

ALUMNI TO BATTLE WITH VARSITY ON TUESDAY, OCT. 7

Chauncy Bishop Lining up Former Willamette Stars.

FRANCIS TO HOLD DOWN HIS OLD END POSITION

University Team Has But Little Show of Piling up Score Against the Expert Grads Who Are Planning to Whitewash Younger Set.

With the alumni game only a week off, "Chauncey" Bishop is again spending sleepless nights planning the plays that will be used to carry the pigskin over the varsity goal line in the big battle next week.

For several months past, Attorney Robin Day has been corresponding with all the football men among Willamette's alumni, and the result is that many of the old-timers will again grace their Alma Mater's gridiron.

Among the veterans that will line up against the varsity next Tuesday will be Reeves, Saunders, Turner, Bishop, Francis, Ford, and many others who have not been definitely selected.

The varsity line-up is still an indefinite quantity and from the present indications there will be no trouble for the former Willamette stars to pile up a large score against their successors at present representing the institution on the gridiron.

There have been many big day dreams floating around the campus lately concerning the marvelous changes taking place in the team and how we should capture the Northwest championship and do other wonderful things.

As a matter of fact, we are still as weak as we were a week ago, and until some new men are added to the team there is not much hope of performing any of the miracles that the students with the large imaginations have been speaking of lately.

VARSIITY BOOK STORE

Glenn MacCaddam Opens New Enterprise in Waller Hall.

The Varsity Book store, managed by Glenn MacCaddam, 15, is now a reality and, judging by the crowds that have been jamming its doors of late, bids fair to be a permanency on the campus.

This new enterprise is one that has been needed for some time and deserves the support and patronage of all the students in every department of W. U. It cannot exist without that.

Of course, "Mac" cannot carry everything in stock that will be used by the students, but he can order anything "made of paper" and get it as reasonably as any dealer in town, and he will do it at a great deal more accommodatingly, for the motto of "Foghorn Mac" is "Gentility".

"Cherub" Byrd, ex '15 left Saturday for the east where he will attend Olivet college at Olivet, Michigan this winter. He will not return for two years.

SONGS OF OLD W. U. TO BE PUBLISHED

Senior Class to Have Charge of the Collecting and Issuing of Melodies.

After much talk about the great need of a song book containing all the Willamette songs, and many flourishing efforts on the part of different students and organizations to undertake the work of publishing the same, this year's Senior class has finally taken up the idea and the students are now assured of a song book containing all the lays that have been offered in Old Willamette's praise.

There are songs without number that have been written about the school and many rank among the best college songs of the day, both in composition and music.

At present the work is in the hands of Herman Clark, who is busy searching for new songs and sorting out the old ones.

LAW SCHOOL OPENS NEXT MONDAY, OCT. 6

New Courses to Be Tested and Standards Shoved Skyward This Term.

The Law school will open this year with an enrollment numbering somewhere between forty and sixty students. According to the statements of the new registrar, Mr. Ernest Blue, the requirements for admission this year are at least a successful completion of four years of high school work. The school will be divided, as before into the Junior and Senior departments but the course of study will be of longer duration than before, lasting thirty-four rather than thirty-two weeks.

The courses have been materially bettered for the coming season. The time that has been spent on the less important subjects will be shortened and that on the more vital topics, will be greatly increased thus giving the students more beneficial results for their year's work. The study of "Code and Practice" is to be followed for fifty-one hours in contrast

FRESHMEN MAKE DEBUT INTO COLLEGE SOCIETY

Numerous Eats and Good Program Provided—No More "Stags" Left on Campus.

Friday evening between the hours of 8 and 10:30 Eaton Hall was the scene of the first formal social function of the college year, when the Y. M. and Y. W. entertained in honor of the new students of the 'Varsity.

