Whip Whitman Banquet Takes Place In Gym

First Time in History the Banquet Ever Held On the Campus

Arrangements Announced By Graham at Meeting of Council

For the first time during the present student generation, at least, the annual Whip Whitman banquet will be held in the Willamette gym when alumni, students, and friends among the townspeople gather November 24 for dinner and a pep program arranged by Lillian Graham, first vice-president of the student body.

First arrangements for the affair were announced by Miss Graham at a regular dinner meeting of the executive council last Monday night at the new Golden Pheasant Cafe.

Extensive plans have been made concerning the entertainment program. George McLeod, student body president, offered to attempt negotiations whereby the Whitman student body president could be present for the dinner. If possible he is to be introduced for a short speech.

As usual numerous speakers are scheduled for the event including Bill Phillips, Mayor V. E. Kuhn, and "Spec" Keene, with the possibility of Jim Nutter, Bob Knotson, and several others. The speeches will be very short according to custom.

In the program of entertainment Miss Graham announces an appearance of the popular W. U. band, a sorority trio, and Ralph Gustafson as soloist.

A distinct improvement in the seating arrangements was announced by Miss Graham. The team will be asked to sit on the side of the table away from the audience. This will alleviate any necessity on the part of the players for twisting around towards the audience during the introductions by Coach Keene.

Previously the players sat on both sides of the table, forcing the half on the side towards the students to present only their backs when they arose to acknowledge respective introductions.

Tables occupied by the team and speakers will be raised according to tentative arrangements. In general seating arrangement the committee tended to frown upon house blocks. Those attending the banquet will be seated as they wish.

This year the function is not to be at all limited to students and alumni. Friends of Willamette among the townspeople are urged to come and add their support at the banquet.

Committees appointed are: Norman Hogenson, chairs; Bill McAdams, decoration arrangements; tickets, John Kelley, Ross Gladden, and Lawrence Morley; skit advertising, Jean Holingsworth, Mel Viken, and Guy Helms; programs, Lucille Brainard.

Mail Box Riot Scares Members of Weaker Sex Away from Eaton Hall

I hear there is a letter over in my mail box at Eaton Hall, but I'm afraid to go get it. The last time I got my mail, a kicked shin, a cracker rib and a black-and-blue spot above my elbow came along with it.

Now, before I begin berating, I'm going to compliment you, my fellow-classes on your patient waiting at the gate for a football game. I commend your brotherly feeling toward one another after chapel when you hungry freshmen stumble over you upperclassmen in a frantic effort to get out that door. I can forgive you who push ahead of me at the library desk in a rush to get to your 8:40 class. But what is there about that mail-box to bring out the animal in you?

At the first glance at the wild, menacing-looking throning surrounding the boxes, I lose all

Names In Tests Fools Students

Mistaken Identity of Men Have Humorous Results In Examinations

What is in a name? Students in Professor Herbert E. Rahe's speech class apparently believe there is a lot in a name, for in a recent news quiz one student had the audacity to call Professor William E. Kirk, instructor in Latin and Greek at Willamette University, a politician who was defeated in the last election. Another student gave him the title "head of Social Science department at Willamette University."

Howard Maple, former Willamette University assistant coach, will be surprised to learn that one student thought he was coaching at University of Oregon at Eugene, while another student rated him as a government liquor inspector.

With politics spread over the front page of every newspaper, one might imagine that a prominent politician might escape the "bright" remarks, but no. John D. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican party, was said to be the founder of the national banking system and another student believed it was he who penned the Declaration of Independence.

No doubt as the result of a "red menace" scare Madame Bovary, heroine of Flaubert's novel of the same name, was dubbed a Russian spy to the United States.

About Ben Adhem, central character of Leigh Hunt's poem of the same name was declared by one student to be a Persian prince.

Paul R. Kely, editor of the Oregonian, will be glad to know that one student regards him with such high esteem as to give him the rating of a college president.

Friendly Scuffle Ends In Serious Eye Injury For '36 Student Prexy

Bronk Williams, junior in law school here and last year's student body president, was recently confined to his home with an eye injury received accidentally during a scuffle.

Williams will be forced to remain out of school with both eyes bandaged, for a period of 10 days or more his physician said early this week.

Sympathy from the student body was officially expressed when the executive council passed a resolution to that effect at last Monday's meeting.

Cap and Gown Gives Social Chresto; Callahan Directs As Proceeds Go to Campus

The semi-annual Cap and Gown tea cream social was held at Chresto, last Thursday, and many students dropped in to partake of the good food, and to enjoy the friendly atmosphere.

Gwen Callahan was in charge of the affair. She was assisted by other members of Cap and Gown, and by members of Tacks, the Sophomore girls' organization. Dean Dahl was the hostess.

One-half of the proceeds of this affair goes for the upkeep of Chresto; the rest is used for a dinner, given by Cap and Gown, honoring the six freshmen having the highest grades.

courage and look nonchalantly (I hope) at the bulletin boards. But that letter—he should have written yesterday! So I throw out my chest and with a prayer on my lips, I dive in. The best position is behind a football tackle. But that doesn't always work, if he happens to be tall. Swinging elbows are dangerous. Then I watch my chance. I reached for the wrong mail box the other morning, but it was OW because someone gave me a punch in the ribs, and I dropped all the mail. That's where the tackle came in again. Those W club members are real gentlemen.

