VOLUME XXIX. NO. 21

WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY, SALEM, OREGON, APRIL 10, 1918.

PRICE: FIVE CENTS

SEASON OPENED BY GAMES WITH O. A. C. AND U. O.

Corvallis Score Is 5 to 2 Against Varsity and Friday's Was 14 to 1

TEAM HAS POSSIBILITIES

Wapato Secures Two Bag Hit; McKittrick Holds to First; Many Play First College Game But Have the Stuff; O. A. C. Uses 3 Pitchers.

Coach Mathews journeyed to Corvallis Saturday with his ball tappers and there held the Aggies to a 5 to 2 victory.

A large crowd watched the first baseball game of the season last Friday when the hard-hitting University of Oregon nine won from the local varsity by a 14 to 1 score.

Dimick did the twirling for the Bearcat nine at Corvallis and showed good headwork at his new position, allowing 6 hits, fanning 6, and walking only 2. O. A. C. used three pitchers, Coleman showing the most stuff on the ball.

The diamond was rough and overgrown with grass making it difficult to play on. Wapato and Waltz wielded the stick with the greatest success, Waltz securing two safe hits while "Wap" poled out the longest hit of the game. Dimick and Waltz brought in the two runs for Willamette.

Friday's game with the university of Oregon was the first game of the season for both teams, and a lack of practice was shown on both sides although the Oregon team had the advantage of earlier spring training.

Berg, for the winners, pitched a good game and proved hard for the local boys to locate. He pitched a steady consistent game and never allowed himself to be worked into a pinch.

The Oregon slabmen banged pitchers Brewster and Spies freely. The heavy hitting of the Oregon team was prominent throughout the game.

Wapato poled out the only hit of the game for the local team. McKittrick covered the first sack in big league style and helped to hold the young bloods steady. Dimick played his usual cool headed game although he failed as did the rest in connecting with the ball.

This was the first varsity game for many of the players and a creditable showing was made considering the short time they have been training. The weather was ideal and the diamond was in the best of condition.

BOND DRIVES AT W. U.

Willamette Is Asked to Do Her Part Towards $3,000,000,000.

In the interest of the third Liberty Loan Dr. E. N. Avison came to chapel Tuesday morning and sounded a strong appeal to the students to give all the help to the government that lay within their power.

Dr. Avison stated that the Willamette boys may be in the trenches now from reports that have come from good sources.

The committee for Willamette is composed of Dr. Avison and Dean Geo. H. Alden. These men are lining up all of the students and faculty to find just where they stand.

GEN. ODELL WELCOMED

Aged Friend of Willamette in Chapel With His Wife.

General W. H. Odell, for many years president of the board of trustees, came to chapel last Friday and greeted the students. His wife, a former preceptress of Lausanne hall, also spoke. The general at the present age of 96 has the memory of many years of service to Willamette and the Oregon country.

NOMINATIONS ON THURS. APRIL 18

Absence of Glee Club Men Makes Change Necessary; Date One Day Earlier

Candidates for Student Officers Will Be Named at This Time and Election Comes in Two Weeks.

At the regular meeting of the executive committee Tuesday it was deemed advisable to hold the nominations of candidates for the student body officers a day earlier than the constitution regularly provides. This will bring the nominations on Thursday, April 18 and the election will be two weeks from that date. The spring tour of the glee club which will take many of the men away was the chief reason for the action.

SOLDIERS NEED BOOKS

Volumes in Great Variety are Desired to Give Men Something to Read.

The American Library Association needs at least a million books to meet the actual needs of the soldiers. This association has erected libraries each of which accommodates from 10,000 to 15,000 volumes and from 175 to 250 readers, in thirty-four of the large camps. All kinds of books from novels to text books on mathematics can be used in these camp libraries. The Salem public library will be glad to take charge of books for this purpose.

HARRY BOWERS ILL.

Harry Bowers, president of the student body of Willamette university, is ill at his home in Salem. He was unable to be present at the Freshman Glee, in which he was to be a soloist.—Statesman.

