GIVE CHANGED SOCIAL RULES OF UNIVERSITY

Dancing By Smaller Social Groups Will Be Permitted

POLICY REMAINS SAME

Faculty Members Selected As Chaperones For Affairs; Must Report

Administration officials of the university this morning announced the completed changes in the social program for the current school year. The most important change in the entire structure of the Willamette social policy was the modification of the rule prohibiting dancing among students.

Last year, the agitation for a modification of the dancing rule became so strong that near riots on the campus were threatened for a time, and students availed themselves of various means to bring the issue into the light of publicity. Sidewalks were painted, an airplane was hired to toss out handbills over the city, and a special meeting of the student body was called.

Acting on recommendations of the meeting, a committee of students was appointed, and action was taken to bring the matter to the direct attention of the trustees, and to get a direct decision.

After hearing the complaints and arguments of the students, and after reading an eight-page typewritten manuscript which set forth in full the condition as it stood then, the board of trustees, in a meeting here June 9, modified the ruling that prohibited dancing, to the effect that "smaller social groups of students be permitted to hold private dances."

Attempts by the social committee appointed out of the faculty and the board of trustees to get information from off-campus sources that would aid in formulating a policy for Willamette proved to be of no avail. The widest difference of opinion and practice was found among ministers, colleges, and individuals, and the findings of the questionnaire sent out were not resorted to.

The committee deemed it best to seek a solution of the difficult situation through co-operative efforts of students, faculty, and trustees rather than by an edict of the board of trustees.

United Press New Service

On page one of the Collegian appears the first release of the new service—United Press—brought to the paper for the enjoyment of our readers. We are proud to announce that the Collegian is the only newspaper in the Northwest Conference carrying such service. It is a "scoop" for Willamette students.

Appreciation should be given Western Union for the nationwide sports schedule which appears on page four. A wire to New York made it possible to have the mat delivered in time for this issue, and Western Union went to no little expense to give us the privilege of bringing to sports loving Willamette students this service.

FORMAL EVENT OPENS SOCIAL YEAR TONIGHT

Willamette social life will open formally Thursday evening when the campus Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. hold their annual reception.

The affair will be the first of the year's formal occasions and will be held in the gymnasium at 8 o'clock.

Acting President and Mrs. Erickson, Dr. and Mrs. Lockenour and Dean Olive M. Dahl will head the receiving line with the presidents of the organizations, Edith Sidwell and Lowell Eddy, Louis Magin and Helen Keudell will assist and introduce from the receiving line.

The features of the evening will be the Sigma Tau trio and a violin solo by Hortense Taylor, accompanied by Clara Wright.

Committees for the evening are: Programs, Bill Lemon, Isobel Morehouse; Decorations, Julia Johnson, Gwen Gallahar, and Esther Gibbard.

A most cordial invitation is extended to all Willamette students.

Eness Offers Music Course

Miss Eness will offer this year a course in group piano study for those who wish to become acquainted with musical literature. The themes of the great sonatas, symphonies, overtures, and lyrics will be used. Graded classes will be arranged for those experienced in music, and those who are beginners. The courses are designed to cultivate musical study. The classes will give one hour per week, time to be arranged, and a registration fee of $5.00 will be charged.

Willamette Students Go Through Japan; Tell Of Interesting Experiences

Teas with mayors, luncheons with high government officials, dinners with Barons or Ministers of Foreign Affairs—discussions of current international problems with frank, intelligent Japanese students, a flying trip through Japan, Manchoukuo, and Korea—that in brief is a glimpse of the First America-Japan Student Conference. Representing Willamette University, Garfield C. Barnett, Amelia M. Schrack, and myself arrived in Tokyo July 12, three members of a group of 70 delegates from American colleges and universities invited by the Japanese University Students' "Japan English Speaking Society" to inspect their country, to learn of the people and their progress, to exchange ideas on politics, education, religion, and international affairs.

