

Tuesday Chapel to Launch Week of Religious Emphasis

An annual event since 1948, Religious Emphasis Week will be observed again next week at Willamette under the auspices of the Inter-Faith Council. The program of events will be launched next Tuesday with a 10 a. m. chapel and will continue until Friday when the presentation of "Through A Glass, Darkly" will be given by the Willamette University Players under the direction of Dean Graunke. The events of the four day "Week" are in the charge of Vernon Groves, who was appointed by the Council.

Olds Featured Speaker

Featured speaker of the week will be Dr. Glenn Olds from the University of Denver. Dr. Olds, chaplain at Denver, is a 1942 graduate of Willamette university. He graduated cum laude with a B.A. degree. Students and faculty will hear him in chapel at 10 a. m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and will meet Dr. Olds in an informal coffee hour at 4 p. m. on Tuesday.

Poster, Essay Winners

A highlight of the week already completed is the poster and essay contest centered on the theme "Christ's Way Today?" Carl Blanes, chairman of the contest, has announced that Betty Jean Simpson took top honors in the poster contest and Philip Shaw in the essay contest. The winning poster will appear on the program of events for the week which is to be distributed in Tuesday chapel.

Rademaker on Panel

Dr. John Rademaker of the Willamette faculty will be the moderator for the panel discussion of "Courtship and Marriage" to be held on the first floor of Waller hall on Wednesday at 4 p. m. Leaders of the discussion are scheduled as Mrs. Ruby Bunnell of the Marion County Health Office, Miss Joan Seavey of Oregon College of Education, and Rev. Fred G. Scherer of Eugene. All of the leaders are considered experts in their respective fields of health, psychology and religion. Dr. Norman Huffman, Inter-Faith Council advisor, asks that students leave discussion suggestions in his box by the switch board in Eaton hall. All students are invited to the panel and the question period after it.

In conjunction with Religious Emphasis Week, Norman Lawson, student chairman of the event, has asked faculty members to discuss religious implications in their courses or to import outside speakers to do the honors.

Firesides Wednesday

Individual living organizations will have firesides on Wednesday evening and they will have dinner guests at 5:30 who will lead discussions of subject matter pertaining to the annual religious event until 7:30 p. m. The guests are to be religious leaders from the surrounding area. The Independent students will meet in Chresto Cottage at 7:30 for a discussion led by Father David Nicholson of St. Benedict's Abbey.

A story about a missionary in China will be shown on Thursday afternoon in Waller hall. The movie is called "Keys of the Kingdom" and stars Gregory Peck.

Trustees Meet

The Willamette Board of Trustees met yesterday in Portland with Dr. G. Herbert Smith, Dr. Fenix, and other Willamette administrators. Important decisions to be made include new appointments, recommendations for staff members, and a regular review of past six months. This is the annual spring meeting of the Board.

Rumors End as Stack Quits; Ogdahl Bids for Vacated Post

By Stan Nelson

Chester R. Stackhouse, athletic director at Willamette, put an end to rumors last Friday when he confirmed at least half of them by announcing his resignation from Willamette. The other half of the rumor had not been okayed by publication time of the Collegian, however, that part of the rumor predicted that Ted Ogdahl, football mentor of Portland's Grant high school and a former star player at Willamette, would be Stackhouse's successor.

A successor to Stackhouse was to be chosen at the regular spring meeting of the board of trustees held yesterday afternoon. A report on who is to be the new coach could not be obtained in time for print in the Collegian.

Ogdahl submitted his application for the post soon after Stackhouse quit. Although at least 12 more applications were received by the university up to the meeting time yesterday, it seems almost a certainty that by the time this paper reaches the public, Ogdahl will be the new addition to the Willamette athletic department. The strength of the rumors, Ogdahl's great coaching record at Grant, and the fact that he is a Willamette graduate are strong indications that he will be the man to succeed Stackhouse.

Stackhouse will continue on his present capacity as athletic director and will guide the track squad to complete three years of coaching at Willamette. He refused to say what he will do after that, but it is possible that he will take up architectural designing as he is known to be proficient at that occupation.

In his letter to President Smith, Stackhouse expressed his regret at having to leave the university but felt that he should pursue his plans to the best of his judgment. Dr. Smith, in his statement, praised Stackhouse for his many achievements since coming to this university.

While at Willamette, Stackhouse has made his main contribution to track where he developed a championship team in only two years to give the school its first Northwest Conference cinder championship. His greatest contribution has been the Willamette Relays which he established last year. Also during Stackhouse's time was the building of the $200,000 McCulloch stadium, something in which he played an important part.

Spring Semester Enrollment Exceeds 1000- It's Men 2 to 1

Registration totals for spring semester reached 1,011 this week, with the men outnumbering the women 657 to 354 according to figures released by Harold B. Jory, registrar.

There are only seventy-five student tickets for the William Warfield concert left. Students who wish to attend are urged to purchase them from the student body office, Will's Music store, Stevens and Sons or representatives in the living organizations.

255 Donate; WU Over Goal

The faculty members and students surpassed the goal of 250 pints of blood last Monday for the second time this year. Two hundred fifty-five donated while only 51 were rejected. Under age and medical reasons were the causes for the rejections. The total volunteers were 306.

Hatfield, chairman of the blood drive, said, "It was a great success. Through splendid cooperation on the part of the student body and faculty the bloodmobile unit collected 255 pints and there were 51 rejects. Totaling those figures we find that 306 Willamette students presented themselves as donors of the student body of approximately one thousand. This is a most enviable record and I wish to express my appreciation for the wonderful turnout and strong support for this worthwhile project."

Last October 262 pints of blood were donated.

The local Red Cross staff was aided by Portland student nurses and Salem residents.

Beta Conclave Opens Today

Representatives are convening today on the Willamette campus for the district convention of Beta Theta Pi. Registration was completed yesterday and a general convention tomorrow morning will complete the schedule for delegates from University of British Columbia, University of Washington, University of Oregon, Oregon State college, and Willamette.

Chairman of the conclave, Duane Denney, has announced that following the meet in Salem the Northwest Beta Songfest will be held in Portland at the Neighbors' of Woodcraft hall at 14th and Morrison under the sponsorship of the Portland alumnae association. Whitman, Idaho, and Washington State will compete in the songfest in addition to those chapters at the conclave.

A breakdown of the totals show 866 enrolled in liberal arts, 71 in music, and 74 in law.

These figures show a loss of 24 students since fall semester, as compared to a loss of 89 last year. The spring 1951 total of 980 was 31 less than present registration.

Several students are still in the process of registering and will increase the final figures slightly more.

Drama Attacks Race Problem

"Through a Glass, Darkly," a one-act play, will be shown on Wednesday and Thursday nights in Waller hall. The drama department is presenting the play on racial prejudice in connection with Religious Emphasis week.

The action of the play takes place during one evening in the Brooklyn home of Aaron Shafer, a Jewish bookkeeper. Aaron is hyper-sensitive because he is a Jew and feels that all Gentiles are against him. He completely dominates his wife, Clara, who is only concerned with keeping peace in the family.

"The climax of the play occurs on the return of their son, Sandy, from a visit in California. He brings with him his bride, a Scotch, Presbyterian girl. Rosalie, Aaron's sister, provides the comedy relief in her pursuit of a husband.

Garold Meinke is directing the production under the supervision of Professor Dean Graunke. The director will use a combination of representational theater and space lighting to create the proper effects.

