Y. M. C. A. STAG.

About Seventy-five Students Present—Play Games—Make Speeches—Eat Apples—College Band Makes Initial Appearance.

As usual the "stag" party given by the Y. M. C. A. was an all-round success. By 8 o'clock the gymnasium was teeming to overflowing with the effervescence of student spirit. And in about a half hour it actually did break all bounds and overflowed out onto the front porch and beyond. A joyous old rough house was indulged in by all present (members of the faculty excepted) which denuded shirts of buttons (we speak from knowledge), feet of shoes, and heads of hair. However, far be it from me to convey the idea that this little past time was conducted in any but a Christian manner. For permeating the whole ran that spirit of Christian forbearance that forbade kicking a man until you got him down so he couldn't kick back.

Little diversions of a like nature occurred semi-occasionally in the course of the evening, enlivening the monotony of the occasion and serving to get old students and new acquainted with one another. (We hope no serious harm will result from the manner of forming this acquaintance.)

The substance of the meeting follows: After indulging in a few standard games such as "hot hand," "three deep" and others, the assembly was called to order by the perpetrator Mr. Hollingworth. Seated in a large circle upon the floor of the gymnasium, the students gathered their scattered garments about them and gave heed to the program.

Speeches were made by many of the men in school concerning different phases of student activity. The Collegian, football, basketball, the Philodorian, the Websterians, Dr. Homan was present and gave an excellent talk as did Coach Sweetland, both of these gentlemen speaking at length on what constituted true athletic spirit in college.

In the early part of the evening the strains of sweet beguiling music stealing through the darkness was wafted to our ears. A concentrated rush was made for the door and upon gaining the front porch the Band of Willamette University appeared in all its glory. The courtesies of the house were extended to the members who availed themselves of the opportunity and entered the gymnasium where they played many difficult compositions in the course of the evening. For some reason or other we were unable to secure the names of all the members of the new organization but will do so at our earliest opportunity as well as the respective positions they occupy.

At a late hour apples and wafers were passed around and an hour or two was spent in shaking hands and introducing the new students to the old. Adjournment followed.

ALUMNI APPOINTS COMMITTEE

The Alumni organization of Willamette University has appointed a committee to furnish notes of Alumni events to the Collegian. We are sure that the institution of an Alumni Department in the college paper would be a most welcome and interesting innovation. Moreover, we appreciate this action taken by the Alumni, and hope to hear from their publicity committee at their earliest convenience.

The members are, Miss Lila Swafford, Mrs. O'Mart, and Mr. Burgess Ford.

The faculty at O. A. C. has ruled that hazing shall not be permitted at that school. Such action will surely prevent it.

Don't read your neighbor's paper; subscribe and have one of your own.

WILLAMETTE vs. M. A. A. C.

Football Season Opens with Game in Portland—Willamette Team Light but Speedy.

Saturday the 'Varsity team goes to Portland to meet the team representing the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club of that city. The Willamette team is the lightest put out by the school in years; it is probably the lightest college team in the Northwest. But notwithstanding the fact that the boys are to play away from home on a foreign gridiron, against one of the heaviest and best trained teams on the Pacific Coast, they are going down to Portland to win if speed and grit can do it. Our teams have long had the reputation of being the grittiest bunch of athletes that ever represented a school and this year's production is no exception. But if any one thinks for a moment that any rival college will have a walkover they're seriously mistaken. Every school that beats Willamette this year will have to put up the best they've got. With such men as Captain Cummings, Lowe, Rader, Westley, and others, we still have the wherewithal to make good.

The second team has effected an organization with McIntire as captain and McNeese as manager. Games will be secured with all high schools willing to play, and several interesting secondary contests will be pulled off on Willamette Field.

HOLLINGWORTH YELL LEADER.

Carl Hollingworth, President Homan's private secretary, has been elected 'Varsity Yell Leader for the year. Hollingworth is the man for the places; possesses a strong, vibrant voice, and probably puts more genuine enthusiasm into what he undertakes than any other man in school. Only give him the support he merits and "Holly" will wake up a spirit in this old school you never dreamed possible.

HARVARD INSTALLS PRESIDENT.

On October 6, Abbot Lawrence Lowell was installed as president of Harvard College. Hundreds of Alumni, distinguished in the world's affairs, assisted in the services accompanying the installation.

A radical departure from the policy pursued by ex-President Eliot was announced with regard to inter-collegiate athletics, President Lowell being strongly in favor of the same as productive of solidarity in student effort.

Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. has handed in no report of their meeting to the Collegian. It seems to us that this is inconsistent with their policy of extending the influence of their Association to its uttermost limits. We would be very glad to publish an account of their weekly proceedings if they will only give us the opportunity.

TEN DAYS AT THE BREAKERS

A Series of Letters Which Might Have Been Written by a Girl While Attending the Y. W. C. A. Conference at Long Beach last June.

