

PLAN TO REACH NEW STUDENTS IS INSTITUTED

Extensive Letter Writing Campaign Begins; Hearty Support Is Assured

RICHARDS PRESENTS IDEA

Names Secured of Students Who Should Be Interested in College—Ruth Perringer, Mildred Wiggins and Nichols in Charge.

A campaign for new students that promises to be more extensive than that of any previous year was launched at the chapel exercises last Wednesday morning, and given a further impetus in the student body meeting Friday.

Prof. E. C. Richards, secretary of education, inaugurated the idea to assist him in his work in securing new students. His plan was submitted to the executive committee, and was then made known to the students. A committee consisting of Ruth Perringer, Mildred Wiggins and Harold Nichols has charge of the actual arrangements.

The plan is to have each student write letters to the high school graduates, especially those who are planning to enter college next fall. At the Wednesday meeting names were secured of those whom the students know are considering Willamette, and those who are especially desirable. There were 260 names handed to the committee as a result of this request. To these were added those whom Professor Richards has met, and many others that are considered as possibilities, making the total number of letters to be written about 600.

Faculty Present Ideas.

With Professor Richards presiding, members of the faculty spoke regarding the proposition at chapel last Wednesday. Prof. J. T. Matthews, Prof. F. Von Eschen, and Coach R. L. Mathews in speaking dealt particularly with the present war demands that are being made on the young men of the nation. It was the consensus of opinion that all who desired to gain a college education could better serve the country by properly preparing, and then offering their services as leaders in civic, social and governmental reforms that are sure to accompany the struggle. Coach Mathews was especially urgent in his plea for the college men to remain in college, and for all who desire such training to be urged to come next fall. He expressed the belief that "selective conscription" will permit all who are earnestly seeking to prepare for the bigger places in life to continue their preparation.

Students Favor Plan.

A "Pep" meeting was held by the students Friday morning to push the proposition through. Rousing speeches by different members brought out the salient features of the campaign, and made everybody feel that the one way to make Willamette the greatest college in the world was to write from 10 to a dozen letters. Gladys Carson gave some practical reasons why people should go to college which might be included as arguments. Harold Eakin sounded his usual note of warning that we are all covered with moss, and are about ready to "kick the bucket." He agreed, however, that if this campaign were successful there was still some hope. The personal side of the letter writing idea was presented by Eotna Enamel. Expressing great faith in personal letters, she told the students that this was the one feature that would distinguish the letters from Willamette from the circular letters sent out by other colleges. In closing the discussion, Alpheus Gillette presented the idea of loyalty. His contention was that those who could not be loyal to Willamette ought first to be thrown in the mill race, and then sent to some place where they could feel at home. He also gave his experience while working for the university two years ago, saying that it is the student body in whom the high school graduates are interested, and not the mere fact that Willamette has a good faculty, excellent equipment, and an ideal location.

After some remarks by Professor Richards, and Coach Mathews, the

Hard Work and Democratic Life at Presidio Camp

Life at Presidio Training Camp is not a vacation. The embryo officers drill a large part of the day and study in the evening. The studying is not compulsory, but those who wish to make good realize its necessity.

The University men at the Presidio are not located near each other. Earl Fiegel is four blocks from any of the others. The camp is very democratic; men who have had years of experience are placed side by side of men who have had none, and the insignia of any former offices has been taken from their uniforms. Everyone is on his own merit.

MISS EMMONS IS ONLY GRADUATE

From College of Music; Was Presented in Recital by Dr. Frank W. Chace

Mastery of Piano Portrayed—Skillful Performer on Pipe Organ—Will Continue Studies Next Year.

Miss Lucile Emmons, the only person to be graduated from the Department of Music this year, was presented in recital by Dr. Frank Wilbur Chace Tuesday evening in Waller Chapel.

The entire program presented by Miss Emmons was a triumph of musical interpretation. The wide variety of selections chosen and the exquisite finish of each proved Miss Emmons to be a performer of the highest order on both piano and organ.

Shows Organ Technique.

Strength and sweetness characterized her treatment of the organ solo Angel's Serenade by Braga, Chopin's Scherzo B Flat Minor Op. 31 showed best, perhaps, Miss Emmons' mastery of technique while Mendelssohn's Capriccio Brillante Op. 22, of which the orchestra parts were played on the organ by Dr. Chace, was brilliantly executed.

Archie Smith sang several numbers which were received with the usual bursts of applause.

The platform was decorated with palms and cherry blossoms.

The entire program was as follows:

- Bethoven—Sonata Op. 81.
- Adagio—Das Lebewohl.
- Allergro—
- Andante Expressivo—Die Abwesenheit
- Vivacissimamente—Das Diedersehn
- Organ Solo.
- Braga—Angel's Serenade.
- De la Tombelle—Marche Pontificale.
- Baritone Solo.
- Speaks—Morning.
- Tours—Mother o' Mine.
- Archie Smith.

Chopin.

- Preudes—B Minor No. 6, C Sharp Minor No. 10, C Minor No. 20, D Flat No. 15; Etudes—Op. 25 No. 9, Op. 25 No. 7. Scherzo B Flat Minor Op. 31.

Baritone Solo.

- Homer—Requiem.
- Hahn—Invictus.
- Archie Smith.

Schubert-Liszt—Der Lindenbaum.

Miss Emmons plans to continue her study on the pipe organ for another year, after which she will probably teach.

Errol C. Gilkey Joins Army

Errol C. Gilkey, who has been attending New York University for the past year, has joined the Quartermaster's Corps of the army. He also states that his studies in the University will also be discontinued.

Reetz Allows Quaker Maid to Steal Away His Heart

Two days after graduation Carl Reetz is to be married, at last the meaning of that sagacious smile of his has been unraveled. The bounding bubble of mystery has exploded.

The lady who is to honor him by becoming his wife is Miss Marjorie Hazelton, a freshman in Pacific College, Newberg.

"Martha" as Carl was affectionately called, was one of the most popular library fusers on the campus.

"WILLAMETTE U DAY" OBSERVED

Prof. Von Eschen and Dr. Steeves Special Speakers at First M. E. Church

Morning Service Given Over to W. U.—Young Men Can Serve Nation By An Gaining Education.

The claims of old Willamette and of higher education in general was the theme of the services at the First M. E. Church Sunday morning. This day was "Willamette University Sunday" and was observed in many Methodist churches throughout the Northwest.

Professor Florian Von Eschen, Dr. B. L. Steeves and Dr. R. N. Avison gave addresses appropriate to the occasion.

The plea of Professor Van Eschen was for young men to go to college next year instead of enlisting immediately. He said "The government does not want the young man under 21 years of age. It has repeatedly shown this in advising the college and high school men to complete their courses. There will be need for specialists in every line of work as well as soldiers in their great conflict, and every man should develop himself according to his ability.

"There is no better way to attain self-development than through college training. The college man stands 400 chances of success where the man without such training has only one. Therefore the young men should go on with their education and thereby fit themselves to better serve their country."

Three Departments.

Dr. Steeves presented more in detail the claims of Willamette University. He stated that he was graduated from three departments of Willamette—the literary, the medical and the matrimonial. He then gave a brief history of the institution showing why it deserved the support of the Methodism of the Northwest, and particularly of Oregon. "It is a poor Methodist who does not wish to see Willamette grow.

Needs of University.