The cast includes Bob Kaplan, Margaret Conklin, Fred Cummings, Judi Wood, Bob Witham, Kent Lawrence and Ruth Joseph.

debates. Motschenbacher also won the first prize in senior men's extemporaneous speaking while Thomas Scheidel, junior from Salem majoring in speech, took third place.

James Wood, Salem junior at the University, won top prize in senior men's oratory with Motschenbacher taking third.

One of the squad's newest members, Fenton Hughes, freshman from Hillsboro, won the tournament's first prize in impromptu speaking. Second place among the senior men's debaters went to Wood and Scheidel.

The four Willamette men participated in the annual event with the coaches and speech students from 20 other colleges and universities. A total of 150 students entered the variety of contests comprising the tournament.

We're Miffed, But Good

Pardon us for being soreheads, Stack, with you leaving and all that, but wouldn't it have been more fair of you to give the resignation story to all the papers, rather than just to The Statesman?

No matter how small-time the Collegian seems to you, without putting you out too much, we could have broken the story, of prime interest to Willamette students, Friday morning, too. As it was, we printed a story that made us look just a little silly to anyone who read The Statesman the same morning.

News is news. No one likes to be "scooped." Things like that make a paper a little hesitant in giving publicity to a fellow who forgets them. Petty, maybe, but a newspaper has to depend on somebody.

Favorable publicity can be a very powerful thing. —M.L.L.

College Better Than Ever!

The exchange assembly during Tuesday convocation proved to us that colleges are better than ever.

Oregon State presented a fine program of varied and interesting talent. Some of the talent even steamed Hatfield's glasses, so it must have been good.

Colleges of Oregon pulling together can be quite a power, as is evidenced by OFCL, the phone situation, and many small groups who work inter-collegiately.

Exchange assemblies are one way of becoming better acquainted. Willamette owes much to Tom Scheidel, Sherm Bliss, and Paul Barkla, who traveled around making arrangements for the exchange of talent. Oregon State was wonderful, and we're looking forward to the U of Oregon's show. —M.L.L.

D. S. from D. C.

By Don Scarborough

WASHINGTON, D.C. (Special) —I had a talk last week with a very interesting woman. She is Miss Sally Freeman, who, if you remember, gave a hot answer to Editor Mary Louise Lee's letter to Representative John Wood from Idaho. Mr. Wood is anti-United Nations and against the Bretton Woods monetary agreement, UNESCO and any other plan or organization that tends to "weaken American culture."

As I soon learned, his entire staff agrees wholeheartedly with him—especially Miss Freeman, who is, I would guess, in her late forties. I was impressed by the strength of her convictions and couldn't help respecting her even though I didn't agree with her.

I told her I could see nothing wrong with the idea of a U. N. or a UNESCO. She said, "Sonny, we're losing the blood of good, white American boys over in Korea right now because there are others who think the same way." I found out she has lost some close relatives in the last war.

The staff gave about 20 minutes of their time to explain their beliefs. And when I talk to Mr. Wood, who was not in at the time, I will try to retell them. I'm sure it will cause some comment. The letter that appeared in the Collegian brought a letter to Miss Freeman from a Willamette graduate now living in Portland.

Miss Freeman also analyzed my handwriting. She explained that the Rice system "r" I use indicates that this generation is degressing to an era about 50 years ago. I didn't understand exactly what she meant.

Bliss Remembered

Sherm Bliss made quite a mark for himself, I have discovered. One of the profs, Miss Mary Bradshaw, retold to some of us the night he was elected student body president. He was out celebrating and she had to answer the trans-continental phone call that came every half-hour from the Collegian and his fraternity. It was only 12 midnight in Salem, but it was 3 a. m. here.

Both Sherm and Bob Small, however, made quite an academic mark, as both Bob Ulrich and I are learning. The undergraduate school is poor, but the graduate school is actually rated very highly. At least under the new administration which came in this year, it is progressing. Frankly I was expecting several "snap" courses that would give me plenty of time to do my project paper and to see the town—a semester's job in itself.

Courses Same for All

I was shocked to learn that government officials and graduate students working on their masters and doctorates also take these same courses. One prof began his first class by asking for the degrees, previous special courses and the governmental position each student had.

I couldn't believe it when my professor of World Politics announced a term paper and assigned a 900 page book, "Roosevelt and Hopkins," to be read by the following Friday. This was the first day. Profs here do have a sense of humor, however. One stumbled across my handwriting and said, "You write your name like my wife writes orange juice."

Mighty Heavy Schedule

American university wants us to see Washington and despite some heavy classes we are gradually turning into acclimated Washingtonians. They show us the town by giving us almost absolute freedom. Except for my three two and one-half hour night classes and my three morning seminars a week, my time is my own.

Providing we make it to a seminar, we can get up at any time we please, eat when we please, and do whatever we want. We even have meals to clean up our rooms and make our beds. The only hitch is that in one semester we have to write our paper, visit and report on congress and committee hearings, see Washington, Virginia and visit New York, if possible. And to write our papers we have to track down hard-to-find congressmen and government officials. It's surprising how much you can see and learn about a city this way. So far we have found that the easiest way to contact a congressman is to pull him out of a session. It is also surprising how much of the night life you can see if you know you only have a limited time in which to see it.

About the most useful thing we learn is to budget both time and money.

Weeks With WU Prof

I have been working the past few days with Prof. Chester Kaiser, who is on leave from the Willamette history department while earning his doctorate at American. He is also Willamette's faculty representative to the Washington semester. He said there are about 14 ex-Willamette men in Washington and we hope to have a reunion soon. One of Willamette's most recent graduates is Robert Sayre, who is working in the state department on the point four program in South America.

Observations

(the high and low of it)

We are 156.04 feet above sea level according to a little brass plaque in front of Eaton. There is also a $250 fine for molesting the plaque.

Motorists do not seem to see the yellow lines at the crossing between the campus and the state house until they are upon it—and you. At this point they submit to their conditioned reflex and step on the gas.

Wonder why the local gendarmes haven't done something about that STOP sign protruding from a chimney atop Waller. Plainly marked State st. the sign would probably do more good reducing the death rate at that corner than in reminding wayward pigeons that they should confine their defecating to the statue in Willson park.

Hiljmar Grondahl, music editor of the Oregonian, gave us a nice plug in his "In the Groove" column, wherein he reviews latest recordings, with the insertion that Warfield will sing here in Salem. Grondahl was reviewing Warfield's latest release for RCA-Victor, a group of early American songs arranged by Aaron Copeland and a group of sea shanties. H. G., who appears to have adopted Solomon as his personal pianist, also made the jaunt down here to hear the artist in solo recital. This support for our concert series is very gratifying.

It now looks as though the Warfield concert will be a sell-out but even if it were not the prestige which the Willamette Distinguished Artist Series has gained would have been worth the loss of a few bucks.

Pommes de Terre

The French play, "La Dame de Bronze et le Monsieur de Crystal" presented in Waller hall Tuesday evening, was well acted, nicely staged and well said. It had the effect of making one cognizant of how much French it is possible to forget in two years. Briefly the story concerned a man who talked himself into a home for mental invalids to get away from his wife. He pretends that he is a candlestick or something. His wife subsequently joins him. She pretends that she is the statue of liberty. Crystal and Bronze, get it? The two were well played by Kent Myers (with beard a la Monty Wooley) and Marijo Ogle. Two other mossy characters named Passandeau (Dick Mase) and Le Prince (Doug Nicoll) are also seen. These are inmates of the same institution kept by Le Docteur (Frank Kehrl).

