

Rep. Hatfield to Make Decision This Month on Senatorial Race

State Representative Mark Hatfield, the University's dean of students, will decide about the last of January if he is to be a candidate for the Oregon senate, he reported this week.

He has not yet decided whether or not to run for the Oregon legislature but if he does it will be for the senate. His announcement this week cleared up a report in one of the Salem papers that he was definitely a candidate for one of the two Marion county senate seats.

Hatfield has definitely decided that he will not be in the race for his house seat which he has held for the last two sessions.

March Deadline

The University dean has until March 15 to enter the race. Filing for the primaries will close at that time. Rep. Lee Ohmart of Salem, has submitted his name as one who is to run for one of the county senate seats. He was a candidate for the speaker of the house until the announcement of his interest in the senate came last weekend.

Senators are elected to the Oregon legislature for four year terms and representatives for two years.

Paeth to Go South, Asks Area Contacts

Students from southern Oregon and the peninsula and East Bay regions of California are urged to submit names of prospective Willamette students from this area to Charles Paeth, director of admissions, next week.

Paeth suggested writing high school friends in those locations, notifying them that he will be in southern Oregon Feb. 1-5, and in California Feb. 15-20.

A party for Salem high school seniors is scheduled for Monday morning. Small counseling conferences will be led by 12 faculty members following the musical program and the showing of the Willamette film.

Mr. Paeth states that "In the past, this has served as an excellent opportunity for Salem high school seniors to find information directly from faculty members. Many have expressed satisfaction in being able to plan their major early."

Anderson Names CR Committee

Plans and committees for Christian Resource week are being formed by its head, Chuck Anderson. The event is scheduled for Feb. 23-26.

Assisting him will be Marge Knockenhour, in charge of general arrangements; Bill Jessup, program chairman; Nancy Hanson, corresponding secretary; Carla McKeen, publicity; and Larry Monk, library display. Other committee members will be named later.

This year the religious observances will be opened to Salem townspeople in an effort to present a side of Willamette which is not ordinarily obvious to them and to give Salem citizens a chance to hear the speakers for the week.

AALS Picks 3 WU Law Profs

Dean Seward Reese, Dr. Reginald Parker, and Prof. Edwin Butler brought new honors to Willamette's Law school with the recent announcement of their appointment to research and study committees by the Association of American Law Schools.

"Three faculty members to gain appointment to such committees is a record which few, if any, schools of comparable size can equal," said Dean Reese.

Dr. Parker was selected as chairman of the committee on jurisprudence. Reese is now a member of a group studying legal education and national defense, serving with Erwin Griswold, dean of the Harvard Law school. Prof. Butler has been appointed to another group studying teaching and education.

Social Probation List Reaches Total of 87

Twenty-five students have been added to the social probation list since the December tabulation of 61, according to the latest report from the dean's office.

Of the 86 named, only seven are women. Class-wise, sophomores number first with 27, juniors next with 26, seniors with 21 and freshmen, 11. One is a graduate student.

theme will be announced next week.

Town students will be offered an opportunity to hold a fireside similar to those of campus living organizations, if they express an interest in the proposal before Tuesday, according to Anderson.

The tentative plan includes a pot luck supper to be held Feb. 24, in one of the churches near campus. The principal speaker of the week will be reserved to lead the group discussion following dinner.

All campus living groups have held fireside talks with an outside leader in the past but this is the first time that an attempt has been made to include town students in the event, said Anderson.

'... Like Hot Cakes'

Stuart Shaw, concert manager, warned students today that the limited supply of student tickets for the Isaac Stern concert January 28 might cause disappointment to those who don't act quickly.

Single student tickets, selling at $1.80, can be purchased from living organization salesmen, or at the student body office. Student series tickets will be sold for the three remaining concerts at the reduced price of $3.50.

PreRegistration Schedule Books Due at 5 Today

Registration books for spring semester must be returned to the registrar's office by five this afternoon, whether they are completed or not. Fees may be paid in the business office until Feb. 1 if pre-registration has been completed.

