Classes Vote For Officers

The juniors are the first class to complete elections for second semester officers, choosing as president, David Putnam; vice-president, Ruth Matthews; secretary, Muriel Lindstrom, and treasurer, Bill Herrick.

The seniors are electing today, choosing from the candidates: President, Bob Voigt, Loren Hicks and Wiff Achor; vice-president, Marion Hermank, Margaret Siegmund and Carolyn Brown; secretary, Mary Barker, Delores Netz, and Doris Laney; and treasurer, Bob Blanding, Corydon Blodgett and Bob Daggett.

The sophomores will nominate their members in a class meeting on Monday. Tentative nominations were made by a nominating committee Thursday.

The freshmen will hold their class meeting sometime next week.

May Formals Called Off

There will be no individual sorority May formals this spring, announcement from the Dean of Women's office revealed this week. According to members of the inter-sorority council, the change was made in "an effort . . . to cut down on all of the smaller activities on the social calendar for next semester and unite them into larger functions."

Each sorority will have its choice of a party or picnic to fill in the May date.

The general feeling among the sororities is that they are sorry to lose this social function, but are willing to cooperate because it will help cut expenses during this national emergency, a Collegian survey reveals.

Frats Select New Officers

Jack Hedgecock and Jack Walker were made presidents of Kappa Gamma Rho and Alpha Psi Delta fraternities, respectively, as both houses elected second semester officers Wednesday night. Sigma Tau retains its officers for the entire year.

Other officers elected in the Alpha Psi house meeting were Wally Olson, first vice-president; Stan Nystrom, second vice-president; Tom Davis, secretary; Sumner Gallaher, pledgemaister; Jimmy Robertson, member-at-large; and Art Wilson, alumni editor. Dan Moses was re-elected house manager.

150 Churches to Note WU Birth Final Choice For "Girl" Next Week

Inauguration Of Dr. Knopf On Feb. 2

State-wide Program On Founding Day; Banquet Postponed

Contrary to reports printed last week, plans for Centennial events, with the exception of the Founders' Day banquet, are moving ahead

After the Collegian went to press last week, it was found that reports of a delay in the Centennial celebration were unfounded. The Collegian hastens to correct this error by hereby giving details of the Founder's Day Centennial observance, which will take place as previously planned, with one exception.

As scheduled. A state-wide University Day program and the formal inauguration of Dr. C. S. Knopf, Willamette's new president, are being arranged for February 1 and 2.

At least 150 Methodist churches throughout Oregon will participate in the commemoration of Willamette's founding on Sunday, February 1, according to Dr. J. Edgar Purdy, Salem district superintendent and chairman of the Centennial church program. Information concerning Willamette has been sent to cooperating churches by Dr. R. M. Gatke of the WU faculty.

The following Monday morning has been set for the formal presidential inaugural ceremonies in which Gov. Charles A. Sprague and Judge Brand of the state supreme court will take part. Four student speakers will also appear on the program.

The Founders' Day banquet originally set for the weekend of the anniversary has been postponed until commencement.

Salem's Willamette Day will include a special Sunday service at the First Methodist church with Willamette's former president, Bishop Bruce R. Baxter, and present head, Dr. Knopf, slated to speak. Special music will be presented by the church choir. Dr. J. C. Harrison will preside and the service will be attended by the three Methodist district superintendents of Oregon.

Other local denominations have arranged exchange pulpits and commemorative programs.

Law School Dean Enlists in Army

George M. McLeod, acting dean of the Willamette law school, left Monday afternoon to enlist in the United States army. According to word received here Monday, McLeod is still in Portland taking various examinations.

It is not yet known where Pvt. McLeod will be stationed, but it was first believed that he would be sent to California for his training.

No announcement has been made concerning a successor to McLeod.

Barbara Hathaway, freshman, Wednesday took first place honors for Willamette at the state after-dinner speaking contest held on the Linfield college campus.

Miss Hathaway's topic was "Bustle vs. Hustle" and earned her the first place award of $15.

Winner of second place was Eugene White of Oregon State college who spoke on "Out of the Nostalgic Fog."

This contest, won last year by Willamette's representative, Wes McWain, was entered by speakers from six Oregon schools, Linfield, OSC, Pacific university, Pacific college, Marylhurst, and WU.

Further NYA Cut Ahead

Walter Erickson, campus NYA administrator, was ordered to make a 20 per cent reduction for the remaining five months of the school year in Willamette's original allotment in a letter received from the state NYA office this week.

"A payroll cut may not be necessary because of men students on NYA joining the military forces and others obtaining jobs in Salem," Erickson declared Wednesday.

Erickson said no change will be made until after second semester enrollment figures are available. A previous curtailment ordered last month reduced work hours for NYA students in the December-January and May-June periods.

Preparations Advance For Century Ball In Armory, Feb. 14

Announcement today of the five finalists in the selection of Willamette's Century Girl marked the beginning of a series of student celebrations in honor of the University's 100th year. Plans are in the hands of a Centennial committee headed by Bob Hamilton and include activities arranged to take place throughout the school year.

The five finalists are Bettie Browne, Nancy Austin, Pollyanna Shinkle, Catherine Thomas and Shirlee Morgan. They will be introduced this morning at the student body meeting. All are freshmen chosen from personal interviews and pictures by a committee of students and townspeople on the basis of their adaptability in use for the expected nation-wide publicity of the Centennial celebration. Final selection of the Century Girl will be made by representative Salem citizens and will be announced in next week's Collegian.

