

Song of Thanksgiving

ETERNAL source of every joy
Well may thy praise our lips employ,
While in thy temple we appear,
Whose goodness crowns the circling year.

Seasons, and months, and weeks, and days,
Demand successive songs of praise;
Still be the cheerful homage paid,
With opening light and evening shade.

O may our more harmonious tongue
In worlds unknown pursue the song;
And in those brighter courts adore,
Where days and years revolve no more!"

Harvest Home

YOU HAVE harvested your crops, and garnered your sheaves. At this season of the year's ripening, you stand face to face with your returns.

Perhaps they have been large; perhaps small. In any case they are your returns for the year.

Thanksgiving is a good time to face these returns, and see how large an obligation you owe to the Lord of the Golden Harvest.

If crops have been smaller this year than you estimated, think of the millions of earth's starving peoples who would count themselves rich with what you have.

If investments have not paid as large dividends as you desired, think of those to whom your returns would be as wealth.

Whether dividends and harvests have met your expectations, or have disappointed you there are, nevertheless, the unfailing obligation and the high privilege to invest a certain share of what you have in some activity that looks towards the bettering of the life of the world.

As such an agency, Willamette University looms large. It was unselfish in its founding. It continues unselfish in its service. It has no reason for existence save that it may educate and prepare our young folks for large, luminous life.

At this Harvest Home, when The University needs more funds, will you see your opportunity to give according to the good hand of our God upon you?

Willamette is Thankful For:---

Its Founders,

Who braved the dangers of untracked wilderness to establish a Christian University within the borders of Oregon;

Its Alumni,

Who through these 80 years have carried Willamette's ideals into every quarter of the world;

Its Trustees,

Who stint not their service of time, who count no sacrifice if they may but serve the University;

Its President,

Who labors without reserve and gives of all he is to successful administration;

Its Faculty,

Who came to Willamette bearing unmistakable evidences of finished scholarship and religious devotion, and who give unsparingly of their choicest stores;

Its 545 Students,

Who represent 10 states and 5 countries, who are its greatest asset, and the reason for its existence;

Its Opportunity,

To mold life, form character, and help determine the destinies of countless hundreds of young men and women;

Its Large Place in the Scheme of Christian Education.
