

Prexy Heads Plans For O.F.C.L.

Fifteen Schools Have Received Invitations
To Come Here

Plans are well underway for the annual meeting of the Oregon Federation of College Leaders to be held here February 23 and 24. At a meeting of the executive council here Tuesday evening, plans for the meeting were put into operation. Dayton Robertson, student body president, is in charge of arrangements in Salem, and is assisted by a number of committees.

Invitations have been issued to 15 colleges and universities. Each school is entitled to five official delegates and may send other non-official representatives if they desire. Among the first to come in are reservations by Oregon State college for seven representatives. A total of about 75 delegates are expected.

State Capital Reserved
The hearing room and two senate committee rooms of the state capital have been reserved for the meetings.

The Oregon Federation of College Leaders is a new organization which originated last year, when it met at Oregon State college. Bob Walker, president of the student body of Oregon State college last year, is president of the federation.

The purpose of the federation is to enable leaders of the colleges to discuss their common problems, exchange ideas and programs, and create a better understanding and friendship of college students throughout the state.

Committee chairman as appointed by Robertson are: convention program, Herb Davis and Bill Hansen; hospitality, Bill Thomas and John Martin; convention report, Dan Moses; publicity, Fred Berman; letters and stenography, Verna Vosper; dinner and the banquet, Henry Frantz; entertainment, June Brasted; and housing, Winfield Achor.

Glee Committee Chosen and Working

Serenade Theme Will Have Special Color
Setting In Lights

The Freshman Glee committees have been chosen and have begun work already, meeting at 2:10 Mondays and Fridays at Chresto. The general committee is of course headed by the Glee manager, Wes McWain who has with him John Martin, Iris McCurdy, and Betty Annensen.

Heading the decoration committee is Anell Payne. Joe Dwight is in charge of the program, while Betty Ann Koller oversees the ticket sales. Carl McLeod and Tom Pickett have charge of the stage and chair committees. The problem of lighting is in the care of Coe Roberts. Freshmen who wish to be ushers should see Genevieve Dowd or Bob Hamilton. Advertising is being forwarded by Art Wilson. The banner every class hopes for is in charge of Mary Ellen Mills and Phyllis Fisher.

The theme for this year is to be Serenade. To set this idea off, special lighting effects are planned to reach the high points of the modernistic setting planned. The color scheme is to be blue and silver with ultra modern design.

The executive committee in charge of judges and rulers is composed of Keith Sherman, Dayton Robertson, Clayton Wheeler, Leslie Sparks, and the Glee manager, Westly McWain.

The Glee manager promises many new innovations to arouse class spirit and competition.

Baxter Mentions Cherry Seed Carving

Following out a tradition established by E. G. Doney, president of Willamette University for 19 years, Dr. Bruce Baxter read a story entitled, "Carving Cherry Seeds."

The narrative concerned the life of a man who had, so filled his life with many small jobs that he had never had time to do any of them well, and concluded with the advice: "Don't major in cherry seeds."

Internships Granted to Eleven Seniors

Students to Gain Experience In Public Offices

Willamette University has 11 seniors who were awarded internships in public administration to gain experience in their field of work.

The senior internships, granted in the last semester of the senior year, allow the seniors to spend one hour each day in a leading governmental office under the direction of the chief administrative officer of the office. The senior serves without pay, but is permitted to have a part in the actual operations of the office.

This program of internships, which was instituted last year, was met with enthusiastic response from students, administrators, and experts in public administration. The administrators and the internships assigned to them are:

Bert V. Chappell, administrative assistant, department of finance, Portland, Leland Shinn, Judge James W. Crawford, circuit court, Multnomah county, Dayton Robertson, Fred Finley, state board of parole and probation, Harry Calhoun, J. L. Franz, city manager, Oregon City, Dorothy Wright, Daniel J. Fry, state purchasing agent, Wayne Brainerd, Silas Gaiser, administrator, state unemployment compensation commission, Henry Frantz and Della Willard, Charles V. Galloway, chairman state tax commission, Roderick Burklow, M. E. Holcomb, administrator, Marion county public welfare commission, Dorothy Cutler, A. Warren Jones, city recorder, Salem, Mary Sadler, Walter E. Pearson, state treasurer, Wallace Turner.

Dr. Lovell Feels That Neutrals May Enter

"There is a possibility of the present European war extending so that it may become more intense," declared Dr. Lovell in a chapel talk on Thursday. "There may be more air raids on British territory and even on the capitals of Britain and France though there is no immediate prospect."

"There is also a possibility," he continued, "that the Baltic countries, the Netherlands, and Belgium may soon be involved." The Scandinavian countries feel a natural sympathy for Finland, to such an extent that the Swedish government is sending supplies to the Finns. "If that help is decisive," he said, "so that it looks as if Finland will win, Russia may declare war on Sweden." There is reason to believe that Germany and Russia have made a pact by which they will split the Baltic countries between themselves at the end of the war.

In conclusion, he expressed the belief that it is our duty to remain neutral and avoid forcing any country to fight for Finland against its will.

Dr. Baxter Swings Into Action Again

Last Thursday night Dr. Bruce Baxter was the speaker at Franklin high school's commencement exercises in Portland. Every year he has been invited to a Portland school as the honored guest. Immediately following his speech Thursday night, Dr. Baxter boarded a train to Oakland, Calif., and spoke before a large crowd celebrating the anniversary of the First Methodist church.

