Danish Acrobats Tumble, Dance In Folk Costume in Gym Tonight

Student Body, YM Sponsor Danish Group

Gymnastics, tumbling and folk dancing, Scandinavian style, will be the main features of the Danish Gym Team program tonight at 8 o'clock in the Willamette gymnasium. The group of 18 men and 14 women is co-sponsored by the YMCA and the Willamette student body.

Tickets for the show, costing 60 cents for students and $1.20 for adults, are available at Maple's Sporting Goods, the YMCA and at the door.

The two-hour exhibition will include feats of balance on beams and rhythmical gymnastics by the women, fundamental gymnastics, acrobatics and tumbling by the men. Danish folk dances in national costumes and entrance and exit marches will be presented by the men and women.

Erik Flensted-Jensen, organizer and director of the team, selected the 32-member troupe after competitive trials between amateurs from Danish "folk schools" and clubs. The group started working together July 1, 1949 and left for the United States August 26 after performing in Stockholm. This is Coach Flensted-Jensen's third goodwill gym team tour of North America.

The Danish gymnasts, whose ages range from 18 to 24, will stay in campus living organizations tonight. The men and women travel by car and a truck carries their equipment. Cost for the entire trip will be paid by proceeds from performances.

Cast of Play Finds Problem In Fitting Borrowed Costumes

How to get the 270 pounds of Ray Loter into a costume made for the 170 pounds of another actor is the pertinent problem which now faces the drama department.

Loter who is portraying Argon, the invalid in "The Man Who Would Be Sick," must be fitted into one of the costumes already designed and made which are being loaned to the Willamette drama department by Beloit college, Beloit, Wisconsin. Prof. Ruane B. Hill, who is directing the play here, is an alumnus of Beloit and arranged to use the costumes which that college used when it presented the comedy.

The translation of the Moliere French drama which is being used by Willamette was made by L. Kirk Denmark, head of the Beloit drama department. Denmark is working on his Ph.D. on Moliere and has translated almost all of his plays from the French.

"The Man Who Would Be Sick" is to be presented in Waller hall May 4 and 5 at 8:30 p.m. as part of the May Weekend festivities.

Christensen Goes On 5-Month Trip To Europe Nations

John Christensen, who graduated from Willamette in February, has left Salem for a five-months tour of Europe. He left Tuesday for New York city and will sail from there for Le Havre on the Dutch ship, the Valendam.

Christensen will then cross the English Channel to England, where he will visit relatives of his uncle. Buying a motorcycle there, he will tour the British Isles before returning to the continent.

Christensen will visit Raoul Bertrand, former professor of philosophy at Willamette, in Marseilles, and some friends in Paris. After visiting other friends at the University of Oslo, in Norway, he will fly home from Luxembourg, September 30.

Aid Applications Due

Application for financial assistance must be made in the offices of the dean of students, the dean of women or the president before May 1, according to word received from those offices.

Application for part tuition grants to minister's sons and daughters must also be made before May 1. Parents' signatures must be obtained for both types of applications.

Willamette Betas Win NW Song Contest for Third Time

For the third consecutive time the Willamette chapter of Beta Theta Pi has won first place in the fraternity's northwest song fest.

Under the direction of Art Diamond, the 16-voice Willamette Beta chorus competed against six other northwest chapters in the main ballroom of the Cosmopolitan club in Portland last Saturday night before approximately 500 spectators.

Two other awards were made to the local chapter: the award for scholarship, and recognition for the most men in campus activities.

Each participating chapter sang two fraternity songs using the arrangements as found in the official song book. By winning the contest for the third time in a row, the Willamette chapter has retired the cup.

This was the ninth annual song competition which is sponsored by the Portland Beta Journal. The fest was originated in 1939 but was not held for three years during the war.

May Weekend Head Appoints Assistants; ASWU to Elect Queen

Newly-appointed May Weekend manager Dick Endsley added three members to his executive committee in planning for the spring formal and accompanying events set for May 5, 6 and 7.