"The needs of the University include money for a girls' dormitory and other donations and annuities. An increased student body next year in spite of war conditions is something for which every friend of the University can work. We should have 1000 students at Willamette if all Methodism would be generous with its support. It is a safe place to send young people and whether you can give money or not you can all influence high school graduates to come to the University this fall."

Dr. Avison closed the service with fitting advice relative to the war times, and urged the people to support Willamette University now as never before.

BOWERSOX BECOMES PHIL

New Member Discourses at Length in Caesar's Language.

Clang! Clang! Clang! The peal of a cow bell closed the chapel services at Willamette University last Thursday.

The upper classmen thought that last year's "chapel cow" had again wandered into the sanctuary, but worse than that, the bearer of the bell was dressed like a clown from Al G. Barnes' circus.

As the students filed out of Waller Hall the clown mounted a table near the walk and in terms of "Galilia est omnia divisa in partes tres," discoursed as only a classic student can in the language of the gods.

At first some thought he was an over-worked senior who had lost his "power of mental attacks" but it was discovered to be Freshie Laverne Bowersox the latest victim of the initiation service of the Philodorian Literary Society.

Professor W. S. Pitman Speaks to Students

Professor W. S. Pitman of the Oregon Normal School was the speaker in chapel Tuesday morning.

Professor Pitman spoke of his own Alma Mater and told a few incidents of his college days and some of the remarks of his teachers that had carried a lesson. His early experiences as an orator were amusingly related.

FACULTY NOMINEES FOR ALBERT PRIZE

Mabel Garrett, Raymond Attebery, and Victor Collins Selected—Popular Vote for Final Choice.

Mabel Garrett, Raymond Attebery and Victor Collins were the three candidates nominated by the faculty for the Albert Prize.

The student body will select one of the three by secret ballot next Friday.

In selecting the candidates the faculty took into consideration the provision made by the donor of the prize. This states that the award shall be given to the student having a record for faithful study and scholarship not below the average who, during the school year, opportunities considered, has made the greatest progress toward the ideal in character, service, and wholesome influence.

Each of the three students nominated is in every way worthy of this honor and the election promises to be a very close one. Mabel Garrett is a junior and during her three years at Willamette has always taken an active part in the affairs of the University. At present she is vice-president of the junior class and chairman of the meetings committee of the Y. W. C. A. Raymond Attebery is a sophomore now serving in the militia at La Grande, has been a popular and active leader in the life of the school. At the time he enlisted he was president of his class and president of the Y. M. C. A. Entering the University last fall, Victor Collins was soon recognized as a leader among his classmates and his many sterling qualities have made him popular with the entire student body. Mr. Collins is also with Company M at La Grande. He was chairman of the Bible study committee in the Y. M. C. A.

The results of the student ballot will be judged by a plurality of votes.

Courtier Baffled by French Maid at Owyhee Club; Didn't Have Card

"Bill" Marsters made his first acquaintance with a French maid Saturday night when he called for his lady love at the Owyhee club. There was a Chresto party on for the evening. Bill, dressed up in his best, sailed up to the club door with all the dignity possessed by a sophomore. To his utter surprise and discomfort a beautiful French maid opened the door. "Please come in," she said with a slight French accent, at the same time she held a card tray out in front of the caller. He fumbled in all his pockets; grew red and pale by turns; first stood on one foot then on the other; and finally stammered, "I haven't any card." The maid very courteously ushered him into the drawing room to await his lady.

After the couple had left, the Owyhee girls decided that Miss Mildred Johnson, one of their members, made entirely too good a French maid and that she might, if encouraged, go into the profession, so she abandoned the role, and all men, who in the future visit the club will not have the extreme pleasure of being ushered in by a French maid.

'Gloomey Gus' and 'Baldy' Quit Willamette Life for the Remainder of Year

Much to the regret of the entire student body, Harry Bowers and Gustav Anderson are leaving the campus for the rest of the semester. Gustav Anderson goes to Sioux City, Iowa, where he has accepted a position with the Meinrath Brokerage Co. He will probably take his old place on the road selling loganberry juice and fruit. He expects to ship two carloads of pears this fall and if possible return to Willamette next year.

Although Harry Bowers will no doubt visit the campus from time to time, he is unable to continue his scholastic work on account of home duties. He will be back for next year's work and hopes to graduate with his class.

"Gloomey Gus" and "Baldy" are two of the popular men on the campus, being active in the glee club, variety quartet and each having served his term as manager of the 1918 Wallulah. They will also be missed in the Websterian Society and in the class of 1918.

Remember June 2 is bargain day among Salem merchants.

HARRY BOWERS RECEIVES GAVEL

Presented with Symbol of Authority by President Maclean; Is Hopeful

Margaret Garrison, Harold Eakin and Herald Dooce Elected to Forensic Council.

With Violet Maclean presiding the last regular student body meeting of the year held last Friday was a rousing scene.

After the letter writing campaign was outlined, and assured the support of the students, the regular order of business was then taken up. In accordance with a constitutional ruling the forensic council for next year was elected. Those nominated were Margaret Garrison, Harold Eakin, Herald Dooce, Adolph Spiess, and Charles Randall. The first three were elected, thus fulfilling the requirement that at least one must be a bar W member in debate and oratory.

In conclusion Harry Bowers, president-elect, was summoned to the rostrum and presented with the student body gavel by President Maclean. In response to a demand for a speech, Mr. Bowers outlined his administrative policy for next year. In part he stated that the present crisis made him feel doubtful about the success of next year's term, and just what was the right thing to do. But since he realized the necessity that college work be continued he had decided to come back next year and do his best for Willamette and the nation at large.

Mr. Bowers at first pictured the athletic field as the scene of a co-ed military drill every afternoon, and the student body session as a woman's rights meeting, but closed with optimistic remarks for a bigger and better Willamette in spite of adverse conditions.

Corporal "Pete" Devises New Washing Apparatus

Many and varied are the experiences of the boys in Company M. The other day Corporal Arvid Peterson was seized with an irresistible desire to clean up things in general. There weren't any of the Kaiser's men handy so he decided to do a plain ordinary American washing—like they do back home. He looked about in vain for a nice galvanized tub and glass wash-board—the kind his mother used to show him on Monday mornings—but alas, congress had evidently forgotten Corporal Arvid Peterson, of Company M, Oregon National Guard, sometime regular fellow at Willamette University, when the wash-tubs were given out.

Not at all discouraged Pete got a nice big kerosene can and a piece of window screening and put out a washing that would do credit to the Lausanne Hall laundry—at least he says so!

"A STUDENT IN ARMS"

It Will Pay You to Read This Book—Written By One in the Trenches.

Extracts from Donald Hankey's "A Student in Arms" were read by President Doney in chapel last Wednesday morning.

"A student in Arms" was first published as a series of articles in the Spectator and has but recently been put into book form. Written by a man in the trenches, who has since given his life for his country, the book is rightfully gaining a wide reading. The thoughts, ideas and conclusions of a man who has had an actual experience in the occurrences of which he writes is particularly attractive to readers who become weary of the opinions of theorists.

A copy of this book is in the University library. It is worthy of reading both for its literary and for its educational value.

Dan Cupid Gets Freshman

Among the men who could not withstand the deadly effects of Cupid's darts was one, Eugene Schiewe, a freshman. Said event happened during the first week-end in May at the little Burg about 50 miles north of Salem. However, the gentleman had the presence of mind to leave his wife in Portland and return to Salem to continue his scholastic pursuits in the university.

