VARSITY SQUAD WINS FIRST GAME

The Old Stars Played a Fine game Considering Want of Practice

In an Interesting Game With the Alumni the W. U. Boys Made a Score of 10 to 0

In an interesting game with the Alumni the W. U. boys made a score of 10 to 0.

The old stars played a fine game considering their want of practice.

The first game of the season on the Willamette gridiron was played last Friday afternoon, between the Alumni and the Varsity. The score 10 to 0 in favor of Varsity.

Representative Willis C. Hawley opened the game with a kick off for the Alumni of about 40 yards. The game, although somewhat slow, was one of interest to all. To see the old stars perform their stunts on the gridiron, and meet defeat by the coming sons of Willamette aroused the enthusiasm to a great height. The features of the game were Bishop's punting and line plunging, Rader's long run for a touchdown, several forward passes, trick plays, and the recovery of an onside kick with a run by Reeves for a touchdown. Booth did good work but was far out punted by Bishop.

The Varsity team was far outclassed for weight, but made good by quickness, speed and trick plays, which speaks well for their first week of training. It was on a trick play that Rader, after the ball had passed thru several hands, broke thru the Alumni line, passed Bishop and made the first touchdown of the season. The ruling by the official that an onside kick must go 20 yards lost the Varsity another touchdown. The new rules call for more headwork and speed on the part of the player, and thus a more exciting game. After the fellows learn the rules it will be a great sport for the spectator as well as the players.

Following is a short summary of the game:

Congressman Hawley kicked off for the Alumni 40 yards. The Varsity brought the ball back 10 yards. Rader went through the line for a small gain. McMechan sent through guard for little gain. Booth punted 35 yards to Bishop, who brought it back five yards and was downed. The Alumni was penalized five yards for off-side. Bishop punted 40 yards and Booth was downed almost in his tracks. Rader was sent through center, but made little gains. The Alumni line held and Booth punted the punt, the Varsity fumbled and the Alumni got the ball. Then the Alumni fumbled and the Varsity got off-side and was penalized five yards. Booth punted and Bishop ran in back 10 yards. Bishop carried the ball around right end for a gain of five yards. Blackwell stopped a big center rush and on the next down broke through the Alumni line. The Varsity held and the Alumni lost the ball. Luke Rader was sent through the line on a trick play, got away and ran from the center of the field for a touchdown. A try at goal failed and the score was 5 to 0 in favor of the Varsity. The Varsity then received the Alumni kick off, ran it back 10 yards and the first quarter was up.

After the 3 minute intermission the ball was put in motion on the Varsity 20-yard line and small advance was made by criss-cross plays. The Varsity then lost the ball on the failure of an on-side kick to go the requisite 20 yards. The Alumni tried a mass play around left end, fumbled the ball, but Bishop recovered it and in the next two down made a gain of 10 yards. Bellinger did some good work in stopping rushes, while Reeves captured a fumble from the Alumni. The Varsity tried a criss-cross, but the Alumni broke through the line and threw them back for a five-yard loss. Booth punted, Simpson fumbled and Lowe fell on the ball. On the next down the Alumni broke through the Varsity line and threw them back for five yards. A forward pass was successful and netted a gain of 15 yards. A triple play gained five yards. A forward pass of Rader to Reeves gained 15 yards. Booth punted to Bishop, who returned it five yards. Bishop punted 40 yards, the Varsity fumbled and the Alumni got the ball. On-side kick tried, but failed to go 20 yards. Varsity ball. Forward pass tried but no gain made. Varsity ball and end of half.

