

THE Collegian

Voice of the Willamette campus
since 1889

VOLUME CXV ISSUE XXIV

www.wucollegian.com

APRIL, 2005

ASWU declares martial law /2

THE Collegian

2004-05 staff

Editor-in-Chief

David Brent

spendingpoliticalcapital@us.gov

Managing Editor

Dr. Tobias Funke

twinwreck@willamette.edu

Production Manager

Tom Waits

twaits@willamette.edu

News Editors: Mary Kate and Ashley

Olsen

ycugctitude@willamette.edu

hllhouse@willamette.edu

Arts & Reviews Editor: Jackson Pellack

jpollack@willamette.edu

Opinions Editor: Bill O'Reilly

fairandrightwing@foxnews.com

Sports Editor: Janet Jackson

jjackson@youllneverknow@willamette.edu

Study Abroad Editor: Ferdinand Magellan

Photo Editor: Peter Parker aka "Spideyman"

pparker@willamette.edu

Advertising Manager: Willie Loman

wloman@willamette.edu

Accounts Manager: Rebo Gandhi

rgandhi@willamette.edu

Designer/Copy Editors: Jennifer Lopez,

Shakira & Veronica Comingstone

Imaging Technician: Elizabeth Cauley

Reporters & Photographers

Gez "The Magician" Bluth, Kim Jongil,

contact us

Phone: 503.572.6053 Fax: 503.572.4377

Email: collegian@willamette.edu

Mail: Willamette University

900 State St., Salem, Oregon 97301

Location: Putnam University Center
Third Floor, Student Publications Office

office hours

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF	MW 9:00-4:00
MANAGING EDITOR	MW 4:00-5:00
PRODUCTION MANAGER	TH 12:00-1:30 PM
ACCOUNTS MANAGER	TH 12:00-4:00

advertising

Classifieds and page space available. For rates and press schedule contact Advertising Manager Nick Patten by phone, fax or email.

policies

The contents of this publication are the opinions and responsibility of the staff of the Willamette University Collegian, and do not necessarily reflect the policies of ASWU or Willamette University.

page 1 photo credit

one: the guy in the tank

Editor's Disclaimer: The Collegian will return to (relative) normalcy next week. In the meantime, please enjoy our April Fool's edition. If it is not clear, all the articles are completely false, as are the quotations, which are mostly attributed to people staffers went to high school with. April Fool's. Also, please note that study abroad and especially the advertisements in this issue are NOT phony. Study abroad is just wacky.

ASWU declares martial law

By FRANCISCO FRANCO
ffranco@socialismisevil.edu

Willamette's student government, the Associated Students of Willamette University, declared martial law Monday after a round of controversial and contested executive elections.

As ASWU tanks thundered through Jackson Plaza, senior Bracken Killpack, former ASWU president, declared himself "Supreme Glorious Presidente for Life."

According to a statement delivered via a bloody horse head to the Collegian office, the state of martial law will last indefinitely and "criticism will not be tolerated."

Supreme, Glorious Presidente for Life Killpack delivered the martial law decree from the roof of the Splendid Fortress of Glory, Power and Virility, formerly the University Center. Accompanied by a junta consisting of Assistant Presidente for Life Tyler Reich, Vice-President of the Magnificent Proletariat Steph Harding and Keeper of the Ever Overflowing Coffers Weston Eiler, Killpack spoke via megaphone to a huddled crowd of underclassmen guarded by Campus Safety Officers.

"Today marks a new era for Willamette University. No longer will the student body be troubled by temptations of false democracy stoked by mendacious counter revolutionaries. With my rule we will have not only the first university in the West, but the most glorious!"

Opposition leaders hiding in exile outside Chemeketa Community College called the change a "travesty for Willamette" and called on the international community to intervene. United Nations officials were unavailable for comment at the time of printing.

When asked about

COURTESY OF THE PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF WILLAMETTE
Supreme Glorious Presidente for Life Bracken Killpack.

ASWU's declaration of martial law, sophomore Jane Underhill responded, "I don't really know. I voted yes on the last amendment if that helps."