SALVATIONIST WILL LECTURE.

Captain Miller of the Salem Salvation Army will lecture before the church history class at Kimball college tomorrow.

PUGET SOUND IS DEFEATED 2 TO 1

Debate in Waller Hall Is Full of Fight and Question Is Well Handled

Closes Season of Successful Debates for Willamette Teams; New Material Makes Progress

Willamette's debate team upheld its reputation by defeating the College of Puget Sound by a 2 to 1 decision in the chapel Friday, March 29.

The question was, "Resolved, that the United States should adopt the essential features of the New Zealand system of arbitration for labor disputes." Otto Paulus and Miss Myrtle Mason, for Willamette, upheld the affirmative, and Mr. Geoghegan and Miss Shaeckleford, for Puget Sound, the negative.

A fair sized crowd was present, despite conflicts, the front section of the chapel being filled entirely with Willamette students who made the air reverberate with college songs and yells for several minutes before the debate began.

The debate was hard fought and a close contest from start to finish. The affirmative pointed to the urgency of present war conditions and urged the acceptance of the measure as a matter of war expediency. The negative rejoined that this was a measure for both peace and war times, that it would not operate successfully in the time of peace and furthermore would be very difficult to put in operation in the United States at all. Both teams showed well in constructive argument but the local debaters excelled in delivery and rebuttal. However, Puget Sound put up a hard fight and did it well.

Before the debate Miss Faye Pratt pleased the audience with a piano solo, and Miss Margarette Wible and Miss Venita McKinney charmed all with a vocal duet. Miss Ethel Hansen played two piano solos while the decisions were pending.

Prof. William A. Darden presided, and the judges were Hon. Walter H. Evans, Hon. J. O. Stearns, and Prof. A. P. McKinley, all of Portland.

ZOELLNER QUARTET CONCERT

As a last number on the Salem Lyceum course the Willamette students holding tickets, were entertained by the Zoellner string quartet at the armory April 1.

The selections played by the quartet included classical pieces centuries old and music of a more modern origin. Especially will those present remember the interpretation of an Indian war dance and the sighing of a bog.

Y. W. HAS ABLE LEADER.

The Y. W. C. A. meeting Thursday afternoon was indeed a most interesting and helpful one. Mrs. George Alden had charge of the meeting, choosing as her subject "The College Woman and the Hour." Her talk was very vital for the time and gave each girl a deeper insight into her responsibilities and opportunities for service during this critical period.

CARLTON SMITH SAYS HIT THEM

Physician Sounds Note of Energetic Patriotism in Monday's Chapel

National Army Made Up of Finest Men to America, Says Captain W. Carlton Smith Formerly of Salem

"I have been in six of the great cantonments and I have found the men there to be the finest bunch of men in the world. Men who live but to conquer and who will conquer."

These are the words of Capt. W. Carlton Smith, formerly one of the leading physicians of Salem, who came to chapel Monday morning and told in no uncertain terms of his observations since his entry into army medical work 10 months previous.

"There is no sentimentality in this war," said Captain Smith. "If I am on the field and I find two men, one with his arm shot to pieces and one only slightly wounded it is my duty to render aid to the slightly wounded man first because he can be made of value as a fighting man at the front. In civilian life this would not be so. In this army work I have found that a physician is 90 per cent soldier."

Speaking of the spirit manifest in the drafted men the captain said, "Don't tell the drafted men that they are insincere."

"Many of you men here before me this morning will be called into the service. And the women they always help. When everyone shall have sacrificed friends, family and money, they will fight to a finish."

"There is," said Captain Smith, "no such word as peace in the dictionary for us now. Don't let anyone talk peace to you now. If any man utters sedition concerning our cause don't wait for the government to take a hand, hit him over the head with a baseball bat. How much chance do you think you would have in Germany? If some of these people are not careful, for they are being watched, there will be the most unique Christmas presents hanging on the trees hereabouts that men have ever seen."

Dr. Smith was formerly a student in Willamette and his grandfather graduated in the first class from the medical college and his father in the second. Three cousins also attended this same school.