Then, looking over a shoulder of another "S", I spotted my letter! I grabbed. It slipped. Somebody kicked my shin when I stooped to pick it up. But I got it and went limping off down the hall.

Why can't you act civilized at the mail-box?

Debate Squad Plan Extensive Journey

The forensic department of Willamette is continuing its program of participation in all major tournaments on the Pacific coast and middle west, which is being sponsored and planned in part by the National Headquarters of Tau Kappa Alpha. This tour will be made after the Los Angeles tournament is completed.

Tryouts have been made for the after-dinner speaking contest to be held at Oregon State the second week in December. The general topic will be "American Mass Manias." The third week in January extemporaneous speakers from Willamette will go to Pacific College for their tournament.

The rest of the forensic squad is preparing for the Linfield Forensic Tournament on February 18-20. Their meetings will be resumed after the Los Angeles trip. Those participating in debate are: L. Hiebert, J. McNeese, M. Crary, I. Keeney, H. Davidson, T. Aisi, R. Farmer, W. Davis, D. Stahl, W. Turner, C. Gleiser, B. Clemes, L. DeMytt, E. Vehrs, M. Crane, B. Brown, C. Smart, E. Savage and M. Beagle.

Bill Clemes is debate manager and Morrell Crary is acting as his assistant.

Jones Reveals Views On Church Voss Interview

Dr. E. Stanley Jones, world famed Methodist missionary and author, in an exclusive Collegian interview declared that Christianity must break from the decaying order of capitalism and work for a new world wide cooperative commonwealth.

"Christianity would survive the shock of a possible collapse of Western Civilization although the church might not," he said concerning the present world crisis. Emphasizing the social as well as the personal religion Dr. Jones stated that the new goal of the church is nothing less than the Kingdom of God on Earth.

Here in Salem last week as a representative of the National Preaching Mission, Stanley Jones spoke to an overflow crowd in the Salem armory. In public a dramatic, powerful speaker, in private he is a quiet, unassuming, democratic man with a radiant personality.

When questioned regarding Mahatma Gandhi's influence in Indian politics Dr. Jones said, "Gandhi, recently in the world headlines as leader of the Indian masses in peaceful strike against Great Britain, has passed the political torch on to Dr. Ambedkar present leader of the Indian outcasts. Ambedkar leader of 60,000,000 outcasts according to Dr. Jones has renounced the Hindu religion as inadequate for his needs and is now looking for a new religion for his followers. After an interview with the Pope who discouraged him from taking immediate action against the plight of the outcasts Ambedkar is now seriously considering embracing the Sikh religion.

Dr. Jones, sympathetic with the Indian Nationalist movement finds man yfualts with the British control over India. Commenting on independence he said, "Indian independence or dominion status is at present far in the distance. The British have consistently refused to grant any measure of autonomy because of strategic reasons and the fact that it would cause Hindu-Muslim riots."

Donnell Saunders, former yell king and student here this year, will be asked to assist Grover Williams, yell king, until after the Whitman game, the executive council ruled at a meeting last Monday night. After that time Williams will be at liberty to select his own assistant to take the place of Victor Haureberg, who recently resigned as crown prince. Saunders has been approached earlier in the year in relation to his assuming an active place on this year's pep staff, but has heretofore refused because of lack of time for added responsibility. Pep staff activity is improving according to the consensus of opinion at the executive meeting, but it was ruled that further improvement could be affected by increased cooperation of the non-students.

Debate Team for L. A. Trip Chosen

Thorne, Morley and Kester Have Last Year On Debate Squad

Intensive training and last minute work are the order of the day for Willamette's varsity debaters in preparation for their southern debate trip. The teams to take the trip this year are Randall Kester and Lawrence Morley, Marjorie Thorne and Helen Mae Beal, Oldus Smith and Albert Klassen.

This year will be the last year of debating for Marjorie Thorne, Kester, and Morley. Helen Mae Beal and Oldus Smith have had previous experience in various debate tournaments. Albert Klassen is an outstanding debate and extemporaneous student from Dallas.

The teams will leave tomorrow at Chapel time. They are traveling by car and expect to arrive in Los Angeles Sunday noon.

The debates are held preliminary to the Western Association of Teachers of Speech Convention. On Monday six rounds of debate, judged by student opponents, will be held and four on Tuesday before any eliminations are made. The Tuesday debates will be judged by faculty and outside persons. The question for debate is: "Resolved; that Congress should be empowered to fix minimum wages and maximum hours for industry."

Twenty-five schools are registered from seven states thus making this the largest tournament on the Pacific Coast. The intention is to pick the best men's and the best women's team on the Pacific Coast to compete with mid-western teams for the national championship. Kester and Klassen will also be entered in the extemporaneous contest.

Thursday and Friday will be devoted to the Teachers' Convention. One of the high-lights of the Convention will be the representation of the motion picture of the larynx in action by Dr. Joel Pressman, husband of Claudette Colbert. This same picture was presented last year at San Francisco. The return trip will be made on Saturday and Sunday. Alternates for the Los Angeles trip are Waldo Hiebert and Katherine Rinke.

Scholarship Cup Award Wednesday

In chapel Wednesday the semi-annual awarding of the scholarship cups took place. A cup is awarded each semester for the girls campus organization rated highest in scholarship and one for the highest men's organization.