The students comprised five groups and discussed the Japanese population problem, imperialism, militarism, economic nationalism, and the relationships of the various religions. None but students were allowed in the conference rooms, and frankness was the keynote. We discovered that the Japanese students were well informed. They knew almost as much of our country as we did whereas we knew little of theirs.

STUDENT BODY TO OPEN YEAR WITH MEETING

Lucke to Make Speech In First Official Meet of Year

TO ELECT FACULTY MAN

To Explain Dance Set-up and Sketch Social Affairs For Campus

Guns of campus politics will unlimber tomorrow morning in chapel when Dick Lucke, president of the A.S.W.U., calls to order the first student body meeting of the year. On Monday, classes will meet to elect executive council representatives, and Tuesday evening, the executive council will meet at the home of Leslie Sparks to confer on the budget and other business problems of the student body. The meet Tuesday is called at 5:30. Members will have dinner at the Sparks' home.

Tomorrow, the student body will elect a faculty representative to be present at executive council meetings, will hear a short outline of social events planned for the coming year, and will listen to an explanation of the new dancing rules. General topics relative to student body business will be touched, and following the meeting, a pep rally for the Oregon State game Saturday will be held. Lucke, although he did not make any statement to press representatives, will probably dwell at length on the social set-up confronting students this year.

Members of the freshmen class met Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock and elected Sam Hughes and Erma Gehler as temporary president and temporary secretary-treasurer. Within the next week or two, freshmen will meet to elect permanent officers.

Plan Club In Fine Arts On W. U. Campus

Plans are under way on the campus for the formation of a "fine art" club for those students who appreciate the more classical things of life. According to the announcement made today, the group will deal with literature, music, paintings, and the general run of subjects connected with the higher qualities of expression. The club will also favor highly the furthering of creative work in drama, music and art.

A meeting place at the home of Doctor Kohler, head of the English department, has been arranged. A student will be put in charge of the club, and selection of a committee to begin actual formation of the body will be made soon.

Those interested are requested to see Doctor Kohler in his office on the second floor of Eaton hall, and to watch the bulletin board for further announcement.

PLEDGING HAS SHIFTS UNDER COUNCIL RULE

Under new pledging rules, supposedly destined to prevent the mob rushing of freshmen by representatives of the various fraternities on the campus, signing up of men for the first rushing period was completed last night. Cards indicating preference were turned in by the frosh, and fraternities listed the men they desired.

Under the rules adopted by the inter-fraternity council, two things were noticeable in pledging. One fraternity, hitherto weak in gathering in the men, took on more than the usual number. Another fraternity, formerly foremost in pledging, dropped below the usual number by quite a margin. In regard to the second point, another frat also showed losses, but not greatly.

Sigma Tau pledged eight, Kappa Gamma Rho, 11, and Alpha Psi Delta, five. A complete list will be published in the next issue of the Collegian.

New President

Dr. Bruce Baxter, new president of Willamette university, who is scheduled to arrive on the campus in the middle of October. At present he is returning to Los Angeles from a trip abroad.

BAXTER TO BE ON GROUNDS OCTOBER

Is Headed for Los Angeles To Wind Up Personal Affairs; Doney in Ohio

Word has been received at the administrative offices that Dr. Bruce R. Baxter, president-elect of Willamette University, will arrive here sometime during the middle of October. Dr. Baxter, who has been making an extensive tour of Europe, has started the trip home, cutting a week from his itinerary, and will arrive in Los Angeles next week. After winding up personal and university affairs, he will come to Willamette.

Dr. Carl Gregg Doney, former president of the university, is at home in Columbus, Ohio. His home is approximately seven miles from the center of the city, and is situated in a rural district, where he may be in quiet for his writings and studies.

CUBS DECLARED TO BE READY FOR JOB

Will Carry On In Task; To Teach Freshmen Proper Duties; Caps Change

Starting with the opening of school the Cubs, local vigilante squad, maintain that they will uphold the traditions of the school and their organization by carrying out their usual program, plus several modernizing changes.

