

QUINTET WINS CLOSE GAME FOR CARDINAL-GOLD

Scrappy Team from Camp Lewis Meets Defeat Before Coach Mathew's Fighters

THE BELL RINGS AGAIN

Peppy Bearcats Show Old Willamette Form in Game with "Fighting Medics"; Final Score Is 18-15; Guarding Is Close.

In one of the hardest-fought basketball contests ever witnessed on the university floor, the Bearcats won from the Camp Lewis "Fighting Medics" last Wednesday night, 18-15. It was anybody's game throughout, although the visitors were held to two field baskets in the second half.

During a major part of the battle, teamwork and science were both forgotten, and sheer fighting was resorted to as a means of victory. The Medics took more than their share of the shots, but most of them were from the center of the floor. They were seldom able to take a shot under the basket, owing to the close guarding of the university men.

The scoring was begun by the Medics with a field goal, but Nichols soon tied the score. Then "Pudge" Brown of the visitors dropped one through the net from the middle, and later the Camp Lewis men had a nine to six lead. The first half ended, however, with a 10-9 count in Willamette's favor.

Williams, Medic forward, was high-point man of the evening with two field baskets and three free throws. Wapato, who tossed fouls for W. U., annexed two out of a possible three. He was so closely watched by the visitors' guards, though, that his best efforts netted but one field basket.

Nichols and Sparks divided the honors as high scorer for Willamette, with six points each. Sparks' baskets all came at opportune times, the first one being a spectacular one-handed shot from the corner of the floor.

Neither quintet showed any special advantage in passing or general floor work, but the Bearcats' guarding prevented the Medics from securing close-up shots. Although the playing was considerably rough in spots, only five personal fouls were called, as compared with fourteen in the first game with Multnomah Club. Wapato was the chief mark of the Medics' (Continued on page 3.)

ANNUAL TOURNAMENT TO BE MARCH 8 AND 9

Willamette Asks All High Schools in Valley to Participate in Annual Basketball Meet.

Willamette sent invitations Monday to all high schools in the Willamette valley inviting them to participate in the annual valley basketball tournament to be held in Salem Friday and Saturday, March 8 and 9. The meet is conducted each year by Willamette University and decides the interscholastic championship of Willamette valley.

Last year the high schools of Salem, Eugene, Newberg, Roseburg, McMinnville, Woodburn and Forest Grove were represented in the tournament but more schools are expected to send teams this year.

Salem high school, by virtue of its victory over Roseburg in the final game in 1918, has clinched one leg of the tournament cup and promises to come out strongly for the honors again this spring. Roseburg high also claims a leg of the trophy, having won the flag in 1917.

WINGED 'M' WINS RETURN MATCH

Superior Guarding and Basket Tossing Makes Victory Over Fighting Bearcats Easy

McKittrick and Wapato Divide Scoring Honors for Willamette; Bonney Is First with Seven Goals.

By their 32-8 victory on their home floor Saturday night the Winged "M" basket tossers secured vengeance for their previous defeat at the hands of the Bearcats. Still feeling the effects of the Camp Lewis struggle, the Willamette men were outplayed completely in the first half, although they were apparently not lacking in the "old fight."

Multnomah started things early in the game, working the ball around the "U" guards and converting several easy shots. Mathews' men were clearly bothered by the size of the floor. The guarding of the club men was excellent, as shown by the fact that McKittrick was the only member of the Cardinal and Gold who was able to annex any field baskets.

The men staged a hard scrap, but could not get clear to shoot. The first half ended 20-4, but W. U. came back stronger in the second period and held the club men to five (Continued on Page 2.)

STUDENTS SHOW ENTHUSIASM FOR FORENSIC WORK

Fifteen Students Wish to Represent Willamette in Oratory and Debate

TRYOUTS WILL BE SOON

Chapel Boast Influences Students to Take Part in Local Debates and in Oratorical Contest; Many Prizes Are Offered.

In response to the boast made recently in chapel by forensic manager, Harvey Cooper, and students of the public speaking department, a number have registered with Professor Della Crowder-Miller for the local tryouts in oratory and debate. The dates for these local contests have not been set but they will come some time before the 7th of March.

The student who is successful in the preliminary oratorical contest will represent Willamette at the contest given by the State Oratorical Association at Eugene on April 11. The following schools will be represented in the contest: O. A. C., Eugene Bible School, U. of O., McMinnville College, Pacific University, Pacific College, Oregon State Normal School and Willamette University.

