PRICE: FIVE CENTS

VARSITY SQUAD BEATEN BY THE WHITMAN TEAM

Zellar Runs Fifty Yards in a Broken Field; Opponents
Fail to Convert Goals

W. U. PENALIZED LITTLE

Roe, of Whitman, Runs Eighty-five Yards for Touchdown on the Third Kick-off

In a game featured by much punting on both sides, and a powerful Whitman offensive in the third quarter, the Whitman college football team defeated Willamette University, 25 to 9, at Walla Walla Friday.

The Missionaries made four touchdowns, but failed to convert three, owing to a stiff cross field wind. The first half closed 7-0, with Whitman having a slight edge on the visitors, and scoring when Tilton bucked the ball over in the first six minutes' play of the second quarter, following a series of successful first downs.

An 85 yard run for a touchdown by Roe, Whitman quarterback, after he had received Willamette's kick-off, fumbled and recovered, opened a smashing Whitman offensive in the third quarter. Two more touchdowns were added in this period when Tilton and Shepherd crossed the line first on a criss-cross and then on a tackle play.

In the first of the fourth period Whitman worked the ball to the one yard line, where with one down to go, Willamette held. Willamette also crossed the goal line in this quarter, Pat Zellar making a 50 yard dash through a broken field, but stepping out of bounds.

Holmes of Whitman had a five yard edge on Patton in punting. Eight missionary passes failed, while Willamette intercepted one for a 15 yard gain. Bearcats failed to complete any of six attempts. The first quarter opened with Willamette choosing to receive, and on the fourth down Zellar circled end for a 32 yard gain.

Hurdling cost Whitman two 15-yard penalties, while off-side and holding raised the total to 55. The Bearcats lost but 10 yards in penalties.

Play the greater part of the game was in Willamette's territory, who showed at times flashes of speed. The Bearcats were, however, out-weighted, and playing with three first string men out, while Whitman had two regulars out.

POOR FROSH SADLY MISTREATED GIRLS DASH WILDLY FOR RIBBONS

JUANITA HENRY
A pitiful story comes to the hands of the Collegian which should arouse the sympathy of all (including sophomores). The verdant account follows:
"Have rooks any trials? Alas, our life is one long collection of them! Gone are the days of high school seniorship. We have become the prey of revengeful sophomores. The very skies of Salem weep at the sight. Our youthful attempts to please are numerous. We wind our way to the very chapel steps, suddenly recall that our flashing emblem lies on our dresser, and, at the risk of being late to chapel, dash madly back to Lausanne for the green ribbon.
Why so obedient? Ask the sophs. Our enthusiasm, while we worked in the cold dawn—soon changed the

EXCUSE ME—

If I do not live up to your expectations as a newspaper correspondent, the editor of the Freshman Collegian has given me a chance—perhaps the last chance I will ever receive—to write an article.

But I appreciate the chance—and on behalf of the freshman class—let me say that the chance—the opportunity—to print a freshman issue of the Collegian is fully appreciated by the class of '25.

Do you know, people, that one of the striking characteristics of Willamette University is found in that "give a fellow a chance spirit." As one of the many meek and lowly freshmen, it is clearly established in my mind that I have been given a chance to make good. And do you know that when that opportunity is granted a fellow, he feels a certain responsibility—and that responsibility is—"to make good." I want to make good. There is not a member of the freshman class that does not want to make good.

Willamette University is responsible—you are responsible—for the spirit, or change in spirit displayed by the freshmen. We mould our ideals after the high ideals established by the leaders of this Christian institution. We look up to the faculty, the seniors, the juniors, the sophomores. We want to work in harmony with them. We want to pattern our ideals after their ideals, and they have "given us a chance."

I have been wondering how this "give a fellow a chance" spirit ever became a characteristic of Willamette University. I have noticed that the president of W. U. is always willing to "give a fellow a chance."

There is a certain college in Oregon, near which I have been attending school for the past few years. Recently this college had a president who failed to see the value in "giving a fellow a chance." I was told by a student of that institution, that a fellow never got beyond the president's private secretary.

The president's door was "locked" to all students. And now, as I see the two universities side by side, it is plain to see why W. U., with its none too good equipment, draws some 500-odd live spirited student, while the other college, with its large endowment, beautiful buildings, and spacious campus struggles to draw a mere handful of students.

The class of '25 loves the W. U. and I tell you what, people, all we ask is to be able to show that we love you, so show the old spirit, and "give us a chance."
—Leland Chapin.