According to Dean of Campus Life Bob Hawkinsawn, ASWU's declaration of martial law is "under review" by university officials who will rule on its constitutionality "in the next couple of weeks. In the meantime, have a great end of the semester and good luck on finals."

Recent graduate hired in real job

By PAMELA ANDERSON
pandersa@youknowyouwatchporn.edu

Willamette alumnus Corey Bender defied the odds last month by finding gainful employment in the area of his major. He is one of few Willamette graduates to find employment outside of the retail/fast food/mental bitch work sector in their first year out of school.

"In my many years at Willamette, I don't know that we have ever seen this kind of job market success out of a recent graduate," Career Advisor Nancy Northaus said. "Normally all the resume padding and overzealous letters of rec in the world won't get you an interview once they see the transcript from a liberal arts college. I think his lucky rabbit's foot had something to do with it, if you want to know the truth."

Norhaus added, however, that Bender had something special. "He was after all a two-year member of HHR and a founding member of the Fantasy Combat Society," she noted.

Bender majored in English and minored in women's studies while at Willamette, will soon start work with the Arkansas-based company Jameson, Jeremy and Carrera, which specializes in financial advising to start-up companies in the adult film industry. According to hiring officials, Bender's liberal arts education was actually a perk in the selection process.

"When first reviewing his resume, we were turned off by such skills as 'ability to think independently.' That wasn't really what we were looking for," Patience Churchward, Executive Employment Official of JJ&C, said. Upon hearing of the employment offer from JJ&C, Bender reportedly withdrew his standing applications for positions as a women's shoe clerk at Nordstrom, a barista at Starbucks and a back up dancer for Celine Dion in her Las Vegas sensation, "A New Day."

First male hired in support staff and he's a W.A.S.P.

By MALCOLM X
mx@therevolutionisnow.ca

In keeping with their long-standing commitment to diversity, WU has hired a male administrative assistant for the Office of Strategic Initiatives. Daniel Bennington will begin his secretarial and administrative management duties on June 1, after finishing his tenure with Harvard University office of Clerical Resources.

"We realized that there is a serious lack of males in administrative support positions here at Willamette, especially a W.A.S.P. upper-middle class from-a-two-parent-functional-family male," WU Director of Human Resources Sean Terry said. "We are certain he is the right man for the job...that's a joke you know."

Willamette has continually been on the leading edge of progressive gender initiatives with having the first NCAA female football player. The university has also pushed hard to close the pay-gap and lack of gender equity in terms of insurance and other benefits. Yet, all of that is taking a deserved back seat with hiring of Bennington.

Quad: it's just grass people

STUDY ABROAD-Yeah, it is real

By CHARLI MILLIONS, LIZZIE ROBERTSON & CHARLOTTE TURNER
cmillion@willamette.edu, lrobertso@willamette.edu
& cturner@willamette.edu

We come from Aberystwyth, a University town in Wales (and yes, Wales has its own language - Welsh), however, we are not Welsh as many people mistakenly think. We have previously been dubbed "The Welsh Girls," which to us conjures up images of voluptuously shaped women dancing on hills with cows and farms in the background. Actually, we are English. After deciding to come to Willamette, we were so excited to start out on our "great adventure" and had fantastical hopes about what would happen. However, what we have encountered here at Willamette has been very unusual.

We were surprised, to say the least, to find that American students actually go to all their classes and are passionate about what they are studying. I feel I should add that students would turn up in their pajamas, bring mugs of coffee (Starbucks takeaway cups really become a fashion statement, don't they?) and leave class to go to the bathroom (doesn't anyone ask to pee?).

Willamette students also seem to actually take pride in the school, which is another odd thing to us. In Wales, it is a bit lame to wear the UWA (University of Wales, Aberystwyth) jumper, but here, everyone has school pride (woo, go Bearcats!) and they wear it. Even we own Willamette stuff, and we are only here for a semester! I think the fact that we own more

"American students actually go to all their classes and are passionate about what they are studying."

ENGLISH GIRLS
who walk the quad

KARL ROVE

Charli Millions and Lizzie Robertsons enter the quad and walk on it

Willamette stuff than Aber stuff really says something.

