FROSH DON'T BUY FOBS THE WAY THEY USED TO

Member of Yearling Class Says They Are Poor or Scotch, or Both Bad Evils

Sale of class watchfobs has decreased in the last three years. Statistics show that the frosh this year must be poor or lacking in something-or-other. "1931" freshmen bought 65 fobs. The class of 1932 purchased 40 watch ornaments. But this year's collection of yearlings ordered only 18; and only 12 have been sold!

Ex-Willamette Student Is Success Where Others Fail

Ralph Ferguson, Ex-'29, Heads Tillamook Store.

By DOROTHY PEMBERTON Mr. Ralph Ferguson, ex-'29 student from Willamette university, is manager of the Piggy Wiggly chain store branch at Tillamook, Oregon. Mr. Ferguson has filled this capacity for one year; but the significance of the situation lies in the fact that during the year preceding 1929, three men took up the reins of management. Mr. Ferguson evidently understood his work, for he has become a manager and has made the business go.

Dean Hewitt Invited to Give Talk in Longview Next November.

Dean Roy Hewitt has become a very popular speaker. Judging by a request which has been received from the Longview Y. M. C. A. to speak there next November at a Father's and Son's banquet. Someone heard Dean Hewitt speak the last time he was in Longview and liked him so well that they wanted to be sure of hearing him again, so the request was sent in 11 months ahead of time.

EXECUTIVES DISCUSS SPRING CONTRACTS

Northwest conference contracts for spring track, and next year football are among the important items for discussion at the next executive committee meeting to be held at the Gray Belle Thursday noon January 16. There are a number of other items of interest to be brought up. Paul Ackerman is to report on billfold awards to alumni; and a discussion will take place of a special award day at which the letters to those who were not present at the last award day, will begin and the gold footballs will be presented to the Bearcat Champions.

City Officers and Sheriffs Are Invited to School Here

Large Attendance Expected When Law School Is Host.

Quite a large attendance is expected at the police school which is to be held on the campus Feb. 3 to 5. WALLULAH OF 1930 FEATURES VICTORY

Yearbook Will Have Section for Women's Sports, and New Border.

The 1930 Wallulah will have a special page featuring Willamette's victory over Whitman in the Thanksgiving game, according to Roy Harland, editor. The book will also have an entire new section, devoted to women's sports.

Work on the annual is progressing, with pictures all taken, senior histories almost all turned in, and the committee on organizations under Helen Curry, organization editor, working to complete the lists of names for each organization. The motto and border for the 1930 annual have been chosen, but plans regarding them cannot be made known for some time. The manager is negotiating with a cover company for a three-year contract, by which a large saving will be effected.

LELAND CHAPIN GETS UNIVERSITY POSITION

CHAMPIONS' AWARDS TO BE GOLD CHARMS

Twenty of Larger Campus Organizations Vote to Donate One Football Each.

Since Willamette has the honor of having won the Northwest conference championship in football this season, the A. S. W. U. unanimously voted it fitting that a gold football be awarded each of the 20 football men as a recognition of their personal work done this season.

It was decided that 20 of the larger campus organizations donate one football each. The gold watch charm footballs are to cost $5.00 each.

Warren McMinnee, chairman of the committee on ordering the awards, reports that they have been ordered through Pomeroy and Keene, Jewelers and will be here in three weeks.

The lettering upon the footballs is not determined yet, but will be soon; and the engraving will be done here. It will be appreciated if those organizations that have not turned in their donation, will please do so.

WARNER IS ELECTED HEAD OF WESLEYANS

Election of officers for the second semester was held at the meeting of the Willamette Wesleyans Wednesday noon in Eaton Hall. New officers elected are as follows: president, Walter Warner; vice-president, Ruth Barnes; secretary and reporter, Margaret Shoemaker; treasurer, Carl Blackler; devotional chairman, Ed Rounds; and faculty advisers, Professor Clark, Professor Gatte, and Professor Leamer. A short, intensive study of the Ten Commandments and their place in life today was suggested as one topic for study during the next semester, and other plans were discussed to carry on the interesting work of the group.

VISITS SEVERAL ALUMNI

Trip Made in Order to Establish Contacts Before Filing Petition.

