

WU Awarded Two Research Grants

Willamette's chemistry and physics departments were awarded grants of $2600 and $2500 respectively by the Research Corporation of New York during the first semester of the current school year.

Both grants, set up by Chemist Frederick Gardner Cottrell, will permit the University to purchase special equipment and offer advanced students opportunities for original research.

James C. Nichol, associate professor of chemistry and new to the Willamette faculty this year, will direct one study of complex chemical compounds, such as proteins. The University will have full responsibility of disposal of any inventions or patents which may grow out of the research.

Physicist Robert L. Purbrick is in charge of the second grant, set up for research in the structure of molecules. Much effort will be directed in analyzing light given off by molecules and a practical application of the project might well lead to revolutionary changes and tremendously increased efficiency in the field of light.

Purchase of special spectrographic equipment by the University has begun.

Dr. Nichol came to Willamette from the University of Alberta, where he taught after having earned his bachelor and master's degrees. His Ph.D. degree is from the University of Wisconsin. During the war years he was engaged in special research in organic chemistry and on cancer compounds at the University of Alberta.

Dr. Purbrick is a Willamette graduate, class of '42. He earned both his master's and doctorate at the University of Wisconsin where he was a Wisconsin Alumni Research Fellow. He did extensive research for the atomic bomb project at the Argonne laboratory at the University of Chicago, where the first sustained reaction involving fissionable materials was carried out.

Many of Purbrick's papers on atomic energy are not yet published.

Jason Lee (right) returns to the campus! Dr. G. Herbert Smith, Willamette president, looks at a copy of "Chronicles of Willamette" with Jason Lee, only a remote descendant of the University founder by the same name, who was one of the chief speakers in the first annual Founders and Benefactors day program.

Founders and Benefactors Honored in Annual Program

Something new in traditions at Willamette was inaugurated February 9 when Founders and Benefactors day was observed in an academic convocation at the First Methodist church.

"It is the plan of the University to repeat this convocation annually and each year to honor two additional people who have served with distinction in the upbuilding of Willamette," President G. Herbert Smith announced.

DON'T BE MODEST. The alumni office is constantly seeking news of grads: marriages, births, job changes, relocations, etc., are of interest to fellow alumni. Drop a postcard to the alumni office today!

The heat bill on the campus for one month is an average of $1200.

First to be so honored were Jason Lee, pioneer missionary, and the late E. S. Collins, former member of the board of trustees

Freshman Glee March 25th; Ticket Situation Is Tight

Freshman Glee swings into the picture at Willamette this month as preparations are taking form for the annual event March 25. Theme of the songfest this year is "Fight Songs." Duane Denny, Portland, is Freshman Glee manager.

Graduation Calls Alums to Campus

The world is entering the second half of the twentieth century and the Willamette family can look back to over a century of commencements.

The event has grown. Parents of graduating seniors, alumni returning for class reunions, emeritus professors, and friends of Willamette swarm over the campus in the splendor of spring.

Salem's two main hotels have made major alterations and are now well equipped for lodging as well as class meetings and alumni groups. Plan now to be on hand for COMMENCEMENT, 1950. It's June 11, and the class of '25 and '00 will be in the spotlight.

DA Will Visit In California

California alumni, proved to be as active as any last summer when 140 convened in San Mateo, will be interested in knowing of the director of admission's projected California trip.

No drastic innovations are planned for the colorful occasion, although last year's Glee proved something vital so far as the weary participants' sleep was concerned: Freshman Glee can be as exciting and thrill-filled with fewer practices and at more decent hours.

The ticket situation remains tight. Into the same gymnasium that hosted Glee in small enrollment days must be crowded all the participants, their parents and friends, faculty, staff and early-bird alumni.

Many thanks to those of you who responded to last issue's call for addresses and news notes.

We hope many of you read the newsletter which was enclosed with the last Loyalty Fund solicitation. We will endeavor to continue that policy of dropping you a line or two of news whenever conditions warrant it.

The fever of Freshman Glee—and no one who has not seen a Glee can even imagine the pitch to which said fever can rise—is already upon us. This year the theme is "Fight Songs" and the words and music artists are burning the midnight oil for their respective classes.

We wish we could invite you all back to an auditorium of 5000 or so that would accommodate all of those parents, alumni, townspeople, prospective students, and friends of the University who seek yearly to witness the colorful event.

But such is not the case. We are still carrying on in the gymnasium, which means we take care of the participants, their parents, the faculty, and a limited number of alumni. How many that will be is determined by the Freshman Glee committee.

The students have inserted some sense into the Freshman Glee rehearsals, however. They're getting up a little later and for fewer weeks in advance! Maybe this generation is just plain smart.

