Words to Live by

Jerry E. Hudson, President

What words should, or do describe Willamette University?

Over this past year, I asked groups of students, faculty, administrators, and trustees to choose words that describe Willamette — attributes of life within this University community. Out of 31 choices, five words were mentioned by each of these groups: Academic, Challenging, Friendly, Personal and Student-Oriented.

I feel very good about these responses, believing that they reflect well on the institution's faculty and staff. I also am relieved that several of the choices — including "Isolated," "Snobbish" and "Impersonal" — were not selected by any of the groups!

It's one thing to select words to live by. It's another thing to actually live by your words.

This year's Annual Report is, in part, a testimony to a Willamette University community that gives life to the words "Academic," "Challenging," "Friendly," "Personal" and "Student-Oriented." It celebrates an educational enterprise that is a partnership between students, faculty, staff, trustees, alumni and donors.

This year's Annual Report also renews the institution's pledge to its recently revised mission statement. These are words we have chosen to live by, and I trust that we will embody them as successfully as our claims about being an academic, challenging, friendly, personal, and student-oriented place.

UNIVERSITY MISSION STATEMENT

Willamette University is an independent, nonsectarian institution of higher learning founded in 1842, which educates men and women in the liberal arts and selected professional fields. The University's mission now extends far from the Oregon Territory and the Pacific Northwest to encompass the larger world beyond. In its pursuits, Willamette University

- ✦ Cherishes the dignity and worth of all individuals and strives to reflect the diversity of our world.*
- ✦ Encourages close relationships among faculty, students, and staff to enhance learning and foster community.*
- ✦ Provides a lively and challenging education in a small university setting where teaching and learning are strengthened by ongoing scholarship and research.*
- ✦ Embraces a commitment to service and leadership in our various communities and professions.*
- ✦ Honors its historic roots in The United Methodist Church and values the ethical and spiritual dimension of education.*
- ✦ Believes that education is a lifelong process of discovery, delight, and growth, the hallmark of a humane life.*

(Adopted by the Board of Trustees January 31, 1993)

These are words for Willamette to live by... in this, the next and following years. Our revised mission statement is "A Pledge Renewed," and its components serve as the basis for the following sections of this 1992-93 Annual Report.

What words should, or do, describe Willamette University?

This year, I publicly assert that the words of the institution's mission statement should describe the life of our community. My colleagues and I pledge to give life to these words.

Highlights of the Year

June 1, 1992-May 31, 1993

Willamette University is an independent, nonsectarian institution of higher learning founded in 1842, which educates men and women in the liberal arts and in selected professional fields. The University's mission now extends far from the Oregon Territory and the Pacific Northwest to encompass the larger world beyond.

Willamette University has established many ties around the world, but perhaps none stronger than in Japan, where one of its 24 Alumni Clubs and its oldest sister college, Tokyo International University, are located. The newest tie involves Japan's newest university, Aomori Public College, and the Atkinson Graduate School of Management. It was entered into in August of 1992, to promote internationalization and mutual learning. In May, Atkinson's full-time faculty went to Japan as visiting scholars in Aomori's inaugural semester. They participated in a conference on management issues and met with Aomori faculty to discuss curriculum development and collaborative research opportunities.

College of Law Professor James A.R. Nafziger, who spent two weeks in Albania to help the country's leaders draft a new immigration and refugee law during the winter, is one example of Willamette people who contribute their leadership and expertise to their communities, nations and world. Nafziger's efforts were part of an American Bar Association program.

In support of Willamette's renewed mission statement, a long-range planning process was established this year, with a University Planning Committee and three task forces exploring improvements in recruiting and retaining students, identifying and responding to facilities needs and clarifying the organizational relationship of the Master of Arts in Teaching program.

The College of Law celebrated its commitment to state-of-the-art educational facilities for the legal profession with a major expansion and renovation of the Truman Wesley Collins Legal Center. Justice Sandra Day O'Connor of the U.S. Supreme Court spoke at the re-dedication convocation in September. Pictured with her above are President Jerry E. Hudson; Robert L. Misner, dean of the College of Law; and Wallace P. Carson Jr., chief justice of the Oregon Supreme Court. O'Connor was also awarded an honorary doctor of humanities degree.

Willamette University cherishes the dignity and worth of all individuals and strives to reflect the diversity of the world

Five hundred students donated 16,000 hours to community service during 1992-93. Many of the projects were coordinated through the Community Outreach Program.

✦ A chapter of Best Buddies was started to bring college students together with community members who have mild or moderate retardation.

✦ The Cartoon Club was started to provide activities and friendship to children at the Salem Outreach Shelter, a family-oriented transitional shelter for the homeless.

✦ Tutoring programs in three elementary schools, the Oregon School for the Blind and a low-income housing development continued.