The Breakers, Long Beach, Wash.
June 19, 1909.

Dear Folks at Home:

As you may see by my letterhead, I am here. Arrived last night about 5:45, along with seventy-five other delegates. About seven o'clock the Washington delegates arrived—about as many of them as there were of us. The trip down the boat was pleasant though a little windy and somewhat tiresome towards the end. Portland is farther away from the ocean than it looks to be on the map, at least when the distance is measured by the Lurline. At Megler we left the boat and took the train. That's what they called it. It was sort of a toy affair. The aisles were so narrow that when I got started down one in the wrong direction I had to back out 'cause there wasn't room either to turn around with a suit case in each hand or to set the suit cases down and turn myself around with them in the aisle. (Suit cases are such a nuisance. There were only three men in the whole crowd, a professor, a preacher and a missionary.) The windows were in proportion to the rest of the car. Maude and I sat together and she was on the side next the window. Some one said, "O, see those pretty flowers!" We both turned to the window but all the flowers I saw were those on Maude's hat.

I was interrupted here by a girl from Montana who asked me to go for a walk on the beach. I got acquainted with her on the boat on the way here. She is a fine girl. She had never before seen a body of water much bigger than a mud puddle, and of course she's just crazy over the ocean. So am I. I've taken three pictures of it already. If they don't turn out all right, I'll tell you what it looks like when I get home. It sounds like something eternal.

The dining room here faces the ocean, so that room is popular at certain times of the day for more reasons than one. I have already developed an enormous and continuous appetite.

Here is our daily program. The things I have marked with a star I never fail to do:

- 6:30 Rising
- 7:15 Breakfast*
- 9:00 Bible Study Classes (I take one in the New Testament led by Prof. Coleman of Whitman)
- 10:00 Mission Study Classes (I am taking "The Challenge of the City")
- 12:30 Lunch*
- Recreation*
- 6:30 Dinner*
- 7:30 Platform Meeting
- 9:00 Delegation Meetings
- Lights out at ten.

This is a bad place to try to write a letter. Too much going on.

With love,

—Anna M.

P. S.—How many little chickens have you now? Are the cherries ripe yet?

Registration in Whitman College has already shown a decided increase over last year. There are now 230 registers in the College, while last year at this time registration did not exceed 190. The total registration for the College last year was 204. The Conservatory of Music has 135 registered, and Pearson's Academy has 97. This brings the total to 462 which is more than the total for the whole of last year. A registration of over 500 is expected before the year is over.

This isn't a sermon nor a lecture. It's merely a few words of personal advice from the editor who doesn't often feel this way and utilizes this opportunity of communicating the unusual emotions. Not many of us are born geniuses. Some of us may think we are for a short time but if we possess ordinary common sense that idea is soon eliminated. About the only thing we will ever accomplish in life is through a consistent performance of our every-day duties. It's the little things that count after all. (Not original but some things are worth repeating). Our daily work may be distasteful; it may necessitate the hardest kind of digging; it may be drudgery that appears to lead nowhere, but stay with it. Show yourself capable of doing the little things that come to you just a little bit better than the other fellow. That's the kind of man who is needed today in the competing world. A man who is just a little better doctor, a little more capable business man, a little more thorough lawyer than the other fellow. So buckle down to work and do your best. We conclude.

What we need is a genuine Rooters' Club. A bunch of fellows with good lungs who are willing to get together four times a week during the athletic season and practice yells. The merely perfunctory indulgence of the whole student body in college songs and yells once a week in chapel is well enough as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough. Now listen! If one dozen fellows will practice organized yelling under the direction of our leader every night for one week preceding a game, we'll make an impression. If we have only twelve, fifteen or twenty fellows who are trained; who can grasp the words, swing into the spirit of the thing on time and carry it through, that small percentage will bring results. Once a small bunch is perfectly familiar with the letter and spirit of our yells, that club can lead in such way that the main body will, perform, fall in line.

Since every one else is discussing the Cook-Peary controversy, we also will take a flyer at it.

In our opinion neither of these gentlemen will ever again attain that position in the public estimation that was his before the origination of this controversy, regardless of who is declared the discoverer of the pole. So far. Further we would state that both Mr. Peary and Mr. Cook are to be equally honored for the sagacity and perseverance they have displayed in striving for the goal in the far North, and in the final surmounting of obstacles, hitherto considered to be impassable.

Neither had the advantage of the notes or experience of the other. Each relied solely upon his own individual knowledge and capacity to meet conditions. The effort of each was an individual one, not based upon the observation of the other's struggle, and that both were successful detracts not one iota from the magnitude of the accomplishment of either.

PHILODOSIAN.

