CLASSES ORGANIZED.

The Academy Classes Have All Foamed Class Organ- izations.

In response to the call of the editor of the Annual, the Academy classes have all perfected organizations. At each class meeting deep interest was shown in the Annual, and each organization has pledged its loyal support to the enterprise.

—1907.—

The Senior Academy Class has elected the following officers: President, R. Glover; Vice-President, Miss Belle Crouse; Secretary and Treasurer, Miss Nellie Swafford; Historian, L. H. Whiteman. A committee composed of Misses Lewis and Laufman and Mr. Henry Keyes was appointed to confer with the Annual Board concerning matters of interest to the class.

—1908.—

The intermediate Academy Class also held a rousing meeting, at which class spirit was at a high pitch. The officers elected were: President, Mr. Osmar Wolf; Vice-President, Miss Besie Cornelius; Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Humphreys; Historian, Miss Holmstrom.

—1909.—

The class of 1909, which is the largest in the school, held a spirited meeting. The attendance was good and the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, Wm. Moyer; Vice-President, Miss M. Glover; Secretary, John Phillips; Treasurer, Miss Stone; Historian, John Reichen; Poet, Miss Emily Moyer; Artist, Fisher.

The big game between Harvard and Yale will take place November 22 on the Yale field.

FOOT BALL.

The Willamette Boys Go Down Before the Red Skins by a Score of 21 to 0.

The game between Willamette and Chemawa played last Saturday at Chemawa, was the hardest game that the Willamette boys have experienced this season.

In the beginning of the game Chemawa kicked off to Willamette. The ball was downed on Willamette's 5-yard line. The first play, resulting in a fumble, the ball rolled across the boundary, where it was taken possession of by a Red Skin. Chemawa failing to kick the goal, made the score at the end of the first minute of the game, 5 to 0 in favor of Chemawa. This not only cheered Chemawa on to play harder, but discouraged Willamette. Willamette then kicked off to Chemawa, and Chemawa, by a series of line bucks and end runs, soon brought the ball to Willamette's 25-yard line. Here Willamette gained possession of the ball on a fumble, and after a few short gains lost it again on downs. Chemawa, once more gaining possession of the ball, kept it the remainder of the first half, making two more touchdowns and leaving the score at the end of the first half 16 to 0 in their favor.

The second half was much more closely contested. The Willamette boys entered in it with a determination of holding their combatants. Several times they had the ball, but on account of the lack of team work, a result of their not practicing faithfully for the last week, they were not able to hold it long enough to make a score. The result of the last half was 5 to 0 in favor of Chemawa, making the total score 21 to 0.

This game very plainly illustrated to the players of Willamette's team the necessity of continual and faithful practice. The playing of a few individuals, such as the work of Marquam and Young, whose work on the defensive is worth mentioning, shows that it is not material but team work that is wanted to make Willamette's foot ball team a winning one.

The boys all returned from Chemawa with the determination of making next week's practice a good one. And if their determination is carried out, there is no doubt the game to be played with the O. A. C. next Saturday will be one of interest to those who see it.

Baker University, Kansas, has already reached an enrollment of 603, and the Baker Orange, the mouthpiece of the Student Body of that institution, comes out singing a merry song.

Members of the alumni, old students, new students, and all others interested in the prosperity and success of the paper and "Old Willamette" are invited to contribute. Address all communications to the Editor-in-Chief.

Entered at the postoffice at Salem as second class matter.

THE eleventh annual state convention of the Young Woman's Christian Association has come and gone. It has proven to be of great profit to all who were privileged to be delegates, and we are sure it will be of profit to all the colleges of the state.

These gatherings speak well for the young womanhood of the state. Among the members of the Y. W. C. A. are to be found the most intellectual women of our colleges. Such a gathering, though it means much work for the entertaining association, can not fail to be of immense benefit through the contact in Christian work with the best womanhood to be found.