The Cubs, a club which is composed entirely of members of the sophomore class, will make it their duty to teach the incoming freshmen all of the fine points of college etiquette and get them situated in the proper relationship with their fellow students. As usual the Cubs will have charge of the freshman initiation although this year several changes will take place. There will be no formal initiation, but an informal initiation throughout the first semester. Under the new policy of the Cubs, the freshmen this year will be required to wear their Rook caps only while they are on the campus.

Following the rule of former years, the Cubs will have charge of all freshman work hours around the school. They will also direct the annual "bag rush" during the spring May celebration.

The freshman caps will be of a new design this year, and will soon be on sale at the bookstore on the campus. Feeling that the Rook caps of last year were not of an appropriate style, changes have been made which are expected to be more favorable to all concerned.

Both Squads Eager For Battle; Hopes Strong For Locals

Willamette Has First Test In Contest; "Red" Franklin, O. S. C., Threat, Is the Biggest Menace to Bearcats

ON BELL Field, Corvallis, at 1:30 Saturday afternoon, the Bearcats and Beavers will clash again, with each squad burning to avenge defeats, in the case of the Bearcats, actual, and in the case of the Beavers, moral. Last year, it will be remembered, Willamette held the Orangemen to a scoreless tie up until the last quarter of the contest, when Lon Stiner sent a hurried call to the showers for his "Iron Men." After that, it was a one man march to touchdown ground, with Red Franklin doing most of the ball carrying.

In Saturday's game, the first contest of the year for Willamette gridsters, Stiner will be giving his Staters their first airing in a season that bids fair to carry them a long way in their quest for a place in the nation football sun. Keene, Willamette mentor, somewhat buffeted about by the state school in recent years, will send a well-tutored and thoroughly aroused lineup onto the field.

From every indication, the same fighting spirit that permeated the closing moments of last year's conflict will flare from the opening kick-off Saturday. The Beavers are disgruntled over the closeness of the 1933 engagement, and the crimson-gold Willamette forces are fairly bristling with rage over Franklin's last minute activities last September.

Franklin, the key man last fall, will again be on the grounds to essay another chapter in the football drama. However, six of his "Iron Man" teammates who aided in the last uprising will not be on hand to clear the paths for his elusive feet. Graduation appreciably thinned the football ranks on the Corvallis campus, Joslin, Tomscheck, Devine, and Pangle will man their old positions in the O.S.C. lineup, however, Tar Schwammel, All-American tackle, led a delegation of lettermen through the exits in June. State college backers have little cause to don the sack cloth and ashes, however, as seven additional lettermen, augmented by a host of likely looking transfers and newcomers are populating the campus, all eager to imitate their illustrious predecessors of a season past.

But, to hear from our own campus—a veteran Willamette team has been groomed during the past two weeks to start the game. Keene figures them as his best bet to smother the Wiley Franklin and at the same time to figure on the score sheet. With many of the heavier candidates on the bench at the onset, the starting combination will tip the scales at just a fraction better than one ton, or exactly 187 pounds to the man, which will probably place them at a slight weight disadvantage against Stiner's sizeable shock troops.

Over 100 Students Ask For SERA Work; School To Receive $810 Month

SERA work on the Willamette campus will take care of approximately 108 men and women students during the current scholastic year, if all those who have applied for work can be accommodated. Thirty eight women and 70 men have turned in their SERA blanks to the office of Dean F. M. Erickson, and are awaiting assignments. More are expected.

Of those who have made applications, the majority are freshmen, with some upper-class carry-overs from last year. The plan at present for the handling of the many applicants is to give half of them the first assignments for work, and to rotate the job from then on, thus giving all possible a chance to work.

The university has been allotted $810 per month for the carrying on of the work. Thirty hours per week is the time permitted each person, but because of the large number applying for work, this will have to be cut down to individuals, and distributed. No one, probably, will work more than 15 hours per week. The pay is from 20 to 40 cents per hour.

