WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY, SALEM, OREGON, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1906.

NO. 6

DEFEATED BY EUGENE

Saturday's Game Went Against W. U. by a Score of 0 to 4.

The Team Returned Cheerful and, Except Coleman, in Excellent Condition.

In the sixth annual game of football between the University of Oregon and Willamette, played at Eugene last Saturday, the state university team won by a score of 4 to 0.

The score was made in the last few minutes of the second half, and was the result of one of Fred Moulten's celebrated place kicks, executed from the 18-yard line.

The place kick was made possible by an unhappy fumble on the part of Willamette, the slippery pigskin bounding from Owens' arms on a punt into the clutches of Captain Chandler, giving Moulten a lucky opportunity to bring his unerring right foot into play.

The wet, muddy condition of Kincaid field made snappy formations impossible, but the game was not devoid of spectacular plays on both sides. Early in the first half, Kuykendall, who is a fleet sprinter, got away for a sensational run on a punt. Willamette's goal being saved only by a fine, flying tackle by Captain Rador. On Willamette's side, Russell made several spectacular runs.

During the first half, especially, the referee seemed particularly severe on Willamette, penalizing her fully seventy-five yards for alleged holding and off-side plays. This kept the ball in Willamette's territory a considerable portion of the time. Moulten took advantage of the proximity of Willamette's goal by attempting two place kicks but without success.

Willamette's team was seriously crippled by the absence of Curtis Coleman, who was "rough housed" by Oregon early in the first half and had to be carried off the field. This may seem like a harsh reflection on the Oregon team but the conduct of the offending players was clearly unnecessarily rough and uncalled for.

Quarterback Owens signaled for a punt, but in the scrimmage that followed one of the players got off-side and the referee sounded his whistle before Coleman could execute the punt. Coleman had the ball in his hands ready to kick, but when the whistle sounded he called "down" and stood, waiting to hear the referee's decision. All the Willamette players, thinking that the play had been rendered abortive by the referee's whistle, made no attempt to shield Coleman, and in response to coaching from the side lines, two of the Oregon men rushed at him full speed, tackling him viciously at the same time, with the result that Coleman will probably be out of the game for the rest of the season. The loss of "Cole's" superb punting without doubt saved the game to Oregon.

Lounsbury took Coleman's place at end, and while old "Launy" put up a smashing, and sometimes brilliant game, he has not had enough experience as an end to be at his best in that position. Lounsbury's place is at tackle where, on the defense, especially, he has already demonstrated that he is one of the ablest players in the state.

Willamette put up a superb game on the defensive, her playing in that respect eliciting the admiration of even the Oregon supporters. Oregon's attempts to make yardage through the line were as futile as trying to brain a bull with a lady's fan. It is not recalled that she made

THE JUNIORS AT PORTLAND

P. H. S. Barely Victorious in One of the Most Interesting Games of the Year.

The Willamette Juniors made a pilgrimage to Portland Friday, meeting the High school of that city in a fiercely contested gridiron battle on the Multnomah field with a final score of 6 to 0 in favor of the latter.

The "Juniors" opened the game by kicking off to the High school who ran it in 20 yards. In nearly the first play "Toots" Richardson added to his fame by making a clean break-away for 20 yards. Unable to make yardage on line, bucks the Juniors punted and speedy Leech got down the field to make a pretty tackle when the ball was caught. A minute later "Mick" McDowell brought the grandstand to its feet by breaking through and getting the runner behind the line. Baldwin of the High school got loose for 20 yards and was stopped only by a fierce tackle by Holman. Along here Richardson made 10 yards and a minute later Ross made a pretty recovery of a fumble. Holman now punted 35 yards, the longest punt of the game and Kornick got down the field to stop the ball's advance, with a pretty tackle. After a punting duel the High school got the ball on the Juniors' 30 yard line when three unfortunate penalties brought it to the Juniors' 2 yard line. Here a magnificent defense against three smashing bucks, gave the Juniors the ball within a foot of their goal line. Holman quickly punted out of danger but with a series of end runs the High school worked it back and sent Baldwin over for the first and only touchdown of the game, with but one minute of play left.

In the second half Holman caught and ran in the kick off. Both teams failed to make yardage and after some delay "Dynamite" Cummins proved his right to that sobriquet by making 12 yards in two successive bucks sheer through the line. Here the Juniors made 10 yards on a forward pass by Richardson and Booth and the sky began to brighten for a touchdown, but the cardinal line held and punted out of danger. Soon after a quadruple pass, the prettiest play of the game, secured 20 yards for the High school which was only prevented from being a touchdown by a sure tackle by the Juniors safety full. The game ended with the Juniors' ball in the middle of the field.

