TRADITION OCCASION FOR GENERAL FRAGAS

Decision of Upperclassmen to Punish Freshmen Meets With Strong Resistance

FRESHMEN ARE WORSTED

First Year Men Vote to Stand United Against Attempt to Force Respect of Custom

Ralph Schomp who received the most serious injuries as a result of the fight, will leave the hospital today, according to latest reports. He will probably be able to return to school much earlier than previous reports anticipated.

Ignoring the warning of Dean Erickson, that "This is no time of day, and no time of year for a general college row," the freshman class in their meeting on Tuesday, without calling for dissenting vote, decided to go out of the chapel and not take the punishment for breaking the junior cord tradition until they were forcibly made to do so.

This decision on the part of the first year men resulted in a general school scrap in which the freshmen were worsted after a fight of about a half-hour's length in which practically all the men of the school participated. After the freshmen had been defeated they voluntarily took a dip in the mill stream.

The incident was the result of quite a goodly percentage of the freshmen class skating party which was held the preceding Saturday. This was in violation of the college tradition which says that cords shall be worn only by upperclassmen.

Some freshmen explained their attitude at the party as merely a perfectly natural expression of a desire to save possible wear and tear which might result from a skating party, while other class discussion would seem to indicate that there was a general agreement on the part of the freshmen to wear the cords in defiance of all former custom.

The class meeting in which the decision was made was held after the upperclassmen had made plans to enforce the time honored tradition. Previous to making their decision the freshmen were addressed by William Smullin, president of the junior class, Kenneth LaViolette, president of the Blue Key fraternity, and F. M. Erickson, dean of the school of liberal arts. Smullin and LaViolette emphasized the fact that the upperclassmen proposed to see that freshmen were punished for wearing the cords by taking spats. Dean Erickson censured the freshmen for breaking a tradition which had been respected for many years, but he brought out the fact that a general campus row was undesirable and unnecessary and would not have the sanction of the faculty.

The freshmen first voted that in whatever action be taken all men in the class stand together. After a rather prolonged discussion in which no other solution was suggested other than that the whole class take punishment the freshmen made the decision to resist the attempts of the upperclassmen.

President Carl Gregg Doney, in a chapel announcement on Wednesday, told the freshmen that in his opinion they had done a shameful disservice to the university. He also said that the incident was a reflection on the leadership of the upperclassmen.

Young Bix-Adora Elevates Self to Stardom Without Use of Pedigree or Press Scandal

Now that sorority rush season is past, there will perhaps be time to hear about a feminine member of the school who is not a freshman co-ed—Bix-Adora. She is the spot puppy who has recently stepped into stardom as an actress in the Theta Alpha Phi play.

Although Bix-Adora still lives, we feel it timely to give a bit of her life history. At the rally preceding the Washington game, our former song queen took pity on a forlorn, yelping collie pup and brought her home to the Beta Chi house.

After a few days' careful attention, including hot baths delicately scented with bath salts, the young canine showed such promise that she was deemed worthy of a title. In the discussion which followed, the two names "Bix" and "Estadora Archibald" received most favor. The combination Bix-Adora resulted with just plain Bix for short.

For some time Bix lived an ordinary dog's life. It was difficult for

President's Alumni Welcome

This is Homecoming Day, named and prepared for you. We are grateful for your presence. It gives us real pleasure, and is a tender tribute to the school. But Willamette has a way of gripping one's affections and loyalty—just because she herself is an affectionate and loyal mother. You will have a royal visit with friends, that I know; and I have confidence you will see the Bearcats win. Welcome, thrice welcome, and always.

Sincerely yours,
CARL G. DONEY

SIXTH D'MOLAY PLAY DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

"White Collars" Played Before Large Audience at Elsinore Theatre, Tuesday

On Tuesday, November 1, the De Molay presented the popular play, "White Collars," by Edith Ellis, at the Elsinore theatre. The house was well-filled. Five members of the cast were Willamette students.

The cast in order of their appearance: Cousin Henry... Charles Kaufman; Helen Thayer... Kathryn Elgin; Mr. Thayer... Charles Bier; Mrs. Thayer... Betty Shipley; Frank Thayer... Harold Tomlinson; Joan Thayer... Fay Joe Walz; William Van Luyk... John Minto; Sally Van Luyk... Martha Hobson; Tom Bibney... Robert Boals.

Jack Minto portrayed the good-looking but sensible son of the wealthy Van Luyks who married into a middle-class family. Harold Tomlinson held the sympathy of the audience throughout as the discouraged son in that family. Kathryn Elgin, the gold-digger tylist, received well-earned applause after a difficult scene. It was for Charles Kaufman, however, to be particularly convincing as theorizing Cousin Henry, defender of the "great middle class." The other members of the cast were also well chosen.

Under the direction of Mrs. Brazier C. Small the cast presented, on the whole, an unusually good amateur performance. Jimmy Davis and his orchestra supplied a number of musical features.

WILDE'S PLAY MARKS HOMECOMING CLIMAX

Theta Alpha Phi to Present "The Importance of Being Earnest"; Grand Theatre

LARYNGITIS ATTACKS CAST

Margaret Arnold to Take Over Role of Cicely Cardew in Case of Emergency

The annual Homecoming play, "The Importance of Being Earnest" by Oscar Wilde is to be presented by Theta Alpha Phi tomorrow evening at 8:15 o'clock in the Grand Theatre.

"The Importance of Being Earnest" is a three act comedy of the nineties and is to be presented in costumes of that period. It is crammed with the wit and humor characteristic of that day. There are nine characters. Mr. Jock Worthington, a member of Parliament is the long lost relative of Algernon Moncrieff. The plot centers about their love affairs with Gwendolen Fairfax and Cicely Cardew who have been reared in the characteristic manner of the late nineteenth century. The final outcome is reached when a double betrothal takes place.

The cast chosen is as follows: John Worthington... Frank Alfred; Algernon Moncrieff... Robert Whitty; Reverend Canon Chasuble... Arthur Mason; Merrim (Butler)... Raymond Derrick; Lane (Man servant)... Donald Grant; Lady Bracknell... Ella Pfeiffer; Hon. Gwendolen Fairfax... Kathleen Garrison; Cecily Cardew... Virginia Edwards; Miss Prism (Governess)... Virginia Merle Crites.

The cast pictures in costume and without have been taken and are on display in the downtown windows. Virginia Edwards has developed a case of laryngitis and is being understudied by Margaret Arnold who will assume the role of Cicely Cardew if Miss Edwards' voice does not return.

The play has been coached by Marjorie Walker of Portland with the assistance of Dr. Robert Moulton Gatke who is the faculty adviser of the Theta Alpha Phi Fraternity.

Hugh Currin is the stage manager and Mary Louise Aiken and Louise Findley are the costume managers. General Manager Earl Douglas announces that the play will begin promptly at 8:15.

