Board actions explained

If Warne Nunn, vice chairman of Willamette's Board of Trustees, has correctly assessed the situation, Willamette University will have an acting president next year. This interim administrator, speculates Nunn, will be appointed by an undetermined process, probably prior to next September.

Nunn's statements came out of a meeting between himself, Mrs. Hugh McGilvra, (another member of the board who is also on the Academic Affairs Committee) and those campus individuals interested in the board's decisions. The meeting attracted about 100 students, a few members of the university faculty and staff, as well as members of the press. Thursday's meeting was arranged to enable students and trustee representatives to meet with each other and discuss future plans in the wake of the recent 'ousting' of President Fritz, the board's acceptance of the resignation of Vice President of Student Affairs Jerry Whipple, and the withdrawal of funds for the Chaplain's office for the next year.

Both Nunn and McGilvra made introductory remarks indicating that they felt that although the board had taken some unfortunate actions, the board was justified in making those decisions and that consequently they must now be treated as past history. Nunn noted the 'need to build for the future,' and said that many questions he expected to be asked either could not, or would not, be answered.

ASWU President Guy Stephenson started the questioning by asking why the board had not asked Dr. Whipple to reconsider his resignation. Both trustees, especially Nunn, were visibly upset over the question. Nunn responded to the question by saying that it was out of place because it referred to an action that had been taken in the past, but which was not a part of the future. Stephenson retorted that retention of Dr. Whipple was, indeed, a matter for the future, both because of his years of service to the university and the nature of Whipple's resignation. This question set the tone for the remainder of the meeting, a tone of defensiveness on the part the trustees and students.

During the meeting Ron Holloway, director of the University Center, issued a statement saying that Dr. Whipple had the full confidence of his staff, and that Whipple's experience could help during the change in administrations. Holloway also challenged Nunn's statement that the board was considering changing the office of Vice President for Student Affairs, a change that Nunn claimed was not detrimental to the students on the administrative level. Nunn noted that it had been customary in Willamette's past to have deans of students instead of a Vice President of Student Affairs. Holloway said that, contrary to Nunn's statement that there was a national trend to appoint deans for student affairs, The trend was, in fact, in just the opposite direction. Holloway ended his remarks by saying that he would support the board fully in the future, but that he thought the first step in rebuilding Willamette was a mistake. That mistake was the failure to retain Whipple.

Nunn countered by stating that although he appreciated Holloway's statements, the reference to the board's action concerning the Whipple resignation was unfair. Nunn stated the board had no choice in the situation, since Whipple neither withdrew his resignation nor had Whipple ever indicated that he wished to do so. Nunn alluded to the problem in recruiting a new President, who would be wary of coming into office with Dr. Whipple remaining as Vice President for Student Affairs. This, Nunn said, was not because of any particular fault on Whipple's part, but due to the fact that many will claim that Whipple's resignation was the cause of the board's failure to retain Dr. Fritz.

Other pertinent information that resulted from the meeting was the statement that Dr. Manley's services would be continued; that academic program innovations would not be greatly hampered next year due to lack of a permanent president; that no staff persons would be removed from their jobs for next year; and that questions about the university's Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws would have to be addressed to George Atkinson, chairman of the Board.

After the meeting, ASWU President Guy Stephenson met with Warne Nunn to discuss again the abolishing of the office of Vice president of Student Affairs, reducing it to a dean position. Nunn then told Stephenson that he would recommend to the Board that the vice-presidency not be abolished, and that an acting Dean of Student Affairs be appointed only for the interim. Then, when the new president takes office he (and, presumably students and faculty) will select a new Vice President of Student Affairs.

Goal inventory continues

Tuesday, DELPHI II, the second comprehensive Willamette opinion gathering process, happened.

Once again the inventory of goals was evaluated at Willamette. Polling took place at the 10 a.m. classes DELPHI is to consist of three stages.

This second stage included the response from the middle 50% of those polled. It offered a chance for individuals to express opinions contrary to the middle 50% and also included new goal statements which DELPHI coordinators felt was representative of those suggestions made in the first phase.

DELPHI III will be held April 27 at 2:30 p.m. in Cat Cavern. It will provide the chance to 'define, discuss, and prioritize those processes identified as being important to create an environment which will facilitate the achievement of the goals.'

