

“Hail Willamette, My Willamette”

“Hail Willamette, first and best.

Day-spring of the Golden West!

Sound her praises, youths and maidens, in your song;

Tell her glorious works afar,

Tell how great her triumphs are,

Tell the world that all our hearts to her belong.”

Proem

A bright and glorious future is awaiting our New Willamette.

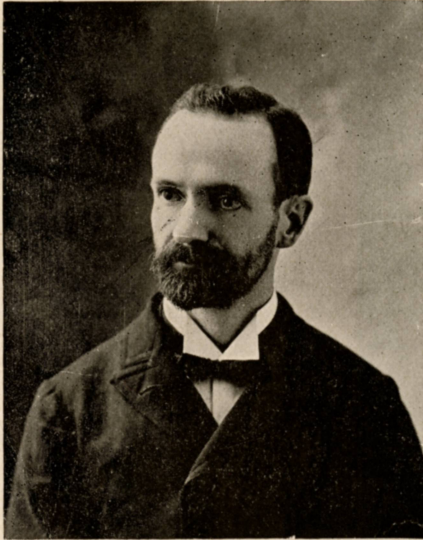

The purpose of this book is to portray the wonderful progress our University has made in the past, and to give the reader a partial conception of her future greatness.

Dedication

To our beloved President, Dr. John H. Coleman, who is making Willamette one of the great Universities of the Northwest, this, our "New Willamette," is dedicated.

The Reverend John Hamline Coleman, D. D., President of Willamette University.

*J. T. Matthews, A. M.,
Dean of the College of Liberal Arts.*

Willamette University

WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY is on the highway to a great future. Through years of severe struggle she has remained faithful to her trust and has won a glorious victory. Now, her reward is greater than the highest expectations of her friends.

In the year 1853 Willamette University was established by an Act of the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Oregon. Our forefathers were men of keen insight and knew that a Christian University would be the need of the youth of the Northwest.

Since the year 1902 Willamette University has had a remarkable growth. At that time Dr. J. H. Coleman was elected President of Old Willamette. For the past five years amidst great discouragements Dr. Coleman has labored unceasingly for the University. He undertook a Herculean task. The results are marvelous. Not only has he raised the standard of Old Willamette to a higher plane, but several new college buildings have been erected upon the Campus.

In 1902 our University had one college building, eighteen students in the College of Liberal Arts, and only twenty professors. Besides this there was a debt of $43,000. Willamette has now four well-equipped college buildings, one hundred thirteen students in the College of Liberal Arts, forty-five professors, and is entirely free from debt. In the several colleges of the University there are five hundred and seventy-one students registered.

The old Liberal Arts Building.

*C. O. Boyer, A. B.
Secretary Board of Trustees.*

A new building for the College of Liberal Arts is to be erected in the near future. It is to be of white pressed brick and is to cost about $50,000. The building is to be thoroughly modern and up-to-date, containing large class rooms, laboratories, and lecture rooms. Several rooms will be reserved for a museum and one large room, especially adapted for the purpose, will be fitted up for a library. In the center of this college building is to be an auditorium large enough to accommodate the graduating exercises of the various colleges.

There have been established in the past year a School of Pharmacy, also a Teachers' College, with Professor W. E. Kirk as Dean.

