

Crucial Weekend Faces Bearcat Hoopers

Cats Meet Idaho, Whits Here; Play NAIB Tourney Monday

With a possible tie for the Northwest Conference championship in sight, Willamette's basketball squad will meet the College of Idaho Coyotes tonight and Whitman college tomorrow night in the last conference and home games for the Bearcats this season. Next Monday and Tuesday the Cats will play in the district 2 National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball tourney at Portland, the winner of which will go to the Kansas City final March 7 through 12.

If front-running Lewis and Clark should win their game with fifth-place Pacific university tonight, and if Willamette should win their two games, the Bearcats and Lewis and Clark would end the season with equal percentage marks.

Whits Hold Win Over Cats

On the recent inland trip the Bearcats edged the College of Idaho 49-46, and were defeated by Whitman 58-51. Last week the Coyotes dropped Whitman 53-46 to add to the complexity of the situation. In conference play Whitman and the College of Idaho are tied with four wins and four defeats.

Forward Lowell Sayre and guard Rex Adamson, both of whom have played good ball for the Coyotes this year, will be the "thorns" in the side of the Bearcats. Adamson got 15 points against the Cats in the first meeting of the two teams, and Sayre recently canned 18 against Lewis and Clark.

Heron High Scorer

The skyscraping Missionaries, whose recent win over the Bearcats set the stage for this week's "Hollywood finish," are led by the leading conference scorer, Jack Heron. Heron is sporting a 15.4 per game average. The Whits average slightly more than six feet.

Willamette could finish on top of the heap should Lewis and Clark lose to Pacific and the Bearcats win their two games. And, putting the shoe on the other foot, Lewis and Clark could win the flag themselves should Willamette lose one or both of its two games.

Cats Enter Tourney

Win, lose or draw the Bearcats will journey to Portland to play in a single elimination tourney to determine this area's representative to the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball tourney in Kansas City.

Portland University, Lewis and Clark and the Southern Oregon College of Education are the other teams in the tourney. The games will be played in the Portland university gymnasium. The SOCE Raiders made the trip to Kansas City last year.

During halftime of tonight's game the Jayvee footballers will be awarded their sweaters.

Lowell Thomas Speaks

Lowell Thomas and his son, Lowell Thomas, Jr., will be speakers at the Salem high school auditorium Tuesday, March 8 at 8:30 p.m., sponsored by the Salem chapter of the American Association of University Women. The speakers will talk in conjunction with all-color motion pictures.

Cards Requested; Jory to Return

The Registrar's office has announced that students who failed to turn in enrollment cards for physical education will not receive credit unless they do so within the next few days.

Choir students should check with Dean Melvin Geist to see if he has their enrollment cards.

Registrar H. B. Jory is expected to return Monday from a two week trip to California where he has been interviewing students.

Chapel Ideas To Occupy New Committee

The student council meeting Tuesday discussed the appointment of a committee to work with Tom Bartlett and Dean Raymond Withey to discuss programs and speakers for next year's Tuesday and Thursday chapel programs. Several suggestions were made by council members as to personnel for the committees but action was postponed until next meeting for actual appointment.

It was brought out at the meeting that Tuesday chapels will be open to student body functions at all times and are entirely for student use while the Thursday chapel will continue to be of religious nature.

However, Withey wants student suggestions for compiling Thursday chapel programs and suggesting speakers for these programs.

Election Discussion Postponed
Discussion concerning the revision of the constitution to include a one-day election system and other innovations and remodeling has been postponed until the next council meeting Tuesday, March 15.

Machinery Moves Forward For March 5 Glee Rivalry

As March 5 begins to loom ominously on the time schedules of harassed Freshman Glee managers, Chairman Bill Merriam this week announced plans for the distribution of two tickets each to students participating in the program, and one for all non-participants.