GREGORY MASON LECTURES NOV. 9

Subject "The New Far East"
Current Problem Discussed
by Eminent Authority

"America is the most unpopular nation in the world today, but she is also the most respected nation!" This was the striking sentence used by Gregory Mason in his lecture on "The New Far East" at the armory, November 9.

There is danger of the formation of two great alliances with the United States, Great Britain and France, in the one, against Germany, Russia and Japan on the other. This would mean a world war more deadly than the late one. The handling of Japan will decide the issue, and the United States is the nation to lead.

He pointed out that we should not attempt to prevent Japanese immigration. Also that our fears of the yellow peril are unsubstantiated.

In speaking of our unjust treatment of Japan, he mentioned the Shantung question. "We," he said, "object to Japan having territory in China, yet we are silent concerning those of France and England in the same country."

Mr. Mason closed his lecture with the following statement concerning the responsibility of the United States: "If we go ahead and stand for a square deal, we will not only avoid another war but also

STUDENT BODY MEETS MONDAY

Rickli to Report on Student Body President's Meeting;
Ferguson to Talk

An important meeting of the student body will be held in the Willamette chapel next Monday, November 21.

Student Body President Ben Rickli announces that the various committees will make their reports and that everyone should be there. He intends to give a brief report of the student body president's conference which he attended in Seattle.

The point system committee, headed by Verne Ferguson, will report on the number of points for each student activity and on fixing 15 points as a maximum for each student. He will suggest a system of enforcement and time of beginning the application of the ruling.

Mildred Strevey, chairman of the freshman glee committee, will announce the type of song which is to be entered in the contest next March.

"We have investigated the honor system in every college in California, Oregon, Washington, and Idaho," says Sheldon Sackett, in speaking for the honor system committee of which he is chairman. "We will have a report for Friday's meeting."

Trophies are being assembled by the trophy committee, whose chairman is Dean Pollock. Preparations are in progress to display them in the library at an early date.

The campus committee, headed by Harry Rarey, is accomplishing many definite things, and will have a report ready for Friday.

Robert Notson, with his Thanksgiving Jolly-up committee is making big plans.

JOLLY-UP IS PLANNED

Thanksgiving to Be Date of a Social Event of the Season

Plans are being made by the Jolly-up committee for a lively time on Thanksgiving evening, November 24. A program with special feature is to be given. The party is informal, and will be held in the Websterian-Adelante literary society hall.

There is rumor of clowns, jesters, and other figures of strikeline and unusual appearance.

The committee is composed of: Chairman, Robert Notson; Lucile Tucker, Marjorie Minton, Mary Elizabeth Hunt, Leon Jennison, Dwight Findley.

Ralph McAfee Speaks During Chapel Hour on Current Subject

"The college men and women must prepare to take the leadership of the world," was the statement made by Rev. Ralph McAfee, secretary of the Portland Council of Churches, in an address before the student body last Tuesday.

World limitation of armaments was the subject in which he brought out the importance of the conference which is being held in Washington this week. He emphasized the fact that this conference would have a vital influence on the future generations, and urged the college men and women to take a definite stand on this problem.

Quoting from several prominent statesmen, Mr. McAfee stated there is only one possible chance for the civilization of the world to be saved, and that is by the churches of the world to work for international peace.

RED CROSS DRIVE

Many Students Giving Time to American Legion Rush

The fifth annual membership campaign of the American Red Cross was started November 14. In the Salem district the work is being carried on under the auspices of the American Legion. This is their acknowledgment of the work done by the Red Cross for the war veterans.

The Legion has asked the girls of Willamette University to give an hour or more of their time in the coming week to canvass for membership in the Red Cross, to add his or her own name to the membership list.

Campus leaders in the campaign are Glen Campbell and Emma Shanafelt.

The Legion captains who are in charge, have made it a rule that no begging shall be done. The subscriptions are earnestly desired but it is far more pleasant to have everyone feel that it is a great privilege that he may do his part for the cause.

WIN-MY-CHUM SERVICES ARE HELD IN CHURCHES

Jason Lee and First Methodist
Leagues Are Holding Daily
Religious Services

The "Win-My-Chum Campaign" was launched last Sunday evening and will continue throughout the rest of the week, holding its meetings in the league room of the First Methodist church from 7:15 to 8:15.

The meeting Sunday evening was led by Miss Esther McCracken and Miss Mildred Hansen on the topic "Whom say ye, that I am?"

The services Monday evening were led by Lois Warner and Eugenia Savage on the topic "The Call." They presented this subject in a way that an honest person could not dodge.

The topic for Tuesday evening was "The Leader." Irene Walker and Louise Findley brought out the importance of leadership in Christian work.

The purpose of these meetings is to bring to young people of the university and the town into closer fellowship with Christ.