SENIORS LEAD CHAPEL MARCH

Caps and Gowns Make Formal Debut and Are in Order Now Until June

Line of March Includes Capitol Grounds, Wide Streets and Maneuvers on the Campus.

The annual senior chapel march was held last Friday morning at the chapel hour. This celebrated the first appearance of the class of '18" in cap and gown.

Faculty of Willamette university and Kimball college, wearing caps and gowns also, headed the procession. It started from Eaton hall, and went into the chapel room. Devotions were conducted by Professor Matthews, after which Dr. Chace played the march. Seniors went in double file to State street, followed by the classes in descending order.

The long line, marshalled by Mrs. Gertrude Shisler, was guided by Nellie Beaver and Lilla Packenham.

"My dad has a hickory leg."

"That's nothing, my sister has a cedar chest."—Orange Peel.

Alpheus J. Gillette '17 was on the campus for a short time Tuesday.

WEBS LEARN OF EASTER

Fisher, Aldrich, Sterling and Curtis Have Appropriate Themes.

In keeping with the Easter season, the Webs gave a Jewish program, Wednesday night, March 27. Robin Fisher gave a talk on the "Jewish people," and Frederick Aldrich considered "Easter customs." Paul Sterling gave a vocal solo, and Ralph Curtis spoke on the "Holy Land." Parliamentary practice was conducted by Royal Moore.

PHILS FEATURE STUNT

Mutt and Jeff Vividly Portrayed by Tasker and Thomas.

An unusual program was staged by the Philodorian at their last meeting. Warren Slabaugh and Waldo Marsters played an instrumental duet. The distinguishing feature of the program was an interpretation of the classic characters "Mutt and Jeff" by Ralph Thomas and Homer Tasker. The drollery of Thomas (Mutt) combined with the ingenious tricks of Tasker (Jeff) for replenishing his exhausted exchequer were delightfully suggestive of the characters they impersonated. Tasker's "heavy role" was a wonder of the evening.

EARLY HISTORY IS DESCRIBED

Gen. Odell Reviews Pioneer Days in Willamette Valley; Several Other Speakers

Six o'Clock Club Closes Season's Work With Interesting Program; Steeves Toastmaster.

Early history of Salem and of Western Oregon and of Willamette university was reviewed by speakers familiar with the facts at the last meeting of the Salem Six o'Clock club held in the parlors of the First Methodist church when a supper was served by the ladies.

Dr. B. L. Steeves, acting as toastmaster for the occasion presided over the meeting, which opened with invocation by President H. J. Talbot, and a vocal solo by Miss Louise Benson.

The principal address of the evening was made by General W. H. Odell, who under the subject "Looking Backward," spoke in a reminiscent vein of the galaxy of early day religious heroes—ministers, bishops and missionaries of the Methodist church—who not only labored to build up a spiritual structure in the Willamette valley, but were important factors in education and industrial development of the country.

The series of toasts and the speakers were as follows:

"My Relations With Early Methodists"—John H. Albert.

"First Church and the Pioneers"—George P. Litchfield.

"Were the Former Days Better Than These?"—A. N. Moores.

"There Were Giants in Those Days"—A. A. Lee.

"The Personnel of an Old Time Prayer Meeting"—Miss Mary E. Reynolds.

"Old Willamette"—Professor J. T. Matthews.

"Then and Now"—Dr. R. N. Avison.

JUNIORS WIN GLEE PENNANT IN BIG CONTEST

Admission Nets Over Eighty Dollars for the University Auxiliary Red Cross

SONGS ARE ALL GOOD

Freshmen Take Second and Seniors Third; Decorations Simple But Effective; Class Rivalry Runs High At All-School Event

Juniors trained by Miss Margarette Wible won the tenth annual Freshman Glee before a large crowd in the armory Wednesday night, April 3.

The freshmen won second and the seniors third place. The words of the winning song, "Willamette's Spring Song," were written by Miss Helen Goltra, the music by Miss Mickey. This is the second prize-winning song written by Miss Goltra. Too much praise cannot be given the authors for their efforts and ability, especially since it was agreed that all the songs were much better than average this year. This song was given first place by all the judges on words and music, and all felt that the victory was well earned.