One of the funniest things we find here is the Quad - hardly anyone walks across it. Even if they are late to class, people seem to walk around the Quad instead of crossing the grass. Why? It's just grass people... Yeah, the forefathers of Willamette might have dug it out to build that cute building (people here say that things are 'cute'. Everything is cute - bookstores, outfits, people, buildings... bearcats, even though someone told us they are the ugliest animals ever), but it is still grass.

Don't compliment us on our pants - that makes us think our knickers (panties to you) are on show. Those things you wear on your legs are called trousers to us, not pants. So you can imagine our surprise when one of our roommates asked if we minded if she took her pants off in bed...

In short, our experience here has been very different to home and how we imagined it would be, yet we are thoroughly enjoying being rebellious and walking across that quad grass. So we bid you adieu and remember, fellow Willamette students - Ya'll have a nice day now.

WITS help desk assistant assaults 70 students

By BILL GATES
bgates@computergeeksgotthegirlsintheend.edu

After the sixth call in a row by an administrator asking how to set-up Netscape e-mail, WITS Help Desk Assistant Todd Marchmont went on a violent rampage with a USB Flash Drive. Wielding the tiny plastic device that looks like a childproof Swiss Army knife, Marchmont assaulted 70 people before wading in the Millstream to "wash away his sins."

"He came out of nowhere with that handy-dandy super cool flash drive and he stabbed me over 80 times with it." Sophomore Aaron Banks said. "As you can see I have a minor bruise on my left arm."

Apparently frustrated by his inability to inflict pain and bodily injury on the many users who called with banal and annoying questions, Martin then turned the USB key on himself continually poking it into his forehead.

"If he wanted to do some real damage, maybe he could have used a paperclip or something," WITS Executive Director Maria Rodriguez said. "But everyone knows you can't hurt anyone with a USB Flash Drive...the idiot!"

Marchmont is under continually observation at the Mental Health Wing of the Salem Hospital for the foreseeable future. As he was being pulled out of the Mill Stream, he turned to crowd of onlookers and mumbled something about shutting up and rebooting.

AN INJURED PARTY

USB drive collected for evidence.

News in brief

Poignant away messages reveals deep turmoil of student relationships

By THE DUDE WHO PEED IN THE BASEMENT AT THE TSUNAMI PARTY
punchedbypots@college.com

Willamette student Lindsay Arbuckle believe that being so in love lets u get so hurt (sic), according to her recent Instant Messenger away message. Junior StrwbryCowgrl, alias Arbuckle, stated early Tuesday morning that she was "done with this, done with you, time 2 move on...." Sources within the university say that she just does this for attention, but usually uses Jack Johnson quotes.

Politics department won't let Exercise Science sit at the cool kids table in bizarre role-reversal

By ROBERT PUTNAM
rputnam@socialcapital.com

In a strange parallel to their high-school lives, members of the Politics department refused to let Exercise Science professors sit at their table at a faculty barbeque. The groups have been quietly warring since the mid 1990s, with Politics professors alleging that Exercise Science studies do not belong in an "elite liberal arts environment," according to one Politics professor, who wished to be identified as "Friedrich H."

Exercise Science faculty members were told that the table was "overfull" and that the group was debating the origins of liberalism, a subject that Exercise Science academics "would probably consider uninteresting compared to football injuries."

Studio art professor Giorgi Dorfman said that the Politics professors were acting like "maladjusted douche bags."

Smullin table humped on

By JACK, JIM AND JOSE
thirdfloorsmullin@humpn.net

For the one hundred and seventy fifth time, two Willamette students engaged in sexual intercourse on the large oak conference table in Smullin 321 at around 1:05 a.m. last night.

Other uses for the room include World Views classes, a seminar concerning Latin American financial crises, and economics department staff meetings, but the primary use of the room remains late-night, alcohol fueled, love-humping. Campus-wide, roommates have heralded the room as "better than having them do it in here, man."

The couple, Junior Kevin Henschel and Sophomore Katie Bessert described the union as "awesome" and "brief," respectively.