The Director of Admissions has provided alumni with a blank in this issue for recommending prospective students. High school seniors are in the decision-forming period and alumni can be of great value by sending names and information to the University. In addition, verbal descriptions and salesmanship can often direct students to Salem. We hope you will lend your support to our efforts.

WHEN IS THE LAST TIME YOU WROTE THE ALUMNI OFFICE? Our records may show you with your maiden name, or at your wartime address. We are striving to keep all records up to date. You know best what you are doing.

One month's milk bill at Lausanne hall is $720 or 1000 gallons for 200 girls.

The Alumnus publication and the Loyalty Fund solicitation are only two of the many mailings that come out of Willamette for Alumni on a regular schedule. News of your department, class notes, and reunion data are constantly going out to the alumni who are listed in our office. Are you?

Faculty Notes

A museum purchase prize in water color from the Michigan artist show in Detroit, Mich., has been awarded Carl Hall, instructor in painting and artist in residence. Life magazine is planning to use another one of his paintings in an article "Promising Young American Artists." During March the paintings for this article will be displayed in the Metropolitan Art Museum, New York City, as part of a show on young American artists.

Dr. Raymond Withey, dean of students, conducted a seminar for the Federal Council of Churches at its state conference in Portland, November 19. Topic of Dr. Withey's talk was "Youth at Worship."

James I. Elliott, assistant professor of economics and business administration at Willamette purchased the accounting practice of David M. Nyberg and Co. in Salem last October. The business was consolidated with his accounting practice. Prior to his appointment at Willamette he was engaged as tax accountant by Western Stove Co. of Culver City, Calif.

Mark Hatfield, instructor in political science, is Marion county chairman of the bi-partisan citizens committee for the Hoover report. Hatfield did his thesis at Stanford on former president Herbert Hoover. He is currently heard on a 15-minute radio program, "The Political Pulse," sponsored by the Salem Federal Savings and Loan association. Active in politics, the young instructor is currently alternate chairman of the Marion County Republican central committee, is political education chairman for the American Federation of Labor for Marion county, and is a policy consultant for the Young Republicans.

Dr. Norman Ara Huffman, head of the Department of Religion, has been appointed one of the American scholars of the New Testament to work on a recently launched international project. This undertaking is to establish a revision of the Greek New Testament. Dr. Huffman, whose assignment is working with the oldest complete Greek New Testament manuscript, was appointed by Dr. Ernest C. Colwell, president of the University of Chicago, who is chairman of the International project. The Society of Biblical Literature is the sponsoring group with headquarters at the University of Chicago.

Two book reviews by Dr. Egbert S. Oliver, professor of English, appeared in the October issue of Advance magazine. One article is the criticism of the book "Israfel, The Life and Times of Edgar Allen Poe," by Henry Allen. The other comments on the short story art of Melville as appearing in the book "The Complete Stories of Herman Melville," edited by Jay Leyda. Oliver is a scholar of Melville. Mention was given to Dr. Oliver in the recent volume, "The Trying Out of Moby Dick," by Howard P. Vincent, when his "help and advice" was used in both the forward and a footnote.

A. Freeman Holmer, assistant professor in political science, has been chosen chairman of the state Young Republican reapportionment committee. Purpose of the committee is to prepare a new system for the apportioning of state senators and representatives, which if adopted, would become an amendment to the Oregon constitution.

Seward P. Reese, dean of the law school, attended the annual convention of the Association of American Law Schools, of which Willamette is a member, held at the Edgewater Beach hotel in Chicago, December 28, 29 and 30. While in the east Reese visited with his daughter, Donetta, who has a graduate assistantship at Indiana university, and who is teaching piano and working on her master of music degree. She received a bachelor of music degree from Indiana university in 1949.

Additional shelves to hold new books in the Willamette university library cost $17,700. The wiring for the new stacks cost $1400 alone.

Milk bill at Baxter hall for one month is $1414 or 2000 gallons.

Hawaiians at Willamette Transcribe Yule Greetings for Isles

During the Christmas holidays, 14 Willamette University students, who call Hawaii their home, found the time not great enough and the distance too great, so they did the next best thing. Arranged through the Director of Information, the Hawaiian contingent joined the University a cappella choir in Christmas greetings to the Islands via transcription. The 30-minute record, produced by KOCO, Salem, was flown to Honolulu where it was played Christmas evening over KGU, the NBC outlet there. Governor Douglas McKay personally added greetings of the state of Oregon.

Ivan White, '26, Assigned To Inter-American Affairs

Ivan B. White, a native of Salem and graduate of Willamette university in 1929, has assumed his duties as economic and labor adviser for the Bureau of Inter-American Affairs.

A veteran foreign service officer with long experience in the broad field of economic policy, White will function as immediate adviser on economic and labor policies to Edward G. Miller, Jr., assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs. He joined the foreign service in October, 1935. Since then his assignments have included work in Mexico City and Rio de Janeiro, Yokohama, Paris and Trieste.

