Tyranny Instead of Justice

The administration of Willamette University may not be legally bound to follow all the requirements of due process of law, but it is certain morally bound to be fair and just in its proceedings, and if anything it ought to be more so than is a court of law.

Recent events have shown just the opposite to be true in practice. Instead of using its freedom from structure and procedural rules to make things easier on a student in an attempt to reach a real understanding, the Discipline Committee has used this freedom to threaten students and irritate them into submission.

Last Monday a Willamette student was called before the Discipline Committee to answer to charges of possessing alcohol in a dormitory. He asked specifically for the right to be present when the charges were to be made to the Committee, but was denied this at the last minute; because of what he considered to be unreasonable actions taken by the Committee earlier in the year the student was afraid to tell the Committee the truth and consequently denied all the charges; he was then threatened by President Smith with permanent expulsion from the University unless he allowed the dorm counselor to divulge some information given to that counselor in confidence; under this pressure he confessed to the Committee and was suspended for the rest of this semester and all of next semester.

The procedures of the Committee would certainly not be acceptable in a court of law anywhere in the nation. Of course, the administration maintains that the Committee is not a court of law but an administrative committee. However, this is no reason why the legal procedures built up over the centuries in our civilization should be totally ignored by the Committee.

A student being called before the Committee is never really sure what to expect: he is not presented with a bill or particulars; he has no one to whom he can go for advice and counsel; he is not necessarily present at all the proceedings and has no way of knowing what has been said behind his back; and there is nothing to prevent him from being insulted, threatened, or otherwise intimidated by a member or members of the Committee.

Furthermore, since the Committee is established by the President to operate on his behalf, he can preside over it as he desires, and can overrule it according to his whims. Is it any wonder that the students are afraid to be honest before the Committee?

Perhaps the time has come for the administration to rethink the basic policies and structure (or lack of structure) of the Discipline Committee. The fear of students to be honest with the Committee and the general lack of faith of students in the Committee should certainly be a sign unto the administration that there is something very wrong somewhere.

Scholar Demythologizes Christmas

By REV. MYRON HALL
Jason Lee Methodist Church

If Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer and the Littlest Angel were divested from Christmas because they are a creation of Hollywood; if Santa Claus and Christmas Trees were stripped from the Christmas scene because they owe their origin to pagan customs; if the stories of the Wise Men and the Shepherds were taken from the Christmas message because they are clearly non-historical in the ordinary meaning of the word history, what then is left? Nothing or Everything?

This is the question raised by the contemporary New Testament scholar and theologian, Rudolph Bultmann. His name for such drastic surgery of the Christmas story is to demythologize, to remove the non-historical elements. The program of demythologizing has become widely known thanks to the reportorial efforts of Bishop John Robinson in his popular book HONEST TO GOD.

What is not widely known about the efforts of Bultmann is that his prime interest is not simply in the recognition of the mythological elements in religion and, for that matter, the mythological elements in all world views whether religious or secular. Bultmann knows that the task of recognizing the mythical element in religion was accomplished by nineteenth-century scholarship. In this recognition Bultmann merely stands in a long line of scholars.

Concerned About Man

Bultmann's concern is the concern of the Twentieth Century — the condition of man. His concern is to discover what the mythical element in religion tells about the condition of man that cannot be truthfully said in any other way. Thus it would be closer to Bultmann's program of demythologizing if the question asked about Christmas was not, "Is it true historically?" but "What does Christmas tell me about my life. How does it speak to me?"

In a Christmas essay written in 1953 (Cf. EXISTENCE AND FAITH, edited by Ogden, page 278 ff.) Bultmann asked his question in these words: "Why is it that we light candles at Christmas and take joy in their splendor?" The phrasing of the question implies that the very words light, candles, joy, etc. are themselves part of the Christmas myth. Also these words about light presuppose a dark world.

In many of his writings Bultmann points out there is agreement among many people about the darkness of the world. Contemporary literature is full of the theme as it applies to individual persons.

Light in Dark World

The significance of Christmas, says Bultmann, lies precisely in the fact that as the Christian looks into himself he discovers not only the darkness that he shares with all the people of the world, but the Christian also finds a light. In the paean of faith Bultmann cries out, "This is what the lights of Christmas want to tell us. We cannot tell it to ourselves, but rather must let it be told to us and simply hear it. This is the message of Christmas, the word that Jesus Christ speaks, the word that he himself is. A light in a dark world. A light expressed through myth but not identical with myth. A light for those who will see."