Regon to Play

An immediate highlight of the year will be the Senior Century Ball, scheduled for February 14 in the Salem armory. ## They Also Serve . . .

Much discussion is being made of the problem of the place of the college student in a nation at war. Universities and colleges the country over are faced with increasingly smaller student bodies as men leave school to join the armed forces and women go to defense work.

A statement from the office of the President of the United States emphasizes the need for students to finish their education before embarking upon active service for their country. "But I feel so helpless just sitting over here," is the cry. "I want to get in and do something." The trouble is, those people who are so anxious to pitch into the thick of things do not stop to realize that they may be more valuable to their nation as fully-educated men and women instead of as half-educated, untrained volunteers.

Make no mistake, we don't mean to disparage the efforts of those who have decided to join the war workers immediately. Their patriotism and energy is most commendable and of a type that is vital and necessary in these times. At the same time, the bulk of collegians will be vastly more valuable to the Allies—and the world—later on in this struggle as people with fully disciplined minds for the task of successfully ending the war and bringing about a just peace. And it takes just as much courage and patriotism to remain behind when others are leaving.

Let's not forget that both immediate volunteers and finished products are needed. Each class is important but we can't help feeling that ultimately the second will be of more value.

Our Social Calendar

Willamette students as a whole seem to be rather disappointed in the limited number of social functions sponsored for the general student body. Particularly missed according to a great many students are student body dances. Other interesting events that make for a well-rounded extra-curricular program are omitted from the social calendar drawn up for each semester.

Perhaps the "powers-that-be" that are responsible for the drawing up of the social calendar haven't stopped to analyze correctly the social needs of the students. A carefully considered program is highly essential for the social success of the school year.

Current rumor around the campus has it that there are too many social functions being staged and a cut will be made the spring semester.

If we have too many social affairs now, and yet students with the so-called present over-burdened calendar feel that there isn't a sufficient number of events offered, one logical conclusion which might be drawn is that the present method of drawing up the social calendar is inadequate and in need of an invigorating touch.—R.B.

The appearance of numerous tiny slips of paper in our student mail boxes these past few days indicates that the WAPPOMEISM (Willamette Association for the Prevention of Minute Epistles in Student Mail, to you) which has been dormant these past two months will have to rear its ugly head once more.

Washington . . . NOTEBOOK

By Paul Whipple

Who said army life was a dull round of marching, drilling and learning to do away with one's fellow man? A new source of griping was discovered the other day in an overheard telephone conversation between two soldiers and the home folks. Said one: "We gotta go to a party tonight. We would really rather go to the barracks and sleep—but we gotta keep up civilian morale."

Washington's sudden change in status from the area housing the principal governmental machinery of America to the in-effect capital of the democratic world has brought painfully to light just how inadequate the city as a city is for the role.

The most ironic fact of the whole matter is that this city where statesmen of the free countries of the world are meeting to plan how to keep themselves free has not a shred of democracy in its government. An orphan under the guardianship of the federal government, the District of Columbia has never known the use of the ballot.

The tremendous influx of war workers in the last months has only served to bring out the entire inadequacy of the Washington governmental system to deal with the ordinary problems of any large city. Slums, disease, traffic tangles, crime are the principal problems which the District officials cannot cope with with any effectiveness.

Here is a biting comment on a single phase of the situation from an expert: "The fact that syphilis and tuberculosis run riot here, in spite of the recent improvements brought about by the Health Department, is no longer a menace to the community. It is an obstacle to our national war effort. So far as victory in this world-wide struggle is concerned, it makes little difference whether an American soldier is shot down by the Japanese or falls a victim to syphilis while visiting the national capital."

With view to changing the basic structure of the District government, however, a careful study is now being planned to collect full data on present conditions.

SWING--LO!

By RUSS HACKETT

Benny Goodman and Glenn Miller lead the swing band division in the yearly poll, taken recently by Downbeat. Miller also leads the sweet band division followed closely by Tommy Dorsey. Benny Goodman probably will take the honors of the nation's No. 1 soloist. Frank Sinatra of T. Dorsey's band leads the male vocalists, while Jimmy Dorsey's vocalist, Helen O'Connell is ahead in the female division.

The Skunk Song, the T.D. version, while just-released at the end of last month, is bound for the top in the coin machines. As the collectors say after listening to it, "I like the way it ends up best." The Piano Concerto, as recorded by Freddie Martin, was unanimous choice for last month's best seller, practically putting Freddie right on top in the big money.

Incidentally one of our local boys is leaving us to make good in the music profession. That boy is Bill DeSousa, who recently transferred from our local musician's union to join Ken Baker's new ork, a California band currently playing at Janizen Beach, Portland. Bill has the stuff it takes and we know he'll make good. Tommy Todd, another ex-Salem musician is playing piano and arranging with the same band. And from what I hear from Bill, he's really terrific.

See you next issue with more platters and chatter.

ENDS and MEANS

THE air is filled with rumors, some based on hot air and some on fact, to the effect that the college curriculum will be "streamlined." Drastic cuts in the time required to train men for specific jobs are contemplated. All this being urged with the idea of a war necessity as the policy-forming factor.