Relief Drive Of YMCA-YWCA Bests Quota Given

The YMCA-YWCA Relief drive came over the top last week by collecting $107 or $7 over their quota. The money, raised by a two and one-half day tag sale on the Willamette campus and through a smaller drive conducted by the campus Y's at Salem high school, netted the sum of $1284 in Chinese money.

The money is to be used to aid students in China.

Dr. T. Z. Koo officially opened the campaign by speaking first at Salem high school and then at Willamette chapel.

Committee members who worked on the far eastern drive were: Charles Cunningham, Bill Herick, Jack Chaplin, Bill Borden, Bill Laughlin, Della Willard, and John Hathaway.

Late News

John Laughlin, was yesterday elected class president over Herb Davis after balloting in Eaton hall. Other senior officers chosen were Irina Calvert, vice president; Tom Slater, treasurer; and Betty Zook, secretary.

The class voted in favor of the small graduation announcements to be handled by the book store.

BULLETIN

We, the junior class of "41", are prostrated with grief. With saddened heart and bowed head we must announce that the freshmen class of "43" has been chosen to grasp the obnoxious torch of defeat in the forthcoming Glee, bearing this torch to a spluttering end in the cold, cold, mill stream. POOR lads and lassies, they have our sympathy.

We nobly grasped this ambrosial torch from the faltering hand of the class of "39" after they had dwelled their allotted two years with Neptune and took up one abode, confining, an oft quoted, ancient sage, says that it is only through our failures that we learn. According to his thesis, we now have the best educated class in school and cannot lose. Profiting from our experiences we look to the coming Glee to be a spree. We are confident and prepared and we shall not return empty-handed.

To the other two classes, such as they are, we give a disdainful nod. Through our condescension, the over-confident and blustery seniors and the ragged sophomores who were saved from the river Styx only through the charity of the judges and an act of the gods, will be allowed to participate. When the Glee is over, public opinion will say: "Well, they tried, they did their best but to no avail."

We conclude this distressing communication with a reverent and timely thought for those who are about to pass into the Great Beyond. POOR, ignorant, misguided freshmen, we will observe a moment of silence in your memory, after your defeat.

Willamette Represented at Portland Forum

Williams, N.Y.A. Head,
Led Discussion of Youth Problems

Aubrie Williams, director of the National Youth Administration from Washington, D. C., led open forum discussion concerning the youth problems in the council chamber of the Portland city hall Friday morning and afternoon of last week. Attending the open forum from Willamette were Walter Erickson, registrar, and Joe Van Winkle, Francis Pickard, and Robert Veigi, Willamette NYA students. Mr. Williams stated that the reason for calling the meeting was to find out what the youth of the various sections of the United States think about the question "How the youth unemployment problems can be solved." Other youth problems and education also were discussed in the meeting.

Besides college students and NYA students, many other groups and interests were represented including the labor unions, the skilled and unskilled workers, both employed and unemployed, labor leaders, educators, employers, vocational guidance directors, and others. Among the outstanding members of the forum, each who spoke briefly concerning their views on the problem, were: Mayor Joseph Carson of Portland; Mr. Monroe, NYA director for this area; Mrs. Elsie Brown Bryan, of the Women's Advertising club; Editor Dana of the Oregon Journal; E. R. Lemmon, registrar of Oregon State College; Dexter Kowar, president of Reed college; and such important personages as president of one farm group, president and secretary of the state C. I. O. and A. F. of L., the state vocational guidance director, and others.

Besides these speakers, each young person in the audience was supposed to give his views and situation or problems if he had one. Mr. Williams would ask and evaluate the question, let the youth as well as the representative groups speak, ask some of those who would not speak to speak.

Dr. Chambers From O.S.C. To Speak

Topic Relates to
New Etiquette
Course

Dr. O. R. Chambers, head of psychology department of Oregon State college, will be the chapel speaker on Wednesday, next. His topic will be "The Influence of Personality" which will have a direct relation to the new etiquette course "ARE YOU SURE?" being offered the Willamette university students. From the wide range of experience and contacts that Dr. Chambers has had, his presence as speaker will provide valuable and interesting material to the student body. The campus YW and YM have secured Dr. Chambers for two reasons—one, to have him as chapel speaker and the other, to officially start the course, "ARE YOU SURE?"

Other Speakers Scheduled
Sponsored by the Campus YW and YM, this course in etiquette training will be directed by such competent authorities as Professor Ivan B. Rhodes, former assistant secretary of the National Council of the YMCA and now of our own faculty; Catherine Loughton, director of Mary Cullen's Cottage, whose pre-eminence in etiquette training is widely recognized; and our own Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Baxter whose qualifications are also well known. Designed to fit the needs of girls as well as boys, the etiquette course "ARE YOU SURE?" will offer constructive information for everyone interested.

Professor Matthews Speaks
Thursday, at 8:45 Professor J. T. Matthews will officially open the series in Chresto by presenting an hour of instruction on the subjects of "Introduction and Conversations." Thereafter, on Thursday evening of each following week, ending March 21, "ARE YOU SURE?" will be presented from 8:45 to 9:45.