But, a skeptic might ask, is not this an illusion, even wishful thinking. No, says Bultmann, for to those

Committee Action Suspends Student

(Editor's Note: It is Willamette's policy that the events that transpire in a Disciplinary Committee Meeting are not to be discussed publicly by any member of the Committee. Therefore the following article had to be based primarily on the testimony of the student involved, who is not sworn to secrecy. However, for purposes of verification the Collegian presented this article to some members of the Committee, including one administrative official. Some minor changes in wording were made, but the basic content of the article was not denied by any of the members contacted. Unfortunately, President Smith was out of town and not available for comment.)

By RON SLABAUGH

Another student has been suspended from Willamette University by action of the Disciplinary Committee last Monday. The incident involves the drinking-rule and the facts appear to be the following:

LAST FRIDAY night around midnight or 1 a.m., a resident of Belknap Hall obtained a bottle of beer which he opened and carried under his coat. In the dorm, he joined a group of students gathered in conversation in one of the rooms. Belknap's counselor was a member of this group. Before the group dispersed, some beer was spilled, but the counselor took no immediate action.

A few minutes later the student who was the object of the Committee's action, (hereinafter identified as "the student") was called to the counselor's room. The counselor related to the student that he had heard something during the time that the students were together and afterwards found traces of beer in the room. He told the student that he would have to report these events to the Dean.

HOPING TO dissuade the counselor from reporting him to the authorities, the student made a full confession which included the spilled beer and some beer consumed by the student before returning to the dorm that evening. This information was given in explicit confidence to the counselor. The counselor agreed to keep this confidence but told the student that he felt it his duty to report his original suspicions based on what he had heard and seen in the room to the Dean. This, in turn, was done.

Saturday morning the Dean talked to the student about the incident and the student denied any connection, afraid that the consequences would mean immediate expulsion. On Monday, others present in the room at the time of the incident were called into the Dean's office for questioning and the Disciplinary Committee convened that afternoon at 4 in Eaton Hall.

BELKNAP'S counselor was the first to testify before the Committee. In his testimony he indicated that some of the pertinent information was given him by the student in confidence and could not be divulged. During this time the student waited in the President's office.

Next, the student was asked to testify, the counselor not being present. In response to this questioning, the student denied all the accusations brought against him.

LATER THE counselor was brought in once more and the accusation repeated. On the student's further denial, President Smith asked if he would be willing to take a lie detector test to which the student consented. The President then informed the student that unless he allowed the counselor to present the information given him in confidence, he would be expelled permanently from Willamette, (a move which would bar him from admission to any other accredited university.) In response to this threat, the student made a full confession, explaining that his reason for denying the charges had been fear of immediate expulsion from the University.

Taking many factors into consideration, the Disciplinary Committee suspended the student from his classes for the remainder of the semester allowing him to take his final examinations in January but not permitting him to re-enroll for the spring semester. The student may apply for admission to the fall semester, 1964.

'Inquisition' Tactics Assailed; Convocation Speakers Abused

Smith Attacked

(Editor's Note: Dan Hartley, author of the following letter, has indicated that his primary source of information for the letter was the student expelled from the University last week.)

To the Editor:

I feel that it is my time and prerogative to make known to the students of this University the most deplorable and disgusting series of events ever to take place at this institution.

AS MOST of you already know, a student in good standing was expelled earlier in the week for an offense which carries, according to the administration, automatic expulsion.

The person who turned this student in did so because of a warped sense of duty and I feel only pity for this individual. I can only hope he realizes the consequences of the folly he has committed.

THE BULK of the responsibility for this miscarriage of justice, however, lies on the shoulders of our president, G. Herbert Smith. His conduct at the meeting of the disciplinary board was despicable, to say the least, and he has, by this act, not only made a mockery of his own person and office but also, because of his position on this campus, the University itself.

The evidence on which the expelled person was to be tried was, at best, flimsy and circumstantial and it appeared that the case might be dropped. However, our president wielded his mighty dictatorial power in a manner reminiscent of the Spanish Inquisition and wrenched out a confession. G. Herbert Smith told the defendant that if he did not, in essence, admit to his guilt, he should be forever barred from Willamette University and therefore from every academically prominent school in the country because of this record.