Florence Goodrich, Dave Place and Don Phillips will be assistants to Endsley. Also to serve in various capacities for Weekend festivities are Marion Sparks, dance; Jackie Johnson, daisy chain; Patty Jo Hammond, Maypole dance; Howard Mader, Ted Loder, barbecue; Jean Gilmer, programs; Bill Hanson, publicity, and tug-of-war and greased pole contest, Gene Peyton.

An all-school election will be called on Tuesday when the names of senior women in the May queen contest will be voted upon. According to Endsley, the competition is open to any senior woman who desires to enter. The winning candidate will be crowned at a special ceremony in her honor on Saturday of that weekend.

All women's and men's living organizations will be eligible to enter the song contest, and Endsley reported that several sororities and fraternities are already preparing the music for the occasion.

The women will sing one semi-classical number, one novelty, and one house song, while the men will be limited to one semi-classical and one house piece. The officials also stated that while solos will be acceptable, they are to be discouraged since the contest is specifically a group song fest.

Other committee heads will be appointed next week, said Endsley, and actual planning for the occasion will begin in earnest at that time.

Collins Offers $500 Award To WU Senior

A $500 Collins graduate scholarship will be awarded for the first time this year to a Willamette male senior to be used for first year graduate work in that division of an accredited university.

The grant is available to any male student who, upon graduation, shall have completed not less than two years' work in residence at Willamette. Applicants must have a cumulative grade point average for all college work of not less than 3.30.

Application must be filed prior to May 1 in the president's office stating the graduate field, the purpose for pursuing graduate work, and the proposed university.

From the list of candidates, students shall ballot and select three nominees from which the faculty shall elect the recipient.

Willamette to Grant Credits For Summer Foreign Study

Willamette credits for studying subjects abroad will be given in 1951, or possibly in the summer of 1950, following a decision made Tuesday by a faculty meeting.

Courses such as French civilization and literature as well as language will be offered for study in France's Sorbonne as well as other French universities, in accordance with a plan by the Students' International Travel association.

The faculty policy committee, headed by Dr. George Hocking, of the language department, proposed the motion to the entire faculty after considering the plans for foreign study approved by the University under SITA.

Groups that attend the foreign sessions, at present scheduled for France and perhaps later in England to overcome language difficulties, will carry on formal studies for a month and will then disperse in order that the students may see some of Europe first hand.

Final details on the plan were not available at press time, and a list of costs had not been revealed, though the committee stated that a tuition paid to Willamette by students attending here or not would cover all studying expenses in Europe.

WU Squad Places in 3 Events At Stockholm Speech Tourney

Members of the Willamette speech squad won a second, a third and a fourth place at the Pacific coast conference held in Stockton April 3-5.

Frank Lockman won second place in extemp, and a fourth place in oratory. Jack Gunn and Tom Scheidel competed with such outstanding speech schools as Redlands and Pepperdine Junior college for third place in senior men's debate.

Two Stanford debaters will debate with Jack Gunn and Tom Scheidel in Waller hall Saturday night at 8 o'clock. David Leavitt and Forrest Barr will debate with the WU team on the topic for the year, which is: "Resolved: that the United States should nationalize all basic non-agricultural industries."

Lasting for one hour, the debate will be judged by outside judges whose identity is being kept secret. Arrangements for the debate are planned by Carolyn Matter. She is assisted by Ardithe Bailey, Nancy Marks, Jean Kile, Keith Lawrence, Kent Lawrence, and Jim Wood.

Graduate Student Will Attend Oslo Summer Session

Lloyd Uecker, minister of the local Evangelical-United Brethren church, has been accepted for the summer session of the University of Oslo, Norway.

Uecker, who is a graduate student on campus, will leave New York on June 13 with approximately 250 American students. The courses, to be taught in the English language, will pertain to Norwegian culture and include classes in geography, history, language, literature, music and art. A total of six semester credits may be earned during the six-week's session.

Following the summer session, Uecker plans to tour other parts of Europe and especially Germany where there are churches of the same denomination. He also hopes to see the Passion Play which is presented every 10 years in Oberammergau, Germany.