The Collegian of 1934-35

THE function of a newspaper is to present to its readers a clear and truthful vision of events transpiring in the world which the publication represents, and to include in its editorial columns opinions which may be helpful in forming opinions on issues and subjects of general interest. We of the Willamette Collegian have as our duty the production of such a newspaper. Our territory is restricted to the immediate vicinity of the campus—the world of Willamette students. We have the interests of some 550 students at heart, and our policy will be to present news coverage that will portray the moving picture of the campus, and to editorially construct and mold opinions which will benefit the greater number. The greater good for the greater number will be our motto—trite speaking.

As editorials go, our writings in this column may not be of the best, but they will be sincere. We will support that which seems to us to be the proper thing, and we will heartily condemn anything that seems to us to be destructive of the best interests of the university and her population.

The opinions expressed in the Collegian editorial page may not be the favored opinion of our readers. We do not think that it is possible for one man to express thoughts that will always be cheerfully received by organizations or individuals. Our motive is to stimulate thought, turn endeavor from the individual outward, and to mold a nationalistic student body.

The masses may not react favorably to an expressed opinion, but they may be the better inclined and better informed for having heard it.

From the point of news service, the Collegian institutes today what we deem a good thing—United Press service, with national coverage. Our service in this line will be, to the greater extent, pictorial. We are justly proud of this innovation, as it brings into the scope of the student world a record of transpirations in the outer world of sports, politics, and events of national interest.

The news of the campus will be furthered and pushed to the greatest possible extent. Our predecessors did well in that respect, and we hope to continue in their footsteps. The policy of handling news may be of a franker nature, for we believe that covering up is worse than not printing the article at all. Should, however, the article be of a nature that would damage the university to any extent, it will be dropped.

We serve you. You should serve us. We urge you to take a deep interest in your newspaper. It belongs to you, and we will work for you.

Good luck in the coming school year. Be honorable, honest, and sincere with yourself and your fellows. We'll do that.

The Social "Problem"

ON THE front page of this issue is a news story which deals with the present social set-up on the Willamette campus. We wish to add our opinions to the news, and round out the picture.

The fight of last year for an increased line of social privileges to be enjoyed by students reached its climax when it was carried by the famous committee of five to the chambers of the board of trustees. It came to its conclusion when the trustees, in their June 9 meeting on the campus, sanctioned a modification of the rule prohibiting dancing. The accomplishment was greater than the students or the committee of five expected. Dancing has been made legal for smaller social groups of students. This signifies a victory for student groups who are convinced of the value of dancing as a social necessity, and it also signifies the close of the fight where dancing is concerned.

The fight is over. The concession has been made, and it will, in time to come, enlarge automatically. We advocate strongly that the students of Willamette drop the issue, conform to the new ruling, and do their utmost to impress the board of trustees with the fact that dancing, as practiced by a sane body of young people, becomes a benefit.

As you students conduct yourselves, so go the rules. If you can prove the value of such social conduct as dancing affords, you will surely receive added modifications of the no dancing rule.

Co-operation with the board of trustees and the social committee of Willamette University will bring in more than will the continued agitation for mass dancing on the campus.

We are aware that certain bodies of students, and certain organizations, are laying plans whereby a student body dance can be held under the guise of a "smaller social group." We advise that you do not lay yourselves open to a possible retraction of the modification.

Too much rope will strangle you. Absorb the modification slowly.

Drama Group Begins Work On Play Art

Oregon Alpha Chapter of Theta Alpha Phi was installed on the Willamette Campus in 1920. The purpose of the national fraternity is to foster campus dramatics. The society plans to present several plays this year, and the try-outs are open to all students. Membership is open to students who have ability in one or more branches of dramatics. Professor Rahe is anxious to have all freshmen who plan to enter the speech department prepare to take an active part in Theta Alpha Phi work.

