Campus Talent Billed For HS Seniors Dec. 29

Students and members of the faculty will team up over the Christmas holidays to entertain high school seniors in the Portland and southwestern Washington area at a party December 29. "All high school seniors in the area are invited," said Charles A. Paeth, director of admissions, this week.

The event will be held in Portland on the Tuesday after Christmas in the Florentine room of the Columbia Athletic club, 614 SW 11th, at 8 p. m.

Convo Draws Six to Kansas

Willamette will be represented at the quadrennial meeting of the nation-wide Methodist Student Movement at the University of Kansas during the Christmas recess.

Six students, accompanied by Dr. Thomas Bennett, will leave for Lawrence, Kansas, on December 26 in order to attend the meeting with similar representatives from all over the United States.

The students include Paul Baker, Don Hobson, Doris Shelburne, Mary Alice Andresen, Sarah Benjamin and Gerald Nelson. Several will travel with Dr. Bennett and the remainder plan to join with students from Oregon and Washington to depart by train from Portland in two special railroad cars reserved for them.

At the conference, discussion groups will be formed, Bible studies made and important speakers heard. Ralph Sockman is slated as the main speaker during a spiritual gathering. Eugene Liszt, renowned pianist, and Bishop Matthew Clair will be among the other guests.

Two thousand students are expected to attend the gathering.

Smith Slates January Trip

President G. Herbert Smith will be home working on the Challenge Fund during the Christmas holiday, but will leave Salem on January 5 to attend three conferences in Cincinnati, Ohio.

He will represent Willamette at the Association of American Colleges, Association of Methodist Colleges, and the University Senate, of which he is a member. President Smith will return about January 25.

Glee Committee Heads Chosen; Notson, DeHarpport on Executive Council

Committee chairmen for the various phases of Willamette's annual Freshmen Glee event scheduled for the last part of March were made this week by Manager Bill Wheat.

Wheat has appointed Ann Notson to serve as Glee secretary. Dale DeHarpport, runner-up to the office in the recent student body election, will fill the post of assistant manager.

Committee chairmen include John Miller, tickets; Marilyn Waterman, ushers; Joyce Ambler, programs; Ruthann Acklen, entertainment; Delores Picha, decorations; Kent Hotaling, lights; Pat Farley, stage; Bob Withers, floor and chairs; Benny

300 Seniors Invited

Paeth reported that some 300 high school seniors have been invited to the party and this last includes all those he has contacted on recent tours around the high school circuit. However, he added, any interested senior in the area is invited. Willamette students are urged to bring high school friends who fall into this category.

The four-fold purpose of the party, sponsored by the University, includes counselling for the visiting seniors, a get-acquainted period, a good time and passing on knowledge about Willamette, said Paeth.

Dean to Speak

The features of the program scheduled for the evening include the color sound movie "We're Going to Willamette," and a talk by Dean Mark Hatfield. Other members of the faculty staff slated to be on hand for counselling duties are Dr. Robert Fenix, Dean Robert Gregg, Dean Melvin Geist, Dean Regina Ewalt, Dr. Howard Runkel, Col. Norman Todd, Coach Ted Ogdahl, Dr. Charles Derthick, Miss Nancy Stuart of the University publicity office, and Mrs. Betty Jean Joseph of the admissions office.

Reception Planned

As a part of the program musical selections are to be presented by Marie DeHarpport, Ronald Hershberger, Helen Piazza, Marilyn Hanthorne, Lollie Coffey, Malcolm Campbell, Myrth Loring, Page Bailey, and Jane Gray.

Following the program there will be a reception for all high school guests and their parents.

Miss Winship to Play Electra; Post-Vacation Tryouts Slated

Elizabeth Winship will play the lead role of Electra in Sophocles' Greek tragedy, second in the three productions scheduled by the drama department this year, Director Robert Putnam announced this week. Casting for the remainder of the parts in "Electra" could not be completed before Christmas, Putnam explained, because not enough students took part in tryouts Monday and Tuesday. Any other interested actors are urged to try for a part immediately following vacation.

Putnam stressed that rehearsals will not be held either the week before or during final examinations. Rehearsals will begin January 4 and the Greek tragedy is scheduled for performances on February 25, 26 and 27.