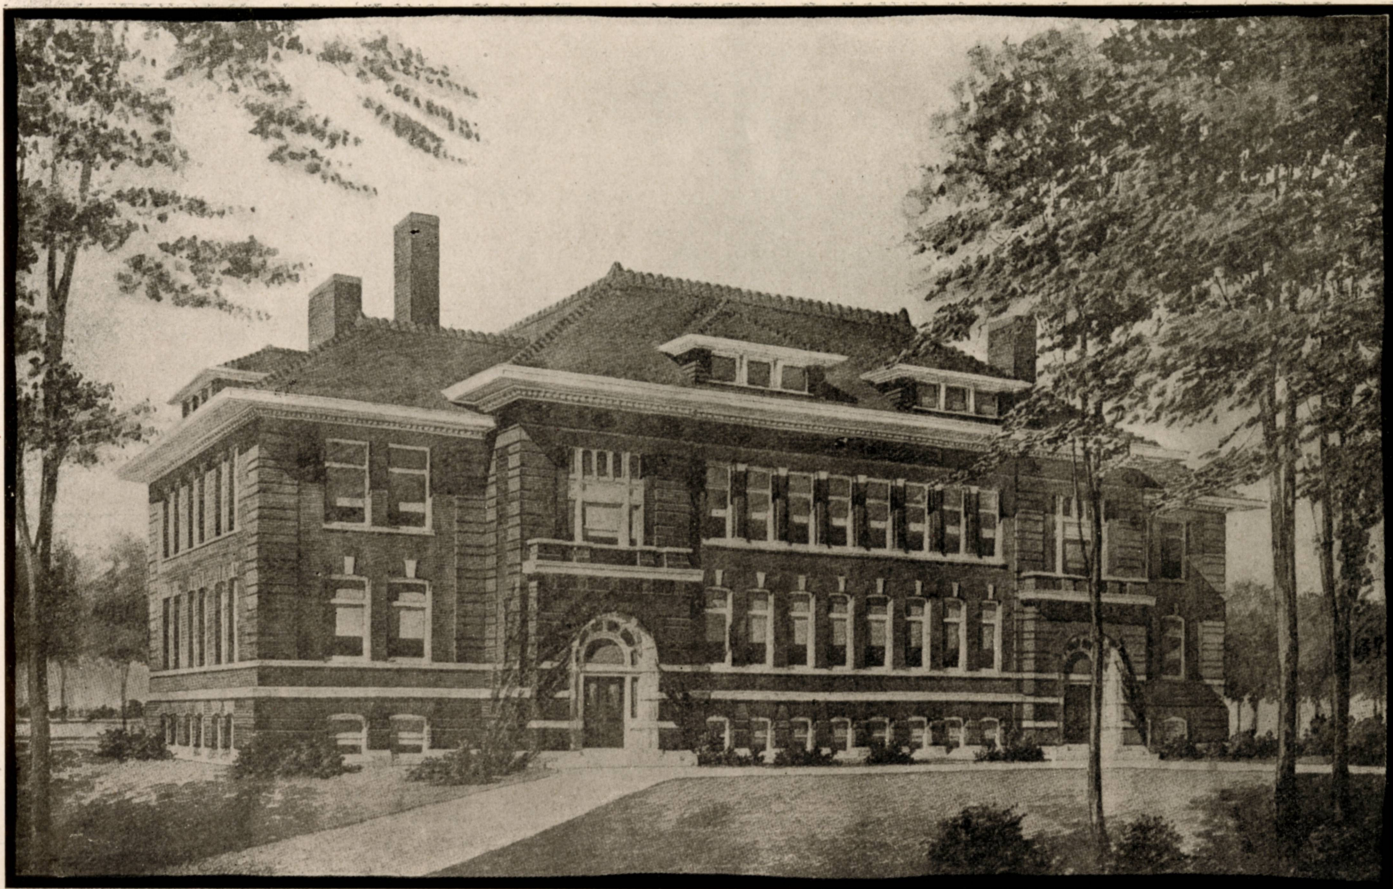

There has also been established in the past year a "Willamette Summer School" at Newport, Oregon. This will be a delightful place to study, as it is near the Pacific Ocean and will be kept cool by the sea breezes. Here also will soon be erected a permanent building for the Marine Laboratory of Willamette University.

Within the past year an endowment of $100,000 for the University has been started. Seventy-five thousand dollars have already been raised. The remaining $25,000 will be secured in a short time.

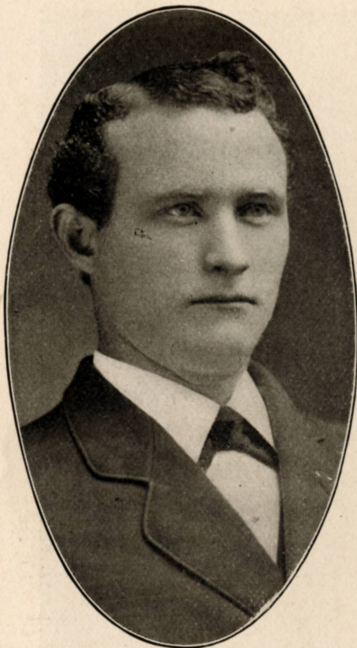

Universities, like men, are known by their fruits. A Christian college sends forth men and women not only to found model homes but also to fill the best positions the world offers. Willamette University has an alumni of which she is exceedingly proud. Her graduates have held in the past and are now holding high and most honorable positions.