It has been a great pleasure to have these visiting delegates among us. We hope they have enjoyed the convention as much as we have.

Unsatisfactory—"You should be a little more explicit in your statements," said the editor to the new reporter as he glanced over a batch of copy. "Here you say that the Hon. J. Edward Cashly, who has been under the care of three physicians during the past ten days is now out of danger." "Well, isn't that plain enough?" queried the new pencil rusher. "Certainly not," replied the autoerat of the sanctum.

"How is the uninitiated reader to know whether the Hon. J. Edward is on the high road to recovery, or dead and out of reach of the three physicians?"

NAME CONTEST.

Give the Annual a Name—Notice for Contributors.

The Annual Board opens today a "Suggestion contest," by which it hopes to obtain a suitable and appropriate name for the 1903 Year Book.

1. This contest is open to all students matriculated in the Academy or in any of the colleges affiliated with the Willamette University. Members of the Faculty of these colleges can also take part in the contest.

2. Each contestant shall be entitled to two suggestions.

3. Suggestions must be placed in sealed envelopes bearing the initials of the contestants own name.

4. The board reserves the right to reject any and all suggestions.

5. To the student or number of students making the suggestion of the name which will be adopted by the board, a complimentary copy of the Annual will be presented.

6. Hand in all suggestions to the editor in chief or to the business manager.

7. In your selection of a name for the Annual bear in mind that Old Willamette is the oldest collegiate institution in Oregon.

8. The contest closes two weeks from date.

All literary contributions for the Annual should be written with pen and ink. Grinds, witticisms, jokes, puns, poems, etc., should bear the name of the writer. The author's name will not necessarily be published, but should the article be of special worth the board desires to give credit to whom it is due.

All illustrations are in all cases to be distinctly original.

Wash and pen drawings must be given special care and must be drawn on good, substantial card board. Common pencil sketches will not be considered, for they can not be reproduced advantageously.

Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. week of prayer was duly observed last week. The ten-minute noon-day prayer meetings were characterized by a large attendance, keen interest and the presence of the Holy Spirit.

This is a red letter year in the history of Willamette Y. M. C. A. It is larger and better organized than ever before. Definite work is being done by somebody, as the following figures will show: Number of men in College of Liberal Arts about 90; number of active members in association 66; associate members 4; total 70. Or approximately 80 per cent of men in college and yet the field is by no means thoroughly worked. The Bible classes are organized and this week begin work in earnest. Total number of men in all classes 22.

Make your plans to attend the State Convention at Newberg the first of December.

The Orderly, of Hill Military Academy, for October, 1902, is a welcome visitor. The little magazine is published monthly by the senior class, and presents a neat appearance.

Well, we are to have a new woodshed at last.

Let us not forget the debate and the oratorical.

Prof. Hawley returned from Denver Wednesday.

Pres. Coleman, preached at Roseburg, Sunday, Nov. 9.

Miss Jennie Jones of Brooks, visited Chapel Monday.

Captain Mathews is certainly a star of the first magnitude.

The Faculty had rather a long session Wednesday evening.

We have been sorely afflicted with Chapel marches lately.

There is nothing wrong with the genial manager of the "Juniors."

Forrest Belknap, a former student, was a Chapel visitor Monday.

Why is it that Coach Moser always goes to sleep in class on Mondays?

Gen. Odell, president of the Board of Trustees, was at Chapel Nov. 6.

Poorman spends his time while in the Library studying the Delineator.

Miss Mildred and Mrs. Looney of Jefferson, visited Chapel Friday Nov. 7.

And so it was left to the "Scrubs" to win first honors for Willamette this year.

The conduct of certain of the students at the Monday night lectures could and should be greatly improved. Will you ever cease to be "kids?"

Prof. Wiley, principal of the Jefferson schools, with his wife, visited Chapel Friday, Nov. 7.

Miss Alma Pohle, I. G. Martin and L. L. Clark, all former students, have registered recently.