White participated in the Bretton Woods conference of 1944 as a special assistant to the secretary general and in 1946 was a United States delegate to the Paris reparations conference. He also was an adviser to the board of governors of the international bank and the international monetary fund that year.

White, who still regards Salem as his home, is married to the former Dorothy Ann Halvorsen of Bremerton, Wash., and they have one child, Patricia Ann, 10, who was born in Tokyo.

Find Old Wallulahs; Yours for the Postage

Wallulahs for the years 1932, '33, '37, '38, '40, '41, '44, '45 and '47 are now available for 50 cents, to cover the cost of mailing, by writing to the Associated Students, Willamette University.

The 1948 Wallulah can now be purchased for 75 cents. Anyone wishing a 1949 annual may write to the Associated Students for information and cost.

Founders and Benefactors

The occasion marked the first time since the Navy V-12 unit was stationed at Willamette that an academic program has been held in mid-year. The faculty appeared in caps and gowns, although no degrees were awarded to winter semester graduates.

The observance will be held yearly as near to February 1 as possible. It was on that day in 1842 that a public meeting was held to determine the needs of the Willamette valley for an educational institution and out of this meeting grew the inspiration to form what has become Willamette.

Participating in the program were Student Body President Russ Tripp, Mary L. Collins Scholar Jack Berkley Gunn, Jason Lee, administrative assistant to the state tax commission and popular speaker on early Oregon history; the University a cappella choir and President Smith.

Alumni Luncheon, Reception Draw At Homecoming

The twenty-eighth annual Homecoming was one of the most successful to date.

A capacity crowd overflowed Sweetland field's grandstand for the game and 100 alumni were on hand for the luncheon in Lausanne hall where Lawrence and Edna Davies, '21, won the prize for having traveled the greatest distance to attend (Palo Alto) and Ed Averill, '05, copped the award for the oldest grad present.

After the game a reception, visited by over 500 alumni, was held in Baxter hall. The reception was arranged by the Salem Alumni association.

John Lewis and His Goal Minors

Lettermen Ask Alumni to Ball On March 11th

Lettermen at Willamette have issued an invitation to all former Bearcat athletes residing in the vicinity of Salem to attend the annual Varsity Ball, Saturday night, March 11, in the gymnasium.

Easily one of the most artistically decorated, well-planned dances of the year, the Varsity Ball affords an opportunity for lettermen-alumni to renew acquaintances and return to the campus for an evening of entertainment.

Dave Longtin's 18-piece orchestra has been signed for the affair. Downtown merchants Holly Jackson, Howard Maple and Frosty Olson have again offered expensive prizes to the queen and her court.

Roy Harrington, scabback physical education major, is president of the organization this year.

"Feeler" for Hawaii Game

Last December Athletic Director Chester R. Stackhouse received "a feeler" from Tommy Kaulukukui, athletic boss at the University of Hawaii for a game in the Islands next year.

Stackhouse said the offer contained a lucrative guarantee and the date requested is in October. Willamette has some six grid-derers on the squad who reside in Hawaii.

As the Alumnus went to press, nothing definite had been decided by the athletic authorities at the two schools concerning a game in the Islands next year.

Stackhouse Sends Thanks to Alumni for Help

By Chester R. Stackhouse
Athletic Director

We appreciate the opportunity in this crowded issue of the Alumnus to express our appreciation to the many individuals who took time to respond to the questionnaire mailed out in December by the athletic department.

At a later date we hope to compile the information as to the whereabouts and the occupational pursuits of the many people who responded from all corners of the world.

As a result we now know of many more key individuals who are strategically located to know of talented high school students.

We have seen enough of these Willamette grads to be convinced of their loyalty and enthusiasm. From past experience we are aware of the tremendous help this army of alumni are going to be to the athletic department.

For the assistance you have already given we say thank you. Because of your future help we look ahead enthusiastically.

We actually received the names of over 500 boys who will be graduating from the various high schools in this country this June. The athletic department is now working overtime to mail to these students a brochure on the university.

We would like to again emphasize the fact that most Willamette students know about Willamette and decide to come to Willamette because of some friend who speaks to them about the school. Therefore a word of encouragement from time to time by our alumni may be the deciding factor in the ultimate decision of our prospective students.

Hawaiian "Feeler" for Game Jogs Memory; Reunion Set

A feeler from the University of Hawaii to Willamette for a game in the Islands next year brought back memories of 1941 when the Bearcats traveled to Honolulu for a game with the Rainbows.

The 'Cats lost the game, but the next day a bigger game was begun in which most of them had a helping hand. How the picture has changed in nine years.

