

John L. Knight will be introduced tomorrow as battalion chaplain for the Willamette V-12 men.

Knight To Be Chaplain for Navy Group

Prof. John L. Knight, campus religious counselor, will be presented as battalion chaplain to navy men at tomorrow's muster by Lt. George E. Bliss, commanding officer. Knight will continue his work as instructor in American religious history, Bible history and as counselor for civilian students.

As counselor, he will confer on religious, academic and personal problems with both civilian and navy students. Office hours, effective immediately, will be 9 to 11 a. m. and 1 to 5 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and 1 to 5 p. m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Completion of his new office in Eaton room 1 is expected before the end of next week.

"If Anything Goes Wrong—"

Knight emphasized that several civilian students have been coming to him for conferences and that they are still welcome to do so. During the semester he has been here few navy men have had conferences with him, he said, but he hopes it will be changed when he assumes his new work. He stated that he hoped the navy motto, "If anything goes wrong, tell it to the chaplain" would be carried out.

In Seaside and The Dalles

In addition to his teaching and counseling, Knight serves as Willamette's representatives in the pulpits of Oregon churches. He has spoken in Seaside and The Dalles and will speak soon in Astoria and Albany churches.

The new chaplain-counselor received his AB degree from Drew university, STB and AM degrees from Boston university and MA from Vanderbilt university. Before coming to Willamette he served as pastor of the Lakeshore Park Methodist church in Lynn, Mass., and of the Methodist church at Bellevue, Tenn.

Frosh Crimes Don't Pay

The freshmen asked for it, so the Vigilantes are going to dish it out, according to the warning issued by Vigilante chief, Bill Hanauska. Just before vacation, the frosh took advantage of the cover of night to deface the walks with '47 signs and decorate the senior prerogative (bench). The fact that they also hung a red light near Waller hall, that den of iniquity and home of drama and journalism seals their doom.

All frosh are "requested" by the Vigilantes to remain after chapel Tuesday to be sentenced for their crimes. Punishment will not be much worse than helping Dr. Robert E. Lantz move all his office furniture and equipment to his new office and repainting the paths and pre-negotiate with toothbrushes.

Fusser's Guide Due Monday

The little cardinal and gold handbook coming off the press today to be distributed Monday, is the 1944 edition of the Fusser's Guide, edited by Betty Randall, sophomore Delta Phi. The Willamette university seal is featured on the cover of the 4 1/2 by 6 inch student directory. The color scheme and the use of the seal makes the Fusser's Guide a twin to the Cardinal and Gold freshman handbook edited this summer by Sybil Spears.

The student directory lists names, Salem addresses, phone numbers, sorority or fraternity affiliation and home addresses of all WU students. Faculty names, addresses and phone numbers are also included in the Guide as are the new phone numbers assigned to university offices connected with the switchboard being installed in Eaton hall.

Assisting Miss Randall were members of the freshman journalism class who did the copy work and proof reading. Murco Ringnald, professor of journalism, advised the staff.

A summer edition of the Guide was printed in the July 23 edition of the Collegian and edited by Ruth Ransom.

Betty Randall, sophomore Delta Phi, is the editor of the Fusser's Guide, slated for distribution Monday.

February Grads Will Have Individual Comprehensives

Dates of orals and comprehensives for seniors planning to graduate this semester will be arranged between individual students and their major professors. Dean Chester F. Luther, announced this week. It has been customary to hold senior comprehensives all on the same day, but it is being discontinued this term due to the small number who plan to graduate.

No deadline has been set for the comprehensives but they should be held not later than a month before graduation, Luther said. Students also must arrange with major professors for selection of the other two professors who will make up the committee for their orals. Reports of the examinations will be made to the registrar's office by the committee members.

Students who have indicated that they wish to graduate this term are Gladys Crawford, Earlene Gleason, Margaret Ewing, Freda Bucurunch, Sybil Spears, Pat Tracy, Pat Byrd and John Beeble.

Faculty members will meet soon to set the date of the spring comprehensive examinations in the science, social science and liberal arts courses. Individual dates for orals which follow them will be set later following conferences between students and their major professors.

English majors met this week with Dr. Helen Pearce, head of the English department, to discuss the exams. Seniors who will take the tests in the spring are Lucille Barnhart, Mary Jean Huston, Willard Buckner, Jan Johnson, Jacqueline Judd, Mary Lou Moore, Mary Anne Owen, Bettliellen Payne, Margaret Pemberton and Marjorie Sipes.

War Movies On Tuesday

"Prelude to War" is the topic of the war movies prepared by the army and presented by the Salem Civic Council in Waller hall Tuesday at 7:00 o'clock. The movies are authentic pictures depicting the battle of Britain and Russia including the diplomatic background of the countries, the evacuation of Dunkirk, and the fighting of the Dutch and Belgians.

Dr. R. I. Lovell, Willamette university history professor, urges all to see the pictures for the historic as well as the informative value that may be obtained.

Fireside Dances on Wednesdays Women's Houses To Be Hostesses to Navy

Things are brewing along the social line to the effect that the V-12 men and the coeds on the campus will be getting together for informal firesides and dancing on irregular Wednesday evenings, according to Marge Maulding, student body social chairman. This plan, long under discussion by the student council, was made possible when the navy men were given Wednesday nights off.

Although plans are only in the preliminary stages, Miss Maulding has stated that exchange firesides between the six navy platoons and the six women's living groups will be a regular mid-week feature.

It is planned to have the women's houses rotate their invitations between the platoons each time a fireside is scheduled. A glance at the semester's remaining social calendar found only three more Wednesdays open—January 19 and 26 and February 16.

Plans call for an hour and a half of dancing at the women's

University Gets New Switchboard For Phone Calls

Call 9265 During Daytime; Student Body Phone 3088

9265 is the new phone number for Willamette university and will go into effect this weekend or the beginning of next week, Robert Fenix, business secretary said yesterday. A switchboard with three trunk lines is being installed in the remodeled office rooms (Eaton 1) to relieve the congested one-trunk system which formerly was in operation for Eaton's business offices.

Royal Hart Chairman Of '44 Glee

Royal Hart was picked by the freshman class yesterday as manager for the 1944 Freshman Glee, set for February 12. Hart is a civilian from Jefferson high school in Portland, where he played on the basketball team for three years. When he came to Willamette this fall, he intended to major in music, but has changed his plans so that he can enter the V-12 program next term.

The frosh also set February 5 at 4 p. m. as the deadline for Glee songs to be completed. At that time three copies of the music and the words, as they will be presented the night of Glee, must be in the hands of the Glee committee.

