WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY-Oldest University in the West

Volume 6

SALEM, OREGON, OCTOBER, 1949

Number 1

"What expression could be packed with greater meaning than the simple statement, T'm going home.' Home includes those happy memories of youth, the family surroundings so well beloved. In welcoming you to the Willamette Homecoming, we urge you to make this pilgrimage back home. Your Alma Mater is eager to welcome her sons and daughters to the familiar campus scenes. There are some new buildings and we are constantly working for improvements, but essentially you will find the same campus atmosphere, the friendly greeting and the hearty welcome which is traditional at Willamette. I hope you will accept this as a personal invitation to return for our Homecoming celebration in 1949."

G. HERBERT SMITH President On behalf of the future alumni of Willamette university we wish to encourage you to come to the campus for our Homecoming celebration this fall.

Realizing that it is often difficult for you to return at any set time we wish to make our invitation as broad as the year is long. We hope that you will come on the campus whenever you can to see the recent improvements, meet old friends, and make new friends.

Cordially,
RUSSELL TRIPP, '50

TRAVIS CROSS, Director of Information and Alumni Affairs BEVERLY LYTLE, PAT KOUPAL, Assistants

Realizing you are vitally interested in Willamette university and inasmuch as most of the readers of this publication are members of the Willamette Family by graduation or adoption, your new Director of Alumni Affairs welcomes this opportunity to discuss briefly with you the chief problems facing him in his initial year with the University.

Before we can ever tell the Willamette story, we must have means of communication. We are prepared to publish an Alumnus publication three times a year. We want to inform you of events on campus that may interest you. We'd like to keep you posted on what your classmates are doing, where they've been, and what's going on at Willamette today.

But the time and effort of publishing these facts are in vain if we don't know where to send the finished product. That is the chief problem in the Alumni office today. Dozens of Alumnus publications are returned. So, when you marry or move, please let us hear from you. More important, however, is the building up of our address file. We currently have but a fraction of number of persons who have attended Willamette. Won't you drop us a card when you meet a fellow alum who says he never hears from us?

We cannot overemphasize the need for a bigger "class notes" section. Without doubt, it is the most-read page of our effort. Unconsciously you probably hear or read weekly of a dozen Willamette alumni who can qualify for "Alumni of Achievement" columns. Marriages, family increases, job promotions, adventurous travels-all of these things are news to our far-flung classmates. If you don't know the class, we can look it up. Don't put off writing us until the next issue. If you know an item for the class-notes, write us today for the next edition.

Enough of the difficulties. It's Homecoming Time around the campus. A special effort is being made to make your visit an enjoyable one. But to those of you who are too far away to join us, may I extend a cordial invitation to you to correspond with this office and to drop in on us at any time. We stand ready to serve your needs and desires. The Willamette Alumni group can become an active, live-wire organization. The California Bay Area bunch proved that a few weeks ago when 142 turned out for a "Summer's End" picnic.

Let's revive those memories of Willamette days. If a group in Podunk Center would be interested in forming an Alumni club, let us know. We can send you Glee records, Oregon State Highway Commission films, a spanking new campus movie, a 10-year old Willamette film, and weekly calendars to let you know what's going on.

The Spirit of Willamette is very much alive. Won't you share it with us? Meanwhile, Welcome Home!

Alums-Students End Summer With Picnic in San Mateo

A "Summer's-End" picnic at the George H. Atkinson home in San Mateo, California in August drew some 142 Willamette alumni, students, parents and friends. Movies, swimming, tennis, bowling and Freshman Glee records entertained the group.

Two Willamette faculty members-Dr. Martha Springer and Mr. Howard Hinde-were in attendance as was new Director of Information Travis Cross. Dean Emeritus Frank Erickson surprised everyone with a personal appearance, having come from Santa Barbara, his current home. Student Body Council members Chuck Patterson and Patsy Howard were in attend-

So successful was the pienic that plans are tentatively drawn for a repeat performance next year. Meanwhile, word is awaited from the campus as to Dr. Smith's contemplated California trip shortly after the first of the year. The Bay Area Alumni hope to meet with him on that occasion.

Dr. Smith will attend the Stanford university president's installation October 7 but plans to return to California in 1950.

Anyone desiring a 1948 Wallulah may write to that publication's office at Willamette and the volume will be sent for postage.

A Polish girl whose father was killed by the Germans in 1939 and whose mother died three years later, arrived on the Willamette campus late in September.

Genowefa Krzywkowska, 23, was met in New York by James Kress Anderson of the Willamette alumni organization and she arrived in Portland by Miss Krzywkowska's sponsorship is a combination of the campus YWCA, Wesley fellowship, Panhellenic and the University. She will live at sorority houses, the first being the Pi Beta Phi house.