Dean Roy R. Hewitt attended the convention of the Association of American Law Schools in New Orleans during Christmas vacation. Delegates to this convention were members of the staffs of any law school. Dean Hewitt attended with the express purpose of making desirable contacts before filing the petition for recognition of the Willamette Law school. After this petition has been filed, an inspector will be sent to the school, and if it is found standard, after two years probation it will be admitted to membership in the association.

Dean Hewitt left Salem December 23, going to New Orleans by way of San Francisco and Los Angeles, and returned January 4 by way of Chicago. On the trip he visited several Willamette alumni, including Mr. and Mrs. Dean Pollock (Mrs. Pollock was Mildred Brown) of the class of 1922, and Elmer Streyer, '23, all of whom are living in Chicago; Paul Flegel '21, president of the Willamette Club in Berkeley; Lester Day '22, of San Francisco; and Judge Lepp Yankwich '09, who is president of the Willamette Club in Los Angeles, and one of the most learned men on the California bench.

GOODWILL NOW HELD UNIVERSITY PROBLEM

According to William Mumford, in his Tuesday chapel report of his trip to the National Student Federation at Stanford, "goodwill" was considered an important asset of colleges and universities. Mr. Mumford gave the following statements made by Mr. Almon E. Roth, Stanford controller. "We are in an era of goodwill. Great corporations are spending millions to create it. President Hoover's trip to South America is an example of national goodwill. A university needs goodwill, for its graduates must compete in a highly competitive market. Mr. Roth dealt at some length with the problem of contact between universities and the public.

Aside from the regular club numbers the program will consist of some interesting features. John Crnkowich, baritone, will be vocal soloist and Ben Byrd, cello soloist. A trumpet trio by the "three trumpeters," Wesley Roeder, Ralph Morrison and Gust Klempel, promises to be very entertaining. Each of the musicians has had considerable experience and is capable of creditably representing his school. Ralph Morrison was formerly a member of

HIGHWAY'S TESTING REQUIREMENTS ARE LAB TO BE VISITED

Science Club Will Have Privilege of Seeing Public's Laboratory.

The testing laboratory of the Oregon State highway department will be visited by the Science club at their regular meeting next Wednesday night.

Many physical and some chemical methods are employed in this laboratory where the materials used on the highways throughout the state are tested and graded. This will be in the nature of a field trip as part of the sources of the science majors. The trip is being made by arrangement with Mr. N. M. Finkbeiner, director of the laboratory, through William Mumford, who is a regular employee at the testing laboratory.

At the last meeting of the Science club, Mr. Mumford described the technical laboratories that he saw at Stanford university. In particular the Ryan memorial high voltage laboratory where one million volts are used in the testing of insulators.

UPPERCLASSMEN ACCEPT FRESHMEN'S CHALLENGE

Formal challenge to freshmen glee to be held on March first was issued to the three upper classes by Donald Clark, freshman class president, in chapel Tuesday. The challenge was immediately accepted by the three class presidents. No more information except the definite fixing of the date and the fact that all of the committees are working is forthcoming at the present time from Fred Paul, freshman glee manager.

WILLAMETTE'S PLAN SAID ONE OF BEST

Mr. Mumford Has Interesting Contacts With Achieving Students.

TECHNICAL LABS SEEN

Lee Chapin Visited; Described as Having a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde Life.

While attending the fifth annual congress of the National Student Federation of America at Palo Alto during the Christmas holidays, William Mumford was surprised to learn that associated student body organizations are a very new idea among the colleges of the East. These schools have what they call student bodies, but they are said to be really governed by the faculty. Another feature new to Eastern universities is the graduate manager plan of handling student finances.

"Willamette's form of student government, according to comparisons of all the institutions represented at the congress," Mr. Mumford says, "is the best among schools of its size in the United States.

While on this trip Mr. Mumford saw several former Willamette students. Leland Chapin, who was instructor in public speaking here last year, is taking a law course at Stanford, and is teaching in the Stanford public speaking department. According to Mr. Mumford, Mr. Chapin lives a sort of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde life as both professor and student. His usual dress on the campus is the quite informal garb

INSTRUCTORS ONE TIME TURNED IN DAILY GRADES

Space Provided for Name, Grade, and Subject; Also "F" in Case of Failure in Recitation.