Hart will appoint committees for decorations, programs and stage construction early next week. On Monday, the general Glee committee, headed by John Stockman, will meet to decide upon the rules for the '44 Glee performance and to pick the judges for the contest.

To acquaint students with Glee, arrangements are being made to have Lestle J. Sparks show his movies of Glee's of other years in the chapel period Wednesday.

New Manager In Bookstore

Mrs. Delsia Larson is the new manager of the Willamette bookstore, replacing Mrs. Helen Savage, who was absent from the store with flu just before the holidays and resigned her position there immediately after vacation.

Mrs. Larson came to Salem recently from Geneva, Illinois, and began her stay here by starting to work in the bookstore this week. She is assisted by Doris Holmes and Ruth Ransom, seniors from Alpha Psi hall.

Grade Reports Due January 19

Five weeks grade reports must be turned into the dean's office by January 19, according to Dean Chester F. Luther. The semester will end February 26 and the new term will begin March 4.

The 9265 number will get Eaton hall, the gym, the naval ad building and the USS Lausanne any time from eight to five during the day. The music and science halls, long without telephone connections, will also be reached by the switchboard system.

After 5:00 p. m. on week days and after 12 on Saturdays 9265 will be the number for the naval ad building; 9266, the USS Lausanne; and 9267, Pres. G. Herbert Smith's office and the gymnasium. The music and science halls cannot be reached after five.

3088 Unchanged

The student body office, the speech office and the Collegian, now on the 3088 trunk, will remain on that trunk and will not be a part of the switchboard system. At present the phone in the office of Dr. Robert E. Lantz is available for the use of the student body until 4:00 p. m. For student use after these hours, the new pay telephone, to be installed under the front steps of Waller hall, may be used.

Student Help

The switchboard, to be operated by students, will be in the reception room of the new office suite, in which Prof. John L. Knight will have a conference room and Fenix will have additional business space. Faculty mail boxes will also be placed in the newly remodeled room. The room will be open from 8 till 5 for the students' convenience, whereas Fenix's office is open to students only from 9 till 4, due to the press of work there.

Remodeling Eaton 1 for offices necessitated several changes in class rooms. The extra-curricular activities class now meets in the northwest history room of the library, the third period German class meets in Collins 115 and the sixth period Journalism class meets in Eaton 2. The psychiatry and French classes have been moved to Eaton 32.

Delta Phis Liven Chapel

By LeRoy Hale

There'll be a hot time in the old hall today!

The warm reception will be the work of the Delta Phi sorority, whose reputation for good chapel dates way back to last year's gigantic production which they tell us was responsible for several repairs in Waller hall. (It brought down the house!)

If the show is good, and we assume it will occupy a hit position in the chapel parade, it will be the fault of Jane Findley. Miss Findley and her charming associates will not reveal just what they have in mind, but Winchell reports it will have a night club theme.

A week from Friday, chapel will be turned over to the Fourth War Loan committee, who will present their second "Date With a Bond" show, inaugurating the new war loan drive. Jean Rowland and her committees are in charge.

It's Coming Back

The old Willamette spirit, which seemed to have become obsolete at the beginning of this semester, is now beginning to give signs of revival. Numerous plans and changes instituted recently by the "Willamette Big Three"—navy, student body and faculty—seem to be transfusing some fresh blood into the hardened arteries of the oldest campus on the Pacific coast.

Not only has the navy come forth with the Wednesday night leave from 7 to 10 for the Willamette sailors, with the purpose of cementing friendly relations between the navy and civilians but, at present, the Willamette student body is holding its breath (and pulling its punches) at the possibility that the gym may be available for student dances.

Prof. John L. Knight, who is to be battalion chaplain for the navy men, has completed a poll showing that over one-half of the student body is active in some sort of religious organization on or off the campus, which evidence is leading to the creation of a campus inter-faith council.

In addition, a student advisory committee has been recently organized to plan chapel programs, and as a group includes LeRoy Hale, Puck Phillips and Hollis Huston.

Willamette's president, G. Herbert Smith, is giving his Thursday afternoons to conferences with students over whatever problems they wish to discuss with him.

As a final topping off, plans for Freshman Glee are now actively under way as arranged by the freshman class of 1944. Not long ago it was doubted by students, navy and faculty alike that a Glee would be possible this year, but due greatly to the efforts of older student body members who remember the fun that always accompanied it, Freshman Glee is definitely on the Willamette calendar for '44.—M. O.

Byrd Culls at Eventide

By Pat

For the past few weeks I have been offering you—my vast reading public—booklets and unsolicited advice for making your life happier here at Willamette. Now I have one small request to make:—I want a husband. The one requirement I must insist on is that the last name begin with a letter from L to Z. Now that isn't asking much, is it? After all, look what you're getting—a talented, charming, witty, intelligent, beautiful, cultured young lady.

What brings about this request? A number 384 to be exact,—my chapel seat. Yes, kiddies, my soaring spirit is chained and my frail wings fettered. Three times a week I am one of those unfortunate seniors who, because her name begins with a letter at the beginning of the alphabet, must attend these sessions for the 4th year. Ah, well—soon I shall be grown up, a member of the fraternity of educated people and then I can be free as a bird (no pun intended) or the WU faculty in my attendance.

However, there are some good points about chapel attendance which I have learned in my four years of chapels and I shall pass them on to you as another contribution to your good life here. First, if you are the studious type either from choice or necessity, chapel time affords a wonderful study period—anyone who belongs to the modern generation which learned to study with the radio going should have no difficulty studying with a vocal or instrumental accompaniment.

If you're the social type, then the social season has begun for you. Many is the romance I have seen blossom in chapel. The only reason I have to advertise for a husband is that for four unfortunate years some evil little sprite has seen to it that my chapel seat is located in the center of a large group of females.

The third possibility for the use of chapel periods is recreation; a little light reading, a gay chat with your neighbor, or wood carving, or whatever your favorite indoor hobby may be. So you see, kiddies, compulsory chapel isn't so bad—I've almost convinced myself that I didn't need to change my name. Then of course, almost nothing can equal the joyous surprise when once every three months a really good program is presented. My!—isn't chapel fun?

I've fairly made myself drool to attend—there's only one drawback, seat 384 is in the back row and I fear that the cold gales that sweep up and down the row will snuff out my genius . . . wouldn't that be terrible? Candidates for my hand may line up at the center door of chapel and file slowly past seat 384. The decision of the judge is final and none can be returned.

Introducing . . .