There is to be an Alumni get together on the third floor of Waller Hall from 6:30 to 7:45 p. m. on Saturday. And there will be a special section for alumni at the theatre.

CORWICK SISTERS APPEAR IN SPECIAL DANCING ACT

Nationally Known Dancers in Salem For Special Program at Local Store

For any Willamette girl or alumna who is at a loss for ways of spending her time on Thursday, Friday and Saturday between the hours of twelve thirty and one thirty, and three thirty and four thirty, there will be in the ready-to-wear salon of Miller's Mercantile company a special program of aesthetic and acrobatic dancing by the Corwick sisters featuring the new Kickernick innovation and underdress. A special stage setting and music will be provided so that not only an informative but also an entertaining program will be offered.

The Corwick sisters are nationally known dancers and with them will be Miss Eleanor Donaldson, lecturer. This demonstration is one of a series of such, put on by the Wingette company of Minneapolis.

He's keen! Who's keen! Spec's Keen!

When this yell booms across the field it carries with it the pride and affection of all the Willamette students.

We are all behind our coach because he puts out hard-fighting, square shooting teams that we are all proud of, whether they win or lose. Keene sets an example for his players that they would do well to follow and by his forceful personality he inspires his players to be truly fighting Bearcats. This is only his second year at Willamette but it doesn't take long to know and to respect Keene.

WOMEN HOLD TRYOUTS FOR DEBATING SQUAD

Total Number of Varsity Squad Increased to Eight; Three Veterans Included

Five women were elected for the women's varsity debate squad at the tryouts held on October 31 in Adalante hall. These, with an addition of three veteran debaters, will compose the working squad of 1927.

The question for debate was a phase of the foreign investment problem: Resolved that the United States should cease to protect by armed force capital investments in foreign countries after formal declaration of war. With one exception all speakers upheld the affirmative case. Five minutes was allotted to each contestant. Professor James T. Mathews and Dr. George O. Oliver rendered the decision of individual merit.

Dr. J. O. Hall first introduced Esther Lyle, junior, who spoke on the negative. Mexico, she said, is the country prevalently considered. It is trying to get control of its natural resources, and a nation undeniably has a right to make its own laws. Just a little money for a few people is not reason for serious difficulty with Mexico.

Gaynelle Beckett, the following speaker, spoke on the negative. She held that protection by armed force means protection by United States armed force of United States capital and citizens in lands where adequate protection is lacking. The United States does not believe in exploitation nor its protection. President Coolidge said in effect that by international law a nation protects its citizens and their property wherever they may be.

Mary McKee, senior, took the negative stand. She claimed that Japan was the open gateway to the problem itself and that nations have not realized this. Does America have the right to protect the investments of her citizens in Japan? If the investments are such that America must have armed forces nearby, such investments should not be protected.

The succeeding contestant, Evangeline Hall, pointed out that the question implies that America is protecting investments in foreign countries by armed force. In an illustration she told of an instance in which the United States demanded indemnity, a humble apology, and $75,000 indemnity from Chile, and forced her to comply. The United States requires that other nations practice the Dracoe law but fails to observe it herself.

The final speaker, Donna Hildebrand, stated that American capital must seek investment abroad and that in most cases there is not adequate protection. How can private investments be protected? Can we allow our investors in Mexico to be robbed? President Coolidge has said that a citizen's property, even abroad, is part of the nation's domain.

Irene Brethaupt, Mernice Mufey, and Margaret Poo, all varsity members of the preceding year, will complete the squad of eight. These students will cooperate in working out the question, and further tryouts will determine the first and second teams. Several colleges have already signified their desire to debate with Willamette.

- Don't cheer on opponents.
- Don't cheer when signals are being called.
- Don't hoo the referees.
- Don't wise-crack. YELL!
- Don't be downhearted. Yell harder when behind.
- Don't be poor losers.

PACIFIC-WILLAMETTE BURY AGED HATCHET

Nightly Raids on Campuses Will Cease by Mutual Consent According To Plan

COACH FRANK SUGGESTS

Freshmen Relieved of Necessity of Guarding Against Red and Black Paint

As far as campus raids and paint brush parties are concerned, Willamette university and Pacific University have buried the hatchet for all time.

This is the result of the announcement of a telephone conversation of last Wednesday between Coach Frank of Pacific and Coach Keene of Willamette. Coach Frank expressed his willingness to use his influence to restrain any possible nightly visits to the Salem campus on the part of the Forest Grove students. He said that he looked with disfavor upon such expressions of school spirit. Coach Keene readily agreed with him and in accordance with this agreement, President Doney made the announcement in chapel that the two universities would look with disfavor upon such actions in the future on the part of their students.

Almost annually "patriotic" students have secretly visited the campuses of the respective universities and left behind them hurriedly painted signs. Last year several Willamette supporters visited the Pacific campus and were captured after an unsuccessful attempt to light the materials which had been gathered for the annual homecoming bonfire. The men were held prisoners over night and forced to lead a parade through the streets of Forest Grove on the day of the Willamette-Pacific game.

The practice has been frowned upon by the administrations of the two schools for some time, but it was not until recently that mutual action was taken which would seem to insure against such incidents in the future.

ADELANTES WILL BUILD CEMENT TENNIS COURTS

Money Received From Trustees in Payment for Furniture Will Be Used for Courts

According to the announcement of Louise Nunn, president of the Adelante society, this organization at its last meeting voted to use the $600 received from the trustees for the furniture and fixtures in their former halls to build a cement tennis court for the university. The tennis court, according to Miss Nunn, will be a monument to the spirit of the Websters and Adelantes who made the first dirt courts 20 years ago.

The sale of the furniture was made necessary by the decision of the university trustees to take over the Adelante halls for use as a classroom.

WILLAMETTE SONGBOOKS WILL BE ISSUED TODAY

Publication on Sale at Student Body Office Today and at Chresto Tomorrow

Earl Pemberton, manager of the song book, has made arrangements whereby song books can be purchased in the student body office this afternoon and in Chresto cottage on Saturday morning during alumni registration.

The price of the publication is $2.50 for those who have not composed which were sold at the latter part of school year. The books contain all the songs ever written for Willamette and are of loose leaf style which makes possible later additions as new songs are written.

ROGUSH UMPs ENTERTAIN CHAPEL WITH SERENADE

Second Number of Wednesday Student Chapels Given by Girl Serenaders

The Rogush Ump, girl serenaders at Willamette, put on a delightful serenade during chapel last Wednesday as one of the regular weekly programs. Several delightful pieces were played by the girls with a special whistling piece by Ruby Curtis and a steel guitar duet by Clara Jasper and Margaret Sherman. The other three girls who played were Leona Marlett, Dorothy Fisher, and Emily Brown.