SAE Member lights his chest hair on fire, jumps off deck in performance piece lauded as "brave," "original"

By RON
hpt4hostesses@theranch.net

In a stunning show of artistry and grace, senior Mikey DeMaria lit his chest hair on fire and then jumped off a balcony, annihilating a shrub below. The act was a "symbolic representation of the pain of persecuted Tibetan and Burmese political prisoners", according to DeMaria, who had just finished 90 ounces of malt liquor as part of his "pre-art making ritual."

The leap was heralded by spectators as a "brave statement against totalitarian political rule" and "the funniest thing to happen today." No injured were reported, but political dissidents remain jailed in both Myanmar and China. DeMaria has vowed to repeat the performance "until the champions of justice are free."

TIUA Peer Tutors Needed - Fall 2005

TIUA is looking for students interested in helping non-native speakers of English with assignments in English classes and with class assignments in content-based electives taught in English during fall semester, 2005. Tutors are expected to work up to 6 hours per week in the Kaneko Learning Center (KLC) located in on the first floor of Kaneko. Tutoring will take place from 7:00PM - 11:00PM Sunday through Thursday. Some training in spring semester and during Opening days in August is required for those who are hired.

Qualifications: Strong interest in working with Japanese speakers of English and a strong academic record; Experience in learning a foreign language, experience living or traveling overseas, and/or previous teaching or tutoring experience is preferred.

Pay: $8.00 per hour.

Dates: TIUA fall semester follows the same schedule as Willamette University.

Applications will be received until Monday, April 11th. Academic credit (.5 or 1.0) is available for service as a peer tutor. Please inquire.

If you have any questions, please contact Prof. Wayne Gregory
Director of Academic Affairs, TIUA - x3306

Applications are available at the information desk at TIUA or online at:
<http://www.tiua.edu/about/opportunities.shtml>

Housemates still not sure who guy under coffee table is

By ROBERT GOULE

youwinyoualwaysdo@thatswhycomeuphere.com

The identity of an adult white male found passed out under a coffee table after a Bistro party is still unknown, say Bellevue Street residents. The man was initially identified as "Josh's roommate from Terra who transferred to Chemeketa," according to Chris Hewitt, a resident of the house. Further inspection revealed that the passed out male was not Josh's former roommate, but instead a male at least 40 years old.

"That really deepened the mystery. We've had townies show up before, but never an old guy. God, I hope he isn't our landlord," Hewitt said. The man appeared to be sleeping off a bender of several days.

"We're just gonna have to wait until he gets up, I guess," Hewitt said.

Willamette student studying local indigenous justice movements "totally hates" living in "sketchy" Salem neighborhood

By THE CHANNEL FOUR NEWS TEAM

yazzflute@auqalung.com

Junior Andi Mazzitelli expressed displeasure about her current neighborhood, located behind Safeway and populated mostly by low-income families. Mazzitelli, who hails from Bellevue, Wash. is studying indigenous justice movements and counts Che Guevara as one of her personal heroes, immortalizing him with a wall-sized poster in her living room.

"Salem is so shitty, I live in this really sketchy neighborhood. My neighbors are meth dealers or something, and they play their Mariachi music so loud," Mazzitelli said.

"I can't wait until next semester when I go abroad to Bangladesh. Those people have so much to teach me, I can just tell," Mazzitelli said. Mazzitelli majors in global justice studies and minors in being a total tool.

Willamette to hire 8 million new faculty members

By GOB BLUTH (pronounced J)

hermano@bananastand.com

Willamette University will hire approximately 8 million new faculty members making it the "largest university in the Pacific Northwest," according to a statement released by administration officials Sunday.

The new faculty members are purported to be an integral part of the Residential Commons plan, now titled "Operation Megalopolis." Willamette expects to buy properties north of Willamette.

By 2007, the campus is expected to border the greater Portland metropolitan area.

As part of the master plan for Willamette's 30-year expansion, faculty members will live with students in "mini-towns" surrounding dormitories.

According to statistics released by the University the student to faculty ratio will drop from 11:1 to approximately 1:4,706.

University officials were unable to cite the exact increase in tuition saying "tuition will always increase with expenses."