The leaders and subjects for the remainder of the week will be as follows:

Wednesday night: Leaders, Clarence Oliver and Emory Lehman; topic, "My Comrades in the Way."

Thursday night: Leaders, Laura Heist and Kenneth McCormick; topic, "My Contribution."

Friday night: Leaders, Leland Chapin and Merwin Stolze; topic, "Why I Ought to Follow."

The closing service will be in charge of a gospel team, next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

FRESHMAN LAW ORGANIZES

The freshman law department of Willamette University held a brief meeting Thursday, November 10 for the purpose of organization. The following officers were elected: President, M. A. Axley; secretary, J. H. Tews; treasurer, Miss E. M. Webb.

PLEDGE LISTS ANNOUNCED BY SOCIETIES

New Organization Is Formed
by the Women of W. U.;
Cleonian Is Name

GIRLS WELL SATISFIED

New Society Pledges Thirty-seven;
Much Relief Is Apparent
After Result Out

The all-important question of societies which has been hanging like a sword of Damocles over the heads of the non-society girls has been settled for this year at least. No longer is it the sole topic of conversation, but it has been relegated to its proper place, much to the relief of everyone concerned.

In order to place all the girls in societies, a new society was formed, the Cleonian, making five girls' societies.

The Philodorian pledges are: Fay Spaulding, Frances Parker, Blanche Jones, Lois Cobb, Ethelyn Yerex, Marguerite Bridgeman, Lola Millard, Verne McKeehan, Mary McCall, Jeanie Corskie, Dorothy Palmer, Lucia Card, Laura Best, Jessie Pender, Helen McInturf, Frances Hodge, Eloise Reed, Josephine Brown, Mrs. Moore, Lucretia Donnelly, Naomi Phelps, Adelaide Jones and Wilma Spence.

The Adelante have pledged the following: Gwendolyn Reese, Helen Dusan, Miriam Lovell, Miriam Emmons, Marjory Edmunds, Hal Bailey, Neva Cooley, Erma Baughey, Elsie Hop Lee, Gertrude Tucker, Eugenia Meyers, Martha Malloy, Josephine Baumgartner, Mrs. Von Eschen, Erma Hardin, Ruth Ross.

The Chrestomathean pledged the following girls: Mabel Renfro, Irene Walker, Mildred Drake, Zella Mulkey, Grace Jasper, Louise Rumohr, Betty Chase, Thelma Mills, Paloma Prouty, Myrtle Gill, Kathleen Walsh, Winifred Rhinehart, Gladys Beakley, Junette Jones, Helen Gatke, Elizabeth McClure, Irene Berg, Mary Saar, Frances Sailer, Phyllis Sailer, Ruth Mace, and Florence Jenks.

The Cleonians pledged the following girls: Caroline Tallman, Violet Coe, Mary Keefe, Irene Cotton, Ruth Cooley, Alma Halvorsen, Mary Hoyt, Beulah Baldree, Carmelita Barquist, Gertrude Spoon, Nina Boessen, Dagmyr Linquist, Margaret Evans, Marie Dorfee, Beryl Cooper, Helvie Silver, Sybil McKnight, Esther Lemery, Viola Oglethorpe, Helen Dark, Florence Klapp, Rosa Fredenburg, Martha Hunt, Isabel Clawson, Bernadine Hobbs, Juanita Henry, Margaret Gates, Louise Bryan, Louise Jaegbin, Alice Heacock, Esther Meyer, Gladys Wolgamott, Dorothy Ellis, Daphne Moltsorn, and Dorothy Buckner.

The Adelante pledges have not been announced.

The Palladians have pledged the following girls: Cornelia Widmah, Ruth Raeder, Lila Marcy, Violet Northrup, Irene Boje, Lola Hansely, Harriet Coburn, Myrtle Tippen, Oma Fagg and Elsie Smith.

REVEREND LONG SPEAKS

Talk Is Made on Win-My-Chum
Week; Many Examples Cited

"It is not optional whether or not we shall win others to Christ," said Rev. W. W. Long, speaking before the students Tuesday morning. "It is imperative."

"The man who does his utmost, merely does his duty. He who does less does not his duty."

As to the importance of helping others and being friendly, Mr. Long told of a young foreigner whom some noticed in church. Later, the same young man murdered the president of the United States.

He emphasized the importance of forgetting one's self in helping another, also bringing out the fact that in aiding another, one helped himself.

Dinner guests at the Delta Phi house Sunday were: Mary McCall, Jessie Pender, Phyllis Sailer and Marjorie Edmunds.