Student President's Greetings

We rejoice over the bounteous gains that will inevitably be ours this Homecoming through meeting you that have gone before and will be our joy, should your return be a pleasant one.

May each of you not only make new friendships and renew old ones, but also long cherish pleasant memories of "The Importance of Being Earnest," and the satisfaction of being "Back to Beat the Badgers."

FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM OCCUPIES NEXT WEEK

President of Reed College Will Address Group on Coming Wednesday Evening

First Methodist Episcopal church Epworth League has obtained a number of well-known speakers for the annual Fellowship Week which continues from Sunday, November 6, to Sunday, November 13, inclusive.

Students will have charge of the preliminaries and introduce the speakers at every meeting. In this and other ways, the committee has tried to make the services as attractive and worth-while as possible, particularly to Willamette students.

This Sunday night the service will be held from 6:30 to 7:30 o'clock.

During the week the hour will be from 7:15 to 8:15 p. m.

On the following Sunday the last service will be from 6 to 7:15 p. m.

The following is the program for the week:

- November 6: "The Adventure."—Dean Dubach of O. S. C.
- November 7: "Getting Acquainted With Ourselves."—Rev. M. A. Marcy of Forest Grove.
- November 8: "Making the Christian Life Real."—Rev. Hints of Corvallis.
- November 9: "Counting the Cost."—Dr. Norman F. Colman of Reed College.
- November 10: "Grappling with the Mind of Christ."—Dean Hewitt of Law School.
- November 11: "Acquaintanceship Deepens to Friendship."—Rev. Sidney Hall of McMinnville.
- November 13: "Comrades of the Emmaus Way."—Dr. A. L. Howarth of Portland.

SATURDAY MORNING FIXED FOR ALUMNI REGISTRATION

Aim is to Establish Closer Feeling of Fellowship Between Homecomers and Students

Every Willamette alumnus who can possible get back on the campus will be here Saturday morning. All alumni will be asked to register at Chresto cottage as soon as they arrive on the campus. Saturday night all alumni will be cared for at Lausanne Hall and at the sororities and fraternities.

Charles Kaufman, publicity chairman, says: "We hope to awake within the students a closer feeling of fellowship with the alumni. This connection is, in actuality, little enough, but should be more. It is a close cooperation between students and alumni that will result in big things for W. U. Each student should forget himself during Homecoming and try to make the alumni feel at home."

Collegiate Bedlam Will Prove Enjoyable "If" You Can Agree to Listed Conditions

If you want a chance to view P. U. in a coffin, if you are brave enough to enter the house of mystery prepared by the Science Club; if you want a shot at P. U. and other obnoxious members of society—according to the standards of the ranks; if you desire to view the Pirate Crew of the W. A. A. that asked the manager for a whole dollar for costumes, at which unreasonable request Dean Erickson advised the management to allow them the full amount (this by the way is the nearest to the hula hula that there will be); says Mr. Litchfield, the aforementioned management, if you care to have your hair raised by the dare devil stunts of Spark's Tumbling Duo—the incidentally they are only the Tumbling Class so the degree of beauty may be questionable; if you have a particular grudge against Frank Van Dyke and would like to

ENTIRE HOMECOMING PLAN IS COMPLETED

Welcome Signs Will Be First Surface Indications of Sixth Annual Celebration

PEP RALLY IS SCHEDULED

Bearcats and Badgers Meet In Annual Battle To Settle Question of Supremacy

The first visible evidence of the beginning of the sixth annual Homecoming is 6 o'clock when the hall, the sororities, and fraternities are required to have finished all their work on their special alumni welcome signs. According to the regulations of the executive committee the signs will be judged on the basis of originality, cleverness, and appropriateness for day and night display. The limit of 10 dollars has been placed as the amount which may be expended in making the signs. The committee of judges consists of Paul Wallace, trustee, Beryl Holt, alumni, and Prof. Monk, faculty.

At 7 o'clock Yell King Kaufman and his assistant, Earl Henry, will conduct a pep rally and pajama parade. All men of the campus will meet in the chapel promptly at 7 o'clock for roll call.

The rally will be followed by a special display of an undeclosed nature, put on by the Freshman class on Sweetland field.

In the words of Yell King Kaufman, "everything will be short and snappy" in order that everyone will be on time for the Collegiate Bedlam which is scheduled to follow at 8 o'clock. The plans for this event have all been completed and the final touches will be given this afternoon. This is a new feature of the Homecoming program of this year and the committee under the leadership of Kenneth Litchfield is making every effort to make it a success.

Saturday morning will begin with a breakfast served by the Y. W. C. A. in the Philodorian halls between the hours of 8 and 10 o'clock. This annual feature of homecoming is being handled by a committee in charge of Beatrice Lockhart.

The remainder of the morning in conformance with alumni wishes has been reserved for the registration of alumni and whatever informal gatherings they may choose to hold. At 12 o'clock the alumni will gather at the Hotel Marion for their annual luncheon and business meeting.

At 2:30 the Bearcats and the Badgers will meet on the gridiron to settle their yearly battle for football supremacy. Pacific was defeated in a closely fought game last year at Forest Grove and is coming back this year with a determination to win. Pacific might be said to, in many ways, enter the game with odds in her favor. The Willamette lineup as well as reserve strength is considerably weakened by numerous injuries.

The climax of Saturday's program will be "The Importance of Being Earnest" given by the Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatic fraternity, at 8:15 at the Grand theatre.

After the play the alumni will gather in the Philodorian halls for a special get-together alumni party.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert M. Gatke end day dinner honoring Hugh Roberts, retained last Sunday with a birth-Bronze chrysanthemums and French marginals were used pleasingly for table decorations. Those present were Hugh Roberts, Homer Roberts, Paul Trueblood, Stanley Satchwell and the hosts, Dr. and Mrs. Gatke.

JADED LILLIES

Sorority rush season and examination week are over and we can all heave a sigh of relief. There ought to be an immediate improvement in the quality of scenery as well as a marked change for the better in feminine dispositions.

Six weeks of nerve straining competitive entertaining, to say nothing of being pleasant to all eligibles, is enough to make any person look, feel, and act like the last rose of summer left blooming alone.

The sorority women are not to be particularly criticized for the zeal with which they pursue a program which is foolish and unnecessary as well as approaching the limits of physical endurance. It is only human nature for them to desire to excel and give the best to the organization which they believe merits their fullest support and loyalty, while studies are allowed to lapse and many other serious purposes of an educational institution are sacrificed.

The move on the part of the intersorority council to reduce the rush season to two weeks is to be commended. Such a period will be long enough for all rushes to have the benefit of sufficient time in which to make a definite decision, and at the same time it will not offer the necessity of there being such a prolonged strain on the scholastic standing and the physical and mental endurance of the rushers.