As Dean Dahl presented the girls' cup to the Delta Phi sorority, she commented upon education in general. "Education is not that which is taken from texts and lectures and returned to the professor unchanged. One should ask himself these questions concerning education. What are you getting for your money? Are you learning enough of the machinery of society to successfully apply your gifts? Are you acquiring adequate skill in communication to convey your ideas to others?"

Dr. Gathe in presenting the men's cup to the Sigma Tau fraternity, made this statement: "The men's grades start where the girls' end." He also said, "A grade is only an estimate of one portion of curriculum, but the curriculum in so balanced that the grade is important."

Wesleyans Hear Dr. M. Ballinger

Dr. Maurice Ballinger, introduced by Bill Clemes who knew him in India, was the speaker at the Willamette Wesleyan meeting on Monday. Dr. Ballinger, who is traveling in the interests of peace and internationalism, among the colleges of the Pacific coast, emphasized the international implications of being a Christian. He believes that those who enter Christian service now, more than ever before must be persons whose horizons have been pushed out. "Life can start anywhere—when you begin to meet in a realistic way," Bill Clemes is to speak next week, also on conditions in India.

PACIFIC UNIVERSITY INVADES LAIR OF TITLE BOUND W. U. BEARCATS

Peters Awarded Keyes Prize In Speech Contest

Warren Peters was awarded first prize in the Keyes-Oratorical contest held in Waller Hall Tuesday at chapel time.

Mr. Peters, who stated that only when we attain an individualism with respect will we have an individualism worth while, chose as his subject "Individualism—Rugged, Ragged, or Rigid."

Ed. Minnemann speaking on the problem of socialized medicine was given second place. Mr. Minnemann contrasted the appropriation by the United States Congress of $63,000,000 in 1935 for the maintenance of the war machines of the U. S. and the pitiable lack of attention given the medicinal needs of the U. S. citizens. It is no longer a need for discovery, stated Mr. Minnemann, the great cures have been discovered, but funds are lacking to place them in the hands of the average citizen.

Third place was declared a tie and was awarded jointly to Bob Campbell, and David Stahl. Mr. Stahl spoke on Voltaire, while Mr. Campbell discussed the stepping stones to a new war, or a lasting peace.

This contest is made possible each year by Alfred M. Keyes, Salem business man, who gives a first prize of $15 and a second prize of $10 to the winners of this contest.

Judges for the contest were Professor Herbert E. Rahe, Nathaniel Panek, and Miss Marion Morange.

Internationals To Dine With Guests

"The first Thanksgiving" will be the general theme of the pre-vacation dinner given by the International Club in Chresto College tonight at 7 p. m. for members and guests.

A program summary calls for the singing of the doxology, by the entire group; a welcome address, by James Pyke; an acceptance, by Evalyn Welch; the singing of the hymn of Thanksgiving, by the group; and grace, by Dr. Bruce Baxter.

After the dinner James Pyke will offer salutory greetings to the guests, to which Ruth West is to be called upon to represent the women with a short speech of acceptance. Bronk Williams will speak for the male guests. The benediction, by Dean Dan Schulze, will close the meeting.

Evalyn Welch is in general charge. Table decorations are being handled by a committee headed by Bette Hall. The room will be decorated by Martha Okuda and Tats Yada and Phyllis Bunnell is responsible for the program for the evening. Dinner presentations are to be made by Bill McKinney.

The guest list includes: Pauline Winslow, Rachael Youcam, Martha Warren, Ruth West, Ross Gladden, Everett Gary, Lawrence Morley, Bronk Williams, Dr. and Mrs. Schultz, Dr. and Mrs. Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. Sparks.

Survey of Ancient Publications of School In Museum Reveals Change

Life on the Willamette campus has changed considerably in the short span of 35 years.

Ample proof that student activities and customs have evolved in rapid fashion is found within the rolled pages of handbooks, Collegians, and daily papers on file in the University museum.

When the handbook for the year 1900-1901 was published the "Rules of the School" appeared on page 18. Today, two of these laws are especially interesting. They read as follows: "Attend services each Sunday morning at some selected church; 2, the use of profanity and tobacco and the visiting of saloons or places of questionable character are forbidden."

The topic of school finances was considered briefly. "Many of the students heard themselves for $1 per week. Good board and room can be obtained in the city for $1.20 to $4.00 per week with private families." A decade later Willamette rules had evidently become more liberal. For the 1913-1914 handbook contained a page which was divided into two columns. At the top of the page these words were written: "Record Your Cuts." A clever advertisement which is found in the same publication reads as follows: "Don't Go Down By the Mill Stream—Go Down Buy Something From Our Advertisers."

Badgers Only Remaining Obstacle Between W. U. and Title

Willamette's Goal Line Is Uncrossed To Date; Barstad, P.U. Star

Needing only to win tonight's contest to carry off their third consecutive Northwest Conference championship, Willamette's Bearcats take on their bitter rivals of many years' standing, the Pacific University Badgers from Forest Grove Friday evening on Sweetland field at 8 o'clock.

The rivalry with Pacific is one of the oldest Willamette has and has, until the past few seasons, been one of the toughest assignments the Bearcat athletic teams had to face each season. Although the Pacific team has failed to show an unusual strength this season, tonight's battle is expected to be just as bitterly fought as those in the past.