Application blanks may still be obtained from the Oslo Summer School Admissions office, St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minnesota.

Smith to Meet Calif. Alumni On Short Trip

Pres. G. Herbert Smith is combining business with pleasure while spending a few days in California this week where he is meeting with alumni in the Southwest to discuss the new athletic stadium and other campus news.

An outline of admissions policies, a description of faculty personnel, news on scholarships and aid programs and a review of the 1950 Freshman Glee will be included in the meetings.

Alumni and friends of Willamette have been invited to attend the meeting of the Bay Area Willamette university alumni club at San Mateo, April 19, where these and other topics will be discussed, according to Travis Cross, director of information.

Smith, who recently attended a board of directors meeting of the Association of American Colleges, will speak to Los Angeles alumni on April 16 and attend a San Francisco session of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers on April 18.

Music Professors To Present Sonata Program in Waller

Jean Farquharson, pianist, and Willis Gates, violinist, will present a sonata recital on Wednesday evening, April 19, at 8:15 in Waller hall auditorium.

Gates and Miss Farquharson, both new to the faculty of the College of Music this year, will present a program consisting of sonatas by Schubert, Hindesmith, Mozart, and Richard Strauss.

Miss Farquharson was heard in a recital earlier in the school year, but this concert will mark Gates' first appearance as a performer in Salem.

Gates, who is conductor of the university orchestra, studied violin at the Peabody Conservatory of Music, John Hopkins university, and the University of North Carolina.

Pianist to Present Concert Sunday

Katherine Schissler, pianist, will be heard in a piano recital in Waller hall auditorium this Sunday afternoon, April 16, at 3 p.m.

Miss Schissler, a Willamette graduate who completed her requirements for a master's degree at the University of Michigan recently, is now a part-time piano instructor at the College of Music. For her recital she has chosen a program including three Scarlatti sonatas, Schumann's "Scenes from Childhood," "Partita in A Minor" by Bach, and a Beethoven sonata.

Short Rations Come to Willamette

Muffins as a main course at lunch is far from ideal for group of over two hundred men. This, above all, was the consensus of opinion in Baxter hall and the four fraternity wings Wednesday.

Lettuce salad, cream of tomato soup, and chocolate pudding were also a part of the meal as usual on that day, but when the men had finished their soup, waiters in Baxter's dining room and the four fraternity wings announced that muffins would constitute the main course for that meal.

Fifty cents a meal is the charge made by the University for outsiders at noontime. Outraged men of Baxter, with the support of the Collegian, maintain that this meal did not constitute a value of that price. If the meal was an incentive to make the students eager to pay the extra fifteen dollars a semester beginning next fall, it was ill-timed. Spring vacation and a renewed acquaintance with home cooking were but two days away on Wednesday.

Baxter is not the only hall that has a pretense to malnutrition. Pre-Easter meals on several occasions, according to residents of Lausanne, included salad, soup, hot-cross buns, and prunes as dessert. Lausanne residents, also, are looking forward to a price hike in board and room next fall.

An official explanation was unavailable at press time, but rumor reported that the meal was to "test reaction."

Some students claim to have heard that officials had said that since the men often did not eat the main course anyway, they thought that it would be interesting to test reaction and find out exactly who would come to them with their "gripes."

The Collegian understands that they found out.

Is a Divided World Feasible?

Next week the Collegian will run two articles on the question, "Is a divided world feasible?"

The articles, an assignment in Professor Kollman's social and political philosophy class, were written from the standpoint of a Marxist and are concerned with whether or not the world can continue in its present divided state.

According to the cold logical philosophy upon which communism is based it would seem that the unification of the world will be necessary if the classless society is going to evolve. On the other hand some of the present day Marxists seem to be content with the development of communism in Russia.

One of the articles will take the affirmative side of the question and the other the negative.

Collegian Features

You're on Probation? Things Were Really Tough Back in '80

By Wally Southard

"Resolved: that the young ladies of the University shall be allowed to accept the company of young gentlemen only by permission of the president except when at home."