The production, directed by Shirley Dean, who has contributed so much to Willamette's dramatic activities in the last four years, was sprightly and fast moving, and we are happy to see that the idea of French plays begun last year is being continued. By the way, Pommes de Terre means potatoes and it is the only French I remember.

Opera

(whither, whether, and why)

Boris Goldovsky and Gian Carlo Menotti engaged in a discussion last Saturday during an intermission of the broadcast of "Carmen" which was heated if not just plain hot.

Goldovsky, long prominent in opera circles as an educator and producer, contended that the production of new operas could and should take place only as the continued success of the older and more popular operas made this financially possible.

Menotti, composer of "The Telephone," "The Medium," which has recently been filmed, and "The Counsel," is probably the most successful opera composer of the day. It was his contention that composers and new operas should be subsidized and commissioned so that new composers and operas might come to the fore.

Both gentlemen, eminently qualified to speak as they were (and did), got a little hot under the collar before Goldovsky summarized the discussion with the remark that the situation would probably continue much the same as it has in the past. And so the eternal argument continues at the point where the old and the new meet the checkbook.

Incidentally, Rise Stevens and Richard Tucker were terrific as Carmen and Jose.

BEEFS

To the Editor:

Whether they realize it or not, officials of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company are losing the good will of hundreds of potential customers. By their insistence on either maintaining pay telephones in campus living organizations or installing an impossible, costly switchboard system to handle inter-house calls, they have earned the wrath of students at Willamette, Oregon State college, and University of Oregon.

Should I pay 10 cents to make a telephone call from my own home? I do not think so and my living organization is home to me for nine months of the year.

From what we have learned from fraternity brothers about the nation, we are in a very small minority when we put ten cents in the slot to call our campus cohorts. We like to think that Oregon is progressive, but when we pay for such progress through our noses, we object.

The power of P. T. and T. is probably sufficient to keep the pay system in effect, but we think they will eventually suffer for it from the effects of 12,000 angered Oregon college students.

High School Speech Meet February 29

The annual Willamette university High School Speech Tournament will be held on campus from February 29 through March 1. Invitations have been sent to 29 high schools throughout the state, and attendance is expected to be high. Last year 290 entrants and 26 schools were represented.

This year the tournament includes seven events. They are: extemporaneous speaking, impromptu speaking, humorous and serious interpretative reading, oratory, junior and senior debate.

Trophies will be given for first in each event, and certificate awards will be presented for second and third places. A sweepstakes award will be given to the school with the most points.

In charge of arrangements for the tournament are Elliott Motschenbacher, Tom Scheidel, Caroline Matter, and Marjorie Aldinger.

Warfield Lauded by Critics

"The greatest voice of the decade!" is the judgment of the Australian Musical News. The voice it lauds is that of William Warfield, who will appear in concert at the Salem high school auditorium March 5 at 8:30 p.m.

When Warfield made his debut in New York's Town Hall in March of 1950, the critics left their wailing wall long enough to agree that his was one of the finest voices to be heard that

Menashe Appoints New Glee Heads

New chairmen have been appointed by Euben Menashe, Glee manager, to head committees. They are: Dick Lewis, tickets; and Tom Schrock, chairs and bows.

Menashe sent letters to the four class presidents this week requesting that they turn in the names of their song leaders as soon as possible.

Various committees are beginning to work on plans. The platform will be rebuilt for the performance.

Representatives will be in the offices of Prof. James Elliott, Dr. John Rademaker, Dr. John Myers and Prof. A. Freeman Holmer to conduct interviews with seniors.

RE Week Speaker Olds Has 'Soft Spot' for WU

By Ann Klindworth

A grad who's really made good and still has a soft place in his heart for the old alma mater will be the speaker at the Religious Emphasis chapels next week. Dr. Glenn Olds graduated from Estacada high school and entered Willamette in 1938. He holds degrees from Willamette, Garrett Biblical Institute, Northwestern and Yale universities. He has been professor of philosophy and religion at Garrett Institute and DePauw university.

Olds brings to his work not only a copious education but experiences as a saw mill operator, truck driver, forest ranger and professional boxer. He worked his way through high school, college, seminary, and graduate school with the help of scholarships and fellowships.

Not only is this grad a distinguished educator and minister but he is the author of numerous published works in the field of religion and philosophy.

Olds, who still wears his Willamette letterman sweater, is married to a very beautiful woman who has held two titles; the state beauty queen of Nebraska and her M.A. The Olds family has been blessed with two young'uns, a girl, Linda and her little brother.

Willamette students who have heard Olds at summer institutes, conferences, and last year in chapel, are looking forward to hearing an excellent speaker. By the way, he picked up much of his speaking ability while debating for the University.

Nelson Named News Editor

Stan Nelson, journalism-social science major and a junior from Tillamook, Oregon, replaces Don Scarborough as news editor of the Collegian, Editor Mary Louise Lee announced recently.

Nelson was sports editor of the paper and editor of the annual while in high school, and last year held the post of president of the intramural council. Formerly Collegian sports editor, Nelson will continue to write his column, "bySTANder."

The duties of News Editor include supervision of reporters, page make-up, and responsibility for selection of news.

Prof Chosen For Committee

Dr. Edward Kollmann has been elected to a committee of five members of the Pacific Conference of Teaching Philosophy. This conference works in conjunction with the American Philosophy association. The election was conducted by mail ballot and includes all members on the Pacific coast.

Each year the committee chooses an area of philosophy for special study. They meet once during the year and at this time at least three members of the committee present the results of their reflections and investigations in this area. This is followed by a general discussion by all of the members of the conference of the problems involved.

The group analyzes the nature of the problems of teaching in that area, the importance of that area in teaching philosophy as a whole and the importance in terms of the relationship to the development of the citizen.

Aldinger Returns From Vancouver

Marjorie Aldinger, student body secretary will arrive tonight on a plane from Vancouver, B. C. She has been attending the Western Regional Student Body Secretary's association meeting on the University of British Columbia campus.

She left by plane early yesterday morning; all her expenses are being covered by the association. Miss Aldinger has been serving a term as president of the organization.

Oregon State Exchange Convo Is Big Success

"College is Worse Than Ever?" Oregon State College's return talent show in the exchange assembly program, was received by an enthusiastic, convocation audience Tuesday morning.

Dick Horn, who emceed and produced the 30-student show, and Vic Milton, chairman of the troupe, began the performance by bodily removing Student Body President Sherm Bliss from the floor. Donn Black, OSC student body president, followed with a few remarks.

The program which followed was a series of variety numbers including a skit, "Take Care of My Little Boy;" numbers by the "Six-Foot-Four" barbershop quartet; a hula dance by Jeanette Chang; a piano duet by Nick Welsh and Rich Miller; trumpet solo by Ben Shepherd; a can can lile; gags and uke numbers by John Bree and John MacKenzie; a radio "push-button" routine by Horne; a modern dance interpretation of Shrimp Boats; and the finale with the entire cast singing the OSC alma mater.

The hour long show, an ASO-SC project, was presented at Portland university February 6 and is scheduled in the future for the University of Washington, the University of Oregon, and OSC Senior weekend.

war he returned to Eastman and then when on the road for a year with the hit show "Call Me Mister" at the invitation of Melvyn Douglas. Returning to New York he enrolled in the American Theatre Wing's Professional Training Program for veterans. During this period he continued to study voice, supporting himself by acting in the Broadway productions "Set My People Free" and "Regina." Warfield was also in demand as a church soloist and sang in Catholic and Protestant churches as well as the Jewish synagogue, having command of Latin and Hebrew as well as the romance languages.