With tickets even more scarce than last year for the nationally famous musical event, to be held again this year in the Willamette gymnasium, the student council met Tuesday to formulate what they termed "the fairest seating plan possible."

Participants Favored

Favored students will naturally be those who are either singing in the program or are working behind the scenes on committees, stage crews and other related activities.

Students wishing to obtain tickets will sign a list in the students body office, and upon presentation of their ASWU cards, will receive the allotted amount.

To Sign for Tickets

Actual participants in the program, however, will merely sign a list provided by class Glee managers, and will receive their tickets on Wednesday.

Maury Underwood replaced assistant chairman Bill Ready, announced Merriam, and will undertake last minute preparations in co-operation with the Glee committees. With the news of Underwood's appointment came also the information that names of judges will finally be revealed next week.

Seniors Asked To Place Orders

Glee-participating seniors will be able to pick up their caps and gowns in the university bookstore Friday afternoon, March 2, according to Mrs. Delsia Larson, bookstore manager. Upon receiving the caps and gowns, seniors will be asked to deposit $5 which will be returned the Monday after Glee.

Mrs. Larson has asked students who have not picked up all their text books to check again to see if the texts have come in.

Books that have been received this week and are on sale are "Business Law", "General Methods of Education", "Corporation Finance", "Cost Accounting", "Psychology Tests and Measurements" and sociology pamphlets.

Mrs. Larson also stated that seniors wishing graduation announcements should place orders immediately in the bookstore. March 7 is the deadline for taking the orders.

Chapel Notice

No chapels will be held next week because of Freshman Glee practices, according to Dean Raymond A. Withey and Tom Bartlett, chapel managers.

Library Gets Atlas

The latest addition to the University library for the map-minded is the "Rand McNally Commercial Atlas and Marketing Guide." It has all the world boundary changes up to the last of World War II treaties. Included also are the most complete maps of the United States in existence, says Librarian Dan Graves.

YWCA Will Send Nine to Conclave

Eleanora Loveless will represent the campus YWCA at the conference for regional student YWCA and YMCA councils and advisors on Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Portland. Jean Carrico, Willamette university junior, will lead a discussion to plan the summer session at Camp Seabeck.

Cabinet members of the campus YWCA who will attend are Betty May Jackman, Jo Oliver, Alice Turtledove and Jackie Chute. Dean Regina Ewalt, Mrs. Brooks Moore and Mrs. Esther Little, executive secretary of the local YWCA, will attend the conference as advisors.

The theme of the meeting is "Campus Christian Strategy in 1949." Leila Anderson, executive of the national student YWCA of New York, will be the guest speaker at the conference.

Speakers Bring Glory to WU Students Await Chance to Capture Laurels at Linfield

By Mary Louise Lee

Jack Gunn and Elliott Motschenbacher won the Pacific Northwest debate championship at the annual invitational speech tournament held on the College of Puget Sound campus February 11 and 12. Four men representing Willamette carried off the championship cup and five additional placings.

Tom Bartlett placed second in after dinner speaking and third in one-man debate. Frank Lockman captured a second in extemporaneous speaking. Motschenbacher placed third in interpretive reading, while Gunn placed third in impromptu.

The Linfield tournament being held this weekend will be well represented by Willamette speech students. Entering are Bob Sayre, Tom Bartlett, Elliott Motschenbacher, Jack Gunn, Jim Williams, Frank Lockman, Joan Morgan, Betty Ferguson, Dale Gibson, Don Carpenter, John Thompson, James Holyoak, Doug Nichol and Allan Franke.

All men and women will enter debate, speaking on "Federal Aid to Education." Gunn, Motschenbacher, Bartlett and Sayre will enter both extemporaneous and impromptu. Lockman and Williams will enter extemp. The topic for extemp is "U. S. Foreign Policy", and for impromptu, "Civil Liberties". Gunn will speak on "Democracy vs. Communism" under experimental speaking. Bartlett, who will enter after dinner speaking, will speak on "American Females." Motschenbacher, entering interpretive reading, will read "Creation", "Compensation" and "Beyond the Last Mile". They will leave Thursday by car for Forest Grove.

