

INDIANS TAKE CLOSE GAME

Lack of Team Work and Poor Basket Shooting Is Cause of Defeat.

In a hotly contested game where students' nerves were tingling with excitement during every minute of play, the varsity quintet met defeat at the hands of the Chemawa braves by the score of 21 to 20.

While the score would indicate a par as relative strength of the teams was concerned, the Willamette aggregation would, under ordinary circumstances, have easily won the contest. The absence of Shisler, the standby forward of the team and the inaccurate shooting of fouls on the part of the Willamette players can easily account for the defeat of the cardinal and gold. In the second half, Pfaff relieved Adams and owing to his lack of practice with the regulars much of the team work displayed on former occasions was sadly lacking.

The Indians played a hard consistent game, but they too at times showed a tendency to bunch up and not guard their opponents well. However, their teamwork as a whole was superior to that of their opponents. The lineup was:

Willamette	Chemawa
Jewett	F. James
Adams	F. Adams
Flegel	C. Service
Crawford	G. McDonald
Bagley	G. Chamberlain
Substitutes: Pfaff for Adams.
Referee—Clancy.

AMENDMENT TO CONSTITUTION ADOPTED

Among the many activities of the student body meeting last Friday was the adoption of an amendment to the constitution providing for the manner of giving officials awards. According to the new amendment the committee upon which this important duty devolves is composed of four persons, president of the student body, coach and manager of the activity involved, and a faculty member elected for a period of one year. At first there was some opposition, but it faded like frost before a flame after the eloquence of Eric P. Bolt had played upon it for a few minutes. It is thought that the new amendment will give general satisfaction.

Mr. McClellan, the Student Volunteer Secretary, will be at the university Wednesday and Thursday of this week. He is a man who can tell many things and if there is a suspicion in your mind that you could know more about missionary work in this big world, just ask him.

VON ESCHEN AND RICE ATTEND CONVENTION

The monthly meeting of the State Chemical Association was held at Corvallis Saturday evening with thirty-five members and visitors in attendance.

Preceding the meeting a banquet was held at one of the local hotels. At eight o'clock the meeting was called to order in the Chemistry building at the Oregon Agricultural College. Three splendid papers were read. Prof. Brady, of O. A. C. treated the subject, "Ammies." Prof. Fulton, head of the chemistry department, gave a discussion on the "Colloidal Purification of Water," treating especially Albany's water problem. Prof. Ducher, also an instructor in O. A. C., talked on "Fats as Foods." After the papers a general discussion concluded the program.

CHALLENGE TO FRESHMAN GLEE ISSUED

Sixth Annual Event Under the Regulation Conditions Will Be Held March 15.

In chapel last Friday the Freshman class of 1918, thru its mouth-piece, "Baldy" Bowers, formally challenged the other classes of the university to be contestants in the Sixth Annual Freshman Glee, to be held in the chapel on the night of March 15. Conditions of the challenge were the same as usual, original words and music, judged 50 per cent on metrical and musical composition and 50 per cent on rendition. All bona fide members of the several classes are eligible to participate. The Freshmen will present a pennant to the winning class.

Mr. Francis for the Seniors, rose in dignity, looked over his glasses in his customary manner, and announced that the Senior class thanked the Frosh for the gift of the pennant; then Jewett did the same bold and heartless stunt for the Juniors, Bartlett followed claiming that history repeats itself, and Billy Bowers weakly responded that the Freshman intend to keep the pennant in their own trophy case.

The Freshmen are pretty energetic and will doubtless give the university a very presentable Glee contest.

THERE IS NO LAW WITHOUT LIBERTY, SAYS OSTROM

Evangelist Delivers Chapel Address to Students.

The W. U. student body were especially favored last Wednesday with a chapel address from Dr. Henry Ostrom, who is conducting evangelistic meetings in the city. His message was strong but brief, on the subject of "Liberty." He said in part:

"There is no law without liberty. The liberty of a wheel is to run on its axis. The liberty of a life is to run in harmony with the Maker of the universe. Why not be free? Every religion but that of the Old Book is an appetite; the Old Book is the bread which feeds that appetite. There is no workable agnosticism."

"Whom the Son of God maketh free, the same shall be free indeed."

"If we would have liberty, let us immerse ourselves in law"

MOTION TO RESCIND GREEN CAP RESOLUTION

Problem is Presented to Upperclassmen as a Tribunal and Meeting Held Monday.