Managerships open

The following managerships are open for petitioning this week (April 17 to April 24): Parents Weekend Manager, Educational Film Series Manager, and Camp Manager.

Manager of Parent's weekend has the responsibility of overseeing the planning of the weekend of activities organized for the benefit of visiting parents. A more detailed job description is available in the office of the Second Vice-President.

Educational Film Series Manager is responsible for the selection of a series of educational films to be shown during the year. It is his additional responsibility to submit a budget to Senate for the required funds, to coordinate all arrangements as to building use, projection, staff, etc. for the films and to handle all publicity for these events.

Camp Manager assists the Dean of Admissions to plan and implement programs of introduction to college for freshmen in the relaxed setting of Camp Silver Creek. Faculty members and student volunteers make up the staff. The announcement must be made at the April 24 meeting of Senate so petitions must be in by 5 p.m. that day. These petitions are available in the Student Body Office and to be returned there.

Rally planned

Plans are presently underway for a rally to be held this Friday in the quad from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in support of the National Student Strike against the war in Southeast Asia. The national strike calls for a boycott of classes.

Diana Derby and the chaplain's office, who are coordinating the event, say that they hope to have an open microphone in front of the Fine Arts Building from which professors and students will be invited to speak.

Present plans call for a candlelight vigil to follow the rally in the evening. Posters will be in place sometime today as further plans are developed.

In addition to the rally a petition calling for the end of the war is being circulated on campus.

Willamette's gymnasium was transformed into a hotbed of political activists with the advent of the Mock Democratic convention held last weekend.

McGovern gets bid

George McGovern was nominated for President on the fourth ballot as Wallace supporters broke off and formed their own party during the Mock Democratic Convention held here last weekend.

Approximately 300 students from Willamette and colleges throughout Oregon and Washington participated in the Willamette sponsored event.

Charles Porter, Democrat, gave the keynote address Friday night in which he stressed, "More action and fewer words."

From the outset of the convention, the main battles seemed not to be between states but between Willamette and the other schools participating. Contro-verse developed over the number of delegates allotted to Willamette. The Michigan delegation from Washington State University challenged the seating of nearly all WU delegations. The credentials committee later approved the seating of most of these delegations.

There was also a battle between Willamette and the other schools over the selection of a vice-chairman of the convention. Chris Lorenz of Lewis and Clark was elected after a long floor fight.

Saturday morning and afternoon were taken up by speeches from prominent Democrats and delegate caucuses. Among the speakers were Wayne Morse, Patsy (continued on page 4)

Committee seeks nominees

The dean search committee, in charge of locating an acting dean of the liberal arts school, is presently accepting nominations from both students and faculty. The acting dean will probably remain in office for only one year, or until a new president is chosen. It seems likely at this point that the acting dean may be chosen from the present faculty. "Before nominating a professor, a student should talk with him and be sure that he will be willing to serve," according to Dr. George McCowen, who is a member of the committee.

Nominations may be submitted to the student representatives on the committee: Jeanne Hermens, Rich Dellenbach or Skip Priest. Faculty members on the committee are Dr. Mandl, Dr. Breakey, Dr. Gillis and Dr. McCowen.

WU debaters victorious

A trio of Willamette University debaters have returned victorious from the Great Western Invitational Debate Tournament held April 8-10 at the University of Nevada at Reno.

Sophomore Tom Matthes, Tigard and freshman Terry Plummer, Portland, placed second in the junior division (Oxford debate) out of a field of 54 colleges and universities.

In the singles division, Matthes placed third in the junior division of extemporaneous speaking and garnered a second place speaker award for junior division debate.

Another debater, Al Hayward, Olympia, Wash., was named a finalist in the junior division after dinner speaking.

Coached by Miss Paula Casey, a third year law student from Coos Bay, Ore., the team finished the season with the record for the University in recent years.

Discrimination noted

Although Willamette is taking steps to catch up to the rest of the nation in some matters, on others it is still pathetically behind. The most glaring example exists in the lack of women, of any race, on the faculty.

In an era when women's roles and decisions are becoming increasingly more complex, Willamette, as an institution, is doing little or nothing to instruct its women on their past history or their present potential. This may be due, in part, to a real lack of female leadership on campus.