Opera Quintet Goes Through Coast Regions

The Willamette light opera quintet, composed of Elizabeth Clement, soprano; Harriet Adams, contralto; Richard Smart, bass; Earle Potter, tenor, and Burtis Preston, tenor, with Clara Wright as accompanist, under the direction of Cameron Marshall, head of the school of music, made an extensive month's tour at the close of school.

The group covered Northern California, Oregon, and Washington. They gave numerous concerts.

Marshall reports that they were greeted most cordially wherever they appeared, and that audiences were above the average attendance.

At several places, former Willamette students and friends took part in the evening concert by giving college yells and songs.

Weddings Are Of Interest; Cupid On Job

Weddings and announcements have stirred much interest on and off the Willamette campus during the summer months. Many romances of the school year come to a culmination during the summer. This year a number of graduates as well as students have taken their marriage vows.

Coming as a complete surprise to her many friends was the marriage of Miss Esther Bross of Elmo, Kansas, to Mr. Elmer Herman of Madison, Wisconsin, on August 15. They will make their home in Madison where Mr. Herman is teaching in the Boys Preparatory School. Mrs. Herman was affiliated with Beta Chi Sorority and was active in musical circles.

At an impressive ceremony in the First Presbyterian Church in Salem, August 17, Miss Ruth Gillette became the bride of Mr. Dwight Adams. Miss Thelma Gillette attended her sister as maid of honor, and Mrs. Almos Le Fors, Miss Beatrice Hartung, Miss Isobel Morehouse, and Miss Lulu Allen were her bridesmaids. Mrs. Adams was a member of Delta Phi sorority and Mr. Adams of Alpha Psi Delta fraternity. Both were very prominent on the Willamette campus.

Another prominent wedding was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Findley when their daughters were united in a double ceremony the afternoon of August 29. Miss Pauline Findley became the bride of Mr. Robert Wulf. They will make their home in Philadelphia, where Mr. Wulf is attending medical school. Miss Edith Findley married Mr. Hadden Brydon and they will reside in Berkeley, California. A large reception was held after the simple ceremony. Both brides were members of Delta Phi sorority and active on the campus as well as musical circles.

The evening of August 29 was the scene of a simple ceremony at the home of Mrs. James Clark, when Miss Mabel Eastridge became the bride of Mr. Claude Cook. Mr. and Mrs. Cook are making their home in Currie, Oregon, where Mr. Cook has a position in the high school. Mr. Cook was a member of Kappa Gamma Rho fraternity and was very active in athletics, being captain of the track team the last three years.

The Laurelwood Methodist Church in Portland was the scene of a beautiful wedding the evening of August 31 when Miss Mabel Warren became the bride of Mr. Almos Le Fors. Mrs. Ralph Fairchild was the honor attendant and bridesmaids included Miss Dwight Adams and the Misses Irene Guy, Catherine Hawkins and Betty Lou Lacy. Mr. and Mrs. Le Fors are at home in Dallas where Mr. Le Fors is a member of the high school faculty. Mrs. Le Fors was a member of Beta Chi sorority.

Miss Mary Banning became the bride of Mr. Laurence Yarnes at a simple ceremony September 1, at the home of her parents in Roseburg. The young couple make their home in Eugene where Mr. Yarnes will attend the University of Oregon. Mrs. Yarnes was a member of Delta Phi sorority and Mr. Yarnes of Kappa Gamma Rho fraternity.

Miss Helen Ritter became the bride of Milo Clifton Ross on Wednesday, September 12, at the First Friends Church in Portland. The couple will make their home in Rosedale where Mr. Ross is pastor of the Friends Church. Mr. Ross graduated from Willamette in June.

Paradise Island Scene Of Picnic

Complimenting the many charming new girls entering the University this fall the Delta Phi Sorority entertained with a number of affairs both formal and informal.

Outstanding among the large affairs was a picnic at Paradise Island built around the gypsy idea.