Mallet Pounding Away

The spotlight revolved around the campus over the Christmas holidays, but things looked kind of dull with no one around, so it finally ambled over to Waller and came to rest on the piano. That gave it an idea, so the minute Dick Mallet hit the campus after vacation, it nailed him quicker than a pink-eyed rabbit and here's the story.

Dick's mother and dad noticed that he had sort of a knack with the piano and when he banged around on it in his younger days, so when he was about ten, they had him start taking lessons from a teacher in Portland. This suited Dick okay—he liked to play, anyway, and he kept on taking through high school.

Classical music was all right for the first couple of years, but when he was about 12, the jive he'd been keeping deep down inside began to seep out and he started playing boogie. Of course, his mother wasn't aware of the slant things were taking but Dick kept at it and by the time he was 15, he'd organized his first orchestra. It was an eight piece swing band, and Dick and the boys had a lot of fun playing for high school and college dances.

Dick would rather play swing than classical music, but says once in awhile when he gets inspired, he gives out with a little classical. He composes some of his own pieces, and has played several of them in concerts he has given in Gresham and Portland. Most of his own compositions are semi-classical, and he almost never bothers to write them out on paper. Dick says it's too much work, but if he ever dreams up anything he thinks is really good, he will probably try to publish it. He does all his own arranging of the swing he plays and those arrangements show. It would take a good man to top the one he has of "Nightingale."

No one taught Dick to play swing—that's just something he picked up for himself, and it's one of the best ideas he ever had. His boogie has been vibrating in Waller hall off and on from way back when his brother, Lin, was a freshman at WU. In fact, nowhere that Dick and a piano mix is it long without a few jive tunes. Even the organ that he played in church came in for its share. One day when he was knocking himself out with a little boogie on the church organ, the minister walked in. Dick says that minister has been holding his breath in church ever since.

You can play it around here anytime you want to, though, Dick. We'll be holding our breath, too, but only because what you and a piano can do to us leaves us kind of breathless.

Collegian Survey: James Leads Bands In Willamette Opinion

Harry James and his Music Makers swung into first place as favorites on the Willamette campus, both with boys in blue and the girls in lace.

The James outfit copped the award by a neat margin in both male and female divisions of the Collegian's latest popular music poll. Approximately 150 coeds and 150 Navy men were quizzed as to their favorite dance band, girl vocalist and male vocalist.

The Groaner (Bing Crosby to Sinatra fans) had no trouble in overthrowing every other contender in his field by over twice as many votes in the Navy men's choice. Up and coming Dick Haymes swooned Frank Sinatra right out of first place in the women's division, but "The Voice" was right on his heels by a mere three votes. Crosby made a close third. Sinatra did get second fiddle in the sailor's poll, followed immediately by Glenn Miller's vocalist, Ray Eberle, now with the armed forces.

There was no doubt in either the ladies' or the gentlemen's minds concerning the "most popular" girl singer. Dinah Shore just doesn't seem to give anyone else a chance. Lena Horne made second with the sailors, and Ginny Simms caught the second-place favor of the young ladies.

In the other name band selections, Tommy Dorsey and Glenn Miller were second and third, respectively, in the women's favor, while Miller and Kay Kyser took those positions in the opposite survey.

If Fred Waring, Andre Kostelanetz or David Rose had been in the running, they would probably have given Mr. Grable a merry race for many coeds and seamen spontaneously gave their names as their favorite orchestras. However, in this particular poll, they were limited to dance bands.

Pat Lamb insisted on inserting local boy Mike Carolan, whom she said was her "favorite male vocalist." (Ours too—but we've got to give the other swoon crooners their day!)

Here's a complete list of how the poll came out . . . and don't argue with us! (Or will you?)

Alums and Former Students Now in Service Visit Campus

Christmas leaves and furloughs found many service men back on the campus visiting their friends. On furlough from College of Pacific at Stockton, Calif., was Pfc. LeRoy Long of the United States marine corps. Long, while at Willamette, was active in forensics and a member of the class of '44. Upon completing the course at Pacific, he expects to report at Paris Island.

Many were home from the University of Oregon medical school. Kent Markge is now a private in the medical corps, having just completed his first year of med school. Arthur Rathky, also attending med school, graduated from Willamette in 1942 where he was affiliated with Kappa Gamma Rho fraternity. Another medical student, Claude Barrick of Jefferson Military academy in Philadelphia, is a junior in medical school and in the army reserve. He graduated from Willamette in '42. He was to report back back January 7.

Ensign Wendell Johnson passed through while on leave after graduation from midshipman school at Northwestern university. He graduated from Willamette in 1943. He will leave next week for sub-chaser school at Miami, Florida. Also a graduate in the same class was Ensign Oral Davidson who will report to his new station January 5. He was a member of Sigma Tau while on the campus and completed work for his degree this summer.

Ensign Ralph Martin, upon completion of work at Oregon State college, was sent to Annapolis to a short course school. He attended Willamette from 1939-41. He now reports to Pittsburgh for further engineering training. From the naval air corps Ensign Arnold Hardman and Mrs. Hardman (formerly Margaret Siegmund class of '43) were in Salem after being stationed at Lake City, Florida. Ensign Hardman graduated from Willamette in '42, where he was affiliated with Sigma Tau. He is now in San Diego awaiting further orders.

Dix Moser, former Collegian editor at Willamette, was on the campus Monday and on his way to the Harvard Naval Supply school in Boston for his officer's training. Moser has been stationed at San Point since completing his V-12 requirements at Willamette in November.

Dean Olive M. Dahl will be hostess at the first Faculty Fireside at her home Sunday afternoon.

First Faculty Fireside Set

The home of Dean Olive M. Dahl will be the scene of the first Faculty Fireside Sunday afternoon between four and six o'clock with Prof. and Mrs. J. L. Knight as the first faculty guests.

Those students who plan to attend are Bettliell Payne, Margaret Forsythe, Peggy Herd, Janet Halik, Dorothy Toomey, Marjorie Duckwall, Iola DeSart, Lucille Randall, Richard Wicks, Jack Glaspe, Verne Scott, Horace Coulter, Frank Bennett, Chuck Strong, Gordon Myers and John Beeble.

The informal gatherings are open to any student on the campus but each person must contact personally or by note Margaret Forsythe, Bettliell Payne or Ina Monroe to sign up for the Sunday which will be most convenient for him to attend a fireside.

Geist to Begin Rehearsals For Production of 'Messiah'

Details are being completed for the presentation of Handel's "The Messiah" on Sunday, February 20, by a Salem Civic Chorus of 300 voices. The university mixed chorus of 100 as the center combined with the Salem high school chorus, Salem church choirs, and singers who are not connected with any choral group will be accompanied by Maurice Brennen as organist, Bennet Ludden as pianist, and the Willamette symphony orchestra under the direction of Lewis Pankaskie. Dean Melvin H. Geist of the Willamette school of music is directing the performance. Soloists will be announced later. Weekly combined rehearsals which are scheduled to begin next Monday, will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 in Waller hall.