For example, out of a total of 94 full-time professors, there are only 12 full-time women professors. Of these, only four have Ph.D.'s. All of the departments are chaired by men. The entire College of Music has no full-time women professors. There are no women vice-presidents, and no women working on development. There is only one woman administrator. The art, education, economics, philosophy, physics, psychology, religion and history departments are completely without any full-time women professors.

Under these circumstances, how can Willamette boast of a well-rounded education. How could a class entitled, for example, "Women in American History" be taught by an all-male staff? (As it seems now, Betsy Ross was the only all-star female in American history, and what was she doing?? Sewing!

The facts speak for themselves. The women professors are available, but Willamette is not hiring them. Discrimination?

On the lighter side: The bookstore carries both "Playboy" and "Penthouse", but alas! not a copy of "Cosmopolitan" (with the now-famous Burt Reynolds fold-out) is to be sold.

Letters to the editor-opinion

Year term advised

To the editor,
The publications board should not approve any proposal changing the term for COLLEGIAN editor from one year to one semester.

Last week's COLLEGIAN reports that Irene Plunkett, current editor, made the term change proposal, stating that, 'she felt that this trend had already been established by several past COLLEGIAN editors, who had left after a semester.'

Such a 'trend' is an unfortunate one that should not be institutionalized by shortening the term.

The editorship is a difficult, complex, and challenging position. This goes a long way in explaining why some recent editors have called it quits after one semester.

Since it is such a difficult position, there is all the more reason why the term should be for the full year, from February to February. It takes most of a semester to learn the ropes and build up an organization.

For example, just as the first editions of Ms. Plunkett's reign as editor reflected her inexperience, these last editions reflect more experience and better organization. If she would finish out her term until February, still more experience and better organization might occur.

The problem is that editors keep quitting before their term is completed. The solution is for the publications board to find editors who will complete their terms. The board should not be quick to give up and shorten terms to only one semester.

If there are no students willing to complete the one year term as editor, the COLLEGIAN will continue to be plagued by lack of organization and inconsistent performances, as new editors struggle to learn the ropes each semester, leaving before they learn them.

Respectfully,
Michael D. Brown, Law I
Collegian editor, '70-'71

Warning offered

I would like to offer a warning to those people who are presently planning to have their term paper typed by the Student Body office. The advertisement has proven a misnomer.

On Monday morning, shortly after the S.B. office had opened, I brought in a term paper to be typed that was due the following day at 2:15 p.m. I was assured at that time that my term paper would be completed (at the latest) by 5:00 Monday.

Well, things didn't work out the way they were supposed to, and I was forced to hand in a term paper late which I had successfully completed before the date on which it was due. I'm not blaming anyone; the fault was mine for having believed that the Student Body office was capable of doing the job they said they could.

'Oz Revisited' to make debut

BLACK SISTER-Lion, the Brothers and the Sisters need you, they really do. We're still not free, and we need everyone to help out.

LION- I hear you Sister, I know how bad it's been, I'd like to help in the struggle, I really would.

WHITE LIBERAL- But we Whites need you too, Lion. With all this antagonism between the races these days, we need Negroes who can relate to Whites and establish meaningful relationships with them.

This is just an example of excerpts Jerry Canning, professor of philosophy, is planning to employ in his presentation of a play he wrote, 'OZ REVISITED' which will be dramatized on April 24 at 8:00 p.m. in Waller Hall.

Of a sabbatical taken from January to May of 1971, Professor Canning says, 'I went into my den and wrote.' He spent five months trying to actualize ideas he had been developing in the 'last nine years I've been here.' His ideas originated when he came to Willamette and met a group of students who were on an Oz kick. They portrayed characters out of the well-known story, 'The Wizard of Oz,' and even labeled Professor Canning the 'cowardly lion.'

Dr. Canning has been at work finding characters for his play and choosing suitable passages to 'speak to' the audience. So far his cast consists of: Bob Nunn, Gigi Gandy, Djinn Higley, and Karen Reedy.