But after all, colleges and universities were not set up primarily to turn out specialists but rather to turn out more intellectually mature and well-rounded individuals. Specialists are properly trained in special schools operating for that purpose and they are not expected to have as balanced an education as that of a university graduate. The four years that a student normally spends in college is usually only too small a time for the student to gain any degree of intellectual and social depth, and to shorten this "maturation period" would endanger the quality of our educational products.

LOOKING at this problem from another angle; if the specialist schools are not now turning out enough men to fill the war needs of the nation, trying to shoulder the present teaching staffs and facilities of our more general educational institutions with this task will result in badly trained men.

AGAIN, if the usual liberal arts curriculum is "streamlined," how will those college trained men who had to spend four years in order to gain their diploma feel towards those individuals who are turned out in, say two or three years, and who have the same right to claim they are college trained men? Those students who are shoved through will certainly not raise the standards of college men supposed to be well-rounded and adequately trained. How can these individuals achieve in that short a time the background that is so hard to acquire even with four years of "exposure" to both factual and social knowledge?

If these proposed schemes are not carried out with the proper planning and thought; but in the hurried "stop-gap" fashion of an emergency, what respect the public has for college men is likely to be seriously shaken. They will not be able to tell by looking at a diploma if the individual has gained the proper background during his college work to take his place in society with the greatest efficiency or whether he is a one-sided product of a war emergency.

THIS is certainly something that touches every college student of today and if such proposals are advanced with any degree of seriousness the student bodies of our educational institutions should most certainly have some voice in the shaping and executing of the final decisions.

notes from the law school

THERE may be "blue birds over the white cliffs of Dover," but over at the law school, they're all "yard birds" . . . at least, potentially so. If there is one man here who isn't subject to the draft, we have yet to discover him. And as nearly as we can ascertain, a full one-half of the men are subject to immediate induction. Saddest blow to students was the loss of Dean George McLeod, who was coming to be considered throughout the Northwest country as a young professor with an extremely bright future. It is fortunate that we are able to retain our remaining professors, who were characterized in the recent report as examiners made to the American Association of Law Schools as 'an extremely efficient group.'

"Yard Bird" Foley has started practicing up for his first acrobatics in the flying service. It isn't every pilot who can double-loop a fuselage which has no wings. However, Foley is just additional proof of what we have always contended concerning the intrepidity of a typical Eastern Oregonian.

THE difference between a Republican administration and an administration of Democrats is well brought out by the tragic effect of the recent silver thaw. As we are writing this, laborers are chopping down and splitting up several cords of wood resulting from the shattered trees on the Capital lawn. But we suppose the men are employees of a new deal agency.

"The appellant was convicted of forgery, his punishment fixed at two years' confinement in the penitentiary, and he is very much dissatisfied." Lawless v. Commonwealth, 270 S. W. Rep. 745.

Beauties of A Century "Thrilled"

Five Lucky Freshmen Will Form Centennial Court—We Mean Form

By Miriam Jensen

For five Willamette freshmen, life has suddenly taken on a glow that far surpasses anything they've ever known. Catherine Thomas, Bettie Browne, Pollyanna Shinkle, Nancy Austin and Shirlee Morgan have been chosen for the Centennial Court and one will soon become Century Girl. They were told of their nominations on Wednesday with varying degrees of surprise, were sworn to secrecy, interviewed and photographed, and in the meantime found it very hard to study. Four of the five girls live at Lausanne, four of them are active in journalism. All are definitely photogenic.

Shirley Morgan—

Least excited of the five girls was Shirlee Morgan. "I was afraid to get excited because of the chances of being disappointed. It's an honor and a responsibility."

The daughter of a lumberman, Shirlee has spent much of her life in small towns—Tillamook, Marshfield, Snoqualmie Falls, Wash., and now Enumclaw not far from Tacoma, a place a bit like Salem on a very small scale. She like music and dramatics, is majoring in business just in case she lacks ability in other fields. In her senior year in high school she entered a school of 80 and walked off with the lead in the senior play, and she was sent to the All-Northwest Music Conference in Spokane where she met—Nancy Austin. At Willamette you will remember her as the wise old philosopher in The Yellow Jacket. "I didn't think I could do it but that was the only part open," she said.

Bettie Browne—

And most excited of the group was Bettie Browne. Little and vivacious, Bettie admits to the difficulty of studying at a time like this, and the hardship of not being able to tell her roommate. A graduate of Stadium high school in Tacoma, she was feature editor of the paper and an officer in girl reserves, worked on the yearbook, in glee club and drama, and sang with an orchestra which played at various college functions. Acting and speech are her chief interests now, as well as mental, journalistic work such as proof reading and etc. The "e" on Browne she vows is authentic but admits that her first name was "Betty" till the sixth grade. In spite of her daze she manages to conduct herself in a manner to do proud to a Century girl. Following family tradition (her mother is manager of an advertising firm in Tacoma) she plans a career.

Nancy Austin—

... is the tallest of the members of the Court. Starry-eyed and smiling, she walks off with all kinds of honors and promptly forgets she had them. Born in St. Helens, she moved to Tacoma last August when her father became a major in the army. At St. Helens she was editor of the school paper, and was active in glee, drama and Rainbow girls. At Willamette she works on the Collegian and was the "typical Willamette freshman" the first of the year. A May Weekend guest last spring, she summed Willamette up as "everything I wanted in a college." "Whether I'm in it or not, I think this Centennial celebration is a wonderful thing."