Community service components are also being incorporated by professors into classes. Four professors, Linda Heuser, sociology; Scott Hawke, biology; James Friedrich, psychology; and Ellen Eisenberg, history, received a grant to accelerate this process.

International Festival of Dance

Students participated in various events during the year to celebrate diversity, including:

✦ International Extravaganza, an annual spring event which showcased international foods, entertainment and crafts.

✦ A Martin Luther King Birthday tribute in readings and song sponsored by the Black Student Organization in January.

✦ An International Festival of Dance organized and choreographed by Maria Lu, dance instructor in the Theatre Department.

In addition, the students of Tokyo International University of America shared their cultural heritage with the Willamette and Salem communities through their harvest festival in October.

Linda Chavez

Julianne Malveaux

Among the co-curricular speakers who came to Willamette, vastly differing opinions and outlooks stimulated thoughtful discussion.

✦ A debate between Linda Chavez and Julianne Malveaux, political commentators representing, respectively, conservative and liberal views of affirmative action, was presented as part of the Educational Programs Committee's "Higher Education: Revolution or Evolution?" series.

A display of The Names Project AIDS Memorial Quilt in April was an outgrowth of Willamette's Community Outreach Program. More than 4,000 people visited the display of 500 of the panels. Over $5,000 was raised for Mid-Oregon AIDS Support Services.

✦ Writer Isabel Allende's talk about her fiction and its reflection of her life in Chile, part of the Atkinson Lecture Series, complemented the Latin American focus of the World Views class which is required for freshmen.

✦ Jonathan Kozol brought the message from his book, Savage Inequalities, lamenting the difficulty for children to learn under the conditions in some schools in the United States.

✦ David Suzuki, a science writer, was an Atkinson Series speaker. He decried the "sacred truth" that makes "economics the raison d'être of our existence and places air, water, soil and plants—all essential to survival—as externalities outside the GNP."

✦ The 12-event series "Mesoamerican Cultures: Change and Continuity" brought experts whose topics included art, religion and daily life.

among faculty, students, and staff to enhance learning and foster community*

Buzz Yocom

The end of an era came with Richard A. "Buzz" Yocom's retirement after 43 years at Willamette as student, faculty member and administrator. His warm personal relationships with several generations of students, now alumni, were celebrated with his "Buzz Around the Country" tour. A dinner was sponsored by the Alumni Association in Portland the evening before Freshman Glee; a special Glee banner was presented to commemorate his years of participation.

"No community can thrive where conduct is chaotic," Ernest Boyer said as he provided a Willamette audience with six principles for promoting and sustaining community on campus. Boyer, who spoke in March, is president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Willamette's five retiring faculty members (see "For the Record") were honored by the Alumni Association at a retirement dinner in April. Emeriti professors from the same academic departments were also recognized.

A new community dining concept was introduced at Willamette with the opening of Goudy Commons, dedicated October 16. It replaced seven kitchens and 14 dining rooms in campus residences. The multiple serving areas, as shown above, allow for improved variety and quality. Graduate students, faculty and staff as well as resident undergraduates, are encouraged to share the Commons. The architectural design has been recognized for excellence by Restaurants and Institutions and was also featured in Contract Design magazine.

Equipment to support teaching and learning are a University priority. The purchase of important pieces of science equipment, and an endowment for their maintenance and replacement, was made possible by the response of Willamette alumni and friends to a challenge from the Kresge Foundation. A $1 million Meyer Memorial Trust grant provided for instructional technology enhancements in the library and elsewhere.

Bob Dash

Among the many faculty members recognized for their outstanding teaching and scholarship during 1992-93 were these:

✦ Fulbright scholarships for research in various countries were awarded to CLA Professors Bob Dash, Doug McGaughey and Todd Silverstein and Law Professors Maureen Callahan and Susan Smith.

✦ Professors Lou Goble, Sally Markowitz and David McCreery were selected as grant recipients by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

✦ Professor Richard Ellis received one of eight research grants given by the George and Eliza Howard Foundation.

✦ The Burlington Northern Award for Faculty Achievement at WU went to Carlton Snow, professor of law.

Numerous students received recognition, scholarships and graduate school admission based on their outstanding records. Among them were:

✦ Brian Newman was named a Harry S Truman Scholar.

✦ Eric Harker received one of 10 General Motors Liberal Arts Excellence Awards in the nation for 1992. This is the third time in the five years since the award was started that Willamette and one of its students have been honored.

✦ Kristin Ollis won an IBM scholarship for sophomores and juniors who are majoring in science. This is the first year the scholarship has been given and she was the only winner in Oregon.

Willamette continued its commitment to providing substantive student research opportunities through its Undergraduate Research Grants, which were made to 11 students in this fourth year of the program.