The halls were most artistically decorated for the occasion, a color scheme of scarlet and green being carried out with dahlias and ferns. The stairway was a mass of greenery, while great bowls of flowers and ferns adorned the halls. The guests were greeted at the entrance by Miss Mildred Bartholomew and Mr. Paul Irvine. In the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. Gaylord Patterson representing the faculty, and the officers of the two associations standing according to their rank. They were Mr. George Van de Vert, Mrs. Lola Belle Cooke-Bellinger, Mr. Eric P. Boit, Miss Kate Barton, Mr. George A. Odgers, Miss Mary Cone, Mr. Ben C. Neustral, Miss Helen Wastell, Mr. Tinkham Gilbert. At the foot of the line Miss Ruth Young and Mr. Paul Todd presented each guest a dainty little autograph booklet, the cover of which was cardinal embossed with gold.

A delightful musical program was rendered. Miss Ava McMahon sang a solo; Miss Gertrude Eakin played several piano solos from Wagner, after which Mr. Lester Proebstel entertained with selections from Beethoven. Mrs. Bellinger gave a short but very cordial speech of welcome.

Dainty refreshments consisting of ices and wafers were served in the den by Miss Eleanor Ruby, Miss Lu-

EXECUTIVE BOARD IS COMPLETELY FILLED

Four New Members Are Old Students Acquainted With Life at University.

The first general student body election was held last Friday, Sept. 26th. The four members of the executive committee, from the student body, at large were chosen. Kate Barton, Emery Doane, Ivan McDaniel and Glenn McCaddam were the successful contestants. These students, together with the officers of the student body, the Collegian editor and one faculty member, comprise the executive board.

This board held its first meeting Monday afternoon and selected Prof. Walsh as the faculty member. Because Paul Manning, manager-elect of the Collegian, was forced to leave this year, it was necessary to elect a new man. Seth Axley was given the position.

MYSTERY REGARDING RULING CLEARED UP

Information Gained Without Resorting to the Use of Clairvoyant Power.

The editor welcomes all communications from the student body which deal with questions of vital importance. Information will be given whenever possible. The following letter was recently received: "Editor the Collegian:

"The pamphlets embodying general information as to the university standards and requirements, which have been distributed to all students upon registration, recall the fact that certain unintelligible portions of the faculty rulings of last year have never been revised, so that nothing short of clairvoyant power is sufficient for interpreting them.

"We refer specifically to the definition of major and minor offices (found in the pamphlet under the head of Eligibility). Under major officers we find, after an enumeration of specific ones, the phrase,

OLD BRAZEN MONSTER TO CALL GRIDIRON WARRIORS ON FIELD

Executive Committee Takes Action on Long Delayed Subject.

LARGE BELFRY TO BE ERECTED ON FIELD

Clanging of Deep Throated Demon Will Announce Our Rallies and Victories—New Traditions Are Started.

At last the old chapel bell, for so long hidden under a layer of dust that has been accumulating ever since Waller Hall was decapitated, is to have its place of abode changed.

Before many weeks have elapsed the campus will reverberate with the brazen tones of the old historic bell. A committee has been appointed by the executive board to receive contracts for the removal of the brazen monster and will report the same immediately.

The stimulus that the enterprise received last year soon died out because of lack of interest on the part of those involved in the project. Without doubt the first big rally of this year will be announced by the clanging of this deep-throated demon of the musical world. Imagine the thrills of joy that will run up and down your spine when you hear this huge bell calling you to support "Old Willamette U."

A huge rustic scaffold is to be erected near the southeast corner of the Varsity field about midway between bleachers.

