[From Crofutt's Western World.]

"LET ME LAY MY HEAD IN MOTHER'S LAP."

BY EDWARD NASON.

The following lines were suggested by the pathetic circumstances attending the death of a youth in Salem, Oregon, [Master Vroom] who was suddenly stricken down by the accidental discharge of a gun. While in the last throes of death he said: "Let me lay my head in mother's lap."

Let me rest my head, mother,
On thy lap awhile,
For I would have you look once more
Upon your dying child.
Ere the darkening shadows
Hide thee from my sight,
I would rest my weary head
In thy lap to-night.

Last evening as I lay, mother,
In a pleasant dream,
The angels gathered round me—
How happy they did seem;
And, oh! such heavenly music
As floated through the room,
Mother, I prayed that I might dwell
With them in their home.

My teachers well deserved my love,
And all my schoolmates, too,
But you, dear mother, more than all
Have been the one most true;
But I must bid them all farewell—
To Heaven I go from thee,
To dwell forever in that home—
Oh! weep not then for me.

Farewell, farewell, dear father,
And you, too, sister, dear—
Oh, mine has been a happy life
Of joy and sunshine here;
But now the angels call me
From sin and sorrow free—
Trust on, dear mother—
I'll go and wait for thee.

Hark! listen to the angels,
Their songs allure me on,
Then, mother, do not bid me stay
Away from that bright home;
But you will often seek the spot
And kneel beside my tomb,
And pray that we may meet again
Beyond this world of gloom.

Then, mother, let me rest my head
Upon your lap awhile,
For I would have you look once more
Upon your dying child;
Ere the darkening shadows
Hide thee from my sight,
Mother, I would rest my head
Upon your lap to-night.

VACATION.

Holidays came, and with them a pleasant visit to Monroe and the adjoining neighborhood, well known as the Belknap community. We arrived at Junction, from Salem about sixty-five miles, thence in carriage nine miles through heavy rain fall and deep mud to Monroe, a little country village with pleasant surroundings. From here over a beautiful landscape of hills for three miles we traveled on foot, our friends not expecting us. Just as night was coming on, the good old-fashioned farm house appeared, at the foot of the hill, and soon we were sharing the delightful hospitality of Mr. R. A. Belknap.

Beyond his residence for three miles is a valley more beautiful than can be described, all covered with growing wheat fields, and just beyond, against the hill, among the oaks, is the old chapel, where the people have worshipped for many years, and among which society of Christians was held the second session of the Oregon Conference, Bishop Simpson being present. This church was crowded on Saturday, on the occasion of a Christmas celebration. After some religious and literary exercises, nearly an hour and a half was consumed in distributing the presents from a richly laden and ornamented tree. In the evening a similar observance was about to take place at Monroe, up stairs in a crowded hall. The first piece was sung, and everybody was awaiting with joy the pleasures of the evening, when the pillars beneath gave way and down went the floor with a crash, a distance of twelve inches, and the frightened audience shot out and down, trampling upon the weak ones, and screaming with terror. Among this seething mass of humanity were Marcus Walts and Edward Belknap, whose eyes could have been spanned with a two-inch rope.

Leaving the reader to imagine this scene, with this outline, the remaining time of our visit claims attention. The following day—a Sabbath of sunshine—a large congregation met in the chapel for public worship, after which we went home with Mr. Walts, whose farm lies picturesquely against the side of the mountain, overlooking a beautiful scene in the valley below. Monday was spent in calling upon Mr. Hawley, Mr. Hammer, Mr. Goodman, and Mr. Fred. Tozier, among whom we found the most agreeable cordiality. "All day the low-hung clouds poured their garnered fullness down," and at night it was indeed pleasant to sit again before the broad open fire at Mr. Belknap's.