A $25 "incidental student fee" approved by the board of trustees and announced last February will be included in spring semester costs. The fee will meet the costs of increased faculty salaries effective last fall and is not directed toward the University building program.

Registration day will be the Monday following finals and will take place in the University library. Schedule books, including those not yet completed, will be available that day.

Students completing pre-registration will have an extended weekend, since second semester classes do not begin until Tuesday, February 2. Arrangement for payment of fees must have been made by then, however.

Law Faculty, Seniors Meet Bar Examiners

The committee of bar examiners for the state of Oregon will have luncheon today at noon with the members of the Law School faculty.

This evening third-year students in law will have an informal dinner with the group.

Those interested in attending the function as it is proposed should leave their name, indicating interest, in a box marked for that purpose in the Collegian office, across from the bookstore in Waller Hall, not later than Tuesday.

T'nT at Ten

Monty Ballou with his Castle jazz band from Portland will appear in jazz concert next Tuesday at 10. Ballou makes a return engagement since appearing here two years ago.

Speaker for the last chapel of the semester will be Dr. Myron C. Cole from the First Christian church in Portland.

Human Rights Talk Set By UN Representative

Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, United States representative on the Human Rights commission, will speak Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Waller hall chapel, Dean Robert Gregg, co-chairman for arrangements, reports.

Mrs. Lord, who has a long and distinguished record in public service, is successor to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt on the United Nations' commission which is striving for uniform world adoption of inherent natural rights, he said.

Covenant to Be Discussed

Mrs. Lord will direct her discussion to the peculiar problem of drafting and adopting a covenant of Human Rights. Such a declaration has been prepared by the commission, according to Dean Gregg, and has been signed by all except soviet satellite nations in the UN.

The commission's present work deals with investigations of conditions in all areas of the world.

Mrs. Lord is appearing on the west coast through the World Affairs Council of the Foreign Policy association, a non-partisan group with 30 chapters around the nation.

New Group Forming

Genesis of Mrs. Lord's appearance apparently stemmed from efforts in the interest of forming a tri-city chapter of the association here in the Willamette valley.

Mrs. Lord has been assistant regional director of the Office of Civilian Defense during World War II and chairman of the US Committee for the UN International Children's Emergency Fund. In the 1952 elections she was co-chairman for the National Citizens' Committee for Eisenhower-Nixon.

Sprague To Introduce

Charles Sprague, Salem editor of the Oregon Statesman and a former alternate delegate to the UN General Assembly under the Truman administration, will introduce Mrs. Lord.

Gregg, aware of the fact that the speaker will come in the middle of the last week before final examinations, encouraged student attendance. An informal question-and-answer period is to follow Mrs. Lord's talk.

Council Backs Quiet Campaign

A long-range program to end unnecessary noise in the library was endorsed by student council Wednesday.

The campaign, prompted by student complaints, will emphasize quiet in the reading rooms and silence in the "stacks" through living groups, posters, publicity and cooperation with the library staff.

Council also named Dick Hoy, captain of the Willamette basketball team, honorary Rotarian for the month of December.

Challenge Percentage Tallied; Town Student Pledges Lagging

Percentages of those students occupying the men and women's living organizations who have pledged to the student Challenge Fund were announced this week by Kent Holmes, manager of the drive. No town student solicitations have as yet been recorded.

The combination of the women's dorms and the sororities leads over Baxter hall and the fraternities at a clip of 37 per cent to 19 per cent. These figures include the number who have pledged in relation to the number in the living organizations. Figures are not available for those who may have turned down a student campaigner or who have not been approached.

Three fraternities, said Holmes, have not reported their house results since the drive started and he believed that percentage totals on the men's side of the ledger would go up when they did. These include Sigma Alpha Epsilon,

Phi Delta Theta, and Sigma Chi.