Courses at Chresto and YMCA
All courses but two will be conducted, and likewise, with the exception of two dates, the discussions will be held in Chresto Cottage. On those dates when the subjects of instruction are such that the interest is divided, the courses for women will be held at the YMCA. The registration fee for the series will be nominal.

Special guests for the evening were: Dean and Mrs. Erickson, Professor and Mrs. Clark, Professor Thompson, and Ward Miles, Reed Nelson, Don Burton, and Bill Shinn, presidents of their respective Hi-Y clubs from Salem high school. Each of these boys gave short speeches after which Mr. Moore was presented with a leather zipper notebook folder by the campus YMCA.

Carrier Death Great Loss To W. U.

Member of Board of Trustees Succumbs
To Heart Attack

The faculty and students of Willamette university mourn the death of Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Carrier, member of the board of trustees, who died at her home Saturday, January 27, 1940.

Mrs. Carrier moved to Salem in 1862 and became very interested in the Methodist church. She married Mr. Burton E. Carrier in 1889. Mrs. Carrier was very active with the church and later became an official on the Methodist board. Gradually she found a liking in Willamette university and was particularly interested in the students working their way through college. Her generous gifts enabled many students to continue school.

Since 1937 Mrs. Carrier has been a member of the Board of Trustees of Willamette. She replaced Mrs. John Lautner who recently passed away. On two occasions she contributed money for the endowment fund amounting to forty thousand dollars. She was offered annuity from Willamette, but gave up all claims to the money. Mrs. Carrier was also a member of the Building and Grounds committee.

"We lost one of our most loyal and helpful friends," says Dr. Baxter.

The deceased lived at 1165 Court street and was confined to bed for six months previous to her death. She succumbed from a heart attack.

Final rites were held at the First Methodist church Tuesday afternoon. Funeral services were conducted by Dr. Bruce B. Baxter, Dr. J. C. Harrison and Dr. Richard Ayson of Portland. Interment followed at the Clay View cemetery.

Four Willamette Coeds Involved In Auto Accident

Four Willamette co-eds were in the Portland Sanitarium Saturday as the result of an auto accident en route to Mt. Hood that morning.

Five girls were in the car that collided head-on with a truck. The girls were: Pauline Montreuil, driver, Barbara Viesko, Betty Annensen, Pauline Zoe Chambers, and Margaret Schen, a Salem girl. The latter escaped the crash without injuries, and Pauline Zoe Chambers had only a few scratches and a cracked rib.

Betty Annensen, freshman song queen, is the only one of the group remaining in the hospital for observation and treatment of a fractured skull and an eye that is out of focus. She is expected to return to her home here in Salem this week-end.

Pauline Montreuil returned to Lausanne hall Sunday evening, after being treated at the hospital for cuts and bruises to face, back and legs. Also returning to Salem was Barbara Viesko, suffering from shock and bruises. Both Pauline Montreuil and Barbara Viesko will be about the campus next week.

Dean Geist to Play In Linfield's Chapel

Dean Melvin H. Geist has been invited to sing a group of solos for the chapel program at Linfield college, Monday forenoon, February 5th. Mrs. Geist will accompany him at the piano.

Davison To Speak At Chapel

Has Received
Applause From College Audiences

In presenting Frank Drake Davidson at chapel on February 5 Willamette University is bringing a speaker who has received the applause of many college audiences in the northwest during the past three years. Mr. Davidson, an Englishman by birth, has lived in this country for 12 years. He is the son of a noted English architect who was commissioned by the king to restore the many old Gothic cathedrals and manor houses all over England. In the Davidson home, great attention was always paid to the great personalities who were making world history, the parents of Mr. Davidson discussing in the family circle the newspaper articles of the day, as well as current literature. Drawing on this wealth of information, the speaker possesses a fund of knowledge from which his observations are made. Added to this is his peculiar gift for developing the human interest viewpoint surrounding every situation. A subtle humor and direct manner of speaking make Mr. Davidson a popular lecturer whose audiences ask for a return visit.

In February each year, "The British Thought and Recognition of George Washington" is the topic demanded by clubs, student groups, service clubs and social organizations. In it, Mr. Davidson, presents facts about the Washington family and recognition given to our first president which few Americans know. He will be heard here on this topic.

One critic writes of Mr. Davidson, "This extraordinary lecturer has spoken before more groups and put fewer people to sleep than any lecturer in the northwest."

Future Chapel Programs Are Scheduled

Hidden Talent In Campus Organizations to Be Shown Each Friday

Beginning a week from today there will be a series of chapel programs which will show the hidden talents from various organizations on the campus. These programs will be given each Friday from next week on until April 19.

The person responsible for the idea of these programs is George McLeod who inspired them four years ago. At that time only the frat took part, but since then other organizations have been asked to participate.

These programs give the student body a chance to see the hidden talents of the various members of their group. To quote Prexy Robertson, "These programs give a larger expression of talent which otherwise wouldn't get into chapel at all. All in all we are looking forward to a good set of programs."

The Kappas start the programs next week, February 9, followed the following week by the Alpha Phi Alpha. The Delta Tau Gamma will present their program on February 23.

The first of March will usher in Freshman Glee and a program by the seniors. The Alpha Pals will present their program on March 16, followed by the Delta Phi who will display their talents on the last program before spring layoff, March 18.

April 5, will give the Independents a chance to show what they can do in the way of entertainment. Beta Club will hold theirs on the 12th and the Sigma Tau will entertain on April 16.