Her great past gives promise of an exceptionally bright future.

May she ever be true to her trust, and continue to grow and be a blessing to our youth and nation.

The proposed building for the College of Liberal Arts.

*W. W. Brown,
Who has given the new building
for the College of Music.*

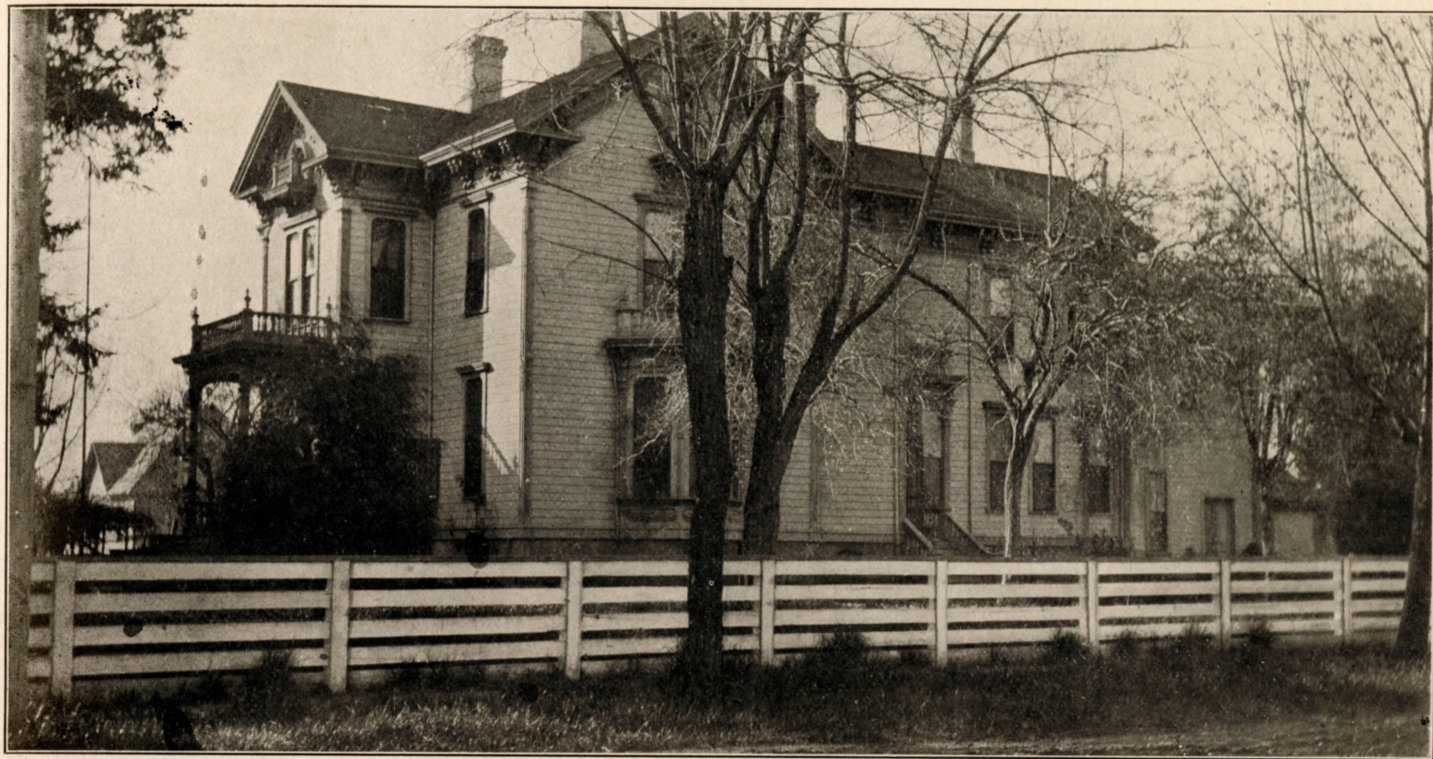

College of Music

WILLAMETTE has another new college building. Mr. W. W. Brown, of Paulina, Oregon, has donated to our University a $10,000 building to be used for the College of Music.