That each Willamette student's daily grade at one time had to be handed in by the instructor to the registrar every evening, has been revealed by the recent discovery of some old instructors' blanks.

Space is left on the blank for the name, grade, subject and instructor's signature. A note at the bottom of the blanks gives the instructor the privilege of giving an "F" in case of failure in recitation.

REQUIREMENTS ARE UNDER PROF'S FIRE

Much - Talked - of Requirements of Group System May be Changed

Changes in course requirements have lately been under much discussion by the faculty. It is proposed to give up the requirement of 25 hours in each of the three groups: letters, social science and natural science.

The plan is to make requirements for the freshman and sophomore years rather definite, pre-

President Mumford Writes Interesting Article Series

Achievements and Plans of Congress Portrayed for Collegian Readers.

(The following article is one of a series of five which William Mumford has prepared for the Collegian as a report of the fifth annual congress of the National Student Federation of America, which he attended, in his presidential capacity, last January 1, 2, 3, and 4.)

An exchange of ideas between two hundred fifty representatives from all parts of the United States, with the West leading in student organization, was the essence of the Fifth Annual Congress of the National Student Federation of America at Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif., January first to fourth.

General meetings were held daily, with speakers of national repute addressing the group. Smaller and more informal discussion meetings were held in which the specific problems of the students were taken up. Some of the problems taken up were Student Government, Fraternity and non-organization relations with the campus, Honor Systems, Athletics, International problems, Management of student activities, Publications and Curriculum.

Many good ideas were obtained and much was contributed. Western Student associations are far in advance of Eastern student organization, Willamette's form of Student Government is one of the best on the coast for its size. Ed Murrow, president of the Associated Students of Washington State college, president of the Pacific Student Presidents association, was elected president to

A CHANGED ATTITUDE IS NEEDED

Cries of "officialness" cast at officials who had charge of checking on student tickets at the last two basketball contests are out of order. These objections were occasioned by the demanded forfeiture of tickets presented by persons other than the purchasers and by the refusal to admit students who did not have tickets of any sort to show.

Each ticket has this official notice plainly printed on the front of it, "THIS TICKET must bear the endorsement of the owner and it is not transferable. It must be presented at all times to gain admission to Athletic Contests. . . If this ticket is lost it can be duplicated only by the payment of a one dollar fine at the Graduate Manager's Office." It is a ruling of long standing that misused season tickets must be forfeited. Students who suffered this punishment, recently, can be glad that the forfeited tickets were later returned to them. At larger institutions such leniency would be unknown. Student executives could not spare the time to return them in this way. A fine would be also levied.

The other point of controversy, the refusal to admit lettermen without tickets, was not fully understood by the underclass service club usher who overrode the student treasurer's orders in allowing an entrance which had before been denied. In the first place, the letterman who sought entrance did not mention his being a holder of the official award. And we are not always certain of recognizing a football hero when he is dressed in his Sunday best, instead of in muddy gridiron togs. In the second place, wearers of the "W" are required to purchase A. S. W. U. tickets. There is reason, therefore, in asking them, also, to show their card. It saves needless confusion. It is the easiest way out of the difficulty in the end.

We are sorry if one of our champion gridmen felt aggrieved. We honor him and his associates. But we are not so sorry that he felt this way as that he did not understand.

We would hardly say that Mr. McMinnimee was being overly officious when he collected misused student body tickets and refused admittance to students who did not have tickets. By Article III, Section 4, of the constitution of the Associated Students, he, as second vice-president of this organization, is authorized and instructed to order and issue student body tickets at the time of registration. He has fulfilled these duties. These tokens of admission have been on sale for over four months.

If anyone still objects to the enforced rulings, he may go to their source and seek change in the proper place: in the constitution itself. We would say that only good business principles are being observed and that the change needed is one of attitude on the part of the objectors.

OLD DOBBIN STOLEN—LOCK UP THE HAY

Fraternity robberies are annual occurrences—signs of the times. The yearly losses, so large in total, especially to college men, might be very materially lowered. Is it not possible that the many fraternities on the campus might take some sort of concerted action and protect their member's pocketbooks and watch-pockets?

There are large commercial protective associations. Their clientele is extensive. Surely, it seems, the fraternity men could work together to get a service within their means. The absolute value of such a service is not known to us; but the fact of its wide patronage by schools and business houses would seem to vouch for its worth.