A lighting program, designed to replace inadequate lighting fixtures on the campus, has cost $15,600 in the last five years.

R. S. "Spec" Keene, who took the men to Hawaii, has been a navy commander, sporting goods store owner, and is now athletic director at Oregon State. Douglas McKay, then a state senator,

Axe Makes Circuit Of Nearby States

Russ Tripp, student body president, was $2.86 poorer one day last December but he was also in possession of the Whitman-Willamette victory axe, stolen Armistice day from the Salem campus. The trophy arrived by collect freight with the shipper listed only as "Walla Walla College."

But the axe still wasn't at rest. A short time later the trophy was again lifted. This time when returned it came from the University of California, painted with a blue handle and yellow blade.

Sports Folder Now Available

Athletic Director Chester R. "Stack" Stackhouse has designed a colorful, picture-filled sports information folder that is now available to alumni and prospective Bearcats.

Included with the many pictures is an up-to-date air photo of the new athletic plant and shots of all sports at Willamette. "Stack" combines the pictures with descriptive material of interest to every alumnus.

Copies may be secured by writing the athletic office at Willamette.

Choir Awaits MBS Decision

Willamette university a capella choir is still sitting on pins and needles.

The excitement concerns the anticipated results of an audition by Mutual Broadcasting System's college choir concert series, aired on the west coast at 2:30 Saturday afternoons.

The choir was auditioned by KSLM, Salem, in mid-January and if successful the 84-voice group, directed by Dean Melvin H. Geist, would appear coast-to-coast with a predicted audience of over one million.

The choir plans a spring vacation tour of western Washington that may take them as far north as Vancouver, B. C. Opening concert is in Silverton Thursday night, March 30, and the concluding concert is in Corvallis Monday night, April 10.

Choir Manager Bob O'Neill would appreciate alumni contacting him if church or civic groups are interested in having the choir for concerts. At all stops, Dean Geist will be happy to meet alumni, parents and friends of Willamette.

No verbal requests can be entertained and the number of tickets for alumni will be determined by the Freshman Glee executive committee, composed of students and Graduate Manager Daniel H. Schulze.

Arrangements to broadcast Glee are again being negotiated, Manager Denny reports.

Ralph Dobbs, head of the piano department at Willamette and a concert pianist of wide repute, lends real genius to students at the College of Music. Professor Dobbs, who has played before capacity audiences in New York, Chicago, Hollywood Bowl and other points from coast-to-coast, is available for concert engagements in the Northwest area. Information and dates for concerts may be secured by writing the Director of Information, Willamette.

Class of 1921 Keeps Ties With 28th Annual Letter

Willamette Man OFCL President

Jack Gunn, Willamette senior from Monmouth and son of Oregon College of Education President John Gunn, has been elected president of the Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders.

Willamette was host for the 11th annual convention in December and Russ Tripp, WU student body president, was secretary-treasurer of the organization last year.

Diana Arpke, daughter of the Fred Arpkes, has been named editor of the OFCL news magazine.

Knitzer Concert Set for March 6

Joseph Knitzer, well known violinist, will appear in concert March 6 on the Willamette campus.

Knitzer, head of the violin department at the Cleveland Institute of Music, is appearing under the auspices of the Association of American Colleges, Art Program.

The class of 1921 is not to be denied.

That bunch of stout-hearted alumni has scored again with over 20 letters from as far away as Arkansas and Hawaii. The letters form the 28th annual letter of the class of 1921, handsomely printed and bound in a red and white jacket.

Edited under the pen and push of Fay Peringer Coulter, the letter leads off with a greeting from the Doneys. (See under class notes.) From Little Rock, Ark., comes word from Mildred Day and the Lawrence Davies from Honolulu, where they were assigned briefly by the New York Times. Glyde (Ausman) McGrew pens a word from Fresno, Helen S. Gragg from Monroe Oregon, Herald (Fuzz) Emmel, from Grandview, Wash., Rhoda Persons Baker from Spokane, Wash., Sibyl Wise from Upland, Calif., Alice, Paul and Earl Flegel from Berkeley, Hubert T. Wilkin from Santa Monica, "Bob" from Pomona, Leland P. Linn from Ashland, Henry R. Spiess from Antioch, Calif., "Myrtle" from Arcata, Calif., Iris M. Payne from McMinnville, David Lawson from Mt. Vernon, Wash., and Fay P. T. Coulter from Seattle.

Salemites who wrote included Frank Bennett, Mary Notson Sackett, Muriel Morse, Tinkham Gilbert and Elsie P. Hill.

The letter idea is one that could stand expansion to other groups. The news of each alumnus is most welcome at the University.

is now governor of Oregon. Marriage and fatherhood has come to many of the members of the team.