Pollyanna Shinkle—

... is the only Salem girl. Willamette has seemed an awfully big place to me because I've gone to Sacred Heart Academy since I was 12, and graduated with a class of 26." While in high school she did lots of singing, managed the business end of the school paper, led the basketball cheering section for three years. At Willamette she plans to graduate with a business ad major. No sissy, Pollyanna loves horseback riding, tennis and swimming, and she admits that she had lived and breathed "Century Girl" since the nomination.

Catherine Thomas—

... called Tommy, is the perfect "citizen." In high school she shone in speech, was active in girls' league and pep clubs, was granted the DAR citizenship award, came to Willamette from Corvallis for a liberal education in the real sense of the word. She took second place in the speech tournament at Willamette last year, and also second in the State contest. Now she's the pride and joy of the journalism staff, and keeps on with her speech. As for the "Century Girl" nomination "I love it but I don't understand it—I'm not pretty!" We'll quarrel with her there, but even if she weren't, she's got the stuff to carry her through.

So these five girls, the cream of the freshman crop—if you like cream—the epitome of the goal of a hundred years, will represent Willamette's hundredth. They all are something in which we take pride.

Semester Registration January 26 to 30

Second semester registration will be held January 26 to 30, during exam week, in the registrar's office. Students are requested to secure their registration cards and class schedules there.

Peace Group Visits Camp

Willamette students were represented when 12 Salem people and over 60 members of the Portland Fellowship of Reconciliation visited Civilian Public Service Camp No. 21 at Cascade Locks, Oregon, New Year's day. Hume Downs, Willamette junior, was present and Ward Miles, sophomore, visited the next day.

At present Art Franz, WU junior of last year, is stationed at the camp which is one of the 22 in the nation for men who are conscientiously opposed to military service but do work of national importance (without pay) under civilian direction.

According to Dr. S. B. Laughlin the men at Camp 21 are in need of books, periodicals and games. Any contributions will be welcome. A portable organ is also on their special list.

Gatke Writes for Methodist Paper

Dealing with world war hatreds and intolerances, "When the Host Goes Forth to War," written by Dr. Robert M. Gatke, is now appearing in the January 1 edition of the Christian Advocate, official publication of the Methodist church.

The article, Dr. Gatke, head of the department of political science, said yesterday, is worked out around the war-time preaching of the World War with the view of the preaching in our churches at the present time. Although this is Dr. Gatke's first contribution to the Advocate since it has become a national magazine, he has written many articles for the Pacific Advocate, Methodist publication for the west coast, when the Advocate was published by districts.

Dr. Knopf Attends Christian Mission

President Knopf is participating this week in the National Christian Mission at Great Falls, Mont. He left Saturday and plans to return Monday in time for a conference in Portland with the presidents of independent colleges in Oregon.

The National Christian Mission is an extension of the famous Preaching Mission series of the past few years. A mission will be held in Salem in February in which Dr. Knopf has also been asked to take part.

Ringnald Moves Office to Waller

Murco Ringnald, journalism professor, is moving his office today from the second floor of Eaton hall to the News Bureau office in Waller hall. The room is No. 1 in Waller and was formerly occupied by Maurice Brennen, band instructor.

Fines Must Be Paid Before Final Exams

Mrs. Dorothy Shimm, assistant librarian requests that all library fines be paid as soon as possible as those having delinquent accounts will not be allowed to take their final examinations.

A new list of students owing fines has been posted on the various bulletin boards. All students should take special note of this list.

Church Board Meets Here

The Board of Education of the Methodist church, Oregon conference, held its annual meeting on the campus of Willamette university January 9 and 10. From 30 to 35 delegates attended the conference which was presided over by Dr. R. Franklin Thompson. The group discussed the possibilities of progress in education within the scope of the Methodist church.

Featured speaker was Dr. M. Leo Rippey of Nashville, Tenn., who spoke on "What Constitutes an Adequate Conference Program of Christian Education." Dr. Carl Sumner Knopf spoke at the banquet held at the Argo hotel on Friday night. The group closed its sessions on Saturday afternoon by a "Summary and Forward Look," given by Bishop Bruce R. Baxter.

Alpha Psis Reward Signs for Patriotism

Announcement of the five Sigma Tau blood donors in last week's Collegian provoked the deepest sympathy from their brothers, the Alpha Psis. Except for the detail of NSF, plans were being made to send the patriotic five just oceans of flowers—and a pound of liver.

Vespers Cabinet To Go to Coast

A welcome relief from studies and tests for University Vespers members will be the annual retreat to Road's End February 6, 7, and 8. While at the coast, Vespers members will plan the work for the different departments for the coming semester, and discuss the relationship of Vespers to the church and to the campus, as well as plan future meetings and parties.

Ruth Cramer will reserve cabins for the retreat, and Tom Hall and Hide Tomita will provide the transportation. Reeva Schmidt, Margaret Pemberton, and Jean Jackson are planning the meals, while Martha Hughell, Doris Laney, and Winston Taylor are in charge of the program.

Miss Fowler Shows Work

An exhibit of oils and water-colors by Constance Fowler, art instructor, is now showing at the Salem Art Center.

Among her paintings are a number which were included in her one-man show at the Seattle Art Museum last spring; also on display are the four oils shown with "Twelve Oregon Painters" at the Portland Art Museum in November.