University to Take Part in Memorial Day Services

Upon May 30, Decoration Day, under the direction of Coach Mathews as marshal of the day the university students and faculty will march in the annual patriotic parade.

Willamette will lead the student contingent, the high school will come second and the grade schools follow. In view of the war times rampant in this country it is planned to make this year's Memorial Day exercises unusually patriotic. The full plans of the day have not yet been announced.

The parade will form at 1:30.

LARGE AUDIENCE ENJOYS RECITAL

Margaret Garrison and Faye Bolin Presented by Prof. Helen Miller Senn

Advanced Pupils in Public Speaking Department—Unusual Ability Exhibited.

A large audience greeted Faye Bolin and Margaret Garrison Saturday night, May 19, when they were presented in recital by Professor Helen Miller Senn of the Public Speaking Department.

The young women who have been studying under the direction of Professor Senn for two years, showed remarkable development and careful constructive training.

Miss Bolin's first number, "The Old United States," was especially suited to her wonderful ability in character work. Throughout this selection she carried seven distinct character parts, definitely and naturally making transitions, and leaving a clear impression of each character with the audience. The dominant note of patriotism in the story made it timely and effective. Her second selection, "A Sisterly Scheme," necessitated the impersonation of a saucy sixteen-year-old girl and a very serious young man which she did with her usual cleverness and versatility.

Dramatic Numbers.

Miss Garrison's rendition of "Pauline Pavlona" displayed her exceptional ability and succeeded in placing her audience in the atmosphere of the Russian court. With extraordinary skill and sympathy she interpreted the life of royalty. But perhaps her greatest ability was shown in her reading of Lady Gregory's "The Travelling Man." She introduced the play by giving an appreciation of Lady Gregory's contribution toward the perfection of the Irish Theatre. The difficult Irish dialect was handled by Miss Garrison with remarkable naturalness and ease. The real purpose, the spirited significance of the play was brought home to the audience with rare delicacy and power. The whole rendition was characterized by a decided artistic finish.

The work of these pupils approached that of professional artists and reflects the utmost credit upon themselves and the Department of Public Speaking.

Musical numbers consisting of a piano solo by Lucile Emmons, a whistling solo by Mrs. LaMoine R. Clark, and a vocal solo by Lela Belle McCaddam added variety to the program.

Phils Have Dual Debate; Maulden Elected Reporter

There is a noticeable decrease in the attendance of the Philodorian since the boys enlisted. However, the brave (?) few remaining are determined to keep the good work going. At the meeting Wednesday evening Mr. Stewart gave a reading. Two dual debates were on the program, "Resolved, the government should resort to conscription rather than a call for volunteers." Affirmative, Wm. Maulden; Negative, Warren Slabough. "Resolved the Phils should disband and enlist immediately." Affirmative, Waldo Marsters; negative, Leigh Douglas.

Mr. Green welded the gavel during a lively discussion of plans for disposing of the Chinese eggs which recently came into the possession of the society.

William Maulden was elected reporter in place of Mr. Ohling who recently enlisted. Owing to various complications the meeting for next Wednesday was dispensed with.

SEABECK CALLS YOUNG MEN OF COAST COLLEGES

Annual Y.M.C.A. Conference to be Held June 14 to 23; Able Leaders

DR. STONE TO BE THERE

All Colleges to Be Represented—Six Willamette Men Attended Last Year—All Forms of Sports May Be Enjoyed.

Seabeck is at the foot of the lofty snow-capped Olympic Mountains, a peaceful little fishing hamlet upon whose clean gravel beaches rises and falls the tides of the great Pacific ocean two hundred miles away.

Seabeck, where the young men of the Northwest gather this year for their annual Y. M. C. A. student conference nine days, June 14 to 23. Many of the ablest leaders of student work in the country will be there to do their best to make the conference worth while.

Seabeck Spirit.

Seabeck is for fellowship. The leaders put forth every effort to make the conference real, practical and permanent. Sissy religious fanatics are not wanted. Men with manhood who can live men's lives, "fight a good fight" and live an active life not for self but for the good of others wherever they may be, in China or a village in America.

Seabeck is reached by a 60 mile ride on the Hoods canal south from Seattle. That first morning on the boat the men of the delegations from various colleges meet. W. S. C. U. of W., I. S. C., O. A. C. U. of O. C., P. S., C. I. S. and W. U. and others.

The Leaders.

Seabeck and the men who make it a success. Gale Seaman a tactful good fellow who does much of the hard work will not take any personal credit. Ivan B. Rhodes a man of masterful personality state secretary of Oregon and Idaho. Dr. Henry C. Mason pastor of the University Presbyterian church, Seattle, the wit of any company, a Scotchman and every inch a man. This year men will be privileged to hear Dr. John Timothy Stone of Chicago and a favorite speaker at the big conference in the past, Northfield, Lake Geneva, and Estes Park. Professor Norman F. Coleman of Reed College, and many others, all of them top notchers in their line of work.

Willamette At Seabeck.

Seabeck is made homelike for Willamette students by the presence of Carl Hollingsworth, '13, who takes especial delight in airing his far famed laugh in the Willamette cottage. Each large delegation has a cottage or half a cottage to themselves. In the big room of these cottages the Bible and mission study classes are held each day.

Seabeck days are full. Rising bell at 6:30, early morning watch, breakfast, classes, mass meeting in the school house on the quay, lunch, athletics, hikes, swimming and boating, dinner, an open air meeting at sunset, and lights out at 10.

Seabeck's call last June was answered by six Willamette men: Tinkham Gilbert, Lloyd Haight, Bernard Morse, Oliver Matthews, Charles Randall, and Donald Matthews.

Song Book Supplement Will Not Be Published

Anyone desiring to buy one of the Willamette song books published by the Websterians can get a copy by inquiring at the book store.

The price complete with the supplement is $1. The supplement, including some of the more recent glee songs, can be had for 50 cents.

Gus Anderson, who had these books in charge before his departure, says that it was not advisable to undertake the publication of this year's glee songs because of the strained financial conditions.

Gus says, "Buy a song book."

Evangeline Hall Gets Prize

Evangeline Hall, the popular daughter of Prof. J. O. Hall, secured one of the prizes offered last Saturday at the Brick Bros. Sale. Though receiving but one chance out of 500, she had the right one and carried home a $6 silk umbrella.

Not only are all the Willamette students disgusted by the townspeople as well, who heard the remarks of one, Burgess Ford, at Leslie church a few Sundays ago.

Such an exhibit of pure malice on the part of one who styles himself an alumnus of Willamette deserves no consideration. But the Collegian wishes to thank those on behalf of Willamette, who let his words go in one ear and out the other.

WHAT THE WOMEN THINK OF SEABECK.

"One of the problems that is forever confronting the college student is that of placing the proper value upon his time, his interests, and his money.

"To many of us there is offered a multiplicity of worth while opportunities during our college life which will never be offered us again and how are we going to choose rightly? One good criterion is to observe the attitude of those people who have participated in certain activities and estimate their valuation of them.

"Did you ever ask anyone who had been at Seabeck whether he, or she, was sorry he went?

"Did you ever ask him whether the thirty dollars he spent was wasted money?

"Did you ever ask one of these people to name two or three of the big events of their lives and have them fail to mention a summer conference?

