I read it through with much pleasure and with more pleasure noted the spirit of loyalty that still fills its columns.

We that are gone still love the old school and it gives us pleasure to stop in the busy whirl of the outside life and stopping our ears to the noise and turmoil of the world, let our thoughts go back to the best part of our lives and live again amid the good old days, when our greatest ambition was to beat Oregon or steal all the chairs in the building and the bell clapper and to hide the piano in the top story.

And that poem of the Y. W. C. A. girls, ah! that brings back memories of the trees by the mill race, of Bush's pasture and of star gazing. Those days are gone but not erased, for we live them over and over again in our dreams and in our memories of the best things.

In conclusion, I'll tickle the heart of the "Staff" and make them believe that I am in earnest by enclosing a check for one plunk to pay for a year's subscription.

Your friend,

—Geo. B. Simpson.

P. S.—Tell the girls I am still single. —Sim.

HAYWARD "GYM" MAY BE NAME.

University of Oregon, Eugene, Oct. 16.—The executive committee of the University of Oregon student body is being stirred by a very delicate problem. Whether to name the new $30,000 gymnasium after a living athletic hero of the university or a dead professor is the interesting question that is agitating the members of this committee.

In every-day student slang the new structure, which will be ready for use about January 1, is pretty certain to be generally known as the "gym." For state occasions, however, and in accordance with past custom, the building must be named.

At the regular monthly meeting of the committee the other day it was suggested that the building should be named Hayward Hall as a delicate compliment and deserved honor for "Bill" Hayward, the famous trainer who has never turned out a losing team in the four years he has been at Oregon.

According to tradition new buildings at the University of Oregon are named for deceased members of the faculty and the board of regents. The single exception is Villard Hall, named for Henry Villard, the great railroad builder who gave the endowment by which the original college building here was erected. But Deady Hall, Johnson Hall, McClure Hall, Collier Hall, Mary Spiller Hall and others are named as stated.

Now the committee is in a quandary whether to disregard this tradition and recommend to the university board of regents the popular choice of Hayward Hall for the gymnasium building or to stand by established custom. In the latter event no name is under consideration. The committee is composed of Ben H. Williams, president; Ruth Duniway, of Portland, secretary; Harper Jamison and Dean Goodman, of Portland, and Chauncey Cuning, of Baker City.—Ex.

We wonder what makes Booth so absent minded all the while. His mind seems to be far, far away most of the time. Perhaps it is travelling o'er hill and vale, forest and stream, to a little school house in Eastern Washington.

The Department of Modern Languages is greatly in need of some sort of a fly trap. The little pests make themselves so obnoxious that it is with great difficulty the good professor conducts his recitations.

WEBSTERIANS.

The Websterian Debating Society held its regular meeting in chapel Friday night.

After a short literary program, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: President, Dan Allen; vice president, Winfield Emmel; secretary, James W. Crawford; treasurer, Roy Shields; corresponding secretary, Wm. Beatty; censor, George Forbes; sergeant-at-arms, Mr. (Happy) Day. After the election a season of lively parliamentary practice was indulged in.

Several names were handed in from prospective members. The society intends to keep up last year's standard with regard to literary work. We extend a cordial invitation to all to attend at any time.

The work on our new halls has actually begun, and if the carpenter has the proper assistance they will be completed in a few weeks. Websterians show your loyalty! Every member should work a day or two in tearing out old lath and plaster and helping put things in shape so we can move in as soon as possible.

JOINT MEETING.

The Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. held a joint meeting in the chapel Sunday, Oct. 10. Prof. Patterson was the leader and spoke on the subject of missions. His address showed careful preparation and was interesting in every detail. He told how the missionary spirit had gradually spread from the beginning of the Christian Era until at the present time it no longer is the thought and work of a few narrow religious enthusiasts but rather that it is supported by the very best and most advanced people of all walks of life. Our whole civilization is practically the result of the labors of a vast number of men and women who have given themselves over to the work of spreading the gospel in home and foreign lands. The past fifty years have told in Japan what Christianity can do for a people.

Miss Schmidt presented the mission courses offered by Y. W. C. A., one on home missions and one on foreign. The course on home missions

SENIOR LAW DOINGS.

Prof. Pogue—"Dan Allen, what is cumulative evidence?"

Dan—"That that piles up."

"Correct. If I could get twelve men to swear that you were a notorious liar, that would be cumulative evidence, only you must not think that I couldn't get more than that."

"At some time in his life must every man succumb to the wiles of a damsel"—Glanvil. So spake the old prophet and our class president, Willard Wirtz, laughed in scorn, but that was before the eventful Sunday that he went canoing on the Willamette with one Jim Mott.

As the two pleasure seekers arrived at a point about three miles above town, George Winslow was discovered sitting on the bank with his girl. (What they were doing was not revealed by the testimony adduced at the preliminary examination conducted by Wirtz's friends.)