TRAINING CLASSES BEGIN

Notice is given by Coach Bohler to all students required to take physical training that regular gym classes will begin the first Monday after Thanksgiving recess. Classes for boys will begin on Mondays and Wednesdays at 2 and 3 o'clock. Girls' classes Tuesdays and Thursdays at 2:30, 3:30 and 4:30 o'clock. Students should register for classes at the physical training office on the second floor of Eaton hall as soon as possible. The late comers will be classified according to the trainer's decision.

SCOVELL SPEAKS

Talks on "Win-My-Chum" Very Effectively

Ben Scovell, famous actor and entertainer, spoke at the regular chapel service last Monday morning on the subject of "Win-my-chum."

In his own words Mr. Scovell is "an actor, pure and simple," and he made his presentation of his arguments on "winning-my-chum" in a most dramatic manner.

His story of his friendship with a British sergeant was most effective. Scovell told of his first meeting with the sergeant and how the sergeant described his own conversion from a criminal of the blackest hue to a conscientious head of a happy family.

Mr. Scovell's description of his efforts about 20 years ago to obtain the services of a minister to perform the burial ceremony for an actor was somewhat amusing as well as illustrative of the change of men of the country as a whole in regards to the social standing of actors as a class.

Mr. Scovell concluded with a very emphatic plea that every effort should be made to win chums to Christ.

The speaker is making a tour of the Pacific coast giving impersonations and entertainments.

Seventeen Sign for Freshman Debate in Interclass Contests

It has been announced by the Forensic manager of the freshman class that 17 have signified their intention to enter the troups for the freshman debate team. At least seven of these have had experience in high school debate.

Negotiations are being carried on for a freshman debate with Whitman which, if successful, will be held sometime in January. The Whitman frosh have signified their willingness to meet the Willamette men and everything points to an actual forensic contest soon after the Christmas holidays.

Cross Country Postponed

The cross country meet which was scheduled for today is postponed until Tuesday, November 23, because of the Salem high school football game.

Willamette student body tickets admit students to the game.

FOUR CLASSES ENJOY SOCIALS SATURDAY EVE

Juniors Hold Masquerade in the Websterian-Adelante Society Halls

FROSH PREXY IS WED

Sophs Enjoy Farce by Logan, Hill, Chandler; Interrupted
by Masked Visitors

All four classes held their parties Saturday evening, November 12.

The senior class was entertained at the Patton home. Games and contests filled the evening, among which were a number of guessing contests.

Opportunity for skill was given in a game involving the embroidery of an animal on a piece of cloth. After refreshments consisting of the 25 pies won by the senior stunt, the class started to visit the other parties, but found them disbanded. Juniors formed a very picturesque group at their party in the Websterian Adelante hall. Weird costumes gave an impression of foreign influence.

Prizes were awarded to Virgil Anderson and "Mid" Strevey for best costumes. Virgil was dressed as a Spanish Matador, and "Mid" assumed the role of Cleopatra.

Honorable mention was given to William Patty, who was dressed as a storekeeper, and to Professor Fake, who was dressed as a little girl.

Unmasking followed the Virginia reel. Then four groups were formed, and each gave a stunt.

Refreshments were served, and the party broke up at a quarter to eleven.

Another extremely good time was enjoyed by the sophomores, much inconvenience, however, being caused by some who evidently considered that "fussing" was beneath them. This, though, did not prevent everyone present from having a good time and receiving full benefit from the program and the rest of the foolishness.

On arriving everyone was given the sum of $25. Of course there had to be some conditions that went with the money, for instance, talking to two or more of the opposite sex at the same time, not smiling, not taking part, and many other things were considered offenses and fines of from $2 to $10, levied according to the seriousness of the crime.

A very clever farce was presented by A. Logan, as station master; R. Hill, as mamma; G. Chandler as son.

Once during the evening the party was interrupted by several masked figures who apparently had for their purpose the showing off of their costumes. They left without causing any disturbance other than to leave a general curiosity in the minds of the sophs. It is thought that the intruders were juniors.

In the basement of the Jason Lee church, the loyal workers of the green gathered for two hours of song.

WILLAMETTE PETS ARE NUMEROUS FAVORITES FOUND ON FLUNK LIST

Who are the pets of Willamette? Almost everyone. In other words, the favored are the ones who have the happy prospect of being politely excused from their classes sometime in the near future. Since the frosh are so cute anyway, it is not at all surprising to see some of their names on the "flunk list," but it is rather annoying to find some of the upper classmen numbered among the fortunate ones.