...provides a lively and challenging education in a small university setting where teaching and learning are strengthened by ongoing scholarship and research

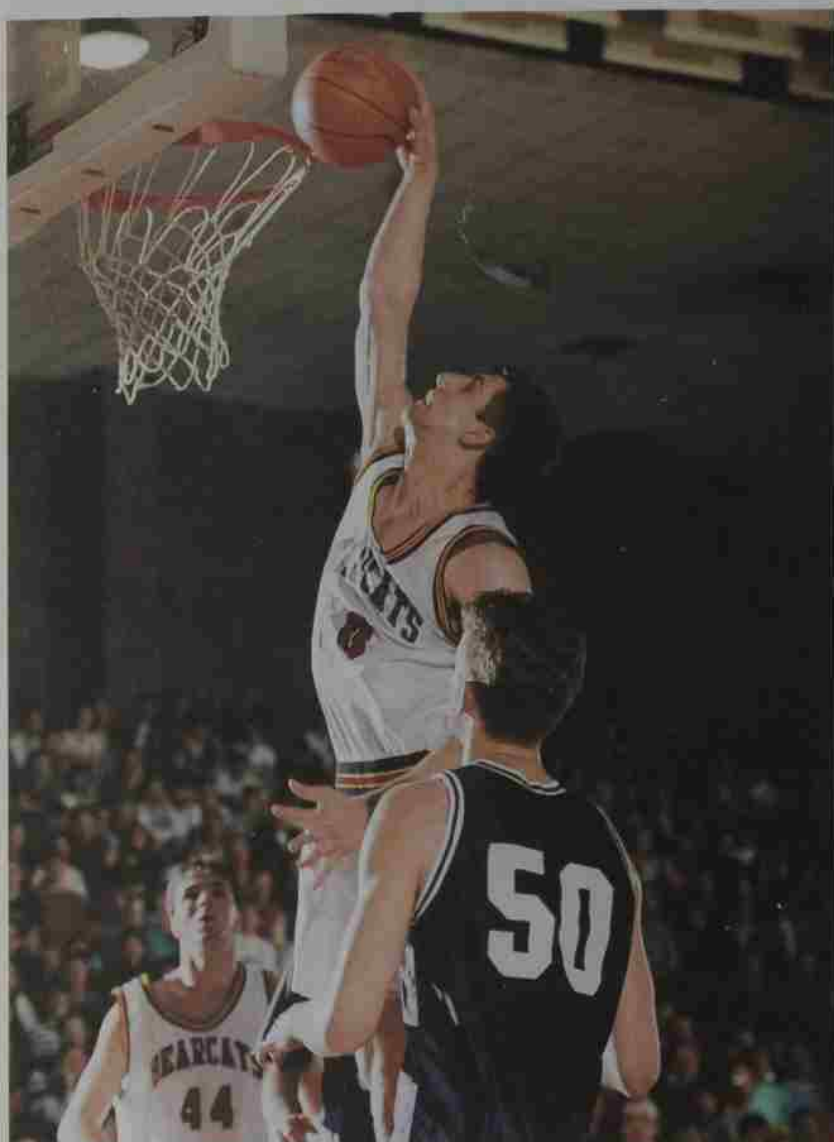

Willamette University embraces a commitment to service and leadership in our various communities and professions

Willamette continued a series of "Toward 2000" alumni seminars which were inaugurated during the Sesquicentennial Celebration. Alumni who are leaders in a field participate as speakers and panelists, often sparking discussion of tough current issues.

✦ In September, Issues Facing the Judiciary was keynoted by Wallace P. Carson Jr. '62, chief justice of the Oregon Supreme Court and a Willamette University trustee. About one-third of Oregon's judges are Willamette alumni.

✦ The Future of K-12, in September, featured Norma Paulus '62, Oregon's superintendent of public instruction and also a WU trustee.

✦ An Entrepreneurship Breakfast celebrated the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Conference on Entrepreneurship by students of the Atkinson Graduate School of Management. The Breakfast was sponsored jointly with U.S. Bank of Oregon, the Oregon Young Entrepreneurs Association, the Stanford and MIT Business School alumni associations, and the Oregon Enterprise Forum. Held in Portland, it was attended by 700 people. Panelists explored the state of entrepreneurship in Oregon today, as well as changes within the past 10 years.

Leadership and achievement in athletics reached a pinnacle when the men's basketball team won the NAIA Division 2 national championship in March. Mike Ward (pictured above), a senior, became WU's first-ever first-team NAIA All-America in basketball and was named the national championship tournament's Most Valuable Player. Gordie James was named NAIA Division 2 Men's Basketball Coach of the Year, as well as NAIA District 2 Coach of the Year for the third time.

Speaker for the inaugural Richard M. Gillis Lecture, Making Sense of State Government: Reflections of a Recovering Economist, was Fred D. Miller, vice president of public affairs for Portland General Electric. Miller was formerly a long-time senior administrator in Oregon state government. The Lecture is named to honor an emeritus economics professor.