The second half opened by Blackwell booting the ball 60 yards to the Alumni. Varsity penalized for off-side. Bishop punted out of danger 40 yards and Booth brought it back 10 yards. Forward pass fumbled by Varsity and ball taken to center of field. Booth punted 30 yards and Bishop returned it five yards. The Alumni went through Varsity line for little gain. Bishop went through guards for five yards then punted 35 yards to Booth. The Varsity tried a forward pass, fumbled, but recovered the ball. Rader was sent through the left guards for a gain of five yards. Varsity tried on-side kick but it failed to go 20 yards and no gain was made. The Alumni then got the ball and Clark Belknap made a gain through center. A center rush was stopped by the Varsity. Bishop punted 45 yards and Booth ran it back 10 yards. Cummings made a run around right end for a gain of 10 yards. A trip around left end brought little gain. The Varsity fumbled and lost the ball. A series of downs closed the first quarter of the second half.

The ball was put in motion by the Alumni on their 20-yard line. Booth punted 20 yards and the Varsity recovered the ball. Cummings was then sent around the left end for little gain. A forward pass by the Varsity netted 15 yards. In a criss-cross the Varsity was thrown back for a loss of 10 yards. An on-side kick was then recovered by Reeves, who made a brilliant dash for a touchdown and succeeded in placing the ball over the line, ending the scoring of the game. During the remainder of the quarter the ball see-sawed on the field and was down near the Varsity side when the whistle blew.

The line-up of the teams was: Alumni—Center Turner, guards Boyer, Morgan, Massey, tackles Pollard, Nelson, ends Fisher and Simpson, quarter Bishop and Ford, half Long, Savage, Ford

MEDICS OPEN FINE SCHOOL

Dean Byrd and President Homan Give Talks to the Students

Bright Prospects Surround the College From the Beginning

Monday morning the medical department of Willamette University was officially opened by Dean W. H. Byrd and President Homan.

Never before in this history of the university has the year opened with brighter prospects. The old students are all back with a greater enthusiasm for their work and for the university than ever before. The incoming class is large and the best prepared one that has ever entered the institution. The splendid record made by the graduating classes of the last two years has pleased both the faculty and students giving additional encouragement to them in their chosen line of work.

Dean W. H. Byrd was the first speaker and made one of the best addresses ever delivered to any class. Every word of his talk was listened to with rapt attention by the assembled classes. The doctor reviewed the work and aims of the institution; spoke of the past, present and of the plans already under consideration for the strengthening of the courses in every possible way. He stated very clearly that any institution or individual, doctor or otherwise that considered improvement or advancement impossible or unnecessary a failure was the certain result.

Dr. Byrd spoke of the place of the small college and made a plea that the education medical and along every other line, be so adjusted that it be in reach of the great majority of the deserving youth of our land whether rich or poor. In closing, Dr. Byrd spoke feelingly and plainly of the kind of students that were wanted in the college, making an eloquent appeal to all for hard work, right example and clean, decent standards. This opening address made a strong impression on all hearing it.

President Homan stated that he was present on account of an urgent invitation by Dr. Byrd, and reviewed the standards of the different callings, telling how in many ways, the physician was the one most closely in touch with the home and home life, of the duty imposed upon him in guarding the welfare of the same.

President Homan spoke upon incidents of devotion shown by members of the medical fraternity to humanity, of the medical science shown in relation to the health in connection with the construction of the Panama canal, of the successful fight of medical men against the dread yellow fever.

Both speakers were warmly applauded at the termination of their addresses.

Y. W. C. A. ENTERTAINS AT CHESTNUT FARM

(Extract from a Freshman's letter.)

But the climax of all my good times came Saturday afternoon when the Y. W. C. A. invited us out to Chestnut Farm. We were sent such pretty invitations in rather heavy tan paper tied with a golden brown silk cord. They looked so autumny, if one may use that expression.

We started out about 2 o'clock. Chestnut Farm is on the outskirts of Salem beyond the end of the car-line so it was almost three when we arrived.