It all happened in the following manner: Those who did not cram much were flunked more. Then a list of the names of the most ignorant creatures was placed on the prep's desk. At first thought this seemed to be a queer place to post it, but after a brief reflection the method in the madhouse could be understood very clearly. It is only natural that the chief executive should want to peep through the keyhole to see what effect the fatal information would have on the hapless innocents, is it not? Let us hope that he did not fail to be impressed! The seething mob which surged about that list was almost worthy to be compared to a New York bread riot. It is difficult to find a student who knows anything about the appearance of that scholastic mob, for it is rather unpsychological to be both the observer and the observed at the same time. Many persons who had the egoism to think they were pets were disappointed. But there is still a consolation for them; their names may be published next time.

Many invitations have been issued to the Willamette girls by Miss Richards for her at home to be given Saturday afternoon at Lausanne hall.

We are the class of '25,

Not dead, but alive.

Again, as in year's gone, the freshman class presents an issue of The Collegian. We do not wish to complain of the unusually short time in which we have had to plan it, nor do we attempt to apologize for any of its shortcomings.

We have established already our reputation for pep and spirit. Our response to the call of the school paper is as sincere and whole-hearted as our response to every other demand which has been made upon us.

History of Frosh.

Years ago, when Willamette first published a Collegian, there was no mention of the insignificant Frosh. Not until the fourth issue of the then monthly journal did we see anything pertaining to our predecessors. Even then it was nothing but a cruel joke copied from the Yale Review.

Gradually, however, the Frosh gained their place. At first we found references to numerous faults. It seems that they were merely tolerated. Mill streams and hazings were strong words in the vocabularies of the upper-class men.

A day came, at last, when a note of respect towards the Frosh was sounded. Slowly they gained in standing among their fellow-laborers in the realm of Profs. and Notebooks. Superior beings grew to tolerate them, and even the Profs. came to have slight mercy on them.

From the ancient race of jaded, down-trodden acorns, WE, the Frosh of 1925 have evolved. Up through years of toil and suffering, a class has grown, which we humbly admit receives the respect of all. Sometimes we even think that the very Sophs are glad of our presence.

We owe them much—these ancestor Frosh of ours. Let us give them what thanks we can.

The Win-My-Chum Campaign is an inspirational series of services. We think that everyone should attend, for spiritual development is every bit as necessary as mental and physical development. We are backing the leaders in both thought and prayer, and sincerely wish them success in their attempt to present Christ more vividly to every Willamette student.

Yes, we lost another football game. But the Frosh say:

"There's another year coming. Don't let our spirit wane. Keep up the old Willamette pep." Pretty good advice, don't you think so?

Support the Advertisers

If you desire that The Collegian improve; if you do not wish it to remain static, there is one outstanding way to show your attitude. It is simply to patronize those business firms who, showing their belief in the school and its official publication, have consented to utilize The Collegian as an advertising medium during the coming year.

The management will be continually insistent that every student mention that old phrase, yet so vital if the paper is to succeed, "We saw your ad in The Collegian." The make or break of the paper ultimately rests on the shoulders of each member of the student body. Will you support it by patronizing advertisers or will you forecast failure by wantonly neglecting any reciprocity toward the business men who make the paper possible? On you rests the burden. Both editor and manager alike are assured that the student body will make it a dominant point in the commercial relation with Salem firms to see that Collegian advertisers get support and that they are made aware of the fact that their advertisements are noticed.

Get the phrase "We saw your ad—" and couple it with fair play in your trade. Thus and only thus, will any forward movement of the paper be effectuated.

The Sphinx is interested in the preacher's club. We wonder if they had anything to do with the marriage ceremony staged at the freshman party last Saturday, when Leonard C. reluctantly consented to take Frances S. as his wife by the response. Who do you think I am? The incident shows the religious intent of the organizations, and all of us are expecting great things of them.

The turnout of the students to see the team off last Thursday was fairly well attended. The street-corner would have held more, however.

The Sphinx is glad to see that the waste baskets around the campus are being used. That's what they're for. Keep it up. A neat, clean campus adds wonderfully to the attractiveness of a college.

There was no material turned over to the Sphinx this week. Don't be bashful about asking questions or giving us material. Nothing barred by age. The younger the better.

Has anyone noticed how full the library is of evenings? If anyone has, he is probably aware that exams are coming soon. Also it is noticeable that folks come to the library in couples.

Prof. Sherman, in one of his psychology classes, told a story of a hunting trip he once took. According to the story he was "all set" to see and to shoot a fierce animal. So he shot without hesitating at the first thing that came through the brush. It happened to be his dog. There was no harm done, however, as Prof. Sherman was a poor shot. But we wonder what the result might have been had he been expecting his best girl and met—a Zulu maiden.