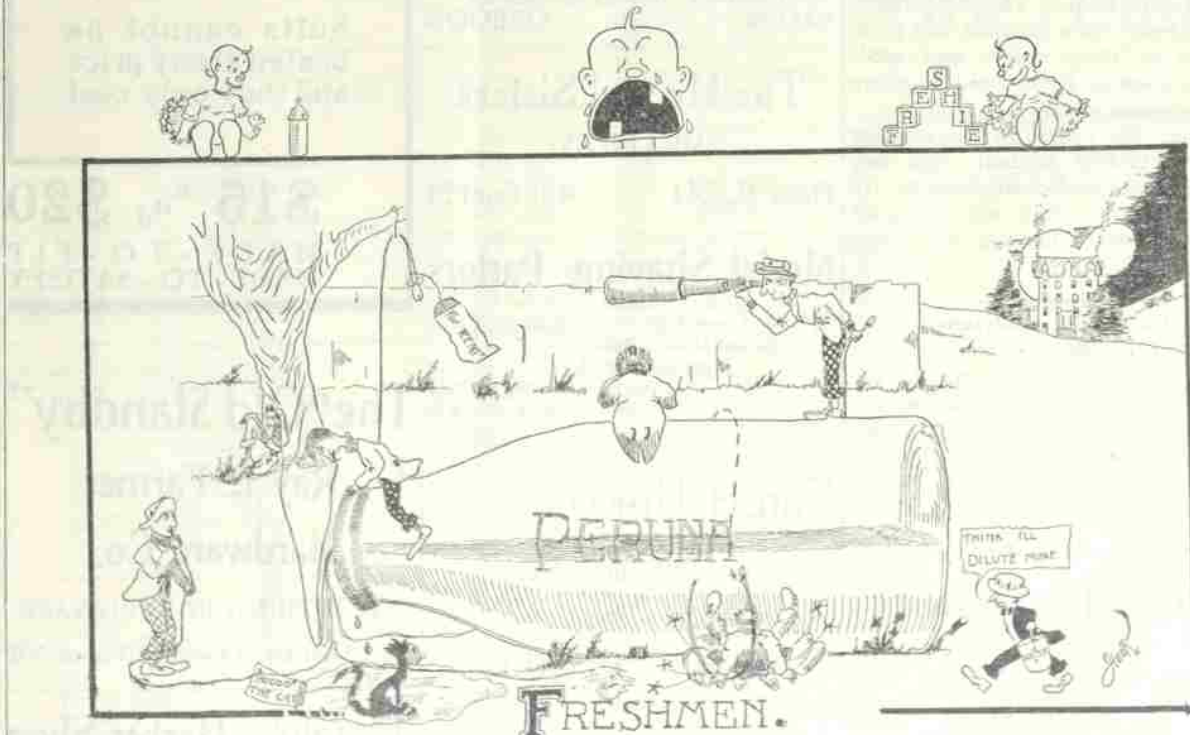

The decree is that this bell shall not be sounded upon mere ordinary occasions but rather reserved for the more important games and other unusual affairs.

To Willamette's many landmarks this would indeed be an attractive addition and one long desired by the student body. You desire this—will you make good? Will you lend encouragement to the proposition? If you will, failure will be impossible. Here's hoping this new impulse will have a sure destiny! Get it up—we want some noise.

Lund Plays Mermaid.

Last Saturday morning a party consisting of the Misses Wastell and Harding, and Messrs. Lund and Van Slyke went canoeing on the Willamette. Lund's canoe turned turtle; Lund turned fish and ate water bugs, while his fair companion turned life-saver. Well—he is thoroughly dried out by this time—and his blond hair has faded but little.

YOUR OPPORTUNITY—GRASP IT.

The first publication of the Collegian staff appears in this issue. Several important positions are yet to be filled. Students showing special newspaper ability will be assigned these places. They will have the power of selecting their own assistants. The old students who have a knowledge of the work have been given department editorships. These editors shall have their various assistants who are responsible to the heads of their respective divisions. Special assignment reporters will be selected from the new students. They will be advanced as fast as they make good. A competitive system will be used during the year and those holding office will do so by virtue of their own ability alone. Several new students have signified their intention of supporting the staff. We want more recruits—men and women with grit and perseverance—the sort of people that always make good—the sort that we always welcome on the paper.