This community is noted for the interest it has taken in higher education. Thirty-two from this immediate neighborhood have attended the Willamette University, several of whom are among the graduates. The following are the names: Rev. C. G. Belknap, Mary E. A. Starr, Preston Belknap, Jesse Belknap, Lizzie Belknap, W. C. Belknap, Jesse Gilbert, George Gilbert, Marcus M. Walts, Clay Starr, I. W. Starr, M. D., Harry Walts, George Harris, Maria Starr, Alfred C. Nichols, B. S., Richard J. Nichols, B. S., Carrie E. Nichols, B. S., Edward Belknap, Addie Belknap, Angie Belknap, Sylva (Nichols) Loomis, L. H. Hawley, Charles Hulin, Mary Albright, Miles Starr, B. S., Edward Starr, Fulton Woodcock, S. R. Hawley, Samuel Starr, S. A. Starr, A. M., B. D., Ransom Starr, Mary Starr. It is doubtful whether any other community in the State has produced so many college students. There are more to follow. Through the kindness of our host we were furnished a pleasant conveyance back to the station, and Tuesday at 1:30 P. M. found us again at home, after one of the most pleasant trips ever remembered.

TRAVELER.

NOTES FROM EUGENE CITY.

On my return northward from Roseburg, I concluded to call for four days at Eugene City, and attend quarterly meeting under charge of W. T. Chapman, Presiding Elder, and also to procure statistics of the Sunday School and the M. E. Church of this city, and of the schools here. From Brother I. D. Driver I learn that the mortgage upon the church property was fifteen hundred dollars, when he was appointed here two years ago. Now the debt is all liquidated. The number of church members under his charge here is 98. The number in his Sunday School, under the able management of Hon. J. J. Walton, is 200. Number in the Bible class, conducted by the Pastor, is 85. The exposition and instructions to this class by him are worthy of all commendation.

Next in order are the statistics of the State University. From Professors Johnson and Condon I obtained the following: In Preparatory Department, 73; in College, 133; total, 206. The young gentlemen and ladies of this institution are of the first order. The teachers justly rank with the best instructors on this coast. The rules and discipline are founded upon the principles of moral and scientific training. I much regret that some persons impugn Mr. Villard's motives in donating liberally to this institution. It is to the people of Oregon, and not to Eugene alone, that this donation is made. This is the people's University. I speak with authority, that not an officer of the O. R. & N. Company will run for, nor hold any political office in Oregon; nor control, or attempt to control, the election franchise, or the courts or Legislature of Oregon. This syndicate should not be measured with Ben Holliday's.

Mr. Villard's donation stands thus:

For apparatus.....	$1,000
For library.....	1,000
Assurance of the full pay to the incumbent of a new professorship of English Literature, say .....	2,000
He gives, to be divided into scholarships of fifty dollars each.....	500
To the payment of the original debt on mortgage upon the property.....	7,000
Total.....	$11,500

Temperance and christianity prevail here; the place is healthy, and parents may send their children here in confidence that they will receive a good moral training and a good education. I would that a golden shower might fall upon the Willamette University.

ITEMS FROM LA CREOLE.

The Second term of our schools opened on December 12. The attendance is not so large as it was last term, yet the number is large enough for our present accommodations. The corps of teachers remains the same with the exception of Mr. Fenton who has resigned. His place is filled by Mr. John E. Miller.

Since our last communication Miss A. R. Luse, teacher of elocution in the University, gave select readings for the benefit of our Academy. The house was full of the very best people of Dallas. All speak of the entertainment in the highest terms. She has promised to come again.

The sessional performance of the Philolethian Society was given the 9th of December. It was their first effort and was not public. The writer was, however, privileged to see the Society Paper, edited by Miss Lottie Palmehn of the First Year Class. It surely was very creditable. Preparations are being made by the societies to give an entertainment soon, for the benefit of their library.

Personal.—Miss Nellie Collins, the first graduate of our Academy, has entered the law office of her father, and intends, we believe, to become a practitioner.

Her sister graduate, Miss Nellie Richmond, has also fallen in love with the law and found a much closer partnership with a much younger man. The firm is known as Mr. and Mrs. Townsend.

Richard Sites of the same class, Business Course, has gone east of the Mountains, to hew out a home for himself. Self dependence is sometimes a hard but valuable lesson.

Mrs. Alida Hulery, a former student of the Academy came to town and spent the Holidays with parents and friends.