HEADLINES

Delusional career aspirations gently stoked by Nancy Norton

Estranged Sigma Chi symbolically un-pops collar, removes white baseballcap

Long walk to Kaneko fails to mitigate nightly pizza gorging

Bush elementary mentor accidentally shows mentee his bong

Wholesale slaughter of ducklings to begin next Friday

College Republicans hold "hug a rich asshole day"

Minority student not stalked by University photographer on sunny day

Collegian produces typoe-free issue

Abroad experience introduces student to plight of world's poor, adorable ethnic handicrafts

New Residence Life report harshly criticizes use of drugs and alcohol, loud music

Students for Peace and Justice reveal source of all the world's problems: Bush administration

SPRING SUPER SALE

TUESDAY, APRIL 5TH - WEDNESDAY, APRIL 6TH. 9 AM TO 5 PM.

- 50% off Rhodia Writing Pads!*
- Gear Hat - $7.98!*
- Bargain Books Bin!*
- Selected Clothing 50% off!*
- School Supplies 40-50% off!*
- Selected Art Supplies 50% off!*
- $5 Bin!*
- Calendar Blow Out - 75% off!*
- And More!
- Drop by and check it out!

* No Additional Discounts

THE WILLAMETTE STORE
www.thewillamettystore.com

Classified Employee of the Year nomination form

Nominee's Name _____
 Job Title _____
 Department _____ Phone _____
 Nominator's Name _____
 Department _____ Phone _____

My working relationship with the nominee is (check one)
 Supervisor WU Colleague Co-worker Student Other

Please return completed forms to the Human Resources Office; nominations may also be sent by email to Carol Black (cblack@willamette.edu).

The deadline for Classified Employee of the Year nominations is April 30.

Award recipients will be selected for contributions such as:
 -Contributing to outstanding and sustained improvements in service to faculty, staff, students, alumni, and other constituencies.
 -Significantly improving or enhancing the quality of campus life in ways that make a substantial difference for colleagues and constituents.
 -Developing creative solutions to problems that result in significantly more effective, efficient University operations.
 -Facilitating the University's changing culture as well that promote interdepartmental teamwork, enhance communication and foster commitment and productivity.
 -Contributing as a steward of the community at large.
 *Please provide a detailed description on a separate piece of paper explaining why you feel that individual should receive the Classified Employee of the Year Award. All nominations will be confidential. The winner will be announced at the Next Classified Employee of the Year Lecture.

Coup d'Coop

Salem Monthly goes postal

Staff members of local independent newspaper Salem Monthly staged a dangerous and elaborate take-over of the Willamette Week and Portland Mercury newspapers in what top market analysts are calling

GHENGIS KHAN

"the best thing to happen to journalism ever."

The two Portland-based newspapers were overrun by Salem Monthly staff late Sunday night in what can only be described as an ingenious bloody coup.

"It was horrible,"

Mercury film editor Erik Henriksen said. "There were horses, and a man on fire, and someone got killed with a trident."

Not all Willamette Week and Mercury staff members were killed. Some were merely critically injured. Police arrived on the scene moments later and quickly assessed the situation.

"I've never seen anything like it," Portland officer Hank Feta said. "[Salem Monthly publisher] A.P. Walther was standing on a burning pile of back issues and speaking in tongues."

Not everyone was shocked by the take-over, however.

"I would have preferred to have been bought-out, but hey, we had it coming," Mercury editor Wm. Steven Humphrey said. "I got to watch Zac Pennington get bitch-slapped, which was cool."

Surviving Willamette Week staff members were much more upset by Salem Monthly's victory.

"Those bastards have opened Pandora's box," Willamette Week editor Mark Zusman said. "We're scrambling to organize the survivors from both papers and when we do, those bastards better look out. Gosh, they sure are bastards."

Most Salem

because they were on the run from the law. Arts and Entertainment editor Reina Pike accepted a call on a pay phone in an undisclosed location.