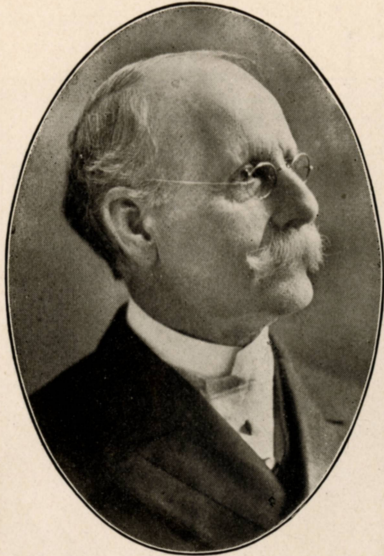

Willamette has been in need of a building for this purpose for a long time. In years past this department of the University has been very large, sometimes having as many as two hundred students.

Next year, with a new college building and with artists for professors, this department will be as strong as any in the University. It is estimated that there will be one hundred and seventy-five students studying voice in our New College of Music.

Dr. R. A. Heritage, formerly of Spokane, is the Dean of this department.

The Brown Building, the new home of the College of Music.

*H. D. Kimball, D. D., LL.D.,
Dean of the College of Theology.*

College of Theology

THE KIMBALL COLLEGE OF THEOLOGY was built last fall through the generosity of Dr. and Mrs. Henry D. Kimball, recently of Spokane. This is the only Methodist College of Theology in the Northwest, and because of its beautiful location and its capable teachers should grow and become one of the largest theological schools in America.

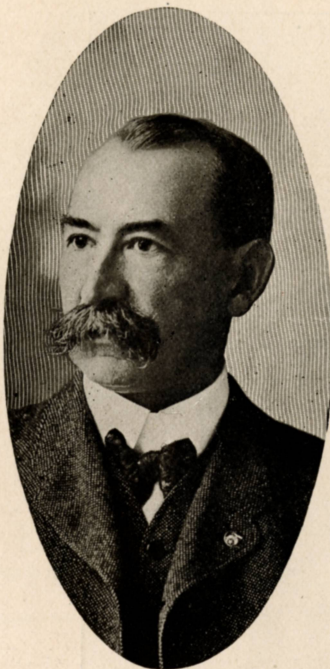

Dr. Kimball as a writer and preacher is known throughout the United States, and because of his learning and ability is well fitted for his position as Dean of this new College. His wide experience as a preacher and teacher makes him able to impart knowledge to his students, the benefit of which they may not fully realize until later years.

The building of the Kimball College of Theology is a modern structure. It is lighted with electricity and is heated by furnaces. The chapel is capable of seating over two hundred persons.

There are now twenty-two students in this College, and we think by the beginning of next year there will be at least fifty belonging to this department of Willamette University.

Kimball College of Theology.

Wm. H. Byrd, M. D.,
Dean of the College of Medicine.

College of Medicine

WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY has also a complete, up-to-date Medical College. The College has for its home a neat three-story brick building. The third story is fitted up as a dissecting room. On the second floor are large chemical and biological laboratories. Each student has his own locker, enabling him to do his work quickly and correctly. The biological laboratory has been completely equipped, making the study of bacteriology and histology comparatively easy. On the first floor are study and lecture rooms.

The course given in the College equals that given in many Eastern universities. Doctors of wide experience give daily lectures during the school year on the various prescribed studies.

Forty-six were enrolled in this department of the University last year, and sixteen received the degree of M. D. at the end of last semester.

The Medical College includes, also, a nurses training department, the Salem Hospital being run in connection with the Medical College. Four nurses graduated this year. The classes in the Medical College are each year growing larger and indications point to a very large freshman class at the beginning of the new semester.

*John W. Reynolds, A.M., LL.B.,
Dean of the College of Law.*

College of Law

A LAWYER needs a first-class education. A man with an ordinary education can do the ordinary things of life, but one must have the best education possible to make a successful lawyer.

Willamette has a first-class Law College. Since its establishment in 1884, it has grown and improved until now it ranks high among the law colleges of the Northwest.

John W. Reynolds is the Dean of the College of Law. He is a graduate of the Law College of the University of Michigan, and is well qualified to hold his present position.

One of the many advantages of our College of Law is the large State Library which is at the disposal of our law students.

Although this department has as yet no separate building we hope that in the near future a building for our College of Law will be erected upon the Campus.

State Capitol Building.

