Autumn is still with us! How exhilarating are these crisp mornings. Hazy leaves and silvery fogs make the season as exhilarating as usual. However, preceding the formal rush season of literary, we find a tulle in all social activities. Church receptions honoring new students have been the outstanding events of the week.

The Beta Chi Sorority entertained Sunday with a dinner party. A color scheme of red and white was carried out in the dining room. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in music and conversation. Those present were Mrs. Alice H. Dodd, the Misses Jessie Pybus, Ruth Hewitt, Cleo Weddle, Remoh Tryon, Viola Carrier, Helen Arpke, Marjorie Christensen, and the Messrs. Alvin Bond, Charles Nunn, Leroy Hiatt, Frederick Arpke, Lucien Cobb, Quentin Cox and Lewis Lamb.

One of the outstanding events of the week was the Y. W. C. A. recognition service held in the chapel Thursday afternoon.

The service was in the form of a meditation with much music throughout. A solo was sung by Alberta Koontz. They keynote of the afternoon was struck when after forming a procession, each girl symbolized her affiliating with the association by stepping through the Y. W. C. A. triangle and lighting her candle in that of the spirit of the Y. W. C. A. "Follow the Gleam" was sung as the procession made its way about the chapel.

Portland guests over the week-end were Alma White, Lillie Shold, Marguerite Bock, Marian Thomas, Cynthia Pier, Ruth Lent, Edna Wenzel, Ethelyn Kelly.

Elma Kimbrell entertained Miss Fannie Wylie, Miss Ruth Warner and Mrs. Geary Kimbrell, her mother, at dinner last week.

Alpha Psi's Society— Saturday night came. All Alpha Psi, good and otherwise appeared ready for action. When all was ready they betook themselves to the Heilig for their annual Jubilee. And perhaps the management wished ever so slightly that they had chosen some other time. However, they seemed to be behaving themselves with the utmost propriety and really being a credit to their training. The psychological moment had arrived, everyone was sure that there was positively no way out. The moment was—shall we say tense? It was more—much more. Suddenly from the Alpha Psi section came the sound of applause. Some had felt the need of relief from the tension. In deep indignation the manager came to the culprit, and well to make an embarrassing minute short, asked him to leave. Harley was obedient to the words of advice from the powers that were and left.

After such a strenuous evening the members of the house felt the need of an outlet. As the result they staged stunts, and a boxing bout at the house. Like all they had to have everything just as it would be if it were real; therefore they had a feature bout—Geddes against Dan Scheiber. Scheiber took the count in the third round when "Geddy" stuck his thumb in Scheiber's eye. "Tiny" Molstrom's career was terminated when he made his debut in the well known melodrama, "Wild Nell of the Plains."

After which came the refreshments. After that the serenade—for which they sang "Just a Little Drink"—but really meaning all the time "Just a Little Candy."

Leslie Party— Friday night an informal get-acquainted party for Willamette students was given by the Epworth League of Leslie M. E. church. The rooms were tastefully decorated with leaves and streamers. Interesting games were played after which everyone joined in singing Willamette songs. Refreshments consisting of punch and wafers concluded the enjoyable evening.

Jason Lee Party— Saturday night the Epworth League of Jason Lee entertained at an informal reception honoring Willamette students. The evening's fun began with a jolly get-acquainted game after which the 100 merry-makers present were divided into groups and staged entertaining stunts. Refreshments followed the customary grand march, then Rev. Acheson and Royal Mumford gave short talks. An outstanding feature of the party was the spirit of good fellowship which prevailed.

Phis Hear Prof. Matthews— At the regular meeting of the Philodossian Literary Society on Friday afternoon, the first literary program of the season was presented. As an opening number, Marguerite Bridgeman sang in her usual pleasing manner, "The Old Historic Temple." Elaine Chapin followed with an interesting and instructive talk on the history of the society. Of especial interest was Prof. Matthews' reminiscences of his college days as a member of the Philodossian society. Prof. Matthews' membership dates back to 1883, two years after the founding of the society. The program was concluded with a helpful talk by Esther King, on the hopes for the future of the Philodossians.