The winners of the preliminary contest in oratory will receive a Bar-W pin and one-half semester's tuition. In addition to this the Hon. Walter E. Keyes of Salem offers two prizes of $15 and $10 to those who win first and second honors in oratory. If the contestant is successful in the state contest he receives a whole semester's tuition from the university and a gold medal from the state association. Those who won prizes and tuitions for oratorical work last year are: Miss Faye Bolin of Salem, Oregon; Miss Evadne Harrison of Portland, Oregon, and Mr. Paul Wapato of Okanogan, Wash.

Those winning a place on the two debate teams are awarded Bar-W pins. The university also offers one-half semester's tuition in the preliminary contest and one semester's tuition to the winning team in any inter-collegiate contest. In addition to this Dr. B. L. Steeves, president of the board of trustees, offers $15 and $10 to the winners of first and second honors in debate. Those receiving prizes and tuition in debate last year are: Mr. O. K. Paulus of Salem, Oregon; Mr. Arlie G. Walker of Woodburn, Oregon; Miss Myrtle Mason of Boise, Idaho, and Mr. Harold Dimick of Woodburn, Oregon.

There will be six chosen from among the contestants in debate. The four receiving the highest marks will compose the team while the next two will act as alternates. Last year the students in both oratory and debate received between two and three hundred dollars in prizes and tuition.

Those registered this year in oratory are: Vivian Isham, Florence Shirley, Ralph Thomas, William Nichol and Thomas Acheson. The following are registered in debate: Ina Moore, Horace Rahskopf, Paul Doney, Ralph Thomas, John Medler, Oscar Olson, Myrtle Mason, Leslie Fialer, Hubert Wilkin and Henry Spiess.

VERNON KLOSTER IS ALIVE AND WELL

According to information received through Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Kloster of the Woodlawn M. E. church, Portland, their son Vernon Kloster is alive and well. The letter from Private Alva Burleson which was printed in the Collegian last week was misinterpreted by the editor. The "pal" whose death Private Burleson described was not Vernon Kloster, who was referred to later in the letter.

WINANS RENEWS RELATIONS WITH W. U. BY LETTER

Spent Three Years at Oxford as Rhodes Scholar, then Eight Years in China

W. U. FOLK IN NEW YORK

Former Student Meets Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bagley and Lyra Miles at Oregonian Luncheon in New York City.

Edward J. Winans who has spent eight years in China, tells of some of his experiences since leaving Willamette in a letter to Prof. W. E. Kirk.

Mr. Winans graduated from Willamette University in 1907. In the fall of that year he entered Oxford as a Rhodes scholar from Oregon and spent three years in special study. Since his graduation from Oxford he has been a professor in Peking University, Peking, China. While he was a student at Willamette he took part in Y. M. C. A., society and athletic activities and was a first-class student. Part of the letter to Professor Kirk follows:

"After eight years in China, I am on a furlough in the U. S. A. and am studying at the Union Theological Seminary and Teacher's College, Columbia University. In my class at T. C. I. sit next to a teacher from Monmouth Normal who asked me to meet with a group of Oregonians at luncheon this noon. There I met Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bagley of W. U. and a Miss Lyra Miles who was at W. U. for one year. It seemed like old times, but they were so recent that our only common acquaintances were their seniors by several years and preps or just high school kids in my day. However, we knew several of each others friends. I hear that you and Professor Mathews are still loyal to W. U. and maintain the continuity with the past. How I wish I could visit Oregon and W. U. again, but I fear I can hardly manage it, for I expect to sail for China in July or August and will wish to visit my parents enroute. Since they are now living in Arizona and we shall probably sail from San Francisco, I fear I shall have to miss my Oregon friends. I missed that region on my way home for the same reason, for we landed at San Francisco. I should like to see Salem and Old Willamette again, but I am afraid it is hardly possible.

"I wish I might have the opportunity to tell you something about my work in China. I should like very much to get Willamette and my old home church back of me and my work. I wish I could get them interested in China and the great Pacific Problem of international relations around the Pacific basin. Now that the war is over I feel that the center of the world's interest is going to be China and Japan. Russia, the Balkans and the Near East are all going to claim a lot of attention, but they will be minor issues, after a very few years, to the great Pacific Problem.

"How is the Y. M. C. A. and the Student Volunteer Band at W. U.? If a letter from a forgotten alumnus, a mere missionary, would be of any interest, I should be glad to write one.

"Perhaps you may remember my sister Isadora (Dora Winans). She married a Y. M. C. A. physical director and went to India. In November she succumbed to influenza."

E. J. Winans, Union Theological Seminary, 609 W. 122nd St., New York City, New York.

GIRLS AGAIN START BASKETBALL PRACTICE

Regular Gymnasium Credit Will Be Given to Members of Teams; Regular Games Uncertain.