The freshman program by the seniors, March 2, is traditional and takes place just a few hours before Glee.

Officers Elected Unanimously In Junior Class

The officers of the Junior class were unanimously elected at a meeting held in Waller hall on January 17. Pete Geiser was elected president; Mary Hoad, vice president; Dorothy Baldwin, secretary; and Al Ferrin, treasurer.

The Football Question

Again the question of Willamette's football set-up is brought up for discussion and possible settlement. In this regard the executive council has requested the Collegian to make known the facts in order that student opinion may be formulated. The Collegian will do this, but in order that no one should feel that the wrong interpretation has been given, we remind the students that signed letters no longer than 350 words are welcome.

At present the student body allots each year $1,500 to football. Two years ago a $2,900 deficit had been accumulated over ten years of expansion. In order to make up this deficit an interested but unknown alumnus came forward with a two-thirds contribution. The rest was absorbed in the last 2½ years rebuilding.

This last season football club came out $100 ahead. For the coming season a larger budget has been adopted and the schedule has been shifted in order that two games will be played in Portland. One was Portland U's home game, anyway, but the other is San Jose's game that should have been played at home. It is also believed that the Athletic board has decided to adopt a definite policy that no home games shall be played away from the campus. This step favors the student. It is evident that the Athletic board, 40% of which represents the students, is sincere in its endeavor to keep a balanced budget and be fair to the students as well as the other factions represented.

Football at Willamette is not, however, a bed of roses petals. The thorns are also present. There is the extreme view taken that Willamette U. should emulate Chicago U. in abolishing inter-collegiate football and divert the money into intramural activities making possible a swimming pool, inter-class football, canoeing arrangements and many other things that would give opportunity of participation to much greater part of the student body. The view was reflected in Pete Geiser's letter which was published in the last Collegian.

The Alumni and the University administration might reply with the assertion that many students are drawn to Willamette through the great amount of free publicity that is given a successful football team. Another factor that might be brought out is the unifying effect upon the alumni who take pride in such a team. And unified alumni are beneficial to any university. To remove Willamette from inter-collegiate football would show a lack of school spirit and would lower the school's standing among the many fans of football, say the alumni. Immediately the student view, mentioned above, replies that students are not attracted by a successful football team, but are interested in the school's scholastic record, and come to study in the fields for which Willamette is noted.

These fields could be enlarged as might the campus buildings and other facilities with the money that would be saved not only by the student body but also by the University and its contributors.

But, reiterate the football enthusiasts, Willamette receives as high as $5,000 in newspaper column inches free each year from the football team.

Then, if this is true, say those who are taking a more moderate attitude, why shouldn't the university administration pay for this publicity the school is receiving?

There are these many questions and more which will have to be brought up and considered before any well developed opinion can be formed.

Lawns and Paper

Though it may appear a subject and reminder fit for high school students, as college students should know better, we have been requested to mention that the lawns will suffer less if left untrammeled and appear nicer if not subject to candy wrappers, etc.

then summarize the conclusion. The principle question of the morning discussion was "Is it true that any young person who wants to work today can get work?" The conclusion of the morning discussion as summarized by Mr. Williams was: "There are a good number of youth unemployed that are seeking work and can not find jobs. There are jobs for those who know where they are going, have the ability, and are ambitious enough to work."

TRIVIAT A

"Being inconsequential; talk about nothing in particular"

THERE was the Sherman Anti-trust Act of 1890.

According to reports, the final exam in psychology was really tough. If students were senators, there would probably soon be an Anti-Sherman Brain Trust Act of 1940.

JUST received a letter which appears elsewhere in the Collegian. It was written by Merle Turner, better known as "Mick" Turner.

It is a good letter—good because it accomplished the writer's purpose. It is vague, indefinite, polished with a cheap and gaudy imitation of Voltairean satire, filled with beautiful big words, and in general crammed with the invisible stuff that emits from furnace radiators. But it is good because it accomplished its purpose: the writer wanted a little publicity and the chance to display his education. He has succeeded. Anyone who knows, and all at once, what Aristotelians, Rossianists, particularists, pragmatists and instrumentalists are, must be educated.

YOU use the formal title "Mr." which is considered because we are usually called other names, but we will just call you Mick, if you do not object.

Now take an aspirin and a bromide and relax while we get a little technical. We would like to omit technicalities and discuss what you said, Mick, but since you didn't say anything, we will have to talk about the way you said it.

IN THE first place, Mick, your mind is preoccupied with many multi-syllabled words—which is all right; but perhaps you should call on a doctor of English who would surely give you a simplicity prescription for your condition. Or again it may not be a case of verbal pregnancy; perhaps you are one of those fellows who writes with a thesaurus and book of "Similes and Smiles" in one hand and a guided pencil in the other. In that case, then, you are standing around with nothing on your mind and should be arrested for mental nudity.

WOULDN'T it have been just as well Mick, to use "smooth flowing" instead of mellifluous; "plty" in place of "commiseration"; "sparkles" instead of "conspicuous"; etc.?

For it is easy to use big words. For instance, we could accuse you of misogyny, tergiversation, solecism, and a congenital tendency to consanguinity; tell you you don't know the difference between tautology, redundancy, pleonasm, prolixity and verbosity; and end up by saying that you are a gymnosophist, an antediluvian troglodyte with the brain of a batrachian and the soul of a gynecomorphous zany; and that your logic is jejune and phiblical, your facts caducous, and your sagacity mere flatulence.