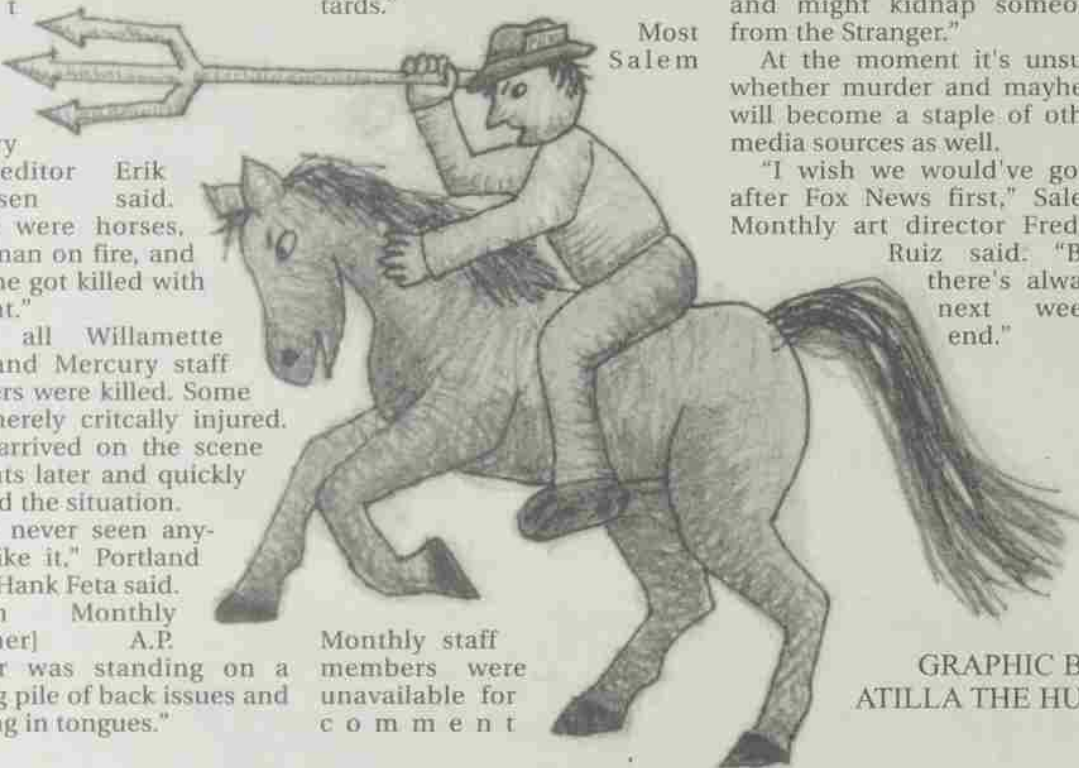

"We rocked their world," Pike said over the sound of roaring water. "The literary power I now wield glows like a fiery javelin. I'm flying, Jack. I'm flying."

The question now is whether the Salem Monthly's style of aggressive journalism will catch on.

"I don't want to kill anyone, but I like where they're going with it," Statesman Journal editor Reese Davids said. "I'm taking a trip to Seattle next month and might kidnap someone from the Stranger."

At the moment it's unsure whether murder and mayhem will become a staple of other media sources as well.

"I wish we would've gone after Fox News first," Salem Monthly art director Freddy Ruiz said. "But there's always next week-end."

GRAPHIC BY ATILLA THE HUN

Monthly staff members were unavailable for comment

Have an Impact!

If you received the Campus Health Action on Tobacco (CHAT) survey and have not responded, please take the time to complete it. Researchers at the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center need your help to understand current tobacco use trends among college students. Even if you do not use tobacco, your opinions are important to our research efforts!

Questions or concerns? Please call 1-800-513-0371

Huasauf rocks North America

BY THE GYSHEN
gyshe@thehotness.com

Ladies and gentlemen, an uber new pop-indie-rock-punk-world beat European band has hit the music scene. Hold on to your wallets and charge up your iTunes account because you are in for a rock-your-socks-off musical experience unlike any other. That's right, Huasauf has hit the good ol' US of A. Huasauf has Spears and Simpson shaking in their Prada boots. Ani and the Killers have decided to retire and Elvis fans are burning down Graceland (Elvis has made no comment).