Speaking roles for two women and three men still remain undecided, as well as the chorus of seven women. A mute male part also plays an important role.

From records Putnam has checked, "Electra" will be the first Greek tragedy on the Willamette campus within at least 12 years, and "probably longer." The drama will be presented on the Waller stage.

200 Contribute $250 During Class Events

Over 200 Willamette students and faculty pitched in with nickles, dimes and quarters last Saturday night to raise an estimated $250 for the treasury of the student Challenge Fund drive.

The four classes sponsored respective events that brought the student drive to the 20 per cent mark on its $10,000 goal, expected to be reached by May. The student fund will be added to the University Million Dollar Challenge for a building program expected to get under way in May.

Carnival Tops Collections

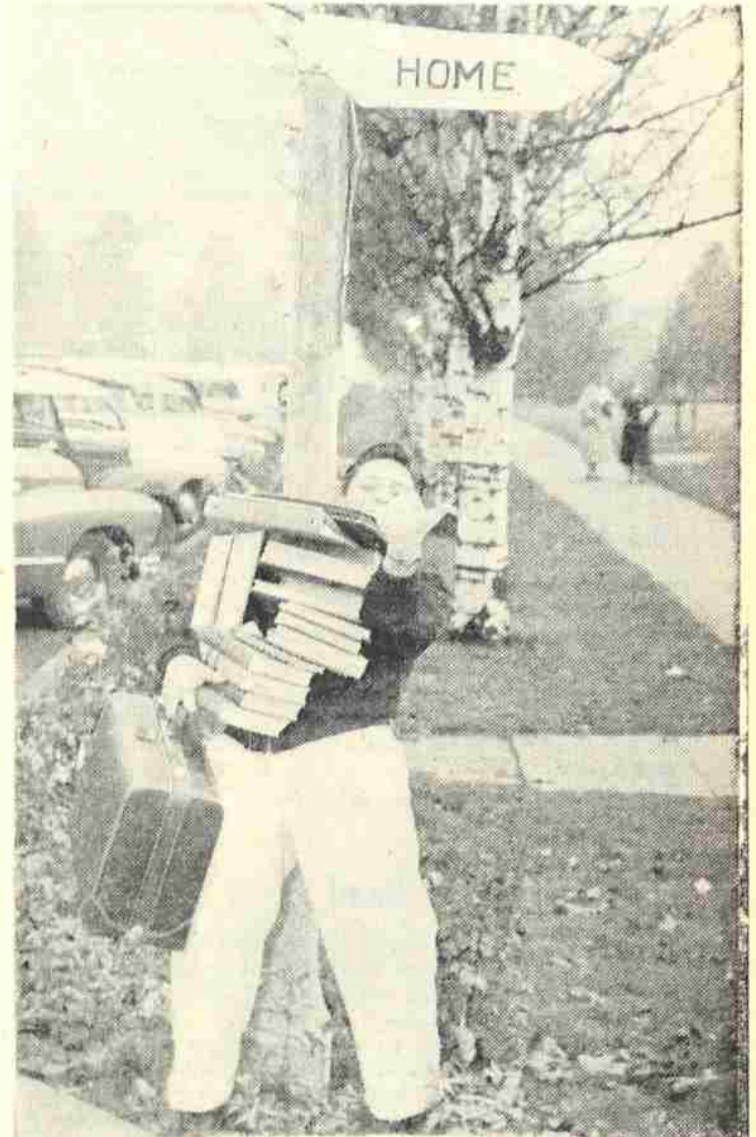

The sophomore class led the field Saturday with funds totaling about $100 collected at their carnival, according to Bob Alfred, who managed the evening. Alfred said that the figures are only estimates since all bills have not yet been paid but final net figures are expected to be about the same.

The senior class won the runner-up spot with collections of about $60 at their musical comedy show. The junior class took in approximately $50 for third and the freshmen added about $45 to the total.

Alfred said this week that he believed the evening had succeeded in its two-fold purpose of raising funds for the Challenge Fund and serving to unite the individual classes.