Probably the most popular of the paintings are two oils featuring "Petunia," her pet cat, eating seafood and sleeping in a wooden bowl. Another painting shows itinerant pigeons roosting in a barn window. Miss Fowler has only one abstraction in the exhibit, a small canvas with rhythmic concentric circles and other figures which she calls "Composition."

Mason Appointed Temporary Head

Ella Rose Mason was appointed temporary president of the new Spanish club, by Dr. A. A. Vazakas, head of the language department. Other officers appointed were Sally German, vice-president and Zoe Fretz, secretary-treasurer.

There will be a representative from each class to help promote interest and membership, Dr. Vazakas stated.

20 Scholarships Offered Women

Twenty scholarships for nurse's training at Portland, San Francisco or Seattle are available for young women in Oregon who have from two to four years of university background, according to Elnora Thompson, speaker at the monthly freshman women's vocational meeting. Miss Thompson, director of nurse's training at the University of Oregon Medical School in Portland.

Prerequisites for the scholarships, which pay tuition and maintenance, are two years of chemistry, one and a half years of psychology, one year of biology, plus the regular courses in liberal arts. Dean Olive M. Dahl will give further information to those who are interested.

Dan Cupid has once again been busy at the Beta Chi sorority house. Wednesday evening at house meeting Ruthanne Thompson revealed her engagement to Vinton Ellis. The news was contained in a five-pound box of chocolates which was given to the group.

The couple are both members of the sophomore class and he is affiliated with Alpha Psi Delta fraternity.

Just LOOKIN'

By Ruthanne Thompson

Full length evening dresses, tuxes 'n tails, low lights, and soft music means none other than the sorority winter formals tomorrow night, and believe me, boys, the gals are out to show you that their ability in "throwin' a formal" rates A-1.

We've done a little bit of pre-investigating this week and instead of what the gals wore, we have a few highlights on what they're going to wear. . . . New hair-do's, formals in silk, satin, and taffeta . . . bracelets, necklaces, and pearls . . . roses, gardenias, and orchids! No matter what they're wearing, spirits will be running high tomorrow night and everyone's going to have the time of their lives—war or no war. It's the big sorority winter formal, fellas, and if that doesn't rate an orchid, I'd like to know what does!

At the Beta Chi formal, swish-swishin round the floor will be Florence Duffy. And when we say swish we mean swish! She'll be wearing a black and white checkered taffeta skirt with a black velvet top.

Goodness! Wait'll you see Clare Pollock in her new formal. Of course, Mrs. Pollock is off the available list, but that doesn't stop her from struttin' her stuff in a colorful black and red taffeta.

At the Delta Phi formal, Betty Thelander will be more than half of a good-looking couple in a white silk jersey formal (Grecian style). Her wrap is a red, fuzzy jacket—nuf to make any one of us fairly green with envy.

When Esther Mae Devore told us what she was going to wear—well, we got to thinking of our old taffeta job that we wore in 1940, '41, and we're going to wear again this year—it was almost too much to bear. Esther Mae has a new blue velvet formal, fitted top, with the new long torso effect in the skirt. What-a' picture.

Taffeta, pearls, and lace make a striking dress for Grace Covert. The taffeta is black, the skirt tiered, the lace white, and touching the whole thing off to perfection—pearls and Grace, herself.

Another taffeta comin' up. It seems to be the favorite this year. At the Alpha Phi Alpha formal Glennerva Harnsberger sets off her dark locks in a white taffeta with the new low waist line. The top is of black velvet with circles of pearls and sequins.

Satin enters the picture when Mary Barker enters the room. Her's is that luscious lavender with a quilted bodice, full skirt and shirred sleeves.

This is just a sample, mind ya', of what you'll be seeing tomorrow night. Beauty, glamour, and latest fashions all rolled into one. Jimminy! Aren't formals wonderful?

Ice Causes Severe Damage To Campus Trees, Shrubs

"The freeze itself did no harm; it was the weight of the ice that caused all the damage," said Dr. Robert M. Gatke, chairman of the buildings and grounds committee, yesterday, as he discussed the extent of the damage wrought by last week's silver thaw, to trees and shrubs on the Willamette campus.

"The most serious damage," Dr. Gatke continued, "and our greatest problem, is with the birches in the parking in front of the campus. Whether they are broken or not, we plan to top them uniformly, so that they will present a better appearance. The tree men working on the campus will then fasten the strongest branches nearest the cut at the tops into an upright position, in the hope that they will grow into new tops within the next few years."

There was small loss to the flowering trees, and the damage to the ornamental shrubs is not as great as was thought at first, although branches falling from the trees hit the shrubs and broke some of them. The only major loss was a birch directly in front of the library, which was cut down by the city.

The fate of the laurels in front of Eaton hall is as yet undecided. The committee expects to remove them, but may only trim them back and wait a year to determine whether or not they will grow upright again.

Most of the trees and shrubs will grow back within two or three years, but the birches will require many years to develop new tops, and some of them may never acquire new uprights, Dr. Gatke believes.

By Sheldon

This week seems to be a rather gloomy time on the WU campus, what with everyone awakening to the realization that final exams are not too far hence, and more important than even the outlook that most of us are going to have to burn the midnight oil in no uncertain terms, is the fact that our capering cage crew has just dropped two straight.

With all these facts definitely against us, it certainly is not easy to try to write a column that will prove the least bit interesting or enlightening—not with everyone in a definitely pessimistic mood, but anyway, here goes.