AND that you are vague and do not know what you mean is very plain. In fact, you admit it yourself in one place by confessing that you "guess."

You ask if we will permit the phrase "mystical revelation"; No. We will not; how can a thing be mystical and revealing at the same time? It is just like saying that it is a black and foggy night and the sun is shining bright. Incidentally, a "column writer" is known in the 20th century as a "columnist."

All this talk may seem irrelevant; what we are trying to say, Mick, is that despite your fine education which you wanted to make public, you should learn to express yourself in English and not Volapuk or something else.

YOU missed the point of our last column, Mick. We have nothing against true intellectuals; they are the only remaining hope in this cockeyed world. What we referred to were the pseudo-intellectuals, the pretenders-at-art, the "I have spasms over music" coteries; pretenders: would-be's. They are the "me-too's" of the cultural world; the "yes-men"; they take a course in the appreciation of music, one in art, and all the literature courses; then they are fortified to rave about Milton, not because they like him, but because it is proper; about Melville because Mumford okeys him, etc. A literary "me-too" is just as hypocritical as the fellow who gets drunk and enjoys adultery on Saturday night and then goes to church on Sunday.

NO, Mick, though the intellectual and artistic fields are beautiful, there is no regimentation in them, the appreciation is purely individual. What you may like, I may not like. Milton's "Paradise Lost" I have recently carefully reread, and I'll be damned if I can find anything great, beautiful or outstanding about it; and personally I don't give a chewed

Social Calendar To Come Out Today

The Willamette University social calendar for the second semester will be out today, Friday, February 2. This calendar includes all scheduled events for the second semester. The dates are compiled by the Campus Social committee which is composed of the vice presidents of all campus organizations. This committee, with Dean Dahl, chairman, makes the calendar by compiling and arranging the various dates to avoid conflicts. This semester's calendar is very full showing that there will be plenty of interesting activities for the rest of the year, especially so on weekends.

pencil if every professor of English literature in the country says it is beautiful—to me it has a faint back-alley, garbage-can smell.

ABOUT the Goethe poetry business; how you talk, Mick! The whole thing is this: this fellow who is supposed to be an authority on poetry couldn't tell the difference between Goethe and a college hack. Need more be said?

YOU have made your letter personal by the use of "wise-guy." To be quite frank, Mick, Nature often plays jokes. Gene Huntley is one of those jokes. You see, he really looks intelligent and very much like a scholar; people are fooled.

He has a long, thin build which gives him the hungry look of an aesthete; actually it is hereditary—his great grandfather was center on the "Royal Fritz" basketball team which played in the court of Frederick the Great. He has what appears to be an academic stop; actually he got it from playing marbles as a boy. He frowns consistently; not because of deep thought but by force of habit. And he wears glasses; not because of heavy study but as a result of reading detective stories in bed with a flashlight during adolescence.

James Cagney and Sammy Cohen hit the hilarious highspots as the two rawest recruits in that fighting Irish Brigade, "The Fighting 69th," starting Saturday, February 10th at the Elsinore.

to the Editor

Dear Mr. Huntley:

I wonder how many students of Willamette university realize how fortunate they are to have within their midst such a consummate scholar and critic as one of the column writers of this paper—this writer, of course, being you, Mr. Huntley.

Now, when I read the "last word" on anything which stirs and moves the mellifluous pen of ego and I (everyone has an ego), I, for one, realize how beguiled and misled I have been in my own academic skirmishes. For instance, the other day I was told that I am having somewhat of a rendezvous with faculty in regarding the garbage of the "Celestial Barnyard of Learning." This startled me; I realized for the first time in my life that all the Aristotelians, the Rossianists, the particularists, pragmatists, instrumentalists—oh, our textbooks are full of them—were and are deceived by the intrigues of their own verbosity.

Why? Why I guess it is because you have intimated as much, Mr. Huntley! I read your last column time and again; and now I, too, look on the pitiful plight of the intellectual zealots with an eye of commiseration—commiseration in that they are not here to partake of the mystical (if "Ego and I" will permit the word) revelations indited under the copy-head "Triviata."

I, for one, realize the pungent validity of your statements, oh worthy sage; but pray, don't be too hard on us, for in time even we, the deluded, might climb the ladder of disillusionment, drop our barnyard ballast and attain a viewpoint wherefrom we, like wise, might look down upon those foolish sons who thrump hysterically about in the ecclesiastical fountains that our "old faithful" professors rush forth hourly. Give us time and we, too, can enjoy your exalted state and look down upon the Beethoven symphonies.

the "Elegies in Churchyards" and the "Paradise, Where Are You Now's" with our tongues in our cheeks, our fingers crossed and a hidden smirk within our countenances. Then we, too, might dribble forth the Trivita that sort of rings to the tune: "Oh thou many fools, sons of fertility, arouse thy humble selves and listen to me—one of the wise-guys."

Give us time, Mr. Huntley, and we will come to see things in the true light. Don't be too hasty with us, and don't be too hasty with yourself. After all, there is a possibility that the immortal verse of Johann Wolfgang Von Goethe just wasn't quite good enough to match the poetic brilliancy that foruscates from your own Ego-inspired pen. Now I don't bring this forth as a caustic or vituperative thrust at you, Mr. Huntley—not that. It's just that there is that possibility, there is that possibility, isn't there, Mr. Huntley?