The scenes that Canning is tentatively planning to use were chosen for different reasons. The major importance though, lies in their messages. The play in its entirety deals with themes of but we are free and we don't want to admit it.

freedom and authenticity and commitment among others. The specific scenes concern the black/white question, women's lib, responsibility and choice, and freedom. Canning has three basic concepts he wants to get across in his presentation:

(1) We like to gripe about what we would do if we were free--

(2) We say that we just have feelings and can't help having them, but we choose to have them.

(3) There is a way out of these hassles (black/white, male/female, hip/nonhip, etc.) and it doesn't involve perfecting oneself--just accepting oneself.

Not only did Dr. Canning work on 'OZ REVISITED' on his sabbatical but he has spent a good deal of time in the past year working on his play. During the year, he has passed out copies to faculty members and asked for feedback--and did get quite a lot, much of which he's 'taking to heart.' He has already rewritten or reworded a good deal of his text.

The entire Willamette community and Salem citizens are invited.

The 'Together Troupe' played at last Saturday's free dance. Students from other schools who participated in the Democratic Mock Political Convention, as well as Willamette students attended the dance.

'Tom Jones' coming

"Tom Jones has been acclaimed and showered with prizes throughout the world. It is indeed juicy entertainment--wild, bawdy, and deliciously funny. Richardson has artfully preserved the original wit, humour and story-telling genius of Henry Fielding. The comedy is lavishly and meticulously developed, recreating Eighteenth Century rural England and aristocratic London Society from barn and stag hunt to chandeliered ballrooms in the strand and hangman's gallows at Newgate. Albert Finney, Susan York, and Hugh Griffith add spice to an already great film. On all counts, "Tom Jones" is a brilliant cinematic achievement. Tickets for "Tom Jones" will be available at the door (Admission $1.00/person or Season Ticket). Showings in Waller Auditorium, 7:00 and 9:00, Tues., April 25th.

Delegates caucus, bicker, demonstrate, compromise

Mink and the wife of George McGovern.

Candidate for the U.S. Senate, Wayne Morse spoke Saturday morning. He urged delegates to become politically involved in this year's campaigns, criticizing those young people he termed "political walkouts".

On the war in Vietnam he stated, "We're getting into Asia unilaterally deeper and deeper, week by week". Morse also said, "We've got to take every single U. S. soldier out of Asia for all time to come. Asians will be governed by Asians, not by Welfare Power".

Morse went on to say of the Vietnam war, "We've been slaughtering American boys by supporting totalitarianism. One boy killed in Vietnam today is unjustifiable".

The thrust of presidential candidate Patsy Mink's speech was directed at the lack of accomplishments of the part of the Nixon administration. She stressed ending the war in Vietnam. Ms. Mink also criticized the economic system in this country saying it "obscures the real issues."

About her own programs, Ms. Mink was rather vague but said such things as, "Let us challenge Americans with a declaration of obligation", and that there is "no happiness without opportunity". Ms. Mink also went on to say, "What is wrong in this country is the belief that the individual counts".

Within the platform committee the delegates hammered out fairly conservative platform with liberals losing many of their proposals due to the fact that each state was represented by only one delegate. Two of the most controversial planks on the platform were those calling for a reduction in the oil depletion allowance (which failed to pass), and another resolution against busing (which was accepted by the delegates).

Saturday evening balloting began on Presidential candidates. McGovern led the balloting from the first but failed to capture a majority of delegate votes until the fourth ballot due to the solid strength of the George Wallace bloc. A last minute maneuver to throw Wallace votes to Muskie by some Wallace supporters failed to stop the McGovern nomination.

The southern states then walked out protesting the "the radical-liberal, pseudo-intellectual bias of the convention". As a result, the convention was unable to obtain the required number of votes for the nomination of the vice-president.

Sunday morning, a group of southern states met together and formed their own party with a separate platform, nominating George Wallace as their presidential candidate and Governor Dale Bumpers of Arkansas as their vice-presidential candidate.

Cathy Vertrees, chairman of the convention steering committee, said of the convention as a whole, "I have received some very good comments from people who learned a lot. For that reason it was a success".

Conference on Irish writers and the revolution planned

Opening speaker at a conference on Irish writers and the revolution, to be held at Oregon State University April 24-26, will be Giovanni Costigan, Irish-born University of Washington professor of history.

Costigan, author of 'A History of Modern Ireland,' will outline the history of the Irish revolution at a public lecture at 8 p.m. Monday, April 24, in the Home Economics Auditorium.