Bills Due

All tuition payments are to be cleared before Christmas vacation, according to Dr. Robert Fenix, financial vice-president. Those unable to settle their account before leaving campus today may mail their payment during the holidays to the business office. Students unable to meet this obligation are to see Dr. Fenix as soon as possible.

Student ~~carrying~~ ~~books~~ ~~out~~ for home via his thumb in order to take advantage of the two-week Christmas recess that Willamette students start this afternoon. Scholar Ludlow claims he has a little make-up work to complete and is not trying to make a hit with his profs.

Students to Head Home Today Loaded With Baggage, Books

Christmas is coming and Willamette students are leaving. By four and before this afternoon, everyone but the white rats in the Eaton basement will be heading home for the holiday vacation.

Books won't be forgotten, however, with semester finals looming a month away, and the two week break will provide an opportunity for writing term papers. For professors who have already tallied six weeks grades, vacation will mean a reprieve from University duties.

Last Meal

Dormitories will lock their doors at the 4 o'clock dismissal hour until noon on Sunday, Jan. 3. University kitchens will close at noon today and the next meal will be breakfast on Jan. 4.

Sororities may remain open until tomorrow if the house-mother agrees to stay, but closing hours have been set at ten tonight, according to Dean Ewalt. The special provision was made for those with Saturday train reservations.

2 Student Works With New Books

Included in the library's 76 new books this month are two works by Willamette students.

Listed under the group in the Oregon collection are "The Attorney General and Political Influence in the Department of Justice" by Don Drake, senior, and "The Foreign Policy of American Labor Unions in Western Europe Since 1945," by Don Scarborough, 1953 graduate.

These publications are the result of research done when Drake and Scarborough represented Willamette at Washington Semester in their junior year.

Kent Myers has been recruited by the psychology department to take care of the white rats during the holidays. The experimental rodents will be given a vacation from their maze swimming assignments, however.

Library Hours

The Willamette library has set a vacation schedule for students in Salem: Dec. 19, 8 to 12; Dec. 21, 8 to 12 and 1 to 5; Dec. 22, 8 to 12; Dec. 28 through 31, 8 to 12. The library will be closed Dec. 23-26 and Jan. 1 and 2, as well as on Sundays.

Administration offices will be closed from December 22 to 28, according to Pres. Smith.

Funds Sought For Memorial

Those wishing to contribute to a fund in memory of Franklin "Bud" Parker and Irvin Nicholas, who were killed during Thanksgiving vacation in an automobile accident, may do so by designating that their Challenge Fund pledge be received in the names of the two men.

There will be no organized soliciting for the memorial fund. Donations will be completely voluntary.

The question of erecting a plaque in the proposed fine arts auditorium in honor of the men was discussed with Pres. G. Herbert Smith last week. He stated that instead of a separate plaque, the names would probably be included in the list of major contributors to the Million Dollar Campaign.

The families of Parker and Nicholas expressed their gratitude to the students and faculty for wreaths for the funerals in a letter to Dean Hatfield this week.

The Social Scoop

By JULIE MELLOR
Editor

Another Wayward Editor

We lost another editor—and this time it wasn't because of Uncle Sam. It's a matter of our society editor bowing to social probation because of too many chapel cuts; and she's not the only campus notable who's had to step down from a job for that reason.

We're still in favor of applying the rules, and not for the sake of making an example of anyone. Rules are impartial and pretty specific: too many chapel or class cuts means social probation; social probation means an end to offices or other forms of recognition or position. Excuses are accepted until two weeks after a cut. Carelessness isn't a legitimate excuse.

Anyone who hasn't time to go to chapel or class hasn't time for extracurricular activities. It may be debateable as to which came first, the activities or the cuts, but classes and chapel will always take precedence over the extras at Willamette.

In any case, our "social scooper" is on social pro. Long live the Collegian.

The Business at Hand

The weekly agenda notice for student council was dispatched as usual by President Hitchman this week. Third item in the outline combined both old and new business and stated: "This is the oldest business we know . . . The business we are talking about is truly as old as our Christian religion and also new because of its eternal value. In order for this thing to make sense, we'd better say that our business, in the season of the birth of our Lord Jesus Christ, is to wish you a Merry Christmas." Final announcement: "No council meeting this week."