The freshmen were strongest in rendition, J. Fred McGrow proving equal to the difficult task of directing them, and bringing out the effective shadings and tones. Miss Fay Peringer and Miss DeLong produced a lively song with an unusually effective chorus. The senior song "To Arms, Willamette," was written by Miss Edith Bird and composed by Miss Esther Cox. The song ably expresses the spirit of patriotism shown by Willamette. The words of the sophomore song "Stay by Old Willamette," were written by Miss Ethel Fogg, and the music by Miss Marie Largent and Miss Beth Briggs. The chorus is especially pretty. The judges in making their decision stated that the songs were of almost equal merit, and also that they all were far better than the songs of former years. More interest was also taken by the classes as a whole, and as a result the rendition was of a high order.

The glee itself was conducted in a manner which reflects credit on the freshman class and on Manager Davies and his assistants. The program was carried out without a hitch and there were no long waits. A feature of the entertainment was the entrance of the seniors in their caps and gowns. After a few appropriate remarks by Davies, the program was opened with a solo by Archie Smith, who later responded to an encore. The senior and junior songs were followed by a clever reading by Miss Mabel Garrett. The sophomore and freshmen songs followed in quick succession. While the judges' decisions were being totaled the audience was entertained by several selections by the ladies glee club.

Of particular interest to outsiders was the peculiar Willamette custom of expressing the good-natured rivalry between the classes in song. A diversion occurred when Brewster arose to demonstrate the fact that the seniors' hope was "slim." The absent soldier boys and Dr. Doney were also remembered.

Professor James T. Matthews announced the result of the competition in his usual delightful manner. The pennant offered by the freshmen was then displayed and awarded to Miss Lella Johnson, representing the junior class. The pennant is of felt, with cardinal background, and the words "Freshman Glee," "W. U." and "1921" in gold letters. Following the presentation the winning song was resung amid great applause.

EVERY FRESHMAN GLEE.

For ten years the Collegian has been labeling each Freshman Glee as the greatest ever held at Willamette. In the first instance this was true beyond a doubt. Now fact is needed to back the statement.

Each glee is composed of three essentials: Songs; people and spirit. This year four songs of a higher order were produced, the judges will attest to that. The people in the armory were greater in number than could ever attend a glee in the chapel or in the church and they contributed over eighty dollars to the Red Cross because of their anticipation of the goodness of the glee. They have never been outdone by any crowd attending a glee. Can anyone disprove that statement? If you can the Collegian would be glad to hear from you.

Even if it were true that the spirit at the glee was weak and not up to our point that it was the greatest glee would be proven. For two of the essentials were the best ever. But the spirit was not weak and it was up to our point. The spangled armory was drunk with class spirit and college pep and the dauntless exuberance of youth. Such spirit never before existed because there never was such a glee. The freshmen have reason to be proud. This does not disparage those which have been held in the past, for under favorable conditions each glee should be an improvement over the last, and the one held next spring will be expected to excel the one held Wednesday.

Several students have stated that they had not fully appreciated the university and what it meant to them until after the Freshman Glee. It shows Willamette at its best.

SOCIETY

An April Fool program was given by Adelantes last Friday. The program on the poster read as follows: Piano Solo Mabel Boughey
Mob Psychology Evelyn Reigelman
Interpretative Fairy Dance

When the Adelantes gathered in the hall and the program was given it proved somewhat different from the way it was represented on the poster. Instead of a piano solo, Miss Boughey gave a reading, and instead of an interpretative fairy dance Miss Bolin played a piano solo. It seems the Adelantes were April fooled but they don't like to own up to it.

Saturday evening the jolly inmates of Old Lausanne sallied forth to Bush's pasture, there to enjoy a most delightful supper around a roaring fire. After the sizzling weinies, the steaming coffee, et cetera, had been consumed, these care-free coeds roamed through the forest and strolled over the hill in search of the flowers of spring, with which to brighten up the dreary, dull, dark rooms of their darksome dwelling place.