Girls' basketball which was started last year has been taken up again this year with new vigor. The practice times come every Monday and Thursday evening at 7:30 and Wednesday afternoon at 2:15. About fifteen have been out, several of whom are very promising.

Impetus is given to the practice by the promise of the coach to give credit to those who turn out to practice three times a week. Regular basketball practice, although requiring more time and energy, is of greater interest than ordinary gymnasium work. There is some possibility of having a game with some other team if such can be arranged.

PROF. J. R. SITES IS DIRECTOR OF NEW ORCHESTRA

Dean of College of Music Is Leader of Salem's New Symphony Orchestra

FIRST CONCERT MARCH 4

Professor Sites Has Had a Wide Musical Experience, Having Studied Under Rubenstein, Schumann and Carl Reinecke.

Prof. John R. Sites, dean of the college of music, is director of Salem's newly-organized symphony orchestra.

The orchestra was first organized last November and the following officers were elected: President, Miss Leisla Ruby; vice-president, Henry Lee; secretary and treasurer, Florence Shirley; librarian, Winifred Eyre. Miss Ruby afterward resigned as president and Miller Bevier was chosen.

The membership of the orchestra has increased from twenty-five to forty and Professor Sites expects to further increase the membership to at least fifty.

A number of prominent citizens of Salem, who are interested in making the orchestra a success, have sent several donations with which to buy the necessary music and musical instruments.

The orchestra will make its first appearance in concert on March 4. Mrs. Jane Burns Albert, soprano, of Portland, has been engaged to sing.

The complete program for the concert is: Overture to "Poet and Pensant" (Von Suppe); prelude, "Sella-ana" and intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana" (Mascagni); vocal solo, aria and orchestra; "Symphony No. 8 in B Minor," known as the "Unfinished" (Schubert); intermission of ten minutes; triumphal entry of the "Bojaren" (Halvorsen); songs, piano accompaniment; "Amoureuse," concert waltz (Berger); march from the opera "Aida" (Verdi); "The Star-Spangled Banner," with audience assisting in singing.

Another program will be given, when music of a lighter character will be rendered. A third concert will be for the benefit of the needy of Salem.

Since coming to Willamette Professor Sites has not only added much to the musical organizations of the (Continued on page 3.)

WASHINGTONIAN BANQUET WILL BE BIG SOCIAL EVENT OF YEAR

February 22 marks the occurrence of one of the most outstanding social events of the year. It is the time when the Washingtonians invite all the students of Willamette University and their friends to unite in the celebration of Washington's birthday anniversary. A chapel program and an elaborate banquet are held in commemoration of the life and works of our first great American, George Washington.

Just as the dominant spirit of this masterful life was the desire to bring about a harmonious union of the American Colonies, so is it the desire of the Washingtonians that every student in Willamette join in this festival of goodfellowship. This is the one big time that every student expects to attend.

The members of the society are busy making every preparation that this banquet may be the best in the history of the university. An attracting feature of the banquet is that a superior menu is being offered with no advance in price over previous years.

In place of the usual chapel services Saturday morning there will be a special program consisting of a number of musical selections and an address by Dr. A. N. Aldrich of the Leslie M. E. church.

At 12:30 the guests will be ushered into the reception room of the First Methodist church where the banquet will be served. An exceptionally fine menu of four courses will be served by the Ladies Aid of First Church.

No banquet is complete without toasts, and no school event is quite so keen without its president. With an exceptional sense of humor, and a charming presentation Dr. Doney, as toastmaster, will lead the assemblage forth into many realms of jolly fun and then back again to the more serious discussions.

The toasters representing various organizations of the university will be:

The Faculty—Prof. Jas. Matthews. The Trustees—Mr. Bishop. Seniors—Miss Leila Johnson. Juniors—Francis Cramer. Sophomores—Lawrence Davies. Freshmen—Ralph Barnes. Washingtonians—Miss Fay Peringer.

A short musical program will conclude the celebration of Washington's birthday anniversary.

MANY WILLAMETTE STUDENTS ENJOY EXCURSION TO PORTLAND

The Multnomah game, together with the expected convening of the peace conference, and the expected arrival of the 65th C. A. C., gave impetus to a considerable migration of Willamette students to Portland last Saturday.

Paul Flegel, the far-famed yelling, led the pilgrimage by catching a Friday afternoon train on the fly. Saturday at noon some fourteen rooters and rootresses bid farewell without even paying their respects to chapel. There was one exception: Paul Day risked missing his train in order that his fellow students might not be deprived of hearing the daily Washingtonian announcement. His generosity was rewarded; he caught his train. At four o'clock the largest contingent set forth, there being about forty Willamette students on that train.