Plays Jazz in Nightclub

He was also a nightclub performer, singing and playing jazz piano. "Variety" wrote of his singing and piano playing: "He is versatile in tempo and his mood changes from dramatic ballad to low groove blues and scat. His work at the piano is outstanding in wicked harmony technique."

After years of hard study the payoff came for Warfield at his debut at Town Hall. An offer immediately came from the Australian Broadcasting commission for a series of concerts in Australia. So great was his success that he was twice engaged during the same season, making repeat performances in the major cities of Australia. Returning to America he reported to MGM studios for his first motion picture, "Showboat," singing and acting the role of Joe. It was his singing of "Ol' Man River" in this film that probably "made" Warfield as far as the American public was concerned. The fickle public stopped talking about Mario Lanza and started talking about William Warfield. He has subsequently made another film, which will be released this summer, the musical version of Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn," appearing in the role of Jim.

Radio Appearances Numerous

Warfield has made many radio and television appearances in addition to his concert engagements during the past two seasons. He has been so busy, in fact, that he was compelled to turn down the role of "De Lawd" in the recent Broadway revival of Marc Connelly's play "Green Pastures" and role of "Shadow" in Igor Stravinsky's first full-length opera "The Rakes Progress" which was premiered in Milan last September.

By way of summary we quote Irving Kolodin as he wrote in the Saturday Review of Literature: "Vocal art, temperament, and musical intelligence altogether rare. If you have not previously heard the name of William Warfield, accept this as assurance that you will in the future—often."

'Cat Five Seeks Revenge Against Linfield Hoopsters

The Willamette Bearcats, with their sights set on their fourth straight Northwest conference championship, meet the Linfield Wildcats tonight and tomorrow night. Tonight's tussel is set for the Bearcat hoop pavilion and tomorrow's will be played in the Wildcat "cracker box."

Coach John Lewis' Bearcats can clinch the conference honors with a clean sweep of the two games. Also the Bearcats will be out for revenge as the Linfield squad is the only team to stop the fact-breaking Bearcats in conference play this season.

Tonight's game will see six seniors playing their last home game for Willamette. They are Hugh Bellinger, Dick Brouwer, Ted Loder, Doug Logue, Lou Scrivens and Larry Smith. The sextet have contributed much towards Willamette bid for her fourth straight league honors.

'Cats Lose Leonard

Coach Roy Helser and Paul Durham will probably use the same players that started against Willamette in the previous game with the exception of Jack Leonard who dropped out of school. Coaches Helser and Durham have Hal Lapp in the vacancy and he has held his own both on defensive and offensive play. The other spots will be filled by guards Bill Anderson and Ad Rutschman, center Ted McKee and forward Grant Schiewe.

The Willamette line-up will probably have Dick Mase and Ted Loder in the front court, Doug Logue at the pivot post and Lou Scrivens and Daryl Girod at the guard spots.

Ted Loder and Doug Logue share the record of individual scoring for a single performance at 32 points. Don Empey, sports reporter, looked in the past Walluags and there was a single player to score more than 30 points in a single contest. Loder also holds the record for the most points scored for a Willamette team. His total now stands at 1314 points.

If there is a last minute change in the Willamette lineup, it will probably be Hugh Bellinger starting at a guard position.

Senior Doug Logue prepares himself for the crucial two-game series with Linfield this weekend as he takes a few practice jumps against an imaginary foe. The five other seniors looking on are, left to right, Lou Scrivens, Hugh Bellinger, Dick Brouwer, Larry Smith and Ted Loder. The sextet will play their last home game for Willamette tonight against the always dangerous Linfield Wildcats. A clean sweep of the two games will give Willamette its fourth straight conference championship.

Tourney Bound

Coach John Lewis' Willamette Bearcats have accepted a bid to the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball tournament to be held at the Central Catholic gymnasium in Portland March 3 and 4.

The other three spots in the NAIB tourney will probably be filled by the Lewis and Clark Pioneers, the Oregon College of Education Wolves and the Portland Pilots. The Pilots captured the tourney honors last year.

Bearkitten Five Await Tough Linfield Clash; Near Freshmen Title

The Willamette Bearkittens, just two victories away from winning the Freshmen Northwest conference championship, meet the tough Linfield Frosh twice this weekend. Friday night the site is set for the local pavilion and Saturday night the action is set for the McMinnville gymnasium.

In their only previous engagement the Bearkittens scored a 60-54 win at McMinnville. Coach Sam Vokes will probably stick with the starters which led the Bearkittens to the previous triumph. They are Ken Havernick and Dick Bertram at the forward spots, Larry Baggett at the pivot post and Dick Gray and Chuck Lewis in the back court.

In games the past week the Bearkittens ran their victory skein to 17 in 18 starts. The Frosh stopped the Oregon College of Education Jayvees 79-41 last Saturday night and the George Fox Quakers 77-64 last Friday night.

The 'Kittens had little in dropping the OCE squad as Coach Sam Vokes' quintet led all the way. Larry Baggett poured 24 tallies through the hoop as the Cardinal and Gold machine rolled to their 79-41 win.

The George Fox xarsity, led by Nigel Shockey, gave the Bearkittens a real scare last Friday night, but finally fell 77-64. Although they trailed the Frosh throughout the contest the George Fox Quakers were always on the heels of the Frosh. Larry Baggett again led the Bearkittens to victory as he hooped 18 counters, but Shockey, who has an overall average of over 20 points per game this season, captured high point honors.

'A', 'B' League Volleyball Champions To Be Decided in Monday Night Tilts

It's the Phi Delt's against the SAE's for the championship of the A league next Monday night. The championship of the "B" league can be cinched by the AA's when they face the Sigs next Monday night. In the "C" league the AA's, the Sigs and Baxter are in a three way tie for first with two wins and no losses. There are still six games to be played in the league to determine the champs.

In the opener for the "C" league last Saturday morning, it was Baxter over the Law School, 15-3 and 15-3. The Faculty lost to the Law School, 15-13 and 15-12. The AA's sat one out by taking a forfeit from the Faculty, and then returned to top Baxter 15-10 and 15-13. The Sigs dropped the Phi Delt's 15-13 and 15-10. SAE's duplicated a score over the Beta's 15-9 and 15-9. It was the Sigs over the SAE's 15-6 and 15-6. In the final the Beta's spilled the Phi Delt's 15-5 and 15-10.

In games played Tuesday the "B" league wound up like this: SAE's over Baxter 15-10 and 17-15; Sigs over Beta 15-12 and 15-10; the last game was taken by the Phi Delt's from Baxter with scores of 15-11 and 15-12, this was a two out of three set with Baxter winning the odd game 15-2.

In the "A" league tilts the Phi Delt's topped Baxter 15-9 and 15-5. Baxter lost again to the SAE's 15-12 and 15-10. In the finale the Betas dropped the Sigs with duplicate scores of 15-12 and 15-12.

The final games in the "A" and "B" leagues played Wednesday night saw the "B" league finish with Baxter topping the Sig's 15-4 and 15-7. The Phi Delt's won over the Beta's with tallies of 15-8 and 15-10. The AA's spilled the SAE's at 15-12 and 15-8. It looked bad for the AA's in the make-up game when the Phi Delt's captured the first game, but then the AA's came back to take the last two tilts.