Willamette debate teams have gained honors all through the year, starting with the west coast debate championship in Seattle November 22, 23 and 24. Bob Sayre and Betty Ferguson won the state championship at the men's and women's extemp speaking contest held in early January.

No News Is Good News

Since a little confab between Collegian editors and staff and members of the speech department, the editor hangs his head in shame.

That the drama and speech department believed that the Collegian had forgotten them and was blackening their names by the use of very black type was also most disheartening to this editor. To blacken the names of two departments which have in the past and are at present bringing academic honors to the University is and ever has been the furthest thought in our minds.

The most shamefaced accusation made in the mind of this editor was that we gave the speech department no publicity on a recent winning at the College of Puget Sound. Our news columns hold just so much and previous commitments which consisted of holdover copy and budget limitations was the best reason we have to offer for leaving an old news story out last week so that we could build it up this week. Surely a front page spread on a story two weeks old would be better than a paragraph or two on page seven or eight when it is already a week old. We offer no apology for holding the story to give it a better spread this week. The story also was received in approved form at the time we went to press last Thursday. Who are we to tear up an eight page makeup to include a news story which was already old news?

As to the other two items discussed, namely, the critique on R.U.R. and the story on page one concerning the Tenth Hour Workshop, we can only say that both were written by competent reporters who were assigned to the stories and without prejudice or bias in the writing thereof.

Our head again bows to the drama and speech departments.

As To This Freshman Glee . . .

Now, Freshmen and other classmen, too, now is the time to jump to the standard of your class and march, sing and sing.

Get out the old shoes and put on that most comfortable pair of slacks or dungarees and sing till your throat is parched and you can utter not another sound. Get up early and practice late. Yawn in the morning and yawn again at night. Sleep your hearts out in Prof. Clark's physical science and snore as loud as you will in Prof. Kaiser's American history. Get used to the singer next to you, 'cause you may have to depend on him for support on that stifling, hectic, exciting and one-and-only night of March 5.

Do what you want next week, you Glee hounds, 'cause this is Freshman Glee!

Merci Beaucoup

The University was in close proximity to French generosity this week as Oregon's Merci 40 et 8 box car arrived and was presented by the French San Francisco vice-consul on behalf of his government to the State of Oregon.

Since the time of the Revolution and before, the U.S. and France have always thought of each other as bosom friends. The token in the form of the box car and gifts received from France this week indicates that the friendly spirit reigns supreme in the minds of the two peoples yet and will continue.

We are grateful to the people of the nation that gave us the Statu eof Liberty for this expression of generosity and peace which is extended over thousands of miles of land and sea.

(Editor's Note: The Collegian cannot accept responsibility for the printing of unsigned letters. Many letters were received concerning this matter, but the name of the writer appeared only on the following.)

Someone is trying to contact me, Ed., but I can't make out the name. I got a letter the other day; you received a carbon and I understand there's another on the board in Eaton. That one's not signed and neither is mine. Was it yours?

Now Ed., I think it's unfair to write letters and not sign them. After all, Ed., I signed my name to that review of the first night of "R. U. R." you commissioned me to do and I didn't even have to.

Now Ed., it says in this letter that I wrote that "miscarriage of justice" because I'm an interested party and I'm trying to get back at somebody. Well, Ed., I figure it this way. Anybody takes the chance of being accused of ulterior motives when he signs a piece of criticism. I was expecting it, really I was. Especially when the criticism stepped on somebody's nose. Sell Gadgets; Make a Million!

By Jerry Mulkey

Salesmen are neither born nor made—they're cast like an iron bar. However, selling jobs are astronomical in number, hence one shouldn't feel so disheartened when he's graduated or flunked out because there is always something to sell.