Besides those who patronized the Oregon Electric there was one automobile party. Bayard and Mary Findley took some of their friends to Portland with them in their car. The party returned by way of Newberg, where they stopped for Sunday dinner at the home of Gladys and Harold Nichols.

The Portland car of the noon train was crowded. The brakeman declared that there were fourteen empty seats, but the Willamette representatives could not find them. What seats there were unoccupied were scattered over the entire length of the car, and W. U. students are fond of each other's company. To aggravate matters the car ahead was only half full, while the car behind did not boast a single passenger.

To have the ladies at one end of the car and the gentlemen at the other was too much like chapel or a Thanksgiving jolly-up; it made the students homesick, and they couldn't stand it. So three young gentlemen determined to see if they could not prevail upon the brakeman to let the entire party into the forward car. That official had just entered the car in question, locking the doors behind him. But what are locked doors to Willamette ingenuity? Paul Day had a key. Soon the three enterprising young men were comfortably seated in the next car, awaiting the return of the brakeman, who had gone on into the smoker. He re-

ORATORY AND DEBATE.

Two of the best mediums of advertising and representing the worth of Willamette are athletics and forensics. Willamette has a pride in her basketball team and we feel assured that in forensics the victories of last year will even be surpassed in the coming season of oratory and debate.

Willamette is soon to be represented among the colleges of Oregon in the Old Line Oratorical Contest. The orator who delivers the oration at Eugene will unconsciously present to other schools every phase of our college life. If the oration is poorly delivered they will have a poor opinion of our public speaking department; if the oration is poorly organized and poorly written they will have a poor opinion of our English department; and if the oration does not contain enthusiasm and conviction they will think the school lifeless and without spirit.

The entire burden of preparing for this contest, however, does not rest upon the orator or even upon the public speaking department. Part of the burden rests on every student. The orators cannot do their best without the encouragement and the interest of the students.

The real old Willamette pep is needed by the orators at no particular time but all the time. They need it while the orations are being written, while they are being delivered and finally when the orator goes to Eugene.

THANK YOU.

The students of Willamette University wish to thank the Jenks Studio for the complimentary portraits given through the Wallulah.

field baskets. Wapato and Dewey each converted four free throws during the melee.

Although the referee apparently did not look closely to the fouling, six personals were called on the "Winged M" quintet, while the Bearcats were credited with five. Morton was again in the limelight with three personals chalked opposite his name on the score card.

Dimick, who has been out of the game for more than a week, had a good workout during the evening. He replaced Rarey during the last two-thirds of the contest and played a consistent game despite his injury which bothered him some. McKittrick and Wapato divided honors in the scoring with four points each. All of Wap's points resulted from free throws, as he was watched very closely during the entire game.

Multnomah presented the same lineup as that of the former game with the exception of Dewey and Toomey, guards. Dewey exhibited his usual class, tossing four out of six fouls and showing some clever floor-work. Bonney, at forward, was high scorer for the club men, with seven field baskets. Mix and "Nick" divided the jumping honors at center.

The game was witnessed by more than fifty Willamette students and several alumni, a majority of whom made the trip to Portland especially to root at the contest. Flegel had his proteges yelling at top speed throughout the evening, adding considerable pep to the affair.

The lineup:
Willamette (8) (32) Multnomah
Wapato (4) (14) Bonney
Sparks, Ross (10) Morton
Nichols (2) Mix
Rarey, Dimick (6) Dewey
McKittrick (4) Toomey, Alhanda
Referee—Coleman.

Chapel Notes

Once again, just before the town clock strikes the hour of noon, the Willamette campus suddenly springs into an overflow of life. The walks are crowded with students and teachers, the Book Store is filled to the bursting (half trade, half curiosity) and the front steps of Waller Hall present to the eye one mass of verdant headgear. Chapel is now with us; permanently, we hope, for chapel hour is the only time of day when the entire school comes together, and we cherish it as a happy privilege.

WHITMAN COLLEGE.

The overseers, faculty and alumni of Whitman College are planning public exercises to celebrate the quarter-centennial anniversary of the administration of President Penrose. The celebration will take place on June 8, 9 and 10 and already distinguished speakers from the Atlantic and Pacific coasts have accepted invitations to participate. All the university and college presidents of the four northwestern states are expected to be present and many of the alumni are planning to return. The cornerstone of at least one new building will be laid.