"A green postage stamp." Where breathes the W. U. student or faculty member who has not heard the pros and cons under its oriflamme since the high diving party of the Freshman pair was held under the auspices of several Sophomores on Wednesday evening? If he or she has not heard of the green dome and become biased in a broad-minded view of the affair, a rare bird each must be.

Historically speaking, the wise and learned student body of 1914 saw fit to adopt a series of resolutions regarding the green insignia of a Freshman and to make the wearing of the same obligatory on the masculine members of the Freshman class. The matter was threshed out and the resolutions in its favor were unanimously passed. However, provisions for the enforcement of the obligation were seemingly overlooked, the members believing that the incoming Freshman class would conform to the tradition established and would comply with the wishes of the upperclassmen.

Now it seems that some of the Freshmen have from the very first refused to don the privileged cap and have marshalled the majority of the Freshmen to their point of view. A spirit of bitter animosity has thus arisen between the two factions, the girls being in favor of its abolition as a rule, and the motion to rescind the student body action of last spring was made by a Freshman in the Student Body meeting on Friday.

To even the most disinterested observer, the fact was evident that "several sombodies" were painfully excited in the meeting.

The stand taken by the Freshman factions was revealed to an amused student body without any very palpable earthquake shocks. The upper classmen gleaned the information that "the green cap was soothing syrup for the high school fathead" and that it would be a "matter of personal pride in years to come," that "the dignity of the President of the United States or a Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church would not be lowered in the least by the wearing of the green cap, in fact, they would be proud to wear the green cap of Willamette University," that it was a "personal interest in a business way," that we must "get in harmony in the Frosh ranks e'er they perish of dissent," that it was "derogatory to the uplifting spirit of Willamette University." After the fireworks had sputtered for some time, the motion to refer the matter to the upperclassmen for a recommendation to the Student Body was passed and the President of the Senior class, Mr. Francis, chosen as chairman of the session, called the meeting at 3:30 Monday afternoon.

O. A. C. AND WILLAMETTE TO CLASH SATURDAY

Aggies Are Promised at Least a Run For the Money.

Next Saturday evening at 8 p. m. the Willamette University basketball team will meet the quintet from the Oregon Agricultural College on the local gymnasium floor, for the second engagement with them this season.

This game promises to be very interesting from the Willamette standpoint, for though the boys from "Old Willamette" met defeat at Corvallis over two weeks ago, they nevertheless gave O. A. C. a "run for their money" and reflecting great credit upon the institution which they represented.

The team for the last two weeks had several misfortunes due to accidents which have kept Shisler and Bagley from regular practice, and it is a question as to whether either one or both of these men will be able to play, altho barring unforeseen events it is probable that they will be in the fray at least a part of the game. Being on the home floor the game should be a strong one, and if our men can get hold of the old time form, the teams should be very evenly matched.

The game will start promptly and it is to be hoped that every student will be there and use his or her lung capacity to the utmost to cheer the home team to victory.

BEILHARZ READS "THE HOOSIER SCHOOLMASTER"

Gives an Excellent Interpretation of The Characters of the Backwoods Indiana Flat.

McCaddam's course came again and it was sure up to the former standard. Beilharz is sure some guy—he had his audience with him from the start and kept it thru the whole performance. There was hearty and continued applause for a minute or more after he had finished and had said good night.

He gave an interpretation of Edward Eggleston's famous book, "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," in costume and character. The familiar lines of the interesting story were given new life and meaning to many in the audience, and some of the more serious if not dramatic situations were presented in admirable style.

Hard-shell Baptist preacher Buckshaw, Bud Means, and his mother, old John Pearson, the prosecuting attorney, and other character interpretations were given in a manner that will stick. Those who took Mac's course evidently believed and their belief has been amply verified, "Yer all want a git a plenty while yer gittin'."

REPRESENTATIVE ANDERSON GIVES GREWSOME TALK

Treatment of Subject "Death, Funerals and Ministers" Evokes Many a Laugh.

Hon. A. A. Anderson, of Wasco county, author of House Bill No. 362, was a distinguished chapel visitor on Monday. His grewsome subject of "Death, Funerals and Ministers" inspired a ready sympathy in his audience. Among the profound morals and maxims which he drew were these "A man who would marry again in three weeks doesn't really deserve to lose his first wife."

"It was well for the 'dead soldiers' that they had a minister with them at the last."

"Be an optimist; the world hates a pessimist."