Mott, from the stern of the boat, cried out at the novelty of the scene, "Oh, look at those people on the bank!" But Wirtz neither saw nor heard. He looked straight ahead. "I say, that's an uncommonly pretty girl."

Then a strange thing happened. Willard, who has withstood more sieges than the rock of Gibraltar, turned and looked. For full a minute he looked and the next thing he knew he was struggling in the gelid waters of the Willamette.

Fortunately the stream at this point was but waist-deep and the two canoists had but little trouble in righting the overturned boat and clambering in. By mutual agreement they returned to the city.

Several of our class took in Rev. Selleck's sermon Sunday. We regret the presence of a great many hats adorned with peacock feathers in such a way as to resemble "Birds of Passage." This is highly inconvenient for those who would see something other than hirsute displays and those things that crown them.

OREGON TO MEET UTAH ON JANUARY 14 NEXT.

University of Oregon, Eugene, Oct. 16.—The universities of Oregon and Utah will debate in Portland January 14, 1910, on the question of the advisability of National control of corporations doing an interstate business. This was decided at a special meeting of the university committee on debate and oratory today, at which Oregon's debating arrangements with other coast colleges were perfected.

The Utah debate will be the first time that an Oregon university debate team has ever debated in Portland, but if the event proves popular, it will probably be made an annual occurrence. The team representing each university will consist of two men, and the exact wording of the question will be decided later.

It was also decided at the meeting that the same question will be used in the triangular debates between the universities of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, which will take place March 26. Each college will be represented by two teams, one remaining at home and taking the affirmative side of the question while the other goes on the road with the negative. Oregon will debate Washington at Seattle and Idaho at Eugene this year.

Sweeping changes in the method of selecting debaters in the tryouts will be made this season. Instead of having only one tryout, in which candidates for the team have a certain time to present one side of the question to the judges, as in previous years, tryouts in future will last for two weeks. Every candidate for the debating teams will have to speak offhand on some phase of the question, and answer questions asked him under actual debating conditions, on each day of the two weeks' tryout. The Utah tryouts will occur just after Thanksgiving while those for the teams debating against Washington and Idaho will be held after Christmas.

Several of last year's debaters are again in college, among them being: W. C. Nicholas, Charles Robison, Leon Ray, Percy Collier and Burleigh Cash.—Ex.

the right of participating in inter-collegiate debates with the representatives of other colleges, have at last been granted that privilege. Contests will be secured with the girls' team of the University of Washington. The matter has been taken up by the Entaxian Society, of which Miss Marion Stowe, of Salem, is president.

Simmons College, Boston, is the only place in the world where women can be trained to manage lunchrooms. This college has a steady increase in girls studying the lunchroom course and girls are going into almost every state. The girls are taught how to buy, figure profit and loss and to handle a waiting staff.

About thirty chess enthusiasts of O. A. C. met the other evening and formed a chess club. A permanent organization will soon be perfected, after which an attempt will be made to form an Inter-collegiate League.

The University of Oregon will meet the University of Utah on January 14th in debate.

Freshmen are not to be permitted to become members of debating societies at Whitman until the second semester.

October 15th Whitman College beat Columbia University by a score of 55 to 0.

COLLEGE LIFE.

Dan Powers, a graduate of Willamette Law School and ex-captain of the baseball team, was "held up" in Portland the other evening by a couple of his friends, who when arrested, claimed the whole affair to be a practical joke on Powers. The latter gentleman refuses to prosecute but says he will whip both of the jokers.

'Twas in the German II class. Anderson was given the sentence, "I rejoice to see you" to translate on the board. But he altered it to fit his own condition of mind, for when it appeared it read, "I rejoice to see her." It would, no doubt be a joyous sensation.

BOYS SURPRISE

ball was put into action again by Willamette sending it to Multnomah's 20-yard line. Then on an end run Multnomah got away for a gain of 20 yards. On a play around the right end Multnomah was penalized 15 yards, one of several penalties of the game. The clubmen tried the forward pass but always suffered a penalty, though the pass itself was worked successfully. After a series of punts and line plunges the half ended with the ball in the center of the field.

Willamette started the second half by kicking off to M. A. A. C. Multnomah tried a series of line bucks but the Willamette line held and many of the plays were blocked. Multnomah punted and Willamette was downed in tracks. The 'varsity then went through the clubmen's line for good gain. Twice in succession Willamette, after losing the ball on a punt, broke through the line and got the man behind the line. Then by a series of plays around the end and through the line Willamette was forced toward goal but held on their five-yard line and punted, but the punt was short and the ball was brought back to the five-yard line. Then for three successive heavy line plunges Multnomah tried in vain to break through. The Willamette line held like a stone wall and Multnomah lost the ball. Willamette punted to safety. Multnomah then forced the ball toward Willamette goal and tried a drop kick for goal, but the kick went wild. On a punt Willamette was downed in tracks. Then Multnomah, working plays around the end, got away for a long run that placed the ball on Willamette's five-yard line. Then a heavy plunge sent the ball over. A goal was kicked and the score was increased by six points, making 11 in all. In the latter part of the half Multnomah got away for a 25-yard run and would have made a touchdown but the safety did his duty and cut short the runner's career. The half ended with the ball in the center of the field.