Two meetings of the chorus and choir directors of Salem have been held in connection with the production, the last meeting being held Friday at the Marlon hotel. Choral groups cooperating include the choirs of the First Christian church directed by John Schmidt, the First Congregational church directed by Miss Gretchen Kreamer, the First Presbyterian church directed by Mrs. Clifford Elliot, the American Lutheran church directed by Maurice Brennen, the Calvary Baptist church directed by C. Howard Smith, the First Methodist church directed by Geist, First Evangelical church directed by Earnest Friesen, Knight Memorial church directed by Mrs. Richard Smart, St. Paul's Epis-

Frosh Spoil Erickson's Vacation Plan

In spite of the fact that dean of freshman-registrar-former Willamette student body president Walt Erickson has been seen around the campus this week—he is on vacation! The hard-working Erickson has been planning a fishing trip ever since November, and here he is spending his vacation helping the frosh on their plans for Freshman Glee. Any reference to frosh, Freshman Glee and a fishing trip is purely coincidental and is by all means intended and should be inferred.

Besides spending his vacation here where he works, Erickson is moving. His new address is 1330 North 21st and his phone number is 6526.

Erickson will visit six Portland high schools next week to outline to the seniors the scholastic schedule of Willamette. He has received many requests for information from Portland students who are graduating at the mid-term exercises in January.

Copies of the university catalogue and Collegian are distributed to the students interested in Willamette. This is the second year that the colleges of Oregon have presented a scheduled plan for telling the prospective students of the advantages of higher education.

Former Student Body Prexy Killed in Southwest Pacific

Talbot S. Bennett, former student body president and graduate of the college of law in 1938 was killed in the southwest Pacific, according to a news release this week. A second lieutenant in the marine corps, he was a member of the third marine division which made initial landings on Bougainville island in the Solomons.

While on the campus he was active in dramatics, captain of the tennis team for several years and held the Northwest singles championship twice. He became deputy district attorney of Marion county on January 1, 1941, and enlisted in the marine corps in June, 1942. Following boot camp and officer's training school at Quantico, W. Va., he was commissioned a second lieutenant in January, 1943. He was a member of the Oregon State Bar association, the Young Republican club and the Knights of Pythias.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Elma Juntunen Bennett, whom he married in January, 1940, his three month old son whom he had never seen and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Bennett. All are living in Milwaukee.

Lovell Teaches At U of O Extension

"Recent Social, Political, Economic and Intellectual Changes in Great Britain" is the title of the second University of Oregon extension course in graduate work that Dr. R. I. Lovell has been asked to teach by the Oregon state system of higher education.

The class meets every Wednesday night at the old Salem high school building for an hour lecture by Lovell, followed by an hour of class discussion. Members of the class include a number of teachers from the Salem public school system.

The course, which is open to anyone, offers two term hours of graduate credit according to the grading system of the state college and university at a fee of $6.00. The fee for auditing the course is $5.00.

Another extension course in beginning Spanish is being offered, instructed by Edward Viettel, MS of Oregon State college, which will meet on Tuesday nights beginning January 11.

These courses will meet for eleven consecutive weeks and will both be held in the same building.

Rabbi Speaks On "Unity"

Rabbi Raphael Levine of Seattle, Wash., chose as his topic for chapel Tuesday "Unity in Diversity." Rabbi Levine represented the Jewish chupaupua in the feeling of tolerance between individuals because of the great variation of race, religion, and attitudes in the United States as well as other countries. Peace of a lasting nature must take into consideration these differences and be tolerant of these differences.

A graduate of the University of Minnesota and Hebrew Union college, Rabbi Levine has spent the last ten years in England living in Liverpool and London. He left London in 1941 after experiencing the air-blitz of that city.

Interdormitory Formal To Be in Mirror Room

"Stormy Weather," has been chosen as the theme for the inter-dorm formal dance which will be held Saturday, January 15, in the Mirror

Room of the Marion hotel.

The women's dorms are co-sponsoring this big event instead of each hall giving a separate dance. Interdorm council has been the central committee in charge of the affair.

Mary Lou Moore was in charge of getting the hall. The mirror lined walls of the room will reflect the many-colored formals and add to the festivity of the dance. It will be one of the biggest events of the year for the dorm women.

Surrealism Is Formal Theme

Surrealism will be the theme of the intersorority Formal to be held in the Chamber of Commerce January 22, it was decided Wednesday in a committee meeting called by the chairman of the dance, Helen Zimmerman.

The theme will be carried out in one large surrealist mural about sorority life. There will be a false ceiling and at the present no other plans have been made for decorations, according to Dorothy Hoar who is in charge.

Eleanor Todd is in charge of the committee to secure an orchestra and promises the very best.

Plans for programs and refreshments are well under way.

No definite plans have been made as yet for the decorations but the theme has made decoration problems simple, said Mary Acheson who is chairman of the decorations committee. Helping Miss Acheson will be Louise Knouff and Helen Thomas.

A date bureau for the affair has been arranged with Carol Haskins as head. Assisting her will be June Kackley, Barbara Pierce, Gloria Brough and Melva Williamson.

Arrangements for music were made by Marge Maulding.

Programs will be available next Thursday according to Lucille Barnhart who is in charge of this committee. The refreshment committee is headed by Ethel Jean Cain. Helping her will be Laurie Garow, Lucille Randall, Ruth Wahlgren and Grace Stave. Doris Holmes is in charge of inviting patrons and patronesses.

Burton-Burge Nuptials Read on New Year's Eve

The women of Kappa hall entertained at dinner Wednesday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Burge who were married New Year's Eve in Lebanon. Mrs. Burge is the former Dorothy Burton and was a member of Kappa hall. During the dinner Mrs. A. A. Reed, Kappa housemother, presented the couple with a gift and Laurie Garow, chairman of the dinner, gave a toast to the newlyweds.

Assisting Miss Garow were Jane Hansen and June Kackley in charge of the gift, Marian Erikson, table decorations and Eileen Epperly and Elaine Cloudy, clean-up.

The Burge wedding took place New Year's Eve at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Burton of Lebanon. Mrs. Burge wore a blue velvet dress with Irish lace trim for her wedding and her flowers were baby white orchids. As her gift from the groom she wore a locket with ruby and diamond settings and ruby earrings to match. Ruth Ransom, Willamette senior, was the bridesmaid.