One additional fact should also be emphasized. This is your paper, published by the student body of which you are a member. Contribute to it. Pull for it. Unite with us in making the Collegian a benefit, not only to you alone, but to the faculty, alumni and our advertisers as well.

NOW FOR A "RALLY MANAGER."

Willamette will meet some of the strongest teams of the Northwest this fall. It is only fair to say that all in old W. U. wish to have a fine student representation at the time of these contests. Rallies are a necessity—but is it fair to put all the work of organizing the students upon one man? Heretofore the labor has fallen upon the shoulders of the Yell Leader. While the student body has realized that this is too much for one individual to attend to, still no method to facilitate matters has been formulated.

We want to have some rousing good times this year. Why not have the students select one man from the student body to act as "Rally Manager"? The work of this person should be to originate new and clever stunts for all rallies and to carry out appropriate plans with the aid of the students and the co-operation of the Yell Leader.

Moreover, why not allow the Yell Leader and "Rally Manager" to select an assistant, a man who shall aid both of them, and in this manner become familiar with the duties of both of the said offices? Then, if this man makes good, he shall be given the position of Yell Leader the following fall. We will have an experienced leader on hand at the beginning of each year and do away with much of the delay which might interrupt the new year's work. Give us your ideas on the subject.

INVESTIGATE—THEN JOIN.

Now is the "rushing" season of the literary societies. All the various organizations will present to you the chief merits of their particular literary group. It will pay you to investigate thoroughly the systems, records and standing of each society before joining. Spend a little time now in doing this and prevent your making a bad beginning. Be sure, however, to ally yourself with one of the societies, for no person's university life is complete without some forensic training. Moreover, the social events during the year, such as joint receptions, stags and launch rides, are not to be overlooked.

A WORTHY UNDERTAKING.

The next thing on the program will be the Co-eds' Debating Team. Just imagine! Four young ladies trying to argue on the same question! With graceful gestures and winning glances the judges will be hypnotized and forget to render a decision. But Willamette can turn out an excellent co-eds' team and it is hoped that the girls will take as much interest in the affair as the male contingent of the student body seems to. Girls, don't let the fellows get all the glories. We want a co-ed team, one that will bring honor to old Willamette.

FROSH—HELP THE LADIES.

A progressive alumnus entered the editor's sanctum, divested himself of his headgear, ensconced himself upon the editor's desk, and spoke as follows:

"Ever since I first heard of Willamette the spectators who come to the football games have had to wade through about two feet of sticky Oregon mud, and swim through several miniature lakes before reaching the grandstand. Why not lay some sort of a walk to the seats this year, before the field gets muddy and sloppy?"

There is much truth in the above statement. Last year many of the ladies who desired to attend the football contests were forced to remain away because they were not acquainted with the art of swimming. Frosh, show your mettle—build that much-needed suspension bridge.

OREGON HAS NEW GRADUATE MANAGER FOR THIS SEASON

An important change from an athletic standpoint occurred last week at the University of Oregon, when Dean Walker, of Independence, Oregon, was chosen to succeed Mr. M. Geary, of Portland, as Graduate Manager. Mr. Geary resigned to take up the study of law at Columbia University, New York City.

In the years Mr. Geary has been handling things athletic at the U. of O., he has been a strong financier for the state University's undergraduate affairs, leaving his office with money matters in fine shape.

But best of all he has dealt most fairly with our athletic teams here and has made a host of friends by his sportsmanship, strengthening the friendly feeling toward the State University in this locality to a marked degree.

While regretting to lose Mr. Geary in his past capacity we wish him every success in the study of his chosen calling.

cille Kuntz, Miss Stella Graham and Miss Lottie Penn. The decorations in this room were cardinal and gold, dahlias of those colors and gold-shaded candles being used to carry out the color motif.

During the course of the evening several hundred students and faculty members paid their respects. In many ways the affair was the most brilliant social function of recent years.

Mrs. Walsh Entertains.