Each fraternity, on our own campus, furthermore, may serve today as its own protective agency by applying the common principles of caution. Fraternity house locks, conspicuous by their absence or failure to lock anything, can be put in working order. One fraternity is already talking of installing sliding bolts and Yale locks.

Putting a padlock on the barn door after the horse has been stolen, this may be; but, at least, it is removing the attractive temptation of open-all-night "frat" houses, inhabited by careless college men. "Sympathetic sisters" will be quite in the right if they say that the poor thief could not be blamed, because the temptation was too great to resist.

WINTER-TIME AT WILLAMETTE

Willamette halls and classrooms are not the only frigid halls and classrooms. The editor of the Puget Sound Trail, seeking to cope with a situation similar to ours, writes the following constructive suggestion: "One product the new college book store might carry and with a little advertising it ought to show a surprising turnover. It would probably be called a 'chapel coat.' A chapel coat would be either fur or fleece-lined, according to the tastes of the wearer. The external part could be of heavy duck material. They would vary in colors, too. Of course no brunette could possibly be seen in one made of a blonde, actually, I mean. . . and though I may be wrong, I'll wager several will wear the chapel coats in some classrooms, too, so maybe it's not fair to make it purely a chapel tradition."

If we stay away from the third-floor law classrooms, the library in late afternoons and evenings, and stay at home with "colds" on Mondays, we won't have to worry ourselves about the inside weather.

Our worthy contemporary ends with. "Of course maybe the chapel will become more livable, but whatever happens we love our Alma Mater and we'll freeze to death for thee—actually, I mean." We are tempted to hold these same sentiments.

FOR HIM A GOLD MEDAL

Our football men fought and won the championship. We are giving them gold footballs in recognition of their service. Someone got up at six o'clock yesterday morning and shoveled out paths across the campus. Had he not done this, we should have had to wade through cold, knee-deep snow. A gold shovel should be awarded to the man who did it. Ask him about it and he will tell you it was Blue Key. But we know that it was George Poor.

IT IS ONLY ROBBING PETER

If you are wishing for colder weather, with the hope that classes may be dismissed for a few days, it might be well for you to remember that a standard university, such as Willamette is, must be run on a schedule of a definite number of class days. So, any time missed now would have to be made up in the spring or summer.

What's the use, anyway? All the wishing this way or that will not change the weather-maker's mind. He knows what he wants to do; and he'll do it.

"—TO SEE OURSELVES"

A little over a century and a quarter ago, Robert Burns, inspired by the sight of a louse crawling on a woman's bonnet in church, penned the immortal words: "Would a power the good/giftie gie us, to see ourselves as ithers see us."

From the heights of our snug security as college students, we look down upon an imperfect world sometimes pityingly and sometimes scornfully. We detect minute flaws in its composition, and occasionally deign to proffer some highly impractical suggestions for its improvement.

In the eyes of this imperfect world, we youthful cynics undoubtedly appear as bigoted as we accuse it of being. The older generation perhaps considers us unbelievably intolerant; our views wilfully exclusive to the point of narrowness, because of our inexperience.

If we would but open our eyes, we would see ourselves as "ithers see us."—S. C. —Exchange.

The University of Hawaii recently forbade men to wear their bathing suits while playing tennis on the campus courts. The Oregon Emerald quite aptly suggests that the weatherman makes such a ruling unnecessary in the Willamette valley.

Bring your student body ticket to the game tonight. Present it; walk in; take your place; and then show the north-side bleachers how loud you can yell for a great basketball team.

Get out your driver's licenses; practice driving carefully; obey the laws. The policemen are coming to Willamette enmasse week after next. They must be human, if they, too, go to college.

Tuesday night's snows made us glad we had just bought some brand new overshoes.

Those terrible, awful term papers are due next week.

What They LOOKS IN Northwest Are Doing LOOKS IN Campii

IDAHO MEN ALSO ROBBED

OREGON STUDENT STARTS WITH $30

IDAHO HAS ROBBERIES

Willamette is not alone in having unwelcome visitors. During the Christmas vacation the Alpha Phi sorority house at the University of Idaho was ransacked. The loss of articles such as jewelry, perfume, clocks, keys, and a small amount of money, lead the members to believe that it was the work of someone doing his Christmas shopping. The estimated worth of the personal valuables was $150.