The society had a good program, one of the most interesting numbers being a piano solo rendered by Miss Mary Pigler. The original serial story was launched by Miss Mary Gittins, and if the succeeding authors can have their chapters as well written and fraught with interest it will be a story worth reading, aside from the excellent practice derived in writing it.

After a short social hour in which visitors and members gathered about the candles to toast marshmallows, the meeting adjourned, the Philodorsians remaining to practice a few songs. In the evening a number of our girls visited our brother society, the Philodorsians, and added a couple of vocal selections to their program. While a forensic debate was in progress, the Philodorsians busied themselves at the chafing dishes and by adjournment time had the wherewithal to soothe both vanquished and victor.

The Time: 3:15 P. M. Friday, 15th.
The Place: Philodosian Hall.
The Girl: You.

PHILODORIAN

As usual the Philodorsians spent a very enjoyable Friday evening in their comfortable halls. An excellent program was enjoyed by the crowd present and the feature of the evening was introduced by our sisters, the Philodorsians, when they graced the occasion with their presence and capped off the evening's enjoyment by compounding many chafing dish delicacies.

The program—Lecture, Prof. Patterson; reading, Perry Reigleman. Debate—Resolved, that the results of the present direct primary system do not justify its continuance. Affirmative, Wm. Stone, Harry McCain; negative, Wesley Beckley, Clark Belknap. The decision of the judges was in favor of the negative.

ADELANTE.

Owing to an oversight a reporter from the Adelante Society was not appointed in time for the first number of the Collegian—an oversight due because we were busy doing things not because we had not yet begun work. Though the society is somewhat hampered in not having an altogether suitable place of meeting, the Adelante spirit for which we have been known is present in vast quantities. It is only a matter of time when our equipment as to room will be surpassed by none in the University. Until then our work will continue to be of the same high standard as heretofore.

Last June our representative won the silver cup in the annual Inter-Society Oratorical Contest. Any young woman student may profit by affiliating with the Adelante Society. We meet every Friday afternoon at three o'clock on the third floor of the old Liberal Arts building. Visitors are always welcome.

WEBSTERIAN.

The disciples of Daniel Webster held forth in chapel Friday night, being unable to meet in their new halls now being prepared.

A considerable proportion of our society was present, who with numerous visitors listened to an excellent address by President Homan, on the value of literary work. President Homan discussed the subject in a thoroughly personal manner, and gave us many words of good advice which will materially influence our course in the future.

An excellent piano solo was given by Robert Eakin, who exhausted his repertoire responding to encores. Mr. Eakin is an unusually fine pianist and the society is indeed fortunate in his possession.

The debate was good and showed much ability on both sides, each of which had given the subject under discussion earnest and thoughtful consideration. Resolved, that the right of franchise in municipalities should be restricted by a property qualification. Affirmative, Roy Shields, "Cupid" Allen; negative, Winfield Emmel, "Rusty" Schramm. The decision was in favor of the affirmative.

for the first meeting of the Young Woman's Christian Association. Miss Bartlett gave a very interesting talk.

The vocal solo rendered by Miss Irma Shumway was very good and much enjoyed by all. We wish to thank Miss Shumway for her kind assistance.

The meeting was then turned over to the girls and many splendid talks were heard about the benefits derived from the Association. There was a well-filled room and almost every girl who had been in the Association formerly testified as to the great good she had received. There were many new girls present and we hope to have all of them in the Association this year. We extend a hearty invitation to all—Girls, you can not afford to miss the opportunities of strengthening your spiritual life.

JUNIOR LAWS MEET.

Monday evening, October 4, the largest Junior Law class ever matriculated at Willamette University met in the College of Medicine for the first recitation of the year. The class roll contains the names of eighteen ordinary mortals and one girl, making nineteen in all.

An organization will soon be effected, after which the Juniors will be prepared to meet all comers in any old contest at any old time. Meanwhile we are unraveling the mysteries of government as embodied in the immortal Blackstone.

RHODES SCHOLARSHIP.

October 19th and 20th the examinations for the Rhodes Scholarship will be held in Eaton Hall. As yet no candidates from Willamette have announced their intention of competing for the prize, although there are several from the University of Oregon. If a candidate fails this year he is to have no other opportunity, but if he is successful, his name will be placed upon the waiting list with the assurance of being sent out in a year or two for a three years course abroad.

Willamette has one representative at Oxford now in the person of Edward Winans. Why not another?

President Homan spent Sunday, October 10th, in Salem.

SENIOR LAWS ELECT.

Promptly at the close of class, Belknap leaped the rail that divides the professor from the embryo lawyers, and entered the pulpit.

The name of Willard Wirtz was proposed for president. He was unanimously elected to that high and honorable office. The name of Percy Cupper was advanced for vice president. He immediately filed a demurrer and stated as his reasons that he was the possessor of that dignity last year. "Judge" Smith was elected in his stead.