The Collegian staff echoes the "Merry Christmas to everybody" and adds a final announcement: No Collegian for the next two weeks. See you next year.

Attention Psychiatrists:

Quick Changes Found Confusing

By Carla McKeen

The story you are about to hear is not true. Only the facts are the same to protect the policy of the administration.

The scene is a psychiatrist's office complete with psychiatrist and young frustrated lass. After being asked for the facts, the poor trembling waif related her woeful plight.

"It is Christmas," she began. "I like Christmas, I believe in Santa and I have the proper spirit. I have always liked Christmas. It's so gay—so full of happiness. But this year it is different. I realized this in a dream. I dreamed I went to the Chico-Willamette game in my maiden-form pedalpushers!"

The psychiatrist gleamed a gleam as he glanced down at his fee chart, checking the price for dream analysis. Then producing an air of deep understanding he questioned the girl. "Tell me about your dream. What were the facts leading up to it?"

Dizzy Schedule

His patient complied. "It all started last Tuesday when I realized that it was almost Wednesday." (The doctor smiled at this because that was his name, Wednesday.) "On that day were scheduled many activities; exchange dinners, caroling, game, and a pajama dance. Have to wear pedalpushers." As she uttered that last word her face saddened for she remembered her dream.

"Why don't they call it a pedalpusher dance, then?" questioned Wednesday.

"Because you wear pajama tops," replied the girl.

"Oh," said the doctor. He started to ask "Why just tops?" but thought better of it, not wanting to display his ignorance.

Getting back to the dream he said "Why are you troubled by the thought of wearing pedalpushers to the game?"

"Oh," replied his patient with dignified but somewhat shocked tones, "Ladies do not assume the proper qualities of a lady when attired in pedalpushers. Everyone knows that."

It's All Logical

"Oh," repeated Wednesday. Vague feelings of confusion were settling in his mind. But being accustomed to frustrating circumstances, he went on, realizing that some fact was obviously being omitted.

Acting on a hunch he reasoned that she would wear the customary campus attire to the game but being the cautious type, he checked to make sure.

Social Science Juniors Offered Stipends

"Good solid incentive for actual research experience" is being offered by the Social Science Research Council in the form of undergraduate research stipends, Arthur Gravatt, sociology instructor, pointed out this week.

The research stipends will be awarded to college juniors who spend eight weeks or more next summer in active research on some problem of human behavior. A project being considered by one Willamette student concerns the impact of migrant workers on a community, Gravatt said.

Students may choose projects in any of the social sciences since fields in which research may be supported are not limited by department lines. Students appointed last spring received stipends of $600 each, supplemented in some cases by allowances for research expenses. About forty new appointments will be made next year.

According to the announcement by the council, "Student candidates for research stipends should be nominated on the basis of their demonstrated ability and promise rather than on the amount of previous training they may have had in research methods."

"Such a project would provide experience richer than academic work," Gravatt stated, "and will be selected for its merit and the contribution of the study to the student's growth and knowledge."

A general application must be made by January 4 and the research proposal itself must be made by February 8. Forms and further information are available from Gravatt.

Notice the new name! "Scoop" Jackson, our society editor of the past, has decided, via Dean Hatfield's wishes, to take a four-week vacation from the Collegian. So until next semester, the Social Scoop will be written with a Julie Mellor byline.

Babs really left me in a predicament—no news! With dead month approaching, the social events will be few and far between. But this column will still try to give you some of the highlights it has in the past.

Spring rush has been set on the social calendar for the week of February 17-20, but the arrangements of how rush will be carried out—formal, informal or open rush—have not yet been decided by Panhellenic council.

Hanauska Plays Santa
Bob Hanauska took on the title of Santa Claus last night at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon party, where dance records were exchanged, and then donated to the chapter house. The SAE pledge class presented the members with the national fraternity flag as a Christmas present.

All women's living organizations will be closed for the holidays today at 4 o'clock, with the exception of Rho Ho, the Pi Phi annex, which will remain open until Saturday.

Lausanne Winners
Winners were announced Sunday in the Lausanne hall decorated door contest, which was held in collaboration with the tea and open house.