Mrs. Burge was a junior at Willamette this term and a history major. She is a member of Kappa hall and until this year has been active in Collegian work.

Burge is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Burge of Lebanon and is a second class aviation ordinance man in the navy. Burge recently returned from action in Alaska. Following a 30-day furlough, the couple will leave for California where he expects to be stationed for some time.

Delta Phis Get Their Man; 'Bud' Cornered by . . . Cops!

By Ann Strother

No more early hours for the gals at Delta Phi! Their main topic of conversation for the last two months (you see, they can talk about something else besides navy men!), that man familiarly and affectionately known as "Bud" is now reposing in the Camp Adair guardhouse. He was identified as a former Salem high student now with the US Army at Camp Adair. He is about 19 years old, according to police records, but easily passes as older.

Reviewing his case history, "Bud" has been seen naked—er, unclothed in the residential district in the vicinity of the sorority house. He was finally brought to terms Tuesday night on 12th and Mission streets where he had been reported. Three police cars converged on the scene and he was caught trying to make a getaway in his car while struggling into his shirt—just to confuse the cops by taking cover, of course. Salem police officers added that he had been a member of the wolf gang which had given them trouble this summer.

One burning question over which Delta Phi members have all but had pitched battles is now settled to everyone's satisfaction. "Bud" had shoes on—when they arrested him!

There is only one thing more the damsels are wondering about: Was he cold???

Todd, Haight Entertain

Mrs. Tinkham Haight and Miss Eleanor Todd were hostesses to ten of their Delta Phi sorority sisters at bridge, held New Year's eve. Taking prizes were Jean Fries, Eloise Findley and Thelma Lathrop. A late supper was served by the hostesses.

Those attending were Miss Findley, Miss Fries, Miss Lathrop, Jane Oves, Ethel Christensen, Helen Zimmerman, Vicky Jones, Miriam Day, Phyllis Haight, Dorothy Estes, Miss Todd and Mrs. Haight.

January '44 . . . not just '44 . . . but nineteen hundred and 44 . . . "Long about '40 there were 200 green Willamette students who dreamed of this year . . . dreamed of wearing long black gowns with mortar boards atop their knowledge-stuffed heads.

Tottie Shramm among them who wore curls and an orchid cashmere sweater with little Ferdinand the Bull (all the rage way back there) buttons . . . now with that sophisticated senior look in soft blue, handsomely tailored wool sparkling with a rhinestone pin. That '44 look. There were MEN too . . . in pastel sweaters, of all things. Men who played instead of studied . . . seems like a beautiful dream. That class swam the mill-stream after a certain Saturday night.

Then in '41 a sad thing happened . . . the class of '45 arrived . . . people like . . . oh, well, we won't mention names. There was a big football game in Honolulu on December 6th. And Louise Cutler appeared in "Struttin in Style" with her RAF blue jerkin . . . now it's a beautiful purplish taffeta formal . . . back-buttoned, ivory lace insert in front. Something like that ever lavender and old lace that loves with years . . . but her's is new. And June Dimond wasn't yet Haight.

And '41 brought Golluhur and his long-famed bright and huge flowered bicycling shorts to the campus. He also had a brown and white striped T-shirt.

'42 bumped into the many fellas leaving, coming . . . there was Furno and Barbour and Rude . . . and the beginning of a decrease in those W club good-looking white sweaters . . . except for Sybil Spears who was wearing one. And that was the year Steinbock came back from H'wood in that handsome soft wool

(all wool, too) beige suit.

The class of '46 . . . even Casey can't remember 'em. Seems there was Helen Craven in the red, black, blue and still more plaid skirt . . . looks good on her this year, too. But even the sophomores are more sophisticated . . . even Craven in her red silk jersey, the shirt waist and gold buttons, and the straight narrow war-time skirt. And Florence Lee in that rose-red belted blanket coat seeing navy blue.

That class was around on a Saturday after-day . . . but they swim, too, love it, it seems . . . 'course '44 went home with big bundles of bacon . . . we'll do it again . . . oh, yes, we will, you foolish you.

'Cats Break Seven-Game Losing Streak . . .

With George Lund, Dick Maxwell and Ron Runyan leading the way the Navycats finally found themselves against the Oregon State five and rang out the old year with a convincing 35-27 win. The squad broke a seven-game losing streak and also snapped the seven-year unblemished record the Beavers have held over the 'Cats in maplecourt competition.

Chief MacGuire's starting five of Paul Folquet, Runyan, Ray Oberst, Ben Director and Bill Stroud started off with a bang and with Runyan doing the scoring kept on even terms for the first half. Lund turned in a good game at one of the forward positions after Director went to the showers on four personals within a few minutes of the opening whistle.

Maxwell and Lund led the attack in the second half and the 'Cats soon pulled away from the visitors. The winners' zone defense worked to perfection in this half and it was seldom that the Staters ever got a shot.

The win was by no means a fluke as the losers were outsped, outmaneuvered, outshot and clearly outplayed by their smaller opponents. Oregon State's chief threat was "Happy" Lee, five-foot five-inch ball-handling wizard.

Chief MacGuire took over in the absence of Headman Trotter who is on leave and who witnessed the Rose Bowl massacre New Year's Day.

"Y" Puts on Water Show . . .

The two nationally famous Willamette coeds, Suzanne Zimmerman and Nancy Merki, showed the local swimming fans why they are All-American swimmers in an exhibition at the "Y" pool last Saturday evening.

Both women displayed superb form in more ways than one while exhibiting various strokes that have brought them a hatful of championships. Miss Zimmerman started off the program with her specialty, the backstroke, and was followed by her mate with the butterfly breaststroke. Both girls teamed up to show perfect precision while swimming four lengths free style.

To cap off the evening's performance the gals submerged three of the masculine gender in a two hundred yard relay. This was scheduled to be against ten of the V-12ers but was called off due to the special weekend liberty given the navy boys. Several of the fellows like James Gustier, Bob Belton, Don McClane, Andy Crystal, Jack Christerson, Dick Maxwell and Phil Sorensen are no slouches themselves and would really press the champs to the finish line.

Several of the navy students, Bob Donovan, Bob Edwards and Al Lunt, entertained with a water aquatic show and demonstrated what they have learned in the swimming classes in the way of converting trousers into life preservers, shedding clothing under water, swimming through burning oil, etc.

Many Former Bearcats Now in Service . . .