Swimming and boating were the principal diversions of the evening and supper was served around a large bonfire.

Later in the season sorority members were hostesses at a

Alpha Phi Alpha Keeps Calendar; Feature Socials

The Alpha Phi Alpha Sorority have kept their social calendar filled this summer with many delightful rush affairs honoring the new freshmen. They divided their rushing into Portland, Salem, Woodburn and several other sections this year. This systematic method of rushing gave them contact with more of the honored guests and proved most satisfactory in their various social activities.

Three large affairs were held in Portland including a formal party at the Van Fleet home, a most charming informal tea at the Sign of the Rose, and a jolly informal weiner roast at the Hotel on the banks of the Willamette.

In Salem the big social event of the summer rushing was a formal banquet at the Masonic Temple followed by a theatre party. Two other affairs were an informal party at the home of Miss Betty Galloway and an informal picnic at Paradise Island.

smartly arranged dance at Hlahee Country Club. The night club motif was elaborately carried out in decorations.

Patrons and patronesses for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Roy S. Keene and Mr. and Mrs. William McGilchrist Jr.

Marriage Dates Of Interest Are Set; Wunder-Marsters

Three important wedding dates have been announced during the past month which are of interest to Willamette students.

Miss Claudia Buntin has announced her date as September 29 to Lee Coe of Redwood City, California. The bride-elect accompanied by Miss Marie Patton will leave for the south this weekend where the marriage will take place. Miss Buntin attended Oregon State college and later Willamette, where she was a member of Delta Phi sorority. Mr. Coe is on the editorial staff of the Redwood Tribune. They will make their home in Redwood City following their marriage.

October 7 will be the date for the wedding of Miss Marjorie Wunder and Collis Marsters. The ceremony will take place in Independence at a large church wedding. Miss Wunder is a member of Delta Phi sorority, and was an attendant to the May Queen this last year. She also has been very active in musical circles in Willamette valley.

Last week Miss Mildred Wampler announced the date of her approaching marriage to Delvin Durham on October 17. The bride-elect attended Willamette University and was a member of Delta Phi sorority. Mr. Durham attended Salem schools. They will make their home in Salem after November.

Freshman Social Life Blossoming Into Big Events

Beginning Thursday, the freshman class will cease being exclusive in its social affairs, and will then begin enjoying social functions with the rest of the Willamette students.

The Y. M. and Y. W. Reception, Thursday evening in the gym at 8 o'clock, will be the first chance for the upper classmen to become acquainted with the freshmen. Helen Keudell and Bill Lemmon have planned a unique program and clever balloon decorations.

Lewis Magin and Helen Keudell are alternating at introducing to the line consisting of Lowell Eddy, Edith Sidwell, Dean and Mrs. Erickson, Dean and Mrs. Lockenour and Dean Dahl.

Friday evening the Epworth League of the First M. E. church are sponsoring a party in honor of the freshmen. The entertainment is being planned and indicates a grand time for all.

For those who are unable to attend the Willamette-Oregon State game at Corvallis, the Y.M.C.A. is to be host at an informal party in Chresto in charge of Lowell Eddy, Saturday evening.

Fraternities Have Enjoyable Parties Through Vacation

The Willamette fraternities have enjoyed many social events during the summer and are now very active in the social field this week with rushing at the head of their social calendar.

Kappa Gamma Rho honored Fred Harris and Garfield Barnett at a delightful farewell party at the house before they left for Japan.

This week the Kappa Gamma Rho's have entertained their rushers at a line party at the show and returned to their newly remodeled house afterward for a stag party.

The Sigma Tau fraternity have also been entertaining their guests with various parties, climaxing their entertaining with a most beautiful serenade Wednesday evening.

The Alpha Psi Delta house is busy too with the social events involved in honoring the freshmen rushers.

Honor Delta Phi Brides; Clement Residence Scene

Honoring three Delta Phi brides of the late summer, Delta Phi was at home at the L. O. Clement residence on August 5 to faculty wives, sorority girls and townswomen.