The Principal was the happy recipient of a very valuable present, "Webster's Unabridged Dictionary," on Christmas Eve. To make the gift much more highly prized, it was bestowed by his pupils, whose autographs are beautifully inscribed on the fly-leaf by John S. Ashland. Said Principal desires, through the columns of the JOURNAL, to return his sincere thanks to Miss Fannie McDaniel and all her associates.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE, }
January 2, 1882. }

MY DARLING JOURNAL:

I beg you to pardon my intrusion on your precious time, as I have always had an interest in your progress, having been one of your editors last year; and my interest has been very much increased since I found my own name mentioned in your November number, though you arraigned me on the charge of homesickness. And since you did, I feel under obligations to defend my cause. And as my defense, I give the following:

One lady took a great deal of pains to remark, in our presence: "I do not consider it at all proper for young girls to travel alone."

Our champion replied: "Do you intend that as a cut?" but aside to us, "No, I do not think she is sharp enough."

Now I ask, you, dear JOURNAL, how could we help being homesick when such a keen welcome awaited us at the end of our journey, and when such kind remembrances of us thronged your columns, drawing our thoughts backward?

Another lady, proud of her New England birth, on our being introduced to her, as having come from Oregon, as an introductory remark, asked: "Yes—and are you proud of coming from there?"

I think Tennyson must surely have foreseen our necessity of a reply when he wrote:

"Your pride can be no mate for mine—
Too proud to care from whence I came."

But I confess I have a great deal of pride in having such a nice friend as the JOURNAL in Oregon, and hope you, dear JOURNAL, are no less proud of having a warm friend in this Athens of America.

Hoping to see you soon, I am yours,

INEZ CURL.

Literary Note.

The January Century, a large edition of which is on the press, will be delayed this month until the 23d. One of its novel features is to be a frontispiece printed in tint—a portrait of Ex-President Thiers, accompanying an article by Hon. Elihu B. Washburne, our former Minister to France. A full page portrait of Queen Margaret of Italy is given in connection with an article on the making of Burano lace, for which the Princess Louise of England has made a sketch. The number also has another portrait of President Garfield (from an artotype by Edward Bierstadt, N. Y.), which will accompany an anecdotal paper by Colonel A. F. Rockwell, entitled "From Mentor to Elberon." The immediate friends of the late President regard this portrait as giving a somewhat different phase of the late President's character from that presented by the engraving by Cole in the December Century, and as revealing his affectionate qualities, while the latter was particularly strong on the intellectual side of his nature. The artotype is also interesting as being the portrait Mrs. Garfield selected to send to Queen Victoria. The sale of the November and December Century still continues. A new edition of nine thousand of the latter number has just been issued.

The regular edition of St. Nicholas in England is now eight thousand copies. Ten thousand copies of the Christmas number are being sold there.

A short time ago we spent a pleasant Sabbath at Lebanon, the seat of Santiam Academy. Prof. Gilbert is succeeding well as Principal. While there we formed several pleasant acquaintances, among whom are Dr. and Mrs. D W. Ballard, who most kindly entertained us during our stay. The Doctor is President of the Board of Trustees of the Academy, and takes great interest in higher education. He is one of the oldest practitioners in Oregon, and has prepared several young men for lectures in our Medical Department.

WE HAD hoped to make this one of the best numbers of the year; but, owing to poor health for some three weeks past, we have been unable to look after and secure the little items of local news, which are generally most interesting to a majority of our readers. We have, however, gathered up as many such items as possible, and, with returning health, hope in future numbers to atone for all past deficiencies.

THIS number completes the first half of Vol 2 of the JOURNAL. We have tried to have it fairly represent all the department of the University, and contain something of interest for all who have attended it in former years, as well as for those who are at present in attendance. It has taken both time and money to publish the paper in its present neat and attractive form, and while some have sent in their $1 subscription, there are many who have not as yet done so. To all who have aided us in this way we return our heartiest thanks, and to those who have not, we would suggest that the $1 due on subscription, would be gladly received and cheerfully receipted for, if they would no longer neglect to send it to the publisher.