"Did you ever find a time when these people weren't anxious to tell you all about those ten great days and end up by saying, "You've just got to go yourself to appreciate it?" "We were privileged to spend eight days at Seabeck last summer and the influence of those days of fun and fellowship, of joy and inspiration, of broader vision and deeper purpose will always be one of the greatest memories of our lives."—Aetna Emmel.

"When I think of Seabeck I picture those magnificent Olympic mountains towering over the little valley where one can meet some of the truest, Christian women in America, and can make personal friends of many of the finest college girls in the Northwest—so why shouldn't I want to go?"—Mable Garrett.

"I consider the summer Y. W. Association Conferences one of the greatest inspirations to Christian living which can come into a college girl's life. The association with Christian leaders gives one standards and ideals never to be forgotten."—Gladys Carson.

"I expect inspiration from the fine Christian men and women of the Seabeck faculty, a training for a more efficient work in our own Y. W. C. A. and a wider acquaintance with college girls and most of all an enriching of my life for service."—Vesta Mulligan.

"Above all else the leaders at the 1916 conference were women. They were strong, energetic and earnest in the labor to which they were giving their effort and lives, deeply interested in the higher conceptions of the work yet keeping themselves on the level of the student and office girl. Nothing was too great or too trivial for their consideration if it was not too large or too small for a girl's reflection. Laughter might be heard issuing from the leaders' bungalow after "lights out" had been sounded. They insisted on no false conceptions of propriety. No game was too lively for their participation, yet when one of them spoke or prayed in or out of a service no one could doubt, no one could criticize. What they uttered came not from their learning, not from their experience but from their all-knowing, all understanding woman's heart."—Averil Harris.

"Seabeck is ideally located for one who wants recreation. There are tennis and volley ball courts on the grounds, while the blue and green waters of the Sound invites one to explore their cool depths. There are possibilities for glorious hikes extending in every direction. One has only to climb the winding trail behind the hotel to gain a wide-stretching view of the Sound with its many bays and projecting points of land. The beautiful snow tipped Olympics which look so very close have lured more than one 'hiker' to test his endurance, only to find that several hours' brisk walking only makes them look farther away.

"With all these opportunities for sports, everyone can find his specialty and have ten days of the most enjoyable exhilarating sport ever."—Flora Houzel.

"CONVENTIONAL DECORUM."

Recently I have heard several groups of students discussing rules of etiquette and their ignorance of what was the proper thing to do upon certain occasions. I believe that most of us must plead guilty to ignorance in many things that a college student is expected to know. We know of course that we come to college primarily for our intellectual development but the people back home expect us to know all about a great many other things and whose fault is it if we don't? Some people blame it on the boys, some on the girls and others on the faculty but I don't believe it is half as important to fix the blame as it is to find a remedy.

The other day a group of students were talking of their visits to the state schools and while they all declared vehemently that they wouldn't exchange Willamette for any college in the world they were of the opinion that Willamette students were sometimes woefully ignorant in a few of the little courtesies that should distinguish the all round college graduate.

I believe that every thoughtful student wishes that there were more opportunities for him or her to gain such knowledge and is wondering to whom to appeal. Should the literary societies have a series of lectures, should the Christian associations devote more time to such subjects or could a few hours of the "College Life" course be devoted to these topics?

—A. L. E., '17.

PATRIOTISM AND MODESTY.

It's all according to the point of view whether a frequent trip to the S. P. depot at 10:10 p. m. to watch the soldiers go through would increase one's desire to be a soldier or not. The other night a group of Willamette students were at the station to say good-bye to one of the boys bound for San Francisco. Pretty soon a train full of soldiers arrived and some loyal Salem girls were there to give them a welcome. Of course the soldier boys were lonesome and needed cheering up and in their patriotic desire to do their bit the lassies dared the dangers of the greasy, dirty coaches and, assisted by the strong arms of the soldiers, climbed up the sides of the cars and gave the boys a genuine greeting—the kind your sister and sweetheart give you—don't you know?

The boys seemed to enjoy it and the girls didn't really appear to be performing a difficult moral duty—but some people wondered whether the limits of patriotism and real girlish modesty weren't sometimes one and the same thing.

Executive Committee Reorganized; Election of Yell King Deferred

That the student body's business might be carried on efficiently a general reconstruction was necessary within the executive committee. Violet Maclean was chosen to act as president for the remainder of the year, and Rosemond Gilbert, vice-president. To fill the other vacancies it was voted that the newly elected student body officers be made members of the committee. They are Lola Cooley, Helen Goltra, and Harold Nichols.

In the last meeting the election of a yell king and athletic manager was deferred. It was also voted that a plurality count decide the Albert prize balloting. This will take place Friday morning by secret ballot.

Send the Collegian to the folks at home.

SOCIETY

Willamette graduates are ever boosters for their school. The Willamette women in Salem have one of the most popular clubs in the city known as the Rhapsodians.

This club was organized two years ago. The membership is limited to twenty and every member is either a graduate of or the wife of a graduate of Willamette University. Mrs. C. E. Bates is president; Mrs. K. W. Walton, vice-president; Mrs. Albert A. Siewert, secretary; and Mrs. W. H. Darby, treasurer. The club met with Mrs. G. C. Bellinger last Thursday and did Red Cross work. Fruit cocktail, cakes and mints were served. The club meets every two weeks. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Guy Smith.

Mr. Vergil A. Parker, of Albany, spent Sunday at the Owyhee Club as the guest of Miss Beth Briggs.

Miss Gladys Carson had as her week-end guest, Miss Ethel Davey, of Mill City.

The Adelantes enjoyed a most interesting and instructive program on Friday, May 11. The opening number for the afternoon was the vocal solo by Miss Alberta Goulder. In a beautiful, clear, rich voice, she rendered "My Sailor Lad" and "Nancy Lee." A humorous paper entitled "Superstitions of the Sea" was read by Miss Mary Eyre. These superstitions, as held by the sailors, have come to be traditional, and all incidents which occur during a voyage are fated to bring some misfortune, for the sailors even hold certain superstitious ideas concerning clergymen and women on board the ship. Miss Marian Emmons delighted the members of the society with a beautiful violin solo. Those girls who were not fortunate enough to have seen "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" a few weeks ago were fully recompensed upon hearing Miss Cooley's discussion of "Children of the Sea." The most prominent members of the sea families were described, such as the walrus, octopus, and the flying-bird all of which were exceedingly real and horrid. Miss Lucile Emmons conducted an interesting and snappy parliamentary practice. A short business meeting immediately followed the program.

Miss Ruth Stewart entertained at luncheon Wednesday noon, Prof. J. T. Matthews.

Dinner guests of Miss Ruth Stewart and Mrs. Louis Stewart on Wednesday evening were Miss Myrtle Holmes, of Park Place, and Mr. Blaine Hansell, of Moro.

On the afternoon of May 11 the Chrestomathean literary society entertained with a program and tea the Philodorian literary society. The program was altogether along Japanese lines. Those participating were Misses Helen Moore, May Mickey, Helen Satchwell, Caroline Rhubety, Harriette Bishop, Estelle Satchwell and Beatrice Dunette.