Chester R. Stackhouse, WU athletic director, figures December, 1951, ought to be a good time for a ten-year reunion and Governor McKay seconds the motion with, "I want to be counted in for sure on the 1951 reunion. I'm glad to get advance word of your plans for the occasion and I shall look forward to getting further information when the time rolls around."

"Stack" needs the addresses of the men who made that trip to Hawaii and although the event is over a year away, he would like to contact you pronto. (Seems you might know some bemuscled high school seniors right next door.) So write in as soon as possible.

Dean Floyd Field, AB '97, Retired From Georgia Tech

Following a career of forty years on the faculty of Georgia Tech, Floyd Field, '97, retired July 1, 1946, as dean of men.

Field received his AB degree from Willamette in 1897 and was bestowed with an MA in mathematics in 1902 from Harvard, where he was an honor student.

Field became an instructor of mathematics at Georgia Tech in 1906 and in three years rose to the head of the department. By 1921 he was dean of men, a permanent title until his retirement. Also in 1921 he began his term as faculty adviser to the Tech Interfraternity.

Dean Field was quite active in his years at Georgia Tech. Among his many accomplishments was organization of the Southeastern Section of the American Mathematical Association of which he served as chairman for one year. He also assisted in the organization of the National Association of Deans and Advisers of Men. He has been a member of the board of directors of the Central YMCA since 1916.

One of his most unusual accomplishments was building of the two-story house in which he and his family have lived for a number of years. The home was complete with a victory garden, several fruit trees and a few domestic animals in back.

Upon his retirement an article in "The Technique," Georgia Tech, campus newspaper, Dean Field was described as "a brilliant conversationalist, a traveler, a builder and a lover of the good earth. Certainly one of his biggest accomplishments was winning the respect and honor of the students at Georgia Tech.

Field was given an honorary degree of doctor of science from Willamette, June 15, 1948.

Dr. Knight Gives B-G Graduation

Dr. John L. Knight, who was with Willamette from 1943-'46, now president of Baldwin-Wallace College, Berea, Ohio, delivered the mid-year commencement address at the Bowling Green State University this February.

Dr. Knight was appointed assistant professor of religion at Willamette in 1943 but was soon promoted to assistant to the president.

Only 34 years old, he became president of Baldwin-Wallace college last fall after serving as chancellor of Nebraska Wesleyan university.

Dr. and Mrs. Knight have two children.

Gift of Brahms To Music Libe

The complete works of Ludwig Van Beethoven and Johannes Brahms are now included in the library of the Willamette College of Music.

Twenty-six volumes containing the scores of Brahms were a gift of C. E. McCulloch, Portland, president of the board of trustees. The 24 volumes comprising the complete scores of Beethoven were purchased by the University for the Music Library.

These two gifts complete the collection of music composed by the "Three B's" in music—Bach, Beethoven and Brahms. The scores of Johann Sebastian Bach were purchased in 46 volumes by the University two years ago.

Emphasis Placed On Religion in Week's Activity

"Religious Emphasis Week" is being held on the Willamette campus February 14-16 with Dr. Amos A. Thornberg of the First Methodist church in Hollywood as the guest speaker.

"Our Future's Stake in the Present" was the subject of an art contest and essay contest conducted for the event.

Highlights of the first day's activities: motion pictures shown by the Intersarsity group and dedication of the Little Chapel.

"Ghosts," a play by Ibsen, was presented by the speech and drama department.

WU Organizes UNESCO

The Willamette University chapter of UNESCO was made an official organization of the student body last November. The campus United Nations Education, Scientific and Cultural organization was formed by Lowell Miller, senior in history from Los Altos, Calif. Edward C. Kollman, assistant professor of philosophy, and Mark Hatfield, political science instructor, are advisors.

Collegian Again An All-American

The Collegian again joined the ranks of "All-American" college newspapers when results of judging by the Associated Collegiate Press were announced last October.

Only seven times in recent years the newspaper has not received this standing. During this time, however, it was given the Pacemaker award, which is granted to only a small percentage of American college papers. Judging placed the Collegian in the category of universities with 1000 to 2499 enrollment. It is published by the Statesman Publishing company, Salem.

KOCO Airs WU Radio Workshop

"Willamette Fireside," a 30-minute program, is being broadcast over KOCO every Monday evening at 9 o'clock by the Willamette Workshop. This series of variety productions spotlights top talent in the University drama and music departments.

Ruane Hill of the drama department and Dean Melvin H. Geist of the College of Music are general directors for the programs.

Sunday for WU Nets $1702.25

A total of $1702.25 was pledged and received at the Willamette University Sunday held November 13 by the 150 Methodist churches throughout Oregon. Of the amount, $479.25 has been received.