Attempts to enter two other sororities were made, but the miscreant was unsuccessful both times.

BEGINS WITH $30

That the lack of funds should not discourage the determined student, has been shown by George Thayer, who entered Oregon State college in 1924 with only $30, and earned all expenses during the entire four years. He went to the University of Michigan the following fall and received his Master's degree in June, 1929.

REFUSES $100 GIFT

(By P. I. P.)
Found: a college man who refused $100.

By the best authorities, a man that bites a dog is considered big news. But a college man refusing money is considered an utter impossibility. However, Seth Minch, University of Washington football player, recently refused a reward of 100 simoleons.

It happened when Minch was in Orange, California, during the holidays. Charles Mills was cranking his car while it was in low gear. The machine started, carrying Mills across the street, through a plate glass window and finally against a brick wall.

Minch rushed to the scene, threw his 210 pounds of beef against the car, stalled it, saving Mills, and the brick wall.

"Here," said Mills, "is $100."
"Oh that's all right," said Minch, "forget it."

The shock was almost as great as if the car had kept on going.

IS BUSIEST MAN

Supporting a wife and two children, maintaining seniority rights on a railroad by working as a brakeman during summers and vacations, acting as janitor in a church, teaching a college class in second-year Latin, attending college and gaining a scholarship record high enough to win membership in Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic fraternity, are all being accomplished at the same time by Franklin French, Opportunity, a senior at the State College of Washington this year.

Moreover, French is doing all of these things with a high degree of success. He is majoring in foreign languages and expects to receive his B. A. degree in February. For 13 years he has been an employee of the Northern Pacific railway, during the last few years working during summers and Christmas vacation. Membership in Phi Kappa Phi was recently awarded him for a scholastic record which placed him well up in the upper 20 per cent of his class. He has done outstanding work in foreign language clubs on the campus, holding office in several.—(PIP).

FIFTY-ONE FAIL

Of the 2993 students enrolled at the University of Oregon last term, 51 were disqualified because they failed to pass the required number of hours. 107 will be placed on scholastic probation. Students who fail in a number of courses but are not disqualified, are placed on probation under the direct supervision of a professor in their major department.—(PIP).

Juniors win finals in interclass debate. Messrs. Gary, Gleiser and Bain prove too much for rivals.

The Wednesday evening meeting of the Phils was one of the best of the year. Mr. Flink is, perhaps, the Mark Twain of Willamette, and his manner, always so adroitly childish, is well suited for a lecture on such a subject as "Japanese Bathtubs and Other Matters."

The juniors are already at work on their annual play. Clarence B. Van Styke has been elected manager.

The Y. W. C. A. meeting last Thursday afternoon, was a unique surprise for those who attended. Shortly after 3:30 the meeting adjourned to the Old People's Home. There the girls sang some of the old familiar hymns for about a half hour, much to the delight of the old people.

New Books

By Margaret Eddy

Of interest to sociology students will be two books dealing with war. "The Evolution of War," by Davis, is a well-known book dealing with war and its role in early societies. "War in World History" by Cowan, is a smaller, less complete book written for students. Other books for this department include "Ethnography" by Hovemeyer, which is a study of the various races, "A Preface to Morals" by Lippman, which deals with Ethics as related to modern thought and truth, and "Personality and the Social Group." This last book is composed of several articles written by different eminent people and very thoroughly covers the field. "The Psychology of Individual Differences" by Ellis, and Cowan's "Suicide," which tells of suicide in relation to personal and social disorganization, are valuable to the psychology department.

The very popular "Trader Horn" by Horn and Lewis, a travel novel, is a new book. Two recent novels by Sigrid Undset, "The Snake Pit" and "Kristian Labranstetter" have been received in the library. These books are 1929 translations from the Norwegian, and the last book includes three complete novels.

Two-volume modern translations of Isocrates and Lucian are useful to the Latin students. A pocket guide book of Europe by Black, entitled "The Real Europe," is a very practical and helpful book.

Students of English will be interested in these new books: "Word Heritage: How Words Got That Way" by Doherty and Cooper, "Wings of Sunset" by Coolbrith, the California poet, "An Hour of the American Novel" by Overton, which is a short history of the American novel; and two biographies, "Dr. Johnson and Company" by Robert Lynd, and "Coleridge" an illustrated book by Fausset.