Maybe Mapes Was Right

A week or so ago, when "Happy" Howard looked us right in the eye, and without the flicker of an eyelash, or the evidence of crossed fingers, calmly told us that his hoopers would be darn lucky to finish any better than third in the N W conference, we merely took it with a couple of grains of salt, and chalked it up as a fairy story. Now don't get us wrong—we didn't for one minute doubt the veracity of the illustrious Mr. Maple, but we supposed that he was just striking the pessimistic note (not the one Dingwoodie & Rhumplefeather argued over) struck by three-fourths of the coaches in the country, and would bob up with his almost perennial championship team.

However, after witnessing the 'Cats drop their opener to Linfield the other night, we began to have a few misgivings. Not that the Maplemen didn't play a good brand of ball (far from perfect, but still good) but they were up against a darn tough ball club—far better than the average Linfield clubs, and for that matter, better than the average NW conference club.

When we really stop and analyze the situation, it proves evident that Maple really has reason to carry a crying towel in each hip pocket. His Bearcat crew has been so shot with sickness, etc., that it seems amazing that he has been able to floor a club at all. He has already lost two of his starting line-up—Bob Carson to the army, and just this week, Glen Walden was forced to give up the pastime on advice of his physician. Besides this, several other Bearcats have been fighting the flu bug for some time, and certainly have not been in top form.

Four in Five Years

It will be remembered that the WU men captured the NW title last year for the fourth time in five years, but from that championship squad, Maple lost All-conference guard Johnny Kolb, and All-conference center, Howard Eberly through graduation. Beside that, he also lost two of his most promising freshmen, Johnny Eggers and Russ Satter, both of whom were all-stars in high school—through failure to return to school.

So, Mr. Maple, we really don't blame you for moaning the blues, but we still don't agree with you, and are climbing out on the end of one of these ice-covered limbs to predict no lower than second place, and with just a little luck (good, this time) first place for our scrappy Bearcats.

And now, to turn from basketball to football—I know everyone thought the football season had been buried, and so it has, but we are looking way in advance, and thinking about next year already.

Intersectional Games Out?

Although the Government heartily approves of football as a morale builder, it seems as though the maximum of 5,000 allowed at a game, is going to work a definite hardship on the larger schools. The fact that a mere handful will be witnessing these games, is going to drastically reduce the gate receipts, and by doing this, it seems to us as though it is going to practically put an end to intersectional games. The reason for this is obvious—the home school will be unable to make a sufficient guarantee to cover travelling expenses.

Of course, this will not effect Willamette to any great extent. However, it will be remembered that 'Cat gridders played before almost 30,000 people in Honolulu. Also with the rationing of tires and gas, the possibility of automobile travel is almost out of the question. Of course, there is always the train, but it seems possible that Uncle Sammy will take over control of the railroads, and if this happens, choo choo ducats will be harder to get than hens' teeth. All of which leads us to believe that football will be played pretty close to home next year. Also, we believe that the intra-mural program in most schools will be broadened quite extensively. Anyway, only time will tell.

Five Hoopers on a Team? "Supermen" Only Use Four

Though handicapped by only having four men on the floor the entire game, Fitzsimons' Supermen won an overwhelming moral and a 21 to 17 point victory over the YMCA B's to end the first week of intramural basketball yesterday during the noon hour.

The Supermen were forced to play the game with four men on the floor because of the failure of the rest of the squad to show up for the scheduled clash. During the closing minutes of the tilt they were still further handicapped, when Moe Fitzsimons was ousted from the game via the foul route.

Putting all of their reserve players on the court at different intervals to stop the onslaught of the "Jonesome four," proved to be a futile attempt and only inspired the victory-bent Supermen to further gains.

Leland Williams was high man for the YMCA B's with eight points, while the Supermen boasted of Fitzsimons and his seven points.

Oilers Bop 'Cat Cagers

Willamette's Bearcats dropped their second cake tilt in as many days, when the fast Signal Oil team of Portland downed them 48-36 at Portland Wednesday night.

The Oilers got off to an early lead and never relinquished it throughout, although the scrapping 'Cats did pull to within six points of the Rose City club early in the second half.

Joe Murray, rugged Bearcat center, led the WU scorers with eleven markers. Hollingsworth of the Signal club copped game honors by penetrating the mesh for 13 counters.

Ex-WU Athlete Joins Marines

Russell Satter, who attended WU last year, left this week for San Diego where he will be inducted into the service of the United States marines.

Satter came to Willamette from Salem high school where he played on the team that won the state high school basketball championship when he was a senior. Satter was also picked on the all-state team that year.

During his one year at Willamette, Russ played varsity ball, and was considered an excellent prospect to fill the shoes of Howard Eberly, all-conference center who graduated last year. Satter did not return to school this fall. While at Willamette, he was affiliated with Alpha Psi Delta fraternity.

'Cats-PU Vie Tuesday Eve

Willamette University's hoopsters open their home conference season Tuesday night when they tangle with their arch rivals, the Badgers of Pacific University.

The perennially strong Badgers are this year considered the Conference dark horse, and it is hard to draw a comparison between the two clubs, as neither have played the same teams to date.

Last year, the Badgers handed Willamette their worst, and one of the two defeats of conference play, however, the 'Cats evened the score when they downed the PU club later in the season.

It is believed that the revamped Bearcat club will be at full strength for the first time since Christmas.