Mentor Day, an opportunity for students to visit work sites in Portland to explore possible careers with alumni, was expanded to include juniors as well as seniors.

Norma Paulus 1'62

Lane McGaughy, professor of religion, received the first United Methodist Exemplary Teaching Award at Willamette.

The 18th annual four-week School of Theological Studies, a community adult education program, was conducted. Among the topics were Women Ministering in Salem; Philanthropy, Justice and Spirituality; and Exploring Our Commitment to Social Change.

A panel on Corporate Social Responsibility was coordinated by Dale Rubin, professor of law, and Dale

Lane McGaughy

Dale Rubin

Weight, dean of the Atkinson School, in November. A Domestic Violence Panel was also open to the public at the College of Law.

The Office of the Chaplain continued to sponsor weekly Convocations. Among the programs were:

- ✦ Parker Palmer, an author and consultant on community, education and spirituality.
- ✦ Mubarak Awad, a Palestinian Christian peace activist who spoke on the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.
- ✦ Jack Nelson-Pallmeyer, author and worker on spiritual and social transformation of Central American immigrants to the U.S.

...believes that education is a lifelong process of discovery, delight, and growth, the hallmark of a humane life.

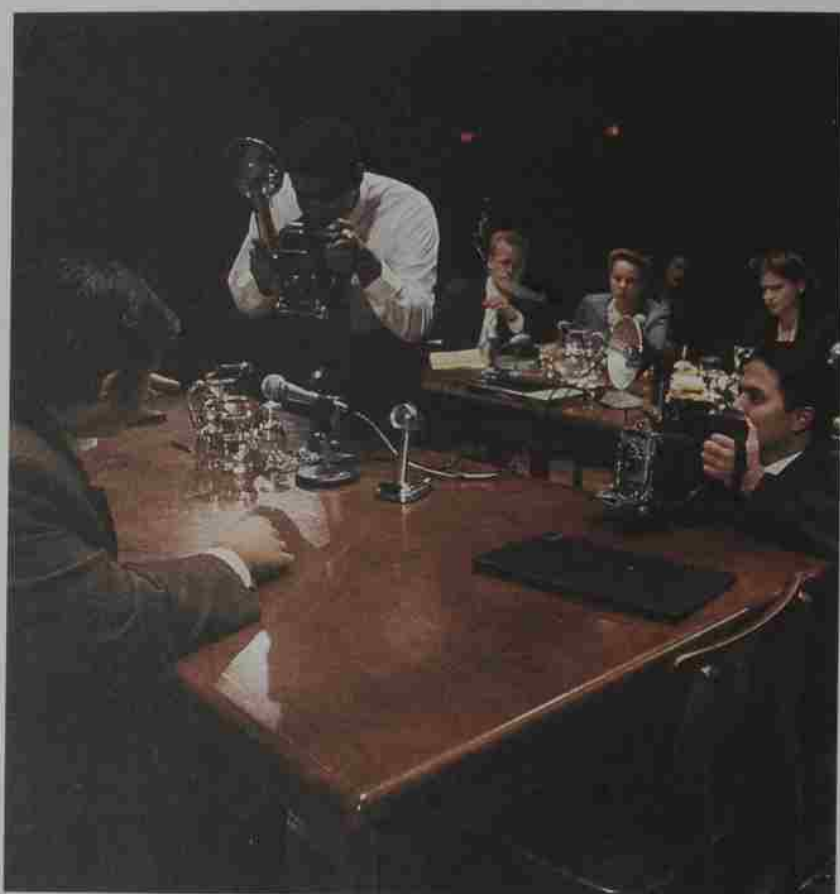

Mark Russell

Political satirist Mark Russell, the year's opening Atkinson lecturer, delighted a full house from the campus and Salem communities in September.