BECAUSE of the private nature of this school the president has almost autocratic power to do as he wishes in regard to student-administration relations. When this power is notoriously abused, it is a reflection upon all who have connection with Willamette, and especially those who have put him in this position of supposed distinction.

My personal confidence in the administration here at Willamette has been visibly shaken and I hope that sometime in the near future the sons and daughters of the "Willamette Family" will awaken to the dilemma which confronts us.

Respectfully submitted,
Dan G. Hartley.

Consideration Lacking

(Editor's Note: The following letter was received too late to appear in last week's Collegian. "Today" refers to Tuesday, December 10.)

To the Editor:

Today, as before, I had the privilege at Convocation to hear a distinguished speaker talk of matters which should be of interest to us all. Also today, as before, I was ashamed of the conduct of a great number of Willamette students in the audience. Altogether too many students abuse our Convocations, going only because their attendance is required. As one who feels privileged to attend them, I would ask that those who feel otherwise have the decency to respect the speaker and those of the audience who wish to hear him.

Dr. Saab made it evident that he felt he was detaining us against our will. The other speakers we have had thus far this year, with one or two notable exceptions, insinuated this same feeling. As a result, many an interesting speech has been cut short.

What gives our speakers this impression? Look around at the audience during the next Convocations. You will see what our speakers see: hoards of women students diligently at work with their knitting needles; both men and women students pursuing their assignments with no interest in the program; other groups talking and making it impossible for those around them to hear. I feel our Convocations are no place for such rudeness. And I am sure that the speakers, such as Dr. Saab, after witnessing students walking out before they have concluded, leave the stage with an uneasy feeling.

What can be done about this situation? How are we to restore our "image" here at Willamette? One solution might be to change our Convocation system. By not requiring attendance, the audience would consist only of those students genuinely interested in the program. This however does not do anything toward eliminating the basic lack of consideration among many. I rather propose that Willamette students develop a sense of consideration and respect, both for the speakers and the audience, in order that those of us who are genuinely interested can absorb some value from our Convocations.

Glee Presentation Leaders Named

Freshman Larry Hillhouse has been elected Glee manager for this year's Freshman Glee, which will occur some time in early March.

GLEE MANAGER Larry Hillhouse said that this year's Freshman Glee will be on the same order as past Glee's. Each class will have to create an original song pertaining to this year's theme, "Serenade." On Glee night each class will perform its original song and be judged on various points.

The song itself is judged on wording and music, the performance is judged on vocal rendition (tone, diction, expression) and formation (execution and adaptability). Among the judges will be the governor of Oregon, Mark Hatfield.

FRESHMAN Glee 1963 will be the 56th Glee in the history of Willamette University. This year's Freshman Glee will carry on a tradition that was started in 1908 by three freshmen, Jimmie Oaks, "Brick" Harrison, and R. V. Ellis of the class of 1912.

The first Freshman Glee was held in Waller Hall and was won by the freshmen. Glee moved to the First Methodist Church and the Salem Armory before returning to the Willamette campus in 1923, with the completion of the Willamette gym. Since those times Glee has become increasingly more elaborate, due to more class participation and publicity.

THE MONDAY following Glee night, Blue Monday, is the time when Glee bets will be paid off, and the losing class will swim the Mill Stream. Blue Monday will be a regular academic day and the paying off of Glee bets should not interrupt or disturb any classes.

Glee bets should not: physically involve faculty members, result in damage to University property, necessitate men entering women's living organizations or vice-versa, involve indecent clothing (or none), or involve leaving the campus. Infraction of these rules will be dealt with by the Student Senate or the Executive Freshman Glee Committee.

A sign up sheet for any freshmen who wish to participate on the various committees for Glee will be posted following Christmas.

Soc. Department To Add Courses

Several additional courses will be offered by the sociology department next semester. Dr. Rademaker will teach an Industrial Sociology class from 2 to 4 on Tuesdays and 2 to 3 on Thursdays. A course entitled Socio-Emotional Factors in the development of personality will be conducted by Dean Orton, who is presently teaching the Juvenile Delinquency course which will be completed this semester.

Psycho-Social Dynamics of Human Behavior, taught by Bob Perry, completes the list of new courses.