ADOLESCENT EFFERVESCENCE

Stevenson once said in one of his essays that, "To hold the same views at forty as were held at twenty is to have been stupefied for a score of years and to take rank, not as a prophet, but as an unteachable brat, well birched and none the wiser."

This might very well be said of the members of the Freshmen class. They have been well birched, but we hope that they are somewhat the wiser. By insisting on their individual rights and personal liberties they became not glorious martyrs sacrificing themselves for the palladium of their sacred liberties, but instead revealed themselves as rather cocky young upstarts who had not been able to adjust themselves to the discipline and customs of their environment.

However, there is of necessity two sides to every argument. Upper class leadership in this particular affair cannot point with pride to any particular display of unusual tact or prudence. They are partly to blame for the awkward method which was taken to settle a dispute in which they had good grounds for their contentions.

The period of twenty years mentioned in the quotation has not elapsed in the lives of the individuals in this particular case, but certain years of training have been passed through which should have had some effect on the thinking and actions of the persons in question.

The most encouraging thing about the whole affair was the good spirit which was displayed during the fracas and the absence of any rancor after it was all over.

However, the whole incident remains an unfortunate memory and a grave reflection on the quality of our college leadership.

Let us grow up and find some better outlet for our surplus animal spirit. May we be able to say, "when I became a man I put away childish things."

LOYAL ALUMNI

Fortunate indeed was the first writer who felt that he ought to comment on the alumni at homecoming time. He did not have to suffer the feeling of using plagiarized platitudes nor fear that his hypocrisy might be exposed by some alumni who had turned out similar galley filler in his undergraduate days.

To generalize the problem of alumni presents two phases in this country. Some colleges spend much effort, time and money in high powered publicity in an attempt to arouse slumbering emotions and open closed pocketbooks to the support of Alma Mater. Others having passed beyond the first stage to a second, which at the same time also includes the first, give much of their effort toward pleasing the various interests in the alumni association and guarding against the wrecking of their educational system by good intentioned, but ill informed nuisances.

Willamette has not yet fairly launched itself into the first stage. Its alumni association has great possibilities and a large opportunity for future growth, but only a beginning has been made.

Loyal alumni who have not ceased to be students, who are well informed, and who are public spirited enough to depart from their own daily program of activities in order to further the cause of the college which they once attended are an asset to any school. This is the type of alumni which Willamette covets.

SCHOOL SPIRIT

The suggestion on the part of Coach Frank of Pacific University that the mutual marauding expedition from Pacific and Willamette become a thing of the past was a sensible move which deserves a favorable response on the part of both student bodies. The move coming as it did from the director of athletics of our sister institution shows that coaches have little sympathy with a type of school spirit which consists mainly of rowdiness.

School spirit is almost an indefinable quality because it includes so many things and has so many possible means of expression. However, we are indebted to Coach Frank for clarifying the situation and making himself clear as to what he believes is not included in school spirit.

Anita Loos, the author of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," has recently written another book which promises to be a best seller, "But Gentlemen Marry Brunettes." This brings up the question of actually how much complexion and color of hair has to do with the matter.

TERRIBLE TORRENT DESCENDS UPON SCHOOL

Danger Unrealized - Number Of Fatalities Unknown

The stream called Flunk Silps, although known to have been rising during the past week, had occasioned little thought until Tuesday, when it changed from a murmuring brooklet to a mighty deluge. Descending with rapidly gathering volume it bit the campus with a terrific impact.

Scores were caught in its icy grip and rendered helpless. Eye witnesses say that it was enough to make a strong man weep to behold the pitiful scene. Thus far no property other than text-books has been reported damaged.

Fashion Notes For Men

Recently the question of the correct dress for one's type was brought to my attention. Now take for instance, corduroy trousers: there are only certain types of men that can wear them at all. If you are not that type and do not believe my last statement, I am sure that a few minutes of wearing said apparel on Willamette campus will convince you of the inadvisability of it.

Society

An informal get-together meeting was held in front of Waller Hall Tuesday noon after chapel. Punch was served to all guests and many new contacts were established between classes during the progress of the program. It has been said that towns-people looking on named the meeting, "What Education Does For Our Young People". After the meeting adjourned, active participants went home vowing to meet again soon.

NORTHWEST SUPPORTS CANSE'S LEADERSHIP

Past Year One of Re-establishment of Kimball School at Salem and Willamette

By Everett Gardner
 Kimball Editor
 Kimball School of Theology under the presidency of Dr. J. M. Canse has during the past year become more firmly established at Salem than ever before. For several years the school had been poorly supported and plans were made to move to Seattle where it would be in connection with the University of Washington. However, through the work of Kimball alumni and leaders at Willamette university the change was not made and the school was kept on the campus where it was established in 1909.

When Dr. Canse became president at the beginning of the fall term of school in 1926, it was very poorly supported and the student body was small. Many students planned on going east to a seminary or to other schools rather than attend one of which the fate was so unsettled. During the past year an active Kimball campaign was put on in the churches throughout the Northwest. The people readily responded and the school was placed on a sound financial basis. At the same time the school was conducted as economically as possible with the result that the funds provided were not all used.

This fall of 1927, the Methodist Conferences of Oregon, Idaho, Puget Sound, and Intermountain all voted to actively support their own school in the Northwest. Since it is the only Methodist Seminary West of Denver they felt that it should be firmly established. The Oregon conference especially, voted to back the school to the limit. Both the Puget Sound and Oregon Conferences voted to require their undergraduates in the itinerant minister a course to attend the summer school which Kimball has been holding for this purpose for ten days every year.

The increase in regular students this fall of ten over the seventeen enrolled last year shows the confidence which the school has gained. Several new students have entered from colleges in California and Washington. The school building has undergone several repairs. A sleeping room has been arranged in one half of the third floor for a number of the student pastors. The basement has been fixed up with a hand ball court and a room where the students can eat their lunches. A hot water tank has been placed in the furnace furnishing hot water to all parts of the building as well as for the purpose of heating the third floor.

But Kimball is serving the churches of the Northwest in field work as well. Professor Andrews is putting schools of religious education in different churches with Kimball professors as instructors. Dr. J. D. McCormick is using his observations made on his tour of the Holy Land the past summer in lecture courses and in his work of teaching the New Testament. Professor Herzog is arranging with the District Superintendent to put on conferences representing the school and the Board of Home Missions. Professor Keefer is busy systematizing the library in which the book card index system is soon to be installed.

Thus the past year will be remembered in Kimball history as a period of reestablishment. The Methodist churches of the Northwest are behind the school and expecting to obtain their future ministers from it. It is serving the need in this respect for other churches as well, for ministers of the Evangelical and Presbyterian churches have been graduates.