The Juniors were outweighed perhaps 8 pounds to the man but won merited favorable comment from officials and side lines for their heady team work. Keys at center and Savage and Shields on his right made a strong trio in the cardinal and old gold line. Coryell, Snyder and Vandervert were the Juniors' substitutes but neither team used any. The game was a good exhibition of clean sport no one doing any "off" playing except Latourette, of the DEBATE FOR W. U.

Much Interest in Polemics Is Being Manifested.—Dates will Soon be Arranged.

The outlook for debating at Willamette this year is decidedly auspicious. Interest in polemics is already to the fore.

This year, by virtue of an amendment to the constitution ten per cent of the student body fees goes to debates, and a debate council, consisting of a representative from each college class, and one from the preparatory department, authorized. This council has now been chosen, and is made up of the following named persons: Andrew R. Marker (law) '07; Gusie Booth (oratory) '08; Clark Sehnapp (liberal arts) '09; Guy Smith (liberal arts) '10; W. Jennie Grover (preparatory) and Assistant Professor Pridoux, member ex-officio from the faculty.

The council has already taken up its duties, and contracts for debates with Oregon Agricultural College, and Whitman College are being negotiated at this writing. The debate with O. A. C. will be held at Corvallis this year, and will probably occur about the first of March, the question being submitted by Willamette.

The contest with Whitman will be held at Willamette. This will be the first time that Willamette has ever debated Whitman. The Walla Walla institution has a brilliant reputation and will be a foeman worthy of Willamette's keenest steel.

Mrs. D. S. Prescott, of Spokane, was in the city over Sunday, the guest of Mrs. Luella Kimball. Mrs. Prescott was a member of Dr. Kimball's church in Spokane. She came down to visit her former pastor and wife, as well as to look over the University with a view of sending her children here.

HOLLOWE'EN AT THE GYM

A Pleasant Party Given By the G. S. A.

Ghost Stories and Refreshments Uppermost on the Program.

From time immemorial Hallowe'en has been observed at "Old Willamette." Students in the past attending these functions have declared each succeeding Hallowe'en party "the best ever," but the Hallowe'en party given by the G. S. A. at the gymnasium last Wednesday evening surpassed all previous records.

Although the announcement was made in chapel that no one except those dressed in paper gowns would be admitted, yet many appeared in ordinary costumes and succeeded in gaining admittance.

There were paper gowns of all descriptions on exhibition, ranging from the very plainest imaginable to some very beautiful and elaborate tissue paper costumes, showing the result of much time and care spent on them.

One of the delightful surprises of the evening, was the ghost stories told by Prof. Hawley in his usual pleasing and effective manner.

Delicious refreshments were served after which at a late hour the company broke up. The committee deserves a vote of thanks for their untiring efforts to make this event a success. The decorations of the gymnasium were artistic and appropriate for the occasion.

Freshmen Medics Organize.

The members of the freshmen class met together Wednesday, to effect an organization of the class, to be known hereafter as the class of '10, of the Willamette College of Medicine.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Bartlett, and the following officers were elected:

President, Mr. Pemberton.
Vice president, Mr. Massey.
Secretary and treasurer, Mr. Van Winkle.

Several matters of importance were discussed, and the class adjourned to meet again at the call of the president.

"The king is the man who can."

With the debating contest in view it is to be hoped that interest in debate will receive a new impetus in the literary societies and that every man who wishes to represent the University will go into the try-outs with the same zest and sparkle of spirit that he would give to the rivalries of track or gridiron.

Concerning the Staff.

The prompt and cheerful manner in which the members of the staff and the students generally have responded to the weekly demands of the editor deserves mention. Not one on the staff has neglected or slighted his duty. When an article has been asked for it has been written and handed in on time, if not by the correspondent himself then by a good substitute procured by him.

Many students who are not regular writers for The Collegian have handed in articles for publication and otherwise expressed their interest in and their desire to help make the college paper all that it should be. Members of the faculty also, have rendered material assistance by valuable suggestions or by furnishing articles either of their own writing or those from their classes.

The purpose of The Collegian is to give the current college news; to stand for principles that will further the best interest of proper student enterprises, and those that will aid the officers and faculty of the University to execute their laws fairly and justly; also to give experience in practical literary work. Every student, therefore, who does all he can to further this purpose is not only doing something for his college paper but for his college.

The College Student's Penmanship.

Some fifty years or more ago the "three rs" of education were much thought of and were considered the fundamental principle of education. The "three rs" mean "reading, riting and rithmetic." This article considers that of "riting." The poor penmanship of college students is becoming almost proverbial. This does not apply to every college student for some of them are good writers and take pride in it but for the rest so much can not be said. It would take more than the learned Philadelphia lawyer to decipher some of it as it is some times more unintelligible than Egyptian hieroglyphics. Students go to college and enter the freshman class. More often than not their writing is very good and can be easily read. By the end of their first year however they have learned the college scrawl. By the second year it has become almost unreadable and by the third year they themselves can not read it. In their senior year they do not improve.