Blood Drive Results Announced

The fall campus blood drive ended Monday with Delta Tau Delta and Sigma Chi gaining first place honors in the percentage of house members donating. They each had 100% who donated blood. In the women's division, Delta Gamma took the trophy for the second straight year with 69% donating; Doney Hall came in for a close second with 63% donating.

Since there were two first place finishes among the men, two trophies will be awarded. Delta Tau Delta, which has finished first the last two years in a row, will keep the trophy they presently have and a new one will be given to the Sigma Chi's.

In the category of most pints given per house, Sigma Alpha Epsilon took the honors with 31 pints of blood donated.

The rest of the organizations and the percentage who donated are as follows: Alpha Chi, 61.5%; Chi Omega, 46.8%; Alpha Phi, 40%;

Lausanne Hall, 21.2%; Lee House, 50%; Pi Beta Phi, 25.8%; York, 42.2%; Baxter Hall, 35.2%; Belknap Hall, 32.5%; Beta Theta Pi, 48.9%; Kappa Sigma, 30.6%; Matthews Hall, 34.4%; Phi Delta Theta, 75%; and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 75%.

A total of 274 students gave in all, which puts us in strong competition for the John C. Adams college awards trophy which is given to the school in the Northwest which has the most students donating in proportion to those enrolled.

The total is a new record for the fall blood drive at Willamette.

Senate Hears Plea for Drive To Gain New Student Support

The problem of poor student interest shown at basketball games was cited at Student Senate Monday.

Bob Fletcher, Collegian sports editor, asked the Senate to help back a drive in gaining student support. After a discussion of the problem, a committee was appointed to look into the problem.

It was announced that petitions for spring blood drive chairman and May weekend manager will be due January 13.

John Schwartz, Pete Smith and Dan Skerritt were named to the constitutional revision committee. The current problem facing the committee is the study of the Publications Board by-laws.

Dita Luers was selected to elections board. President Jim Brown closed the meeting by expressing his appreciation to the Willamette Independent Town Students for decorating the Cat Cavern.

Lewis and Clark Hosts Hoffer

Wednesday, January 8, Eric Hoffer will appear for the public at Lewis and Clark College in Portland. He will speak at the Templeton Commons at 8 p.m. and tickets for the evening talk are $2.00.

Mr. Eric Hoffer is the author of The True Believer, Ordeal of Change, and The Passionate State of Mind. Able to read French at the age of five, blind for eight years in his early youth, this self-educated longshoreman from the docks of San Francisco has a powerful message to convey to his audience.

The appearance of Hoffer is in connection with the Reading Week on the Lewis and Clark campus. Since this will be his only public appearance tickets must be purchased in advance and reservations made. Tickets are on sale at Lewis and Clark College or by sending check or money order to Dr. Freeda O. Hartzfield, Assistant to the President, Lewis and Clark College, 0615 S. W. Palatine Hill Rd., Portland, Oregon.

January Dates To Register

Pre-registration for the spring semester 1964 will be held Monday through Friday, January 13-17. Pre-registration must be completed by the end of this semester in order to avoid returning early to school at semester break.