We were given little slips of paper on which were our names so we would have no trouble finding out each others name. When I first came I knew about a half dozen girls among the fifty or sixty girls there, but had only been there a little while 'till I knew just about everyone. I was never in such a sociable, informal crowd of girls. After becoming more or less acquainted we all went out on a big side porch to eat doughnuts tied on the ends of strings suspended from the ceiling. Every one found a doughnut to suit them and then the fun began. It sounds kinda' easy, perhaps, but the doughnuts kept swinging around and we all got to laughing so hard that some of us had quite a time with our doughnuts. The one who succeeded first was rewarded with a vase.

Then we went in the house and enjoyed a short program. The President of the Y. W. C. A. made a speech in which she wished our good times to be as endless as the rim of a pumpkin pie, and filled with spice and good things as it is, with no crust on top. Two of the Hall girls sang a duet which we enjoyed so much. Then for the pumpkin pie! We lined up for the dining room, marching to the tune of a very popular Willamette song. We were each given a quarter of a pumpkin pie, too. I never expect to eat any as good. Just before reaching the dining-room we found side tables with great glasses of milk and cream. But you ought to have seen the dining table. It looked just like Thanksgiving. Breat big dishes of apples that would rival Hood River's best, besides dishes and baskets of grapes and tomatoes. We all sat on the floor to eat our pie and drink our milk so you can imagine what an informal jolly time we had. We ate apples, grapes, and tomatoes, and carried away our hands full, still the table look as through it had hardly been touched.

We left soon after that, every one proclaiming they had had the time of their life.

LAW SCHOOL IS OPENED

Big Registration Marks the First Day at This Fine College

Will Be Two Women Who Take the Course During the Year

The law school of Willamette University opened Monday with a registration that is nearly 50 strong, and Dean Charles L. McNary is more than ever pleased with the outlook. It is not often that school may have the prestige and the advantage that are offered the Willamette college of law and this fact is becoming more and more appreciated throughout the Northwest.

The prediction is freely made that another half-dozen years will see this in the front rank of all law colleges on the Pacific coast and still growing.

In addition to the better registration, there are two women in the classes this year, one a freshman and the other one will graduate and take the bar examination. There is an exceptionally fine student body in the law school and it is one that will evidently do big things in the profession.

MARTICULATION ADDRESS

The School Year Formerly Begun by an Address on Tuesday Evening.

On Tuesday evening at the Methodist Episcopal church the Rev. Nicholson delivered the Matriculation Address for Willamette University. Rev. Nicholson is Secretary of the Board of Education of the Methodist church, a man well up along educational lines and amply able to speak on the subject of "Twentieth Century Education." In his discourse he set forth the marvelous growth along educational lines during the last fifty years, and that the twentieth century man, in order to succeed in any sense of the word, must be an educated man.

Fine Talk in Chapel.

On Wednesday morning Dr. Nicholson gave a strong talk to the students assembled in chapel. He laid stress on that phase of education that has to do with the building up of the spiritual instincts in man—urging the necessity of the cultivation of such instincts, lest they atrophy.

Willamette will meet Hill's Military Academy this week. Probably on Saturday afternoon. They have the strongest scholastic team in Portland. The prospects are good for an interesting game.

Minton, Treasurer of Student Body (in Chapel)—"I want to see everybody who has a dollar and a half.

Dr. Todd (aside)—"I want to see people with more than a dollar and a half.

Alumni, students and friends are invited to contribute at any time. If you take interest in Willamette let us know it through its paper. Address all communications to the Editor-in-Chief.

It will be our policy for the year to make the paper literary as well as newsy. We believe that in a school of this size the literary life should have some way of expressing itself outside the class room. Since the Collegian is the only regular publication, the Collegian should be that medium. What we print in this line will be only of the best, that judged worthy of publication by the head of the English Department. We wish to encourage especially the writing of stories and articles regarding the early history of Willamette University. We believe this to be a wonderfully fruitful source, and well worth the time and talent of any one so inclined. On this subject more will be said later if plans materialize.

All organizations, departments and so forth that have dates they want brought before the students, are asked to hand them over to the "Calendar Reporter", who will see that they are given a proper place in the weekly calendar. This is for your convenience, and we hope it will help all the departments of the university to come in closer touch with one another, and perhaps avoid conflicting dates.