HERETOFORE there has been a scarcity of contributors among the students of the various college classes; but we are glad to note a growing tendency on the part of some to write for THE JOURNAL. This is as it should be, for there is no other way in which a young lady or gentleman can more profitably spend a few hours each term than by employing them in putting their best thoughts, on some chosen subject, in form for the printer. It certainly is a valuable acquirement for any young lady or gentleman to be able to write a brief, sensible article on any topic with which they may be familiar. This can only be done by practice, and what other medium furnishes so good an opportunity for such practice as the college paper.

THE University Library is now in a very prosperous condition, there being from eight to ten books taken every day. The library needs, and the students demand more books, and as the University is not able to furnish us with books at present, we kindly ask all who are interested, to give or send us any useful books, papers or magazines you may have. Some books that are not very much needed by you, would be of great value to the students who are asking for histories, biographies, and books on various subjects. We hope after considering the above that many of the patrons will give us small or large donations, according to their ability. The library has received a donation of the following books from the Chief of Engineers of the U. S. Army: Systematic and Descriptive Geology, Vols. 2, 6 and 7 of Geographical Surveys, Microscopical Petrography, Geological and Topographical Atlas, Ornithology and Palæontology, and Odontoruthes.

It has also received the following books from the Department of the Interior:

Annual Report, 1877.....	Hayden
Fresh Water Rhizopods.....	Leidy
Bulletins 4, Vol. 5, and 1 and 2, Vol. 6.....	Hayden
Catalogue of Indian Photos.....
Biblio, Invert. Palæontology .....	White
N. A. Principals.....	Allen
Bulletin 6 and 2d Report, Entomological Commission.....
First Annual Report U. S. Geological Survey, 1880.....	King
Report of the Yellowstone Park, 1880.....	Norris
Resources, &c., of Alaska.....	Petroff

The above are valuable books, and no doubt will be of great service to students in references upon their different topics.

WOMAN'S COLLEGE ENTERTAINMENT.

The entertainment on Monday evening, the 23d, under the direction of a committee of the Woman's College Association, deserves special mention. It was the first appeal made by the projectors of this department of the Willamette University for the second year of its existence, and the response was generous and gratifying.

The success of the Woman's College thus far has justified the hopes of its most sanguine friends, and those who looked upon it with disfavor, or regarded it as premature in the history of the University, are now convinced that it is a necessity, and well deserves patronage. This, too, was the first purely literary entertainment which the committee has presented to the people of Salem.

The music by Prof. Stabler and Miss Piper was artistic, and of itself alone well worth the price of admission. These Directors of the Conservatory of Music are very popular, and their appearance before a Salem audience is always greeted with applause. Mr. Nickerson is also a favorite, and his singing is listened to with pleasure. Readings by Miss Luse are always an attractive feature of an entertainment, and this lady fully sustained her reputation on that evening. Mrs. Kinney is too well and favorably known as a lady of rare talent and culture, to need mention in her own native city, yet it is pertinent to say that her address was logical in argument, and just in its conclusions, clearly proving that a monopoly of intellect can not be claimed as an exclusive belonging to either sex, and that education and culture do not in any degree unfit a true woman for her special life work.

The address of the Lady Dean, Mrs. E. W. Andrew, was replete with beautiful, refined thought, and was delivered with dignity of manner and facility of expression. Briefly setting forth the aims and purposes of the College "Home," she dwelt more particularly upon the practical results of proper training of thought and culture, illustrating by both ancient and modern surroundings that the truly beautiful, in all the realms of labor, is imperishable, and that under pure and discriminating culture it is reproduced in varied and more beautiful forms, and, like an inspiration, lifts the human soul into better and nobler lines of work.

The Woman's College is fortunate in having Mrs. Andrew as Lady Dean, and parents may place their daughters under her kind and refining guardianship with perfect security.—Daily Statesman.