RATTLESNAKE JIM VISITS WILLAMETTE

Weird Dances Staged by Motion Picture Companies Help Pay Way Of Globe Trotter.

"Universal Rattlesnake Jim," globe trotter and student in the university of hard knocks and experience was a campus visitor Thursday. Barefoot and attired in a rough and ready gunny sack costume with a pack strapped across his shoulders, the man truly looks the part.

"Rattlesnake Jim," whose real name is James Luhn Longfeather, claims that his father was a full-blooded Sioux Indian and his mother of German-Swiss extraction. He displays a remarkable degree of intelligence as a possible result of the mixed blood for he speaks English, French and Spanish and writes an excellent hand.

His feet are practically immune from cold, due to his constant travel and roughing it in the open in all but the worst weather. The eyes of the man are wonderful; keen, clear and piercing. They would not fail to attract attention anywhere. His hair is straight and jet black, a fact which would tend toward the proof of the parentage he claims.

During the past eighteen years since he left his home at Lucerne, Switzerland, "Rattlesnake Jim" has traveled 123,000 miles, and many more thousands will be added before he reaches his home in 1920. He came to Salem from the south where he had posed for a number of motion pictures for the Mutual Universal Weekly Company.

From exchanges we glean that he has been sojourning at the various fraternity houses in college towns thru which he passes. From here he expects to strike out toward British Columbia, Hawaii, Australia and attendant ramblings on his world tour.

He carries a pack of some forty-five pounds, in which a map of the United States, a poker, and a cane, attract attention. Moving picture shows stage his weird dances and furnish a partial means for his existence en route. He travels according to no schedule other than personal desire and he averages from ten to forty miles a day. That he may have proof of his journeys he makes it a point to secure the signatures of city officials, university seals, and stamps of thousands of ticket offices, post offices and the like in his chosen school.

He adapts himself to his environment, playing the part of detective, sign painter, motorman and Jack-of-all-trades at will. Such a man, tho he may be able to strike matches on his feet, is really a very interesting personage with whom to come in contact, and there are practically no limits to an interview with such a character.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER HOLDS CONVENTION

Willamette Delegates Attend Missionary Meeting.

All things have a beginning and happy are the people who have the privilege of seeing the opening up of some new and worthy enterprise.

The O. A. C. Student Volunteers opened their city Friday evening for the delegates from the Oregon colleges, to the finest volunteer convention ever held in Oregon. Anyone who thinks that leftovers and ne'er-dowells comprise the bulk of foreign missionaries would have received a bad jolt at the meetings where one requisite after another was brought forward as absolutely essential for a successful missionary.

IN THE BALANCES

The Collegian has been advocating student self government and probably before the close of this year the new system will be granted. The student body meeting of last Friday was the greatest test of the question, "Are we ready for self government?" that has been presented thus far. The only unbiased and logical method for the settlement of the question was the solution which was adopted, namely that the question be referred to the upper classmen as a tribunal and for them to present recommendations to the student body.

Ex-President Gilkey paid careful attention to the manner in which the students handled the matter, and as an expression of the ability of the students to legislate properly upon the question Mr. Gilkey said, "The speeches were more lucid and better presented and more to the point than I have yet heard presented on the floor of either house of the legislature. Also, the apparent knowledge of parliamentary usage was much more in evidence."

The question of Friday's meeting did not relate so much to the green cap problem as it concerned the question whether or not the student body was willing to place the matter in the hands of the upper classmen. When given the power of making recommendations for a just settlement, the careful consideration which is being exercised in dealing with the problem proves that the upper classmen are worthy of the trust, and that Willamette's days of student self government are not far distant.

APPRECIATION AND REVERENCE

The educated man is a reverent man, and of course the converse seems to follow that the uneducated man is an irreverent man, or the irreverent man is an uneducated man. Whether either the proposition or its converse is true, there are times when loud applause by the children in college chapel becomes the height of irreverence or more properly, the depth of irreverence.

Take the most dignified and honorable man upon the earth, laugh at him and you have cheapened his character in the eyes of the world. Take the most lofty truth or the highest and most sacred ideal; laugh at it and it becomes no longer an ideal. Whenever any one cheers or applauds a sacred solo or a prayer, he not only shows an entire lack of appreciation, but also a depraved moral nature. Loud forms of appreciation are of utmost importance in making a vigorous college life, but they should be kept in their proper sphere.

Sophomores 8, Juniors 4.