The freshman class is losing confidence in Dean Clark's judgment in selecting gifts. He said, in his suggestive way that it would be nice for the class of '25 to give a carpet as its memorial to the college. This carpet was to have the class numeral woven in the center, and he put upon the chapel platform. Dean Clark or anyone else cleaning the chapel would doubtless be reminded of the class of '25 as he looked over his vacuum cleaner. The cleaners would be the only ones to see our gift. But seriously speaking, we believe it to be the school's place to furnish carpets. They seem scarcely suitable for a class gift to the school.

Respectfully submitted with apologies to all who may be offended.
—THE FRESHMAN SPHINX.

Carmelita—Mother, the world's not coming to an end.
Her mother—Why? How do you know?

Carmelita—Because the Doxology says "As it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be; world without end."

A good paper means a good support. Say "We saw your ad."

Patronize Collegian advertisers.

Student Opinion is Reflected

Dear Mr. Editor:

I wonder if I may say a word about eligibility to college societies through the medium of your paper, to whomsoever it will interest?

Cliques, or smaller groups of people gathered to themselves, are doubtless a necessary evil. There should, however, be some mutual interest to entice them together. This segregation of mutually interested persons is in itself a means of forming a caste system.

Many students come to college because of a real desire to get the social culture and refinement that is supposed to be a valuable by-product of a college education. Perhaps these students have been less fortunate in their early environment than others who enter the school, perhaps less favored naturally—we may call them "the weaker brethren." Is it the broad kindly Christian spirit that condemns these weaker ones to bear the heavy burden of social ostracism? Viewing the matter then, from a Christian standpoint, these weak ones are the very ones that we should invite into our societies, help them all we can, until finally they will become amalgamated into our higher ideals and capabilities. But this is possibly only an idealistic theory that because of our clay humanity is unfeasible to us.

I have an idea, however, that to "make" a college society or fraternity is not the ultimate index of the success of a person's life and living. If one has the real worth of a sterling character and a good mind, sometime during his life he will manifestly "make good." If he has not, membership in a dozen orders will not alter the fact. Even the freshmen have doubtless noticed by this time that those pupils who excelled either in scholarship or popularity at high school are not always nor even generally the ones who are the eminent ones among their fellow-students at college. Later on they will perceive that the great ones in college are not always nor perhaps even generally the eminently successful ones in the school of life. You can easily find many examples of this fact in the great mass of literature, art, business, professions, etc. This may have given rise to the old maxim that "every dog has his day." It certainly reminds us of the hopeful promise in Holy Writ that "In due season ye shall reap, if ye faint not."

Nor would I discourage those who are fortunate enough to belong to a good society. Be thankful and make the most of your opportunity for becoming capable in leadership and social intercourse. But membership in a college society should not make snobs but rather friends to all,—let us remember that the greater are our privileges, the greater are our responsibilities towards others.

And to those of us who are feeling rather discouraged and homesick, I wish I could quote, "Man looketh on the outward appearance, but God looketh on the heart."—and his favor is for "whosoever will," and yet is much more to be desired than the commendation of even the best and wisest of men.

Sincerely,

—Co-ed Commoner.

Marcelling and Permanent Wave

A jolly time was enjoyed by a group of girls who hiked about eight miles across the river on Sunday afternoon. After building a bonfire a sumptuous picnic lunch was enjoyed. Those who made up the party were Margery Edmunds, Ruth Ross, Lucile Moore of Salem High School, Salome Socolofsky, and Miriam Lovell.

The members of Beta Chi were delightful hostesses when they entertained the resident members at the annual slumber party on the eve of Armistice day. Music and chatting filled the hours, while nuts and fruit were enjoyed by the girls. In the morning a dainty breakfast was served. The resident members of Beta Chi are Lorlei Blatchford, Phyllis Palmer, Edna Gilbert, Elsie Gilbert, Esther Parounagian, and Eva Roberts.

Margery Edmunds and Phyllis Saller were guests of Helen McInturff at the Delta Phi house, Sunday at dinner.

Margaret McDaniel and Caroline Stober went to Portland to their homes for the week-end.

Mable Marcus motored to Corvallis Friday to attend the O. A. C. W. S. C. football game.

Marie Durfee was an out-of-town visitor over the week-end.

Mary Elizabeth Hunt was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Doney for dinner on Sunday.

Winifred St. Clair was an out-of-town visitor over the week-end.

Jack Burleson visited at his home in McMinnville over the week-end.