Pacific has a scrappy outfit, and one that possesses some really outstanding gridgers. Tilpher Barstad, all-conference tackle in 1935, is one of the standouts in the forward wall, as is Oscar Giesecke, triple-threat end, who not only takes care of his flanking duties, but finds time to drop back into the backfield and do a great share of the Badger's kicking and forward passing. The pass-combination of Giesecke, right end, to Sikstrom, left end, has proven especially outstanding this year. In the backfield Orval Olen and Ed Ellertson, a triple-threat, are the shining lights. Both will bear watching.

It is interesting to note, that Pacific has scored at least one upon every conference opponent this season, while Willamette hasn't been scored upon in league play. Which record will still prevail after tonight's encounter is hard to predict.

Willamette, back home after a strenuous holiday schedule in California, has spent most of the week correcting weak spots noticeable down south, and, with every man in top condition, the Bearcats are determined to nail the championship flag to the mast tonight in no uncertain manner.

Ludden Discusses Life At College

The Willamette Wesleyans met Monday noon with Ted Ludden, president, leading a discussion meeting. It was decided to have a fixed membership roll. The greater part of the meeting concerned "What Do We Expect to Find in College Life?" A motion which would unite the group with another religious group on the campus, was tabled. The next meeting will follow the same line of thought.

PAINT SPOTS

A business meeting of Paint Spots was held Tuesday afternoon in the Art room in Kimball Hall. A buffet supper was planned for Tuesday next week.

Several ideas were discussed concerning Christmas decorations on the campus.

Student Editorials

Again we wish to present a cross section of campus opinion. One of the following columns was submitted voluntarily and the other was solicited by the editor. Right or wrong we believe they are both worthy of the consideration of campus men and women. Comment will be appreciated. We request that published letters "to the editor" be signed and written as briefly as possible.—Editor's note.

In Response

Several weeks ago I wrote you a letter cracking the faculty. I have regretted, Mr. Editor, that no one took the other side of the question and cracked the students. Perhaps the faculty members refrained because they felt they were above the "grammar school" tactics of their pupils. But I am not convinced that we should allow the matter to drop with only one half of the story told. Certainly it would be unfair to the faculty if the students were exempt from criticism. Therefore, Mr. Editor, I am taking the liberty of writing you this column which condenses the information I have garnered from a number of interviews with the profs. In essence here is the opinion many of the profs hold of their students.

Most of our students are slaves to the customs of society. They do everything the crowd does, think everything the crowd thinks, and utter only those thoughts which are palatable to the crowd. The intellectual activities which go on under their fashionable felt hats are about as progressive as the wanderings of a snail. They give forth and acquire ideas with all the precision of a parrot. Though we expose them to the very best and noblest that has been thought and written in the world, their thought life goes on unilluminated by the intrusion of a single original idea. They never have heretical thoughts because they never think. Their vocabularies consist of a handful of verbiages, a dozen or so nouns, and an armful of high explosives.

Though oblivious for the most part to the moving forces of their environment, students are inordinately sensitive to that omnipotent and ever present force, public opinion. With the trained ear of an Indian scout they listen to the rumblings and mutterings of vox populi, wondering how to gain its approval, how to avoid its displeasure.

What is perhaps the strangest thing about our students is that they are perfectly satisfied with themselves. They are as content to maintain their intellectual mediocrity as a cow is to graze in a pasture of cracked grass. If they attained to an average of C in their Freshman class, they are satisfied to maintain it until they graduate. To see a student attempting to improve his scholastic standing has become as rare as a snowstorm in the drought region during the summer.

Keene Issues 1st Call For Hoopers

With four lettermen and two reserves from his 1935 squad, two pair of transfers, and several members of last year's freshman squad answering his first hoop call, Coach "Spec" Keene began workouts Tuesday afternoon in preparation of his 1936 basketball team.

Lettermen out include: Harry Mosher, speedy forward; Jerry "Gashouse" Gastineau, long, lanky, dead-eye forward; Larry Ninnencamp, smooth working forward, and powerful Bill Anton, outstanding pivot-man. This list will be added to when football season ends, allowing Walt Weaver, Charley Versteeg, Don Brandon, and Bill Beard to don suits.

The transfers are Everett Clark, star on the Oregon Frosh outfit two years ago, and Bill Burrell, ex-Salem high flash, who has played at Portland U. Other prospects include Jack Aiton, Dex Russel, Roy Orren, Hal Mae, Norris Joyce, Frank Guerin, Oscar Specht, and Ernie Mosier. All but Mae and Joyce were fresh stars last season.

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

Salt for the Wicked

Our nomination for the smallest man in the world goes to the person responsible for the lighting in the law school library.

In all probability there isn't throughout the length and breadth of the land, a law library which can surpass or even equal ours for sheer, unadulterated dimness. Notwithstanding this might be very desirable to the more amorous of the Lausanne Parlor-haunters, it is obviously not the easiest place in the world to study. However, it is the only place in which the necessary books can be obtained, and the long suffering law students are left no choice.

One of two things is needed—new lights, or—a set of Braille reports. We'll wager that if Dr. Baxter, Dean Lockenour, or whoever has authority in the matter would bring a book into the library some night and read it for 20 minutes, something would be done in short order to remedy the condition.