Last Wednesday afternoon Mrs. R. C. Walsh was at home to the faculty ladies and "old girls" in honor of Mrs. Walter De Bra. A very pleasant hour was spent. She was assisted in serving by the Misses Wastell and McMahon.

'Manager of any student body activity.' This seems sufficiently clear. According to student vernacular this would include managers of all athletic teams, and manager of debate, these being the activities fostered by the student body, as such. But, in the next paragraph, under minor officers, we find 'Managers of special student organizations, such as baseball and football.' And, knowing that baseball and football are student body activities, properly so-called, and not special student organizations, we are entirely at a loss to know where the faculty would draw the line between the two. Is the manager of debate to be regarded as a minor officer, as holding an office analogous to that of football or baseball manager, or is he a major officer, as 'manager of a student body activity'? The Glee Club manager obviously is a minor officer, representing a 'special student organization,' but is May Day manager, an infinitely less important office, to be considered major because the May Day festivities are a 'student body activity'?

"We do not doubt that the committee in drafting and the faculty in adopting these rulings knew rather definitely what they meant, but we would call to their attention the fact that by their vagueness and disregard for student vernacular, they have obscured their meaning from all others.

"The student body activities are not so numerous but that the principal offices could easily be classified, leaving no uncertainty, and it is respectfully suggested that this be done.

"PAUL HOMAN."

It is obvious that the difficulty in the interpretation of the entire subject in question hinges upon the meaning of the phrase "any student body activity." According to the "student vernacular," this phrase would include all activities fostered by the student body, whether or not this activity, when promulgated, included every student. That is, according to the communicated interpretation, the managers of all athletic teams and manager of debate should be major officers, because they are under student body control. It is seen from this interpretation that the writer determines the status of any activity by the fact that it is or is not supported financially by the student body. Although football, baseball, debate, et cetera, are student body activities in this sense, there is another way in which they are not. According to the committee, this term included only the activities in which the entire student body could participate, for example, manager of May Day holds a major office because the May Day affair includes both the men and women of the university.

Athletics, on the other hand, include only the men, and often only a very small percentage of them. The managers of different athletic teams, therefore, do not manage "student body activities," but, rather, they manage a "restricted activity," and in this sense are these "special student organizations." The office of debate manager is a minor one, but should the debate council foster a co-ed debate, then the office would become a major one.

A student body activity must be one which is not only supported by the student body, but also an activity in which all members may participate. If the student body desired to undertake the presentation of a play, for example, and elected a manager to handle the same, he would hold a major office. It is clear, therefore, that managers of class plays hold minor offices.

The communication suggests that it would be far better to classify our principal offices and thus do away with the vagueness of the term. The committee left the wording of these rulings as it is so that if the student body should undertake some new activity, it would not be necessary to make an especial ruling as to whether the manager would hold a minor or major office.

MOOSE HALL

Old Lausanne

New Girls Entertained.
Many and delightful are social affairs given at "Old Lausanne," but the one which always attracts most attention is the annual performance in "Cabbage Theatre."

The thrilling extravaganza "Too Many Engagements," was staged Saturday evening, Sept. 20th. The "new girls" as guests, were arrayed in original and artistic (?) costumes, all of the latest and most heathenish colors being in evidence.

"Where is my opera (laundry) bag?" "Doesn't this band box make a charming hat?" These were some of the peculiar questions overheard in passing through the halls.

But why all this excitement? The famous "Cabbage Theater Troupe" at last was ready. Miss Davis, the patroness, was exquisitely gowned and occupied a prominent (apple) box seat "en le parquet." The rest of the party contented themselves with seats in nigger heaven, or if finances permitted, the balcony. While the orchestra rendered the latest hit, "Beautiful Lady," the curtain was lifted. Every one was breathless! In those intense moments not even the leading man's pigtail, slipping from beneath his cap, or the streak of paint on the leading lady's nose, were noticed. Words cannot describe the histrionic ability of the actors from curtain rise to curtain fall.