The Czechoslovakians arrived on campus as The Alumnus went to press. Already in classes are Astrid Tarem, Estonia; Stephen Chia Kwan, China; Charles Chong, Singapore, Malaya; Mike Sweeney, Ireland, and Ben Koh,

All of these students have outstanding records. Willamette is fortunate to have the opportunity for an exchange of views both in classroom and in informal discussions.

Paeth Urges Alum Student Search

The director of admissions at Willamette, Charles A. Paeth, jr., said last week that he will appreciate any advance information concerning individuals who are potential Willamette university students.

"It is always a pleasure to have alumni write to us concerning potential students," Paeth said, adding that he would gladly send application materials upon request.

Paeth will make substantially the same tour as last year with the exception that he will be in southwestern Washington the week of October 31.

Director of Admissions Charles A. Paeth, Jr., has scheduled visits in the following vicinities for the months of November and December.

Alumni wishing to contact the Director may see him in the respective towns at the dates listed:

S.W. Washington-

Oct. 31—Camas, Vancouver; Nov. 1—Kelso, Longview; Nov. 2 —Chehalis, Centralia; Nov. 3— Hoquiam, Aberdeen; Nov. 4— Olympia, Shelton.

Monk Working in Venezuela; Tells of Activities There

Dr. Cecil R. Monk, professor of biology at Willamette university, is now in Caracus, Venezuela on a two years' leave of absence. Dr. Monk left the university last year to organize the Department of Biology at Central university in Venezuela.

In a recent letter received from Dr. Monk he states that Central university is not a university in the same sense as our North American universities, but rather it is a loosely federated group of more or less autonomous faculties, each of which is governed by its own faculty council. The deans of the several faculties together with the rector, make up the university council, the supreme authority of the university.

The work has been moving rather slowly, Dr. Monk reports, due to red tape and also the lack of laboratory equipment and lack of students.

With Dr. Monk in South America are his wife and three children, Lenore, Lawrence and Lois. The two eldest children, Lawrence and Lois, have been attending the Presbyterian Mission school which is known as the Colegio Americano.

The Monks' main problem in Venezuela has been housing. Although they have been there over a year they have not found a permanent residence. At the moment they are living in a vacation house while the occupants are visiting in the United States and Canada.

The Monks plan to be back in Salem next year.

Stackhouse New Grid Boss

New Willamette Director of Athletics and Head Football Coach Chester R. Stackhouse is described for the Alumni in the sports section of this publication.

The former University of Michigan staff member arrived on the Willamette campus in August. He will be on hand for the alumni doings Homecoming Weekend to greet members of the Willamette family.

Said Oregon State College Coach Kip Taylor concerning the appointment: "At the University of Michigan he (Stackhouse) was responsible for the development of many conference and national intercollegiate champions. I sincerely congratulate both the institution and the community in the selection of such an ideal individual."

Nov. 11-Whitman at Salem. Nov. 18-Pacific at Salem.

Enviable Record

Let's take a look at the record! Here is Chester R. Stackhouse's overall high school and collegiate tabulations:

Football: 93 wins, 23 defeats Basketball: 180 wins, 47 de-

Track: 64 dual and triangular meets without defeat.

Stackhouse Plan Is to Entertain

Emphasizing that he does not want gate-support merely for the sake of loyalty, but rather because his club entertains-Coach Chester Stackhouse has introduced a Michigan version of the T-formation to Willamette's grid-

Preferring not to label it by any sports writer's moniker, Stackhouse describes his formation as one that uses a T frequently but has a lot of variations with much use of flankers, man-in-motion plays, and forward and lateral passing.

"Stack" admits that good ball clubs are built over a span of years, and his gridmen this year have gone a long way toward mastering the precision timing necessary in the Stackhouse system.

Homecoming Fray Against Lewis and Clark October 29

"Chester R. Stackhouse, a triple-threat coach", is the way the new Director of Athletics and Football Coach at Willamette university has been described. The triple-threat qualities are:

1.-He knows his football, knows it well;

2.-He has successful business background;

3.—He is a man with inspirational leadership.

Athletic Plant Awaits Stands

Alums returning to the Willamette campus will want to visit the new athletic plant, now awaiting grandstand construc-tion, located at the corner of Mission and South Winter streets.

The turf for the football area, the infield in the baseball diamond and the cinder track are all top-notch sports fans agree. The track has a 220-yard straightaway and cement curbings. The football turf is laid out for Oregon weather with excellent drainage facilities.

Grandstand construction is all that is needed to put the Bearcat aggregations on one of the northwest's finest plants.