We refuse to believe that anyone who actually knows how poor these lights are would force students to study under them if it was in his power to make a change. This, recognizing the amazing weight of lethargy which at times presses upon those in authority. It is an uncomplimentary paradox that a law school which maintains as high a position as does Willamette, and spends thousands of dollars on new books to maintain that position, will sacrifice its students' eyesight for the few dollars it would cost to put in an efficient lighting system.

Having nominated our choice for the smallest man in the world, we would like to pick as the most narrow minded man, the faculty member who stated in a lecture that he would not accept as a major anyone who smoked. It is difficult to see how a teacher who exhibits such a complete lack of tolerance can hope to obtain the respect and attention of his students. Possibly a brace of good pipes and a supply of tobacco, properly applied, would remove some of his cantankerousness.

Four years ago the members of the Willamette excursion to C. P. S. found upon their arrival a well planned program of entertainment prepared for them by the students of that college. Last year another enthusiastic welcome was prepared by C. P. S. students for a long-heralded influx of Cardinal and Gold supporters—but it was wasted effort, as only a handful of Bears arrived.

This year C. P. S., as witnessed by its cheering section at the homecoming game, sent down a good-sized and well-organized excursion, which found upon its arrival that its alma mater's past efforts in our behalf had been magnificently repaid by an opportunity to attend the game—for a remuneration—and nothing else.

A number of schools have in their organization the position of vice-president, and such officers takes care of such matters and other social events. We strongly advocate the establishment of such an office in our own student body. (Author's note.) It has just been discovered by a member of the constitutional revision committee that our own constitution provides for such an officer. It is hoped that in the coming elections, in view of this discovery, someone will be elected to fill the newly found vacancy.

Speaking of homecoming, the poor success of the carnival this year, and the general dissatisfaction of the students with it as a means of post-game entertainment should persuade future homecoming committees to make a change. After all, this is a college and not a high school, and even though "ring around the rosie" may be a wonderful experience under certain circumstances, it seems that college students should be offered something a little more amusing.

If an official student body dance cannot be arranged, leave the post-game date blank, and some enterprising student will take care of the matter. Which latter would be the better suggestion, as the student body and the classes generally, seem to have an uncanny knack of picking the worst possible orchestra obtainable for the price.

The poor attendance at the homecoming play demonstrated again the necessity for selling fraternities and sororities blocks of tickets if the attendance of a majority of their members is desired. There are those who say they should have no preference, but mass buying is always sup-

A dark cloud of uneasiness cast its shadow over the campus early this week following Dr. Baxter's Monday chapel address.

Old Dame Rumor told of a student "snoop" committee sponsored by the administration. As a result a mystical "black list" had already been placed in the hands of the deans. No less than seventy students were to be severely reprimanded or expelled.

As a matter of fact, a major portion of the campus population had succeeded in talking itself into a very enjoyable state of apprehension. Signs of defiance even appeared here and there—until Dean Dan H. Schulze cruelly and finally punctured the fanciful bubble.

No such organization or list existed, he told the editor in a telephone conversation. And who could reasonably doubt him?

"Absurd" is almost trite, but few words more accurately describe the situation which existed early in the week concerning the encouragement of student "stooging."

Such action would probably have been just one step worse than the crime itself. Yet certain of the most unstable of us would entertain the rumor labelling our own faculty guilty of it.

Extremely infrequent is the occasion upon which a speaker meets a difficult situation as adequately as did Dr. Baxter in his chapel address. With that as an example of the caliber of our administration, it seems scarcely possible that rumors concerning "snoopers" and "black lists" could affect anything lower than the Waller Hall flag pole.

But what was it Barnum said?

Jooss Ballet is to Be In Portland

A strong reason to spend a part of the Thanksgiving weekend in Portland is the engagement of the world-famous Jooss European ballet, shortly to make its first visit to the Pacific coast, to give two performances in the Portland public auditorium on Saturday, November 28. The Jooss dancers, newcomers to Oregon and the remainder of the coast states, are not new to the country as a whole. In Europe and abroad they are acclaimed as the finest, completely integrated dance troupe of the day.

The Jooss ballet first rose out of obscurity in 1932, when it went from its provincial German home to compete in the contest of famous ballet troupes which was conducted in connection with the International Congress of the Dance. The Jooss organization, hitherto unknown, competed with virtually all of the celebrated European ballets, and emerged an easy winner.

The ballet is now making its fourth tour of the United States, its first from coast-to-coast. Its progress across the country has been literally a series of triumphs and everywhere it has been acclaimed as the finest dance ensemble to visit America since 1916, when the authentic Russian ballet of Serge Diaghilev made its memorable tour.

The Portland engagement is the only one booked for the state of Oregon this season.

Eminent dance critics everywhere have paid glowing tribute to the remarkable beauty and precision of the Jooss ballet's performances. Their production, "The Green Table," first introduced in Paris in 1932, and which is to be included in the Portland repertoire, has been dubbed "a modern classic." It is undoubtedly the most famous of all modern ballet creations.