The Chrestomathean girls entertained a part of the University girls at a picnic held across the river Friday afternoon. Every one left the campus carrying various packages and cups. Arriving at the Ferry, they squeezed in between automobiles and buggies, in order to gain transportation en masse. The spot selected for the feed was cool and shady with an outlook on the river. Girls can build fires for soon a large bonfire was burning. Weines and buns seemed a great attraction. After eating all one could, animal cookies were passed so that each would not have to walk home.

As 6 o'clock drew near the majority of the girls found it necessary to return. The ones left sung songs and held a marriage ceremony with Miss Mary Walker as bride and Mr. S. Williamson as bridegroom. The Trio sang the wedding march. Mr. M. Miller officiated. After all congratulations were extended, the merry crowd turned homeward.

Miss Freda Campbell spent the week-end at her home in Independence.

Miss Beatrice Newport visited at her home in Lebanon over the week-end.

Mrs. C. C. Emmel, of Sherwood, and Dr. and Mrs. G. G. Forbes, of Portland, were the week-end guests of the Misses Aetna and Esther Emmel.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hendricks entertained at Sunday dinner Mrs. Alice Dodd, the Misses Esther and Aetna Emmel, and Mr. Alpheus Gillette.

Miss Margaret Mallory entertained in honor of her house guest, Miss Salina Dick, of Portland, at a Post-Prize feed on Saturday of last week. Poetry, just and song was the manner of entertainment. Miss Ohling, '16, presided at the punch bowl, Miss Esther Cox assisted at the chafing dish. As additional guests there were Misses Joe Bartholomew of Portland; Fannie McKennon, Lucille McCulloch, Veda Brown, Ethel Fogg, and Evelyn Gordon.

Monday evening, May 21, the Leslie Epworth League gave a farewell party to the Willamette students who have been attending church there. A short three hours was spent most enjoyably in playing an unusually large number of lively games. Refreshments were served in the small League room which was artistically decorated with scotch broom and rose vines. Shaded lights added a pleasing effect. Rev. Aldrich entertained the crowd with a few humorous readings.

With the conclusion of this evening of fun the students, though loath to depart, sang their good-night song to which the "Leslies" replied in the same strain. Even though it was a farewell party everyone enjoyed himself thoroughly. Every student will remember gratefully the lesson in cordiality taught him by the Leslie League and church.

Miss Ruth Hodge was hostess for a Monday evening dinner in honor of the Misses Elizabeth and Charlotte Tebben.

Miss Margaret Fuller was guest of honor at a three course dinner given by a group of girls friends, in celebration of her birthday, on Friday evening, May 18th. Miss Litha Packenham succeeded in engraving Miss Fuller in the beauties of Bush's posture until the table was spread and the candles were lighted, and then ushered her in to a scene which would gratify the most entrancing dream any girl might have of a birthday surprise.

The Misses Ethel Fogg and Margaret Mallory added sprightliness to the occasion by their spontaneous outbursts of impromptu verses, sung to the accompaniment of the ukulele and bearing due appropriateness and applicability to the various people present.

Miss Gertrude Dillard played ideally, the role of toastmistress. Her mind seemed fertile with suggestive subjects such as "Military Training for Girls," "Dishwashing As An Aid to Digestion," "A Flying Trip Across the Continent On a Forty-eight-Hour Furlough," "In Pursuit of a Porcupine," and "The Advantages of a Dark Skin to Chicken Stealing."

Those gathered around the festive board were the Misses Margaret Fuller, Ruth Stewart, Rose Martin, Margaret Mallory, Ethel Fogg, Evelyn Gordon, Fannie McKennon, Gladys Nichols, Ruth Lawson, Helen Rose, Gertrude Dillard, Glenna Teeters, and Edith Bird. All unite in declaring this to have been one of the most delightful occasions in college life.

In a recent meeting of the Men's Club of the Congregational church Dr. Hall addressed the members on "Some fundamental causes of the present social and ecclesiastical unrest."

Dr. Hall to Speak at Turner.

Under the auspices of the Masonic order and the old soldiers of Turner, Dr. John O. Hall will be the chief speaker at the Decoration Day celebration.

Lloyd Lee Enlists in Army.

Lloyd A. Lee, ex '18, is the latest Willamette student to enlist. Through the local army recruiting office he enlisted in the quartermaster's corps as clerk.

The Tunnel Guard.

The great guard lantern sputters and sputters. Of the barrack room in silence stutters. As the guard is called for each relief. Curses low and guarded mutters of unbelief. Of God and world and weather.

The cold without and stink within. Coal gas, bugs, and men cooped in. Without the roaring clanging din of rumbling freights and care free sin in Pullman's peacock feather.

The cold is clear and crisp and nips. Or wet the tunnel dark air grips. The lonely guard who stalks and stares Shivering numb mid Fero's wears. In God's forsaken weather. —Sergeant R. C. Wygant.

In a recent Philosophy of Education class while discussing the effect that playing with dolls has upon a child's character, Otto Paulus queried, "Do you think dolls should all be beautiful?" Prof. Sherman—"I don't think much of the beautiful doll."

The engagement of Miss Gertrude Cunningham to Lloyd W. Shisler, of Harrisburg, was announced Saturday, at an informal luncheon given by Miss Rosamond Gilbert at her home on Church street. The wedding will occur June 14.

Miss Cunningham is an attractive girl. A member of the Adelante literary society and of the junior class. She is one of the most popular girls of the University. She will return next February to finish her college work and graduate with her class.

Mr. Shisler was graduated with the class of 1916. When in college he was prominent in athletics. He has been an instructor in the St. Helens High School for the past year.

The luncheon was a charming affair. The color scheme of lavender and pink was used. The center piece was a beautiful bowl of baby breath with tiny lavender and pink butterflies on the flowers. Candles of the same color were used. Little tulle bags of rice to which the announcement cards were attached marked each place. At Miss Cunningham's place was a lovely corsage of roses.

Those present besides the bride-elect were: Misses Barbara Steiner, Dorothy Pierce, Helen Pierce, Vesta Mulligan, Lola Cooley, Laura Ross, Ada Ross, and Rosamond Gilbert.

The members of the senior class enjoyed a delightful evening at the home of President and Mrs. Carl G.

MISS GERTRUDE CUNNINGHAM
Whose Engagement was Announced Saturday.

Doney on Friday, May 11. The early part of the evening was most pleasantly spent in composing a newspaper to be sent to the University men in Company M. This paper was under the editor-ship of Mr. Sam R. King who selected his staff and assigned news stories. The paper was a marvelous creation and did credit to the management. The remainder of the evening was spent with games and music. Refreshments consisting of brick ice cream, cake and mints were served by Mrs. Doney, assisted by Mrs. E. C. Richards.

A large representation of the senior class was present and enjoyed Dr. and Mrs. Doney's hospitality.

Departing from the usual custom of holding the junior-senior banquet at the Marion hotel, the junior class of Willamette University entertained the graduating class at a banquet in the W. O. W. log bungalow at the fair grounds Saturday, May 12.

After the dignified seniors had regained their youthful spirits by playing games on the lawn they were taken into the banquet hall. A big fire in the end of the long room blazed a welcome to the guests. The candle-light tables were decorated with pretty baskets of buttercups. The rafters of the ceiling were hung with greenery which gave the place a pleasing informal setting that was a distinct novelty in serving the delicious banquet.