In the Chapel, Wednesday evening, the 25th, Rev. J. N. Dennison, who was so favorably mentioned in the last number of the JOURNAL, delivered a very interesting and instructive lecture before the friends and students of the University, on physical culture. No better illustration of the advantages of such culture could possibly be given than the speaker himself, whose splendid physique has been, and will continue to be of untold benefit to its possessor. We hope to hear from him again through the JOURNAL, as well as from the pulpit and the platform.

The examinations at the close of the second term passed off pleasantly, and full reports will be given in the next issue of the JOURNAL.

REPORT OF THOSE WHO STOOD HIGHEST IN THEIR CLASSES AT THEIR LAST SEMI-TERM EXAMINATION:

Gilbert, Frank Hughes, 100; Rhetoric—Cora Prescott, 100; History of Greece—Scott Jones, Edward Piper, Marcus Walts, 100; U. S. History—Geo. Tenney, John Greenwood, 99; Arithmetic (A)—Alanson Savage, Nellie Boise, Clara Earhart, Emma Mortimer, George Sheppard, Mark Hutchcroft, 100; Arithmetic (B)—John Parsons, Ottie Clark, Aggie Earhart, 95.

THAT PARTY.

The roads were very bad, but the young people of the "Belknap Settlement" had been invited to spend the evening of December 28 at the residence of Mr. R. A. Belknap, and it would take something more than mud and water to keep them from gathering together. At an early hour the large parlors were filled with as fine a class of youngsters as can be found in any community. There were students from different schools, with quite a large number of old students of the Willamette University, who are still loyal to the school, and look after it as if it were really their home.

A splendid supper was served at seven o'clock, after which it was proposed to have some literary exercises, and quite a number responded when called upon, either with music or with a piece that once made college halls ring, and were none the less entertaining for having been repeated. But finally it became evident that the moon would soon be behind the hills, and it would be difficult for some to find their way over a long and muddy road. So the delighted crowd, after tendering a hearty vote of thanks to the family, who had so kindly prepared for their enjoyment, dispersed and sought their own happy homes, hoping that the next holidays may bring a similar greeting.

ONE OF THE PARTY.

Pansies, daisies, primroses, and other flowers are blooming out doors.

During Prof. Arnold's recent brief illness, Miss Greenwood, Mr. Goddard and Mr. Oliphant successfully taught some of his classes, for which they have his warmest thanks.

The Alka and Athenaeum Societies gave their entertainment in the chapel, Friday evening, December 23, and, notwithstanding the rain, took in $50. We hope they may succeed in securing their piano ere long.

The Concordia Society has been recently reorganized with flattering prospects. There are now four good societies connected with the University, and it will well pay every student to be connected with some one of them.

An item in regard to the "tree-planting" was crowded out of last issue. One hundred and thirty trees have been added to those already in the campus, and the JOURNAL thinks that it would be a good plan to devote one day, at least, each year, to beautifying the campus and having all take an interest in it.

Prof. Chas. E. Lambert, ex-President of Willamette has recently been elected to, and accepted the chair of English Literature in the State University at Eugene. We congratulate both the Professor and the University.

The JOURNAL, and all connected with its sanctum, acknowledge and return thanks for two very beautiful serenades recently, and hope that the lives of the serenaders may be as great a success as was their music.

Dr. William Roberts delivered a very interesting lecture to the students and friends of the University at the close of last term. We regret that overwork prevented our hearing it.

The sixteenth annual course of the Medical Department seems to be very prosperous. There are some twenty-six students in attendance. Among them is one from San Francisco, and another from one of the Eastern States. The senior class numbers eight, and all the classes are doing good work. The faculty are all well liked and the students have fine facilities for instruction in clinics, both medical and surgical. We hope to be able to give some interesting items of news each issue concerning this department, and think it would be a good thing for our literary and medical professors and students to become better acquainted with each other.

Dr. L. L. Rowland delivered another of his interesting and practical lectures before the students on the 20th instant. The Dr. has a happy faculty of putting a difficult subject so plainly that even the youngest students understand it.

The second term, an unusually successful one, closes on the 27th, and the third begins Monday, January the 30th.

Between thirty-five and forty students were enrolled for book-keeping during the past term. This is the largest number enrolled for this study at any time since the Business Department has been in operation. A larger and much better class of students have taken the course this year than last, and the prospects are that it will continue to grow in numbers and usefulness.