The Jooss organization differs from all other ballet troupes in that its productions are plays enacted in dance. The element of drama, usually injected only by the means of crude pantomime, plays a dominant part in the productions. "The Green Table" is a mammoth satire on modern diplomacy, and "The Prodigal Son," another feature of the Port-

Breakfast Dance Is Latest Idea

The sisterhood at 1610 Court enjoyed an unusual social event last Friday morning when the Alpha Psi's to a man arrived, rather naively, in a school bus driven by Louis Hershberger and carted members and pledges off to the station to meet the train. Between Song Queen Dingle and Noise-makers Heimsoth and Aden songs and yells kept those still sleeping awake. Though the capacity of the bus is normally about forty, approximately sixty yelling students jammed in, not noticing the lack of space because of the early hour of 5:30 and the novelty of the excursion. Everyone except Harry Mosher seemed rather comfortable but he lost a shoe string in the scuffle and may be seen to this day wearing an improvised one.

Though only a part of the team was in condition fit to appear, the rally was a success, and about 6:30 the two houses resumed their places in the bus and arrived at the Alpha Psi house where Mrs. Kelly assisted by pledges served a cheering breakfast of coffee, milk, and Alpha Psi Butterhorns.

Delta Phi were surprised to see the Shirley Temple cream pitchers which were used, and at once suspect the Alpha Psi's of eating their Rolled Oaties faithfully every morning! After breakfast, to the music of the boys' elegant new radio, everyone danced until driver Louis called "all aboard" and loaded his bus with Delta Phi's, whom he returned to their respective lodgings in good working order and in time for 7:45's.

We have come to the conclusion that what our social calendar needs is more breakfast dances—this was a big success!

Miss Harriet Childs spent Armistice Day in Portland with her mother who is ill in Good Samaritan hospital.

The members and pledges of Daleth Teth Gimel entertained with a line party at the Elsinore Theatre Saturday night after which a social hour at Chresto Cottage was enjoyed.

Among those present were Mary Farnum, Ethel Delle Baxter, Hannah Kaufman, Edna Thoman, Beth Hall, Ardene Troxell, Gertrude Connell, Barbara Jones, Margaret Taylor, Edna Luther, Ruth West, Virginia Bendickson, Marie Bendickson, Marian Chase, Beatrice Gillette, Faye Dalton, Evelyn Welsh, Margaret Allison, Edna Sherwood, Louise Ferrey, Ruth Miller, Frances Smith, Helen Windle, Margaret Johnson, Willetta Smith, Lorraine Vick, and Jessica Kinsey.

Condolences are being received by Bronk Williams, former Willamette student body president, on the injury he received last week. He is much improved and receives visitors now.

An interesting combination benefit and social affair of last Thursday was the semi-annual Cap and Gown ice cream social, at which most of the campus was in attendance at one time or another during the afternoon or evening.

Mrs. Dan Schrieber and Miss Loretta Fisher were hostesses to the Beta Chi alumnae group last night.

The marriage of Miss Josephine Anderson and Menalks Selander, which will take place December 15, was announced at a recent Alpha Phi Alpha alumnae meeting. Miss Anderson is a graduate of Willamette, where she was a member of Alpha Phi Alpha.

Miss Esther Nelson spent last week end at the home of Miss Glenna Bauersfeld in West Linn.

Miss Ruth Tscherner, Miss Wanda Landon, Miss Catherine Faxon, and Miss Barbara Crookham visited their homes in Portland last week end.

Miss Gwen Gallaher entertained her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Gallaher and her cousin, Mrs. M. C. Gallaher at dinner at the Delta Phi sorority, November 13.

The girls of Delta Phi enjoyed the presence of Dr. Maurice Ballinger at dinner November 12. After dinner Dr. Ballinger answered questions about his travels and work and showed many interesting snapshots.

Delta Phi members and pledges enjoyed a slumber party late Saturday night, Nov. 7, with ghost stories, songs and dancing by shadowy candlelight. Early in the small hours cider and hot maple bars were served, after which the girls went cheerfully off to the sleeping porch.

Dr. Ballinger was a dinner guest at Kappa Gamma Rho Tuesday night.

Miss Stella Scurlock, regional advisor for the Coast and Rocky Mountain districts of the Y. W. C. A., is spending Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday on the Willamette campus. She has been the inspiration for a number of informal dinners given by the different sorority and fraternity houses.

A number of Willamette students were seen enjoying the Kreidler concert in Portland Monday night.

GRAND Lawrence Tibbett and his operatic baritone voice are coming to the Grand this week-end in the comedy picture "Under Your Spell."

Prosperity is back! So is vaudeville—at the State Theatre beginning this Friday and Saturday, and every week-end thereafter. Acting under the belief that movie-goers are once more eager to see good eastern circuit vaudeville, Mr. Ed Lewis will present a new series of acts each week for the pleasure of his audiences.

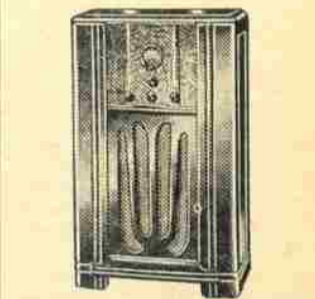

Following this picture, Mr. Loring Schmidt announces, the Grand will once again present to its patrons the Dionne Quintuplets in their latest success, "Reunion," with Jean Hersholt again in the character of Dr. Dafoe, their famous country doctor.