After the last course had been served, Harold Eakin, acting as toast-master, summoned the guests to listen to a series of after dinner speeches. Familiar quotations from the university faculty furnished abundant opportunity for wit, and clever bits of poetry. Toasts as follows were given: "What?" Miss Lola Cooley, '18; "Vot did you say?" Miss Rosamond Gilbert, '17; "My goodness gracious," Miss Ruth Spoor, '18; "Is everybody happy?" Miss Irma Botsford, '17; "As Sech," Donald Matthews; "I don't know, neither does anyone else," Miss Gladys Carson, '17; "It isn't cricket, it isn't playing the game," Alpheus J. Gillette, '17; and "W. U. 1917," Professor James T. Matthews. Professor and Mrs. Matthews acted as the chaperones.

The seniors were then invited out under the trees of fairyland and "Sherwood," the 1917 class play, was staged by the juniors, and the class of '17 were given the opportunity of seeing themselves as others see them. Certainly Alfred Noyes could not have recognized his wonderful drama staged as a farce-comedy.

Ukulele music and college songs sang round the fireplace concluded this evening, one of the most enjoyable of the college year.

A recent wedding of interest in university circles was that of Miss Margaret Gill who became the bride of Dr. L. C. Hobson, Wednesday, May 16, at 3 o'clock, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Gill, on 138 South Cottage.

The rooms were prettily decorated with apple blossoms, and white lilies. Under an improvised arch of spring flowers. Dr. R. N. Avison, of the First M. E. church, performed the impressive ring ceremony. Wagner's wedding march was played by Mrs. Vera Witham Compton. The bride was becomingly dressed in a dark travelling suit with accessories in white. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Following the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served by the Misses Grace Howell and Bessie Gill. Dr. and Mrs. Hobson left on the afternoon train for their home in Creswell, Oregon.

Mrs. Hobson has been art teacher in the University for the last eight years, prior to this she studied in New York City. Dr. Hobson is a graduate of the Willamette medical college. The best wishes of University friends go with the newly married couple.

Any one entertaining doubts concerning the real presence of spring would have had them happily shattered at the Philodorian program last Friday afternoon. From the characteristic speech of "Gloomy Gus" Anderson to the last twitter of birds as interpreted by Mendelssohn, the whole program reflected the spirit of May and its attendant beauties. Mr. Anderson, in his farewell to the Philodorians, remarked that either they were in the wrong society or else he was.

Rubenstein's "Spring Song" was prettily sung by Miss Fannie McKennon. Miss Lucille McCully described and interpreted in an artistic manner the "Colors of Spring," she was followed by Miss Mary Findley who read Wordsworth's "To the Cuckoo."

"Springtime in the Desert" a colorful story by Mary Alberta Beel was read by Miss Ruth Perringer. Miss Olive Rosche concluded the program with a piano solo, Mendelssohn's "Spring Song."

On Saturday evening the Chresto "joint" for the second semester was held at the home of Professor Von Eschen. The members of the two societies, with Coach and Mrs. Mathews and Professor Von Eschen acting as chaperones, gathered at 8 o'clock and began a contest in identifying samples of curious groceries. The winners in this led at the first table in progressive "Methodist peanut" the object of which was to remove peanuts from a heap without disturbing any but the one desired. Miss Helen Satchwell won the greatest number of games and was awarded first prize. Mr. Story received the "booby" prize. After the refreshments of ice cream and cake the company adjourned, leaving their heartfelt thanks and best wishes with the host.

It was a most unique and interesting program with which the senior members entertained the Adelante's on Friday, May 18. With Miss Carrie Cooksey presiding, clad in cap and gown, one might have anticipated a dignified and solemn occasion, but far was it from such for every attraction was characterized by humor and fun. With considerably reluctance, Miss Aetna Emmel discussed "Senior Failures" which doubtless caused the seniors to feel depressed, but hope invaded the veins of the more unfortunate lower classmen who are sometimes apt to consider themselves failures, too. But to revive the aspirations of all, Miss Ruth Hodge presented "Senior Successes" in a clever and witty manner. With such brilliant members in the senior class, there successes were not so astonishing, "but of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these it might have been." A rare treat indeed, for few girls are capable, was the beautiful whistling solo by Miss Esther Emmel. From Adelante seniors, one might expect most illustrious things included in a will, but the "Adelante Will" as presented by Miss Emma Minton fell below our expectations. Miss Minton's will was extremely interesting, but it contained nothing but ordinary commonplace things and we were anticipating something of real value to our institution.

A letter from Miss Eugenia McInturf dated May 18, 1917, New York City, was read by Miss Carrie Cooksey and this proved very surprising for who would ever have dreamed of Miss Aetna Emmel in the movies. Other equally marvelous revelations were made in this paper entitled "The Future." After having heard Miss Emmon's senior recital, the Adelante were eager to enjoy her piano solo. The wise and demure Esther Taylor gave us a few incites into "Senior Reflections," although it might be said that these have occurred for four years and not only during the senior. Yes, indeed that Adelante Ginger Can was a scream from start to finish. Miss Rosamond Gilbert introduced the society to the "Nut Organization" and the "Beany Army" of the campus which included many popular people. To be members of one of these organizations was the ambition of every senior and junior.

Miss Lila Doughty presided over a lively and exciting parliamentary practice. With a few farewell remarks by Mr. Gus Anderson, the senior program was concluded and declared a huge success. It was not enough for the seniors to provide for our intellects, but out of the somewhere they produced the most delicious home made candy which added one more sweet something by which to remember the senior girls.

Invitations have been issued for the musical which will take place Wednesday evening in the First Christian church, at which time Miss Elizabeth Levy will be presented by Mr. William Wallace Graham, of Portland, in violin numbers. Miss Levy will be assisted by Portland artists, Mrs. Kathryn Crayser Street, contralto, and Edgar E. Courson, as accompanist. The program to be presented is one of high artistic merit.

After Miss Lucille Emmons was presented by the College of Music in her senior recital Tuesday evening, a group of Adelante's entertained in her honor at the Spa. The tables were prettily decorated with spring flowers. Thirty-five places were marked by dainty hand painted place cards. A delicious fresh strawberry

Miss Esther V. Emmel, bride-elect, was pleasantly surprised Saturday afternoon, May 19, with a miscellaneous shower given by her sisters, Mrs. F. H. Thompson and Miss Aetna Emmel, at the former's home. The first part of the afternoon was spent in hand-sewing. Later a huge basket laden with mysterious looking packages was carried into the room where the guests were assembled by Master Grover Bellingier, Jr., and Master Frederick Thompson, Jr. This was presented to Miss Esther Emmel who found herself the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

Refreshments were served from the dining room where a color scheme of pink and white was carried out. Mrs. G. G. Forbes and Mrs. Roy Shields presided over the serving table, while the Misses Katherine McClelland, Ruth Spoor, Blanche Baker, and Aetna Emmel assisted. The invitation list included Mrs. C. C. Emmel of Sherwood, Mrs. G. G. Forbes of Portland, Mrs. C. W. Gillette of Woodburn, Mrs. W. C. Emmel of Athena, Mrs. Frank E. Parent of Portland, Mrs. Rufus Thompson of Albany, Mrs. C. G. The Misses Marion Barnes, Edith Stovel, and Veda Brown spent the week-end at the latter's home in New Era.

Miss Mary Notson was the Sunday dinner guest of Miss Ethelyn Hansen at Lausanne.

Miss Hazel Hoekensmith spent the week-end with her parents in Albany.