Just grab the classified section of your favorite daily and check the columns under the pointed heading: Help Wanted—Male (or Female). Well, take any one of the "make a million in a month proposition,"—here's one: tri-focal reading glasses with a double shoe horn feature.

First, you have to do some advertising. Starting humbly you can't spend too much, so you'll invest in a little sky writing. This only costs $362 per minute, but the smoke is extra. Nothing to do now but take bankruptcy. Smoke is expensive.

Don't be discouraged; you haven't scratched the surface. Hit the business men, they have money. Your first office call isn't a failure. You sit in the waiting room for three hours glaring at a comic-book-reading secretary. Finally you can see the boss. It's your big moment. You rush in and make an appointment for a demonstration, February 31, 1961. But don't let success go to your head.

When your luck is down, your sales manager is really an understanding and sympathetic person. His kindly advice goes: "You mutton-head, you couldn't sell a basket of fried chicken to a starving southerner."

Let us draw a curtain of pity on the above survey of a noble profession. It should be conclusive enough to redouble one's efforts to forego the indignities of flunking out and what's more, create a powerful incentive to consider extensive graduate work. In other words, put some money in the pot, boy.

On the SOUTHard Side

By Wally Southard

It wasn't compulsory, but perhaps one-twentieth of the student body turned out to attend a rather spontaneous meeting in Waller hall Monday afternoon. The meeting was instigated by somebody, who, I don't know, but I have my suspicions; and I went, and I even had an opportunity to get in my 35 cents worth; for the topic of discussion was, "what should get into and why didn't it get into" the Collegian.

Now it didn't take me long to discover that the students primarily in attendance were from the drama, speech and news departments, and that the students from the first two departments had an axe to grind with the news department.

Briefly, the charges leveled by the speech and drama students, which gave rise to the discussion, were, (1) the Collegian was engaging in unethical newspaper practices, specifically, printing less objective and more biased news stories, as for example, the University Workshop disaffiliation story and the Robert Scott review of "R.U.R." in last week's issue and (2) the Collegian was negligent in that it failed to print the debate team's first place success in a recent College of Puget Sound speech tournament.

Jack Gunn, speaking, as he said, for Prof. Kirkwood, charged that the Workshop story constituted a slap at a University department which was interested in such activities as workshop productions. Now the chances are that 90 per cent of the Willamette student body would fail to find a "slap" in the story unless they were acquainted with some rather sensational details underlying the story, which, I found out, consisted of petty bickering, differences of opinion, etc., and which, further, are not newsworthy or ethical from my point of view as a newsmen.

Ballot Boxes Scare Students

By Pat Sebastian

After the release of last Tuesday's run-off election results, it appears that the student's choice is nothing more than that they don't choose to vote. It would seem that the collective school spirit existing at WU isn't strong enough to move many students the few extra steps necessary to bring them face to face with the ballot box conspicuously situated in Eaton hall.

Basis for this observation is the fact that 131 votes represented the largest amount recorded for any one office. This was in the freshman race for the presidency of their class. Still, this number represents only a little over one-third of the entire freshman class. A lean 61 votes determined who would be the leader of the junior class.

If there were a poll tax in effect or a band of carpet baggers lurking in the dark corners of every corridor, the lack of student response might be understandable. The only essential to fulfill this duty, however, is a student body card. In fact, you don't even have to be a property holder to make your influence felt in student body elections, nor are there any age requirements to be met.

Then why do the ballot boxes go begging?

What Price Glory? Beta Pledges Squirm

Hitting local front pages, United Press wires and the radio left the Beta pledges with only "extra-heavy pledge duties."

It all came about because of a couple of wandering, red-leather davenports, the pride of Beta Theta Pi. It seems they appeared in a downtown furniture store window for sale. Members of the fraternity were quick to suspect the pledges who were highly chagrined at the "prohibitive" seating arrangement.