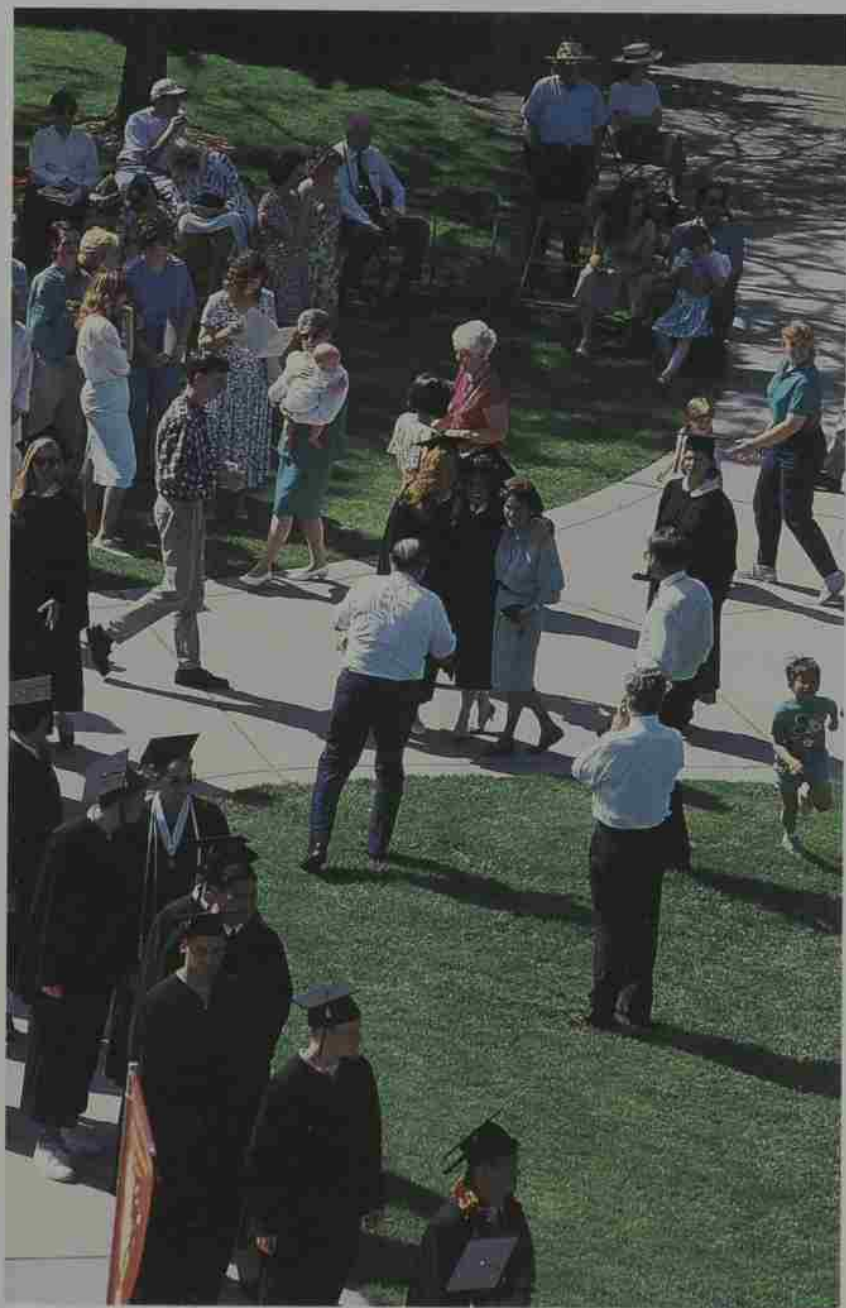

Music and theatre performances and art shows were presented to enable students to both participate in and appreciate creative and artistic pursuits for now and throughout their lives. Among the year's special music guests were:

- ✦ Composer & music theorist Robert Morris, who appeared as part of the New Music at Willamette Series.
- ✦ Anner Bylsma, former principal cellist of the world-famous Concertgebouw Orchestra; and pianist Jeffrey Kahane, both through the Distinguished Artists Series.

The American College Theatre Festival recognized the Theatre Department's production of Are You Now or Have You Ever Been (above), directed by Rod Ceballos, in several ways. It was selected as one of four college productions in six states to compete for regional honors. Four theatre students were nominated to audition for the Irene Ryan Award, a nationally competitive scholarship. Finally, a 1993 Commendation for the program and lobby display, awarded jointly with the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, was received.