Respectfully,
MERLE TURNER.

To the Editor:

For the last couple of years it has been more or less the custom for an individual to write a letter to the editor to express some pet "peeve" or "gripe" about some condition on the campus. And sometimes results have been forthcoming.

This time, however, I am not going to follow the usual custom; but instead I want to put in a well-deserved "plug" for Pete Williams (officially his name is Clarence, but no one seems to know it, not even his friends).

When the executive council discusses the appointment of an intramural manager at the first of the year, Mr. Sparks recommended Pete. At the time I endorsed him with the remark, however, that every other intramural manager in the past few years had fallen down on the job and that Pete should be removed if he turned out to be like the others.

Now, I am certainly glad to have the opportunity for the first time in my four years at Willamette to say that we have an intramural manager who is ever on the job—not looking for every opportunity to avoid something to do.

When I talked to Pete about a plug and volleyball schedule, he said, "I am willing to do anything to put a good program over even though it does take more time and work."

And Pete has put in more time and work. To compare, in other years we have had one fall sport, passball (touch ball). This year we have had passball, speedball, and are now in the midst of volleyball and table tennis. And further it is planned to have badminton, handball and even chess.

No wonder that intramural interest right now is at the highest ebb in Willamette history!

To one who has done his job well, yes exceedingly so to Clarence "Pete" Williams, a graduating senior, who has been behind the scenes, may I offer a well-deserved congratulations.

Sincerely,
Dan E. Moses.

Gene Huntley Is President Of Sophs

The sophomore class officers were elected on January 20 by ballot in Eaton hall. Gene Huntley defeated Curly Monfils and Loren Hicks in the election for president of the class. Margaret Rankin and Helen Duly tied for vice president; and Joanne Du Rette and Ruth Annsen tied for secretary; Dick Achor was elected treasurer; and Sally Anderson, song queen.

Wallulah Cover And Portraits Reported

Dan Moses, capable editor-in-chief of the Wallulah has revealed a custom of old for this year's Wallulah. He is having formal portrait pictures taken of all of the faculty members. Only a few professors have had their pictures taken so far, and it was hoped that all faculty members would go down to Kennell-Ellis studio in the near future so that these pictures could be gotten out of the way.

There are only a few of the freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior individual class pictures that haven't been taken, and the last of the organization pictures will be completed next week.

The cover for this year's Wallulah is being worked out by Paul Olson of the Beaver Engravers of Portland. Mr. Olson has pictures of the desired cover, and from these he is going to design a fitting frontpiece.

Turn about is fair play: The University of Texas' newly imported Spanish instructor had a difficult time learning American language. So one of the co-eds in his class is giving him regular lessons—and reports he's doing quite well, thank you.

He is able to work a little and expects to return to full duty in the near future. He has returned to London after recuperating at his beach cottage near Brighton, on the English Channel, 32 miles southwest of London.

Mrs. Barnes (Esther Paroungian, '23) and children, Joan and Suzanne, who spent the summer at their beach cottage, remained there when it seemed that war conditions might make it less safe in London. They now have a house six miles from Brighton, popular beach resort. Mrs. Barnes travelled back and forth to London during Mr. Barnes' illness. The children are attending public school for the first time. While the Barnes were in Berlin, the children had to forego that privilege.

FADS and FASHIONS

By Margaret Moulton

Now that final exams are over for another semester, social activity has resumed its usual importance on the campus with initiation of sorority pledges this week, culminating in formal ceremonies, house dinners or banquets, and the annual intersorority dance on Saturday evening. Also on schedule for this week-end is another one of those very informal "Y" splash parties.

Last week clothes took a back seat, with all powers of concentration placed upon studies. Over the week-end many students took advantage of the opportunity to go home and catch up on badly needed sleep.

We'll have to admit, however, that there were some very well dressed co-eds studying in the hall and various houses. Over at Lausanne, Marla McClain was clad in a bright cerise housecoat made with tight fitting three-quarter length sleeves and bustle-back. Then Delma Jean Jones has a rose colored satin housecoat with full front waist gathered on a fitted yoke. Mary Jane Cutler and Pauline Zoe Chambers both have quilted ones with tiny figure design. Mary Jane's is light blue and Pauline Zoe's is light green. Ruth Matthews and Miriam Jensen have chenille robes with loose bell sleeves, wide shawls and bias-cut flaring skirts. Ruth's is white and Miriam's is deep raspberry with matching platform-soled sandals.

At the Alpha Phi Alpha house Betty Williams is comfortable in a dark blue flannel robe with bright colored applique. Mary Head has some very dashing green satin bedroom slippers, and Betty Lou Strachan has a rose rayon housecoat with white stripes.

Delta Phi's seemed to be a study in bright reds. Very striking are Jane Brasted's Chinese satin lounging pajamas with hand printed figures. Beverly McMillan has a red housecoat of fine corduroy, and Elizabeth James' silk lounging pajamas are also a brilliant red. Betty Starr has an outstanding satin housecoat of all-over floral design in brown, gold, yellow and blue. Aqua blue satin is Anne Faxon's housecoat with its full sleeves, tie sash, and front zipper.