Willamette's ex-sporting greats are spread to the four corners as is evidenced by the following few who have distinguished themselves at Willamette university. Dan Moses, softball star, Northwest ping-pong champ, and former Wallulah editor, is now a private in army publications and is assigned to the Persian Gulf Command in Tehran, Iran. Corporal Bud Gilmore has been in England and is now believed to be in North Africa. Bud was northwest tennis champ and lost but five matches in his collegiate career.

Lt. (j.g.) Harold P. Hoyt is in the armed guard and is a former all-Northwest conference guard. Last year's sports editor, Gil Lieser, has been commissioned an ensign from Columbia university and is now at Naval Mine Warfare School at Yorktown, Virginia.

Two Close Games on Deck . . .

Intramural competition will resume hostilities this afternoon after a two week layoff with second platoon of C out to notch its second straight win against the tied-for-second first platoon of A. The former team is picked to take this one although it should be a good game. The C boys will have the advantage in shooting ability although this will be somewhat alleviated if Carl Niemi is able to play for the A team.

The other game will find second of B taking on the second of A, with the A boys needing a win to really stay in the running. We're predicting a B win in this one with Mel Samuelson, George Blake and Lloyd Kinsey expected to be too much for the second of A. Captain Samuelson's team was upset in their last game and will be out for blood in this one.

This Week's Guest Star Is

George Lund, varsity reserve who turned in a bangup job against Oregon State. George went in a few minutes after the start when Director decided to save himself for after the game and proceeded to turn in his best game of the season. George is a former Grant high of Portland performer and is a transfer from Lewis and Clark junior college.

WU Navycats Leave This Weekend For Games at Portland, Tillamook

Fresh from a victory over Oregon State college, Willamette's Navycats will tangle with two out-of-town opponents this week, meeting Fee's Music Makers in Portland Friday night and the Tillamook Naval Air Station at the latter's base tomorrow. The next home game is scheduled for January 14 against the undefeated Albina Hellcats.

The 'Cats' victory over the Beavers broke a seven game losing streak and is just what the doctor ordered to set the boys on the right track for the remaining games on the schedule.

Something had been missing up until this win, but apparently that something was found, for it was Willamette's game almost all the way.

A potent scoring combination was revealed in the persons of Dick Maxwell, John Copenhagen, George Lund, Bob Warner and Jim Frank. This five played a large part of the second half and with one substitution, Wally Brownlee, built up a lead which the Orangemen were unable to overcome.

In the last Fee's game, Willamette was nosed out 38 to 36 in one of the closest contests of the season. The Music Makers have been going great guns in their Portland independent league and will floor their usually strong team.

The Tillamook Naval Air Station has played some of the top college teams in this region and should prove a difficult hurdle for the 'Cats.

Assistant coach Bob McGuire has been handling the squad since head coach "Duke" Trotter left for a 15-day leave. McGuire was well satisfied with the club's performance in the OSC battle and looks for some good results in games to come.

'Cats Upset Beavers 35-27 To End Long Losing Streak

Any danger of Willamette's Navycats catching up with Chicago university's 45 game losing streak was erased Friday in the local gym when the V-12's defeated Oregon State college, 35 to 27, in a stunning upset. Both Willamette and Chicago apparently took New Year's Eve to their liking, because the eastern team also broke its two year string, winning 65 to 27.

The 'Cats finally found themselves and poured it on the Beavers during the second half. At the midway point, it was 15 to 14 in favor of the Orange, but a second half rally left little doubt as to the best team Saturday night.

Five men, Lund, Warner, Copenhagen, Frank and Maxwell gradually pulled away from the visitors and proved to be the most potent scoring combination yet concocted by the coaches.

George Lund's one hander in the second half put Willamette in the lead where they were to remain for good. At the ten-minute mark, it was 23 to 18 for the home team. A brief rally, led by Oregon State's dynamic guard, "Happy" Lee, cut a big lead to the eight points separating the two teams at the final gun.

For a change the boys were hitting their shots and dropped in 16 of 57 attempts from the floor. McGuire used 14 men all told, substituting by full teams at a time. Lund and Ron Runyan topped the point-makers with eight apiece, closely followed by Maxwell's seven.

Willamette was clicking on all cylinders during the conflict and outplayed the Beavers in almost every department of the game. This was OSC's last game before the beginning of the Northern division.

High School Tourney Set March 16-18

Following several weeks of arguing, debating and worrying it was announced this week that the annual Oregon state high school basketball tournament sponsored by the Oregon high school activities association will be held in Willamette gym on March 16-17-18.

There will be eight A teams competing, one from each district in the state and four B teams. At this early date, however, the teams are not yet known. Where the teams will be housed and boarded while in Salem has not been announced as yet. However, as soon as the national meeting of the different state associations closes in the near future, the secretary of the Oregon association will arrive here to make plans for the care of the players. The tournament is conducted upon a consolation basis.

Pre-Holiday Losses Add Up to Eight

Willamette Navycats extended their losing streak to eight straight by losing two games to the power-packed Albina Hellship five, in games December 17 and 18, just before the holidays, in Salem and Portland, respectively. Scores were 58 to 37 and 42 to 28.

In both games, however, the collegians showed a definite improvement in their playing. The first battle found the locals behind only 26 to 19 at the half. The experienced Hellships pulled away in the final period to win handily. They displayed an amazing passing game, whipping the ball around the floor as if it were a baseball.

"Red" O'Connell poured in 18 counters to lead all scorers and Bill Stroud topped the 'Cats with a total of 10.

In the second game against Albina, played on the Benson Tech court in Portland, the victors led at half by only five points, 20 to 15. The affair was a lively one all the way, two Navycat players being ejected for yelling too strenuously during the latter part of the game.

Lund, Oberst and Stroud divided scoring honors with five points apiece. The double win for Albina ran the shipyard team's victory string to 17 straight.

Robert Wallace Brownlee, 20 years old, six feet one inch tall, 165 pounds, blonde, is playing on this year's Willamette basketball team. Like most of the other squad members, "Wally" comes from Portland where he was born and raised.

He collected three letters while at Roosevelt high in the Rose city and won honorable mention his last season on the all-city team. Later, he attended Lewis & Clark college, playing first string for that school. Wally has also had a year of experience in the independent Federal league.

As for his naval outlook, Brownlee is a deck officer candidate and has one more term after the present at Willamette. Although he does not plan to make a career of the navy he likes this branch of the service and V-12.

He thinks Albina is the best team the Navycats have faced and Jack Butterworth the best individual player.

George Lund

George "Gig" Lund, in many respects, resembles Brownlee. Lund hails from Portland, is blonde, six feet tall, weighs 170 pounds and agrees with Brownlee as to Willamette's toughest opponent and the best individual player the team has faced.