FACTS OF ARMISTICE DAY TICKET SALE ARE GIVEN

Student Body Tickets Will be Accepted as Admission Regardless of Legion

Due to conflicting reports on the way the American Legion is handling the Armistice Day on November 11 with Linfield game some students have been wondering how it will affect their pocketbooks.

The American Legion is handling all the publicity and sale of tickets for which they will get a share of the gate receipts. This arrangement does not effect the students who will be admitted on their student body tickets as usual.

For town people the admission will be either one dollar, one American Legion ticket and 50 cents, or two American Legion tickets.

A NOVELETTE
 By Prof. J. T. Mathews
 (Editor's note: The following is a reprint from the Willamette Collegian of November, 1901. It brings back the days when the college paper was a monthly literary publication to which both students and faculty contributed.)

Chapter 1
 "Now, Helen, Helen, you know as well as I that some day Prof. Brown will ask you to be his wife."
 "ME, Mary?"
 "Yes, you."
 "Prof. Brown ask me to be his wife?"
 "Yes, stupid. I know by infallible signs."
 "Well, that would be an honor, but I have not seen the signs infallible. Besides, professors need not apply for my hand and heart. Too positive—too matter of fact—too masterful, professors are. And a professor of English of all men. Why I should be afraid to talk to him.

And would he always treat me like a pupil?"
 "Nevertheless, my dear, you will be Mrs. Arthur Brown some day."
 Chapter 2

"Don't go today, Arthur."
 "I must, mother, the students need me so."
 "But you ought to be to bed. You are very sick."

"Not so bad as that, I think."
 And so, a half hour later Prof. Brown sat before his class. But how he wished he had not come; he felt so ill, so weak, so strangely bewildered. Then his clothes suddenly seemed red hot; his brain took fire; horrible plans of destruction and murder moved his mind. With a startling shriek and fists swinging, he leaped to his feet and sprang toward his students. They fled at his approach.

Helen, seated far back in the room, saw it all and ran toward him.
 "Why, professor, professor," she said as she laid her hand on his wrist.

The others looked on in horror. Their teacher was a big athletic man. Would he crush the brave girl? A long, long moment that great hand oscillated over her head, and then with a groan the sick man fell into a chair.

Helen turned toward the others.
 "He is ill," said she, "this is delirium. He has a high fever. We must get him home. Here, Henry, and Chester, support him to the street car. I will go to help his mother. William, fetch the doctor."
 Chapter 3

"Helen, you are a general."
 "That is high praise from you, professor."
 "And a heroine."
 "Oh, dear."

"And the brightest star in the galaxy of earth's gentlest and worthiest."
 "Thank you, professor."
 "You stopped me when I was mad and murderous with delirium. How dared you face me? I tremble when I think of it. You got me home—don't interrupt me, please.—Day and night for three weeks now you have been my chief nurse, and daughter and guardian to my mother."

"Oh, professor, you overrate, and it has been a pleasure."
 "Listen, this last week, this week of convalescence, has been the happiest bit of my life."
 Chapter 4
 "Going, and so soon, professor?"
 How her voice trembled.

"Going, but not so soon, unless from seven till eleven is soon, Helen." His voice was firm.

"Shall I ever - see - you - again?"
 "I hope so. Dear me, how I shall miss these long chats. Goodbye."
 And the professor put out his hand and held hers in his mighty grasp.

This, then, was the end. Thousand of miles he was going, going away to stay, going without a word of love, without ever giving a token that he held her above all other women.

And he was so cool, so indifferent. And Helen, she dared not open her mouth to say goodbye, and shame, shame, would he note the heaving bosom and the discolored cheek?

Apparently not, for he set her hand free and strode to the door. He was sound did she make. At the door the professor turned abruptly and marched back to the weeping girl.

"Helen."
 O the music of that low call. It was a new voice and a new name, and both were born of love and spoke love.

"Arthur," echoed the thrilling girl. Still clasping her close he said, "But I am a professor, too positive, too matter of fact, too masterful."
 "Who told you?"

"And professor of English of all men. Shall you be afraid to talk to me?"
 "Why, Arthur?"
 "And you used to be my pupil."
 "Did Mary tell?"
 "No, dear, I happened to overhear that remark of yours two years ago."

Chapter 5
 A clipping from the Morning Bee: "But the strangest incident is yet to be related. This terrible collision united in death two who were soon to be joined in wedlock. Prof. Brown was on the north bound train, and Miss Helen—on the south bound. At the time of our going to press the bodies have not been removed from the debris."

Local Sororities Pledge After Spirited Rush Season

After a spirited rush season of five weeks' duration, the three local sororities pledged a total of 43 new girls. The pledges are as follows:

Beta Chi: Elma Nell, Vancouver, Wash.; Ella Howard, Yamhill, Elliford; Leone Marlett, Aberdeen, Wn.; Helen Pemberton, Ashland; Louise Brown, Margaret Ghormley, Harriet Haggeman, Margaret Weineke, Norabel Pratt, Portland; Rosalind Van Winkle, Marvel Edwards, Minnie Shrode, Evelyn High, Roby Laughlin, Vivian Hauge, Helen Ashliman, Salem.

Alpha Phi Alpha: Grace Henderson, Salem; Dorothy Estling, Bessie Weaver, Twin Falls, Idaho; Margaret Warneke, Boise, Idaho; Henrietta Bishop, Salem; Lysle Scheldt, Everett, Wash.; Marlon Michalson, Bend; Dorothy Bell, Colfax, Wash.; Helen Curry, Seattle, Wash.; Leona Clothier, and Georgia Striker, Wasco.

Delta Phi: Mary Allen, Forest Grove; Mina Crow, Lostine; Kathleen Garrison, Woodburn; Betty Lewis, Portland; Dorothy Pemberton, Bonnie Weithammer, Odell; Agnes Enmel, Hood River; Freida Falconer, Kitchikan, Alaska; Pauline Findley, Jean Middleton, Marion Bretz, Dorothy Bosshard, Edna Card, Irma Olsen, Jennie Deltzell, Leona Medler, Elizabeth Wechter, Salem.

Professor Matthews Speaks At Meeting of Town and Gown

The first fall meeting of the Town and Gown club was held Thursday afternoon at Lausanne Hall. Mrs. Carl Gregg Doney, Mrs. C. E. Richard, and Mrs. R. J. Hendricks were hostesses. Professor James T. Matthews gave a very interesting talk on his summer trip to Australia, and promised to continue his speech at the next meeting.

The Town and Gown club, which was formerly known as the Lausanne Hall Guild, was organized in 1921 through the efforts of Mrs. A. M. Bush, at that time a member of the board of trustees. The club is composed of town and faculty women who are interested in Lausanne Hall. Town signifies town women and Gown signifies commencement garb, hence university women. The club has sponsored furnishing the dormitory, planting the lawn, shrubbery and flowers, and is always working for the best interests of the hall.

the fourth Thursday of each month at Lausanne Hall. Mrs. C. P. Bishop is president and Miss Olive M. Dahl is secretary-treasurer.