The conference will continue Tuesday and Wednesday in Memorial Union 105 with participants discussing ways in which important figures in 20th century literature reacted to the Irish revolt against English rule—a revolt still in today's news.

Irish literature specialists and their subjects will be Thomas Staley, University of Tulsa; James Joyce; Malcolm Brown, University of Washington; W.B. Yeats; Ann Saddlemyer, Victoria College, Toronto; The Abbey Theatre; Robert Hogan, University of Delaware; Sean O'Casey; and Darcy O'Brien, Pomona College; Frank O'Connor and Sean O'Faolain.

The Conference, under the direction of Dr. Willard Potts, is being sponsored by the OSU Department of English. According to Potts, while the sessions will focus primarily on an important aspect of English literature, they will also bear on the significant contemporary issue of political revolution and should be of particular interest to university students and high school and college teachers of literature and history.

There is no registration fee for the conference. Advance reservations should be made with Potts, however, by those wishing to attend a luncheon and dinner on Tuesday for participants.

The conference is receiving financial support through the University's Federal Land-Grant College funds for continuing educational services.

'Onion' festival slated

Tuesday, April 25, a group of artisans from Eugene will bring their talents and merriment to the Willamette campus, the University Center announced Monday. The group is called "Yesterday's Onion" and has been in existence for several years.

The "Onion" stemmed from a Community in Eugene which practices a "counter-culture" lifestyle and wishes to expose other areas to their interests and talents.

Their interests include crafts of all types from leather to beads, candles, and wood, poetry, music, graphic arts, and theatre. They will set themselves up in the Quad, weather permitting, and be the center of a pre-May Day festival for the Willamette Community.

Willamette artisans are invited to participate in any form they wish. Anyone interested can receive further information from Jim Cuno in Lausanne. It is hoped, the UC said, that this can develop into a campus wide festival providing stimuli for spontaneous excitement and expression.

Again, the Festival will be held in the Quad Tuesday, April 25, around a large and beautiful May Pole (no Polish connotations intended).

Two-bit flicks bringing quality feature films

by Jim Cuno

As Student Manager of the University Center, I am responsible for organizing many of the social functions sponsored by the Center. One of these functions is the annual Film Series (formally The Two Bit Flicks which has now been changed to The Four Bit Flicks due to the interest in more and better films.)

I have chosen the films for next year for two major reasons: educational value and artistic quality. There are four major films, three silent classics, and five films classified as adaptations of literature. All of the films are rented from various corporations across the country, especially for University showings.

The four major films are:
1. ANNE OF THE THOUSAND DAYS, starring Richard Burton and Genevieve Bujold. It is the story of the relationship of Anne Boleyn and King Henry VIII of England.
2. A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS, winner of six Academy Awards,

Students give recital

On Friday the 21st and Saturday the 22nd, the Willamette Dancers will present a widely varied program of student choreographed dances. The program begins at 8:15 p.m. and is free.

The dances are all student originals, created by students of Professor Ramona Searle's dance composition class. 'The dances range from movement for movement's sake to jazz dancing to pieces with special meanings for the choreographer, and hopefully the audience,' said Prof. Searle. 'Musically, they range from classical to very modern.'

Of special note, are the dances choreographed by Larry Lockwood, Dean Buhler, and Steve France. Larry is a junior, who has been in other dance presentations. This is his first experience of choreography, Dean is a junior transfer student, and this is his first year of dance. His piece is unusual as it uses no musical accompaniment, Steve's work is very unique because the structure is random. He follows the approach of John Cage, and gives the effect of Dadism. Almost every dancer performs in four dances. The program consists of twenty pieces.

Mary Orcutt designed the varied lighting for the concert, with the help of Helen Ferguson.

Senators confirm nominations

A short Senate meeting focused on nomination to students to various groups Monday night.

Irene Plunkett and Karen Reedy were confirmed to Publications Board following President Guy Stephenson's use of the emergency clause for immediate confirmation. Mark Dudley, Avis Atkinson, and Jeff O'Banion were nominated for the Colonel Percy Willis Prize.