Miss Elizabeth Clement greeted the guests at the door. Miss Gertrude Oehler introduced to the receiving line. Receiving were Mrs. L. O. Clement, Miss Ruth Chapman, and the guests of honor, Misses Ruth Gillette, Pauline Findley and Edith Findley.

Mrs. William McGilchrist, Jr., Mrs. M. C. Findley, Mrs. Gillette, and Mrs. Hobart Wolf presided alternately at the urns. The rooms were artistically decorated with summer blooms and tapers.

Dinner In Honor New Girls Held

In honor of girls entering school this fall, Portland members of Delta Phi entertained with a charmingly appointed dinner. The scheme for decorations was gayly informal in Spanish mode. Hostesses for the affair were the Misses Virginia Edwards, Lois Underwood, Mary Meredith, Wanda Landon, and Margaret Hagg.

Hold Jolly Party In Reunion Events

A jolly reunion of the Alpha Phi Alpha house members was enjoyed at a house meeting Monday evening, after which refreshments were served, followed by a slumber party for all the members. This affair was held especially to welcome members back to the house and the opening of the house this fall.

Beta Chi's Busy During Summer Rushing Events

Many social affairs have made the summer for the Beta Chi girls a very busy and enjoyable one, with the Salem and Portland members each busy entertaining the new freshmen who planned to enter school this fall.

In Portland one of the most outstanding affairs of the summer was a beautiful buffet dinner on August 14 at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. Gormley. Misses Margaret Gormley, a Beta Chi alumna, and Miss Dorothy Gormley, were hostesses. Slender white tapers with lovely summer flowers decorated the table. Vivian Widmer and Dorothy McGee served.

Later in the summer a Theatre Party was given for the Portland Beta Chi guests followed by a midnight supper at Jack Cody's. The Salem rushers were also honored by numerous affairs. The most outstanding being a dance at the Castillon hall. Another affair was an informal party on the tennis court at the home of Isobel Morehouse.

Margaret Purvine also entertained with a number of informal parties for the rushers.

College Wear For the Gels
By KEETON

Now—as far as campus wear is concerned. Woolens, of course, reign supreme. Soft, sheer woolens in plain and also a galaxy of plaids. The plaids, incidently, range from the stern black and white English check to Scotch plaids of vivid hues. Smart, too, are the soft shadow plaids, done in various tones of one color. But whatever your materials, have your woolen dresses plain. A simple tailored style is much more appropriate for campus wear than a fussy dress. Wear a hat if you like. But keep it tailored, too. Incidently, bright hats and berets are exceedingly smart with dark clothes. One of the ideal costumes for early fall campus wear is a well-fitted skirt, a brush wool sweater and beret to match.

Willamette is strong for informal teas. When the invitation says the tea is informal, simply add hat and gloves to your school dress, and know that you will be well dressed.

When the tea is a formal one wears an afternoon dress, silk usually, and don't forget to omit hat and gloves. Most of Willamette's teas are of the informal variety, however.

Now for the formal dinner. It is perfectly alright to wear the dress that you wear to formal teas. Just a "dress up" dress, not necessarily elaborate, just something too dressy to wear to school.

Mukden, then to Keijo, the capital of Chosen, Fusan and back to the main island of Japan. After August 2, the official termination of the conference, most of the students spent two more weeks visiting the friends they had made and traveling as they wished.

As for our experiences, they were many and varied. You would be surprised at modern Tokyo. I had my first subway ride there. For ten sen I bought a ticket and got a complimentary can of toothpaste into the bargain. They have marvelous theaters, modernistic buildings, American dress, jazz, and talkies, and almost everyone knows a little English. Their interest in baseball far exceeds ours.

The Japanese inns offer one a unique experience. Japanese hospitality is unsurpassed. You become accustomed to the lack of privacy and enjoy to the utmost the services of the Japanese maid (Ed. note: Did you?) who folds your clothes and brings you green tea. One even relishes Japanese food, although raw fish and sweet, gooey cakes are not exactly palatable to the Western taste!