Though the first game of the season wasn't as exciting a one as might have been if it had been an intercollegiate contest, yet a fine spirit was shown by all. We hope the old students enjoyed coming back as much as we of the "present generation" enjoyed having them here to remind us of the good old days.

The editor would be more than pleased to hear any criticism of the paper you may have. This is not a "one man" paper and much less is it a "one woman" paper. It is a university paper.

THE BOOSTER.

To the New and Old Student of this University:

In this day and age of the world, to be in the forefront and count for something outside of being a mere upher, he must get in and boost. This does not mean "boost" in a half-hearted manner, but "Boost" spelled with capitals all the way through.

The Booster is the man who wins. You cannot knock and get all that is coming to you unless it is sole-leather. The business men of the city are boosting, the students of Willamette are boosting; there is a boost spirit everywhere; are you a booster? Consider yourself well, "Am I a booster?" Or "Do I Knock by dallying, or lack of interest?"

It means more to this student-body, more to this university, more to you, student, than you think to be a booster. Say good words, based on truth, and good words will come back to you. Willamette needs more boosters. Your attitude toward the school will do more to bring students here, and develop spirit, than all Dr. Homan or Dr. Sweetland can do. You, student, are the factor to be reckoned with in this instance.

Willamette is coming again into her own. Though the past few years have been marked by depression, now the tide has turned and the old school has a prospect never brighter in its history and far exceeding the dream of the patient, God-fearing men who founded it some 67 years ago. There is something to boost for.

The hammer has been heard here in the past; long live the hammer, may it never be heard again.

We want you to be loyal to every institution on the campus, to be loyal to your play, to be loyal to your work.

"Boost, and the world boots with you;
 Knock, and the Knocker come back to you."
 That is not poetry, it is truth.

A UTAH CANYON. (Jessie Young)

One evening, while camping near the gorge of a Utah river I determined to see the sunset; so, after a leap across a small chasm and a mad scramble up the sides of a high flume with the loosened stones rattling down behind, I found myself breathless, seated on top of this much desired vantage-point, whence, with vision unobstructed by trees and shrubs, I could watch the roseate hues of the sky ever becoming darker. For a few minutes I sat there motionless, spell-bound by the marvelous beauty and grandeur of the scene. On either side loomed the mountains, huge walls of rock, carved out in bold relief against an azure background. Rugged and steep they were, showing lines of massive strength. I shuddered, for that very afternoon I had climbed yonder along a tortuous path scarcely wide enough for a safe footing, with the knowledge that a single mistep would plunge me over the brink of a steep precipice. All this I had done in order to stand beside a rushing, whirling, struggling torrent of water after it had made a sheer fall of one hundred sixty feet. The deafening roar still sounded in my ears. Even now, from the summit crowned with ancient pines, I traced the stream, a silvery thread gleaming in the rays of the fast declining sun. Already the lengthening shadows had crept over the lower canyon, and the wind was rushing mournfully through the trees. Looking down I could see the gleam or our camp-fire. Beyond was the river gurgling over its rapids. Overhead an eagle suddenly screeched, and circled down upon a crag sharply defined in the evening sky, now tinged a delicate pink.

The sun, a flaming red orb, had sunk from sight several minutes before. As it disappeared it had brought into strong outline a dark gully seaming the opposite mountain. There, to a large cave it is said, came a father of the Mormon faith, and there, divinely inspired, he fasted and wrote one of the greatest books in Mormon literature. By this time dusk had thrown a mantle of purplish gray over all. The form of the mountains was just dimly visible. The stars were silently blossoming forth in the infinite meadows of heaven. The crescent moon seemed to rest on a cliff projecting from the horizon before she should start out on her journey across the heavens. The wind whistled shrilly and I drew my cloak closer. Again I glanced upon the flickering light of the camp-fire, around which dark figures were moving. Then I heard a familiar voice calling who-hoo, who-hoo. Giving a shout in answer, I jumped from the flume and sauntered slowly toward the group of tents.