Sponsored by the National Board of Education of the Methodist church, funds from the collection will be utilized for the general support of Willamette. Willamette Sunday was originated in 1942 by Dr. G. Herbert Smith, then in his first year with the school. Since then it has been an annual event.

McNary Library to Willamette

A major share of the personal library of the late Senator Charles L. McNary was presented to the Willamette University by Mrs. McNary in November. He was a former Dean of the Willamette College of Law.

The volumes, numbering nearly 100, were catalogued and placed on the shelves for general circulation. They include early Oregon history, agricultural volumes and political writings.

Law Handbook Editors Named

Eight Willamette university College of Law students, all top men in their classes, were selected last October, for the Board of Editors of the Willamette Legal Handbook series.

The board of editors include: Thomas W. Churchill, Stockton, Calif.; Robert B. Todd, Dayton; Lent Berkeley, Portland; Joe Larkin, Washougal, Wash.; Roy Ross, Ripley, Okla.; Omar Halvorson, Silverton; George D. Wilson, Portland, and James Fitzgerald, Portland.

The publication, a reference work for lawyers throughout Oregon, is being supervised this year by Professor John C. Paulus, doctor of jurisprudence, from the University of Iowa.

Education Enrollment

Education courses attracted 193 students to Willamette this fall with 116 of this number taking two or more education subjects in preparation for teaching.

Total enrollment in education courses, including special and graduate students is 387.

Teachers Meet April 3, OSEA

Education Department Head George B. Martin has scheduled another of the annual luncheons for Willamette alumni during the spring sessions of the Oregon Education association in Portland April 3-4.

The luncheon, to which University officials as well as all alumni now in the teaching field have been invited, will be held at The Broiler at 12 noon, April 3.

Indications are that about 50 will be present.

College of Music Pamphlet in Print

An attractive music folder describing the opportunities to students at the Willamette College of Music is available to alumni, Dean Melvin H. Geist has announced.

The folder tells of Willamette's accreditation, biographical sketches of faculty members, and types of outlets for talented students. The publication may be obtained by writing the College of Music.

Law Notes

Val Sloper has been appointed a deputy district attorney for Marion county by DA E. A. Stadter, who doubles as an executive of the Willamette University Law Alumni Association. Sloper joins other deputy DAs: Gordon "Dinty" Moore, '42, and Sam Harbison.

The Marion County Bar Association has elected officers for 1950. They include Norman Winslow, son of Walter Winslow, '08, president; Allen Carson, '22, vice-president; and Doug Hay, secretary-treasurer.

Clarence Wicks and Bill Stortz have opened law offices in Salem.

Alum Executives Plan Glee Meet

Alumni Association President Ed Averill, '05, has called a meeting of the executive board for Saturday night, March 25, at 5:30 p. m. in the dining rooms of Lausanne hall.

On the business agenda is a discussion of alumni dues, consideration of commencement activities, election procedures and class organization.

Following the business session, the executive board will be guests of the University for Freshman Glee.

Gilbert Wrenns Turn Childhood Tunes to Cash

The fascinating story of a mother's informal music tutoring of her son and the published songs that came from that effort is the subject of a full page article in the Minneapolis Sunday Tribune January 22.

Mrs. Gilbert Wrenn (Kathleen La Baut, '24), wife of Dr. G. Gilbert Wrenn, '26, professor of educational psychology at the University of Minnesota, and son Bobby worked out a series of songs when he was a youngster.

The songs were just used for entertainment of friends until recently when Dr. Wrenn sent them off to a publisher. The result: "Fun for Everyday," a song book published by the Willis Music company, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Political Focus On WU Alumni

The political spotlight will focus on Salem next month when filings will begin for state offices.

As is annually the case, many Willamette alumni have already registered their intentions to toss their hats into the political ring. At the last session of the Oregon legislature, Willamette alumni held the key spots of speaker of the house (Frank Van Dyke, '31) and president of the senate (William Walsh, '27).

A number of other Willamette alumni were in both houses of congress.

Second Putnam Statue Given

"Small Combat" a statue cast in bronze, by Arthur Putnam, of the dramatic fight between two tigers, was presented to the University last December by Miss Marilyn Walkey, Santa Monica, Calif., granddaughter of the sculpturer.

It is similar to one by the same artist, now on exhibit on a specially built table in the east end of the library. This work is entitled "Combat"—a fight between a tiger, python and deer.

Atkinson Captaining Stanford's Crewmen

Ray Atkinson, son of the George Atkinsons and who attended Willamette for his first two years, is now captain of the Stanford university varsity crew.

Ray was a first boat competitor with the Indians last year.