Grand prize in the religion field went to Rebecca Hang and Janice Stafford, while the grand sweepstakes for a Christmas motif was awarded to Margie Wood and Nan Lagen.

Other winners were Donna Cederstrom, Lois Wickersham, Elizabeth Hess and Phyllis Stalsberg, first floor; Carolyn Milner, Ann Blanding, Nancy Kerbs and Ann Denman, second floor; and Flossie Hodge, Martie Hoffman, Ann Notson and Helen Piazza, third floor.

Decorations for the doors ranged from angels, carolers and Santa Clauses to Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer.

Judges for the contest were Miss Jack, Dean Regina Ewalt and Mrs. G. Herbert Smith.

Tea, Anyone?

A slight mixup in the social calendar occurred, though not quite by accident Sunday, when the members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon discovered that they had guests for an open house and tea.

Earlier this year the SAE's surprised the Delta Gammas when they appeared for tea one afternoon. Hurriedly the ladies prepared some food.

Retributions came Sunday when the DG's arrived on the threshold of the men's living organization, along with Dean and Mrs. Gregg, to pay back the "tea" bet.

To the Editor:

Some of the more observing students may have noticed that the YWCA did not have their annual Christmas program scheduled in the three busy weeks that we have experienced. It isn't that the YWCA doesn't have the Christmas spirit, it is just that so many others have this spirit, too.

We have observed the Yuletide season with many parties and altruistic projects—all of which have left us with a good feeling inside. But how many of us have stopped to think why we do these things, and what the spirit of Christmas really is?

This was brought to our attention in chapel last Thursday. The spirit of Christmas is not something that comes to us, as if by magic between Thanksgiving and the beginning of the New Year. It should be present among us all year in the form of love for people and of feeling of fellowship and good will.

We should all strive to keep the spirit of this Christmas season throughout the coming months, and the YWCA will attempt to help us do that. They will be around to bring the glow of the old Christmas spirit back to each of us in the spring. Until then the YWCA wishes you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Management Class Schedules Banquet
Members of Dr. Robert Haley's business management class will hold their semester banquet at Lausanne hall on January 14 at 6 p.m.

As a summary for the first semester course, the dinner will honor the approximately 30 guest speakers who have attended the classes and lectured on problems of business management. These men are outstanding in their business fields from all over the northwest.

Following the banquet will be a question-answer period by the students and their guests.

Dr. Haley, in trying to make his class unique, has spent his own time and money trying to find speakers that would give valuable assistance to students interested in the field of business. His course is open to anyone, and the lectures may be attended by the public.

Choir Alum Sings With Harvard Group
Don Brand, '52 graduate now studying for a master's degree in education, has been elected to the Harvard Glee club. The organization will sing two concerts with the Boston Symphony and will tour west to Chicago in the spring.

Brand was a student at Willamette for five years earning a B. A. degree and getting his teaching certificate. He was a member of the Willamette cappella choir during that time.

Barbara Baker

Poetry and a box of candy announced the engagement of Barbara Baker to Bob Blakesly at the Pi Beta Phi Christmas party Monday evening.

Blakesly, a senior at Amherst college in Massachusetts, is a member of Phi Alpha Psi, and is a pre-ministerial major.

Hoy-Gaynor
Sigma Alpha Epsilon members travelled via chartered bus to Portland and Forest Grove last week to announce the engagement of two couples.

Dick Hoy and Joanne Gaynor held their serenade at the University of Oregon Medical School, where Miss Gaynor is in nurse's training.

Hoy, a junior, is majoring in physical education, and Joanne is in her first year of nursing.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Easton-Cedargreen
Dave Easton and Mary Cedargreen held their engagement serenade in Forest Grove, where she lives.

Easton is a sophomore pre-med major, and Miss Cedargreen formerly was a student at the University of Oregon.

Colvard-Lee
Announced at the Phi Delta Theta dance was the engagement of Bill Colvard to Miss Othelene Lee, of Salem.

Miss Lee, a former member of Kappa Kappa Gamma at the University of Oregon, is at present employed with the Ladd and Bush bank. Colvard, a senior member of Phi Delta Theta, is a business major.

Sollie-Smith Marriage
News of the marriage of Sue Sollie and Don Smith was revealed on campus this week.