Roy Shields was unanimously elected Secretary. The office of treasurer now came up to be filled. George Skiff is well known throughout Salem and the country roundabout as a desperate collector, and he was given the job by the hearty vote of the class. Stone was re-elected Collegian reporter. As is the usual wont among societies of our kind and dignity, the out-going president was elected to the strenuous position of sergeant-at-arms. Belknap gracefully slipped off the old and donned the new. He is ready at all times to restore order among the gentlemen of the bar whenever in their enthusiasm they confound the peace and quiet of the bar-keeper.

On investigating the matter it was found that the supply of offices was exhausted and a number of the boys overlooked. By the unanimous vote of the class, "Cupid" Allen was elected the Lord High Keeper of the Marriage Roll. In him are reposed all our hopes, our fears, our trials and tribulations. In his smile we see our fortunes flare up like a new lit candle; in his frown—(draw the curtain.)

A row between Yates and Skiff now broke out with tumultuous fury. Inquiries being made as to the point at issue, it was found that Yates claimed the honor of nominating Carl Wimberly president of the last Moot Court which claim was contested by Skiff. On being submitted to arbitration it was decided in favor of Yates.

This endeth the records of the meeting. Be it good or bad the class of '10 is among you.

INTER-COLLEGIATE.

On October 4 the Pacific Wave, the official publication of the University of Washington, will appear straight from its own press and printing plant. Installed in the educational building of the A. Y. P. Exposition the Wave will issue daily as a four-page folder and on Monday will enlarge to an eight-pager. The printer and pressmen will be experienced and only the repertorial and editorial staff will be composed of students.

A special telegraphic mail service will be established with the other colleges on the Pacific Coast. This is the only college paper in the United States so conducted.

COLLEGE LIFE.

It has been commonly said during the last two or three years, and not without foundation, that College Spirit in Willamette was one of the relics of the remote past. This should cease to be. With Eaton Hall just dedicated, with one of the largest Freshman classes ever enrolled in this institution, with a Willamette Law School graduate taking first honors in the State Bar examination, and two members of '08 of the School of Medicine taking first and second places in the examination before the State Medical Board, we should all be justly proud of our old historic University, revive that little spark of College Spirit that has lain dormant, and fan it into a strong healthy blaze.

The faculty at O. A. C. now numbers 101.

The official paper of the Student Body of the University of Oregon is to be published semi-weekly this year and is to be known as the "Oregon Emerald."

At the first meeting of the Student Body held this year, President Shields appointed a committee consisting of Clark Belknap, Mary Gittins and James Crawford to revise the constitution. Many provisions of the old constitution are now redundant while new phases of student activity render additions necessary.

Simpson College, Indianola, Iowa, has decided on the following questions for Inter-Collegiate Debate this year: "Resolved, that the United States government should adopt and maintain a system of postal savings banks."

"Resolved, that mortgages, bonds, notes, and similar tangible credits be exempt from taxation in the hands of the holders thereof."

On the side—Whenever Newmeyer wishes to spend the evening at Bennet's he bribes his sister to call up the house, talk to Theo for awhile, incidentally ask if she is to be at home that evening, and then remark that Phil would like to come around. Lucky man, Phil, to have a sister who is willing to prepare the way for you.

Fifty men report for practice every night up at "Oregon." The 20 men picked for the first team squad average 180 pounds. The team will probably be picked from the following men: Clark, Pinkham, Main, Gillis, Kitz, Storie, Bailey, Kellog, McKinley, Chandler, Latourette, Kestley, Sulliman, Taylor, Scott, Henderson, Michael, Mitchell, Hickson, Walker.

"Judge" Smith, of Happy Valley, is again distributing smiles and sunshine in our midst. Sir, your flock rejoices in your return.

Fine weather we're having these days. That is, if it isn't raining by the time this issue is out.

"Three is a crowd, and there were three—

He, the parlor lamp, and she. Two is company; and no doubt, That is the reason the lamp went out."

G. W. Johnson would like to fit you out with a pair of Packard Shoes, the best on the market.

Absence minded Prof, picking up hair brush, "Gracious, how I need a shave."—Ex.

Scene—An upper hallway. Time—Any day in the week. A group of new students frantically watching a young man frantically counting; 99859, 99858, 99857—A wave of sympathy passing over their faces they asked an older student, "What is the matter with the poor fellow?" "Oh, nothing," was the reply, "That's just Em-mel counting the minutes until Atha's return."

"My daughter," and his voice was stern,

"You must set this matter right What time did that Sophomore leave the house

Who sent his card last night?"

"His work was pressing, father, dear, And his love of it so great, Before a quarter of eight."

Then a twinkle in her bright blue eye, And her dimple deeper grew, "Tis surely no lie to tell him that, For a quarter of eight is two."