The Senate voted to urge retention of the office of Vice-President of Student Affairs. Stephenson commented on the meeting with members of the board of trustees last Thursday, and expressed the feeling that the meeting was superficial because important questions were not answered in enough detail.

Treasurer Brad King reported the financial statement had not been received from the business office yet. Next week, the Publications Board Budget will be brought before Senate.

Recruiting

Mr. George Mount, of Travelers Insurance Company will be recruiting on campus, April 28, 1972.

He is especially interested in recruiting students for Account Analysts, which is a combination of sales and underwriting.

For an appointment, contact the Office of Financial Aid and Placement.

Guarantee Mutual Life Insurance Company will be recruiting on campus on April 26, 1972.

They have several sales positions open.

Contact the Office of Financial Aid and Placement for an appointment.

Club presents Spanish play

"Retablo Jovial" a play by Alejandro Casona will be presented Tuesday, April 25 at 8 p.m. in the Cat Cavern by Willamette University's Spanish Club. Along with the play Mexican Mariachi music will also be performed.

Donations of 50¢ will be asked for and these will go to benefit farmworkers. Refreshments will be served. For further information call 581-2267.

All juniors who are interested in application for graduate school and graduate fellowship for 1973-74 are urged to attend a meeting with the External Fellowship Committee on Wednesday, April 19 at 4:00 p.m. in the Autzen Senate Chambers of the Putnam University Center.

ZPG walk set

The Salem Chapter of Zero Population Growth will sponsor a 'Walk for the Earth' on April 22 to climax Earth Week activities. Everyone interested is invited to assemble on the steps of the capitol building at 1 p.m. Saturday. The walk will proceed to the downtown part of Salem and back to the Student Center at Willamette University by 2:30 p.m. Participants are invited to bring their own signs appropriate to the occasion.

At its last meeting, the chapter elected the following officers: President, Lisa Saunders; Treasurer, Mary Simpson. The next meeting will be Thursday, April 27, at 7:30 p.m. in the living room of Doney Hall. Prospective members are invited to attend.

'Grass' report presented

Michael R. Sonnenreich, Executive Director of the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse, will present a report of the Commission's findings and current activities to the full Interim Committee on Alcohol and Drugs, 10 a.m., Room 20, State Capitol, Salem, Wednesday, April 26.

Accompanying Sonnenreich will be Richard J. Bonnie, Legal Director of the Commission staff.

The National Commission submitted its report on marijuana to the President and the Congress on March 22 of this year. The Commission is presently holding hearings throughout the United States on the broader issue of drug abuse. These findings, along with a review of the marijuana issue, will be included in a second report.

Senator E. D. 'Debbs' Potts, Chairman of the Legislative Interim Committee on Alcohol and Drugs, said Sonnenreich's report to the Committee would be open to the public.

Choir, band, Glee club to give concert

On Sunday evening, April 23, at 8:15 p.m. in Smith Auditorium all of Willamette's choral organizations will perform in a concert that will also mark the public debut of Willamette's newest musical ensemble, the Willamette Lab Band. Also featured will be an appearance by Prof. Julio Viamonte as baritone soloist, and the Willamette conducting debut of freshman music major Mike Beatty of Chugiak, Alaska.

The University Choir, directed by Prof. Walter Farrier, will present works by Benjamin Britton, Henry Purcell and Volckmar Leisring, and the Willamette Singers will present works ranging from the 16th century to the present, with a side trip to the lesser works of P.D.A. Bach.

Tickets are $1.00 and will be on sale at the door as well as at Stevens and Son and at the University Center Ticket Office.

Willamette Collegian SPORTS

Cats win two, lose to U of P

The Willamette baseball team lost a heartbreaker yesterday afternoon to the University of Portland, 9-8. The Bearcats rallied for five runs in the seventh and another two in the bottom of the ninth before having the door shut in their faces.

The game was not marked by any resounding hits, just numerous ones, as the Pilots collected 12 and Willamette 11.

The Bearcats were without the services of star second baseman Peter Fern who is suffering from a sore elbow and Coach John Lewis used his bench liberally.

Two usual non-starters were the offensive heroes for the home team as shortstop Bob Slocum went three for five with an RBI and Mike Bray, coming in the fifth, was two for three.

Tom Knutsen was the starting and losing pitcher for WU, while Junior Hewett won it for the Pilots.