Stephen B. L. Penrose became president of Whitman College in the fall of 1849. He is a graduate of Williams College and of Yale University. He came to Washington in 1890 as one of the "Yale Band" to try a co-operative experiment in home missionary work. After serving as pastor of the Congregational church at Dayton he accepted the presidency of Whitman College. President Penrose has not been engaged in administrative work only but has carried all the teachings in the department of philosophy.

The average chest expansion of two hundred women of the University of Oregon is three inches according to an examination given by the physical education department. "These girls show that there is a tendency among girls to breathe more deeply," says Miss Harriet Thomson, instructor in the department. She says that this is due to the fact that physical exercise is becoming more popular and the old manner of chest breathing is disappearing.

PACIFIC UNIVERSITY.

The college bell of Pacific University has had quite a historic experience. The bell was first rung for Tualatin Academy at the close of the school year in the summer of 1852. This was two years before Pacific University received its charter. The bell was rung to celebrate the close of the civil war, the close of the Spanish-American war and on November 11, 1918, to celebrate the victory of the Allies.

The object is to enable them in authority to reprimand the tardy students and incite them to do better work for the honor of the fraternity or club.

UNIVERSITY OF UTAH.

The art department of the University of Utah is designing the posters needed to advertise school activities. The course has been enlarged so as to cover local as well as campus interests. MISSSES ELIZABETH AND CHARLOTTE TEBBEN

An event which seldom occurs more than once annually is either a football or basketball excursion. Saturday of last week was that eventful day for the school year 1918-19 when a large number of the students went to Portland in order to root for the Willamette players. The excursion so filled and enthused the hearts and minds of everyone that little attention was given the other social affairs scheduled for the week. A number of Valentine parties Friday evening put the basketball enthusiasts in good spirit for the game.

The Adelante Literary Society held an important business meeting Friday afternoon. The installation of new officers was the chief matter of interest. The following are the newly elected officers: Miss Lelia Johnson, president, Miss Vesta Mulligan, vice-president; Miss Mildred Garrett, treasurer; Miss Blanch Drake, recording secretary; Miss Marjorie Minton, corresponding secretary; Miss Velma Baker, first directress; Miss Faye Bolin, second directress; Miss Charlotte Tebben, first usher; Miss Elizabeth Tebben, second usher; Miss Beth Briggs, first critic; Miss Marguerite Wible, second critic; Miss Faye McKinnis, first kitchen custodian, and Miss Gladys Bartholomew, second kitchen custodian.

Following the business meeting, the outgoing officers entertained the members of the society and served delightful refreshments consisting of ice cream and wafers.

As a farewell to Miss Metta Walker a few of the senior girls entertained at a theater party Thursday evening. After seeing "The Way of a Man with a Maid" the party adjourned to the Spa. Those who entertained Miss Walker were Miss Lelia Johnson, Miss Charlotte Tebben, Miss Elizabeth Tebben, Miss Mary Paroungian, Miss Gladys Nichols and Miss Glenna Teeters.

The many friends of Miss Walker regret her leaving the university as she was a popular member of the class of '19. Miss Walker was the only senior in the college of law this year, and as a result of her law work has secured a good position in a law office in Portland.

Sunday evening Miss Faye Bolin entertained a few friends at a delightful dinner party. Those who partook of Miss Bolin's hospitality were Miss Ruth Spoor, Miss Charlotte Tebben, and Miss Elizabeth Tebben.

The many friends of Miss Flora Housel will be interested to know that an announcement of her marriage to Mr. Memory Dillone Orange has just been made. The wedding took place at Pendleton, Oregon, on February 5. The young couple will make their home at Pilot Rock, Ore.

Mrs. Orange was a popular member of the class of '17. While in the university she took an active part in student affairs. She was treasurer of the Philodorian literary society, secretary and treasurer of the Y. W. C. A., vice-president of the class, and president of the Lausanne Hall Club.

The new members of the Chrestomathean literary society made their initial appearance last Friday afternoon, when they presented a very attractive program. Mable Stanford played a brilliant piano solo. Helen Shaver delighted her audience with a humorous reading, and Eva Roberts sang the beautiful solo, "Somewhere a Voice is Calling." "A Modern Priscilla" was very cleverly acted in pantomime by Alice Welch, Elizabeth Berg, Lucy Holt and Vivian Annin. The program was closed with a mandolin solo by Frances Hurbert. Delicious refreshments were served by the new girls during the short social hour which followed.

After the intermission the regular business meeting was held in which the following newly elected officers were installed: President, Estelle Satchwell; vice-president, Helen Rose; treasurer, Fay Pratt; recording secretary, Eva Love; corresponding secretary, Mable Stanford; critic, Grace Bagley; executive committee, Helen Shaver and Elsie Lippold; custodians, Helen Moore and Ardys Doughton, and sergeant-at-arms, Lucy Holt.