No, this isn't a resolution from the present day administration. So put away those water pistols and keep on reading. The foregoing blurb was promulgated and adopted by the faculty in 1880 for reasons known only to them.

But evidently they had the idea that the mutual attraction of man to woman was some sort of a conspiracy and dated back to the time that Eve started toying around with the apple.

Rules seemed to be one of the things the university had plenty of back in the old days, according to Dr. Gatke's "Chronicles of Willamette." Some of the rules or modifications thereof have carried down to the present day. Here are a few.

Permission for temporary absence from school and town required. Study during recitation hours and from 7 to 9 p. m. ditto. (This rule would seriously affect a number of students today who find these periods most convenient for snoozing.) Attendance at church on Sunday mornings mandatory. Attendance at chapel required daily. The use of tobacco prohibited in the school. (Funny how this rule carried down through the years.) Visiting theaters and dancing forbidden.

Classroom conduct was to be exemplary. In those days, when a gentleman still offered his seat to a lady, it was "ladies first" in and out the door. Students were not to leave the room until dismissed by the professor. This probably worked some sort of a hardship on many students, and it is a good thing that such a practice died out. For there are still a few professors around Willamette who think the bell is rung at the end of the period just to disrupt their lecture; hence, they cheerfully ignore it and are still going strong as the last student troops out through the door.

But getting back to the old days, once across the threshold, there was to be no "loafing, lounging, whispering or prompting." This last item, "prompting," was your great-grandfather's way of calling a "pony" a pony.

There was even a rule against throwing snowballs, too, and a half a dozen students were hailed before the administration and cited for breaking this rule.

And yet, during this period, when a fence surrounded the campus for the purpose of keeping out the wandering cows, a student could come to Willamette and go the entire year for a little more than half of one semester's tuition today. That's right. It cost a dollar a month for room and a dollar and a half a week called?" many seniors are busy trying to decide just what they are going to be asked.

It's really a guessing game. The student tries to guess what the professors think that he should know, and at the same time the professor attempts to make a guess at what the student doesn't know as he decides what questions to ask.

Some professors choose to lower the boom on their students after first submitting them to a very pleasant atmosphere. One such inquisitor used to take the gang to the beach, and while they were out basking in the sun he called them in one by one for the ordeal.

Female seniors sometimes keep orchids in readiness so they can put them on after passing their orals. Some put them on before going before the examination board, apparently in the hopes of impressing the professors. Rumor has it that one enterprising student carried a bottle of nitroglycerine into his oral and threatened to drop it if he wasn't passed. He passed.

Orals vary in length of time. The shortest on record was 10 minutes and the longest ran into hours. It all depends on how long it takes the professors to get the student to say something. Occasionally it takes an hour or two to get the victim to say anything at all.

There are about 200 souls going through the process this year. Sixty-five are graduating in business and economics alone. Because of this large number oral examinations will be given to three or four students at a time, thus they will be able to pool their mental and moral resources to meet any crisis that might come up.

Various devices may be used by students to enhance their chances in their orals. For example, they may try to talk as long as possible on and around one particular question with as many digressions as possible in order to cut down the time in which other questions can be asked. This is known as the "filibustering" technique. Also, helpful in the matter of time is a slow rate of speed in talking. With practice one can accomplish a great deal towards this endeavor.

Generally, comprehensives do not arouse the fears that orals do. This is because the student can at least express himself in some way or another whether he knows anything about the topic or not. Of course there are feelings that many have that wouldn't look too well if they were expressed on paper.

Yeah, I passed my orals, but I'm beginning to wish I could stick around a white.

Just Sit Back and Relax, It Won't Hurt a Bit

Stick around, Governor, we have a class in twenty minutes.

Bearcats to Meet Portland Pilots Tomorrow; OCE Twice Next Week

With one win and two losses under their belts, the Willamette Bearcats will again swing into action tomorrow, meeting the University of Portland Pilots at Portland.