The A leaguers finished it off with the Sig's trampling Baxter 15-8 and 15-1. The Phi Delt's had a good night, beating the Beta's 15-4 and 16-14, and taking the make-up game from the AA's with 15-6 and 15-12. The SAE's also topped the AA's 15-6 and 15-3.

Koani Gone

Whoever the new football coach is for Willamette next season he will face the problem of finding a new fullback as Charlie Koani, 220-pound back for Bearcats next year, joined the U. S. Marines.

Koani received honorable mention in the conference all-star selection and was voted the most valuable by his teammates last season.

Stack Resigns; Collegian Scooped

We're hopping mad around here these days because of the untimely resignation of one Chester R. Stackhouse—it caught us flat-footed, coming like it did after the Collegian deadline. So while the Collegian printed rumors last Friday, the Salem newspapers came out with the story on Stack's resignation. Seems as though the Collegian gets treated in this manner quite often, especially when a change of coaches comes up. Everything is always so secretive before the change, then boom!—the switch is made. The "boom" usually comes just AFTER the Collegian deadline and manages to cause much perturbation among staff members. Guess we'll never understand administrations—or coaches.

Now that Stack has resigned, was it because of the pressure or was it entirely his own decision? Stack said it was his own decision and we'll string along with that. He is a man capable of thinking for himself, knows what he wants, and is consistent in his actions as a result of his thought. Stack had a definite purpose in coming to Willamette and has a definite purpose in mind when he coaches athletes. When a man can no longer be consistent with those purposes, he must either bow to the wishes of others or get out. Rather than go against his own principles, Stackhouse chose the latter.

Failed to Please in Football

The rub, of course, came because of the performance of his football teams. In three years, Stack has never put out a winning team. Though his squads had their bright spots, they were generally freely pushed around by the other teams. The result was an uproar from all corners of observation. The majority opinion seems to be that Willamette should win at football. Willamette can come out second best in other sports, but all self-respect seems to be lost if she cannot keep up a winning tradition in football. Thus the poor football coach can very seldom please his public.

To be a consistent winner at football these days costs money, and plenty of it. Although Willamette's annual football cost doesn't run into the hundred-thousand figures in dollars as it does with the big timers, the yearly total is enough that this school has never made a dime on the sport. After some, but only a few, good seasons, Willamette barely managed to break even; otherwise she has always ended on the red side of the ledger. With over-emphasis, and, as a result, over-cost, ruining so many football programs around the country, why should Willamette put out so much on the sport? It will cost the school more money to pull out consistent winners and the resulting over-emphasis will likely deter the other sports that the school can make money from.

Balanced Program Wanted

We think Stack was trying for a well-balanced program in which no sport would be dominant or none left out. The result would be a happy relationship among the coaches and between them and their superiors. Willamette would not win all the time in football, but neither would other sports be lacking. Then each sport could give the individual participants the fullest benefit of what it has to offer. Such a program would develop clean, sportsmanlike individuals that could carry what they learned with them when their days of competition were over. The competing athletes, it seems to us, are far more important than the spectators. It just doesn't seem practical to place too much emphasis on football with its high cost these days and leave other sports out as a result.

Stack could not achieve the happy relationship he was striving for and place too much on football at the same time. Whether those on the outside are aware of it or not, while Stackhouse has been athletic director, the athletic staff have been in perfect agreement. Never in Willamette's history has there been as much harmony among the coaches as there has under Stackhouse. But he did not achieve that harmony with those on the outside looking in. If he bowed to the wishes of some of those on the outside, he could not at the same time be consistent with himself—so he did the best thing under the circumstances: he resigned. The move perhaps saved someone the trouble of firing him later on. We don't think a whole lot of pressure was on at the time he did resign.

Bearcats Move Closer to Championship With Win Over Trailing College of Idaho

Willamette strengthened its position atop the Northwest conference standings Monday night with a sound 88-69 victory over an outclassed College of Idaho five on the home floor.

The 'Cats still have three games remaining in league play,

Daryl Girod kept the Idahoans intact as they attempted to slow down the 'Cats.

Loder dropped through three quick baskets to start the second period. Girod, Logue and Lou Scrivens all hit from the field while Baker matched them basket for basket with his jump and hook shots from in close. Hugh Bellinger added a field shot and a couple of foul shots to round out the second quarter. Willamette led at intermission by ten points, 46-36.

Both teams cooled off considerably in the third chapter.

Willamette capitalized on four quick fast breaks early in the period and then stood by while Idaho dumped 11 counters through the net. Girod finally dropped in two baskets to finish the quarter with the score 59-47.

The fast break really began to pay off in the final canto for John Lewis' outfit. They made 18 of their 27 points as a direct result of quickies. Scrivens and Mase were standouts in the early part of the quarter while Dick Brouwer looked good in the closing minutes. Willamette led at one time 77-54.

two against the always dangerous Linfield Wildcats, but it looks as if the Bearcats intend to stay in front. All Willamette needs to do is win two of their remaining three games to clinch the title.

Forward Dick Mase accounted for 23 points to lead the Methodists' fast breaking attack. High scorers Doug Logue and Ted Loder collected only 14 and 11 points respectively but were outstanding on the boards. Dick Spiess, a driving Idaho guard, led the losers with 18 points, followed by teammate Jack Baker who bucketed 15.

Sig. Beta Keglers Top Bowling League Race As Second Half Opens

Sig No. 1 and Beta No. 1 squads jumped to a first place tie as the second half of the intramural bowling league opened action at the University Bowl Thursday, February 14.

Sig No. 1 team dropped Phi Delt No. 1 squad 4-0 while Beta No. 1 team collected 4 points against the fighting Baxter No. 2 team. In other action SAE No. 1 squad took 2 games and high team series to top Baxter No. 1 squad 3-1 while Phi Delt No. 2 team won 1 game and high team series to tie Beta No. 2 team 2-2.

High team series of 2177 was rolled by SAE No. 1 team while Baxter No. 1 team rolled high team game of 750. The two teams are arch rivals, the former team having edged out the latter for first half honors by two points.

High individual series was rolled by Bud Lafkey of Sig No. 1 team who turned in 179-186-175 for a 540 total. Ted Sittser of Phi Delt No. 2 team rolled high single game with 190.

Willamette Sweeps Whitman Series As Doug Logue Ties Scoring Mark

By Don Empey

The Bearcats of Willamette university took two more steps toward the Northwest conference championship last weekend. Whitman's fourth place Missionaries were the victims of the on-rushing 'Cats' who chalked up their ninth and tenth wins in 11 conference starts to sweep the series. Willamette won 68-38 Saturday and 74-61 Friday.

Doug Logue and Ted Loder, who seem to get a bang out of topping each other's scoring records, led both attacks in the point making department.

In Friday night's tussle Logue tossed through 14 field goals and four free throws for a total of 32 points to tie WU's individual scoring record set by Loder only last week. Two weeks before Loder's record breaking performance, Logue had scored 30 points to establish a school record.

Saturday night's fracas was a fairly tight ball game until the third period. In 10 minutes the Jasons pumped through 21 points while holding the Missionaries to three. Whitman held a 13-11 advantage after the first quarter but fell behind 26-19 by halftime. Then came the all important third chapter which ended with the Missionaries on the short end of a 47-22 score.

The first half found Whitman playing a slow-down type of ball which almost paid off. Loder's 11 points kept the 'Cats in the running, however. Logue was the big gun in the third quarter barrage as he hit three field goals while teammates Daryl Girod, Dick Mase and Lou Scrivens each connected with two. Reserves played most of the final period and built up the final 68-36 count. Loder and Logue led the scoring with 19 and 17 points respectively.