On State street at the Beta Chi house we find Lois Herman with a peach taffeta housecoat with shirred waist, and slippers to match. Doty Moore has a white chenille robe and white slippers, and Carolyn Woods and Mary Hensley both have blue chenille robes. Dorothy Baldwin's black and yellow pique housecoat has white collar and cuffs and yellow grograin ribbon bows down the front. Mary Sadler's lounging pajamas are blue silk crepe with pockets and collar of bright stripes.

CATS

By JOE VAN WINKLE

A fine turnout by the student body was realized against Pacific in the conference opener Tuesday evening. Last season the Bearcats played eight conference games at home, fully half of their schedule and better; but this year the schedule is cut to eight games, or only two games with each other opponent. Besides the annual series with Whitman and the College of Idaho will be held in the Inland Empire this season; thus cutting the Bearcat schedule four games more. Therefore, "believe it or not" we have only two conference games at Willamette, and only one game left as the Pacific encounter was the only time that Pacific will play in Salem.

YET BETTER TURNOUTS

The Bearcats played a good game and had a tough time in winning; the games are not the "pushovers" that last year's contests appeared to be. Consequently, in all justice to a good team as well as for the reason of the promise of a good game every student should try to make it to the last home conference game with Linfield in the near future. Next week there will be two very fine games with independent aggregations, which will also furnish good competition and making good games. Let's see a little more support for the basketball team—they deserve it. We appreciate the response to the week challenge; not for personal reasons but because of the realizations that the students recognized the error of their ways.

LINFIELD TONIGHT

This evening Howard Maple takes his aggregation to McMinnville to take on the Linfield Wildcats. The Bearcats were proud of their achievement in defeating the Colored Ghosts, but the following night the supposedly weak Wildcats duplicated the performance. It is my guess that Henry Lever, Linfield coach, has a much better aggregation than most people have suspected. Willamette has a good record against Linfield on the courts during the past ten years, and a reversal of form—the old law of averages—is about due. Last year the Bearcats hung up four straight victories over the Levermen.

ADDITION TO SQUAD

Bruce Williams, who among his many other activities on the campus found time to play football this fall and turned out to be one of the outstanding performers on the gridiron, is now on the Bearcat basketball squad. Williams has been one of the high scorers in the city league during the past two seasons and was induced by Coach Maple to join the Bearcat squad to add it in its championship campaign. Williams started the Pacific game and is expected to be one of the leading performers on the varsity during the rest of the season. Williams' resumption was timely as the illness of Ralph Farmer kept him from taking his semester rest, and left him ineligible for the time being. His absence left Maple short at the center spot.

EBERLY AND SKOPIL

Two of the all-conference veterans of the Bearcat varsity, Howard Eberly and Otto Skopil, returned to their old form Tuesday evening after a slow and unimpressive early season performance. Eberly showed life on the backboards being outstanding on recovering the ball and gathering high point honors with his timely tip-in shots on missed shots by his teammates. Skopil showed his old drive in stealing the ball and worked the fast break as he did last season. He was also getting more shots on his clever fakes than usual and showed signs of getting his "dead-eye" back to working perfection. The return to form of these two performers along with the general improvement of the whole team has made a tremendous difference in the team, and in the past two performances the Maplemen began to look like last year's aggregation that won 19 straight basketball games.

BEARKITTENS IMPROVE

Under the tutelage of Dwight Catherwood the Bearkitten basketball team has shown much improvement lately. Catherwood has finally found a combination that works, and the boys have been running up high scores against their opponents. Against the Papermakers of the city league each man of the regular five scored 10 points which is quite a few points.

Successful but hard-pressed in their first attempt to defend their Northwest Conference championship, the Willamette university basketball team blasted the Pacific University Badgers here Tuesday night, 33 to 24.

Showing good defensive work under the hoop but little scoring punch, the 'Cats lagged behind in the early minutes of the game. Pacific had a 7-marker lead when the time clock read eight minutes played. But with the entrance of Gallagher into the fray at that stage of the game the home club turned its high powered scoring machine into action.

White tossed in a field goal to make the count 9-7 and to put his Bearcats teamsters out in front for good; and the 'Cats amassed 15 points before they permitted the Badgers to tally again. The half-time mark was 16-10.

Eberly Drives

While the entrance of Gallagher injected the impulsive, lanky Howard Eberly was the main driving force in the Methodist offensive. The Oregon City lad plopped in 11 counters, chiefly via the tip-in route to lead the tallying. Eberly was the most consistent Bearcat when it came to recovering backboard rebounds; and he was in the midst of the wild scramble so often that his play led to ejection with four personal infractions in the final canto.

Otto Skopil who has come slowly toward top form this season was next to Eberly in number of points with 10. With the 'Cats dominating the Badgers did not give in easily. With Osburn and Stiem hitting the help they kept the margin narrow most of the way. McCabe of the visitors looped in two field goals and two free tosses in the last half to keep the Willamettes worried. Pacific presented a surprisingly effective and aggressive defense that kept the 'Cat on its toes.

The two clubs vie again on February 9 in Forest Grove.