Willamette had eight runs on 11 hits with three errors. U of P had nine runs on 12 hits with six errors.

On the road this past weekend, the Bearcats split double-headers with College of Idaho and Whitworth College, winning their first two NWC games.

Saturday in Caldwell senior Herman Manalili hurled Willamette to its first conference victory with a brilliant four-hit performance. The Coyote's lone run was unearned.

Sophomore Byron Brooks was the big gun for WU with three hits in three times at bat. Shortstop Mike Sausser and Manalili added two each as Willamette took the game 6-1.

Center fielder Cliff Bailey prevented a shutout in the second game with a double driving in two runs in the top of the seventh as WU lost 9-2. The pitching staff took it on the chin as C of I collected 11 hits to WU's 7.

In the snow at Spokane, freshman Gary Hopkins held Whitworth to two runs on four hits for six innings and then tired. He watched the game slip through his fingers in the bottom of the seventh, losing 3-2.

Willamette came back in the night cap, stifling a Whitworth rally in the bottom of the last inning for a 6-5 victory. Freshman Rob Jacobs picked up the win.

Brooks again led the Bearcat offensive. He was two for three including a double, scored three and drove in one.

This afternoon Willamette squares off against Lewis and Clark in Portland for a 1 o'clock double header.

Saturday they will be back in Bush Park for a double header with Pacific Lutheran University. Starting time is 1:00 p.m.

Kittens second in triple meet

Pacific University took the tri-team track meet held at Bush Stadium yesterday. In the meet which included Marylhurst and Willamette girls as well, Pacific took seven out of twelve available first places and had somebody placed within the top four in every event. Willamette took second, mainly because of its strong running, and Marylhurst brought up the rear. The scores were: Pacific, 53, Willamette, 35, and Marylhurst, 31.

Also on the 440 relay team were Nancy Mikkelsen, Linda Rhodes and Pheon Rivers. Willamette's 880-yard relay team took second with Cross, Mikkelsen, Rivers and Sue Bahnson.

This meet is a warm-up for the conference meet, which will be held a week from this Friday on the 28th, also at Bush.

Karen Peterson took a second in the Mile run, while Laura Rogers and Alice Claunch took

People are not just the cause of the "population problem." They're also the victims.

Traffic jams. Overcrowded schools. Inadequate housing. Increasing unemployment. Pollution. Almost any urban, social and environmental problem you can name is fast becoming a nightmare.

And in one way or another affects us all.

Of course, these problems would still exist even if population growth were zero, because population growth is not their basic cause. Therefore solving them must obviously become society's number one priority.

However, the pressures of an ever-increasing population tend to intensify our problems. And make them harder to solve.

(By the year 2000, Census Bureau projections estimate our population could grow close to 300 million. That's about 100 million more people to house, transport, educate, feed and clean up after!)

This intensifying of problems by sheer numbers of people can also occur in individual households. For just as "too many people" make society's problems more difficult to solve, the problems of raising a family are not made easier when there are "too many children."

Under the circumstances, we feel there's only one reason for a couple to have a child: because they really want it.

And are ready for it—emotionally, and not just financially.

There's also only one time to have that child: when it's wanted. When it can be a welcome addition rather than an accidental burden.

Unfortunately, research has consistently shown that not enough Americans (from every walk of life) are aware of the benefits of family planning.

Or even how to go about it.

That's what we're all about.

And frankly, we can use all the help we can get.

Especially from thoughtful people who understand how unplanned pregnancies can intensify the already severe problems society has still to solve.

People who will, at the very least, help others understand that the population problem not only has a cause. It has victims.

Just in case you want to join the Establishment someday...

Success can creep up on you. You get a wife. Then a few kids. A business. And there you'll be. Established. But it'll be a lot easier road if you've prepared for it early. Like creating a savings and investment program through life insurance while you're a student. It makes sense—if you think about it.

For one thing, premiums will never be lower for you. Also, you can guarantee your right to get additional life insurance—no matter health or occupation. It's a start on security and independence. If the budget is tight, don't worry... you can defer premiums until after you graduate and get a job with the Establishment.

Talk to me about the value of getting life insurance while you're in college. I have lots of other reasons that make sense. Even if you don't join the Establishment.