Formal Dinners Are Climax Of Sorority Rush Season

As a climax to rush season each sorority gave a formal dinner for its rushees during the past week.

Beta Chi entertained Tuesday, October 18, at an "Alice-in-Wonderland" dinner. The rooms were decorated with mossy garlands, soft lights, twittering birds and fairy balloons. Between courses of the dinner musical numbers were given. Miss Elizabeth Waters and Miss Marjorie Webb presented a duet dance, entitled "Autumn" and Miss Waters gave a solo dance. As a final touch to the evening's entertainment, the guests were showered with streamers of bright confetti.

Wednesday evening the members of Delta Phi were hostesses at their annual Colonial dinner party. The tables were attractively decorated with old-fashioned dolls, wreaths of flowers, and candles. A Southern atmosphere was further created by a stage-coach, a spinning wheel, and the Colonial costumes of the girls who served and assisted on the program. Mrs. John Reed acted as hostess and those who entertained were: Betty Corskie, Faye Spaulding, Ruth Ross, Eloise Reed, Genevieve Junk, and Joan Newcombe.

Freshman Class Frolics At Dreamland Rink

Friday evening a hundred and fifty freshmen gathered at the Dreamland rink for a skating party. The party has been proclaimed eminently successful by the freshmen, and credit is due Pauline Findley, as chairman of the entertainment committee, Donald Middleton, as chairman of the clean-up committee, Margaret Warneke, as chairman of the decoration committee and Irma

Green as chairman of the refreshment committee.

Dixies and orange crush were served to the skaters.

Professor James T. Matthews, Dean and Mrs. Frank M. Erickson were faculty guests present.

Lausanne Hall Girls Have Halow'een Party

Susan Chadwick and Winifred Dove were hostesses at a Halow'een party Monday evening. The time was spent in relating ghost stories and personal experiences. The guests were Dorothy Fisher, Evelyn Lindberg, Dorothy Barber, Mina Crow, Marlin Pruitt, Violet Beecher, Eva Gorham, Lucile Lear, Virginia Slusser, Ruth Margaret Hall, Marna Powell, and Bernice May Jackson.

Seniors Forget Dignity At Party at Skating Rink

The Senior class party was held at the Dreamland skating rink Saturday night. After several hours of merrymaking at the rink, the Seniors went to the home of Louise Findley, where pumpkin pie and elder were served.

Dean and Mrs. R. R. Hewitt were guests of the class.

Dean McCormick Speaks On Recent Trip to Palestine

Dean J. D. McCormick of Kimball school of theology is giving a series of lectures this week on "Observations Made in Palestine" at a Standard training school at Vancouver. He will speak on a similar subject at the Knight Memorial Congregational church Sunday evening.

Philodorian Society Has Regular Meeting Friday

The regular meeting of the Philodorian society was held Friday, October 28. The program consisted of a short talk, "The History of Philo," by Gaynelle Beckett, a piano solo by Dorothy Jean Ryan, and a talk, "Some Achievements of Philo," by Esther Lisle.

At the business meeting, which was conducted by the president, Phoebe Smith, Miss Bonnie Zeller was elected corresponding secretary.

Rough Umps Pledge; Will Serenade Saturday

Membership in the Rough Umps has been extended to Leona Marlott and Margaret Ghormley. The Rough Umps is a musical organization composed of girls who play stringed instruments. Clara Jasper, manager of the club, announces that the members will serenade on Saturday evening.

Many Willamette Students Attend O.S.C.-W.S.C. Game

Among the Willamette students who attended the O. S. C. - W. S. C. football game at Corvallis were Harold Meiseger, Dale Waddell, Phillip Huth, Willy Hathaway, Ben Klindworth, Sigmund Huth, Arthur Melson, Meredith Woodworth, Keith Pollock, Trygve Brauli, Charles Flock, Edwin Cardinal, Loren Mort, Willard Ruch, and Harold Hawk.

Y. W. C. A. Meetings Are On Topics of Interest

The Y. W. C. A. meeting last Thursday was led by Louise Ann on the interesting subject, "The Lord's Prayer." Louise Findley played several piano selections.

Irene Breithaupt led the meeting yesterday on the topic of "Books."

Miss Rosa Ricco entertained Miss Gaudling and Miss Edith Denise at dinner last Wednesday evening. Miss Gaudling was at one time dean of women at Olivet University, but is now a member of the Salem Public Health staff.

Mr. and Mrs. Len Daniels of Weiser, Idaho, announced the birth of a son, John, on October 25. Mrs. Daniel, who was formerly Elizabeth Hall, is an ex-member of the class of '28 and Alpha Phi Alpha.

Maurice Hallmark visited at Alpha Psi Delta Monday.

Cornelius Bateson and Larhaut Lewis spent the week-end at Eugene visiting Herbert Deal, a former Willamette student.

Wayne Paige and Phillip Staats spent the week-end at their homes in Dallas.

RACE IN CONFERENCE TO WIN FINAL GAMES

Present Scores Show Evenly Matched Teams; Idaho Leads Win Column

Northwest Conference
	W	L	T	Pct
College of Idaho	3	0	0	1000
Whitman	2	0	0	1000
College of Pug. Sd.	0	0	1	1000
Willamette	0	1	1	000
Pacific	0	2	1	000
Linfield	0	2	1	000

Games this week Puget Sound vs. Whitman at Tacoma; Willamette vs. Pacific at Salem.

Probably the most thrilling finish of any conference race of its size in the United States will be held in the next three weeks during which time the Northwest conference football championship will be decided. The games so far have shown the evenness with which the teams are matched. With a reasonable amount of breaks a tail ender might easily defeat a leader. Two games have already resulted in ties and further such scores would not be entirely surprising.

Three teams remain undefeated and four teams have not as yet won a game. The College of Idaho leads the list with three wins and no defeats. Whitman and the College of Idaho have yet to enter the loss column. Whitman has two wins to its credit while the College of Puget Sound has played only one game, that with Willamette and that a 6 to 6 tie.

This last week added few developments to the race. Pacific and Linfield met to decide which one would go further into the cellar but the contest seems to have ended in a draw. The game was played on a muddy field and so deception was almost impossible. Straight football was relied upon with Linfield having a little the advantage in thrust at the goal. The Badger ten yard line twice but due to fumbles and the condition of the field were unable to push the ball over the goal line. Pacific had the ball on Linfield's 15 yard line but were also unable to cross the coveted goal line. Whitman played a non conference game with The University of Washington and were humbled by a 51 to 7 score. Whitman proved that it had an aerial attack which is not to be denied in that they scored against Washington. Only two teams have scored against Washington this year so far, one being Whitman and the other Willamette. Willamette played what it thought to be a "breather" but due to their inability to hang on to the ball were held to a 6 to 6 score by the fighting Chemawa Indians.