Miss Maude Maclean spent the week-end at Woodburn.

Sunday evening, Miss Gertrude Dillard returned to the hall again after an absence of almost two weeks. She spent the time at her home in Roseburg.

The members of the Qualitative Analysis class congregated at the home of Miss Fay Wells Monday evening for another of their good times. The evening was spent in playing progressive peanuts. After every one had scientifically learned how to remove one peanut without disturbing two, war eats were served. Those present were Prof. and Mrs. Von Eschen, the Misses Bernice

Without doubt, the junior class had reason to be the most jubilant as a result of the Freshman Glee decision last Wednesday evening. At the conclusion of the glee, the members of the junior class adjourned to the home of Miss Helen Goltra on Court street where the victory of the evening was royally celebrated. The newly attained Freshman Glee pennant was the center of attraction as well as being a part of the decorative scheme. Places were laid at daintily appointed tables for the members of the class and their guests. Clever place cards of music notes were used. Following this unusually happy feast of fellowship, Homer Tasker acted as toastmaster at which time all those who were instrumental in making the junior song responded with interesting toasts. Tasker's remarks were exceptionally clever and witty. Professor W. A. Darden was the first to respond with a toast on "What's the Use." The practical uses as well as the social uses were instilled in the minds of the juniors by the professor. As the author of the winning words, Miss Helen Goltra was given the subject "Springtime, Lovers, Poetry" to discuss. Here again Miss Goltra displayed her literary talents when she read a very clever parody of the junior song as her toast to the class. Although there was no ragtime in the music, Miss Mae Mickey spoke about "The Ethics of Ragtime" giving humorous incidents for and against ragtime. "Our Interpretive Abilities" was discussed by Miss Marguerite Wible. This subject applied to all of the class both individually and collectively. The latest newcomer in the ranks of the class, John W. Sutherland, responded to the toast "My Class." Miss Lella Johnson, president of the class, spoke in behalf of those members, who were neither poetically or musically inclined, on the subject of "The Rest of Us." Professor and Mrs. W. A. Darden were the chaperones of the happy occasion. After singing the prize song and other class songs, the class dispersed truthfully saying: "In spring at Old Willamette, How good it is to live."

The spirit of fun reigned supreme at the senior party after the Freshman Glee, Wednesday evening. Instead of adding dignity to the occasion, the caps and gowns proved an impetus for jolly informality. The class gathered at the Spa where they enjoyed a special. The Misses Bird, Cox and McCaddam, the composers and director of the senior song, respectively, responded with informal talks. Later some of the class wandered to the home of Harold Eakin where the evening was spent with music.

Saturday evening, the Adelante literary society royally entertained their brother society, the Websterians, at a "Good Luck" party in the society rooms. The halls were extensively decorated with many of the symbols of good luck as four leaf clovers and gilded horseshoes. A basket of flowers on the center table was crowned with a large gold wishbone. The guests were met at the door by Miss Genevieve Yankke who distributed the programs for the evening's fun. These were blue swastikas with decorations in gold.

"Wish Your Neighbor Luck" was indicated by the program as the first stunt of the evening. At this time Dr. Chace presided at the piano and entertained with original productions using the initials of those present in making his theme. Besides making use of the initials, he made the music very characteristic of the individuals concerned. "Try Your Luck" was the cause for much excitement. Having been previously instructed, every one came prepared for the game. Each person present had a small article of small worth with which he was willing to part. The gifts were passed around permissuously, the aim of the game being to get the best package available. Several moments of keen expectation were noticeable when the word was given to open the conglomerate assortment of presents. Everything from toys to "Don't Marry" signs were among the collection. "Luck to the Clever" was a game of charades. Sleever interpretations of the most common English words were enacted by the two competing sides. At the conclusion of this game, refreshments were served by the committee in charge. Partners for this were obtained by the matching of queerly cut horse shoes. The four new songs of the recent Freshman Glee were inaugurated into practical use, everyone taking part and making the halls ring with "That's the Old Fight." Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. Chace were the chaperones for the first formal of the semester. The committee who planned the party were: Misses Blanche Baker, Elizabeth Tebben, Margarette

Wible, and Messrs. Arlie Walker, Russell Rarey, and Paul Flegel.