Alpha Psi Delta announces the pledging of Trygve M. Brantli of Toledo, Oregon.

The Adalantes last Friday made a most interesting study of the Atlantic Monthly. The Atlantic as a magazine, including its origin and history, was presented by Marjory Christensen. Sadie Jo Read read a delightful bit of fiction, and Irene Breithaupt read representative poems from the magazine. The Book Reviews and articles of current thought were presented by Remoh Tryer and Eleanor Merewether. Margaret Wood favored those present with a piano solo.

At the business meeting Margaret Lewis was formally initiated into the society. Several of the new officers were installed and a corresponding secretary was elected.

Mrs. J. H. Irvin of Portland was the guest of Mrs. John Reed at Delta Phi Friday.

Dinner guests at Delta Phi Sunday were: John C. Brougher and Mason Wygant.

Phi Kappa Phi announce the pledging of Frank Girod of Salem, Ore.

Margaret Neer, Jean McAfee, Julia Torrence, and Zella Mulkey were house guests at the Delta Phi this week-end.

Arla Isham and Mabel Platt were in Eugene the past week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Skeen (Ruby Rosenkranz) entertained a group of Willamette alumni and former students at a waffle party in lone, Sunday evening. Guests included Dorothy Owen, Kathryn Crosier, Elva Balsiger, and Don Ryan, and Wendell Balsiger.

Fudge Cake—Three-quarter cupful butter, two cupfuls sugar, four eggs, one cupful milk, two and one-half cupfuls pastry flour, two teaspoonfuls baking powder, one teaspoonful vanilla, three squares unsweetened chocolate, one cupful chopped raisins. Cream the butter and add one cup sugar, continue creaming, beat the egg yolks with the rest of the sugar, add the vanilla and combine the two mixtures. Melt the chocolate over hot water and add to the egg and butter mixture, sift the flour and baking powder together and add alternately with the milk. Chop the raisins and dredge them with a little flour, stir into the batter then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Spread the batter about half an inch thick in well-buttered and floured shallow pans. Bake at 350 degrees. This recipe will make two cakes about twelve inches square. Turn out on the cake cooler and spread with raisin fudge icing.

Once there lived a man who didn't fight with his room mate. He lived alone. "Gee! that prof made me mad," she was remarking. "But I didn't dare disagree with him or contradict him. He gets furious if anyone questions his pet ideas and I've got to make a good grade!"

A dogmatic professor with pedantic ideas! The soul of a woman sold for a cheap "grade." Thinking discouraged. Dogma Supreme! Education!

CHANGE OF DATE FOR NATION CONTEST

Students who plan to submit accounts of their summer work for The Nation's Student-Worker prize contest will be allowed an extension of time. Manuscripts will be accepted up to November 1st instead of October 15th as previously announced.

The first prize is $125, the second $75, and the third $25. The judges are:

Jerome Davis, of the Yale Divinity School, Yale University; William H. Johnston, President of the International Association of Machinists; Florence Kelley, Secretary of the National Consumers' League; Pierpont B. Noyes, President of the Oneida Community; Oswald Garrison Villard, Editor of The Nation.

The contest is open to graduate and under-graduate students, men and women, who were enrolled in some college or university in the spring of 1925, and worked as laborers for at least two months in the summer of 1925.

Contestants must give name, class and college, name and address of employer, and dates of employment; also a name of a member of the faculty of the contestant's school who vouches for his or her eligibility.

Manuscripts must be typewritten and not over 4,000 words in length. The article winning first prize will be published in The Nation. The Nation may accept others for publication, reserving the right to cut the manuscript of any article printed. Winners will be announced and prizes awarded not later than January 1926.

The Nation in an editorial described the purpose of the contest as follows:

"Capital and labor are mere words for too many of us. College students meet them in their text books; occasionally an enterprising instructor takes a class to see a factory in operation; but it is a rare student who knows their problems as only those can who cease to be mere spectators and join the actors.

"An increasing number of students have sought in their vacations or on leaving college to win understanding of the human problems of industry by entering mills and mines as individuals. Some who have tried such direct experience of the labor movement have come out of it disappointed and disillusioned; others have found a new meaning in life. It is to encourage such experiments in facing the realities of industrial America that The Nation has offered these prizes to college students utilizing their summer vacations in this broader education."