"Gig" was a baseball star at Grant high school for three years, earning an all-city berth his last year. He was a member of the General basketball squad for two years.

Like Wally, George went to Lewis & Clark, playing first string for one year. He had the

Tschudy Works on Vitamin C

Dr. Robert H. Tschudy, professor of biology at Willamette, has been working for the past months on experiments pertaining to vitamin C. His experiment has included the extraction of vitamin C from rose hips and the needles of the Douglas fir tree. At the present time he is testing the reaction of freezing to the vitamin C content of the rose hips.

Tschudy stated that much has been done to increase the shipments of vitamin C concentrate to the forces in active duty. Now, the fruit known as guava is being dried in large quantities and shipped overseas. The drying plants are located in Florida. Rose hips are being used to some extent in England, because of the large concentration of vitamin C which is found in them, Tschudy says.

At the request of the national officers of the Methodist Student movement, Prof. John L. Knight has sent written material and pictures of the campus to the national office at Nashville, Tennessee.

It is planned that the data will be used in an article on student life on Methodist-endowed campuses where army or navy training units are stationed. The article will appear in the Christian Advocate, official publication of the Methodist church.

"Practical Religion," written by Knight, is the new feature on the editorial page of the Sunday edition of the Oregon Statesman.

The four-inch column appeared for the first time last Sunday, January 2, and will continue as a regular feature of the Sunday paper.

Lund, once more like Brownlee, has one additional term here and is a deck officer candidate.

Women Open Badminton Tournament

Heading the calendar for women's sports are archery and badminton. The badminton doubles tournament opens Tuesday with Virginia Pope and Carol Smith playing Virginia Hobbs and Arlene Schwartz. After this first game, the ladder will continue until the first place winner and the consolation winner have been determined.

All of the women in the archery classes will start the tournament on January 17. As the class is eliminated, two teams will be chosen: the first four highest players will be team I, and the next four will compose team II. These final teams will represent Willamette university in the intercollegiate archery tournament sponsored by the Los Angeles City College. The event maintains 42 arrows at 30 yards. Both the archery and badminton tournaments are under the supervision of Miss Gayle Currey, women's athletic director.

V-5 Aviation Tests Given

Physical examinations, tests and interviews were given to Willamette seamen and civilians interested in going into the V-5 aviation program this week. Lt. T. F. McCarthy, medical officer, and Lt. (jg) H. O. Fox from the office of naval officer procurement at Seattle conducted the interviews and examinations.

Examinations have also been given some men classified as V-12's. This will not alter navy standings other than possibly change the classification to V-12, according to Lt. (jg) Marshall E. Woodell.

Frosh Basketball Team Second In City Industrial League

Overcoming many obstacles, Chief Lew Carroll's freshman basketball team has frequently stolen the show from the varsity by scoring decisive upsets over all competition. They are tyed for second place in the City Industrial league with two wins and a loss and have won four consecutive preliminary games.

The greatest obstacle facing Coach Carroll lies in the fact that the navy members of his team can only play on week-ends. The rest of the time, the squad is composed of civilian freshmen at Willamette.

The frosh have shown a far superior passing attack than the varsity and have four very fine players. Bob Reinhardt, navy freshman, is one of the hottest ball hawks and shots in school and Bill Proctor of the fleet is a sweet guard, setting up many of the plays. Al Ingles dominates the backboards along with Al Fedje and both dump in their share of the points.

Their splendid defense is easy to see by the way they defeated the Newberg valley team 48-3, holding the visitors scoreless after the first five minutes of play.

Their fast, open style of ball is a treat to all the fans who see them play, and the overwhelming scores they run up are an indication of the power the varsity would have had if it were not for the ineligibility rule governing freshman participation in varsity athletics. From the excellent ball playing the team does, it is no wonder that the varsity coaches are growing grey haired.

Merritt Recital Set January 26

The date of Miss Evangeline Merritt's long-awaited recital has been set for Wednesday evening, January 26, Dean Melvin H. Geist said yesterday. The Willamette school of music will present Miss Merritt then in a recital open to students and townspeople at 8:15 in Wailer hall auditorium.

Runyan High In Physical

By Brad Schade

Of the seven Navy V-12 schools in this naval district Willamette ranks sixth on the scores made by the sailors in their recent physical fitness tests. This calls for more work on the part of the men, declared Chief Lew Carroll.

Top muscle man for the Willamette Navycats is Ron Runyan with a grade of 80.2. The next high seven are Jack Mudd, 75; Don DuCharme, 73.4; Don McClain, 72.8; Bill Glover, 72.2; Bob Deagle, 72.6, and Bill Wetmore, 70.8.

The men had to make a grade of at least 50 to remain in the maintenance division of the physical education program. Anyone failing to meet the standard will be put back into the basic program.

The gym classes have been reorganized by Les Sparks and will undertake a new program in the maintenance division. Under the new set-up each squad will play basketball against other squads during the same period. At the end of the league's play the winning squads from each class will play each other for the championship.

As soon as the boxing and wrestling ring arrives the classes will undertake those activities in earnest. Sparks expects the ring to arrive around the first part of March. After the boys have had a little practice he intends to hold regular smokers.

Nine men were elected to Blue Key, national honorary fraternity, this week, according to Dean Daniel H. Schulze, advisor. The three civilian and six navy men chosen are Michael Carolan, a junior prominent in campus music circles and a member of Kappa Gamma Rho; Jack Christerson, junior transfer from OSC where he was a Theta Chi, active in student social affairs; LeRoy Hale, junior, Sigma Alpha Epsilon transfer from WSC, feature editor of the Collegian and member of the student-faculty chapel committee.

Others in the group are Hollis Huston, president of the senior class, vice president of the Methodist student council and member of Alpha Psi Delta; Dick Maxwell, president of the junior class, member of the basketball squad and a Phi Sigma Kappa from WSC; George Russell, Alpha Psi Delta, junior on the Navycat basketball team; Ray Short, senior on the Freshman Glee committee and a student minister; Verne Summers, a junior, member of Sigma Tau; Jack Wittliff, junior, president of Kappa Gamma Rho and member of the Collegian and Wallulah staffs.

Members of the organization who chose the new pledges are Jay Oliver, senior, and Jack Glasse, Gordon Kunke, Ron Runyan and Rich Wicks. The neophytes of the junior-senior men's honorary were selected on a basis of scholarship, character and participation in student activities.

Juniors Start Wallulah Pics

Photography on the Wallulah delayed during December because of the Christmas rush is being continued this week as members of the junior class are scheduled for photographing at Kennell-Elis studios.