The wedding was held in Stevenson, Wash., on November 27, with Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Anita Jones, sister of the groom, witnessing the ceremony.

Dead January to Be Reality

Menashe Backs Spring Rule

"Social dead month will be a reality this January" stated Ruben Menashe, student body first vice-president.

Last spring, the activities board re-worded the ruling, which beforehand stated that no social activities would be allowed. The rule now reads:

The month of January shall be dead month, during which time the following shall be excluded: dances, class parties, ASWU events, retreats, firesides, and exchange dinners, University sponsored events, faculty sponsored events for ASWU, recitals except student recitals, intramurals the week before final exams, and programs, parties, meetings, movies, speakers by peripheral, service, and honorary groups.

However, the activities board has the right to overrule the law in case of special events, such as the Isaac Stern concert January 28.

"The ruling is for the benefit of the students," reminded Menashe. "By outlawing these events, everyone, no matter how many social activities he may engage in, will have the opportunity to hit the books for finals."

2 Campus Lawmen Attracted to Meet

Two members of the Willamette law school faculty are scheduled to attend the annual meeting of the Association of American Law Schools in Chicago, December 27-30.

Dean Seward Reese and Dr. Reginald Parker will leave after Christmas for the meeting to be held at the city's Edgewater Beach hotel.

Dr. Parker will be chairman of a roundtable on administrative law. Last year Dean Reese filled a similar position.

Role of Experimental Animals Explained in First Forum Talk

Dr. Frank J. Bauer, now conducting experiments in the Eaton basement to measure rat learning and the effects of ionization, discussed the use of animals in experimental psychology at the first faculty forum held last Tuesday night.

Dr. Bauer, after explaining the procedure of his current project, said that the relative learning capacities of young and old rats has been and remains a matter of contention.

A basic problem in experiments, he said, is adequate control of motivation. The water maze being used in the local project creates equal motivation for young and old: to escape the water. He pointed out, however, that a maze is in itself a rough measure because normal variations in the animals are always present.

Interest in electro-convulsive shock, used as therapy in treating the insane, has also prompted experimentation with rats. The apparent effect is to cause forgetting of conflicts, either temporarily or permanently. Physiological effects are also apparent.

Dr. Bauer related earlier experience in noting the effect of high pitched sound on subject rats by placing the animal under a wash tub wired with a door bell. The sound caused audiogenetic convulsions by stimulating the release of energy to a point where it can no longer be controlled by the animal.

The use of animals in experimentation, Dr. Bauer concluded, can contribute a great deal to the knowledge of the effects of early experience on later mental health and socialization, as well as in other fields of human personality.

Young GOP's Write to Ike

A letter from Willamette Young Republicans condemning the methods of Sen. McCarthy and his investigating committee and supporting the president's foreign policy was sent President Eisenhower following a resolution at their December 10 meeting.

The letter stated, "We believe in maintaining the loyalty of government personnel, it is necessary that investigations of individual loyalty be carried out in such a scrupulously fair and unprejudiced manner as not to jeopardize the reputation and morale of loyal government employees."

In backing Eisenhower, the Young Republicans registered "approval and support of the policies of your administration, and in particular, your policies concerning foreign relations and the problem of subversives in government."

Thornton Sidesteps Issues In Speech at Demo Meeting

Attorney General Robert A. Thornton, the only democrat in a major state elective office, remained non-committal for the main part on specific issues at the Young Democrat meeting Tuesday night, explaining that he did not wish to get into any political tangles while in office.

Accident Victims Improving Slowly

Carol Litchfield, one of two Willamette women injured in the traffic accident which killed three other people Nov. 25, is reported to have improved since her relapse last weekend. She is still in a coma but has begun to respond to stimuli and her temperature has gone down, according to Dave Jackson who talked to her parents Tuesday.

The other student, Jo Ann Curry, is steadily improving. However, contrary to previous reports, neither of the women will be able to return next semester.

Miss Litchfield is in Providence hospital and Miss Curry is in Physicians and Surgeons hospital, both in Portland.

He also stated that he had no plans for the Oregon governorship since the office of attorney general is too important to be a political stepping stone.