Other new books include "The Journal of Kenko—The Musings of a Japanese" by Gohse, "The 14th Century" by Gowen, "The Wanderer" by Alain Fournier, a French novel of rural life, and a biography of Benjamin Franklin by Fay.

Requirements

(Continued from page one) paratory to the completion of a well-rounded major in the junior and senior years. There is a good deal of unanimity among the faculty, although there is much debate on details. No great change is in view, the purpose being mainly to adjust the work offered in the first two years to that which the student has already had in high school.

President Mumford

Plans were made for a new executive office in New York with a paid travelling secretary.

One of the features of the meeting was the movietone address of Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford university, and secretary of the interior, at the final banquet in Branner Hall. Dr. Wilbur, after accepting the invitation to speak found that he could not make the trip, and delivered his speech in front of the camera especially for the occasion.

The next meeting of the organization will be held at Georgia Institute of Technology, at Atlanta, Ga.

I am particularly impressed with the magnitude of the organization. The future public opinion of the whole nation rests upon the shoulders of the delegates there. What will be the result if 200 colleges, representing half a million students, unanimously voice their sentiment in favor of world peace? International arbitration, of course. We who are students today will be leaders tomorrow. Our decisions today will sway the mighty public opinion tomorrow. We want world peace now and so does the rest of the nation, and so will the whole world, tomorrow.

The contacts made at the congress were very broadening. It made me feel that Willamette was not the only school, although the best.

The hospitality of the Stanford students was very cordial. Even one of the delegates from the South admitted that they were running old Dixie a race in that respect.

Willamette's Plan

Students from other schools who were in attendance at the conference, and with whom Mr. Mumford came in contact were: George T. Huber, a recent Rhodes scholar from the University of Idaho; T. A. Hieker, intercollegiate indoor and outdoor mile-run record holder, of New York university, and two Japanese professors who travelled over 4000 miles to attend the convention.

The Stanford technical laboratories were of especial interest to Mr. Mumford. He visited several of them. Among these was the Ryan memorial laboratory, in which one million volts is generated for research in high power electrical transmission. The artificial lightning generated in this laboratory will jump as far as 20 feet. In the aeronautical laboratory, studies of stress and strain in air currents are being conducted. The miniature propellers used in this study create so strong a wind that one cannot hold his hand in front of them.

In the X-ray laboratories a voltage of 200,000 volts is used on the X-ray tubes. In this laboratory is taken the X-ray spectrum analysis of many different elements. The X-rays used are so powerful that the tubes must be enclosed in a room with heavy walls of lead. It is reported that this laboratory is quite proud of the work that Gerald Pearson, who graduated from Willamette in '26, did last year in the field of X-rays.

WORK OF TEACHERS OF '29 IS PRAISED AS YOU LIKE IT IS PRODUCED BY CLUB

The following report was recently received concerning Louise Liere and Dortha Peters '29, who are now teaching in the high school of Manson, Washington:

"Miss Liere is doing excellent work and is considered by many as the favorite teacher in the high school. We hope we can retain her another year."

"Miss Dortha Peters also is doing most excellent work and she too will be retained. I take pleasure in reporting so favorably of these teachers."

Y.W. PLANS STUDY OF FACTORY CONDITIONS

Willamette Y. W. C. A. is going to offer a new division of work under the Social Service group. This new department will study the industrial situations and conditions of women in the factories of today.

This has a wide field of research and to anyone interested in modern conditions it will be especially interesting and educational.

Muriel White will act as chairman for this group and all interested are asked to present their names to her.

"The Makropoulos Secret" will be presented January 31 at the Fox Elsinore theatre as the second offering of the First Circuit Repertory company of the Moroni Olsen players.

High Hat? The Idea!

WE hope this little rumor was greatly exaggerated. But we heard that a certain young thing whispered to another—in strictest confidence of course—that she was afraid our store was a little "high hat" for her modest income. Shocking, if true! Maybe it's partly our own fault. Perhaps we have been so centered in spreading the endless story of our intriguing fashions and fine qualities that we haven't made it perfectly clear to a few people that this is an inclusive store rather than an exclusive store. Our individual fashions may be really priceless in the esteem of their wearers, but they are placed within easy reach of every woman. "No, little lady, we are neither 'high hat' nor high-priced."