The Misses Ruby Ledbetter and Ruth Taylor entertained the freshman girls of Lausanne Hall at Sunday evening luncheon on February 16. Those present were Helen Fletcher, Irene Hall, Ethel Mocrort, Bertha Leitner, Eva Roberts, Alma Rohrer and Mildred Brown.

Since Saturday classes have made it necessary to observe study hours on Friday nights, the spirits at Lausanne become restless and rusty by the end of the week for want of social exercise. Last Sunday morning, however, found a number of the depressed ones wonderfully refreshed. An inquirer would have found the cause of the change to be a Saturday evening theater party enjoyed by the Misses Evelyn Gordon, Vera Wise, Fay Pratt, Mildred Wells, Ruby Ledbetter, Ruth Taylor, Mildred Brown and Ethel Mocrort.

Lausanne's loyal support of the team was evidenced by the unanimous appearance of her crew at the two home games and by the large delegation she sent to Portland for the game with Multnomah on Saturday night. Gladys Nichols, Glenna Teeters, Sybil Smith, Myrtle Mason, Betty Briggs, Margarette Wible and Helen Rose were the fortunate members. Those who remained at the hall were not discouraged by the little defeat, but insist that "we all have Willamette spirit anyway and that's the main thing."

A delightful surprise was in store for some Hall girls last Tuesday evening, February 11, in the form of a birthday spread. Miss Evelyn Gordon was the happy recipient of a delicious birthday cake "from home" and this together with lemon sherbet was enjoyed by the guests. Those present were the Misses Margarette Wible, Lelia Johnson, Vera Wise, Bernice Knuths, Myrtle Smith and the hostesses, Helen Rose and Evelyn Gordon.

What will those girls at Lausanne Hall think of next? Well, this is what they thought of last Friday night. A valentine dinner! Old Father Time was defeated for once when the little girls of 1908 and 1909 appeared at the dinner table in curls and ribbons. After a very lively meal, the children adjourned to the parlor where they received valentines from mysterious sources. The elegant poetry thereon was the cause of much merriment and delight as a few illustrations will serve to prove.

"Today a battle is raging,
Not with armies and men and guns,
But with an arrow shooter
Who aims at Hearts not Huns.

Dan Cupid is the General
And the army in disguise,
Over the top he's going
And he'll take you by surprise.

He'll pierce your Heart with an arrow
And you will sadly pine,
Unless you will surrender
And be my Valentine."

Such games as "the pig in the parlor" and "the farmer in the dell" were enjoyed. After the ice cream was served, Rip Van Winkle was awakened by the pealing of the study bell.

In the evening of February 10 a social evening and some "varsity fudge" was enjoyed by Mildred Wells, Elizabeth Berg, Fay Pratt, Sybil McClure and Myrtle Smith.

A very novel excursion trip enjoyed by a select few in the middle of winter was the automobile trip between Salem and Portland Saturday afternoon. The chief amusement of the drive was the "bumps" which were encountered on the road. The Findley car was occupied by Gladys Nichols, Mary Paroungian, Glenna Teeters, Mary Findley, Homer Tasker and Baird Findley.

Following the game on Saturday evening, the crowd came as far back as Newberg and were entertained at the Nichols residence, the Sunday dinner being the chief item of interest. The return drive to Salem was made Sunday afternoon.

Miss Ruth Spoor and Miss Margaret Goodin were the guests of Miss Freda Campbell for Sunday dinner.

Thinking perchance that good St. Valentine would take care of their studies as well as their evening entertainment, a number of the university men Dropped Inn at 152 N. Thirteenth street last Friday evening. The ladies were expecting them, so the men were well cared for.

The house decorations were unusually becoming to the date. The rooms were illuminated with diffused yellow and red light, like moonlight in its cool mellow radiance, yet like the light of sunrise in its intensity. Various and innumerable corners of the house were happily not so brilliantly lighted, a few of the more daring young people found.

In an extemporaneous program the Dim, Frosty, Rickli and Rarey Minstrel Company won renown, while Dimick's gallantry gave him sole access to a figurative heart.

In a contest of memory several young psychologists demonstrated their inability to distinguish between memory and imagination, for of a list of twenty-five objects, many of the people remembered thirty or forty.

Refreshments came in due time, glasses containing something extremely cool and delightful. It was one of those indescribable mixtures that no one cares to analyze or question the context of, yet so pleasing that when one is finished he is wont to wonder if he was really eating, or just wakened from a dream. The men departed reluctantly, marveling at the rapid flight of time.