The eight editors of the Willamette Legal Series Handbook were named this week by Dean of the College of Law, Seward P. Reese. All are top scholars in their respective classes. From left: James Fitzgerald, Portland; Thomas Churchill, Stockton, Calif.; Roger Todd, Dayton, Ore.; Berkeley Lent, Portland; Seward P. Reese; Editor-in-Chief Roy Ross; Faculty Adviser John C. Paulus; Joe Larkin, Washougal, Wash.; Omar Halverson, Silverton; George D. Wilson, Portland.

Ben Koh, Korean Diplomat Gets BA Degree at Willamette

Byung Choll Koh, former Korean diplomat and aid to the United States military government in Japan following the war, has received his bachelor's degree in political science from Willamette university and is in Washington, D.C., to continue his education at George Washington university.

During the war Koh participated in espionage activities in Manchuria where he narrowly escaped capture by the Japanese.

While in America he is studying the democratic way of living which he will take back to the Korean people.

Koh, known as "Ben" at Willamette, attended Willamette on a scholarship. He will work for his master's degree at George Washington.

Upon completion of his education in the United States Koh and his Oregon-born wife, Ruby, plan to return to South Korea, where his father is a leading political figure.

Unable to send money to finance his education because of exchange difficulties, parents of the 26-year-old student have sent valuable articles including boxes inlaid with mother-of-pearl, embroidered wall hangings and paintings to be sold and extend Koh's education.

President G. Herbert Smith will be in California April 17-20 to address the American Association of College Registrars at the Fairmount hotel, San Francisco. Efforts are being made to hold a WU alumni meeting during that time.

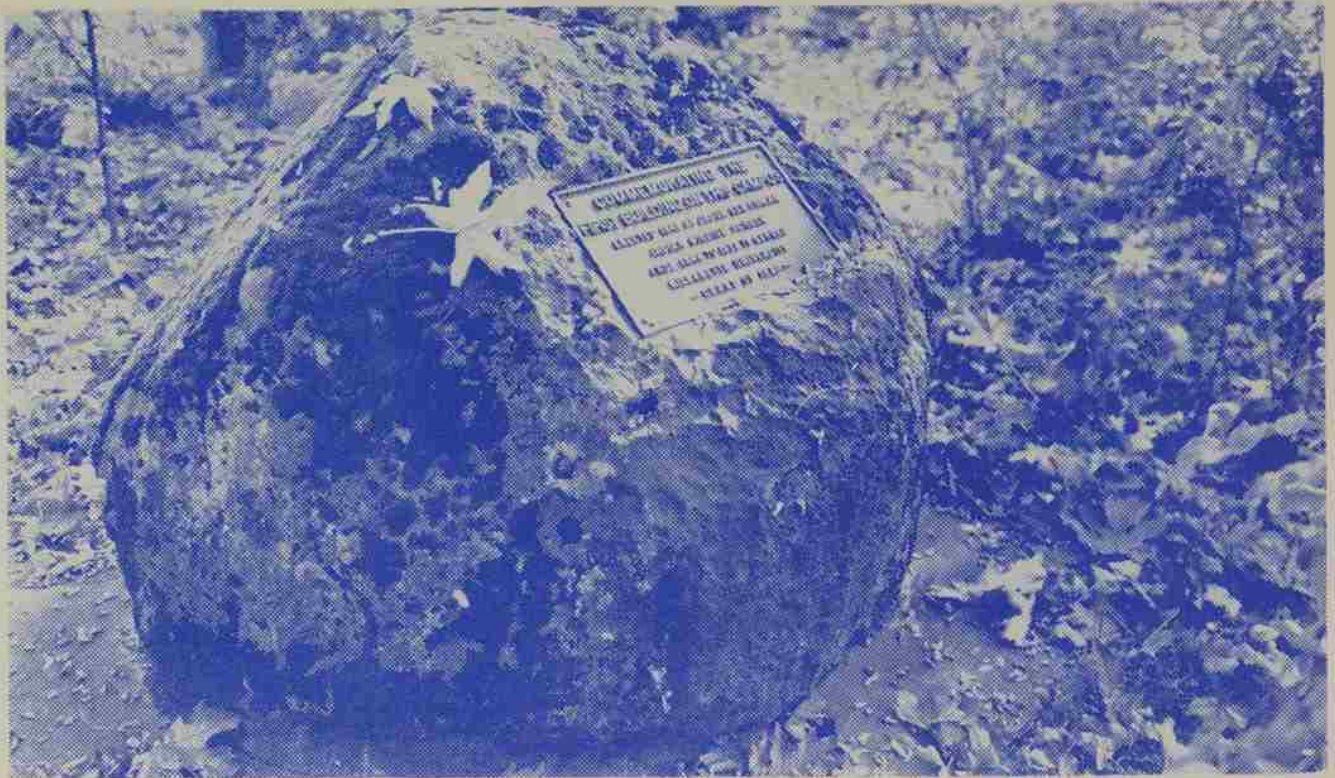

Willamette's new athletic plant, located in Bush's pasture, will soon be the scene of spring sports. The layout now awaits only grandstand and bleacher facilities for full-scale activities.