This week finds two important games in store. Puget Sound meets Whitman at Tacoma and Willamette meets Pacific. The Logger-Miscellaneous game promises to be very interesting. Both have much touted aerial attacks and strong lines. Willamette will meet its ancient rival Pacific and will fight its best to repeat the victory of last year.

DEAN OF LAW SCHOOL ONCE FOOTBALL STAR

Old Style of Play Recalled as Being Rougher; Interest in Sport Still Continues

In the faculty of Willamette University is one who for nine years played on the Cardinal and Gold football team and who during that time fought with all his 225 pounds for the glory of Willamette. He is none other than Dean Hewitt of the law school. Although the Dean was quite a heavyweight he ran a hundred yards in twelve seconds with a football suit on and he could jump more than eighteen feet in the broad jump.

Dean entered the Willamette academy in 1900 and then graduated from the liberal arts school and the law school, finishing in 1909. His first football game was played against Oregon State college in which Willamette was defeated. At the end of the half playing stopped and Dean Hewitt was puzzling over in his mind as to how many more times such rest periods would be called. The Dean was on the team that went to California and defeated Stanford university and played a scoreless tie with the University of California.

Football in those days was much different, according to Hewitt. A man was not down until he was on the ground and could not possibly get up. Both teams would grab on to the pants of the man with the ball and try to pull him the way that would be favorable to them. If you could get hold of a man with the ball it was perfectly legal for you to carry him as far as you could. The Willamette teams were also coached to leave their feet fifteen feet before they came to a man, all of which made the game very spectacular and exciting to watch. In those days a team was given three downs to make five yards. If Willamette was sorely in need of five yards, a man in the back field would run and jump on the Dean's back and then would be hurled by two backfield men who would be alongside of Hewitt as far over the opposing line as possible. This play was always good for five yards as it would be impossible for the opposing team to stop the man being thrown over the line of scrimmage until he touched the ground.

Dean Hewitt has lost none of his interest in football, and can be seen night after night on the football field watching the Bearcats practice even though he does think that the game has been tamed down considerably.

DR. DONEY ORIGINATOR OF THE TITLE BEARCAT

Chapel Speech of a Number of Years Ago Preceding a Pacific Game Occasion

Some ten or twelve years ago the fighting Willamette teams were without any designation other than W. U. teams. At that time the name Bearcats, now officially used, was accidentally acquired. The original application of the term was made in a chapel speech by President Carl G. Doney.

According to President Doney it was on the eve of a big W. U. football game, when, in an endeavor to give impetus to the Willamette spirit, he made a speech in chapel. In hunting for some word to express the fighting spirit of the team he termed them Bearcats, the name, as he said, probably being suggested to him by the California "Bears." This was immediately seized upon by Collegian and other papers for publicity. In a short time "Bearcats" became the officially reorganized term for Willamette teams. Matthews was coach of the team at that time when the term had its beginning.

BARNSTORMING TRIP PLANNED FOR SQUAD

Basketball Team Has Tentative Games Scheduled With Southern Aggregation

With prospects for the best basketball team in years, Coach Keene is taking steps to give them plenty of pre-season games by arranging an 1800 mile barnstorming trip into California during the Christmas holidays.

Only a tentative schedule has been arranged, but plans call for 11 games in 14 days. The squad will play Ashland Normal first and then at Stockton they will play College of Pacific. Some of the hardest games are Stanford, California, Olympic club, and the California Aggies.

There will be five lettermen back and several new prospects. The lettermen are Flesher and Ledbetter guards, and Litchfield, Hawk and Ashby, forwards. For the center position there will be Minto from last year's squad and Cardinal, a new man from Mount Angel. Another promising man is Glass, an all-state forward from Indiana.

The tentative schedule is as follows:

- December 17 — Ashland Normal, Ashland.
- December 19 — College of Pacific, Stockton.

December 20 — Y. M. I., San Francisco.

December 21 — Stanford, Palo Alto.

December 22 — Livermore Cowboys, Livermore.

December 23 — Auburn Cubs, Auburn.

December 26 — Spartan Athletic club.

December 27 — California, Berkeley.

December 28 — Olympic club, San Francisco.

December 29 — California Aggies, David.

December 30 — Chico Normal, Chico.

Bearcats Will Enter Fray Handicapped By Numerous Injuries

TWO ELEVENS EAGER FOR OPENING SIGNAL

Pacific Out to Bring Home The Bacon and Avenge Defeat of Last Year

Tomorrow the Bearcats face the fighting Badger team with a discouraging array of cripples. There are men to fill the places of those first string men who are out, but the Willamette team will be terribly weak on reserves. This season has been one of many injuries. In not one game that has been played, has there been the strongest possible combination on the field.

French broke his arm while tackling the dummy. Zeller again hurt his leg. Versteeg, who was kept out of the Chemawa game on account of a wretched knee has not yet sufficiently recovered, making it doubtful that he will play. Glass and Eaton are both out yet on account of game legs. Rogers hurt his leg again Wednesday night and is now in poor condition to play. Ackerman will no doubt be started at center.

This week has been used in dummy scrimmage and defense against Pacific plays. She has been showing at times a semblance of a drive that will make an offensive, but at other times there has been very little of anything displayed. The Cardinal and Gold warriors are priming themselves for the biggest battle so far this year.

The Bearcats will enter the game as the underdogs. Pacific, confident of avenging the defeat of last year and with a team that has scarcely any handicaps on account of injuries, is coming to Salem Saturday with only one purpose in view: that of defeating Willamette.

The alumni would rather have Willamette defeat Pacific than any other team in the conference, and the Bearcats when they meet tomorrow will do everything in their power to give Pacific their third conference defeat.

The official lineup and the names and numbers of each player are as follows:

Willamette	Position	Pacific
Depoe, 9	LE	Walker, 1
Woodworth, 27	LT	Pollock, 8
McKenzie, 11	LG	Tuor, 19

BEARCAT-BADGER SCORES GIVE WILLAMETTE EDGE

Total Number of Points for Games Played in Last 28 Years Give W. U. Big Lead

In the last 28 years in which the teams have met on the gridiron, Willamette has twelve victories to her credit and Pacific but five. The Bearcats have scored 361 points against only 134 for Pacific University. Willamette in these years has put out teams that have outfought and outsmarted Pacific and she is confident that when the 1927 score is added to the following list that Pacific University will be on the short end.

BEARCATS TIE INDIANS IN CLOSE FOUGHT GAME

Practice Game Proves to be Real Thriller in Spite of Drizzling Rain and Mud

Fumbling the ball at every opportunity to score, Willamette was only able to tie Chemawa 6 to 6 last Friday.