Miss Leisia Ruby attended the basketball game in Portland Saturday night.

Miss Grace Collins spent the week-end at her home in Portland.

Miss Laura Ruggles spent Sunday with her folks in Vancouver. Miss Ruggles was a dinner guest of Miss Collins Saturday night.

Miss Ruth Austin spent the week-end at her home in Woodburn.

Miss Helen Johns of Corvallis was the week-end guest of Miss Genevieve Sevy. Miss Johns is a junior at O. A. C. turned soon; too soon for the continued comfort of the wold be philanthropists. Dark looks and angry words, not to mention threats of arrest and imprisonment were showered upon the trio who had so nobly devoted themselves to the cause of bettering the condition of their fellow travelers. The Willamette students continued to drape themselves over suitcases in the aisles, and on the hooks in the Portland car until that city was reached. The Willamette spirit cannot be downed by any mere railroad company, however, so as they entered the metropolis, the upholders of the Cardinal and Gold advertised their arrival by holding an impromptu Freshman Glee in the car vestibule.

The four o'clock party were more fortunate in having a car to themselves, where they might sing and yell and amuse themselves after Willamette fashion, without the interruption of strangers' baggage or a brakeman's curse.

Standing of Teams Practically Unchanged After Second Week of Struggling

Frosh First Quintet Still in First Place with a Quartet of Victories; Third Team in Cellar Position.

After another week's play in the interclass league, the standing of the teams remain the same, except that the juniors, by clinching two games, have changed places with the second soph squad. The results of the series after Monday's contest is:

Team	Won	Lost	P.C.
Froshman First	4	0	1.000
Froshman Second	3	2	.600
Juniors	2	2	.500
Sophomore Second	2	3	.400
Froshman Third	0	4	.000

The frosh seconds started the week by trimming their third squad brothers, 15-5. Huston was high scorer with four field baskets. Warren converting all of the points for his team. The game was comparatively free from fouling, the ball for the most part being in the hands of the winners. Considering everything, the victors did not exhibit the class to be expected from them, many easy shots going wild. Lineup:

Frosh 2nd (15) (5) Frosh 3rd
Moodhe (2) F. Bohle, Rehbock
Huston (8) F. (5) Warren
Findley (3) C. Marsters
Sterling G. Raray
Sackett (2) G. Lyman

In the tangle between sophs and juniors on Wednesday afternoon, the second-year men showed no lack of "scrap," but had some rather poor luck in basket shooting. Both Lawson and Day missed some nice shots which would ordinarily count as baskets. "Heinie" Spiess jumped into first position as scorer with three field baskets to his credit. The lineup:

Soph 2nd (2) (13) Juniors
Lawson (2) F. (3) Legge
Day F. (4) Olson
Raray C. Ohling, Doney
Flegel G. Doughton
Lyman G. (6) Spiess

The juniors annexed another victory during the week by overpowering the rooks' third quintet, letting them down with a single basket. Legge secured the laurels this time by dropping the ball through the net on five occasions. Bartholomew was back in the game and with the assistance of Spiess, kept the enemy out of junior territory. The lineup:

Frosh 3rd (2) (14) Junior
Huston (2) F. (10) Legge
Warren F. Olson, Doney
Raray C. Ohling
Lyman G. Bartholomew
Doughton

Sherwood G. (4) Spiess
Friday's melee marked the fourth straight defeat of the rooks' third-raters, and the fourth win for their first string quintet. The game was a rare farce, the first squad having their own way throughout. Harra was high scorer, having 12 points to his credit, while Doney and Barnes secured but one less. The losers were unable to locate the net, except when Warren converted a free throw. The lineup:

Third Team (1) (34) First Team
Warren (1) F. (10) Doney
Sherwood F. (12) Harra
Raray C. (10) Barnes
Lisle G. Lucker
Lyman G. (2) Power

After winning a battle with the frosh seconds last week, the sophomore second squad was unable to duplicate the trick Monday, losing 11-6. The sophs started strong in the first half and rolled up a two point lead, 3-1. Ray Rarey's three centennials had a telling effect, however, and the team work grew ragged in the last frame. Fisher's pretty shot in the early stages of the game was the feature of the match. The lineup:

Soph 2nd (6) (11) Frosh 2nd
Fisher (2), Day (3) Moodhe
Thomas F. (2) Sterling
Raray (2) C. (2) Findley
Lyman G. (2) Sackett
Flegel (2) G. (2) Huston

Seth Axley Visits Campus

Seth Axley, a former Willamette student, was a campus visitor Monday. He spent two years here and then went to Berkeley to finish his work. Mr. Axley was an aviator and saw active service in France, returning to the United States only two weeks ago.