Holmes issued a call for 18 students who feel they know the campus well to help with solicitation among the town students. So far no pledges have been received from the off-campus group. He said anyone interested in aiding the Challenge Fund in this way should see him immediately. He plans a drive using phone and personal contact to reach the 136 town students. Volunteers who wish to pledge can do so through the student body office.

The Wits group is providing solicitors to contact each of its members. Students planning to give to the Challenge Fund are asked to do so at once since the amount pledged by the time the board of trustees meets in February may help determine whether or not constructions on the first three buildings in the development program can proceed.

Engagements Told by Six

A Slight Misunderstanding

Willamette's $25 "incidental student fee" which will be added to spring semester tuition costs is altogether independent of University Challenge Fund efforts. Student solicitors are correct in refuting the mistaken idea of both students and faculty that the additional fee will be added to the building program.

Perhaps the misunderstanding stems from a Collegian news story last February which reported the increase. According to the front page story, "The new fee was authorized upon recommendation of the board's finance committee and it accompanied plans by the board to launch a long-range building program to double the endowment from two and one-half to five million dollars." Authorization of the fee "accompanied" the building plans but was independent of them.

The board of trustees added the $25 to tuition costs to raise the salaries of the faculty this fall and no part of it goes to the Challenge Fund. The student drive is a campaign completely "on its own" and contributions are entirely voluntary. If any part of the new fee were added to the building program, students would be required to give. Instead, the choice remains their own.

Ballou in Salem, St. Nick In Russia, Hampton in Dutch

By Chuck Ruud

Loose Monty Ballou will bring his Castle jazz band to the convocation audience on Tuesday. Last time mustachioed Monty was on campus he impressed students with his sentimental ballads such as "Annie Skinner's Chicken Dinner" and "Sister Kate." At that time Monty asked for requests from the audience.

Lewis Hampton was energetically leading the discussion at a recent Dr. Gatke seminar in political science. After giving all a chance to speak their piece, Lewis turned to the professor and reportedly said, "Do you have anything worth adding, Dr. Gatke." The usually austere government students roared.

"Santa Claus comes to Russia," was the effect of a recent picture of a man dressed in red with white trim mixing with children in a Moscow square. It might be a sign of loosening restrictions behind the iron curtain if "Big Red" in the Kremlin is soft enough to permit such bourgeoisie sentiment.

Pity the plight of Fred Cummings, Collegian art critic and man about the galleries. Fred has been cranking out good-length critiques on senior art shows, recitals and even took a whirl at a movie. Comes time for the Cummings art show in the art building, Fred cannot bring himself to turn out a critique on his own stuff. So what kind of a story does the old Collegian give Fred for those many faithful hours of listening, looking and responding? One and one-half inches.

Scott Renders Advice: Method for a Method

By Jim Scott

Some of the best advice I have ever heard is that good advice is seldom, if ever, taken. And it seems that the people who are least able to appreciate this truth are the ones who are perpetually advising others. With this mellowing thought before me, I shall ascend the pedestal of confusion and tell you how to study for final examinations. Unfortunately, the short comments I am about to render stem from long experience and little success—the perfect combination for irresponsible advising.

Just a Thousand

By "method of study" is meant that by memorizing a few basic rules and applying them, one should be able to assimilate a few thousand likely-to-be-asked facts. The trouble is that there is no satisfactory system by which one can remember the principles of the method, unless, of course, he resorts to a method for remembering methods. Obviously such carrying-ons, rather than aiding the serious, only proposes an infinite regress. A not unsimilar problem presents itself when the conscientious student appeals to books written on "how to study."

In order to realize anything of value from the book it seems that one would already have to know how to study and if this he already knows he has no need for the publication—an impossible situation. Each and all of the specific methods of study seem to proceed upon the pre-supposition that one can start from somewhere in order to learn—but they never define the "somewhere." Can one start from the ends because he is unable to distinguish the means or to deny cause because he only considers the effect? For this very reason one is compelled to consider the matter of study in the most general of terms.