Portland Drubs
W. U. Maplemen

Because they lacked the final drive necessary to hold an advantage, the varsity hoopmen fell 44-37 victim to the Portland University Pilots on January 17. The Pilot win marked the failure of the Bearcats to retaliate for an earlier set-back at the hands of the traditional opponent. Characteristically, the 'Cats hung behind in the opening quarter of the tussle and the locals lagged 9-2 before they got enough push to level up the fray. Chiefly through the work of Eberly, who tallied 9 during the game, the Bearcats were ahead 22-20 at the midway gun.

But the combined efforts of Portland's Carlin, Baughman, and Harrington spelled the downfall of the 'Cat. The three Pilots scored 12, 11, 10 points, respectively to whip in counters that pulled the Portland five out in front in closing minutes.

Ralph Farmer tossed in eight buckets to speed up action in early part of final half.

Dual Slated Program Established
For Intramural Maplecourteers

Noon and Evening Schedules Drawn Up;

Play-off Will Climax Month of Play

With examinations and volleyball out of the way attention for the next three weeks on the maplecourt will stress the dual league intramural basketball program, information about which has been indefinite during the past month.

New schedules have been drawn up and posted showing activity for both major and minor leagues. The "A" clubs will continue competition at 5:15, the period that has been the regular playing time. Inexpensive contingents will vie at noon, the time usually held for volleyball contention.

Play-offs among the top teams in the loops will wind up the season by the end of the month as the regular competitive time ends on February 22.

As the new slate swings into stride the round-robin of the major league will continue and the first half of the "B" wound up and a second race begun. One of the determining conflicts of the "A" loop will feature intramural play this afternoon when the undefeated crews of Sigma Tau and Alpha scrap. Sigma Tau has two outstanding victories to its credit. On January 11 the fraimen blasted the Cripples 19 to 10 as their scoring ace, Calhoun, paced them with 8 points. Monday, Chadbourn sparked his teammates to a 29-17 win from the Cedar Stars.

Alpha Psi overwhelmed the Cedar Stars, 52-10, and nosed out the Cripples, 22-20. The other leader of the "A" loop is the Kappa five whose possibilities are yet to be tested since both wins have come by forfeiture. The team cannot be underrated, however, since it led by Van Wyngarden, Stewart and Gramis who have proved under fire.

The Physical Ed. Staff Bees are in front in "B" conference action with a 22 to 13 decision over the Alpha Psi "C's". A 25-18 win from the Alpha Psi "B's" and no defeats. Other games have seen the Sigma Tau representative win 28-8, from the Alpha Psi "D" team and lose, 20-5 to the Psi "C's".

The Williamson statistics appear weekly during the fall to rank the top teams of the nation. In the preliminary the Catholic preps nosed out the Kittens, 29-25. The Willamettes battled on the rival's court.

Freshmen Defeat
Paper Mill Quint

The rugged Bearkittens ran wild Tuesday night to run over a weaker Salem Papermaker team, 65-27.

The Fresh hit the hoop devastatingly for the first time this season as Hamilton connected with 16 counters to lead the way. Williams sank 13, Ingalls and Cookingham each dropped in 10 points and Stelger garnered 9.

Using their height and belt to advantage the Kittens controlled the casaba most of the time. Chief contender for the Millmen was Herberger who garnered 10. The game was a preliminary to the Varsity Badger fracas.

SKI TRIP

The fact that fifty—yes, fifty dollars has been set aside for a week-end trip to Mt. Hood should be good news not only to you who know one end of a ski from the other, but also to those who never saw snow any place except in the movie pictures. All that folding dough will show a flock of WAA'ers a right good time, we're a-bettin'. So make plans for it and see future columns for vital details as to the why's and wherefore's.

Linfield Contest Billed
For Bearcat Aggregation
In Crown Defense TonightSickness of White and Farmer Weakens
Methodist's Chances Over Underrated
Team; Packards, Zulus Coming Tuesday

Meeting the second challenger for its conference crown, the Willamette university cage quintet moves into McMinnville this evening to contend with Linfield's fast improved Wildcats.

Contending with a "supposedly weak" Baptist aggregation, the Bearcats will fight short-hand since both Bob White and Ralph Farmer, laid on the shelf with the flu this week, are destined to see little or no competition.

Except for these two men the Willamette squad should be in top shape for the clash. Eberly, Gallagher, Skopil, Kolb, Robertson, and Williams will probably be the top six scrabbling for starting berths as the Bearcats seek to get their renowned offensive under way.

As for the Wildcats latest dope seems to point to the fact that experts under-rated them as the season began and failed to estimate the potentialities that they have shown in the last few tilts. Starting slowly, the Linfielders increased their stride to bowl over prestidigit opponents.

And the Linfield crew will still be seeking its first victory since 1932 over the Bearcat. That win was the only one in 29 games contested in the last 15 years for the Wildcat. Its score was 35-29. Last year the Willamette club grabbed four decisions from the hapless Linfield team and in each instance overwhelmed the McMinnvillians.

Signs plastered about the university campus this week remind the student that the Willamette varsity contests in a double bill next Tuesday when it meets the colored Zulu Kings and the Pacific Packards. The Zulus are a negro slow team paced by the odd-named Prince Konto Wiewo, King Goo Ga Goo, Duke Lambi, Rajah Boglee Boo, Chief Woo Wa Wwo. The Packards are Portland independents.

When University of Illinois and Ohio State university players meet on the gridiron, they battle for possession of a wooden turtle trophy.