SPARKS AWARDED

Physical education department head, Les Sparks, was presented a blanket, a jacket, and a money order at the annual alumni dinner held June 11, for his 26 years of meritorious service to Willamette. The funds for the gifts of appreciation were contributed by ex-Bearcat athletes in the Northwest. Les' good work is clearly evidenced by the numerous excellent coaching assignments landed by his grads throughout the state.

In his short while at the helm of the Bearcat brigade, Stackhouse has acquired a solid team and town following. Popular as a speaker, Stackhouse has made the circle of civic groups.

Nicknamed "Stack," the 44year old Michigan native came to Willamette from Lincoln university in Pennsylvania. Prior to his two year tenure at Lincoln, "Stack" was for six years on the staff at the University of Michigan.

Before his successful role with the Wolverines, Stackhouse won fame as a top-level coach in Michigan's fastest prep circuits. He coached at Cadillac and Saginaw high schools.

Track, often shelved in small schools, will get a shot in the arm from Stackhouse, for the broad-shouldered mentor is credited with the development of several Olympic stars when tutoring the Michigan fleet-feet. The "Athletic Journal" described Stackhouse in 1942 as one of the nation's foremost authorities on track. Suffice to say that his record shows nary a defeat in dual or triangular competition in all his coaching years.

When Stackhouse reported to Willamette in August he immediately began an overhauling job. Armed with overalls and paint cans, the genial guy redecorated the entire locker room setup. Protective equipment and other purchases immediately indicated the new head man will put individual interests first. He is a stickler for mass participation, rugged conditioning, splitsecond timing, and speed.

With locker-room signs such as "Nothing Is Impossible" and "There Have Been 155 pound All-American Linemen" posted in conspicuous places, the tone is set for this year's Homecoming Game.

The Stackhouse family consists of the Mrs., busily fixing up her new home, Daughter Ann, who enrolled in Willamette as a freshman this year, and Son Don, a junior at Salem high.

The new director replaces Jerry Lillie who moved on to the University of Oregon where he is an assistant coach.

Dept. of State Selects Pair

Harold W. Adams of Salem and Robert Sayre of Beaverton, both graduates of Willamette University, have been selected to receive internships with the state department in Washington, D.C., this fall.

The two Oregon boys were among 22 selected from 800 applicants, only 100 of which were interviewed, to receive the internship. The state department initiated the plan last spring when application forms were sent to various schools throughout the nation for recommendations.

Sayre and Adams will train in the department for one year, rotating assignments. During this period it will be determined whether they are best qualified for service in Washington, D.C., or overseas duty.

Sayre received his diploma at Willamette in the school of liberal arts last June in the field of political science and speech. Among his many accomplishments was winning of the national debate championship at West Point last spring. He had enrolled in the Harvard law school for the fall semester but changed his plans when chosen for the internship.

Adams was graduated from the Willamette law school last June. He was one of 104 Oregon law graduates who passed the bar examination this fall.

College of Music In Active Year

Four new faculty members are on the College of Music staff this year. Willis C. Gates, who received his Ph.D. degree from University of North Carolina, is teaching violin, courses in conducting and orchestration, and directing the University orches-. . Clorinda Topping, one of the outstanding teachers and soprano soloists of the Northwest, will teach voice and direct the University Women's chorus Jean Fraquharson, who received her master's degree from the University of Michigan School of Music, will assist in piano and teach first-year theory.

Five music graduates of 1948 did graduate work last year: four of the members, Wallace Bjorke, Reid Shelton, Katherine Schissler and Geraldine Schmoker attended the School of Music at the University of Michigan where they are completing requirements for the Master of Music degree. Bjorke was given a fellowship, Shelton was understudy for the tenor roll in the presentation of the opera "La-Boheme," given in the summer . . . Michael Carolan continued his study in New York, appearing on the "Arthur Godfrey Talent" broadcast, coastto-coast.

The Willamette University A Cappella Choir plans to tour northwest Oregon and western Washington. Bob O'Neill, Chehalis, is business manager. Earl Fedje is choir president. The following year the choir plans to visit northeastern Oregon and central Idaho, returning to California for a tour in 1952.

A new five-thousand dollar Aeolian-Skinner practice organ has been installed in the College of Music building.

Benes Summer Prof at WU

Dr. Bohus Benes, a Czech refugee and the nephew of the late Dr. Edward Benes, former president of Czechoslovakia, gave a series of three lectures at the Willamette summer session.

Dr. Benes' subjects included the (1) cooperation of Czechoslovakia, through Pres. Benes, with England and France (2) Communist "coupe de force" which took over Czechoslovakia in '48 and (3) relationships between the U. S. and his country.

In '48 Dr. Benes taught politics at the University of California at Berkeley and plans to return for the present year also.