I assume the other ten per cent of the student body were acquainted with the underlying details involved, and could probably find something wrong with the story, although in my opinion I think I am stretching the percentages in favor of this group.

Mr. Gunn also charged Robert Scott with being prejudiced in his review of "R.U.R." by reason of not seeing eye to eye with the drama department. Well, Mr. Scott, regardless of personal difference with the drama department, is certainly qualified to write a review. Further, he would not bias his review on such an account. Knowing Mr. Scott, I rather suspect that he would bend over backward to be complimentary, in as much as he was aware of the criticism which would probably be—and was—evoked.

Bud Corner, who opened the discussion with the charge that the Collegian was negligent in not printing the debate team story, had, in my opinion, the only justifiable gripe. And since Collegian Editor Eric Bergman seemed to give a reasonable—if not satisfactory to some present—answer, the meeting could have adjourned then and there without any further charges.

Well, in the final analysis, and speaking as an independent columnist, I strongly suspect that certain individuals affected by the "controversial news stories" have satisfied their egos to a certain extent in airing the charges against the Collegian. But as far as these charges having any worthwhile value, except for news—well, I just can't find any.

However, as Student Body President George Hurt pointed out at the conclusion of the meeting, things seemed to have straightened themselves out to a certain degree. And now the matter rests.

Or does it?

Society to Hold Roundtable Talk

"The Nature and Shape of Academic Freedom" is the proposed topic for a round table discussion which will be held Sunday at Baxter hall. The discussion which is sponsored by the Willamette philosophy society, will begin at 8 p.m.

Opening statements on the topic will be offered by Dr. John A. Rademaker, professor of sociology, Murco A. Ringnalda, journalism head, and Charles A. Sprague, publisher of the Oregon Statesman newspaper and former governor of Oregon. Moderator for the evening's discussion will be Edward C. Kollman, professor of philosophy.

Club Dance Held

"Land of Oz" will be the theme of a dance sponsored by the Canterbury club tomorrow night. Decorations are planned around such characters as the Cowardly Lion, Tin Woodsman and others. Refreshments will be cookies and punch, which will be centered around the "Oz" theme. The dance, beginning at 8:30, is to be held in the parish hall of the Episcopal church for members of the parish. Tickets are 75 cents a couple and will be sold at the door.

Busy Fortnight Comes to End For WU Band

The Willamette university band will complete one of its most hectic two weeks of the year tomorrow night when it plays during the final Northwest conference home basketball game for the Bearcats in the gym.

The period started two weeks ago on a Sunday afternoon when director Maurice Brennan's group left for central Oregon and a three-date concert tour. They played for the student bodies of Redmond, Bend and Prineville high schools and afterwards held instrumental clinics with the bands of these high schools. A stop-over for a concert at Lakeview was cancelled due to weather and traveling conditions.

Returning to the campus, the blue-clad men and women of the band arrived just in time to present an ad lib concert for basketball patrons, because snow and ice made the Lewis and Clark basketball team an hour late for their clash with the Bearcats in the local gym.

They slowed down this week to a single concert appearance and instrumental clinic at Canby and now have only to appear at the games tonight and tomorrow in the gym. They also played Monday to welcome the "Merci" train.

Withey and Gregg To Speak Tonight On Brotherhood

Dean Raymond A. Withey has been elected to the Board of Directors of the Oregon Council of Churches. He will speak at the Fremont Methodist church in Portland tonight on Brotherhood Week.

Dr. Robert D. Gregg will speak on the same subject tonight at the Jewish synagogue in Salem.

450 Received At Lausanne

Approximately 450 guests were ushered through the rooms of Lausanne hall last Sunday afternoon during open house. After passing through the receiving line the visitors were taken on tours through the building. Refreshments were served in the dining room.

Those who served for the occasion were Mrs. Gayle Morris, head resident of Baxter; Mrs. Fay Owen, head resident of Laurel; Miss Yvonne Simpson, house mother of Fredrickson, and Mrs. Florence Fawk, assistant to Miss Lorena Jack.