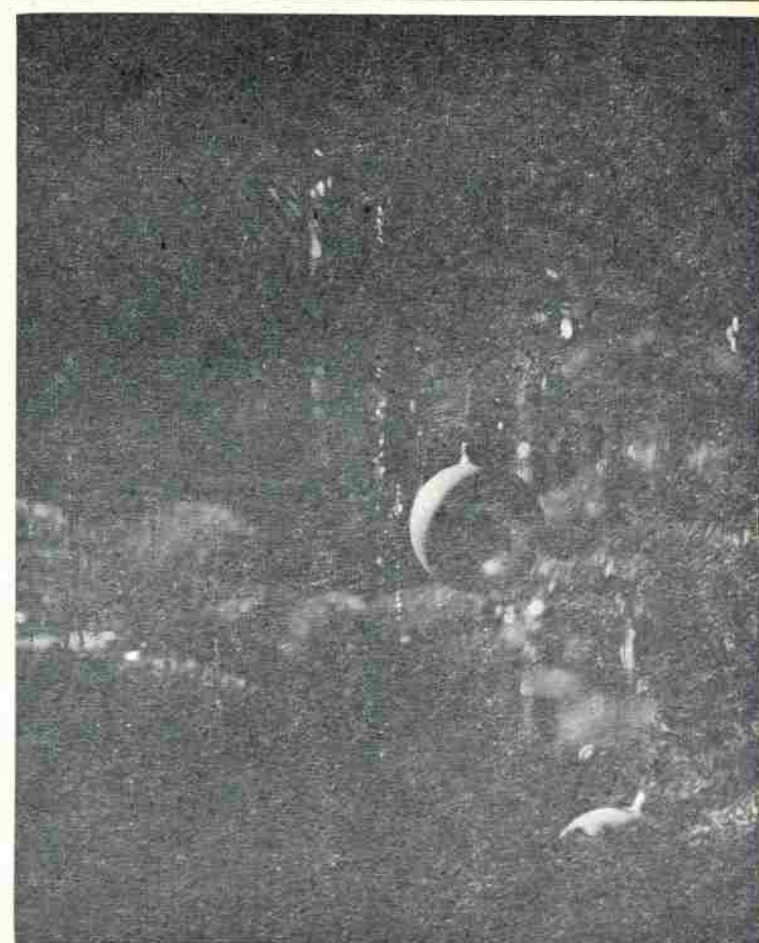

Schedules of classes will be available in the Registrar's office. Faculty members have been requested to post additional office hours and to devote a few minutes of the class period to facilitate the signing of booklets.

Completed pre-registration includes having obtained the necessary signatures in the booklet and the payment of fees before the end of the semester.

Library Will Be Open

The WU library will be open during part of the Christmas vacation for student use. The schedule is as follows:

The library will close at 5 on December 20, and will remain open December 26. On December 26 and 27, and January 2 and 3 the library will be open from 8 to 12 and 1 to 5. On December 31 the library will open at 8, but it will close at 12 for the day. Regular library hours will be resumed on January 6.

Snow Princess Named For Winter Carnival

Corky Demler of Alpha Chi Omega was elected Willamette Snow Princess and delegate to the Winter Carnival to be held in Bend, Oregon, February 21-23. This brown haired beauty has also been Queen of Violets, Homecoming Queen, president of Alpha Chi Omega, Rally Queen, and ASWU secretary. Among her activities on campus, she has also been freshman class treasurer, a Little Sister of Minerva, Best Dressed Girl on Campus, and a member of the YWCA, the Students for Rockefeller Committee and the Student Education Association.

Dick Zeller and Patti Hull are delegates in charge of planning for the annual event, arranging organizations, details, and publicity. They are in charge of handling the Carnival details on this campus.

The eighth annual Winter Carnival will be held at Bachelor Butte. The events will include ski races, a national professional act, a talent show, dances, and many other events.

A General Carnival ticket will be $8, which entitles the holder to three days of skiing (Friday, Saturday and Sunday) plus admittance to all the other activities. Lodging is available and costs $6 per person for Friday and Saturday nights. Transportation may be arranged.

Willamette's candidate was chosen from women nominated by various men's organizations. They were Bonnie Cruson, Anne Rakestraw, Cindy Janes, Ann Lee, Joan Kane, Julie Levin and Gael Harrington.

College students from California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Nevada and Arizona will participate in the Carnival activities.

Delts Name Holiday Princess

The familiar sounds of the Delts were heard by the Alpha Chi's last Friday night as they enjoyed their "big and little sis" Christmas party. The Delts added to the fun with their serenade and announcement of Gaye Hynds as the Holiday Princess.

Miss Hynds, a cute dark-eyed freshman, is from Anchorage, Alaska. Her activities here include Angel Flight, Willamette University Players, and she was co-chairman of the Military Ball. She plans to major in English or speech and drama. Her main interests, which follow along this line, include: modern dance, reading, and drama. She also enjoys horseback riding.

As a Delt princess she, along with Joyce Caster, will act as official hostesses for the Delts. They will be escorted to dinner at the house once a week and will help with the forthcoming rush. Joyce and Gaye, along with three other princesses yet to be chosen, will be honored at the spring house dance. A Delta Tau Delta Queen will be chosen from the five princesses.

Yuletide Spirit Reigns at WU

Last Saturday night found the Chi Omegas and their dates enjoying a caroling party with Gary Temple entertaining with singing as the Willamette living organizations began their series of Christmas functions.