There is good cause for rejoicing among students of Willamette, as the team did much better than expected, in fact, it gave everyone a glad surprise. Though light in weight, they showed up exceedingly well with the clubmen. Every man on the team was in the game all the time and did his work well. The boys have every reason to be proud of themselves, and the school has every reason to be proud of the bunch that represented them. Last week Coach Sweetland thought that the score of Saturday's game would not be less than 40 or 50 to nothing, but history says that it was only 11 to 0—a very creditable score for the first game of the season. Coach Sweetland has done a lot for the boys already and before the season is over a lot more may be expected.

A small bunch of rooters went down to see the game, while 'varsity friends in Portland were present.

Just one little thing was brought out at the "jolly-up" that was not in strict accordance with justice and the rules of good government. Whenever a position is created and a man appointed to fill it, in any walk of life, the implied consent and obedience to the authority of that office goes hand in hand with its erection. If it were not necessary for an individual to exercise certain powers to the exclusion of their employment by the general public, offices conferring such power would never be erected. To come to the point. We have a yell leader whose duty it is to lead the student body in yells whenever such things are indulged in. Friday night there was a tendency to break up into small bands, each with a separate leader, which produced confusion and no noticeable result with regard to noise. Then again all of us insisted on giving the leader our own opinions on what to yell and how to do it, which action upon our part made anything like organized yelling impossible. What if he doesn't do things just exactly as we think they should be done; that's his business, not ours. When we've got a yell leader, let's support him and do what he tells us.

A case is now being prepared to test the validity of the law authorizing the Governor to appoint two extra judges of the Supreme Court. The law was enacted by the legislature, and the judges appointed under its provisions, and now a test case is being instituted to ascertain whether or not the enactment of the legislature is in violation of Sec. 10, Art. 7 of the Oregon State Constitution.

L. F. Amerey, editor of the London Times, was thrown from his horse and seriously injured. We editors are always getting into trouble. Although the Times is not on our exchange list, we extend sympathy.

Well, the boys made good. Holding a team like Multnomah down to a score of 11 to 0 is something of which we may be justly proud. With consistent training we'll beat that in the next game.

TEN DAYS AT THE BREAKERS.

A Series of Letters that Might Have Been Written by a Girl while Attending the Y. M. C. A. Conference at Long Beach last June.

Long Beach, Wash.,
June 24, '09.

Dear Mother and the rest:

Yesterday was stunt day and our first sunshiny one. The entire afternoon was given over to the stunts, which were numerous and varied. Do you remember that old rhyme about "Mr. Mulligan's turnip, that grew and grew and grew"? Well, the Bellingham City Association had a girl dressed up in green and white crepe paper, to represent a turnip, and they led her out and told us in rhyme that the Bellingham Association was growing. Most of the college associations gave their yells and songs in some form or another. A photographer from Astoria was over and took a number of pictures—one of them was of the entire conference on the steps of the hotel. I took some, too, but in my excitement I forgot to turn the film, so I have two or three exposures on one place. So much for being a raw amateur.

We have had a man from Minneapolis speak to us every night this week. His sermons are splendid. One of the best things about them is that they outline beautifully and it is easy to take notes on them. I'll reproduce (?) them for your benefit when I get home.

By the way, I'll be home to help pick those cherries. Wish I had some now. —A. M.

PHILODOSSIANS

*Answer to Roll Call with Limericks
—By the Way, Some Might Prove Interesting Reading.*

"There was a young lady named Snell
Who thought herself quit a great belle
She sat in the sand
And held her own hand
And never caught on to the sell."

"There was a young man named Wood
Who would marry a girl if he could,
He went to Alaska,
He couldn't ask her,
So our president in hot water stood."
"There was a young fellow named Phil,
Who had to pay many a bill,
For he made a great hit
With Theo Bennett,
And they sat on the porch to their fill."

"There was a young lady named Rees,
Who gave the janitor boy no peace
She'd smile and she'd wink
Till one really might think
She was going to have quite a case."

Four young ladies successfully "rode the goat"—indeed, Miss Ada Mark and Miss Frances Gittins showed such marked ability that the Philodossian furniture was in danger for a time.

Friday evening, Oct. 22, the Philodossians and Philodorians will have a joint meeting in their halls. Short literary program—old time spelling match—social hour. Visitors welcome.