Seniors are next on the calendar for the taking of pictures for the class panels of the year-book, according to Jean Fries, who is directing work on class pictures. Faculty members who are new to the campus this year will be photographed during the same time, as will all student body members who have not yet had their pictures taken.

Mary Kanoff, freshman from Redmond, is in charge of faculty pictures. Verna Stocks, freshman from Portland, is assisting Miss Fries on the class section.

War Prisoner Here Tuesday

John G. Traschel, former Salem minister fresh off the Gripsholm, will be the featured speaker in Tuesday's chapel program, according to Pres. G. Herbert Smith.

Traschel spent several years in China doing missionary work, was caught by the Japanese and just recently was returned to US soil aboard the Swedish exchange ship. His family returned to America before the war, and this is the first time Traschel has been able to see his fourth addition to the family.

Traschel is now ministering at the Friend's church here in Salem.

Since his return home, Traschel has spoken at numerous schools and civic groups in Salem.

Memorial Loan Fund Available

The Clara Eness Memorial Loan fund is now available to music students, according to Mary Margaret Livesay, president of the Willamette chapter, Mu Phi Epsilon, national music honorary. Outstanding students in the music department may borrow from the fund as a means of helping finance their education, Miss Livesay said.

The fund was set up by the chapter in memory of Clara Eness, late instructor in the music department who established the local chapter in 1935, and has been built up by proceeds from concerts sponsored by the honorary and by various contributions. One of the larger contributions was received recently from Clayton Wheeler, alumnus of Willamette, who is serving with the air force in England.

Beadles, Acton And Bennett Handle Motive

The appointment of Marjorie Beadles, Winsor Acton and Frank Bennett to a committee to handle the campus circulation of Motive, monthly publication of the national Methodist Student Movement, was announced Wednesday by Catharine Thomas, president of the Willamette Methodist Student Council, following their nomination by the council last week.

Motive since its origin in 1940 has been the spokesman for Methodist college students throughout the nation, being largely comprised of their writings edited under the supervision of prominent youth leaders. Winston Taylor, former Willamette student now with the armed forces and a recent visitor to the campus, served as a member of the national editorial board.

Miss Beadles is a freshman from Portland while Acton and Bennett are members of the naval unit from Salem.

Campus to Have Inter-Faith Group

Plans are now under way for the organization of an inter-faith council on the campus, according to Prof. John L. Knight, counselor on religious life. The group will be organized in the near future as a directive body for all campus-connected religious organizations.

The plans thus far provide that the president and one representative of each individual group will serve on the council. The groups to be represented include YM and YW, Methodist Student Council, Vespers, Intersarsity Fellowship, and Jason Lee Fellowship.

The establishment of the Inter-Faith Council will enable the various campus groups to cooperate in putting on religious programs, special services and possibly a religious emphasis week. The idea for the organization of such a council grew out of the fact that there is enough interest in religious activities on the campus but not enough cooperation between the various groups.

Sigs Sell to Private Buyer

The Sigma Tau fraternity house, recently damaged by fire, has been sold to a private party with the idea of repairing the damage and converting the structure into apartments. The house, as the first student-owned fraternity was secured by the Sigs in the fall of 1919, and until the fire, it has been the center of all of their activities.

Dr. Robert M. Gatke and Dr. Daniel H. Schulze are representing Sigma Tau in dealing with the insurance and the sale of the property.

According to Dr. Gatke, the sum of slightly more than $8000 was received for the building and full furnishings, upon which a complete adjustment has been made by the insurance companies. The money received from the two sources will be held in a trust fund until a rebuilding program can be undertaken. At that time the location of the house will be nearer to the campus.

Lovell Completes Radio Series

Dr. R. I. Lovell completed a series of radio talks this week on "Who's World?" which he has been giving over KOAC at Corvallis as guest speaker for the American Association of University Women.

The talks have been scheduled at one month intervals and have been four in number.

Post-War Needs Outlined by Faculty Group

A committee organized for the purpose of post-war planning has been initiated on the Willamette campus. Members are Dean Ray Smith of the law school, chairman, Dr. H. C. Hutchins, Dr. Robert Tschudy, Dr. Helen Pearce, Dr. Charles L. Sherman, Dr. Robert E. Lantz, Dean Chester F. Lather and Pres. G. Herbert Smith.

The committee was formulated to study over the needs of post-war planning, to recommend possible improvements on the campus and to outline a type of program for post-war adjustment. Changes in college curriculum is perhaps one of the most important problems the committee considered, it was reported.

Since the outline discussed in the initial meetings is general, all definite statements pertaining to it have been withheld until the committee meets again to discuss a more complete plan.

Post-war planning is now recognized as being a vital problem of most of the more important cities, universities and industries in this country, according to the members.

Conifers On Display In Collins

A display of native conifers may be seen in the display cases outside of Prof. Morton E. Peck's office in Collins hall. There are 30 different species of conifers which grow in Oregon, of which 17 are shown in the display. Peck stated that more conifers grow on the Pacific slope in Oregon than in any other place in the world.

Sailors' Maps Confuse Monk

If you ever wonder who dunit when you look at those photogenic maps on the navy's ID cards, you'd never guess but it's none other than our own Dr. Cecil R. Monk, who never has learned to read maps anyhow. Cecil R. has long had his own inimitable style and is nothing but slippery when it comes to candid shots.

P.S. He's had to destroy all negatives under threat of death. But, boys! Please save the camera. We might like a few shots ourselves.

Flu Still Has Victims Here

Flu still seems to be taking its toll among campus people. Although it has declined greatly from its height of a few weeks ago, it is still troublesome. Home from the Kappa hall is Ruth Van Orsdel while Sylvia Wilde has gone home from Fredrickson hall. Arlene Schwartz has been absent this week from the Delta, Phi house.

Missing members among the faculty are Dr. and Mrs. Robert E. Lantz, out this week but hoping to return Monday, and Prof. Maurice Brennen, ill last week and Monday. To top it all, the school nurse, Mrs. Minnie Mortimore, has been confined to her apartment under a doctor's care for this week.

Because of the prevalence of the flu Christmas vacation was granted a day earlier in the hope of stopping the spreading epidemic. However, many students failed to return to the campus until this week.

Nurses' Aides Get Practice

Members of Willamette's Nurses' Aide class finished their classroom lectures the week before Christmas and have now turned to practical application of the lectures. During the recent flu epidemic the Salem Nurses' Aides helped the hospitals during the shortage of nurses and their absence on account of flu.

At present the aides are working both at the Salem General and the Deaconess hospitals. Upon completing 45 hours' experience they will receive their caps and pins.