*Mrs. Sara B. Savage, O. M.,
Dean of College of Oratory.*

College of Oratory

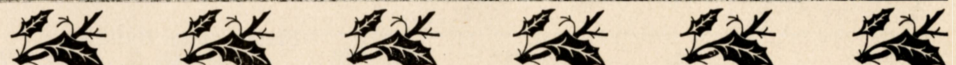

ONE of the strongest departments of Willamette University is the College of Oratory. This College offers thorough training in physical and voice culture as well as in public speaking.

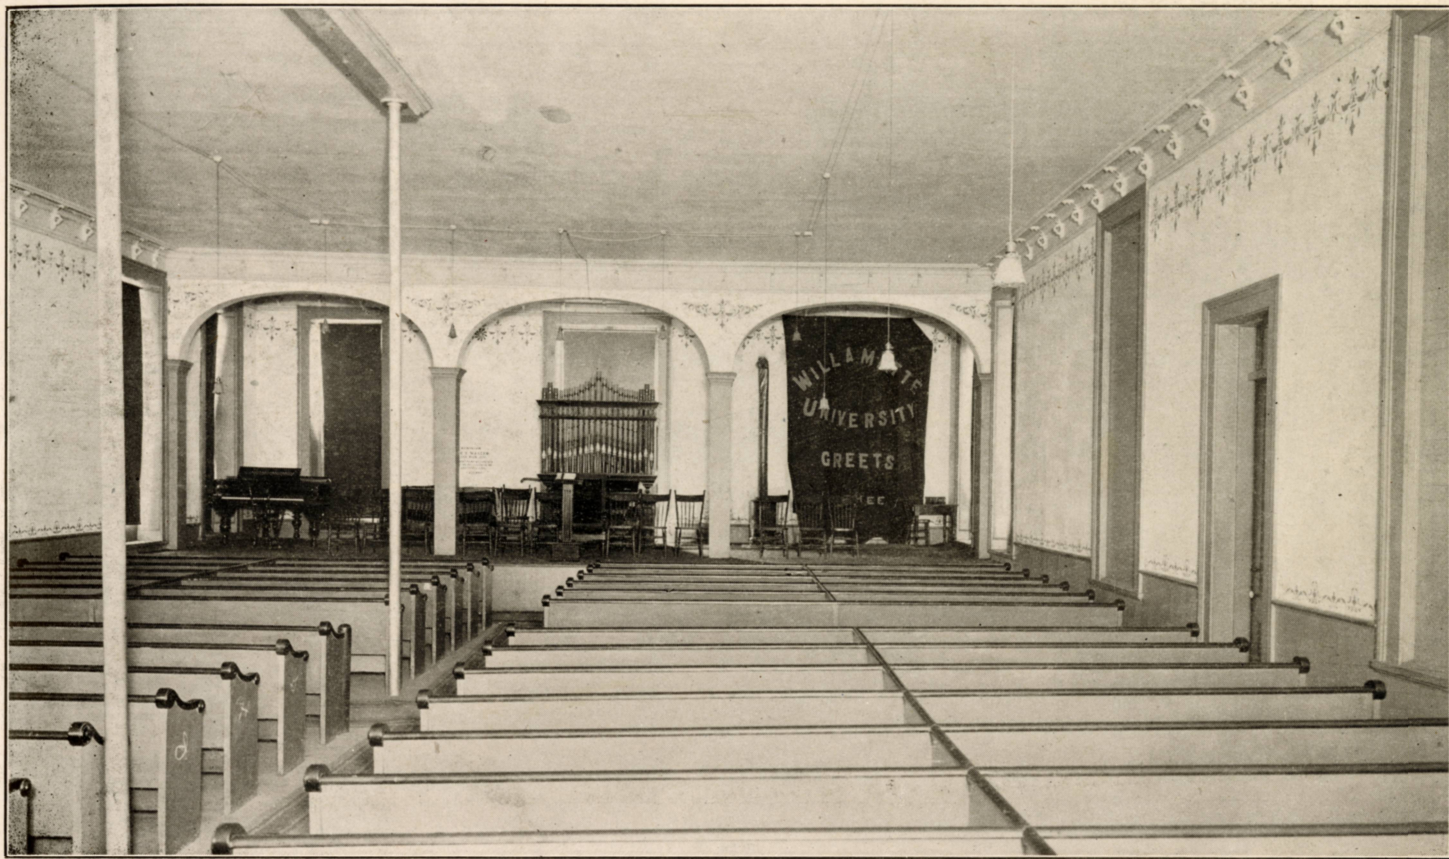

Mrs. Sara Brown Savage, O. M., is the Dean. She is a graduate of the Emerson College of Oratory, Boston, Massachusetts, and is one of the best teachers of physical training and voice culture in the Northwest.