Bearcats Lose NW Opener

A stubborn Willamette cage club, playing without the services of two of their starting line-up, threw a real scare into the highly touted Linfield Wildcats before succumbing 49:139 in a wild scoring fracas.

Linfield's Partlow started the scoring with a charity toss shortly after the start of the game, and from that time until Frazier, Wildcat center, canned a cripple with but ten minutes remaining in the game to give his team a lead they never relinquished, the lead changed hands 16 times, and was tied on six other occasions.

The score was knotted 21-21 at halftime, and the Bearcats assumed a short lived lead at 28-24 midway in the final period. At this point Ted Frazier, Linfield center, took the situation in hand, and plunked in four field goals with amazing rapidity. In the last ten minutes of the game Linfield scored 25 points while the Bearcats could only connect for 11.

Sumner Gallaher, Willamette's all-conference forward, led the scoring with six field goals out of twelve attempts, for a total of twelve points.

Frosh Hoopsters Show Promise

The 1942 edition of the freshmen Bearkittens promises to be the finest in years. With impressive victories over the Albany Federals and Independence Hi, the team has improved with every game.

During the absence of Morrie Kreutz, Paul Cookingham, former football star, has taken over. Among the most promising are Fred Bradshaw, Ronald Runyan, Dave Kelley, Abe Steinbock, and Bob Weaver.

Others who will doubtless see action include Ted Jones, Bob Walker, Cecil Connors, Bob Gardner, Lawrence Wills, Al Barrett and Irvin Goodman. Games have been scheduled with Bend, Redmond, The Dalles, Salem, Portland high schools and many others.

W A A Matmen Hold First Workout

—By Catherine Thomas—

"Smash it." "Set it up!" Such were the sounds heard issuing from the gym this week indicating that W. U. feminine ball fans have turned their interests from the maple court pastime to that of volleyball.

Practices will be held daily except Friday from 4 to 5 P. M., according to Marjorie Bergsvik, W. A. A. volleyball manager. 15 hours of practice equals 100 W. A. A. points and 100 points means membership in the worthy organization.

Players Wednesday were amused to find that volleyball is not the only entertainment on the present W. A. A. program when Lois Moore in attempting to retrieve a ball from under the bleachers found herself in the position of the proverbial "bird in a gilded cage." Only after many strenuous contortions did she "come out on top."

W. A. A. also reminds you that points can be earned by ice skating, bicycling and hiking.

So, come on girls and gain the fun. Remember, there's no more pleasant and enjoyable way to get in your daily dozen so necessary to retain, or should we say obtain, that girlish figure.

Coach Paige Ebert announced the first call for mat hopefuls early this week. The promising Bearcat team includes such stars as Bill Jones, state 145 lb. champ; Lou Bonney, northwest 145 lb. champ; Wally Johnson, state 155 lb. champ; and Coach Ebert, far western 155 lb. champ.

Also expected to bolster the squad are Frank Healy, state heavyweight champion; Al Barrett, Bill Reeder, Don Hawes, Jim Fitzgerald and Arley Kercham.

The team has an extensive schedule which includes Oregon, Oregon State, Multnomah Club, and various YMCA teams. Anyone interested may contact Spec Keene, director of athletics, or Coach Ebert at the men's gym.

Bearcat Schedule

The remainder of the Willamette basketball schedule is as follows:

- Jan. 20—Pacific at Salem
- Jan. 23—Linfield at Salem
- Jan. 30—Globe Trotters at Salem
- Feb. 4—Nazarene Col. at Salem
- Feb. 6—Portland at Portland
- Feb. 9—Portland at Salem
- Feb. 10—Rubenstein at Salem
- Feb. 16—Whitman at Walla Walla

'Mural Mirror

By Bill Habernicht

Though the games are on the rough and rugged side of basketball, we found the Intramural Basketball games this week to be full of the spirit to win, as far as the morale of the players on the court was concerned. Especially the opening game of the series was full of this spirit, when it took two overtime periods to decide who was to be the victor between the Alpha Psi A's and the Willamette "Rubes." The game ending in a 26 to 26 tie saw an overtime period only add to the anxiety of the contest by ending in a 28 to 28 tie. The second overtime was played with the first team to score being the winner and Walker of the Alpha Psi squad coming through for his teammates to score with a left-handed pusher shot to end the fray in a 30 to 28 victory for the Psi's.

On Tuesday when the Sigma Tau A's tangled with the YMCA A's the contest was full of poor shooting, fatigue, and plenty of that do or die spirit on the part of both of the teams. Who won? Sigs 13, YMCA 10.

Sigma Tau B's Show Promise

We were much surprised in Wednesday's tilt when the Sig B's handicapped by only having enough players present for a team, most came through with a win over the Alpha Psi B's in a 13 to 10 game. The Sigs showed the ability to play good ball and should of importance in the near future.

Jimmy Robertson, intramural sports director, announced that the intramural basketball tournament would this year be divided into two leagues with the Alpha Psi A's, Willamette "Rubes," Sigma Tau A's, the Kappas and the YMCA A's in league I and the Alpha Psi B's, Sigma Tau B's, YMCA B's and Fitzsimon's Supermen in league II. Robertson said after the schedule has been played there will be a double elimination playoff with the three top teams from league I and the top two of league II taking part.