Say, fellows, that hissing noise in the Chapel before the opening of the exercises is not necessary at all.

The arrangements for the debate between the "Freshies" and "Sophs" have not yet been completed.

One of Willamette's bright students recently went down to the Salem Woolen Mill Store to buy a book.

The Misses Adkins, Prouty, Sears, Crawford, Clark, Lundgren, Bigsby and Riteman were Chapel visitors Nov. 6.

Sylvia Metcalf, Kate Ridings, Grace Dayton and Alma Gover, graduates of the Normal Department, visited Chapel Nov. 7.

MUSIC AND ORATORY.

Senior Classes of the Two Colleges Will Organize Jointly.

The Senior Classes of the Colleges of Music and Oratory have decided to unite in their class organization. These colleges have for some time been accustomed to give a joint recital the first Monday evening of each month. The present organization is a continuation of this idea. During the year they will give a number of recitals at different towns in the valley and will no doubt furnish some excellent entertainment.

Willamette has justly earned an enviable reputation for its elocution and music. These plans will give a greater number of people an opportunity to enjoy this work.

The joint class will consist of the following members:

Claudia Childers, Hallie Watson, Nellie Richmond, Lela Tarpley and Bertha Andrewartha, of the College of Music; Mae Chapler, Elma Byrne and Edna Parrish, of the College of Oratory.

Freshman Class.

At a meeting of the Freshman Class last Friday, Walter Keys and Ivan Martin were elected as class orators, and will enter the local contest.

Mr. Keys is well known in the school for his oratorical powers, and came near capturing the prize in the local contest last year. Mr. Martin is an able speaker, and will rush the other contestants hard. We are out for the state medal, and propose to put up the winner. Better hurry up, Sophs, Juniors, Seniors.

Notice.

Photographs connected with life and activities at Willamette; snap shots of professors and prominent students will be gratefully received by the Annual Board.

Mr. Frank Hamilton Spearman, who wrote the striking collection of railroad stories published by the Harpers under the title of "The Nerve of Foley," has never been a railroad man, strange as this may seem to his readers. Mr. Spearman was recently asked how he came by such minute information and understanding of railroad life. He replied that he learned it while in the banking business in the West. This seemed more puzzling than ever, until Mr. Spearman explained that he had lived in the town of McCook, Nebraska, which was operating headquarters for the Western division of the Burlington Road, and it is there the stories in "The Nerve of Foley" are laid. All the operating force of this road, from superintendent to boiler washer, Mr. Spearman knew intimately. He had monetary and political deals with them, almost lived with them, and unconsciously became thoroughly saturated with railroad color. On a recent visit to the scene of his former experience, Mr. Spearman was received with acclaim by the railroad "boys" who had recognized themselves in "The Nerve of Foley," and gloried in it. But, Mr. Spearman says, even his purely imaginary characters were identified with living men, and all the way from Omaha to Denver he was introduced to "originals" of Bucks and Callahan and others. "I hadn't heard of them before," said Mr. Spearman "but nobody's ardor was dampened by that. On the West End, 'everything goes.'" Mr. Spearman now lives with his wife and four lively boys in Wheaton, Illinois.

The University of Oregon has received a challenge to debate the University of Utah.

The Pacific Wave tells how they do things when a foot ball game is won. Speaking of the game against Idaho it relates: As soon as the word was spread, the students collected from every quarter to celebrate the victory on the Womens Dormitory grounds. By the light of a blazing bonfire, speeches, songs and yells were sent up in evidence of appreciation and a telegram of congratulation was promptly wired to the team.

Minnesota is to have a basket ball tournament. Teams from various classes and departments will compete for a champion ship cup.

While everybody knows the cranberry, few are acquainted with the flower, for the pent bogs where it blows in the choice fellowship of the stately pitcher plant and the golden club, and of many a rare orchid, are quite remote from the beaten paths of travel.