Several newly devoted fans were seemingly available to comment on their new perspective of life after hearing the bodacious beats of Huasauf's new stateside release, "Me is of so much Hottness now" produced by USSRecords. Most fans would not take out their headphones to answer questions. However, fan Andrea Wallace ripped out her headphone and began spewing praise, "I used to be a major John Denver fan. I remember rockin' out to Johnny in my Subaru on the way to Colorado. But now I have revoked my membership in his fan club 'Rocky Mountain High,' and I am currently making a nationwide ad campaign to become the US representative for the International Huasauf Fan Club 'Only ones of prettiness.' So, remember Andrea Wallace for US Rep in the upcoming election."

Wallace then promptly placed her iPodMini headphone back in and danced across the quad showing off her dance moves and limited edition Huasauf Tour shirt. When asked where she got the shirt Wallace said she "found it fare and square, don't be a poser" and then proceeded to bust moves all the way to the Art Department.

We were lucky enough to catch up with two members of the new music sensation. Do you think that your US tour is going to revolutionize the music world? "Dah, yes of courses it has," Bongo Player Gyhus stated rubbing the powdered sugar from under his nose. "We are so much fire now here, it is of crazyness how much known we is of now here." The other lovely member Micheckosovicksiz was asked to comment however she decided to answer each question with a sexy little hair toss and sexy glance at the camera.

Career Services Workshops

(Parents Conference Room UC 3rd floor)

March 30, Wed	OLAPC: Job Fair Info 5:00 - 5:45 pm
March 31, Thurs.	Job Search Strategies 6:00 - 7:00 pm
April 4, Mon.	OLAPC: Job Fair Info 4:00 - 4:45 pm
April 4, Mon.	Resumes/Cover Letters 6:00 - 7:00 pm
April 5, Tues.	Effective Interviewing 4:30 - 5:30 pm
April 7, All Day	OLAPC Job Fair University of Portland

Sparks desk attendant checks ID

By IVANA PABST
idrinkpabst@capstacotruck.org

In an unprecedented event an ID Checker at the Sparks Center stopped staring into space and scratching head in time to check an ID.

"I was so stunned I couldn't move. I just froze. I mean, you never expect it to happen to you," said junior Kim Jung Il.

Il eventually regained composure enough to pull his ID from his gym bag, and present it to the checker.

"I wasn't exactly sure what to do with it at first, but Coach James told us about it [I think] at one of those work study meetings. I just want to do a good job," said freshman ID Checker Bob Jim.

"This is why freshman CAN'T work at Sparks," said enraged senior Yukaiko Bono. "They get overzealous and just screw things up for the rest of us."

Bono was turned away from the weight room after failing to produce her ID card. "Come on, I live off campus, no one can expect me to have in on me. Plus it's not like I'm just some poor person or something. I obviously go here."

Campus Safety responded to over 30 calls from outraged students over the ID checking night. Campus Safety would only tell the Collegian that several students reported to feeling violated, one campus safety officer reported his shock at learning that 30 WU students even go to work out.

LOU SMARVIN

Kim Jung Il is accosted by a zealous ID checker.

THE WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY MUSIC DEPARTMENT PRESENTS:
DRAMATIC VOCAL ARTS ENSEMBLE IN

COMEDY TONIGHT!

FRIDAY APRIL 1ST 8 P.M.
SUNDAY APRIL 3RD 3 P.M.
HUDSON HALL
WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY

GENERAL ADMISSION TICKETS $5
STUDENTS/STAFF ARE FREE WITH ID. FOR TICKET SALES AND INFORMATION CALL
(503) 370-6255

At The Ram...Seven Days of Value!

MONDAY

Two Top Sirloin
Dinners $13.99

Served with Salad, Fries
and Onion Ring

TUESDAY

Kids 10 & Under Eat Free

With purchase of each adult entree

WEDNESDAY

Chicken & Chips

All-You-Can-Eat
$11.99

THURSDAY

Fish & Chips

All-You-Can-Eat
$11.99

FRIDAY & SATURDAY

Steak, Prawn & Salmon
Combo $17.99

Served with signature wedge salad

SATURDAY

All-You-Can-Eat
Ribs $17.99

SUNDAY

Burger Deal

Buy Any Gourmet Burger,
Get the 2nd of equal or lesser value for $2.99
Served with Fries

RAM™

Restaurant & Brewery

515 12TH STREET • SALEM • 503-363-1904 • WWW.THERAM.COM