Congratulations

Congratulations are in order for Jack and Pat Hazlett, who became the parents of a baby boy on February 4. The new addition weighed 7 lbs. 9 1/2 ozs. at birth, and measured 19 1/2 inches in length.

Mrs. Hazlett is a member of Chi Omega, and Mr. Hazlett is affiliated with Beta Theta Pi. Mother and child are doing well.

Two Jobs Available

Dean Regina Ewalt announces that she has available two jobs for girls. Both positions require work from 1 to 5 p.m., one being receptionist's work in a lawyer's office, and the other typing in an insurance office. Girls interested should see the dean of women.

Editors Play Second Fiddle; Orators Burn

Charging "biased" play review, exaggerated coverage on a Workshop disaffiliation story appearing last week and lack of coverage on the Pacific Coast speech tourney, a group of irate students met in the Little Theatre Monday with representatives of the Collegian to discuss grievances.

The Workshop story was considered a "direct slap" at the speech and drama departments, according to Dr. James W. Kirkwood, head of the department. 'Set the Fuse'

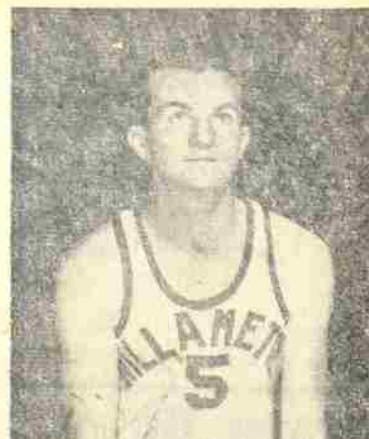

At the meeting speech students disputed the appropriateness of the word "interpretation" in connection with the Workshop story. Jack Gunn, claiming he spoke not for himself but for the "absent" speech professor, leveled the charges. Kirkwood later denied being represented by any speech students at the gathering and said they were speaking for themselves and not for him or the speech and drama department. Although Kirkwood said he left his Monday speech classes early, he admitted that he "might have set the fuse" which led to the afternoon meeting.

Shaw Dislikes Coverage

Phil Shaw, who also claimed he was speaking for Kirkwood, cited the fact that "not a word" appeared in the Collegian concerning a recent Willamette victory at the CPS tournament. He further claimed that a "bigger" university would have the story "spread over the front page", and that the speech success as a news item was "more important" than the fact that the University Workshop was now operating independently.

Answering charges for the Collegian, Eileen Scott, news editor, pointed out that the Workshop story received coverage in proportion to its newsworthiness, that coverage was in no way intended to be malicious, and that the disputed use of the term "interpretation" was contained in an indirect quotation attributed to

March Rotarian

Tom Warren, basketball team captain, who was appointed this week as the Rotarian from Willamette for the month of March.

Joe Power, Workshop producer. Coverage Requested

In regard to the "biased" critique, Miss Scott drew the student's attention to the Collegian masthead which stated that all articles appearing under by-line or signature represent the writer's own opinion and not that of the Collegian or Willamette university. She also pointed out that the play was covered by Robert Scott for the Collegian at the request of the editorial staff.

Collegian Editor Eric Bergman defended the Collegian's position of not printing a story on the CPS tournament because at the time the paper came out it was already "old news" and he planned to hold it to include in a round-up of speech tournaments and victories for the year in today's issue of the paper.

Frosh Quint Takes 3 Wins; In Prelims Tonite, Saturday

Regaining their early season poise and polish, the freshman basketball team added a 56-40 victory over the Lewis and Clark frosh, a 58-49 win over the Pacific university juniors, and a 64-37 win over the Vancouver Trappers, to its already impressive record. The Bearcat rooks have two games remaining on their schedule, playing West Linn tonight in the preliminary to the varsity game, and Tillamook high tomorrow, also in a varsity prelim.