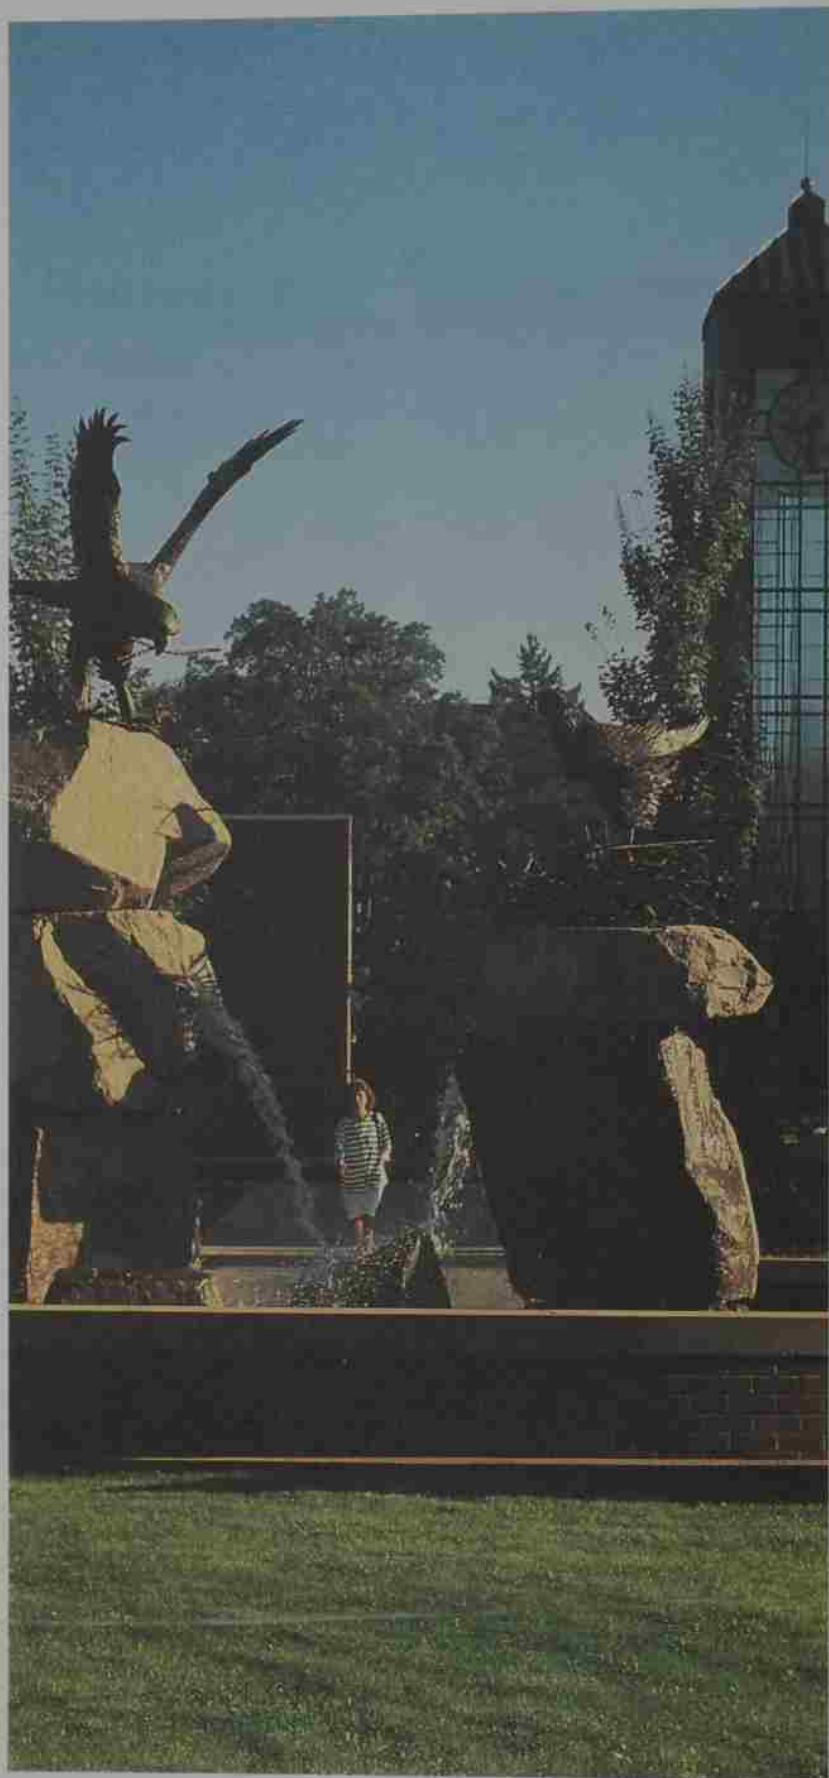

A performance by Anner Bylsma (left) was part of the Distinguished Artists Series.

An Institute for Continued Learning at Willamette University was established in cooperation with the Elderhostel Institute Network, with the assistance of the Summer Programs Office. The Institute expands the availability of University resources to older learners.

Commencement is among the benchmarks with which the University pauses to renew its pledge and celebrate its values. United States Senator Mark O. Hatfield '43 was commencement speaker. Honorary degree recipients were Tony Lee Hopson '77, founder of Self-Enhancement Inc.; Taul Watanabe '41, retired executive vice president of Burlington Northern Railway; and Maribeth Collins, a member of Willamette's board of trustees since 1964 and president of The Collins Foundation. Commencement ceremonies were held on the Quad, a departure from the traditional McCulloch Stadium setting.

The achievements of Willamette's alumni ultimately attest to the University's successful pursuit of its mission. A few of these alumni, at various stages along life's journey, are briefly profiled among the gift listings which conclude this Annual Report.

Stewardship

Willamette University's endowment surpassed $100 million in 1992-93. Its market value at year-end was $100,869,000. This results from strong support for the institution by alumni and friends and from steady growth thanks to prudent stewardship. The endowment's growth during the year included $3.5 million in new gifts plus a one-year total return on invested funds of 18.6 percent.

The endowment and its growth reflects the university's strengths. "It is no surprise that the amount of endowment dollars per student provides a good index of an institution's overall academic strengths," according to a commentary in the Sept. 8, 1993, Chronicle of Higher Education. "Whether measured by SAT scores, selectivity, size of financial-aid budget, size of library, quality of laboratory, or ability to recruit and keep top faculty members, colleges with high endowments generally stand at the top of the list."