His earlier stand in state politics that Oregon should enter the federal trial case in defense of national ownership of tidelands oil did not result in any action, but he still maintained that federal ownership was constitutional.

In answer to a question about republican presidential candidates in '56, Thornton predicted Dewey and McCarthy in the running.

Salem attorney Steve Anderson, former national Young Republican officer, will be the next guest speaker, reports President Fenton Hughes. Anderson, now a democrat, will relate his experiences in practical politics.

'Cats Face OCE, CWCE; League Play to Follow

While most of the student body is enjoying their Christmas vacation, the Bearcat basketball squad will be hard at work preparing for Northwest conference play with three non-league tussles.

Tomorrow night the Bearcats travel to Monmouth to meet the Oregon College of Education squad. Then Willamette will host Central Washington College of Education Friday and Saturday, January 1 and 2, in the last pre-conference games. League play for the Bearcats starts January 8 against Whitman here at home.

Willamette and OCE have met in two informal scrimmages before the start of season play and the Bearcats finished ahead in scoring both times.

Information on CWCE is incomplete, but the Washingtonians gave Gonzaga a battle before losing and lost to Whitman 59-53.

Frosh Whip Willamina In First Tilt of Season

The Willamette Bearkittens opened their season Wednesday with a 71-50 win over the Willamina Associated plywood team on the home courts.

Ken Hotaling led the frosh with 12 points and Dave Johnson and Bob Miller, both from Salem, followed with ten points each.

Intramural Basketball Tournaments Interrupted by Christmas Vacation

With the intramural basketball tournaments in their second and third rounds, play has been stopped and will resume after the Christmas vacation.

The "A" league will re-open play on Tuesday, January 5, while the "B" league will begin action the following night. The "C" league will resume play Saturday, January 9.

In the opening round of the

"A" league the Wits beat the Law school 32-18 and the Betas dropped the Sigs, 33-24. One more game remains and it is between the SAE's and Baxter. The Phi Delt's drew a bye in the first round.

The Sigs downed the Phi Delt's 38-23 and the Baxter team stopped the SAE's 25-23 in the opening round of the "C" league. The Betas held a bye in the "C" league's first round.

The "B" league which had only one game this week saw the Sigs sneak past the Phi Delt's 38-35 in an overtime contest. The score was knotted at 34-all after the completion of the fourth quarter.

DG's Take Badminton; Swimming Meet Near

The Delta Gamma's won the intramural badminton crown for the second straight year as they turned in a 11-1 record in league play.

A one-day swimming meet will be the next women's intramural activity and it will be held early in January.

Mary and Sophia Polales, Judy Hitt and Nan Kinsell were on the winning Delta Gamma team. Lausanne came in second and the Pi Phi's were next. Town-Bishop and the Chi O's tied for fourth and the Alpha Chi's finished last.

'Mural Bowlers Finish First Round of Action

Intramural bowling play for the first of three rounds has been completed and the second round will start in January.

The Sigs won the title in the "A" league while the Betas and the Phi Delt's are tied in the "B" league excluding yesterday's results which were unavailable at press time.

Bearcats Split Series With Loggers; Lose to Chico State on Free Throws

Still failing to hit all four quarters, the Willamette Bearcats dropped decisions to College of Puget Sound and Chico State while winning only one and that the first game against CPS.

In the 73-67 loss to Chico State Wednesday night, the Bearcats lost the game at the free throw won Friday's game 67-61 on a fourth quarter comeback, while Saturday the Loggers won 65-52, leading most of the way.

The results of the second Willamette-Chico State game were not available at press time, but will appear in the next issue of the Collegian.

In that fourth period rally Willamette held CPS to three points while scoring 17 points. Pete Reed, who did not start, led the rally, and the game scoring with 16 points. Saturday the CPS Loggers trailed momentarily, but took an 8-7 lead and then remained ahead for the rest of the game.

line. Willamette hit for 31 field goals while Chico made 30. In free throws the Californians made 13 and Willamette five, all by Dick Hoy. Except for the early moments of the game, the Bearcats led in the first half. In the second half the Bearcats tied the score three times, but Chico had it and the game, too. George Maderos led all scorers with 26 points. Pete Reed was tops for Willamette with 18.