Broad Subjects

Here is the essence! Most of us can recite the alphabet and count to ten. Everything that will be asked and must be answered in an examination will employ one or both of the above principles—language or numbers. Broadly speaking, it follows that each student has the potential answer included within his scope of knowledge; the only real problem of one of organization and organiza-

Mary Miller

The trend in engagements has continued on the Willamette campus, with six more announcements told this week.

McMullen-Towers

Delores Towers announced her engagement to Dean McMullen at an open house given by her parents.

Miss Towers is a freshman pledge of Alpha Chi Omega.

McMullen, a sophomore at Oregon State college, is a member of Theta Chi.

Waite-Rogers

A box of candy and a poem revealed to the members of Pi Beta Phi the engagement of Janet Rogers to John Waite.

Miss Rogers, a 1953 graduate, was a home economics major, and is now teaching school in John Day.

Waite, who attended Oregon State college, is also a teacher in John Day.

A June wedding is planned.

Lamb-Miller

Mary Miller announced her engagement to David Lamb over the holiday vacation.

Miss Miller is a freshman Delta Gamma pledge majoring in biology.

Lamb is a sophomore at College of Marin in Mill Valley, Calif.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Maxine Brown

Kent-Brown

Large replicas of a Pi Beta Phi pin joined to a Phi Delta Theta pin revealed the engagement of Maxine Brown and John Kent last week.

Miss Brown, a home economics major, is a sophomore member of Pi Beta Phi.

Kent, a junior, is majoring in physical education.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Boardman-Stafford

Janice Stafford announced her engagement to Leslie Boardman recently.

Miss Stafford is a sophomore majoring in piano.

Boardman is serving with the US navy, and is stationed at Camp Lejeune, North Carolina.

Coed Named Sweetheart

Barbara Anderson of Salem has been selected as the sweetheart of the second Oregon Beaver platoon and will represent the unit in Portland Jan. 21, when it leaves for training at the San Diego marine corps training base.

In a special ceremony at the city hall Monday afternoon, Mayor Alfred Loucks presented a loving cup to Miss Anderson in the presence of the Beaver platoon leader and two of his squad leaders, part of the 22 man group in the platoon from Salem.

The sweetheart will also be honored at farewell ceremonies which will include a banquet attended by high civic and military officials.

Miss Anderson is a freshman pledge of Pi Beta Phi, and is majoring in music. She is a graduate of Salem high school.

Digit Count

Anyone who can appreciate that the digit 1 refers to one unit above zero and who can proceed from there correctly through the digit 9 should, with a little careful study, realize that all numbers are but complications of the above series. When the complications become too elaborate to be comprehensible we cease adding to the confusion and substitute the word "infinity." As numbers are to math what letters are to language it is only reasonable that the two systems should be combined; the result being a higher form of math (rather than a lower form of language). It is true that there are a number of different dictionaries, and it is also true that there are no dictionaries of different numbers by which one might bisect the book and ascertain the numerical equivalent of half of infinity. The general principles of math are broader than those of language but the principle for study is the same—organization.

So concludes the advice; so comes the reminder that this is the season of year when a little learning can be a D(angerous) thing.

Wheat Cuts Glee Night Parody, Program Time

Glee parodies have been limited to two per class and the program of pre-decision entertainment will be no longer than 20 minutes, Bill Wheat, Freshman Glee manager, announced this week.

Both moves will shorten the Glee night program, which last year was four hours in length. Previously, each class sang four parodies and no specific limit had been placed on entertainment.

Air Force to Recruit In 'Cat' at 10 Today

The aviation cadet selection team will be in the Cat Cavern from 10 until 4 today to interview and make selections for flying training in the U. S. Air Force.

Qualifications for an aviation cadet are that he be single, between the ages of 19 and 26½, be in good physical condition, and must have vision of 20/50 if corrected to 20/20 with glasses.