The conservatory is making rapid growth; additional instruments have been procured, and the teachers are kept very busy.

The Portland papers speak in the highest terms of Miss Luse's recent readings in that city, and the students of Willamette are certainly fortunate in having such excellent teachers in music, art, and elocution.

EXCHANGES.

Nos. 8 and 9, Vol. I, of the Illinois School Journal, a magazine for teachers and school officers, published by E. J. James, Ph. D., and Chas. DeGarmo, Normal, Ill., have been received. The Journal is in pamphlet form, contains thirty-two pages, crowded full of fresh, practical and valuable reading matter, shows unmistakable evidences of thorough scholarship and care, and will be a valuable aid to teachers. We heartily recommend the Illinois School Journal to Oregon teachers.

Nos. 2 and 3, Vol. I., of The Gleaner, devoted to the interests of Hedding College, Abingdon, Illinois, have just been received. The Gleaner is a neat sixteen-page pamphlet, contains a variety of College news, and is certainly a help as well as a credit to the College it represents. Among other items of interesting news to us are those relating to Prof. Cochran's department. We have long known that the Professor was a genius, and hope that his success may vary inversely as his avoirdupois. We'll answer his letter and send him some specimens, by and by.

Next on our list comes No. 4, Vol. II., of The Hanoverian, published by the Senior class of Hanover College, Hanover, Indiana. The Hanoverian has adopted the sensible pamphlet form, contains some eighteen pages of reading matter, on the various topics of college life, and makes a better appearance than many of the older and more pretentious college publications.

The quiet of the evening hour is broken by a gently rustling sound, as of wings. We pause a moment to determine its cause, and find that it is produced by The Archangel, which hails from St. Michael's College, Portland, Oregon. The form and general appearance of the Archangel are not so good as its contents, which are mainly devoted to science and religion, and are quite interesting.

The Christian Herald, successor to the Pacific Christian Messenger, comes to us enlarged and improved in many respects, and ably edited by D. Truman Stanley and Bruce Wolverton. The Herald is a thoroughly good family paper, and we wish it abundant success.

BOOK NOTICE.

We have received a copy of Sadler's Counting House House Arithmetic, which impresses us very favorably so far as we have had time to examine it. We hope to give a much fuller notice of it in our next issue, and will, at present, only say to all who want an unusually fine work on arithmetic, that they can get it by addressing Prof. W. H. Sadler, Nos. 6 and 8, North Charles St., Baltimore, Maryland.

WOMAN'S COLLEGE.

Mrs. S. G. Miner, the matron, is deservedly popular with the young ladies, as she spares no pains to make everything cozy and homelike for them.

Holidays over and work begins again.

Saturdays generally find a rearrangement of some of the rooms, each time making them prettier than before.

All the students have returned, with an addition of one, that of Miss Gibson of Astoria. Miss Wade of last year also expects to return soon.

Miss Payton made a short visit to Portland last week in company with Dr. Rowland and daughter.

Miss Lizzie McLench has been on the sick list for quite awhile, but is now able with some effort to resume her studies again.

Prof. Stabler made a short, but very agreeable trip to Portland during the holidays.

The inmates of the Hall extend their kindest thanks for the many beautiful serenades they have been made the recipients of, both before and after the Christmas vacation.

Mrs. Odell, President of the Executive Committee, gave the young ladies one of her most pleasant and beneficial talks on the tenth, which was very much appreciated by all who heard it.

One of the best signs of the real prosperity and progress of the College is the studious habits and well kept study hours of the girls.

Would it be possible for the citizens and patrons of the Woman's College in general, to make small or large contributions of books on various subjects, for the purpose of starting a College Library? There are many books scattered over the country that might be easily spared by their owners, and as books of reference would be very much needed by the young ladies in their various studies.

ART NOTES.

Misses Gibson and Jory and Mrs. Williams form the new members to the Art Department.

Misses Breyman and Rowland, and the above are in the pattern drawing course at present.