HOLLYWOOD The poor and rich alike among the student body will be glad to hear that Shirley Temple will be at the Hollywood from Sunday through Thursday in "The Poor Little Rich Girl." The amusing and excitingly human incidents which form the plot of this production take Shirley from a boarding house to the streets of New York, into the care of a "broken-down" vaudeville team (Jack Haley and Albee Faye), helps them with a radio contract, and then brings back romance and happiness to her father. Others in the cast are Michael Whalen and Gloria Stuart. For excellence of performance, lovers of Shirley Temple will not be disappointed.

Teams of Northwest Conference Complete Grid Season

League's 1936 Season Ends Here, Nov. 26

Linfield-Albany Through For Year; Others To Finish This Week

With Linfield and Albany already through with grid play for this season and College of Idaho, C. P. S., and Pacific contemplating on hanging up their suits after this week's contests, the 1936 Northwest Conference football season is rapidly drawing to a close after one of the hardest-fought and most thrilling races in its history. The grand finale to the all-successful pennant chase comes on Thanksgiving day, November 26, when Coach Nig Borleske's Whitman Missionaries and the Willamette Bearcats clash on Sweetland field in Salem.

The lone league game on tap for this week-end brings together the lowly Pacific Badgers and the defending champion Bearcat crew in Salem, Friday night. The 1934 and 1935 titlists, winners of 18 consecutive loop games, need only to win Friday evening's clash to clinch their third straight conference title, and the outfit from Forest Grove is given virtually no chance whatever to upset the dope and win.

Whitman, still possessing a mathematical chance to tie for the crown, takes on the tough Eastern Oregon Normal School eleven Saturday afternoon, while C. P. S. takes on Gonzaga's mighty team at Tacoma on the same day in this week's other games.

With the season drawing to a close, candidates for the annual all-conference all-star selections are beginning to stand out. Some of the outstanding players to date are: Davis and D'Alfonso, Albany; Cummins, Comeaux, Klavan, O., Whitacre, Doughty, Whitman; Harrington, Holten, Maulding, Summerville, Linfield; Vagt, Versteeg, Becken, Hogenuson, Beard, Brandon, Weisgerber, Willamette; Ellertson, Giesecke, Olasen, Barstad, Pacific; Hayman, Idaho; Schmetz, Remson, Sullens, McFadden, Dawkins, C. P. C.

Three reasons why opponent backs have trouble running the Willamette ends are shown above. They are (top to bottom) George Abbott, Chuck Versteeg, and Walt Weaver. This is Co-Captain Versteeg's last season, but the other pair, both sophs, will be back to make Bearcat history next year.

Independents Fall Before Powerful Alpha Psi Eleven

Paced by their star southpaw passer, pass receiver, place kicker, house proxy, and Blue Key proxy, Dwight (where's Elmer?) Aden, and John "Shamrock" Kelly, the strong Alpha Psi Delta passball team rolled up the largest score made by any team so far this season when they defeated the Independent men 53 to 7 November 9. The Alpha Psi scores were made by "Elmer" Aden with 12 points; Wayne Brainard, who played brilliantly, scoring 12 points; Frank "Goose" Guerin, 9 points; Dwight Catherwood, 6 points; Curt Johnson, 6 points; and Harry Mosher, 6 points. "Shamrock" Kelly scored 2 points on placements. Buxton scored all 7 points for the Independents.

In the other games the Kappa Gamma Rho team walloped the Sigma Tau team, 33 to 6, and the Physical Education staff beat the same outfit, 25 to 0. Larry Nunenkamp, Verdell Ragsdale, Charles Bickner, H. Mohr, Gilman Davis, and Bob Clark each scored 6 points for the Kappa's, and Ralph Gustafson kicked three extra points. Ross "Veep" Gladden scored the only touchdown for Sigma Tau. For the P.E.'s, Art Miller and Leland Canessa each scored two touchdowns and Canessa kicked two extra points.

By virtue of scoring 14 points against Sigma Tau, Leland Canessa of the P.E.'s jumped into a tie with his teammate Hal Moe for the league leadership in scoring, each having scored 26 points. Harry Mohr of the Kappa's retained second place with 24 points, and Aden of the Alpha Psi's pulled into

Campus Quarterback

By BOB KEUSCHER (Collegian Sports Editor)

Every football lineman (ends excluded, of course) nestles one little desire in his heart throughout his grid career—to score a touchdown. Usually his dreams are in vain. He plays year after year without getting the chance to fulfill his ambition and must content himself by leading the way for someone else whose scoring prowess shines in the headlines. But not so with these Bearcat linemen—Darrell Newhouse and Bill Waldron, at least. Both scored touchdowns while the locals were down south—Newhouse, snagging a lateral pass from Weisgerber in the Fresno State contest and trekking 28 yards to pay dirt, and Waldron, catching a pass that was being batted about in the air in the Whittier game. We believe the Bearcat linemen set some sort of a record in this respect and wonder if they'll stretch their scoring streak to three straight Friday eve.

Those Cardinal and Gold grid-ders certainly gave a good representation of themselves in those two clashes in the southland considering the great odds that were against them—two games in five days after a strenuous six-game schedule at home and the intense California heat that literally wears down the northern teams that venture into the neighboring state.