Last Friday the Beta's and their dates had their annual tree trim and Christmas party for underprivileged children. After the tree was trimmed Santa Claus, Gregg Childs, swung down a rope from the roof and presented each of the children with gifts.

The SAE's are busy with serenades and parties. Wednesday the Little Sisters of Minerva helped the members trim the Christmas tree. Saturday the members and the Sisters, had a party for the children at the Deaf School, and yesterday one for underprivileged children. An all-campus serenade was given Monday evening.

Doney and Lausanne added to the Christmas spirit by giving teas last Sunday afternoon. Both dorms held open houses with a prize awarded to Barbe Boer and Janyne McLeod for the best decorated rooms in Doney and Pat Bile and Lindy Grey in Lausanne.

The Alpha Chi's are also busy this season. Their festivities began with a house dance and a tree trim Saturday evening with their pledges. With the Delts they held a party for underprivileged children Wednesday.

Mrs. Spangler, housemother for the Delts, gave a party for the members Tuesday. Wednesday, they played Santa Claus to underprivileged children.

Pi Phi's began their season with an open house for the faculty last Sunday, and a pledge member party. Tuesday they serenaded the men's organizations. Wednesday they helped the Sigma Chi's give a party for underprivileged children.

Phi Delts celebrated with a "Christmas Playhouse" dance, in addition to a party given them by their Mother's Club.

Delta Gammas held their "Lavender and Blue" Christmas dance, and had an alumnae party. The children at the Blind School will each have an extra gift this year due to the generosity of the Delta Gammas.

Sigma Chi presented each women's organization with a tree from Santas John Fry and Doug McNish. Last Friday they decorated their tree and entertained children at the house and exchanged gifts.

Alpha Phi's trimmed the tree at a date function Saturday. They also provided a family from the Salvation Army with a Christmas dinner. An alumnae Christmas party topped off their Yuletide festivities.

Lee House started its Christmas celebration with a serenade of the men's living organization, led by song leader Molly Staples. "Carol of the Bells" and "Do You Hear What I Hear?" were their main numbers. Marie Chaney acted as Santa Claus, aided by helpers Stephanie Okada and Jamie Bischoff. The house also decorated the living room with a Christmas tree, fir boughs, and mistletoe. Thursday evening there was a house Christmas party with exchange of gifts which were sent to the Salvation Army Drive for Needy Children.

York House serenaded the men's organizations plus their new neighbors the Pi Phi's and Alpha Phi's. The serenade was a Santa Lucia one, originating in Sweden and featuring candles worn as a crown on the head of a girl chosen as the Lucia Queen. York House also decorated the house with window lights, mistletoe and a Christmas tree. Dean and Mrs. Gregg and Dean and Mrs. Geist came to the York Christmas dinner Wednesday evening. Last night was the house Christmas party with gifts exchanged and also donated to the needy children's fund.

Baxter is not having any official functions due to the fact that they are on social probation. They have decorated their picture window with lights, and gave their housemother a gift.

Matthews Hall serenaded Wednesday evening, but centered most of their Christmas activities around last weekend's house dance. Men in the dorm also decorated their windows and rooms with holiday items.

Belknap Hall also centered their seasonal activities around their house dance last weekend. This week they put up a Christmas tree decorated with angel hair, and decorated their rooms and windows. The house presented their housemother and cleaning ladies with holiday gifts.

Kappa Sigma began their activities last weekend with a party given for the house by their housemother, Mrs. Page, who served the men refreshments. Wednesday evening with Steven Henry as Santa Claus, aided by a small brass band, the house went caroling in the residential areas with the Chi Omega's. Afterwards a fireside was held. Thursday evening a members-only date Christmas party was held. Mistletoe and fir greens decorated the living room.

Freshman forward Pete Slabaugh (20) deflects a Humboldt State shot attempt in the opening game last Friday night of their two-game series won by Willamette. Slabaugh, along with Kirk McNeil, Lyle Smith, Ed Swearinger, and Spike Moore, did a superb defensive job against the Lumberjacks from California to earn the double win.

Jasons Extend Win Streak to 4

The injury-plagued Willamette Bearcats came up with an odds-and-ends lineup that worked to win twice against the Humboldt State Lumberjacks last Friday and Saturday.