The continual note taking is largely responsible for this but it need not ruin ones penmanship. Every one owes it to themselves and their respect to write as well as they can. They also owe it to their friends and others who must read their writing as a matter of courtesy.

Another phase of the question on penmanship, and not the least important, is that of its business side. In the business world men and women are judged for what they can do and for their usefulness to the employer. Suppose a young man writes to some person or firm for an important position whether the employers are acquainted with him or not they will judge of the applicants character by the writing. If the letter is well written both as to form and penmanship he stands an excellent chance of getting the desired position on condition that he is able to meet all other requirements. On the other hand if the form is bad, the penmanship illegible, the whole character of the letter slovenly in appearance, he stands very little chance of getting it no matter what his other qualifications may be. For if the penmanship is poor from too evident carelessness then it is very clear that such a person is careless in other matters that could not work to an employers interests. If the letter is slovenly then it is safe to judge that the writer is slovenly in at least some of his habits, either as to personal appearance, his work, or his habit of thought.

Every man or firm is justified in exercising care as to their employees for the success of their business depends not only upon themselves but also upon those working for them. Every person working for another owes it to their employer as well as themselves to put the best that is in them in their work; hence the reasons a business man would have for not wishing to employ one who might be judged as the above for their poor penmanship. Therefore every college student who is preparing himself or herself for their life work would do well to make their penmanship as good as they can if they wish to be successful.

Ministerial Association.

At the meeting of the Student Ministerial association the following officers were elected for the coming year:

Pres., F. B. Culver.
Vice Pres., Frank H. Reeves.
Sec.-Treas., R. W. Mason.

R. D. Bisbee was elected reporter to The Collegian for the College of Theology.

President Culver is a student of wide experience and knowledge and is a man well suited to the high position the Ministerial association has placed upon him. The association is to be congratulated in having chosen for its leader such a man. Although Mr. F. H. Reeves and R. W. Mason are new members of the association they are men of talent and will fill their positions with great credit to the college.

There are now twenty-two men who are members of the association and with the leaders full of enthusiasm a great future stands before the College of Theology.

Boanerges Bible Study Club.

This new and novel organization is composed of the boys in the University around the ages of 15-18. As their name signifies, the object of the organization is Bible study, however, many other enjoyable features are brought in on the side. If anyone wishes to know the significance of the fore part of the name it can be found in Mark 3:17. The club holds regular weekly meetings, every Sunday morning at 9:30, in Prof. Kirk's room. At their last regular meeting the club organized permanently and elected the following officers: President, Frank Snyder; vice president, Oliver Matthews; secretary, Geo. Winslow; treasurer, Will Vandevent. Ed. Winans is leader of the Bible study, but all business and all other features are managed by the members. The club organized with twelve charter members and is hopeful of enlarging somewhat. Any student in the preparatory department of the University between the ages of 15-18 is eligible to membership and can become a member upon receiving a majority of vote of the members present at any regular meeting. The club welcomes visitors at any regular meeting. They say, just watch them, there's going to be something doing.

Philodorian.

An enthusiastic crowd of society girls met in the Philodorian hall last Friday afternoon at 3:20. The regular program for the afternoon having been postponed until next Friday, an impromptu program was rendered.

The first number on the program was an instrumental solo by Miss Theo Bennet, this was followed by a reading by Olive Rigby. Mable Glover gave a very interesting little talk on "Football."

Society will be called promptly at 3:30 hereafter.

The Oregon Basketball League.

The representatives of the eight leading basketball teams met at the Salem Y. M. C. A. Saturday and perfected the organization of the Oregon Basketball League. This is composed of the following teams Salem Y. M. C. A., Portland Y. M. C. A., Multnomah Athletic club, Dallas College, Pacific College, Pacific University, Monmouth Normal School and Willamette University. The central committee consisting of Messrs. Mackie, Allen and Markle will act as arbiter in all disputes, misunderstandings and controversies arising among the various teams.

Each team will be required to place a guarantee of $10 with the treasurer of the league to show its good faith in playing its entire schedule of games. In case of forfeit the $10 will go to the team injured by its opponent by failure to play.