Six members of this year's Bearcat grid machine will hang up their suits for good when the final gun ends the Whitman game on Thanksgiving day. They are: Bob Vagt and Darrell Newhouse, one of the greatest pairs of tackles Willamette has ever possessed; George Erickson, Bill McAdam and Chuck Versteeg, veteran ends; and Don Brandon, ace halfback.

Well, the pigskin season is almost over and the typical fan now spends his spare time picking his all-star teams for the season and, debating the question, of who's going to play in the Rose Bowl. So if you happen to see some frowning young man bent over a table littered with papers jotting down a long list of names and then deliberately scratching out all but two or three of them and beginning over, and finally, crumpling the paper, sighing with relief and giving it all up, you've only witnessed a typical case of All-Americanitis, of which there is always an epidemic about this time of year. And speaking of all-stars, the northwest conference all-star selections are going to be plenty hard to decide with one third place with 22 points to his credit.

Individual scorers now stand:
Player	Tds.	Con.	Total
Hal Moe (sfty.), P.E.	4	0	26
L. Canessa, P.E.	4	2	26
Harry Mohr, K.G.Rho	4	0	24

HIS SEASON OVER

Ineligible for conference competition this season, Jiggs Burnett, one of Coach "Spec" Keene's outstanding halfbacks in 1935, concluded his collegiate grid career in the Whittier game, November 11. Jiggs was one of the shining lights in the Bearcats' early season tilt with Nevada and was equally outstanding in the California games.

of the largest crop of fine performers in years on hand.

As for the Rose Bowl, the western representative is almost certain to be Jimmie Phelan's Washington Huskies, while Fordham is this writer's pick for the eastern team, with Alabama, Pittsburgh, Marquette, and Louisiana State possible choices.

It's a good thing that the grid season is almost over, for if old man dope kept up his present pace our predictions, we'd reach the point pretty soon where the wrong guesses would out number the right ones (something like most of the entrants in the Oregon Statesman guessing contest), and that would never do. Record to date: Right 28, wrong 5, ties 6. Here we go for this week—Willamette in a breeze over Pacific; Gonzaga to topple C. P. S.; Whitman to trim E.O.N.S.; O. S. C. in a close one over Oregon; Stanford to lick California; and Notre Dame to spoil Northwestern's claim to the national title!

Bearcats Tie Fresno State, Lose To Poets

Two Contests Featured By Strong Second Half Comebacks

Demonstrating to their California audiences that they were one of the scrappiest football squads ever to line up on the southern gridirons, Willamette's mighty Bearcats fought their way into a 14-14 tie with Fresno State's strong Bulldog eleven and dropped a close 21-17 decision to the Whittier College Poets in the pair of intersectional contests played in the sunshine state on their recent trip south. Although they faced the toughest opposition available and were forced to play under extremely difficult weather conditions, the local eleven came from behind in each game and pressed their opponents until the final whistle, and with a little luck, might have won both tilts.

Although they faced an almost unbeatable lead of 14-0 at the halftime whistle, the Cardinal and Gold gridsters put on a tremendous display of power in the second stanza to tie the Fresno team on November 7. With burly Dick Weisgerber leading the way, the Bearcats trotted onto the field after the intermission and proceeded to punch over two touchdowns and a pair of conversions to even the 'count.

The first score came late in the third period when Weisgerber smashed the line for 15 yards and when tackled tossed a perfect lateral pass to Darrell Newhouse, Willamette's behemoth right tackle, who dashed untouched for 23 more yards and six points. Weisgerber converted.

The second tally came near the end of the contest after Willamette had gained possession of the ball on the Fresno 37. A pass, Brandon to Versteeg gained 13, while another, Beard to Burnett, added 19 more. On off-side penalty gave the Bearcats the pigskin on the ten yard stripe, and on fourth down Weisgerber cracked the line for three yards and the touchdown. With the outcome of the game in the balance, the "Jersey-Juggernaut" calmly stepped back and booted the oval over the crossbar for the tying point.

The Bulldogs made their scores on a 71-yard dash around end in the first quarter and on a 37-yard march through the airways in the second period.

Beside Weisgerber, Billy Beard, who gave a spectacular punting exhibition in the second half, Bill McAdam, star end, and Bill Waldron, center, stood out for the Willamette team.

Evidently holding to the belief that Whittier would provide for less opposition than they had encountered in northern California, the Bearcats got the surprise of their lives on Armistice day, when they ran into a band of Poet pigskin-toters who just wouldn't be downed. Again the locals, off to a poor start and trailing 21 to 6 at halftime, put on a two-touchdown second half drive and came very near to pulling out ahead.

Whittier's scores all came in the first half, Hutchinson breaking loose for 50 and 73 sprints to the goal-line and passing 15 yards to Patterson for another six points. Hunt, Bard, pivot-man, converted after each touchdown and the three conversions provided the margin of victory when the final gun sounded. Willamette's tallies came on a pass in the second period, which Waldron finally snagged over the goal after it had been deflected by a defending Whittier back, on a 60 yard gallop by fleet-footed Billy Beard on the second play of the third canto, and on a 49 yard line-smash by Weisgerber a few moments later. In each case the try for point was missed. Though the Keene-men fought desperately for another score and a win they just couldn't sag the Poet defense quite enough in the final period.

The Bearcats played before crowds of well over 5000 fans in both Fresno and Whittier and were highly praised for their excellent performances.