Miss Emma Scriber and Lizzie Burton are working in India ink, the former on a tulip, and the latter on some flowers.

Mrs. Thurston is sketching an Oregon study of an old tree trunk, moss and ferns.

Misses Boise, Caples, Hall and Chamberlin are working in difficult scroll work.

Mrs. Church has just finished an ash tree, and is now also on scroll work.

Miss Emma Wheeler is working on the study of an old hemlock.

Master Gene England and Misses Church, Jory, Piper, Hughes and Hines are making small sketches of landscapes.

Miss Earhart has finished, in oil, a plaque of petunias, and also Miss Woodworth an ebonized plaque of lillies.

Miss Grace Adams has just finished a lovely panel of poppies and wheat, in oil. It is very neatly done, and reflects credit upon the artist.

Miss Etta Wilkins has just completed a beautiful group of deer, by Landseer, in Sepia. It is by far the prettiest drawing she has made since her work began in the studio. She has been making rapid progress in the branches of art, and is one of the neatest and quickest of students in her work.

HARRY.

PERSONALS.

Henry Luse, a last year's student, sends his $1 for the JOURNAL. Glad to hear from you, Henry, and would be pleased to see you in school again.

Daniel W. Bass, who has been attending college in California, made his Salem friends a visit during the holidays, and looked remarkably well in his uniform.

Prof. John M. Garrison has been teaching penmanship at Albany and other places recently, with great success. He intends to spend some time in Salem during the spring, and we wish him still greater success.

Miss Lizzie Cornelius has been teaching near Turner, and sends $1 for the JOURNAL. It is a gratifying fact that the best students take a practical interest in their College paper.

'68. Miss Ellen J. Chamberlin made glad her friends by spending the holidays at her home in the Capital.

Mr. Frank D. McDowell, a former student of Willamette, was recently married to Miss Ella B. Melson. Both bride and groom are well and favorably known, and have a large circle of friends in Salem. Mr. McDowell is one of our leading jewelers.

David Newsome, a contributor to the JOURNAL, as well as to many other periodicals, died very suddenly at the residence of his son, John Newsome, of Howell Prairie, on the 18th inst. Mr. Newsome, although nearly 80 years old, took a deep interest in all that pertains to education, and will be missed by a wide circle of readers.

'75. Miss Lizzie C. Jory was recently married to Mr. John Hall, at Spanish Hollow, Oregon. Mr. Hall is said to be six feet four inches high, and we hope that the success and happiness of himself and wife may be fully as great as his stature.

"At the residence of the bride's parents, Dec. 27, 1881, by Rev. J. H. Adams, Mr. W. Carr Uren, of Polk county, to Miss Laura Keene, of Marion county, Oregon." Mr. Uren attended Willamette last year, and has the best wishes of the JOURNAL.

Doubtless there have been other weddings during the holidays of which the JOURNAL has not learned, that would be of interest to its readers.

'80. Miss Lucy M. Spaulding is at present teaching in Colfax Academy, W. T.

'67. Mrs. Dr. W. T. Williams, nee Miss S. J. Wythe, recently died at Oakland, California. Her husband has the sympathy of a large circle of friends.

Since our last issue Mr. Alfred Nichols, '73, has been united in the bonds of matrimony to Miss Sylvia Loomis. The JOURNAL extends congratulations.

Mrs. A. F. Waller, wife of Father Waller, generally and favorably known in connection with the University, recently died at Santa Clara, California.

CLIPPINGS.

"Etiquette" writes to us to inquire if, in our opinion, it would be proper for him to support a young lady if she were taken with a faint, even if he had not been introduced. Proper, young man? Certainly, prop-her by all means.—Chronicle.

Classical—Instructor in Latin: "Miss B., of what was Ceres the goddess?" Miss B.: "She was the goddess of marriage." Instructor: "Oh, no; of agriculture." Miss B., (looking perplexed): "Why, I'm sure my book says she was the goddess of husbandry."—State Journal.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Don't fail to read this column, as it will tell where and how to save money.