Significant of electricity's part in the modern speeding-up process is the fact that during the last seven years, consumption of electric power increased three and one-half times as fast as population.

General Electric and its subsidiaries have developed and built much of the larger apparatus that generates this power as well as the apparatus which utilizes it in industry and in the home.

CONTEST IS IN BALANCE

WEBFOOT CAGERS OPPOSE BEARCATS

Oregon Seeking Revenge in Practice Tilt on Gym Floor at Seven-thirty.

WILLAMETTE ERRATIC

Close Game Expected in Pre-Season Windup for Methodists.

Tonight the Willamette Bearcats tangle with the Oregon Webfoots in what promises to be a basketball game from whistle to gun. In a practice game on the Oregon floor the inspired Bearcat hoopers outclassed the flashy Webfooters by a ten point margin. This evening the tables might be turned. After dropping her first conference game to Washington State, Oregon showed a reversal of form and trimmed the Washingtonians in their second match.

In all her pre-season games, Willamette men have played erratic ball. If they can hit the stride that made them champions last year, it will be hard sledding for the team from Eugene.

Bill Reinhart has the knack of turning out champion hoopers; however, since Spec Keene has taken over the coaching reins, Willamette basketball has been brought to a par with that brand show by the Coast outfits.

Both squads use a fast breaking style of play.

The probable lineups are:
Willamette Oregon
Adams F..... Do p
Scales F..... Calkins
Cardinal C..... Eberhart
Hauk G..... Olinger
Gibson G..... Horner

KAPPAS KNEEL BEFORE PROFS IN ROUGH GAME

In the third basketball game of the do-nut season the Profs proved too much for the Kappa casaba tossers. The faculty led by Spec Keene and Sparks routed the fraternity men by a score of 20 to 11. Gould and Shellhart performed best for the losers.

SIGMA TAUS CAPTURE INITIAL DO-NUT GAME

In a game featured by rough play and wise cracks, the Sigma swamped the Upper Classmen in the initial game of the do-nut basketball league.

The Sigma with their veteran team trampled the scrappy classmen by a score of 32 to 12. Wadell and Silke starred for the victors while Philpott proved to be the shining light for the Upper-class.

OREGON STATERS NOSE OUT LOCALS

Willamette Cagers Ahead by Two Points at End of First Period.

LARGE CROWD THRILLED

Some 2000 Fans Are Kept on Their Toes Throughout Torrid Contest.

A week ago last Saturday in a thrilling see-saw game which kept some 2000 fans on their feet and shouting wildly for 40 minutes, the Oregon State college basketball team managed to defeat Willamette's hoopers 39 to 36 on the Willamette floor Saturday night.

The result might have been quite different except for the early removal of Hauk, Willamette's only experienced guard, on personal fouls. At least two of the four fouls called on Hauk appeared questionable to a large majority of the fans present.

Aggies Start Strong With Four Baskets

Oregon State started strong, looping the hoop for eight points before the Bearcats broke into the scoring column; then with Scales showing the way, the wearers of the cardinal and gold picked up the Staters' lead in practically no time at all, and from then on neither team was more than four points ahead and the advantage slipped frequently from one to the other.

The half ended with Willamette leading 21 to 19, but Oregon State went ahead again shortly after the second half started when Whitlock batted the ball through the basket.

Hauk's Absence Leaves Big Hole Throughout the last half the Bearcats' defense was ragged because not all of the players could fit into the shifted defensive formation adopted to combat the Staters' short shots. Callahan, an Oregon State substitute, managed to slip into the hole left near the foul line and scored the points which decided the contest.

However, Willamette's savage attack all but made up for this shortcoming. A double foul by Callahan and Scales came near deciding the game in Willamette's favor, for Callahan missed his free throw and Scales made his, putting the Bearcats ahead. Count Even Shortly Before Gun Sounds

The score was tied at 36 all a minute or so before the game ended, but Callahan found the hoop with a field goal and a free throw for the three points margin by which the Staters won.