Seattle Club Active, Vote

The Puget Sound Willamette Association held its annual picnic at Ravenna Park, Seattle, August 21, with about 50 members and their families present.

Dr. Robert M. Gatke, head of political science department of the University was guest of the association and gave a vivid picture of present life at Willamette, and the Willamette of former years was described by Mrs. Lottie Allyn Peringer, who received a teacher's certificate in 1886, Paul W. Beach, '05, George B. Simpson, '07, Thomas Paxton, '08, Dr. Roy R. Knotts, '08, Dr. A. George Nace, 09, and Viola Fisher Otis, '10.

The Association voted to change its name from the Seattle Willamette Association to the Puget Sound Willamette Alumni Association. The following officers were elected: President, Al Bond, '26; vice-presidents: northern district, Helen McInturf Lawson, '23; Seattle district, Floyd Johnston, '48; southern district, Lila Swafford Moser, '05; secretary-treasurer, Gladys Hanson Smith, '35.

Class Notes

George B. Simpson, '07, was recently chosen Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of Washington.

Al Bond, '26, has resigned his position as farm director for Station KIRO, Seattle, and will be associated with Washington State College, Pullman, as radio extension specialist.

Shasta Daylight Campus Potential

A factor affecting the campus in a favorable way is the speed and comfort with which students, parents and alumni can travel between Salem and San Francisco aboard the new Shast Daylight.

A 15-car train, the new mode of transportation covers the route in 14 hours—leaving Portland early in the morning and arriving that night. A twin train covers the same route daily.

Potential for special alumni cars for homecoming, Freshman Glee, graduation, etc., is increased with the Southern Pacific facilities.

Gymnasium Fixed For 1950 Season

A new paint job was completed this fall in the gymnasium, portable bleachers now adorn the walls and a new clock is plainly visible.

Athletic officials are toying with the idea of glass backboards to eliminate blind spots for spectators who sit at the ends of the gym. John Lewis, who heads up the hoop sport, says he will miss the Johnson brothers this year and he does not expect Ted Johnson to return from a lucrative job in Astoria in time for basketball eligibility. However, material looks good for this year, Lewis said. The 'Cats shared the conference crown last year.

Czech Couple Arrives Here; Joins the Willamette Family

Adding to the cosmopolitan atmosphere of the Willamette university campus this fall are two Czechoslovakian students, Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Pospisil.

The two students were sponsored to this country by the World Student Service Fund, which submitted their names to a group of five Portland churches, the First Christian, First Congregational, First Methodist, First Presbyterian and First Unitarian, This group, which was organized last spring to bring displaced students to Oregon, will pay tuition for Mr. Pospisil. Willamette university will handle tuition for Mrs. Pospisil.

The couple will live in an apartment near the campus while attending school. Mr. Pospisil is an upper division student working for his Bachelor of Arts degree. Music, Art, Philosophy and English are the main interests of Mrs. Pospisil, who is a lower division student.

Mrs. Pospisil, now 26, attended the Olomouc school for girls in Czechoslovakia and has passed her college qualification exame with high marks. She has had eight years of German, five years of French, besides a good educational background.

Mr. Pospisil was born in Olomouc, Moravia in 1923, the son of a lawyer and member of the National Czechoslovakian party. At the beginning or the Nazi regime his father was arrested and interned at Dachu, Buchenwald and Spillberg.

While the Nazis were in power all Czech universities were closed. From 1939 until 1945 Pospisil spent his time farming to escape work in forced labor.

At the close of the war in 1945 the Pospisils were married. He

Enrollment Set Law Notes At 1190 Total

Registration at Willamette has shown the effect of a tapering enrollment, in accordance with long-range plans for the development of the university.

Fall semester figures indicated that a grand total of 1190 students had registered with one week remaining-that figure including students taking only one course.

A breakdown shows 560 students in lower division, liberal arts; 428 in upper division, liberal arts; 43 in lower division music; 39 in upper division music and 120 in the college of law.

So You'd Like to Form Willamette Alum Club

A brief organizational handbook describing an organizing plan for Willamette alumni groups is being prepared by the director of alumni affairs.

The bay area of California alumni are now second only to Salem in size and activity. If you would care to organize an alum group, please write the director of alumni affairs on the campus.

Willamette's College of Law is featured in an article in the "Journal of Legal Education," a publication of the Association of American Law Schools. The edition is printed at Duke university and describes Willamette's legal aid clinic, its practice trial plan, and its legal series handbook.

Danish Girl Marries

News has reached the campus of the marriage of Jytte Adolphson of Denmark, who attended Willamette for one year, to Mastoufa Areff. They are living in Corvallis where he is taking work in hotel management and food preparation. Prior to her marriage, Jytte realized her ambition of working in the embassy in Copenhagen.