Now that the holidays are gone, and you have plenty of money left, it will pay you to step into H. D. Boon's or Belt & Co's, and secure some of those fine gift books, which they are selling at prices way down below zero.

Should you desire a choice roast, steak, or in brief, anything nice in the line of fresh or salt meats, you will find it at Fred. P. Ellis' Palace Meat Market.

The last time we were in Portland we noticed that all our advertisers were busy; but Mellis Bros. & Co., and C. C. Morse & Co. were literally rushed, while many who do not advertise were looking hopefully for some one to come in, or for something to turn up.

We beg the pardon of our readers generally for not long ago informing them that C. B. Moores, Esq., was and is fully prepared to tie and untie all the difficult legal knots that may have heretofore perplexed or may hereafter perplex them.

Holiday luxuries are a thing of the past, but still we have our Coffey (Jas.), and he is selling choice furniture at such low rates as to astonish the oldest inhabitants of Oregon.

Now that you have recovered from your holiday feasting, and resumed your normal appetites, don't forget to lay in a good supply of Squire Farrar & Co's choice groceries, and call for your daily bread, cakes, etc., at Strong & Bain's.

Too bad! that we have had no snow this winter, but this fact need not hinder you from securing one of L. S. Scott's or Gaines Fisher's fine turnouts and taking your wife or your intended out for a ride, one of these nice days.

For a thoroughly good, clean, comfortable bed, and a pleasant accommodating man to deal with, we would cheerfully refer you to Mr. Geo. A. Edes, the Woven Wire Bed maker.

Notwithstanding all the rain and mud of an Oregon winter, you may have your shirt fronts shine like the snow on Mt. Hood during a clear day, by patronizing Sai Get, at the City Laundry.

Some of those bright sunny days, when you are out walking for your health, just make your friends happy by dropping into F. A. Smith's or H. S. Shuster's, and leaving an order for some of their fine pictures, from your negative.

There is no denying the fact that the Salem Flouring Mills make the very best flour, and sell it at such prices as would make a Chicagoan spread his mouth from ear to ear.

If you wish to select books from a full and complete assortment, buy them at the lowest possible rates, and trade with pleasant gentlemen, call at J. K. Gill & Co's, 93 First street, Portland, Oregon.

Soon you will want to lay aside your well worn hat and replace it with something new and better. Before doing so we would advise you to consult Woods, the hatter, 143 First street.

If music "hath its charms," D. W. Prentice & Co. must have theirs, because they have music and musical instruments of all kinds, and in great variety, at 107 First St.

We call especial attention to the ad. of Hodge, Davis & Co., on another page. These gentlemen have a house in New York, in San Francisco, and in Portland, do an immense business, and consequently can sell at the lowest rates.

Don't forget that when you give your veteran hat its discharge, Woods, 143 First St., can supply you a substitute for a very small bounty.

We know by experience that Klass Bezemer not only gives good measure, but furnishes the very best of pure sweet milk and cream, and is always on time.

When you want a good square meal, call at the St. Charles Restaurant, St. Charles Hotel, and you will be sure to get it.

If you wish to see a busy set of men, an unusually fine gallery, and procure some genuine, artistic work, just wend your way to Frank G. Abell's, and you will not be disappointed. See his ad. on the last page.

What a difference it makes in one's appearance when he wears a really becoming hat. Woods keeps nothing but the latest and best in his line, and can fit you to a t.

After selling thousands of fine holiday presents, Wm. Beck & Son have enough choice articles in their line left to fill two or three ordinary wholesale stores. See their ad. on page sixteen.

Once more we advise you to make your wife, sister, or sweetheart happy by securing one of Woods' latest and most stylish hats.

As the JOURNAL goes to many schools, we call special attention to the advertisements of A. L. Bancroft & Co., San Francisco, and of L. Manassee, Chicago. These gentlemen deal in the very best articles in their respective lines, are prompt and accommodating, and sell at unusually low prices. Give them an order.

All our friends tell us (and we agree with them) that by far the best picture we have ever had taken is the one made by Taber, No. 8 Montgomery St., San Francisco. When in Frisco it will pay you to call at their elegant studio.