In the past year three student recitals and a play were given. These were of a high order of excellence and showed thorough preparation and training. Indeed, all the programs given under the direction of Professor Savage are very attractive and draw crowded houses.

During the past year there have been one hundred and ten students in this department.

Miss Vera Byars and Miss Olive Rigby graduated this year.

Willamette Chapel.

A friend of our University has recently donated $5,000 for beautifying Willamette Campus. New cement walks are being laid and the campus will shortly present the appearance of a beautiful park.

Lausanne Hall, where many delightful social events occur each year.

Willamette Maples

The Willamette Maples

When the sun o' May is shinin'
 And there's freshness in the air;
 When the shade is cool and 'vitin'
 And there's pleasure everywhere;

When the birds are in the tree tops
 And are singin', full of glee,
 Then, beneath the dear ole Maples,
 Joy and gladness come to me.

How I love th' dear ole Maples!
 With their branches long and low,
 How I love their wide-spread arches!
 As they're swayin' to and fro.

Oh it does me good ter see 'em
 Standin' right out in the sun,
 And ter pass beneath their branches
 When the work o' day is done.

Don't yer feel yer heart a bubblin'
 With a joy yer can't express,
 Don't yer feel the spell a-callin'
 Till yer don't hev any rest?

It's the spell of "Old Willamette"
 And its Maples grand and fair;
 It's the watchword "New Willamette,"
 "New Willamette" everywhere.

—Perry Prescott Reigelman, '10.

Crowning of the May Queen

On May first occurs one of the most brilliant and interesting social events of the school year, the Crowning of the May Queen. Miss Phoebe Olsen, one of Willamette's charming young ladies, was chosen May Queen this year. Surrounded by her maids and attendants, she was very prettily crowned Queen of the Day.

Winding of the May Pole

The Winding of the May Pole occurs immediately after the Crowning of the May Queen. This year, twenty-four attractive co-eds. wound the May Pole with bright ribbons, and very charmingly closed the festivities of the day.

Willamette Mixed Quartette

THE WILLAMETTE MIXED QUARTETTE has been very popular in University circles this season. They have sung at nearly all of the important events, including receptions, debates, recitals and graduating exercises.

The members of the Quartette are: Miss Alma Hales, soprano; Miss Ruth Ketchum, alto; Mr. Royal Bisbee, tenor, and Mr. A. A. Strang, bass.

Philodorian Quintette

THE PHILODORIAN SOCIETY has made an enviable record this year. Not only did one of its number win the Rhodes Scholarship, another the Inter-Society Oratorical Contest, and four of its number places on the winning Debating Teams, but five Philodorians have shown marked musical and elocutionary ability.

A Quartette, composed of Chas. Priesing, first tenor; Chas. Snyder, second tenor; William Sanders Jr., baritone, and Eber Brown, bass, assisted by Clark Belknap, as reader, made a tour of many of the nearby towns.

Religious Life

THE Young Women's Christian Association and the Young Men's Christian Association of Willamette University are now entering upon their sixteenth year. Since their organization they have increased in influence until they have become a powerful factor in the religious life of the University.

Willamette prides herself on being a Christian institution. For years her Christian students have stood for the highest New Testament standard of life and experience, and have exerted a great influence for good throughout the Northwest.

New students are especially welcomed by the Associations. Many are led to accept Christ, and others, each year, are brought to a more active service in the Christian life.

The outlook for the future is very encouraging. Students of strong Christian character are at the head of the Associations, and wise plans in the various branches of work have been made for the coming school year.

Y. M. C. A. Cabinet.

Philodosian Society

THE PHILODOSIAN LITERARY SOCIETY prides itself on being the first literary organization formed by the young ladies of the University, having been founded in the year 1881, by the women of the College of Liberal Arts. The members of this Society are very enthusiastic and the meetings are interesting and profitable. To belong to this Society is considered an honor.