It was the second time the lads from Willamette had beaten the L. and C. freshmen. Center Chuck Robinson had a big night against the Pioneers as he hooped in 18, teaming up with Hugh Bellinger, who totaled 15 for the night, to lead the Frosh to a 36-22 halftime lead.

Willamette opened the scoring and stretched their lead to 5-2 in the early minutes. Lewis and

Battery Call Issued

Baseball coach John Lewis asked this week that all prospective pitchers and catchers report to him at the gym next Monday at 3 p.m. Weather permitting, aspiring infielders and outfielders will begin workouts about March 7. Lewis also announced that two baseball managers are needed for the coming diamond season.

Betas, Rubes Gain Final Nod In Mural Volleyball Tourney

By Lowell Mandlin

As a result of the double-elimination intramural volleyball tournament held this week, the Rubes and the Betas were the lone survivors in the test to determine the mural volleyball champ for the season.

The Rubes fought their way to the finals without a defeat, topping the Betas 15-8, 15-7 for that team's first loss, and dropping the Independents 15-4, 15-2. Due to their well-earned victory over the Beta club, the Rubes went into the game yesterday evening heavily favored.

The Betas had a tougher row to hoe to get into the finals, beating the Has Beens 15-13, 15-12 and Baxter Hall 15-6, 15-10 Wednesday night, and knocking off the previously unbeaten Sigma Chi team Tuesday evening 15-9, 15-5.

Meeting for third place were Baxter Hall and the Phi Alphas. Baxter topped Phi Alpha Wednesday evening 12-15, 15-10, 15-10, and hence were rated slight favorites at game time. Tuesday Baxter topped the Phi Deltas 12-15, 15-10, 15-10.

The Phi Alphas had two wins over the Has Beens, 15-7, 15-0, Tuesday night, and over the Sigs Wednesday, 15-12, 15-12.

The Has Beens and Sigma Chi played off for fifth place in the tourney. The Has Beens trounced the Phi Deltas 15-8, 3-15, 15-10 Tuesday night for their only victory, while the Sigs knocked over the Independents 15-9, 16-14 for their single win.

Full coverage of the championship games will be made in next week's issue of the Collegian.

Ski Club Plans Trip

Skiers who plan to travel by bus Saturday to Mt. Hood will meet at 6 a.m. in front of Lausanne. Bus fare will be $2.25 and anyone desiring to take the trip is requested to sign up with the ski club representative stationed in the library today.

Clark steadied for a moment and tied the score 10-10 midway in the first half. At that point the Kits turned on the heat and with 7 minutes left in the first half led 23-14.

At Forest Grove on Saturday the Freshmen met with a different team than they had played earlier in the season. The going wasn't hard, but the junior Badgers tried doggedly to halt the Willamette tide. At the first half whistle the score was 28-23 for WU.

Forward Claude Nordhill with 18, Robinson with 15, and Bellinger with 11 led the Kit scoring, while Jim Cunningham was getting 13 for the losers.

Making 14 out of 24 shots from the floor in the first half, and putting on an opening second half spurt, the Kits trampled a better than average Vancouver high team. Nordhill and Bellinger garnered 17 points apiece and George Matile collected 14 as the Frosh ran up one of their largest scores of the year.

West Linn will be showing off their candidate for the best center in the state in the person of 6 foot 5 inch Bob Adrian, who has been making 20-plus points per game all season.

Tillamook is coached by a regular forward on last year's Willamette basketball team, Bob Medley. The Frosh squeezed by Tillamook in their first meeting by one point.

Women Edged By OCE 26-24

Emerging on the short end of a 26-24 score the Willamette women hoopsters met with plenty of opposition when they tangled with the Oregon College of Education team on the Monmouth floor Wednesday night.

The Willamette team, after a four-week layoff from interschool play, lacked some of the smoothness seen in earlier games but none of the hard fighting spirit which has characterized their play throughout the season. Completion of the season schedule calls for a game with University of Oregon in the near future.