Additional financial highlights of the 1992-93 year included:

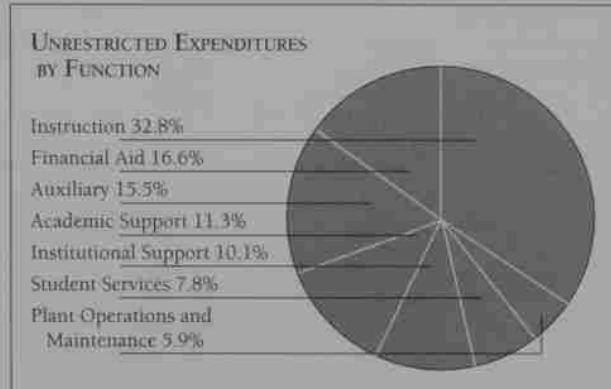

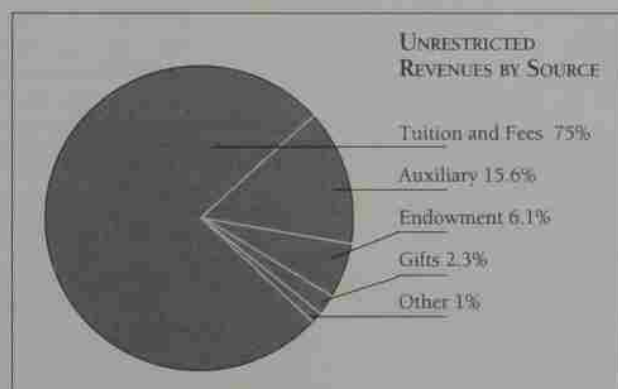

✦ A balanced operating budget was achieved for the 15th consecutive year.

✦ The fund balance (net assets at cost) grew by $10,125,000 to $132,023,000.

✦ Total assets at cost grew by $8,962,000 to $147,032,000.

A more complete picture of the year's financial results appears in the financial statements on the two pages which follow.

WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY

Dear Alumni and Friends of Willamette University,

I am proud to share with you the impressive record of giving to Willamette during 1992-93 and publicly recognize each of the donors for the past year on the pages that follow.

The thousands of gifts made by alumni and friends of the university are strong testimony to the strength of the Willamette educational experience. As members of the Willamette community, we share an impressive history, an exciting present, and an extremely bright future.

On behalf of students, faculty, administrators, and trustees of the university, I thank each of you for your generosity. I hope that as we move to successfully complete the Sesquicentennial Campaign in 1994, you will continue to deem Willamette University worthy of your support.

Sincerely yours,

Jerry E. Hudson

President

JASON LEE SOCIETY

The Jason Lee Society is Willamette's highest level donor recognition group, honoring individuals who have contributed $1,000 or more to the University during the last fiscal year. The Jason Lee Society is named for the principal founder of Willamette. Lee made the ultimate sacrifice, dying while in search of financial support for the University. He left his entire estate to Willamette and his gift continues to touch the lives of young people attending his beloved school 150 years later.

WALLER HALL SOCIETY

The Waller Hall Society honors individuals who contributed $500 to $999 to Willamette in 1992-93. This society is named for Alvan F. Waller, who carried on the tradition of service and devotion begun by Jason Lee. It was Alvan Waller, as the University's agent, who bore the responsibility for developing the financial well-being of Willamette as the University grew. It was he who raised the funds and supervised the contract of what is now known as Waller Hall, completed in 1867.

STEP SOCIETY

The Step Society commemorates the historic old step at Waller Hall, worn by the feet of so many people over time. The society honors individuals who contributed $250 to $499 to Willamette during the last fiscal year. Contributors to the Step Society provide vital support for the academic footing needed by new generations of students who cross Willamette's threshold.

Sue Leeson '68 L'81

Sue Leeson '68 L'81, a former professor of political science, now serves on the Oregon Court of Appeals. Leeson, who specializes in the areas of constitutional law, dispute resolution and jurisprudence, was appointed this year by Governor Barbara Roberts. She has also co-authored a textbook on constitutional law and dispute resolution.

"I will always be grateful to the faculty at Willamette University who instilled in me, as a liberal arts student, a love of constitutional law, political philosophy and intellectual history. Willamette is also where I made lifelong friends and worked with colleagues whose dedication and hard work are a source of inspiration."

Ted Loder '52

Ted Loder '52 is senior minister of the First United Methodist Church of Germantown in Philadelphia, PA. He graduated from Yale Divinity School and received an honorary doctor of divinity degree from Willamette in 1971.

"If a single word could sum up my years at Willamette, it would be entanglement, in the sense the writer meant who suggested that faith is seeing your life as 'inextricably entangled' with God.