Friday's 74-61 Willamette win was even easier than the score shows. The Bearcats were in control throughout and never once were they behind. After jumping to a 19-9 first quarter lead the Methodists increased the count to 43-24 by halftime. Willamette kept up the pace through the third frame and led 60-37 going into the final period. At this point Ron Robinson, a two-handed set shot artist, went to work for the Washingtonians as he connected with 13 of his 22 points and led the Missionaries to a 24 point last quarter rally.

Contestants Named by Living Groups For 'Betty Co-Ed' and 'Joe College'

By Barbara Jackson
Candidates for "Betty Co-ed" and "Joe College" were nominated this week by the various living organizations on campus. The winners of the contest will be announced next Saturday evening at the Leap Year "girl ask boy" dance sponsored by the Associated Women Students. Each man will cast one ballot for the Betty Co-ed of his choice and every woman will vote for her favorite Joe College.

Nominations have been made on the basis of personality, character and activities. Each women's living organization has nominated a candidate for Joe College and each men's living organization has nominated a contestant for Betty Co-ed.

Men Choose Candidates
Phi Delta Theta nominated Jane Pinkerton as their candidate for Betty Co-ed. Miss Pinkerton is a junior majoring in sociology, and a member of Alpha Chi Omega. She is the newly elected president of Alpha Chi Omega and a member of the Future Teachers of America.

Joyce Frost, a sophomore majoring in economics, was the candidate selected by Beta Theta Pi. Miss Frost, a member of Pi Beta Phi, is serving on the cabinets of the Associated Women Students and the YWCA, and is a member of Beta Alpha Gamma, sophomore women's honorary.

Chosen by Baxter hall to be a candidate for Betty Co-ed was Carol Emerson, a sophomore majoring in music. Miss Emerson, a member of Alpha Chi Omega, is a student council representative. She is serving on the Associated Women Students' cabinet and was tapped last fall for Beta Alpha Gamma.

Sigma Chi nominated Betty Breakey, a sophomore majoring in biology, as their candidate. A member of Delta Gamma, Miss Breakey is Panhellenic representative and a member of Beta Alpha Gamma.

Selected as a candidate for Betty Co-ed by members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon was Carolann Snarr. Miss Snarr is a senior majoring in sociology, and a member of Pi Beta Phi, where she served as social chairman.

Bonnie Belle Stewart, a sophomore majoring in art, was chosen by the Independent students. Miss Stewart recently transferred from Lewis and Clark college, where she was a member of the Homecoming court and belonged to the sophomore women's honorary.

Joe College Contestants
Delta Gamma chose Jim Bergman as their candidate for Joe College. Bergman is a sophomore majoring in economics, and is affiliated with Beta Theta Pi. A member of Sigma Alpha Chi, sophomore men's honorary, he also serves on the yell squad.

Tom Schrock, a freshman majoring in political science, was the candidate selected by Pi Beta Phi. Schrock is the president of the freshman class, and was recently appointed to the concert series committee.

Selected as Lausanne hall's candidate for Joe College was Larry Smith, a senior majoring in physical education and a member of Phi Delta Theta. He Smith was second vice-president of the student body, and is on the Varsity basketball squad, and participated in Varsity Varieties.

Alpha Chi Omega chose Mark Cotton as their candidate for Joe College. Cotton, a senior majoring in physical education, is a member of Pi Delta Theta. He is the recently elected president of Phi Delta Theta, and belongs to the Lettermen's club.

Nominated by Bishop hall was Wally Snyder, a senior majoring in political science and a member of Sigma Chi. Snyder is serving as vice-president and glee manager of the senior class.

Dick Mase, a senior majoring in physical education, was selected by Chi Omega as their candidate. Mase, a transfer student from the University of Oregon, is president of the Independent students and a member of the Varsity basketball squad.

Chosen by the Independent students as their candidate for Joe College was Dave Parton. A junior majoring in philosophy, Parton is a member of Wesley, and is serving as treasurer of the group.

Betas Initiate New Members

New members were formally initiated into Beta Theta Pi Sunday, following a week of informal initiation.

Those now wearing the pin of Beta Theta Pi are: Hal Hargreaves, Bob Borquist, Doug Graham, Dick Church, Dave Jackson, Bob Packwood and Al Siebert of Portland, Bob McConville and Marion Putman of Salem, Tom Schrock and Larry Standifer of Bend, Don Gragg of Monroe, Charles Ruud of Woodburn, Jim Hudelson of Warrenton, Wayne Frederickson of Sandy, Bob Anderson of Yakima, Wash., Hal Johnson of Cathlamet, Wash., Don Berney of Carnas, Wash., Mike Hovis of Olympia, Wash., Carl Simpson of Longview, Wash., and Kent Holmes of San Carlos, Calif.

Responsibilities Assumed By New Spring Officers

Members of Alpha Chi Omega elected officers Monday night for the coming spring semester. The new officers are: President, Jane Pinkerton; first vice-president, Gloria Kainu; second vice-president, Carol Emerson; Panhellenic representative, Jane Foodsee; recording secretary, Mary Lu Ratcliff, and social chairman, Nancy Lumijarvi.

Installation of the new officers will be held the second week in March.

Lei Kealoha New President
Officers to serve for the spring semester were elected Monday night at Lausanne hall, following a general house meeting.

Those elected were: President, Lei Kealoha; vice president, Ann Shidell; secretary, Joyce Schmitt; treasurer, Mary Jo Ewell; student council representative, Virginia Jones; and social chairman, Jean Knight.

Mu Phi Epsilon Officers
Harriet Aller of Tukwila, Wash., has been chosen to serve as president of Mu Phi Epsilon for the coming year. Vice-president is Jane Foodsee; recording secretary, Edna Hall; corresponding secretary, Jane Gray; treasurer, Sheila Schussman; captain, Ann Gibbons; wardens, Donna Jenkins and alumnae secretary, Doris Hale.

Plans are being made by the music sorority to send Harriet Aller to the national convention of Mu Phi Epsilon in Minneapolis, Minn., during June.

To Select AWS Officers

Members of the Associated Women Students will meet Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Waller chapel. Nominations will be made for officers to serve for 1952. The meeting will be under the direction of Nancy Lumijarvi.

Elections for the new officers will be held with class elections next Thursday and Friday. Retiring president Sue Mellor announced that the new president and an AWS representative will attend the AWS regional convention in California this spring.

Men Warned of Leap Year

By Julie Meller

Every four years, all females from six to 80 prepare for one of the biggest fights in the history of men and women!

Instead of bullets and guns being used for this all-out war, mascara, eye shadow and hair tints have gained predominance. This is 1952 and "Leap Year" has rolled around again.

Leap Year, or "Bring HIM Back Alive" year, is the time when woman is allowed to pursue the male to her heart's content.

There is no satisfactory explanation given as to how the custom of women wooing men during Leap Year started, but it may have been begun by some aging spinster who tired of bringing in her own wood and stoking the fires during the night.

In 1288 a law was passed in Scotland that decreed it was thenceforth lawful for all ladies who were unmarried to chase and propose to the man of their liking. If he refused her, the lad was fined. Either way the poor guy was hooked! Later this custom was adopted in France, Genoa and Florence.

The custom adopted seven centuries ago still holds good for the fair maidens of Aurora.

Willamette co-ed won't go to as much trouble as the Aurora women, for this year the AWS Leap Year dance next Saturday will give them an opportunity to have a date with the man of their choice.