When the Chinook Comes. (Berry Prescott Reigelman.)

The Chinook sweeps across the vales
 And breathes the slumbering Nature tales,
 And calls to things beneath the snow,
 While whisp'ring, "Wake, love, live, and grow."

The snow bank vanished; violets grew.
 Where softly Chinook wandering blew;
 The hills again burst into bloom,
 And "Life's" sweet chorus rang in tune.

And, one by one, the blossoms came
 To gladden all our hearts again;
 The song birds warble sweet and clear;—
 "When Chinook comes, then Spring is near."

The Winter that besets my heart,
 If thou but smile, will soon depart;
 The soft breath of the love, my dear,
 Will make the blossoms sweet appear.

Y. M. C. A.

The initial meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association was held in the Websterian Hall Sunday afternoon. About sixty men attended the meeting.

The devotions were opened by a live song service lead by Alfred Schramm. The men gave themselves over to the meeting and it resounded with the enthusiasm of those who are here for a purpose. After prayer by President of the association, Guy Wood, Mr. Ross McIntyre rendered a solo which stirred the fellows and opened the meeting for "Echos" of the Summer.

"Echos" were heard from the whole northwest. Columbia Beach spirit was reflected by the members who attended the Conference last spring. The Hay fields resound the ring of those who were tried and true. Experiences both varied and thrilling were given. The high ideals of many had stood the test and they are in the work to make this year the banner year of the association.

The new fellows entered into the meeting and associated themselves with the best that can be had in Old Willamette.

THAT "STAG SOCIAL"

Last Saturday was held the first event to be given by the Social Committee of the Y. M. C. A. The older students who have attended the "Stags" for ages declared this as among the best. Many of the new men said, "They never did this way the other side of the mountains."

Games were played which appeal to the joy strings in a college man's heart. The new game of "Horse Race" attracted the attention and interest of all. Say, you should have seen the speed that is possible on a slick Gym floor, when one man is a Steed for another man of his size.

Other events used dumbbells, and even the broom came into service as a weapon for boxing. Refreshments consisted of coffee, doughnuts and apples, all you wanted, too.

Brief speeches by Dr. Sweetland on our prospects in Football and Basket-ball, by Captain McMechan, Oakes, and by President Homan, were given. These talks were brief but spicy.

For a good jolly time there is nothing better than our annual "Stag."

INTERCOLLEGIATE

Five New Women for College Faculty.

O. A. C. Adds Instructors in Modern Languages, Mathematics, and Commerce.

Corvallis, Ore., Sept. 22—Five young women have just been appointed to the faculty of the Oregon Agricultural College, in the departments of mathematics, commerce, and modern languages, in library work and the Y. W. C. A.

Miss Grace Campbell, a graduate of the Iowa State College in '05, has been elected instructor in mathematics. Since receiving her collegiate degree Miss Campbell has taken much advanced work in mathematics, and has had practical experience as instructor in that branch at the Albany, Oregon, High School.

An instructorship in modern languages was awarded to Miss Edith Kuney, a graduate of Willamette University, who has been teaching successfully in the Grants Pass high school.

Mrs. Ida R. Moore of Corvallis, the new assistant in the department of commerce, has had excellent preparation both in business colleges and in commercial work.

Miss Bertha E. Herse, a graduate of O. A. C. last June, whose home is in Corvallis, is to be library assistant for the year.

The Young Women's Christian Association of the college has called to its general secretaryship Miss Annabelle Lee, a graduate of the University of Michigan. Miss Lee won special honors in her senior year, and has since been instructor in the botany department both at her alma mater and subsequently at the Michigan Agricultural College. At both institutions she was actively connected with the work of the Y. W. C. A.