Entanglement was what it was about; that messy, delightful, disturbing, wondrous process of being engaged by people, ideas and experiences, in classroom and out, which continually involved us with different views and disciplines and so stretched our minds and spirits toward ever more profound truths, demanding values and accurate commitments to each other and the human community.

"For me, that's the core of a liberal education and that's what entangles Willamette University in my heart. Those years were the beginning of being grasped by what life, truth, justice and faith in God might mean."

Gerald H. Kangas '56

Gerald Kangas '56 is the general manager and chief executive officer of the United-Saudi Commercial Bank in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia. "Reflecting back on my undergraduate years at Willamette, I sincerely appreciate the preparation I received through a well-rounded liberal arts education, which included a foreign language, coupled with the close relationships I had with my professors in the small, intimate classes. Most significant was the broadening of my spiritual commitment and beliefs. This sound foundation, which was supplemented with graduate studies, became the core of reference during my 30 plus years in the management field of international banking and finance. The strong emphasis placed on community service in addition to one's own profession, which is endorsed through Willamette's living units and fraternal system, set our University's motto—Not Unto Ourselves Alone Are We Born—into real situations in my life, living and working in 12 third world nations. The satisfaction of voluntary service as an individual and as a member of Rotary International, The Gideons International, American Businessmen Groups and the local church was a continuation of the Willamette experience."

Hikaru Kerns '69

Hikaru Kerns '69 is the managing director of Bangkok Shuho Co., Ltd. in Bangkok, Thailand. Bangkok Shuho Co. is an English language television and real estate company, and also publishes a Japanese language newspaper. Kerns has worked as a foreign correspondent for the Far Eastern Economic Review and London Times in Tokyo and has written articles for Euromoney and Newsweek. "In my first two years [at Willamette], I met some people who made such deep impressions on me that their spirits remain, even after 25 years, a clear part of what I am. It is especially so with certain faculty and friends. The physical separation since has been a source of regret."

James Cuno '73

James Cuno '73, Massachusetts, is the Elizabeth and John Moors Cabot Director of the University Art Museums at Harvard University. He is responsible for setting the academic and historical agenda for the three museums, which includes overseeing a budget of $8.2 million and maintenance of a $90 million endowment. "[Professors George S. McCowen and William Duvall] helped light that fire under me that is so characteristic of professors at undergraduate schools like Willamette....Professor Roger Hull from the Art Department was very influential on my decisions; he served as a great role model in my life."

Tony Lee Hopson '77

As a high school teacher and counselor, Tony Hopson, who graduated from Willamette in 1977 with a degree in sociology and psychology, saw that better methods were needed to improve black students' chances for success. With help from a grant from the Albina Ministerial Alliance in Portland, Hopson founded Self-Enhancement, Inc. Initially a basketball camp, Self-Enhancement, Inc. has grown—with assistance from a Meyer Memorial Trust grant—to include classes; drug, alcohol and human sexuality counseling; communication and study skills development; and employment counseling. President George Bush honored Hopson with a Thousand Points of Light Award because of his service to the community. He has also received the state's Gold Schmidt Award. This spring Hopson received an honorary Doctor of Public Service degree from Willamette.

"I was afraid when I started at Willamette that I would not be able to financially afford to complete all four years, but because of scholarships like yours [William and Phina Collins Scholarship], I have been able to remain at Willamette. I cannot express my gratitude enough. Thank you so much for your interest in students' lives, and your concern for Christian education and mission work."

Tom Neilsen M'86

Tom Neilsen M'86 is the former mayor of Salem and is the owner of Neilsen Manufacturing Inc., Salem. "The Atkinson curriculum helped me put many of the lessons I had learned through my work experience in an expanded framework of understanding. The program broadened my horizon and I have approached my business with fresh renewed energy."

THE TOWN & GOWN CAMPAIGN

Willamette University salutes the following businesses and professional leaders for their generosity and the important role each played in the 1993 Town & Gown Campaign. Previously known as the Salem Annual Fund, this drive helps provide scholarships for Salem-area students attending Willamette. The Town & Gown campaign exceeded its goal of $25,000 by raising an all-time high of $37,046 for scholarships.

- Gift Matched by Employer

Willamette University is grateful to the donors who have made contributions during the 1992-93 fiscal year.

Matching gifts from employers have been included when determining the appropriate giving society memberships. Titles have been omitted wherever possible to save space.

If you are a donor, but your name does not appear in the 1992-93 President's Report, one of two things may have happened:

- 1) In the process of generating the annual report lists, your name was inadvertently excluded; or
- 2) Your gift may have been received in our office after our fiscal year ended May 31, 1993.

Inquiries or requests for further information should be directed to: Chris Mildner, Director of Donor Relations, Willamette University, 900 State Street, Salem, OR 97301, (503) 370-6340.