Quite a few girls from Lausanne spent Armistice Day and the week-end at their homes. Among those who went to their homes in Portland are Verna McKeehan, Elizabeth McClure, Zella Mulkey, Mary Wells, and Naomi Phelps, who took Lois Geddes with her. Florence Jens spent the week-end at her home in Tazewell; Gladys Emery at her home in Macleay; Jamie Farmer at her home in McMinnville; Nina Boesen at her home in Eugene, and Margaret Gates with friends in Portland. Rosa-Fredenburg spent the week-end with Ruth Rice, a former Willamette student, at her home in Brownsville.

Virginia Mason visited at her home in Jefferson over the week-end.

Mrs. A. N. Cheney of Vader, Wash., spent several days of last week with her daughter, Carol, who underwent a tonsil operation at the Deaconess hospital.

Frosh Boy Very Bashful; Scratch List Is Occasion for Much Worry; This Dear Boy Gets Turned Down

ELSIE HOP LEE
"Well," sighed the poor frosh, "I suppose I'd better get the scratch list and see what's left." And again he heaved a doleful sigh.

Winding his way slowly through the crowd, he finally met the scratch list. He took it reluctantly and slowly drew out his pencil to scratch some girl's name.

"Now who shall I scratch?" wondered the frosh. "I don't know this one. Wonder what she's like? Shall I take a chance on her?" and he gazed disconsolately down at the tip of his shoe. "Well, I guess not. Her name is all right but you never can tell about freshman girls from their names. Now who's next? She's scratched. Like to know who's taking her. I wouldn't. Um-m, this one might do. Might as well take her as any one else." And forthwith he scratched her, then heaved a great sigh of relief, feeling that an irksome duty had been well done.

In his search for the girl he found his courage slowly ebbing away. Before he had completely lost it, he encountered the object of his search.

"Oh, say, Miss—, will you go to the freshman party with me?" he breathed out hurriedly.

"Er-ah-I'm very sorry," cried the flustered maiden, "but, really you know, I can't. I'm going to be out of town."

The poor freshman backed away with as much grace as possible.

"Whew, that was a hot one! Never again," he muttered.

Wiping his sweating brow with one hand and clutching the back of a chair in the other, he met the wistful gaze of a girl. He essayed a weak, little smile in her direction. She smiled at him tremulously. Emboldened by the success of his first effort in friendship, he approached her, forgetting that he had just been refused and that he had resolved never to try and make another date.

"Are you a freshman?" he asked casually.

"Yes, aren't you?" asked the girl shyly. He assented, then asked, "You going to the party tonight?"

"I don't know," answered the girl with a little catch in her voice. "I'd like to have you go with me."

"Would you?" cried the girl eagerly. "I'd love to go."

"All right, then. Where do you live and when shall I come for you?"

The details were quickly arranged and the two parted, having been observed by the whole school. The frosh felt that it wasn't so bad, you know, if you went about it right and got the right girl.

While he was musing in this fashion, the girl was informing each and every freshman girl that she had a date for the freshman party!

Thus ended the freshman and the scratch list, but it was the beginning of romance in the life of the frosh.

Percy wanted to see the speaker. His view of the platform was obstructed by the hat of the girl sitting immediately in front of him. Percy decided on a mild protest.

"I say," he said, leaning forward, "I want to look as well as you!"

"Really," retorted the girl, "then I'm afraid you will have to go home and change your face."

Several games which called for alertness were played, following which a program was given. Some of the girls rendered a very dramatic song. Professor Griffith delivered a lecture.

The feature of the evening was the wedding of President Leland Chapin to Miss Francis Saller. Before the ceremony a quartette sang "Just Before the Battle," and at the conclusion they sang "The Fight Is On."

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served, and the class disbanded at an early hour.

STEAM CAR OVERTURNS ON TRIP; LAWSON HURT

Ex-Willamette Student Badly Burned
When Automobile Is Wrecked
Near City of Seattle

With four comrades bound for a week-end hunting trip near his home at Blanchard, Wash., Maurice Lawson, a graduate of last year's class and a member of the Sigma Tau fraternity, was seriously burned when the automobile in which he was riding upset three miles south of Arlington last Saturday.

When the car, a Stanley Steamer, upset, Lawson's foot struck the throttle which turned on the steam, burning his body. Lawson was pinned under the car for about five minutes before they could get him out. He was then rushed to the hospital where his injuries were cared for.

Lawson's recovery is said to be hanging in the balance with but slight hope for recovery.

Maurice Lawson is at present a graduate student at the University of Washington, working toward his master's degree in social science. He was very popular at Willamette and very active in all school activities.

He was a member of the Christophilean Literary society and was president of the society during his senior year.

Lawson was elected a member of the honorary senior fraternity, Alpha Kappa Nu.