COLLEGE PRESIDENTS COMMENT ON FALL REGISTRATION

A general note of optimism is current in the reports on this year's registration received from Methodist colleges and universities by the Church's Board of Education. It was found, generally, that a decrease in enrollment only meant that capacity had been reached and that the policy of registered enrollment was being enforced. The only lament made was for more buildings and equipment to handle the students already on hand.

President Tully C. Knoles, College of the Pacific: "Registration started on September 10 and students are still registering."

President Edward H. Todd, College of Puget Sound: "We opened unusually early this year and students will be enrolling for some days yet. We expect a capacity enrollment. On account of crop conditions many students must register late."

President Carl G. Doney, Willamette University: "Prospects greatly encouraging. Several thousand dollars spent on improving physical plant during the summer. Two new instructors added and two who have been on leave of absence have returned."

BEARCATS WIN FROM MONMOUTH

The last quarter was the best from the standpoint of the Bearcats and of the spectators. Schweining, veteran half, was rushed in, and his experience began to tell right away in results. While he was warming up, Riedell snapped a swift pass to Winslow, who raced across the goal line for the third touch down of the game. Riedell converted the kick. Then Willamette kicked off, and Monmouth returned to the forty yard line. But the teachers were unable to phase the Willamette line, and were forced to punt. With the ball once more in Willamette's possession, Schweining was called upon to carry the ball, and the result was such as to bring shouts of joy from the Willamette section of rooster, and groans from the Monmouth section. He plunged and plodded and kneaded his way through the Monmouth line play after play, until the ball was in striking range again, and then mustering all of his force, he uncorked a mighty plunge that left him over the goal line for the fourth touch-down of the game when the referee blew his whistle. Riedell again converted the kick.

On the kick off, Monmouth returned to the thirty yard line. The teachers launched an aerial attack. Schweining plucked a hard pass out of the air, and bucking through the entire Monmouth team, galloped over the goal line for the last touch-down of the game. Riedell kicked goal.

The Willamette line showed well in the game, and so did the backfield. It was apparent that the Willamette team is still in a somewhat green condition, but it is also apparent that there is material in the squad that makes it look as if Willamette this year has the best chance in a long time to do something that has not yet been done, and that is, whip Whitman in a foot ball contest. There is a keener fighting spirit in the team this year than has been manifested in a long time, and about the only part of the machine that has fallen down so far is that composed of the roosters. There were scarcely 25 Bearcats on hand to witness the game, which was one of the best for a long time. But the team showed such promise in the game of developing into a winning aggregation that it is expected that those who did see the game will be enthusiastic in spreading the report, and at the Alumni game this Saturday, a large crowd is expected.

COURSES MANY AT KIMBALL

Professor Andrews comes to Kimball from Helena, Montana, where he has been working as supervisor of Religious Education in the Montana Conference of the Methodist church for the past four years. He has been constantly in the field, organizing and conducting training schools in Religious Education throughout the Conference.

Professor Andrews has his A. B. from Lawrence College and S. T. B. from Boston University, and has taken special work in the University of Chicago during the past summer. This, with his practical experience, makes him eminently fitted to fill the Religious Education chair at Kimball.

Besides his work at Kimball, Professor Andrews has been appointed under the Board of Education of the Methodist Church as Director of Religious Education in the Oregon Conference, and will spend as much time as possible in actual field work. He plans to conduct 12 standard training schools for religious education in the Conference during the coming year.

The program which Professor Andrews is undertaking is in accord with the policy of Kimball School, which is "to conduct the college class room with the field, and to make the resources of the school available to the local churches, for their educational program." Methodist Episcopal church. He expects to present important matters in regard to the present expanding program of Kimball School.

On Friday, October 3, President Heckman met with the Board of Trustees of Kimball School, in Portland, to present a report of plans for the year's work, preparatory to his eastern conference.

NEEDED BOOKS NOW AVAILABLE

(Continued from page 1) Three volumes, a new life of Abraham Lincoln by Barton Browne, A Short History of the Jews; Barnes, History of the Social Sciences; and Harlow, Growth of the United States.