The performance over, the candidates were put through some thrilling stunts and then invited to partake of the "love feast," which made them forever members of Lausanne Club.

Miss Harrison, who has been visiting her sister, Miss Evadene Harrison, returned to her home in Oregon City Tuesday morning.

Miss Electa Chapman was the dinner guest of Miss Leila Lent Sunday last.

Miss Pauline Hicks spent the weekend at Oregon City.

Miss Pearl Bradley '13, for four years a member of Lausanne Club and last year's president, spent a few days visiting old haunts. Miss Bradley has accepted a position as instructor of English and history in Lebanon High School.

Now that initiatory stunts are over and fits of homesickness are a thing of the past, the all-prevailing desire for system resolved itself in the regular semi-annual election of officers. The following are the results: President, Mildred Bartholomew; vice president, Ava McMahon; secretary, Anne Ketel; treasurer, Avis Ogden; sergeant-at-arms, Lucille McCulley; Collegian reporter, Leila Lent.

At the suggestion of Miss Davis, a new office, that of devotional chairman, was established. Miss Elsie Phillip was elected to this position.

Miss Ada Mark '13 is spending this week at Willamette.

Juniors Devour Hot Dogs.
The Junior class held one of its delightful picnic suppers on the banks of Old Willamette last Thursday evening. A crackling fire, with all the fun it suggests, was a feature of the evening. The party, carefully chaperoned by Miss Page, returned early. This was the first class affair of the season and predicts a jolly round of entertainments for the year.

William Oldenburg ex'16 is missed by his many friends. He has joined the school ma'am profession and is teaching school this winter.

Adelantes Hold High Jinks

The Adelantes gathered in their halls last Friday afternoon for the second meeting of the year. The roll which was answered by school gossip, most of which had to do with the "seventeens," caused much merriment. The members and visitors were then entertained by receiving an insight into some of Judy Abbotts experiences when she went to college. From Pres. Eakin's office, where she was solemnly informed as to the rules and customs of conduct, she was sent to the Biology Department of Prof. Alice Fields and learned the class distinctions between Busy Bees and Busy Bugs. She sat entranced with awe and admiration during a real college serenade. On visiting the Sociology Department she learned from Prof. Florence Page the essentials of etiquette and table manners. She then heard a profound lecture in the Natural Sciences by Prof. Ruth Hodge, after which we were informed that she would be honored by a degree of three letters. She then registered in music with Miss Flora Cone, Dean of the College of Music. The audience appreciated the fact that the first lesson was a demonstration of the Dean's musical talent. After a short recess a business meeting was held. In keeping with the season the Adelantes will hold their State Fair next Friday, the entrance to which requires no membership ticket.

Jacob Stocker Will Preach.
Jacob Stocker will preach at the Evangelical Association church, corner of Seventeenth and Chemeketa streets on Sunday, October 5, morning and evening. The attendance of friends and students will be duly appreciated by Mr. Stocker.

Webbs Have Classy Program

At the regular meeting of the Webs, last Wednesday evening, was rendered the first literary program of the year. The first number on the program was an entertaining clarinet solo by Paul Irvine. This was followed by a paper, "The New Year," given by George Odgers. To afford variety, the next number was "Jewett Wit" by its namesake, Howard Jewett. A reading by Harry Savage then followed and was succeeded by an excellently rendered vocal solo, given by Roland Pfaff. One of Mr. Proebstal's enjoyable and educational lectures on the "Modern Dramatists" then held the attention of the audience and was followed by a piano solo rendered by Bruce McDaniel. Arnold Hall's original poems then held full sway until the Coonville Duo made its appearance and monopolized the floor.

The program was followed by five minutes of lively parliamentary practice with Mr. Gilkey, the Student Body President, in the chair.

All business was postponed in order to give the old and new men a chance to sample real "Web eats."