W Club Plans Dance

Official plans for the annual Lettermen's formal dance were announced at the Lettermen's meeting last Wednesday. The dance will be held in the gym on Saturday evening, March 26, with music by Van Armitage and his 11-piece orchestra. A Varsity Queen, selected from freshman class pulchritude, will rule over the dance.

The Lettermen will play the faculty in an exhibition basketball game in the near future, with the proceeds going toward the dance expenses.

Lewismen Keep Crown Hopes Alive, Defeat Pioneers, Badgers

By Dave Card

Coach John Lewis' Willamette university basketball squad put itself back in the running for the Northwest conference laurels by defeating the leading Lewis and Clark Pioneers 64-56 at Willamette last Friday, and then trimming the Pacific Badgers 58-43 on the loser's court Saturday. The double win boosts the Bearcats a half of a game behind the Pioneers.

Willamette started out Friday's tiff on the wrong foot, with the visitors taking an early 15-13 lead. Eleven of the Bearcat's 13 points were the result of accurate foul shooting. At this point Ted Loder, Willamette spark-plug during the early part of the game, sank Willamette's second field goal to tie the game.

Cats Lead at Halftime

The score was tied at 17-17 and 19-19 before Bob Johnson put Willamette out in front to stay with a two-pointer which was followed by field goals by Ted Johnson and Loder, and a pair of free throws by Ted Johnson. This flurry ended the scoring for the first half with the home team out in front 27-19.

Lewis and Clark managed to keep the Bearcats from pulling away during the first part of the final half, but with seven minutes gone another Willamette rally put the Lewismen in front 41-27. From this point the "red-hot" Bearcats built a 50-30 margin, which was cut in the final minutes as the Pioneers took advantage of Willamette's reserves, scoring 26 points to 14 for Willamette.

T. Johnson Hot

Guard Ted Johnson was the big gun in the Bearcat attack and spark-plug of Willamette's second half flurry, dropping in a total of 19 points for the evening. Loder was close behind with 18. Dean Sempert was outstanding for Coach Eldon Fix's charges though scoring but 10 points.

Pollard and Downey paced the Pioneer scoring with 11 each.

Pacific Never Threatens

The Willamette-Pacific encounter started out as if it might be a replica of the thumping given to the Badgers earlier this year by the Bearcats, with Willamette running up an early 9-0 lead and a 28-17 margin by halftime.

Pacific kept pace with the out-of-towners in the second half but could never seriously threaten the Willamette lead. Jim and Bob Johnson, along with Loder, did the lion's share of the scoring for Willamette with 14, 13 and 12 points respectively. Ed Rooney topped the losers with 13.

Baxter Hall Cops Intramural 'B' Casaba Title From Betas

The Baxter B's walked off with the intramural "B" basketball title after a grueling tourney last Saturday. Baxter had the edge in depth and height and proved they had the ability to go with it by crushing all competition.

In the first morning contest the Beta B's squeezed by the Phi Alphas, 24-19. The high scorer of the day was Beta Jack Gunn who potted 13 points against the Phi Alphas.

Baxter romped over the Hot Shots, 26-17, in the other morning tilt. Don Irwin of Baxter led the scoring column with 8 counters.

In the afternoon the Hot Shots whipped the Phi Alphas, 38-19, to gain third place in the standings. Chuck Gutzler and Bob Johnson paced the winning attack with 9 each.

In the championship game Baxter was hard pressed until the beginning of the fourth period. At that point Tom Joseph got hot and dropped seven points through the hoop to ice the game for the Baxter contingent. Irwin again led the scorers with 9 points.

The champ Baxter roster was made up of Dick Briggs, Glen Holliday, Roger Holliday, Don Irwin, Tom Joseph, Ted Mertz, Dale Reynolds and Phil Shaw.