The inter-class basketball contest is now half over, with the Senior team remaining undefeated. However with only one game's difference between the Freshmen and Seniors, the contest for the cup promises to be of great interest, and the supporters of the respective classes should turn out next Friday in full force.

HARMONY

The green cap question has been argued pro and con and will no doubt be settled as fairly as possible to all concerned. But there is something concerning us at present which is of much greater importance than the cap question. Whichever way the cap question is settled, let us drop the matter, even though it may be sacrificing some of our personal principles to do so, and abide by the result, cherishing no hard feeling. When the time comes for consideration of the Student Self Government question let us work together for the best interests of Willamette as we must upon that and all other questions concerning our Alma Mater. Let us not allow any personal or class feeling to injure the prospects of our school.

The most notable amateur cast ever assembled in Salem will be seen in the Artisan production of "Brown of Harvard," which will be under the personal stage direction of James W. Mott, producer of the recent success, "Arizona."

College Social Life

One of the most pleasant affairs of mid-winter was the quiet afternoon party given by Miss Gertrude Eakin to a number of her girl friends a week ago last Monday afternoon. The guests and hostess sat before the open fire chatting and tating for about two hours when a beautiful white cake brilliantly lighted with crimson candles appeared and announced the number of years which the hostess had enjoyed. Each guest endeavored to tell her own fortune by blowing at the candles, the number which remained unextinguished signifying the number of years yet to pass before the long-hoped-for event. When Miss Eakin had cut the cake and all had partaken of it, Miss Fields was found wearing a ring, Miss Bartholomew was surveying a shiney dime, and Miss Lent using a new thimble. Delicious salad, sandwiches and cocoa were also served.

Present were: Ruth Hodge, Grace Thompson, Kate Barton, Mildred Bartholomew, Leila Lent, Alice Fields, Mary Cone and Gertrude Eakin.

WEBS HOLD BUSINESS SESSION AND ELECT OFFICERS

At the meeting last Wednesday night the Websters presented no program as there was a large amount of business to transact, numerous committees to report and the election of officers.

After the smoke of political speech and the "steam roller" had cleared away it was found that for the coming term Harold Jory will interpret Roberts, Arnold Hall will skedule the platform acts, Harry Rice will keep the absent members informed, Ben Bolt will be keeper of the archives, Sam King will advocate the circulation of money, Roland Pfaff will continue to censor ex post facto, while Paul Irvine goes on sentinal duty.

It has been arranged with the Philodorian to organize a joint legislature. Nine men will be drawn from each society for the senate, while the remaining members from each society will constitute the house. The legislature will be organized tonight.

"We are going to say good-bye to Hallie Jane tonight in "The Haunt," room 17—

Sh! Sh!
Happen around at 1 P. X."

So from 1 P. X. till three jolly maidens tiptoed gingerly to the Albright domicile which was a pretty mid-night scene with candles glowing here and there and chafing dishes simmering with fried chicken and creamed oysters. As this event also celebrated the birthday of Miss Myrtle Albright a brilliantly lighted cake adorned the innocent study table.

Present were: Avis Ogden, Edith Lornsten, Elmo Ohling, Florence Cooke, Stella Goynne, Fannie McKennon, Lilah Doughty, Gladys Chandler, Hallie Samson, Roslyn Albright and Myrtle Albright.

Scene II. of the last act was played in "Paradise" last Friday morning, when Misses Keith Van Winkle and Daisy Mulkey gave a most delightful surprise birthday breakfast in honor of Miss Mildred McBride.

The other honored members of the family, Misses Barton and Thompson were summoned and arrived in a most mysterious manner.

Miss Van Winkle played very successfully the role of head cook serving a delicious repast.

The color scheme was cleverly carried out in lighting and decorations. Tiny red cupids stood at each place gladly awaiting the guests.

And best of all, Miss McBride was "surprised."

The Adelante Society met again on Friday, the new officers taking up their work for the coming semester. The meeting was called to order by the president, Kate Barton.

The first number was a reading by Marie Luthy. Roll call was answered by program suggestions. Evelyn Reigleman played a piano solo followed by a forceful and interesting paper on "My Ideas of a Literary Society" by Alice Fields. The program was concluded with a piano solo by Gertrude Eakin.

According to custom, the retiring officers provided a generous spread.

Concluding from the program announced by Miss Lent for the coming month some interesting debates will be pulled off. The two lower classes first debating followed a week later by the Junior-Senior debate. The winners will then contest for the place as the "World's Champion Debaters."