While in the university Mr. Axley took an active part in student body affairs and was a prominent member of the Websterian literary society.

Lies have no legs. That's why we have to stand for them.

Philodorian

The Philodorian meeting last Thursday evening was opened by Ralph Thomas. His subject, "Why a Nation Mourns," was well handled. Many little incidents showing the home life of Roosevelt were given in a pleasing manner. Several of the "rooks" were on the program for the first time and without exception they did well. Sherwood was first and he described in detail the camouflaging of ships on the ocean. Miller read "An Incident in France," and Findley gave an interesting account of the influenza epidemic. Wilkinson, a sophomore from Hamline College in Minnesota told of his reception by the students and of his ambition to finish his remaining three years of college at Willamette. After a short business meeting the society adjourned.

Websterian

At a short, snappy meeting last Thursday the Websterians showed the same pep that marked their activities both on the floor and on the rosters' bench the night before. In accordance with the new custom to sing a Willamette song as the first number on every program, Gloomy Gus, the song leader, gave opportunity to learn several songs. Earl Jones gave much information in a talk on current events. John Medler spoke of the advantages and disadvantages of government control of the railroads and summed up his talk by proving that the advantages by far outweighed the disadvantages. Edwin Socolofsky gave some very interesting sidelights upon the 1920 presidential prospects although Mr. Socolofsky admitted that he did not know who our next president would

FOUR MEMBERS OF FACULTY GO TO CONFERENCE

Dr. Doney Reviews Speech of Ex-President Wm. H. Taft in Chapel Tuesday

Dr. Carl Gregg Doney, Dean Geo. H. Alden, Prof. James T. Matthews, Prof. Wm. E. Kirk and a number of Willamette students attended the Northwestern Congress for a League of Nations, which was held in the auditorium at Portland last Sunday and Monday.

The Sunday evening address was given by Dr. Lowell, president of Harvard University. Dr. Lowell took up three phases of the question—"Why a League? How it can be effective? and Why should the United States go in?" Although the manner and style of the speaker was commonplace and tedious, his argument was clear and convincing.

One of the greatest speeches of the conference, which was reviewed by Dr. Doney in chapel Tuesday, was given Monday morning by ex-President Taft. He gave accounts of plans for a league formulated in the United States, France and England during the early part of the war. He also explained in detail the report that President Wilson read last week to the conference in Paris.

Among the speakers of national prominence who gave addresses before the conference were: ex-President Taft, Dr. Lowell of Harvard, Dean Brown of Yale, Edward A. Filene, director of the chamber of commerce, U. S. A.; Hon. Henry Morgenthau, formerly ambassador to Turkey; Hon. Henry Van Dyke, formerly minister to The Netherlands; Dr. Geo. Grafton Wilson, Harvard University; Mrs. Phillip North Moore, president of the American council of women; Hon. Frank P. Walsh, formerly joint chairman of the war labor board.

The complete program for the conference follows:

Sunday.

Morning—Dr. Charles R. Brown of Yale at First Congregational church.

Evening—Henry Van Dyke, formerly minister to The Netherlands, at Westminster Presbyterian church.

Evening—Dr. George Grafton Wilson of Harvard at First Baptist church.

Evening—Mrs. Phillip North Moore, president American Council of Women, at First Congregational church.

Evening—Edward A. Filene, director chamber of commerce, U. S. A., at Rose City Park Community church.

Evening—Henry Morgenthau, formerly ambassador to Turkey, at Rose City Park Community church.

Chrestophilian

The program of the Chrestophilian literary society Thursday night was made short and snappy to leave time for the installation of officers. Following the roll call, which was answered by witty verses from modern authors, H. Doney gave several incidents from the "Personal Life of Lincoln." He brought out the humorous side of Lincoln's life, telling many things which are generally omitted by his biographers. H. Lyman gave a discussion of "Roosevelt's Humanity." The reading by Rahekopf was enjoyed by all. Cooper's talk on the "Recent Phases of Bolshevism" was one of the most interesting and helpful on the program. He brought out several of the vital points of this all-important subject. This program was followed by a short business session and the installation of officers. Cooper, the retiring president acted as installing officer. The new officers are: Horace Rahekopf, president; Kenneth Legge, vice-president; James Bohle, recording secretary; Harold Drake, corresponding secretary; George Holt, treasurer; Hubert Wilkin, critic; Harvey Cooper, sergeant-at-arms.