This is only a very small sample of the new books. Very ones are arriving every day on a wide range of interest. Look them up. The largest gift of wholly usable books was made recently by Professor Mathews who donated seventy-five volumes from his private library. They include besides many useful works in various branches of mathematics, books on philosophy, ethics, social problems, religion and kindred subjects.

Miss Melton has contributed her copy of Music and Musicians. Dr. S. A. Brown of Portland, The House of Israel. The subscription to the Christian Science Monitor has been renewed by Mrs. Hortman of Portland. Other gifts have been made during the past few months of similar nature.

"LIGHTNIN'"

At last, the most popular success in the history of the American stage, the comedy "Lightnin'"—which broke all long-run records by staying three years at the Gaiety Theatre, New York, almost ten years at the Blackstone in Chicago, and seven months at the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston—at last, after five years, "Lightnin'" will be seen here for an engagement of one night, Wednesday evening, October 14th.

In "Lightnin'" Bill Jones, the character from which the comedy takes its title, the authors, Frank Bacon and Winchell Smith, have created a stage portrait that will live in the memory of theatre goers for years to come. "Lightnin'" is a veteran of the Civil War, a country loafer of the good old American kind, and the owner of a large and lasting thirst. He is the sort of man the whole world loves because of his faults; his lying, his misrepresentations, his ability to tell the tallest kind of a story, his shiftiness, are all reprehensible faults in themselves and in the majority of people. But in old Bill Jones they are simply the weaknesses of a human being who wins the love and sympathy of all who know him. Most of us love these friends who have normal human failings, and for this reason everyone who sees "Lightnin'" Bill on the stage is going to love him.

Through his faults, "Lightnin'" works himself into trouble that culminates in the divorce court, and also through these same faults he works himself out of his troubles, and yet there is no manifestation of reform. The final curtain falls on the same "Lightnin'" that the first act introduces.

The title role will be played here by Thomas Jefferson, who was chosen as the logical successor of the late Frank Bacon, by Mr. Bacon himself before his death.

During the San Francisco run at the Capitol Theatre, Mr. Jefferson, playing this role was the talk of the town, and he will be surrounded by the same superb cast of players who contributed so notably to the success of "Lightnin'" during the long New York run. This includes Mrs. Frank Bacon, Bessie Bacon, Frank Thornton, Myles McCarthy, Jack Marvix, Felix Haney, Margaret Miller, Robert Lowe, James Worsley, Ethan Allen, Nellie Keller, William Wagner and Genevieve Lyle.

He was fond of philosophizing. One day at the club, it was about the beauties of nature. "Seems to me that Mother Nature has provided for every contingency," he said. "What prompts that reflection?" asked one of those who had the misfortune to be near him. "Why," answered Muggins, "look at the way she has placed our ears. Yet a million years ago she didn't know that we were going to hook spectacles over them."

I'D LOVE TO SIT AND DREAM

"And as I stood there marveling at the sight, a man, much stricken with great age approached me, and spoke thusly. 'I am even Dean Clark. Your puzzlement has moved me to compassion, and I shall explain the phenomenon which you now observe. 'Many thousand years ago, in 1925, I was moved to enter the field of research. I wanted to try the efficacy of heat as a preservative to displace embalming. 'So, as the students stood here singing, I madeth the room so hot that they were all stifled, and you see, here they stand yet, in perfect condition. But I must needs haste me away and fire the furnace.' 'And lo, he was gone.'"

And when I awaketh me from my dream, it was late, even unto the eleventh hour of the night. And everyone had left. And as I gazed about me in the darkened room of study, I beheldeth only a bright glow that outlined the form of the radiator.

That charming youthful blush on the cheek of the young fraternity pledge—maybe Mother Nature didn't have so much to do with it after all. At least, Mrs. Helen Cook, supervisor of the national school of cosmetology announces that more and more men now come to the beauty parlors. Their desire is "rouge." Some enterprising advertiser may soon come out with the plea, "Keep that school-boy complexion. Use our dainty glow rouge."