Haynes Ends Major Tour, To List Prospective Students

A recent tour of the major high schools of Washington and Oregon was just completed by Nickie Haynes, secretary to the director of admissions. The purpose of the tour was to acquaint the high school seniors with the opportunities and benefits offered by Willamette university. Miss Haynes announced that as soon as the material that was gathered on this trip is compiled, lists of prospective students will be available to the living organizations through the council advisors—the Panhellenic council from Dean Ewalt, and the inter-fraternity lists from Dean Hatfield.

Reflecting on the tour Miss Haynes stated that the interest in Willamette seemed quite high, especially in the Washington schools. The conferences concerning Willamette were well attended, with the male students showing enthusiasm toward our air force ROTC system.

The tour to the various schools was made in the company of representatives from 17 other universities throughout Washington and Oregon.

Choir to Sing Rare Chants

By Jane Foosee

Next Monday evening, Willamette students and people of Salem will have the opportunity to hear some of the most rare and beautiful music the world has ever produced, sung by the only choir of its kind in the Americas. The Mt. Angel Seminary choir, under the direction of Father David Nicholson, will present a program of Gregorian chants, many of which have never been sung before in public, on February 25 at 8:15 p.m. in Waller hall auditorium.

Mt. Angel abbey, founded in 1882 by the Benedictine monks of the 10-century old Engelberg abbey in Switzerland, is located 20 miles northeast of Salem. The tradition of the Benedictine monks extends through the centuries to St. Benedict, the founder of Western monasticism, around 500 A.D. Their work today consists of conducting a seminary, a high school for boys, publishing a magazine, and operating a farm.

The Seminary choir consists of 40 voices chosen from among the hundred and 20 students enrolled at the Seminary. Untold hours of work have gone into the training of these young men from a group of individual voices into one melodious and perfectly blending voice.

The Gregorian chant itself had its origin in Jewish psalm chant, which was the external expression of the praise of the people, who were accustomed to participate actively in divine services. Pope St. Gregory the Great purged the Roman chant of theatrical display and caused it to be used throughout most of the West. Thus it came to be called after him, and became the official music of the Roman Catholic rite.

The climax of Gregorian development was reached in the 12th and 13th Centuries. Then the rise of polyphonic, or many-voiced, music which only a select few could render properly, and the influence of humanism, which shifted the emphasis from the group to the individual, removed the very basis of the chant, the union of the people with the priest in the worship of God. The chant declined, to be replaced almost entirely by flowery polyphony.

Though sporadic attempts were made to restore the chant, this was not accomplished until the 19th century, when the French monks of Solemnes by intensive research in the ancient manuscripts rediscovered its traditional manner of rendition. Today the restored chant is the official music of the Roman Catholic church.

At Mt. Angel abbey and seminary, Gregorian chant is sung according to the Solemnes interpretation and is taught and directed by monks who have studied this style intensively for many years. The Seminary choir does not sing these chants from our modern type notes, but rather from the old medieval square notation, which is extremely difficult to read.

Next Monday evening's concert will be the only public concert given by the choir this season, and it will be by special request, due to the fact that the choir has been engaged in preparing for an educational technical musical film to be made by a Hollywood movie company.

This movie will be filmed at the Mt. Angel seminary sometime in April. The background music will be provided by Werner Janssen and the Janssen Symphony orchestra of Los Angeles. The entire movie will be devoted to the story of the Gregorian chant and the choristers themselves are the stars of the film, providing the entire concert work.

The choir is to sing on the nation-wide hook-up of the "Sacred Heart" program originating in St. Louis, Mo., in the near future. They will also make some commercial recordings for a large record firm.

The program for the Monday evening concert in Waller hall consists of the following numbers: "O Fillii et Filiae," an Easter hymn of the 13th Century; "Salve Mater," an ancient poem to the Blessed Virgin Mary; "Puer Natus Est," a 19th century hymn honoring the birth of Christ; "Litany of the Sacred Heart" composed in honor of Christ; "Laudes ab Hinemari," litany of the 6th century; "Dominus Dixit ad me" an introit for the Midnight Mass of Christmas; and "Ave Maria," an offertory in honor of the Virgin Mary.

Also sung by the Seminary choir will be "Viri Galilaei," an introit for the Mass of Ascension Day; "Sanctus XI" from the 11th century; "Kyrie Rector Cosmi Pie" from the 11th century; "De Profundis," an offertory for the 24th Sunday after Pentecost; "Alleluia" for the Mass of Epiphany; "Ad Coenam Agni Providi," a vesper hymn for Easter time; and "Regina Caeli," a hymn to the Virgin Mary.

Portland Mothers To Meet Today

Mothers of Willamette students living in Portland will meet this afternoon at a luncheon in Portland, according to Mrs. T. C. Batchelder of Oswego.

Mrs. F. L. DeHarpport will be in charge of the affair, and the mothers will discuss plans for the general meeting to be held in Portland March 20. Dean Regina Ewalt will represent Willamette at this meeting.

Purvine Warns Lamps Injurious

Dr. Ralph E. Purvine, director of the University Health service, has reported an unusual number of serious burns due to the misuse of sun lamps. Permanent damage may result from improper exposure to the lamps' rays.

The lamps are now being confiscated by the dean's office and will be returned to the students by the University Health service after instructions as to their proper use have been issued.

Frances Smith Is Chest Chairman

Frances Smith, freshman pre-law major from Portland, was appointed Campus Chest chairman for 1952-53 by the student council this week.

Miss Smith will supervise next year's Campus Chest drive which includes the program of student solicitations and the all-school talent show, Varsity Varieties.

Squirrel Snafus Blood Drive

The success of the recent blood drive cannot be credited to the efforts of the campus squirrels.

Early Sunday morning one of the little rodents was nibbling on the Baxter hall blood poster in front of the library, but in spite of much energetic pulling he was unable to tear it off.

Finally he circled around above the sign, dug in his toenails, hung on by his hind feet and seized the paper with his teeth and front paws. After a few mighty tugs he yanked it loose from its moorings and scurried off up the tree with the poster streaming behind him like a victory banner.

Program Features Western Theme

The "Campus Chatter" program will feature a western theme this coming Monday night at 10:15.

At an exclusive interview with the directors, Rollin Cocking and Tom Scheidel. It was disclosed that an epic of the old West was to be presented with the program beamed to all the Junior Rangers of Willamette university.

They sincerely hoped that all the Rangers would listen as the program is especially for them.

Marriage Proposal Aired on Studio A

Studio A presented "A Marriage Proposal..." by Anton Chekov last Thursday evening under the direction of Augusta Krause and Bob Witham.

The play was about a young lover who tried to ask his loved one to marry him, but only succeeded in arguing all through the play.

Ruth Jacob, Bob Scearce and Dick Geer played the leading parts; Don Irwin was announcer.

Paeth to Return From Trip North

Mr. Charles Paeth, director of admissions, will return today from Seattle where he has been visiting high school seniors who plan on attending college. Mr. Paeth visited the eight Seattle high schools.

A meeting was held yesterday at which all admissions counselors who visit the high schools held a post mortem of their visitation program.

Campus Group To Hear Dr. Olds

Dr. Glenn Olds, chaplain at the University of Denver, will be the featured speaker at a UNESCO meeting to be held Tuesday noon in the Lausanne recreation room, La Vaughn Sleeper, religion committee chairman, reported.

Students living in dormitories may eat in the Lausanne cafeteria; others must bring their own lunches. An informal discussion will be held afterward.