Willard Lawson, a member of the class of '23 and David Lawson, who is attending the University of Oregon Medical School in Portland left Saturday evening for Blanchard to be with their brother.

The others in the accident were Herbert Gauger, sophomore at University of Washington, who was badly burned about the shoulders, and J. M. D. Hansberry of Seattle, who was cut about the heart. The other occupants of the car John (Jack) Luckner, a former Willamette student and a member of the Sigma Tau, and J. L. Grandy, escaped unhurt.

Ray Atterbury, also a graduate of Willamette, was in the car with Lawson on the first part of the trip, but Atterbury left them at his home in Everett.

COACH BOHLER IS HERO

Hike Course Prescribed for Girls Is More Popular Than Gym

Coach Bohler has made himself beloved by all Willamette students. How he did this may be a mystery to some who do not indulge in physical training. To those freshmen and sophomores and a few others, however, who are compelled to take it, that statement is no mystery.

In many schools, gym is unpopular, and perhaps it might be so even to W. U. were it not for the burning of the gymnasium last spring.

But to shorten the tale. That the physique of the students might not suffer despite building disadvantages, Coach Bohler magnanimously requested them to exercise by hiking or playing tennis.

Several students chose tennis. The court was busy with couples playing industriously, and frequently in their scoring the word "love" was coily exclaimed.

But walking was more popular than tennis. It cannot be said what words were used there, but it is known where some of the walking was done. Two freshmen, a young man and a young lady, whom all thought timid, handed in duplicate slips of "an hour's walk in the residence district of Salem on Sunday evening." But a sophomore and his friend reported a hike to Bush's pasture.

Doubtless by the time of rainy weather, varsity students will be well acquainted with Salem and its scenery—and also certain of them will be known better to each other. Thanks to the coach!

Swimming Classes Grouped

Swimming classes for college girls to be held under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. at the Y. M. C. A. tank on Tuesday and Friday afternoons between 1:30-3 o'clock, were announced by Emma Shanafelt.

A small fee of $2 a semester is to be charged, and excellent instruction provided. The members of the Y. W. C. A. believe that swimming helps much in the development of the true American girl, and it is for this purpose that the classes are being formed. Gym credit is given to those joining the class.

Writings of Shakespeare Reveal Wide Knowledge of Art of American Game

More and more the conviction grows that William (Bill) Shakespeare was no slouch when it came to the matter of keeping up with the times. Behold the following mentions in which he makes constant allusion to the favorite pastime of the American college youth:

"Down, down!"—Henry VI.

"Well placed!"—Henry V.

"A touch, a touch, I do confess!"—Hamlet.

"I do commend you to their barks!"—Macbeth.

"More rushes! More rushes!"—Henry IV.

"Pell mell, down with them!"—Love's Labor Lost.

"This shouldering of each other!"—Henry VI.

"Being down I have the placing!"—Cymbeline.

"Let him not pass, but kill him rather!"—Othello.

"Tis sport to maul a runner!"—Anthony and Cleopatra.

"I'll catch it ere it comes to ground!"—Macbeth.

"We must have bloody noses and cracked crowns!"—Henry IV.

"Worthy sir, thou bleedest; thy exercise has been too violent!"—Coriolanus.

"It's the first time I ever heard breaking of ribs was sport!"—As You Like It.

LIBRARY GROWS

Valuable Material Now Available Says Librarian

The Willamette library is steadily becoming better adapted to its new quarters—it is growing. Professor Franklin reports that many new books have been arriving during the summer and are now catalogued and ready for distribution. Two years ago the varsity library was crowded into one room in Eaton hall; now it occupies the entire second floor of Waller hall. This, besides furnishing more adequate accommodation for the library than then existed, has provided a place where new books could be made accessible to the students. And new books have been arriving and are continuing to come in, from donations and other sources, in quite a constant stream.

It is not the new books, however, that enjoy the greatest popularity in the college library. There are shelves and shelves full of ancient volumes that are nevertheless packed with wisdom and curious and practical information and knowledge. Many of these books have been given to Willamette as gifts at various times since her inception and consequently many of them are not to be found in public libraries of today and some are very rare. The students seem to appreciate this literature that appealed so tremendously to their fathers—and so prove themselves real sons of Jason Lee.

Besides the more than 10,000 bound volumes in the varsity library there is a great quantity of very valuable pamphlet material, much of which has come in during the summer. As soon as this has all been catalogued it will be placed at the disposal of the students.

In order that the students may more readily find their material, outlines of the shelving arrangement have been posted in conspicuous places in the library, and a copy of Dewey "Decimal Classification and Index" has been provided for reference.

Professor Franklin expresses him-