In spite of the competitive attraction of the circus a large number of freshmen and Salem High seniors gathered in Eaton Hall on Friday evening, May 11, for the annual reception given by the Willamette freshmen in honor of the senior class of Salem High School. Eaton Hall was decorated with the freshman class colors, green and white, with the color scheme carried out in masses of Greenery and flowers.

After being greeted by the receiving line, in which were Dean and Mrs. Alden and the officers of the freshman class, the guests were presented with programs bearing suggested topics for conversation upon interesting and absorbing subjects such as "Squirrel Food," "Mars on the Rampage," and "Spring." Different partners for each number gave the High School seniors an opportunity to become acquainted with the Willamette people and to hear of the glories of life at W. U. Mary Walker, Beth Briggs, Lucille McCully, Hazel Hoekensmith, and Allene Dunbar gave piano numbers during the evening. Tables were arranged in the upper hall at which delicious refreshments of cakes and sherbet were served.

Alpheus Gillette, the present president hopes to launch a plan whereby an employment secretary will have charge of securing work for new men next fall. The employment bureau has proven a considerable aid to new students in years past and an excellent way to make the students appreciate the Y. M. in its efforts to be of service.

Body of H. R. Winslow Found Near Lincoln

The body of H. R. Winslow, the Willamette Law student who was drowned April 26, was found Saturday about two miles south of Lincoln. He lost his life while attempting to prevent a disabled launch loaded with passengers from colliding with a pier of the old bridge. The funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from the chapel of Rigdon & Richardson and were conducted by the Rev. R. N. Avison. Burial was in the City View cemetery.

Alumni Offer Prizes for Good Examination Papers

The Alumni Association of Willamette University has offered two prizes to the students.

One prize for the best examination paper in Latin Grammar and one for the best examination in Constitutional History. Each prize is to be $10. The term work counts for nothing, the decision rests only on the examination.

MEN YOU CAN GET A SEMESTER'S TRAINING IN TEN DAYS

Attend the Annual Conference of the College Y. M. C. A. at Seabeck; Ideal Vacation; Note the Various Activities as Told by a Student Who Has Been There

Seabeck is an old logging camp which has been converted by the owner into an ideal summer resort and dedicated to the use of Christian Associations for summer conferences. It is situated on the small arm of Puget Sound known as Hood's Canal and is accessible only by water or auto stage. The housing equipment of the grounds includes a large hotel and nearly a dozen new cottages which are scattered among cherry and maple trees against the foot of a steep hill. All of these face the water. There is also a general store with post office attachment, a small church and a school house.

Such is the meeting place of the Northwestern Students Y. M. Summer Conference.

In order to provide an idea of conference life I will try to describe the happenings of a typical day. When the 6 o'clock rising bell sounds, those who have the nerve climb into their bathing suits and run down to the dock for a morning plunge. After a half hour spent at morning watch the conference assembles for breakfast and then scatters to the different classes. The schedule provides several courses of study so that each delegate may choose the one which he considers best fitted to his need. I spent my first hour in a Bible study class, my second in a discussion group and the third in a missions study class. To my surprise the last was the most interesting, but it was because we had for leader a young Yale graduate and athlete just back from a missionary trip to China. After our three hours of classes we had a short recess and then met in the lecture room as a conference. The lecture concluded the morning program and though it seemed a bit long at times we soon forgot that in contemplation of a good dinner and a whole afternoon in which to make merry as we chose.

The opportunities for fun are very abundant. We had at our service four clay tennis courts, two turf volley ball courts, a turf indoor baseball diamond, a regulation diamond, quoits, an ideal swimming and boating place and unlimited possibilities for hiking. Some of the fellows also went fishing and clam digging. Each year a track and water meet is held and the man who wins the famous wreck race receives a pennant while the school winning the meet is awarded a big cup. The man who wins the conference elimination tennis tournament is also presented with a silver cup.

Just after supper the delegation leaders discussed matters of importance for a short time and then the whole conference assembled to listen to a life-work address given by some especially successful man such as Governor Lister, of Washington, and President Campbell, of the University of Oregon. After the evening program was finished, a friend and I often pulled out onto the canal in one of the small boats, and just as often we were completely bewitched. With a gentle swell lifting the skiff, a slight breeze stirring the warm air and a full moon smiling complacently down on us from high above the snow clad Olympics—it would have required but a lady and a ukulele to complete a perfect dream.

In conclusion I can but suggest that it is absolutely worth one's while to make a little sacrifice for a Seabeck trip. I know of a college freshman who upon his return was accused by one of his professors of having developed a whole year in the 10 short days, and I have heard more than one man say that a Seabeck experience was worth as much to him as a semester's schooling.

VARSIITY WOMEN DEFEAT OREGON

Return Tennis Meet Played at Eugene Victorious for Willamette

Mary Findley Is Star—Doubles Won By Miss Findley and Miss Billings—One Lost.

By clever and superior playing the varsity co-ed tennis team defeated the University of Oregon women in a return meet Saturday, May 12, at Eugene.

The Oregon co-eds were able to take only one match in singles. Mary Findley, of Willamette, was the star, talking away from Adrienne Epping, Oregon's best player, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3. Miss Findley's sideline smashing was the undoing of Miss Epping.

The tennis meet was a return match and was played on the varsity tennis courts before a good-sized junior week-end crowd.

The only match captured by Oregon was taken by Caroline Alexander from Clara Perkins, 6-3, 4-6 and 6-3. In the doubles Oregon was represented by Adrienne Epping and Marjorie Kay. Willamette presented against these two Mary Findley and Edna Billings. Willamette captured the match in two straight sets of 6-3 each.

This victory on the part of the local team evens up the season's score since Willamette was defeated in the meet held here during the May Day festivities.

BARTHOLOMEW AND CORNER BECOME WEBS

Royal Bumper Does Justice to Webster—Regular Programs Still in Vogue Each Wednesday.

Scholarly talks, followed by the noise of the royal bumper, was the order at the Websterian program of May 9. A short program was given first, Adolph Spiess discussing the subject of The War Editorially, while Oscar Olson gave the members a microscopic view of Carranza at close range. Gus Anderson favored with a vocal solo, and Earl Cotton lent official dignity to the chair during the parliamentary session.

Following this came the initiation of the new followers of Webster, Lyle Bartholomew and Ivan Corner. Many and devious were the devices of torture, and it is safe to say that both men will forever stand in awe at the name of any of the Webster family.

The "Web" program of May 16 was short and impromptu, owing to the absence of several members to attend final practice of the Choral Society. Several men were given opportunity to display their powers of extemporaneous speech, and a lively parliamentary practice was presided over by Lyle Bartholomew.

Mrs. Dodd Tells Students of "College Men I Have Met"

"College Men I Have Met" was the basis of a pleasing chapel address by Mrs. Alice H. Dodd, Tuesday.

Mrs. Dodd in a few words interspersed with clever humor pictured some of the college men she had known in this country and at Oxford, England. How their mercenary and selfish ideals had been ennobled by their years of work in the atmosphere of college halls.

The young German who came with the intent of learning how to make more money and went away with a vision of service for China; the Englishman who went in to politics with high ideals; a young man from North Carolina who went from college with a determination to combat child slavery and a law student who abandoned his chosen profession to enter upon the field of forestry because he thought he could render a greater service.

"Keep your vision," were the closing words of Mrs. Dodd's talk.