Willamette schedule is as follows:
P. C. at Newberg, Dec. 21.
Salem Y. M. C. at Salem, Jan. 4.
Dallas at Dallas, Jan. 11.
Portland Y. M. C. A. at W. U., Jan. 19.
Salem Y. M. C. A. at W. U., Jan. 23.
Monmouth at W. U., Jan. 26.
Portland Y. M. C. A. at Portland, Feb. 1.
M. A. A. C. at Portland, Feb. 2.
P. U. at W. U., Feb. 15.
Dallas at W. U., Feb. 22.
M. A. A. C. at W. U., March 1.
Monmouth at Monmouth, March 9.
P. U. at Forest Grove, March 15.
P. C. at W. U., March 22.

Willamette stands a very good chance to win the championship cup that has been provided by a Portland man. We have all but one of last year's team back again and with the new men that we have we should be able to bring the cup from Portland to Salem and keep it here. The men will commence practice at once and will be ready for the local try-out Dec. 14.

Never before has there been so many candidates lined up for the team as this year. Nelson, Forbes, Percel and Fisher will probably try out for guards, Whipple, Price and Johnson for center while H. Beknap, Hershner, Moores, Winans and Simpson are after the forward positions. The local try-out will be a battle royal as every man out is anxious to make the team. The manager is also planning a northern trip during the first part of Feb., so it is possible for W. U. to win not only the state championship but also the northwest championship.

Websterians.

The Websterians met at the usual hour on Friday evening and in the absence of President McKnight, Vice President Crandall presided. A very interesting program was rendered. About half an hour was devoted to parliamentary practice. It was opened by Reichen, who moved that Mr. Crandall be expelled, owing to the total depravity of his character, since his association with the wicked inhabitants of Modoc county. An amendment was then moved to substitute the name of Reichen for Crandall for suddenly turning traitor to his classmate and friend of many years. The contest between these two men was then long, fierce and and bitter, each being in turn defended and the other reproached by the other members for their evil mindedness, and there was as yet no sign for a solution of the feud when the chairman was reminded that the time allotted was up and some over. The following question was then debated: Resolved that credit should be given to students for satisfactory work done in our literary societies. Johnson and Reichen defended the proposition, while Smith and Schmidt opposed it. There was an abundance of both argument and eloquence, so much that one of the judges did not feel justified in deciding against either side and declared the debate a draw as the other judges disagreed.

Y. W. C. A.

The regular meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was postponed this week from Wednesday night to Thursday, on account of the Hallows'ea party. The attendance, however, was very good, and the meeting was especially helpful.

Miss Gussie Booth, who is chairman of the finance committee, had charge of the meeting. Miss Theo Bennett read the year's budget, also the policy, and a number of helpful suggestions given the girls while at Gearhart last summer. Miss Viola Fisher read the evening lesson, after which Miss Olive Riddell read an especially appropriate article on "Giving," by Margaret E. Sangster.

"The more difficulties one has to encounter within and without, the more significant and the higher in inspiration his life will be."

Prof. Lloyd Markham, an instructor at Drain normal, and a former student at Willamette, attended the football game at Eugene Saturday, and cheered for the champions of the cardinal and gold. Markham played halfback on Willamette's team of '92 and '93.

The library of the College of Theology, which is being stocked under the supervision of Dr. A. N. Fisher, already has a collection of 1900 choice volumes. Dr. Fisher's wide reading and scholarly attainments make him an ideal librarian.

The Whitman College Pioneer, speaking of the reception which the Willamette co-eds tendered the Whitman football team, says: "A pleasant evening was spent in conversation, after which light refreshments were served by the Willamette co-eds. The boys say they would like to go back to Salem again. Wonder why?"

the required ten yards once during the game by consecutive line plunges. Her largest gains were made by means of the forward pass which she executed with considerable success. Her outside punts, however, usually went to Willamette. Oregon was as felicitous, also, at fumbling punts as Willamette was at being penalized.

Captain Rader played a tremendous game on the defensive, but his offensive work, especially at carrying the ball, seemed to be less brilliant than his former performances have shown him to be capable of. Nace at left half played with all his old time dash and dexterity, his constant work being in evidence at every point of the game. Nelson, at center, played his opponent clear off the field, meanwhile fighting on numerous fumbles with the alacrity of a June bug on a rose.

Marker smashed up several fake plays that were attempted through his territory.

During the second half the ball ranged up and down the field, alternating from one side to the other in a spectacular exchange of punts, forward passes and line plunges, until allowed Willamette's fatal fumble allowed Oregon to score in the last few minutes of play.

Thompson, of Albany, acted as referee, and Hoekenberry, of Portland, as umpire.

In the evening a reception was given the Willamette team at the dormitory.

All in all, the Juniors made a good impression on their football audience. The backs hugged their interference with true affection, yet knew when to break away and pick out a hole; the ends were fast and rattling good at smashing up close interference, while the center quintet were always in the game.