In Retrospect

Beginning of the year 1939 brought several outstanding events to the campus. Three new buildings of outstanding importance to the future trend of Willamette's progress were dedicated: the new library, the old post office converted into the College of Law and the University House.

Other outstanding things included: removal of the dance band, the dramatic end to the 26-game win streak of the Bearcat gridgers; in dramatics the one-act play contest became firmly planted as an annual affair; the Collegian produced a new tradition when a prize was presented for the best individual acting. (Frances Pickard won for the women, Watson Dutton received the prize for the men. In student affairs came the formation of a student relations committee. The formal opening of Oregon's marble capitol building on July 3, 1938, made a remarkable appearance of Willamette's front yard. George Abbot preserved the athletic fame of WU by winning a place on the Little All-American.

Willamette's Founding Rock, marking the spot where the first Oregon Institute building stood, is located in front of the gymnasium. Founders' and Benefactors' chapel was held February 9, honoring Jason Lee and E. S. Collins.

Page Resignation Due to Illness

E. M. Page, '13, former member of the Willamette College of Law faculty, has been forced to resign his position as associate justice of the Oregon supreme court because of ill health.

Page was circuit court judge for Marion county before elevated to the high court. Son Richard, a Willamette student for two years, is now attending Stanford's Graduate School of Business.

Famous Speakers Visit WU Campus

If wide fame means anything, Willamette has done all right in respect to important speakers of late.

A sample of the campus guests include Clarence Streit, author of "Union Now" and well-known authority on international relations; G. Colin Jackson, Labor candidate from Newbury, England, and Senator Wayne L. Morse, Oregon's junior senator.

Music Recitals Open

A series of student recitals are being held twice a month on Friday afternoons at 3 o'clock at the College of Music.

Up to date six concerts have been held, all open to the public.

Loyalty Fund Box Score

Below is the box score on Loyalty Fund contributions for the period June 1, 1949 - January 31, 1950.

A grand total of $4195.50 has been received from 116 contributors. The class of '22 leads the total-amount column with $1545 divided between seven individuals, whereas the class of '24 had 11 individuals contributing.

Blanks were drawn from the classes of '17, '34, '39 and '46. At all times the emphasis from the director of alumni affairs will be placed on a broad base of contributors. Whether it is $20, $1, $100, or $5, the participation is what counts.

The next Loyalty Fund drive will be launched next fall. As in the most recent solicitations, we will endeavor to bring full news of the University.

How can you help Willamette make the most of her second century of service to youth? Let us count the ways: (1) Locating and encouraging outstanding high school students to enroll at Willamette; (2) Supporting musical, dramatic, or athletic events if within travel distance; (3) Contributing volumes to the library, clothes to the dramatic wardrobe, musical scores and instruments to the College of Music; (4) Submitting news notes of yourself and others for the Alumni Magazine, and (5) Subscribing to the Loyalty Fund.

(The following is a letter from the Carl Gregg Doneys to the class of 1921, as printed in the 1949 edition of "The Annual Letter of the Class of '21:)

Dear Class of Twenty-One:
No human faculty is so mysterious and valuable as memory. Without it, one would remain an infant, dependent upon instinct; but having memory, one brings to life again the past experiences to teach and guide and give us pleasure. How I can backtrack through the years and be a boy once more is still a puzzle, though a fact. Time and space mean nothing to my memory. At will, I live again upon the campus; I see Paul Flegel and Tinkham Gilbert, Helen Satchwell and Fay Peringer, others of the class of '21. If once they have troubled me, as they no doubt did, I have forgotten it; one should have a good "forgettery" as well as a tenacious memory. Sometimes I recall your names from Aldrich to Wise and look into your faces. I cannot picture any of you as gray or bald, as parents, as in professions and business. I'm glad of that, for I want to keep you as you were.

Here the two of us go on in the accustomed way, the fifty-seventh year together. We still are getting acquainted with each other, for we continue to grow. Friends and books provide surprises, so that every day presents a new horizon. We have a pleasant church and a minister of rare talent. Sometimes, I'm asked to speak in public and I prepare a brand-new sermon or address; I make them new to discover if the old machine will function. A doctor takes our blood-count and gives us little tablets. The calendar says that winter is around the corner; the birds and squirrels are asking us for grain and nuts; in need, like human beings, they become more friendly. These things are mentioned that you may know what is in waiting for you when "the sound of the grinding is low." Yet it is a lovely time to live, rich with a long past, a delightful present, and an entrancing future.

Greetings then to each of you and gratitude for your laughter I still hear and your forgivings that warm the soul.

Sincerely,
The Doneys.