The game was played on a muddy field in a drizzling rain so there were many fumbles and forward passes were almost impossible. Although the game was scheduled for practice it turned into a real race for victory when Chemawa made a touchdown in the third quarter after a run of 65 yards and a pass which netted 15 yards.

Willamette showed more spirit than at any other time this year and they went in determined to win. Twice they brought the ball within the 3 yard line but failed to put it over. In the last quarter R. DePoe fell on a Chemawa fumble behind the goal line and tied the score. The Bearcats lost their chance to win when a pass for the extra point was grounded. With only a few minutes to play Hauk put the ball on the 10 yard line by a gain of 30 yards but the ball was lost on a fumble. Cranor and Lang were the principal yardage gainers for Willamette. Lang showed plenty of power and drive, and helped to pile up 13 first downs against the opponents.

to receive the official W sweater for participation in athletics last year: Ruch, track and football; Hauk and Ashby, basketball and baseball; and McKenzie, Lang, Cranor, and Versteeg football.

To receive a sweater a man must not only have qualified by playing the required time in some form of athletics, but he must also have attained sophomore standing in the university.

These sweaters are to be awarded by Coach Keene at chapel on Friday, November 9.

Dr. and Mrs. F. G. Franklin were hosts last night in their new home on Marion street to the writer's section of the Salem Arts League. Dr. and Mrs. Carl Gregg Doney were special guests of the evening. Among the numbers on the program was a story by Dr. Doney entitled "The Woman in the Barn" which he wrote during the past summer. The Franklin home was decorated with chrysanthemums and dahlias. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

ANNUAL HOMECOMING NOW IN FIFTH YEAR

Great Strides in Importance of Event Made Since Beginning in November 1923

Today Willamette university begins to celebrate her fifth annual homecoming. Since its first establishment on November 9 and 10, 1923 the event has grown in importance until it ranks with May day and Freshman Glee among the events of the year. About 800 invitations were sent out in 1923, and many alumni came back to visit their Alma Mater. On Friday night the freshman class sponsored a bonfire rally. The new gymnasium building was dedicated on Saturday afternoon. An exciting game was played between Willamette and Whitman. Although Whitman was victorious, the Bearcats displayed a fighting spirit. On Saturday night everyone attended the Homecoming social.

Because of the success of the first Homecoming, a similar celebration took place again in 1924. The college of Puget Sound won the game with a score of 8 to 0. A circus on Saturday night was the unique part of the entertainment.

Homecoming in 1925 was held on October 30 and 31. The program included the usual fire-works pop rally, breakfast served by the societies in their halls on Saturday morning, the Willamette-Whitman game, and the play, "You and I," given by Theta Alpha Phi.

Last year the program was practically the same as that of the previous Homecomings. Theta Alpha Phi gave the play "You Never Can Tell." The College of Puget Sound was victorious over the Bearcats with a score of 3-6. Two banquets, one given by the W. Club and the other by the Alumni Association, were features of Saturday evening. Each year the number of alumni attending has increased, and every year more elaborate and more successful preparations have been made for their entertainment. This year several new features have been added. On Friday evening there will be a "Collegiate Bedlam." Saturday morning the Y.W.C.A. is serving a breakfast in the Phil hall.

At noon the alumni will be present at their annual luncheon. In the evening the alumni are to be the guests of the hall, the sororities, and the fraternities. Saturday night Theta Alpha Phi is presenting "The Importance of Being Earnest." The annual Homecoming game is with Pacific, and circumstances indicate that many alumni will be "back to beat the Badgers."

ATTENTION! LOYAL ALUMNI!!
Remember now thy Alma Mater in the days of thy prosperity, that the evil days come not when thou shalt say I wish I had done so. Now is a good time to begin to carry out that good resolution made last year at Commencement, to see that your class had a little better representation on the Loyalty Fund this year. Remember that for every $10 paid in now, there will be received by the University from outside moneys, $5.30 to augment the funds. Several classes are making special efforts to head the list this year. Will yours be the one? See Mr. Swafford, Fund Treasurer, or Mr. Sparks, Alumni Secretary, while you are here.

ORGANIZATION PREPARE ALUMNI WELCOME SIGNS

Executive Committee Will Appoint Judges to Award Student Body Cup

The homecoming welcome signs being prepared by the fraternities and sororities and by Lausanne Hall in competition for the cup offered by the student body will be displayed during homecoming week-end at the respective houses, to welcome former Willamette students.

A committee of three faculty members will be appointed by the executive committee to judge the posters. Their decision will be announced and the cup presented soon after homecoming.

TRACK PROSPECTS SHOW CHANCE OF IMPROVEMENT

The prospects for this year's track team point to a better season than last. This is the third year of Northwest conference track and interest is advancing.

It has not been definitely decided where the meet will be held but it will probably go to College of Idaho.

Flesher, last year's captain, will not be able to participate, but there will be several men from last year's squad. Hathaway will be back to run the two mile, McCormack for the mile, Ruch for the javelin, Zeller for the half mile, and Oberson for the weights.

There are several freshmen who will make a bid for places. Among them are Colgan, a sprinter, Marsters, a hurdler, both from Salem HI, and Cardinal, a broad jumper, from Mt. Angel.

DR. TULLY ADDRESSES WESLEYAN LUNCHEON

Pastor Discusses Evidences of Reality of Missionary Problem at Home and Abroad

At the Wednesday luncheon meeting of the Wesleyans, October 26, 1927, Dr. Tully of the First Presbyterian Church discussed with the group the reality of the Missionary problem at home and abroad.

This reality, stated Dr. Tully, is evidenced by the fact that 28,000 workers are in the foreign fields and $45,000,000 are sent during the year toward this cause. At home there are 5,000 people, who during a part of their Christmas vacation, are willing and eager to study this problem.

Willamette University
FOUNDED FEBRUARY 1, 1842
Salem, Oregon

A Christian institution of higher learning. Located at the Capital of the State of Oregon. A beautiful campus opposite the Capitol Building. Buildings and equipment attractive and adequate. Faculty of highest character, preparation and teaching ability. Student body clean, able and wholesome. Scholarship high and credited everywhere. Very inexpensive. Rich in tradition, large and honored list of alumni. Students wishing for work in the Course of Liberal Arts, in Law, in Theology, in Music, or in Fine Art are highly advantaged at Willamette. Closest investigation invited. Bulletins on request.

Dr. Tully gave five points supporting this fact. They are: 1. A Christian experience necessitates that urge to tell it to others. 2. The one universal need of man is the knowledge of Christ in his life. 3. A realization that Christ can do for other races what He has done for ours. 4. There is absolutely no superiority in our race but what was put there by Christ through our experience. 5. God is able.