THE 'CATS, minus starters 6-5 center Jim Smith, out for three weeks with an ankle injury; 6-5 forward Larry Potts, running a fever; and first-call reserve guard Phil Marsh, had to come from behind to erase a five-point overtime deficit to win 68-66 on Friday night.

After leading 35-27 at halftime, the 'Cats seemed to have the game well in hand but Lumberjacks Joe Taylor and Ron Good sparked a 50-50 standoff with six minutes to go. From then it was touch and go until the end of the regulation period where it was 59 all.

IN OVERTIME, a basket by Taylor and a three-point play by Good put the 'Jacks ahead, it seemed, for good. But Lyle Smith hit on a foul shot, Spike Moore added a jumper, and Kirk McNeil sank one from the key to knot the score 64-64 with 2:45 left.

Moore sank another and the 'Cats were again ahead. But with 55 seconds to go, Good, who took game high point honors with 35, made good two free throws and the deadlock was restored. Then with 27 seconds left, soph McNeil drilled a 10-foot jumper that won the game.

ON SATURDAY evening, the Jasons jumped to a quick 13-0 lead in the first four minutes and breezed to an easy 79-58 triumph.

With guards Spike Moore and Ed Swearinger sparking the drive, the 'Cats used an effective fast break reminiscent of Willamette's fine teams of four or five years ago.

Moore was high point man for the game with 16. Teammates Pete Slabaugh and Charlie Roberts also scored in double figures with 12 and 10, respectively. Ron Good scored 16 points for the visitors, well below his previous night's output. Darrell Barbieri, Lumberjack center, was the big man in the rebound department with 19.

Wildcats Sink WU Swim Hopes

Seven points made the difference between "sink or swim" for the Willamette swimmers as they lost to Linfield in a dual meet Monday, 51-43, at McMinnville. Steve Neptune topped the scoring honors with 11.5 points. He also bested his previous top time in the 200-yard freestyle of 2:10.2 with a speedy 2:09.6 at the meet, nabbed first in the 100-yard freestyle with 54.8 seconds.

Coach Richard Gillis commented on the loss, "The meet was a lot closer than the score indicates. The difference was in the 400-yard medley relay. They receive 7 points for winning and we get no points if we lose. It was that close, one event decided the meet."

Chuck Black grabbed the lead in the 100-yard butterfly and set a new personal time of 1:05.6. Splashing his way to victory in 6:57 flat was Phil Krozek in the gruelling

Bearcats Face OCE Tonight

By REID ENGLISH

John Lewis' basketball squad, fresh from dumping Humboldt State in two games last weekend, invades Monmouth tonight in a game against OCE. This contest opens a five game holiday swing, with four of the games on the road. Eastern Washington will furnish the opposition on December 28 at the Jason gym.

OCE, a small scrappy outfit, has a talented freshman center from Lebanon, 6-4 Dave Sturgis. Sturgis pumped in 55 points in the Tip-Off Tourney two weeks ago, scoring 28 in the final game against OTL. Jim Fletcher, a 6-5 forward, scored 18 against WU, while Sturgis scored 17 as the Bearcats defeated OCE for their initial victory of the season, 77-72.

Eastern Washington, from the powerful Evergreen Conference, has beaten Whitman and Central Washington 60-57. The Savages, coached by Red Reese, lost to the speedier and more experienced Gonzaga Bulldogs 108-57.

Eastern Washington State College from Cheney, possesses adequate height and good speed to form an improved team from last year.

Joe Allen, a 6-6, 210 pound center who averaged 14.3 points a game last year and made the second team all-conference, has been their leading scorer again this season.

Alex Woods, a 6-4, 210 pound forward, has also been adding scoring and rebound help as he averaged 12.5 last year. Other top Savage prospects are guards Darwin Monasmith and freshman Ralph Sharp, who scored 14 points against Gonzaga.

At halftime of the Eastern Washington game, there will be a free throw contest featuring high school and junior high boys. All those students will be admitted free if they attend with their respective coaches.

Chico Starts Hoop New Year

Willamette University will join seven other top-notch small college squads after Christmas for the annual Chico Tournament in Chico, California.

The three-day tourney begins at 4 p.m. January 2 and continues through January 4 with the final game at 9:30 that night.