The Misses Keith Van Winkle and Daisy Mulkey entertained with a "surprise party" for Miss Mildred McBride at their Winter St. home last Friday evening. The event celebrated the birthday of Miss McBride. Those who enjoyed the delight of the evening are the Misses Grace Thompson, Kate Barton, Mildred McBride, Keith Van Winkle and Daisy Mulkey, and Messrs. Paul Irvine, Leland Sackett, Harry Irvine, Emery Doane.

The Misses Edith Lornsten and Avis Ogden were hostesses at a very pretty dinner party last Friday evening. Viols in an Indian pottery bowl made a very attractive center-piece while arrowed hearts were used as place-cards. The invited guests were Miss Matilda Hedlund of Portland, Miss Elizabeth Paulsen of Astoria and Messrs. Ray White, Will Mott, Steve Henderson and Karl Chapler.

The Sophomore girls led a fine meeting for the Y. W. C. A. last week. Miss Rosamond Gilbert was in charge. Several of the Sophomore girls spoke on different phases of the revival meetings and Mrs. Walsh told of her personal acquaintance with Dr. Ostrom, the evangelist. They had been neighbors in Greenfield, Indiana for the last 20 years; and her words of him were all of praise. Miss Esther Emmel and Miss Carrie Cooksey concluded the meeting with a vocal duet.

Observing the day of prayer, being held in the city for the success of the meetings, last Thursday's chapel service was in charge of the Y. M. & Y. W. C. A. Mr. Jory read the Scripture lesson and then gave a short talk. Mr. Peter Pfaff sang "Rock of Ages" in a beautiful solo. The service was closed by prayers from the students.

May Steusloff of the Senior Class at O. A. C. was a visitor at Adelante Society program last Friday afternoon.

The Senior-Junior class meeting met Monday afternoon at 3:30 with Mr. Francis in the chair. A large representation of the upper classes was present and also a goodly number of the anti-green cappers. Miss Holt, '16, was chosen secretary, and the sergeant-at-arms, Mr. Bain, with the aid of the Freshmen present, provided chairs, and the meeting was soon in order. Mrs. Ada Mark-Mills, '13, and Miss Helen Wastell, '16, were given the courtesy of the house.

Then the meeting began. "Baldy" Bowers, president of '18, gave a short talk showing the action of the class, and telling his willingness to abide by the decision of the upperclassmen and the Student Body. Next, Dawe held the tribune for thirty-five minutes, talking of much, defining gentlemen and ladies, enumerating principles of government, condemning things with which he does not agree, pleading for his personal liberty and self-respect.

Mr. Dawe was followed by Mr. Spiess, good natured and honest, Douglass, witty, but very intense and defiant, and Brewster, who was looked at by a little girl. These gentlemen talked and gave reasons why they think green caps should be abolished.

Then Steeves arose and in a quiet way told why they ducked the Frosh, apologized for not doing it before, but explained that the Sophs had been given to understand, in the early part of the year that the Freshmen would attend to their rebels themselves; also he said the Sophs would do no more ducking, since the matter had been referred to the upper classes.

Then the visitors were ejected and a motion made to appoint a committee of five to present a recommendation to the upper classes, meeting in joint session Thursday after the joint session of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.'s McCaddam was appointed chairman, with Mildred McBride, Harry Irvine, Van Slyke, and Gleiser as associates. These people will present a definite program for the classes to act upon. The anti-green cappers were given a good hearing and the upper classes surely have a full idea of their position, though they claimed there was matter to present which would take another two hours. The pro-green hatters did not seem to be in evidence. Whether they were absent by design or by mistake has not been determined. The burden of proof is evidently considered to be upon the antis. Whether or not they are a mere faction of "personal liberty-self respecters" they were sure on the job.

PHILS FOR BIG TERM

Society Forms Mock Legislature with Websterians.

The quarterly election of the Philodorian Literary Society has placed the society on a firm foundation for the best quarter of the year. The officers retiring have left the society in the best of shape for the new leaders, and the society according to its usual good judgment, has elected a set of men fully capable to keep it in good shape, and also, to insure an unusually successful term.