The Adelantes were musically inclined on Friday, March 29. Music of all kinds was discussed and some of the best glee. The program began with a piano solo by Miss Florence Scheurle. Miss Ruth Spoor discussed the Freshman Glee, but she did not confine it to the present one. She spoke of the past and the possible future of Freshman Glee.

Miss Rita Hobbs told about music in the trenches. She made it clear that music as well as food will help win the war.

There was an extemporaneous debate on the question: "Resolved, that rag time music excels classical music in real musical worth." The affirmative was upheld by Miss Mildred Johnson, and the negative by Miss Lella Johnson. The audience was thoroughly convinced by both arguments.

Following the program was a short social hour during which the Adelantes told Miss Teresa Fowle good-bye and gave their best wishes for her success.

The camouflage poster, which aroused such curiosity, and which nearly made the students cross-eyed in their vain attempts at deciphering it, was a worthy forerunner of the entire Philodorian program, a week ago last Friday afternoon. The first number (which paraded under the nom-de-plume of Rhythical Writhings) was a piano solo by Laura Arenz, and was executed with as much ease and grace as its pseudonym had suggested torture and suffering. April Fool's Family Tree, as depicted by Mary Paroungian, proved to have its roots 'way down in the dim ages of the past and to have spread its branches out to all countries. The fruits of this tree (April Fool customs) were also described in a most interesting way. The Vociferous Vocalists, Fannie McKennon and Evelyn DeLong, appeared as shy country lad and lassie, who won not only each other's hearts, but the hearts of all their audience, as well. The paper on Willamette April Fools, read by Fay Peringer, delved into the secrets of the past and told of some of those pranks from which our school has suffered on the first of April in years gone by. Then this program showed its super-excellence by ending with a climax. The Flighty Company, composed of a public speaker (Gaylds Nichols), a musician (Glenna Teeters), and a poet (Litha Packenham) took the stage and proceeded to entertain the Philodorian by playing a very clever and very surprising April Fool joke on some of the younger members of the society.

The glee was well attended, and the crowd showed keen appreciation of the program. The admissions netted $87.40 for the Red Cross. Credit is due the head usher, Royal Moore, for the efficient manner in which the crowd was handled. The students occupied the canted section, and the wings and balcony were filled with spectators.

A record of the event would not be complete without mention of the artistic decorations, the result of the prodigious efforts of Edwin Socolofsky and the decorating committee. Cardinal and gold streamers were hung in effective patterns about the hall, and the stage was transformed into a fairy bower by the use of the streamers and pennants overhead and ivy and ferns at the foot. The words "Freshman Glee" were printed in letters of ivy at the back of the stage.

The music from the science hall during a recent week would lead one to believe that Professor Peck's students were making up back notes in laboratory.

A great many Willamette students are taking advantage of the spring vacation at U. of O. and are spending a week at home.

The baseball season opened with a fine showing of new hats on the bleachers—we refer to the benches.

It was not McGrew's fault that the freshman song was not a motion song.

If These were YOUR Children

—you would give your last ounce of flesh and your last drop of blood to protect them from the Demon Hun.

The menace is real. The Hun Spectre actually approaches.

Your peace—your freedom—the safety of your loved ones—is threatened.

Today, Uncle Sam asks for the loan of your money so this menace may be forever destroyed—that we may again have "Peace on Earth and Good Will Toward Men."

It's a glorious privilege that Uncle Sam extends to you—to do effective fighting "behind the lines."

Take advantage of it—gladly—enthusiastically— anxiously. Loan your money—on the best security on earth, the United States of America—for the greatest cause in the world's history.

Any banker will give you the advice and assistance necessary for you to do this, YOUR share—so small, yet so quickly and urgently needed.