Next week's schedule is as follows: Monday, Kappas and the Alpha Psi A's; Tuesday, "Rubes" and Sigma Tau A's; Wednesday, YMCA A's and Kappas; Thursday, Alpha Psi B's and the YMCA B's.

Well, until next Friday when we will be with you again here's hoping the games stay as fast and furious as they have been.

Glen Walden Lost For the Season

Another blow was dealt the WU hoop team this week when Glen Walden was ordered by his doctor to give up basketball for the remainder of the season. Bothered with the flu, Glen has been playing under a handicap while holding down one of the forward positions.

Coming from San Mateo Junior College, where he played varsity ball, he has been in the starting lineup since the first of the year. Walden probably will not continue school this year, but will go to his home in California with his wife whom he recently married.

"Happy" forward Maple, Bearcat coach, has been trying to find a suitable replacement for Walden, and has been shifting his squad in an effort to familiarize them with all positions.

Navy's Thanks to Bearcats Expressed by Secretary Knox

This week Dr. Carl S. Knopf received a letter from Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy. In this letter Knox expressed appreciation, both for himself and the Navy, for the willingness with which our Willamette football players offered their assistance in caring for wounded men aboard the ship on which they returned to the mainland. The body of the letter follows:

"I am sure you have heard by now of the fine part a squad of athletes from your school played in bringing to this country the first detachment of wounded from Pearl Harbor. Just the same, I would like to share with you and your students a portion of the report turned in by the senior naval officer aboard the merchant vessel used to evacuate these brave victims of Japanese treachery. This officer, a captain in the United States Navy, writes:

"On board, as passengers, were the football squads of Willamette University and San Jose College, in Honolulu for games with the University of Hawaii at the time of the Japanese attack.

"These men, under their respective coaches, volunteered in case of emergency to rescue and place in the ship's boats the seriously wounded men. They drilled at their assignments. In addition, they volunteered to and did feed such wounded as were unable to help themselves. They promoted good morale among the patients in many ways.

"I consider the services rendered by these young men to be very commendable."

"No words of mine can add to the sentiments expressed in that brief extract. But on behalf of the Navy and myself, however, I can express appreciation for the willingness with which these fine young athletes instantly offered their aid in time of danger. That is the spirit which I believe now dominates us all, and which with God's help will carry us to ultimate victory."

Ad. Classes Hear Talks

David W. Eccles, executive secretary to the governor, and Phyllis Pythian, state budget division, spoke to the public administration class this week on phases of state department work.

Eccles explained the organization of the executive department of the state government on Monday. He is also a member of the advisory committee of Willamette.

Miss Pythian, '39, related to the class Wednesday her experiences in three years of service in the state budget division. She served as interne in the budget department while attending Willamette and has been employed there since her graduation.

Dramatics Students To Present Burlesque

Beginning dramatics classes and a few students in the advanced classes are preparing an "Old Time" program reminiscent of a century ago, to be presented for the Town and Gown organization on January 28.

The program is to consist of a burlesque of the activities and Friday afternoon "exercises" of our university ancestors in 1842.

Chapel Program Honors Team

From the Moana hotel to Waller hall is a long way and at present a hard one. It was the successful traversing of this route by the Salem party under the guidance of Coach "Spec" Keene that led to the chapel last Tuesday morning.

President Knopf introduced Coach Keene who told of the high praise given the party by all who came in contact with them both in Hawaii and on their nerve-racking journey home. He said that WU can be proud of the conduct of all the students that were in the group.

Ted Ogdahl, sophomore from Portland, was presented to the student body as the newly-elected captain of Willamette's football team.

Collegian Receives Honor "Sheepskin"

Hale Tabor, Collegian editor, received this week the certificate of All-American rating won by the paper last semester. It is suggested that the certificate be framed and hung in the Collegian office in Waller hall as a "hopeful inspiration" for this year's staff.

OSC Professor Set for Vespers

Dr. B. W. Warrington, who will speak at University Vespers Sunday at 6:30, is the director of the department of religion and a teacher of religion and philosophy at Oregon State college. An ordained Presbyterian minister and experienced worker with youth, he is expected to tell Vespers members of modern movements of Christian students, President Leo Baldwin said yesterday.

Martha Hughell will lead the worship service for the evening, Baldwin said.

Class Studies Jap Civilization

Assuming the principle that it is wise and profitable to study one's enemy, the far eastern history class recently began the study of Japanese culture which will form a background for the recent developments in the world situation.

Led by Prof. Earle Stewart, the class is studying in the seminar method geography, economic resources, sociology aspects, the Japanese mind, their government, political history, and cultural development.

The class is also planning the preparation of an economic historical atlas of Japan.

Don't Buy This It's NOT Advertised

It's a doubtful product. It bears no trade name. It might be any one of the many things you buy or use every day. A refrigerator, perhaps . . . or a radio . . . nail polish . . . chewing gum . . . kitchen soap . . . a correspondence course.

But the promoter knows its claims couldn't stand the intense scrutiny of the American buying public. And so he prefers to dispose of it as an unbranded article. That's why you won't find his advertisement here.

How different from the other advertisers in this newspaper! Proudly they tell you of their latest product or service. Eagerly they announce special values, improvements, new features.

These manufacturers and merchants have confidence in what they offer. They realize that while advertising may make the first sale—it's the quality and value of the product that makes the second, third and fourth. And that's what they're after!

It's worth while, reading the advertisements! You can believe in them!