French Play Is Success

By Margie Leonard

If there were any glaring mistakes in the dialogue of "La Madame de Bronze et le Monsieur de Cristal," the French comedy presented Tuesday night by Dr. Paul Beal's second year French students, the majority of the audience would have been completely unaware — for the entire play was in French.

Except for the omission of a few minor lines, the one act play went smoothly and prompted frequent chuckles from the audience. Actions rather than lines created the most laughs, however, since relatively few of the audience of students and townspeople speak fluent French.

The "fluent French" of the cast was the result of concentrated work and coaching by Student Director Shirley Dean and Dr. Beal. Kent Myers, as Sourcier, the "gentleman of crystal," had the largest speaking role, remaining on stage during the entire play.

Sourcier's costume was a unique combination of striped knickers, argyle socks, saddles, black sweater, grey beard, and the white beret distinguished him as an artist. Doug Nicoll, in tails and a top hat; Dick Mase, in conservative tweeds; Frank Kehrl, in the conventional white coat of a doctor; and Mary Jo Ogle, in a dark and dowdy ensemble, completed the cast.

In noting particular details of action, an artist might have objected to Sourcier's continued dabbling at his painting after having signed it, but such an idiosyncrasy could be blamed on his supposed insanity. Then too, the constant gestures identified with the French people were not conspicuously present.

An audience of approximately 100 persons watched the performance, which was preceded by the singing of several French songs by French students and a solo by Barbara Young.

Thompson Elected To F.T.A. Position

Jack Thompson, Willamette senior, was elected to the position of F.T.A. district coordinator for district meetings during the year 1952 at a regular meeting held Saturday, February 16, at Oregon College of Education in Monmouth.

Thompson will be responsible for the district meetings held during the year which will mainly include those of the fall semester of 1952. He succeeds Marge Aldinger, also of Willamette, who was coordinator for 1951.

The other members in the district besides Willamette include Mt. Angel, Oregon State College, University of Oregon, Linfield and OCE. Eight members of the Willamette chapter attended the meeting at OCE with Dr. Martin, their advisor.

The local F.T.A. group also heard a speech by Rex Putnam, state superintendent of public instruction, on the education in Oregon, Wednesday night. The subject was in reference to the problems of over-crowded schools in Oregon and the "Holy Report."

Flame Still Burns On Phone Row

Latest developments on the pay phones situation indicate that matters are coming to a head.

Peter Gunnar, attorney for Oregon State college, said this week that Pacific Telephone and Telegraph asked 60 to 90 days to consider a proposal of compromise.

Oregon State and University of Oregon phone committees rejected the wait, as they felt the phone company was stalling on making a decision, and school would be out before a decision could be reached by the Public Utilities Commissioner.

The Willamette university student council agreed that a protest should be made as soon as possible, as the matter has continued long enough.

Mock GOP Convention Gains Participation of Ten Schools

Bob Small today announced that Bob Hilliard from Southern Oregon College of Education and chairman of the Willamette Mock Republican National Committee is issuing a call for the second meeting of the committee to take place on March 9. This meeting of the national committee promises to be very interesting due to the fact that ten colleges and universities have notified Small that they intend to participate in the Convention, and will probably send representatives to this meeting.

A note of interest which was mentioned by Chairman Small was the fact that the total number of delegates at the Willamette Mock Republican Convention was one fifth of the number of delegates at the Republican National Convention. The ten schools participating at the present time will be apportioned delegates which will add up to a total of 241.

This notice of the proposed meeting of the national committee points out the fact that the convention will be the cooperative effort of the ten participating schools and not the plan of any organized Republican Group in the State of Oregon.

At the last meeting of the National Committee six schools sent representatives. Work was started at that time on preparatory plans for planks for the Mock Convention platform, the apportioning of delegates to the participating schools, and the coordination of all activity necessary to make the convention a success.

During the time from the first National Committee meeting on January 19th until the present state delegations committee, the publicity committee, the speakers committee, and the resolutions committee have been making efforts to arrive at the final procedure to be followed in apportioning delegates, procuring speakers, arriving at platform planks, and obtaining the best possible coverage of the convention.

AROTC Officials To Inspect Group

Willamette's AROTC students are in for two periods of intensive drill, as word has been received that the annual inspection of this detachment will be made March 3, 4 and 5. Special drill emphasis is necessary because drill training is somewhat behind schedule due to poor weather.

RO Drill Team Chooses Name

Willamette's AROTC Drill team passed its official constitution and named itself the Mitchell Marching Cadets at a meeting held last Wednesday afternoon.

The team was named after the famous Air Force officer and exponent of air power, Billy Mitchell. The name is subject to Air Force approval before becoming absolutely final. Mitchell is the originator of the famous slogan "Air Power for Peace Power." Many ideas and plans originated by Mitchell are now in use by the Air Force, and he is one of the key men responsible for the obtaining of the position the Air Force now holds.

Mitchell is now retired; drill teams are seldom named after active officers, but usually after those retired or deceased.

With the organizing of the drill team completed, it now plans to apply to the student council for recognition as an official Willamette organization.

Inter-Varsity to Hear Henry; Baxter Hall Shares Fireside

Dr. Carl F. H. Henry, professor of theology and Christian philosophy at Fuller Theological seminary in Pasadena, California, will speak on the Willamette campus next week.

Dr. Henry will address the Inter-Varsity fellowship at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Music hall. All students have been invited to attend. Wednesday, Dr. Henry will be heard at 9 a.m. in the history of philosophy class and 6:30 p.m. at a fireside at Baxter hall.

Prior to his professorship at Fuller Theological seminary, Dr. Henry received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from Wheaton college, his B.D. and Th.D. degrees from Northern Baptist seminary, and his Jh.D. from Boston university.

Distinguished both as a student and teacher, Dr. Henry has written several books. Among them are Remaking the Modern Mind and The Protestant Dilemma. These and others will be available to all students on the Religious Emphasis Week display in the library.

Dr. Henry's visit presents an opportunity for all students to see and hear a man who is outstanding in the fields of philosophy and theology. He will be free at various times during the week for interviews and conferences with students.

Everybody's Got One

"There are a fabulous amount of colds around the campus," reports Nurse Henrietta Althoff. The infirmary appears to be doing a thriving business in cold pills, cough medicine and nose drops. Mrs. Althoff attributes the illnesses to lack of rest and the season of the year.

Math Men Are Fit For Commissions

Second-semester seniors with one year of college physics and mathematics through integral calculus are eligible for USAF commissions as weather officers with the USAF Air Weather Service.

Interested men and women who will graduate before August 1952, should write to the Chief, Air Weather Service, Andrews Air Force Base, Washington 25, D. C., for application forms and instructions.

The best-qualified applicants will be commissioned as second lieutenants in the Air Force Reserve and enrolled in a 12 month meteorology course at one of seven participating U. S. colleges and universities.

Philosophy Topic For Next Forum

"Comparative Philosophy and the Philosophical community" will be the topic for the next Faculty Forum, Monday, March 3 at 8 o'clock in the recital hall of the music building. Dr. Kollmann, associate professor of philosophy will speak.

Dr. Kollmann is the third speaker of the series. Prof. Stanley Butler and Dr. John Myers have been featured. Prof. Herman Clark and Dean Seward P. Reese of the law school are scheduled for future programs.

The purpose of the forums, according to Dr. Kollmann, the originator is "to encourage mutual understanding of subject matter and problems within the various fields of the arts and sciences.