One carries away with him a most vivid impression of the way people in Japan dress. Anything is permissible, and almost no one has exactly the same costume except the Japanese school children and students, all of whom wear uniforms. Western influence is marked, and it was a constant source of amusement to the American students to see a well dressed Japanese scuffing down the street in his geta, or wooden shoes, wearing a kimono, a straw hat, and carrying a cane! During the summer, most of the men carry fans, and it is quite common to see a husky, barrel-chested Japanese fanning his "pig-shaved" head.

Emphasized throughout our conference was the fact that Japan desires the friendship of America and is seeking it. One-third of all Japan's trade is with us and it is to Japan's interest as well as to ours to keep peace in the Pacific basin. Whatever the criticisms of the conference or its results, we students who have been a fortunate part of it feel certain that much good will come of it and that its cardinal result will be to make the two nations mutually more understandable, and better friends.

Once the starting team is altered a variety of players will, no doubt, be pressed into action. Pettys and Erickson are extremely likely looking replacement at end. Vagt, six foot four inch tackle, will roam into the lineup, if an injured thumb properly responds to treatment. Tweed and Newhouse head the reserve troop of guards with Becken, up from Astoria high, and "Tots" Yada, a late Salem prep, crowding them closely. Should the pace become too hot for Connors, Bronc Williams will jump into the breach. Rhoda and Weisser at quarter; Cannady, Brandon, and Emmell at half; and Stone and Crossland at full round out the list of veteran backfield reserves. Willamette will have a rooting section at the game and students are urged to make the trip. The first home game will be played here on Sweetland Field against Oregon Normal under the aegis of the night of September 29th.

Give Social Rules

(Continued from page 1) dancing, the committee recommended that "The committee is a unit in declaring that the social life of Willamette shall not be dominated by dancing. The present policy of the University shall be continued with such modifications only as are contained in the recommendations. The policy of the University continue unequivocally opposed to attendance upon public and unchaperoned dances of every kind. No social dances be permitted on the campus. In accord with the present practice, students be permitted to accept invitations to private dances with the approval of the Dean of Women. In deference to the judgment of many friends of Willamette, and to meet a situation very difficult to control otherwise, smaller social groups of students be permitted to hold private dances under the following conditions: The place must be approved by the Dean of Women and must be where no intoxicants of any kind are served. At least two faculty members, or one faculty member and wife, chosen by the Dean of Women, must act as chaperones and shall make a report to her promptly following the dance. These dances must be fitted into the general social program as arranged by student-faculty committee and shall conform to general Willamette regulations in all respects. It was further recommended that the present committee, consisting of Dean Frank M. Erickson, Dean Olive M. Dahl, Herman Clark, Thomas D. Yarnes, Robert C. Nelson, and Amedee M. Smith, chairman, be continued to deal with any situations that may arise within the above regulations. Oldest Postmaster Claim FORESTVILLE, Conn. (U.P.)—James F. Holden, 77, claims to be the oldest postmaster in the United States in point of service. He has served 45 years, 31 of them continuously, and was appointed by President Grover Cleveland. He's still on the job. Patronize our Advertisers.

BLUE KEY HOPING FOR GOOD SEASON

New President Expected To Guide Group Throughout Successful Year Under the guidance of the new president, Garfield Barnett, Blue Key organization is looking forward to a successful year. Blue Key fraternity, which is a national service fraternity, established a chapter at Willamette in 1926. It is composed of upper classmen and each year members are elected from the Sophomore class. The fraternity endeavors to render service to the campus in every field of activity. Hole in One With Putter NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (E.P.)—

Remembering the advice of a friend that by using a putter the ball will hold the green better on a short hole, Charles Haddock, Jr., drove with the unorthodox club and scored an ace on the 147-yard 16th at Stanley course.