Applicants must pass a written examination and the aircrew classification test battery, which is designed to test aptitude for flying, and must have high moral and personal qualifications as determined by a board of air force officers.

The first meeting of the Glee executive committee Tuesday noon was mainly devoted to an evaluation of the present point system for judging. The present system gives 300 points for formation and presentation, with 120 for words and music.

Members of the legislative group include Wheat; assistant manager, Dale DeHarpport; Glee secretary, Anne Notson; Ruben Menashe, Malcolm Campbell and Jill Gillerman, appointed by student council. Each has an equal vote on the committee.

Deadline for words and music will be announced next week, as well as any changes in the point system, Wheat said.

Baxter Men Choose Bob Taylor President

Bob Taylor was elected Monday night to succeed Stuart Shaw as president of Baxter hall. Assisting him will be Bill La Follett, vice-president; Tom Raitt, secretary; and Bob Chidester, treasurer.

Others named were Bill Lloyd, house manager; Lewis Schaad, reporter; Tom Dillinger, sergeant-at-arms and intramural manager; Laird Sutton, chaplain; and Paul Johnson, student council representative.

The office of song leader will be filled next semester.

Chapel Excuses

The deans' offices reminded students today that chapel excuses are good for one semester only. Those wishing to avoid confusion should reapply as soon as possible.

Cast Members, Manager Added To 'Electra' Roster by Putnam

Nineteen cast members and production manager for "Electra," Willamette theatre's next production, have been named by Director Robert Putnam.

Added since last week to fill the then-vacant parts are David Finlay as Aegisthus, the king; Bruce Fountain as the Guardian; and Jim Tooze as Pylades, the mute. The chorus for the Greek tragedy will be Barbara Ruhle, Bev Lytle, Dorothea Anderson, Lois Wickersham, and Jean Thomas.

Cast as serving women are

Beth Church and Mary Jane Thomas, Wayne Gibbens and Dave Wood will be slaves and Bob Kaufman and Bob Alfred, attendants.

Lollie Coffey will be production manager, although stage crews have not been named. Bill Hagmeyer is stage manager, a year-long appointment.

Cast members named earlier included Liz Winship, Electra; Carl Ritchie, Orestes; Shiela Laue, Clytemnestra; and Clarine Woolery, Chrysothemis.

'Un-Stuffy' Artist, Isaac Stern, Trades Billing With Jack Benny

"Many persons, according to Isaac Stern, distinguished violinist, who will appear here January 28, 'think that music and musicians are stuffy. It's an old European tradition. I think the notion is crumbling, and a good thing, too. The closer the contact between the artist and his audience, the better the communication."

It may surprise most music laymen to know that Isaac Stern—who plays Bach and Beethoven as warm-ups—has been a frequent guest on the Jack Benny show.

Last spring the violinist appeared on the Benny television program and assisted the comedian in a performance of "The Flight of the Bumblebee." This was in the way of a reciprocal appearance, for two years ago in Pasadena, the audience at a Stern concert was startled to see Benny appear with the violinist to "aid" him in playing the famous display piece for an encore. The Pasadena critics described the "Pasadena debut of Mr. Stern's protegee, Jack Benny. Amid wild applause, Mr. Benny, with some assistance from Mr. Stern, performed Rimsky-Korsakoff's 'Flight of the Bumblebee.'"

But stories of Stern's associations make him no less an artist. Hilmar Grondahl of the Oregonian put it mildly when he said, "Never before has there been a comparable excitement arising out of a little wooden box with four strings!" The famed critic, Louis Biancolli, of the New York World Telegram, said of Stern, "I have often wondered whether he can do any wrong, either technically or tonally."

Willamette Leads Conference After Winning First Three NW Starts

Bearcats Travel To Linfield, Game Tomorrow Night

Willamette's next chance to strengthen their undefeated conference status comes tomorrow night when they travel to McMinnville to meet the Linfield Wildcats.