First round pairings are as follows: Central Washington vs. Humboldt State at 4; Sacramento State vs. Chapman College at 5:45; Pasadena College vs. Lewis & Clark at 7:30; and Willamette vs. Chico State at 9:30.

It will mark the third time in four years that the Bearcats have met the host Chico team. Chico State recently split a pair of games with College of Idaho, and are reported to have a fine basketball squad this year.

Although Sacramento State is the defending champion, the probable favorites are Chapman College, Chico State, and the winner of the Lewis & Clark-Pasadena College game, according to Coach John Lewis.

Last year the Jasons lost all three games, the first of which was 61-56 to the eventual champion, Sacramento State. The first round losers will play Friday afternoon, and the winners that night. Saturday, seventh place will be decided at 4 p.m.; fifth place at 5:45; third at 7:30; and the championship game at 9:30.

Coach Lewis, happy with the double win over Humboldt State, will take 12 players on the southern journey. The team will leave on December 31 and be in Chico on New Year's Day.

Intramurals Start Basketball Loop

Intramural basketball has been moving along quite rapidly in the past two weeks in the gym with five leagues involving 30 different teams. The teams play at 7, 8, and 9 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights; and at 9, 10, and 11 Saturday mornings, and at 1, 2, and 3 on Saturday afternoons.

The Rinky Dinks and SAE's lead the Monday league with two wins apiece. The Rinky Dinks clobbered Baxter 89-58 and defeated the Sigs 63-47, while the SAE's edged the Sigs 51-45 and came from behind to nip the Betas 38-34.

The Phi Delt, Law, and Betas all have posted 2-0 marks in Tuesday action. The Rinky Dinks, Phi Delt, and Delt lead the Wednesday league with 1-0 records. Phi Delt, Delt, and Baxter are unbeaten on Saturday morning, while Law, Beta, and Belknap are on top of the Saturday afternoon standings.

Parts Open for Medean Play

Tryouts will be held Wednesday, January 8, for Maxwell Anderson's The Wingless Victory. They are scheduled from 3-5 and from 6:30-9:00. The play will be held March 6 and 7 and will be directed by Robert Putnam of the speech and drama department.

Wingless Victory is a tragedy based on the ancient legend of Medea. The legend has been modernized and deals with intolerance. The play is set in Salem, Mass. among the Puritans. A wealthy citizen returns from the South Seas with a Malayan princess as his wife and their two children.

There are parts for eight men and eight women with three major roles for both men and women. Copies of the script are available in Putnam's office in the Fine Arts building and a copy is on two hour reserve in the library. All interested are advised to read the play before trying out.

Claim Your Lost Items

The lost and found department located in the student bookstore requests that all students claim their lost articles. Among the items which have been turned in are books, umbrellas, gloves, gym shoes, glasses, pens, scarves, a wristwatch, and a man's raincoat.

'Red and the Black' Is Next Film

A French film, "The Red and the Black," will be the fourth film in the educational series. It will be shown in the Fine Arts auditorium at 7 p.m. on Thursday, January 9, 1964.

The film is based on Stendahl's great romantic and psychological novel — a classic of literature. It has been translated into a screen version hailed by critics as one of the all time great masterpieces of the French cinema.

Two Russians To Play For Next Concert

On Monday evening, January 6, in Portland's Public Auditorium, Russia's two greatest violinists will perform together during their first joint concert in the United States. They will play for the first time in Portland a Bach masterpiece for two violins, on 250-year-old instruments worth $1,000,000 — made by famed Italian craftsmen Andrea Guarneri and Antonio Stradivari.

The two soloists who will perform with Dr. Jacques Singer and the Portland Symphony Orchestra are David and Igor Oistrakh, father and son. During their Portland appearance, Igor Oistrakh will play Johannes Brahms' Concerto in D Major, Op. 77, and David Oistrakh's solo vehicle will be Peter Ilitch Tchaikovsky's Concerto in D major, Op. 35.

Tickets for the single Portland appearance of the Oistrakhs are selling rapidly. Reservations can be made at the Portland Symphony's downtown office, or, a week prior to the concert, at the J. K. Gill Co. box office, 408 S.W. Fifth.

The movie is very symbolic, the red symbolizing the conflict with war, and the black his conflict with whether to enter the priesthood. The movie will have English subtitles for those students who do not understand French.