PROF. MATTHEWS TO ADDRESS HI SCHOOLS

Spoke Twice At Stayton—Has Dates for Lebanon, Ridgefield and Philomath Addresses.

Professor Matthews preached twice at Stayton Sunday in the Methodist church.

The evening service was in honor of the University. Professor Matthews spoke in favor of a larger freshman class for next year with his usual earnestness.

While in Stayton the professor was entertained at the home of Mr. Gardner.

Professor Matthews says that he has engagements for three high school commencement addresses in Lebanon, Philomath, Oregon, and Ridgefield, Washington. Five other opportunities had to be turned down because of conflicting dates. These appointments will keep him busy for the weeks to come and he wishes to thank the students in view of past and future absences for their earnestness in taking it upon themselves that class work shall be carried on just the same.

A general war has been waged on dust, the floor oiled and various articles polished up. Altogether the museum looks better than it has for several years.

Graduation Will Soon Be Here

Many Willamette Students will pass out from the University never to return again. At least the happy school days will be over and all that will be left to the individual is the education he may have attained, and a fond, lingering memory of "An Old Historic Temple."

ANNUAL CONCERT PROVES WORTHY

Salem - Willamette Philharmonic Society Presents Classical Cantata

"Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" and "Fair Ellen" Given By Chorus—Glee Club Opens Program.

Culminating several month's of consistent rehearsals was the annual concert given by the Salem-Willamette Philharmonic Society at the First Methodist church, Thursday, May 17.

This organization claims as its members not only a majority of the best musical talent in Willamette but of Salem as well. In addition to the presentation of the excellent concert, the music department awarded a one hour credit to the person who attended the rehearsals consistently. It was made a part of the music curriculum.

Introductory to the chorus' first number were two selections by the University's glee club. They presented Thayer's "Song of Prince Rupert's Men," and Hammond's "Lochinvar." These are the club's two most popular pieces.

The society exhibited remarkable mastery in the presentation of S. Coleridge-Taylor's "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast." The tenor solo was sung by Alfred Schramm.

Louise Ruth Benson sang two soprano solos: Delibe's "Elogue"; and Haydn "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair."

The second number of the entire chorus was Burch's "Fair Ellen." Dr. Chace told the theme of the musical. For this number Lela Belle McCaddam took the soprano solo parts, and Archie Smith the baritone parts. In closing one verse of America was sung by the audience and chorus combined.

Mrs. W. H. Burghardt, Jr., acted as pianist, and Hazel Alene Hocken-smith as organist for the chorus' two numbers. Dr. Frank Wilbur Chace was the director.

National Headquarters Make Plea to Y. W. Girls for Sanity in Attitude

"Sanity in our attitude to health and duty," was the keynote of the letter from the student department of the national Y. W. C. A. headquarters which was read by Miss Fannie McKennon to the girls of the Y. W. C. A. last Thursday.

"In this time of national crisis the principles of thrift must be observed. The young women of the Christian Associations have a big task to do for to them comes the duty of helping the less fortunate women of our land to maintain a normal sane view of conditions.

"More leaders are needed than ever before. A greater effort must be put forth to get the able student leaders to attend the summer conference where they will receive help for their new service.

"Practical work must be planned for and the young women are urged to join the Patriotic League, the main purpose of which is to get women to serve their country in the best possible manner by going on with the work they are in and carrying it on to the best of their ability."

Annual School Festival of Marion County Held on Willamette's Campus

In spite of the rainy weather a large number of students from the grade and high schools of Marion county gathered on Sweetland field Saturday to participate in the annual school festival.

A track meet, several baseball games, and several drills by the girls in the gymnasium, made up the program.

In baseball Turner high school defeated the Scotts Mills team 14 to 5. Turner had an easy walk away, both age and experience counted in their favor. Rain fell during most of the game. Last year Woodburn won the trophy cup from Turner but by defeating Scotts Mills Saturday the cup now goes to Turner.

The Central Howell girls in pretty white chiffon dresses won first prize for their May-pole winding in the gymnasium. The Englewood school was given second place.

The other drills given were: Butterfly Drill—Parkersville. Spanish Dance—Central Howell. Russian Haymaking Dance—Washington Junior High School. Folk Dance—Highland School. Norwegian Mountain Dance—Englewood.

May Pole—Parkersville. Because of some fault in registering the Jefferson team was the only one qualified to enter the track meet.

Paul Doney Inaugurated as Chrestophilian President

Featuring the last meeting of the Chrestophilians was the installation of officers. The rest of the program consisted of a piano solo, by Clarke Story; "Why General Joffre Is in America," by Chittick; and a short history of moving pictures, by Spiess. William Marsters led the current events.

Paul Doney gave a brief inaugural speech in which the purposes of the society were set forth.

The next program, to which all men are invited, will be very interesting. Coach Mathews will talk war, and then some war; there will be a debate on the subject, "Resolved, that military training should be required at Willamette," affirmative, Holt and Doughton, negative, Doney and Legg. Horace Rahskopf will touch the funny bones of many with his Mark Twain's Second Rhapsody. Bill Chittick will pour forth with a harmonica solo.

MISS GARRISON TO LOS ANGELES

Will Leave Tomorrow to Take Part in Interstate Prohibitory Oratorical Contest

Four Orators to Vie for Honors—Contest Held at University of Southern California.

Margaret Garrison, who will represent Oregon in the interstate oratorical contest held June 1, leaves for Los Angeles tomorrow. Miss Garrison won first place in the state contest held in McMinnville, April 21, thus making her Oregon's representative. Miss Garrison will spend a few days in San Francisco. While in Los Angeles she will visit the Universal City, the Santa Catalina Island, the Ostrich Farm, and one or two of the resorts. She will be a guest at one of the Sorority Houses.

The contest will be held in the large auditorium of the University of Southern California. The four orators will represent Washington, Oregon, Northern California, and Southern California.

According to the critics who have judged Miss Garrison's oration, Willamette will again win the Interstate contest.

Frat Pins, College Yells, Autos Barred from Camp

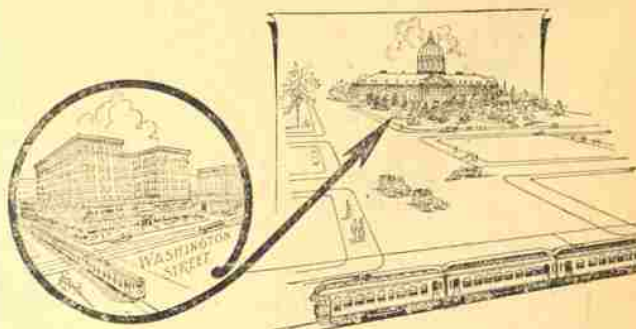

Fort Sheridan, Ill., May 19.—Fraternity pins, college yells and motor cars were placed under the ban at the reserve officers' training camp today by Colonel William Nicholson, commandant. A number of the candidates for commissions had been wearing jeweled pins on the olive drab shirts, while others were prone to use their private automobiles for trips about the camp during leisure hours. These, Colonel Nicholson held, did not make for democracy. The men were told that henceforth their schooling is to be that of the American army, and not that of the college campus.

Joseph Debaters Are Champions.

The debating team from the Joseph high school, representing Eastern Oregon, won the state high school debating championship at Eugene Friday evening, May 11, by defeating the Silverton team.