The Philodorian Society

THE PHILODORIAN SOCIETY is the oldest Men's Literary and Debating Society in the University, having been founded in the year 1883.

This Society has a brilliant past. Many men who are now distinguished have been members of the Philodorian Society and have received valuable training in her halls. The purpose of the Society is to give opportunity for the cultivation of forensic speaking as well as the acquiring of a practical knowledge of Parliamentary Law.

Debates

THE standard of a University may be judged by her record in forensic contests. Never before in the history of Willamette has there been such interest shown in forensic work. Willamette put out three winning debating teams, which defeated McMinnville, Corvallis, and Whitman. These victories were due in part to the able coaching of Professor Prideaux. The outlook for the coming year is most encouraging. There is no reason why our present high standard in this line of student activities can not be upheld.

Willamette Team—Miss Mabel Glover, leader, Miss Helen Smith, and Miss Clara May, who upheld the affirmative.

Willamette-O. A. C. Debate

Willamette Team—Mr. George Wilson, leader, Mr. Roy Shields, and Mr. Harry Spalding, who upheld the affirmative.

Willamette-Whitman Debate

Willamette Team—Mr. Walter Winslow, leader, Mr. John Reichen, and Mr. Hugh Parcel, who upheld the affirmative.

State House, Postoffice, Court House, First Methodist Church.

WILLAMETTE stands for the highest scholarship. Not only have we been victorious in athletic and forensic contests, but one of our students, Mr. Edward J. Winans, has won the Rhodes Scholarship. This entitles him to three years of college training at Oxford, England.

Mr. Winans has not only ranked high as a student but he has taken an active interest in everything relating to the University.

We rejoice in his success and hope that he may always be an honor to his Alma Mater.

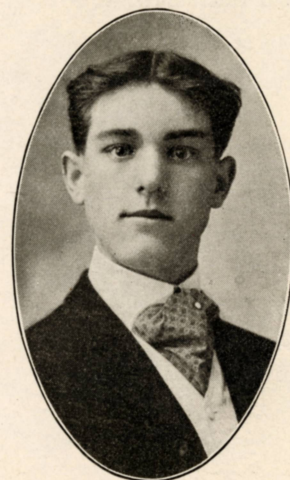

Mr. Edward J. Winans.

IN NO DEPARTMENT of Willamette life are the prospects more brilliant than in athletics. Our football, basketball, track, and base ball teams have made records of which any University should be proud.

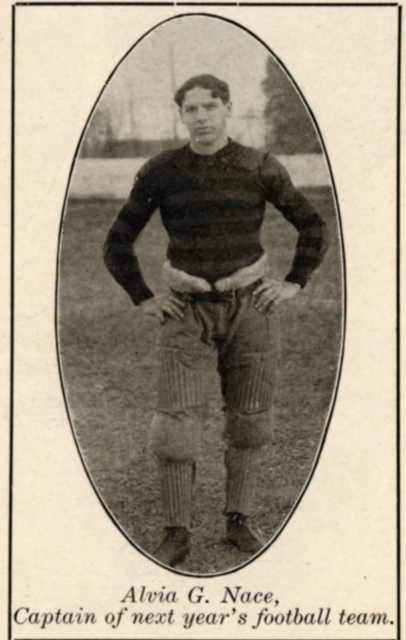

Our foot ball team, for the first time in years, this season defeated the Oregon Agricultural College. The team also tied the University of Washington on their own ground. "Racehorse" Nace, Willamette's star half-back, is Captain of next year's team, which is sure to be a winner.

Our basketball team stands second in the Oregon League.

The Willamette Gymnasium, although already in fairly good condition, is to be improved. A basement will be dug under the Gymnasium which will contain a swimming pool, baths, and dressing rooms.

Roy Heater, a man thoroughly trained by a long course of study, has been chosen Willamette's Physical Director and will have charge of the Gymnasium.

With last season, athletics in Willamette made a start which promises a bright future. Mr. Harry K. Spalding, a man of excellent business ability, is General Manager of Athletics for the year 1907-08.

Boys' Basketball Team

WILLAMETTE students always take great interest in basketball, and their teams have repeatedly proved themselves to be the equal of any in the Northwest. The boys' team of the past year ranked second in the Oregon League and made an enviable record. The girls' team also has a good record and a reputation for fast playing. This branch of athletics will be well supported next year and our teams will make it interesting for the other Colleges.