The Bearcats will probably assume the favorites role, but Linfield still can pull an upset which they have done against Willamette the past two years.

A win by Linfield will bring the Wildcats up to a first place tie with Willamette. Linfield split with College of Idaho, winning 66-64 and losing 76-60. The Wildcats handed Whitman a 71-66 setback Monday.

The Wildcats are paced by their 6-4 center, Dave Sanford, who has averaged about 14.6 points in their first 13 games. The two starting forwards, Carol Cable and Ray Olson, are both hitting at better than 10 points per contest. Al Tarpinning and Ad Rutschman, starting guards, are close behind in the scoring column.

After the McMinnville jaunt, the Bearcats rest until after finals when the Pacific Badgers host them Saturday, January 30, at Forest Grove.

'Kittens Face Linfield; Unbeaten in 5 Starts

Coach Jerry Frei's Willamette Bearkittens made it five straight with three wins in four nights and go after number six tomorrow night at Linfield.

The Bearkittens dropped the Tongue Point Naval team 79-69 Friday night, Marion Motors 50-48 Saturday and the Salem YMCA 63-6 last Monday.

Dead Week Interrupts Intramurals; Basketball Tournaments Near Finish

The intramural's double-elimination basketball tournaments have been interrupted with play in the semi-finals because of the dead-week ruling which prohibits play during that week.

The "C" league still has two games scheduled for tomorrow morning with the Sigs meeting the Betas at 10:30 and the winner advancing to the finals. At 9:30 the Phi Deltis play the Baxter team and the loser drops out of the tournament.

In the lone "B" league game of the week, the SAE's edged the Sigs 29-28 to advance to the "B" loop finals. Verne Zeuske with ten points led the SAE's, but Murrell Peddicord of the Sigs was high with 12 points.

The SAE's defeated the Phi Deltis in the "A" league 33-16 Tuesday to move into the semifinals with the Wits. The Law school quintet dropped the Sigs from the "A" league tournament with a 23-21 win in Tuesday's finale.

Last Saturday in the "C" league the Betas edged Baxter 32-31 and the Phi Deltis dropped the SAE's 46-12.

Sigs, Betas Maintain 'Mural Bowling Leads

The league-leading Sigs of the "A" bowling circuit remained unbeaten as they won via forfeit over the SAE's Tuesday. The Baxter A's defeated the Betas 3-1 to keep right behind the leading Sigs.

In the "B" league, the Betas held onto first by dumping the SAE's 3-1. The Phi Deltis stayed within range by blanking Baxter 4-0.

Bearcats Hit Century Against C of I, Edge Past Whitman in Opening Pair

Willamette, the only unbeaten club in the Northwest conference, showed why it is now to be considered in the race for the title as the Bearcats knocked over Whitman twice and conquered College of Idaho 100-79.

Last Friday, the Bearcats faced one of the pre-season choices in the conference, but paid little attention to this as they defeated Whitman, 65-62. The Missionaries again missed their captain, Dick Fain, who will be out most of the season with a severe ankle injury, as they lost to Willamette 80-75 Saturday night.

College of Idaho had use of its ace, R. C. Owens, only for the first half and the first two and one-half minutes of the third period as the colored flash fouled out. Owens still managed to score 16 points before leaving the game.

The Bearcats led all the way against College of Idaho, but were forced to keep the regulars in as the Coyotes pressed until the last moments of the game. John Lewis cleared the bench in an attempt to stop the Willamette surge, but Dale Gustafson's seven points in the last seconds of the game for Willamette gave the Bearcats the 100-79 win. Dick Hoy and Jerry McCallister led the Willamette scoring with 20 points apiece.

The Fain-less Whitman Missionaries still gave the Bearcats a real battle as the games were not decided until the last moments. Pete Reed led the Bearcats in the opening game with 17 points and Hoy paced Willamette Saturday night with 19 points.

The victories kept John Lewis' record of beating Whitman and College of Idaho on the home floor clean in his seven years at Willamette.