Mr. Harvie E. Tobie, as the new president, states for the benefit of the members his position and hope for the next term. He says:

"I expect the Philodorian Society to continue to improve during the coming term. When I became a member three years ago, there were six ungraduated members, and among the new members there were but three sophomores, Mr. McCaddam, J. Stanford Moore and myself. Mr. Francis did not join until later. With a large Freshman membership and a few members of experience we set out to make the Philodorian Society the best literary society in the Northwest. Since that time we have been perfecting our organization in every possible way. Rules have been adopted, the constitution rewritten, and the halls remodeled and beautified, and harmony induced, until we are now smoothly working. We ought to be able now to do our best work. I expect this term to be the most successful in years."

The vice president, Joe Gerhart, is a guarantee for life in the literary program. Ira Ketchum will see that all matters of importance are recorded and Mr. Bain will second him. Mr. Teeters will keep the bank account straight and Mr. Gleiser will follow in the footsteps of Mr. Francis as critic. The sergeant at arms is Mr. Adams. But just now we are all together for the big mock legislature.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER

tion were the Rev. Mr. St. John and his wife, from China, Mr. Souridge, of India, Mr. Latourette, formerly of China, but now an instructor at Reed college, and Mr. McClellan, Student Volunteer Secretary.

The convention lasted from Friday evening until Sunday afternoon and was full of that interest and enthusiasm which can be felt only by young people who are in earnest, joyful, desire to do the thing that will make their lives count most for the kingdom of God among all the people.

Saturday afternoon at the business meeting the local bands of Oregon were formally organized into the Student Volunteer Union of Oregon. Mr. W. J. Koenig, of O. A. C., was elected president; Aetna Emmel, of W. U., first vice-president; Mr. Humbolt, of U. of O., second vice-president; Hope Blair, of Albany College, treasurer; and Mr. Keeney, Pacific College, secretary.

At the banquet Saturday evening, with Rev. Mr. VonTobel as toastmaster, the volunteers laughed till the tears literally rolled down their cheeks. It was worth the whole convention to see those earnest—dead earnest—missionaries laugh till they could laugh no more, while the president, Mr. Koenig, struggled through his toast.

The closing service on Sunday afternoon was perhaps the best of the conference. The delegates sat and listened to the charge and task of the Student Volunteer, both in his college days and on the field, as presented by Mr. Souridge and Rev. St. John and wondered in his or her heart whether there were any worthy or strong enough for the task.

And then, as the fifty or more delegates and speakers, some of them volunteers of a few hours and others with orders to sail in a few months, joined hands and sang, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," they were glad that they had had some small part in the first convention.

Those attending from Willamette were Miss Chappell, Mary Cone, and Aetna Emmel.

AXTELL?

GALLERY GOSSIP

Gentlemen, in the past we have been too forgetful of the immense advantages of the south campus boundary as a bathing resort. At present, however, there seems to be a revival of interest

Many of the Frosh complain bitterly that a green cap is highly derogatory to one's dignity. By this, Willamette must have made a startling discovery. A Freshman class with dignity! In the good old days, the Frosh used to have pajama parades, eugenics contests, and so on. From present indications our present Frosh prefer Bergson seminars and pink teas.

The Rev. Francis told his congregation Sunday that "the line between civilization and barbarism is the clothes line."

Harold Miller (in English Lit. Exam.)—Milton wrote "Paradise Lost" when he got married and "Paradise Regained" when his wife died.

Bain (to Tobie)—You've never agonized in soul to be tall like I have. I've done it the last three years, and I've grown an inch.

Once upon a time Harold E. had his wagon hitched to a star (Lat., Stella) but a couple of months ago he fell out and has never regained his seat.

Max Ball (hands in pockets, and coat and sweater thrown back)—Gee! Don't I look graceful.

Gertrude—Yes, Grace is one of your strong points, isn't it?

The mock legislature will meet soon. Many have expressed the hope that some important legislation will be accomplished. But we have our doubts, for we understand that the Rev. Bain is preparing a speech on religion, which cannot fail to occupy three sessions in delivery.

The stairs of Waller Hall after dark should hold front place in Professor Matthews' tests of character.

It's about time to bury something or somebody in the graves on each side of the front steps of Eaton Hall. Why not bury the hatchet in one of them? And don't forget to plant some posies on top.

No song will be considered by the committee on composition for the Frosh Glee, unless it contains mention of: (1) sturdy pioneers, (2) "old Willamette," (3) the golden West, and (4) living and dying for our dear old school. A melody that will bring tears to the eye, and thereby increase the profits of the steam laundry is preferred.

Professor Peck had to refuse to register several students in Ornithology, as the class is full and overflowing. Vickery, however, has discovered other ways and places to study birds. For particulars, ask him.