Tom Duffy and Bob Drager, former Salem high players, were in the Oregon State lineup for a

WASHINGTON HOOPMEN DEFEAT WHITMAN FIVE

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 14.—In their final practice basketball game of the season the University of Washington Huskies defeated the Whitman Missionaries 34 to 30, in a torrid battle here tonight. Washington led, 29 to 16, at half time.

After gaining a big lead in the last half coach Heb Edmundson of Washington sent in his second stringers but was forced to rush his first team into the game three minutes before the end of the contest, when the Missionaries went on a scoring spree. The regulars halted the Whitman rally to hold the four-point lead.

considerable portion of the game and performed capably.

Cardinal and Scales divided scoring honors for Willamette, with Adams slipping in several neat shots at critical times. The Bearcats' teamwork was greatly improved over the showing made against Multnomah club Wednesday night, but still needs some polishing.

Sportorials

There is something in the air besides snowflakes. It is that Willamette has the makings of the best basketball team in its history, but is liable not to win the championship.

In the first place the Bearcats can't seem to connect with the hoop consistently. And moreover, if they did, the referee would probably even the score by calling some questionable ones on the Bearcats.

Officials seem to have a grudge against the Methodists. On two occasions we saw the referee literally "hooded" by a crowd that was not a group of Collegians. That was during the second game with Oregon State.

And that is the first time that we have ever heard the local high school pull for Willamette in preference to a state institution. Which all goes to show that Jason Lee's championship football team has made Willamette popular with the locals. Believe it or not, it is true, athletics put a school on the map.

Another reason: Willamette plays two games at Whitman. In their last the Missionaries are almost impregnable. However, they are without the services of big Wally Holmgren. He is the manager this year.

Holmgren seems to have made quite a name for himself in the Shriner's East-West game on New Years. Wally even thinks he might like to continue his football with the Olympic club of San Francisco. More power to him. He was a good enemy and a game fighter.

Then there is that matter of the hair message given Hank by Referee Gregg in the Y. M. D. game. The referee thrust his hand and fingers through Hank's hair and face, when pointing out the man who committed the foul. Harold resists with the proper spirit of a red-blooded man, and out he goes. The Portland papers came out with it that he was sent out for roughing it.

Y.M.D. AGGREGATION PROVES HARD TEAM

Looking like about two bits throughout the first half, the Willamette casaba tossers finally came to life to win from the Portland Y. M. D. by a score of 48 to 49.

The Bearcats got a good start but the Y. M. D. boys proved to be accurate shots and soon overcame Willamette's lead. The visitors were ahead 22 to 19 at half time.

The second half was a see-saw affair for ten minutes, field goals putting first one team and then the other ahead by one point. Then, starting from a 29-30 basis, the Bearcats began functioning as though engaged in signal practice with no opposition on the floor, and ran up a lead of 11 points before Coach Keene retired them to let the second string men play a few moments. Scales and Adams, Willamette's regular forwards, appeared to be off form early in the game, but scored like clockwork toward the close.

Martin and Rowley were the outstanding players for the Y. M. D. Rowley outjumped Cardinal at center consistently, the first man who has accomplished it this season.

THREE EXTRA EMBLEMS AWARDED SPORTSLADIES

In addition to the number of girls who received their W. U. emblems in chapel some time ago, having earned the required number of points, the following girls have also received their emblems: Mildred Emmons, Margaret Morehouse, and Dorothy Pemberton.

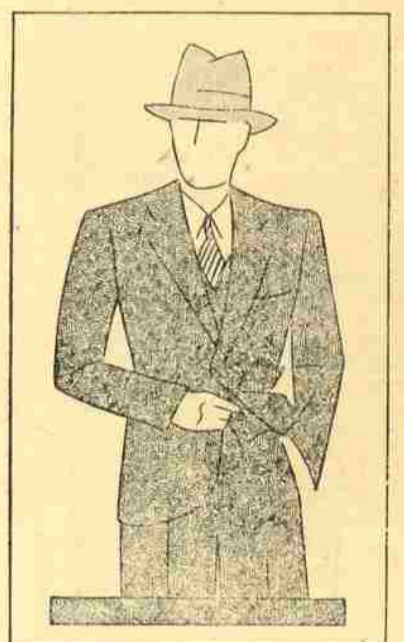

If this keeps up Sparks will have his gym classes playing fox and geese in the snow. Someone already has, out on the football field.