LOUSANNE HALL

A Few Timely Words of Warning and Instruction for the Freshmen.

Lausanne Hall, Oct. 4, 1910.—The old inmates of this house are now, more than at any other time, feeling the importance of the advent of their debutantes into the literary society of the class-room. Particularly do the Sophomores realize the truth of the statement that nothing will assist a girl who first makes her formal appearance on the scenes of Willamette University so much as contact with people who are somewhat older than herself, and who have gained a broader perspective. Therefore it seems desirable that the youthful Freshmen should become early acquainted with the experienced members of society. Then will they be able to lose their characteristic timidity and gain the poise so becoming to a Senior. The debutantes have been duly impressed with the fact that their clothes are of primal significance. All wearing apparel must be green; otherwise there is danger of social ostracism. For the sake of conventionality it is necessary that this color scheme be observed.

Again, everything that can be done is done to facilitate a feeling of thorough familiarity with the ground on which the newcomers have just arrived. Daily examples of right living are set before them. Florence Dunlop and Ada Mark work at painting, wall-painting, not the other kind. Others, of the most exclusive clique, make a regular business of study. One couple sings, while there are those who store away knowledge, after the manner of the cricket and the ant in "Aesop's Fables."

However, all joined last Friday night in attending the Student Body Reception and in making the acquaintance of the zealous Willamette. Of a certainty, school spirit has been implanted in old Lausanne.

RECEPTION GIVEN FOOT-BALL TEAMS

Alumni and Old Students Gather From All Over the Northwest to Witness the Game and Prove Their Loyalty to Willamette.

On Friday evening, at the Society Halls the student body tendered a reception to the contesting teams of Friday's game, in which the Willamette squad played a team composed entirely of Alumni. In a program presided over by Miss Theodora Bennet speeches were given by several Alumni, Coach Sweetland and the captains of the athletic teams.

TEACHING SCIENCE AT O. A. C.

Zoology and Entomology Departments Have New Men, New Quarters, and New Equipment.

Corvallis, Ore., Sept. 25.—Today registration at the Oregon Agricultural College began with a large enrollment, both of new students and of those returned to complete courses. Those entering classes in the zoology and entomology department found the instruction and laboratory work in new quarters in the recently completed main agricultural hall, with a large amount of new scientific apparatus, as well as a number of new men on the instructional staff.

PHILODORIAN SOCIETY

On last Thursday evening, the Philodorian Society met and held its first regular meeting for the Academic year. The meeting was well attended, there being about twenty men present, most of whom were old members of the society. The greater portion of the evening was taken up with the election of officers, but before adjournment, the society spent 15 minutes in a very spirited and interesting parliament practice. During this interim, the society was presided over by Guy Woods who showed a very intimate knowledge, as did many others present, of the rules of order governing the actions of the society.

The result of the election of officers was as follows:
President—Harry McCain.
Vice President—Neal Zimmerman.
Secretary—Guy Woods.
Ass't. Secy.—Robert Shepard.
Treasurer—John McNeese.
Censor—George Wilson.
Sergeant at Arms—Perry Reigelman.

Counsel at Law—W. L. Smith. If the enthusiasm manifested in this the first meeting of the society is any criterion of what the interest in the work to come, will be, the society has a very prosperous year before it.

IMPORTANT.

On account of conflicting events the Joint Reception given by the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. has been postponed from October seventh to October fourteenth, one week later. Watch next week's Collegian for further notice regarding definite time and place. Make no other dates for Friday evening, October 14. This is the best opportunity of the year to become acquainted with your fellow students.

Y. W. C. A.

The first meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held in the Philodorian Halls, Sunday at 3:15 p. m. Miss Haskin, President conducted an informal service, welcoming the girls new and old to the association. Miss Graham gave a helpful talk on the benefits derived therefrom and Miss Grace Smith rendered a vocal solo. There was a good turnout and a bright prospect for the new year. An urgent invitation to attend is extended to all girls of the university.