Next Wednesday the Lewismen will tangle with Oregon College of Education at Monmouth, and will then play host to the same team the following day. Conference play will open April 22 when the Bearcats travel to Whitman for a twin bill.

In the games up to date, coach Johnny Lewis has been very pleased with the pitching, with ten pitchers hurling 22 innings and giving up only five earned runs for a combined 2.04 earned run average.

Lou Scrivens and Howard Olson lead the hurlers with three innings each with no earned runs, while Ray Pointer, Larry O'Dell and Larry Stocks each gave up no earned runs in two stanzas. Gordy Lenz and Mike Glenn each toiled one inning without an earned run being charged against them. So far

Racket Squad Begins '50 Season at Linfield

Willamette university's tennis team began the 1950 net wars when they tangled with the Linfield squad yesterday at McMinnville.

The results of the match were unknown when this paper went to press, but the local netter's chances were good in copping the season's opener. Linfield, with a virtually unknown squad, lost their first conference match when they bowed to Lewis and Clark college Tuesday. Willamette has four returning lettermen to carry the brunt of the load for them this year.

The four lettermen, Cece Conners, Ray McCoy, Howie Lorenz and Al Miles make up the first four spots on the team, while Dick Unruh and Earl Killifer are fighting it out for the fifth spot.

Sigs, Betas Victors In Softball Opener

The intramural softball league got under way Tuesday, but came to a sudden halt due to wet grounds. The noontime B league started before the rains came and saw the Sigma Chi and Beta B squads victorious.

The Sigs topped the SAE's 17-3 in two full innings of play. They crossed home plate with 12 runs the first inning and added five more in the second. SAE pitcher Don Pritchett, having trouble with control, added to the Sig cause by walking a total of 13. Tom Joseph's homer with three aboard also helped the Sigs. The batteries for SAE were Pritchett and Davies and for Sigma Chi, McCloud and Massey.

The Betas and the Faculty finished three full innings with the Beta crew 8 to 3 victors. George Adams did the pitching chores for the Betas with Don Carpenter on the receiving end. Olds and Whitted were the Faculty batteries.

The 4 o'clock games were cancelled because of rain. A full schedule for Thursday and next week are posted on the gym bulletin board.

Lefty Nordhill has received credit for Willamette's only win, while Frank Gatchall and Bob White were charged with losses.

While the pitching has looked good, the hitting looked just as bad with Willamette possessing a .157 team average. Only catchers Roy Harrington and Deke Walker, infielder Ray Osuna, and outfielder Irv Roth are batting 300 or better.

It will be the first scheduled performance for the Bearcats and the field events will start at 2:15 p.m. with the running events beginning a half hour later. The track at Bush's pasture is in good condition and seating facilities for spectators have been erected.

The date for the intramural track meet has been definitely set for next Monday and Tuesday, with all organizations to turn in their entry lists by Monday. Starting Monday at 3:15 p.m., the following events will take place: 220 yard dash, half mile, pole vault, shot put, javelin, high hurdles and low hurdles. Tuesday at the same time, the remaining events are scheduled. They are: 100 yard dash, mile, 440 yard dash, broad jump, high jump, discus, and relay.

WU Skiers Last in Conference Match

Willamette's five-man ski team came in third in the Northwest conference meet a week ago last Saturday, trailing Whitman and Lewis and Clark. Pacific, the fourth team scheduled to compete, did not show up for the meet.

Whitman came in first with a 200 point total, with Lewis and Clark totaling 195.5, and Willamette 114. Guttorm Berge, a Norwegian exchange student attending Whitman, captured first place in the slalom and downhill events, while Walter Endeidi of Lewis and Clark was second in the slalom and Dick Vandenberg of Whitman was second in downhill.

Tom Edwards of Willamette tied for third in the slalom and placed ninth in the downhill. Edwards was Willamette's high point man with a 141.2 score based on a 200 point total for Berge. Cole Stevens was second for Willamette with 112.6, while Dave Anderson had 86.4, Al Miles 67.5, and Don Carpenter 40.2.

Baxter No. 1 Holds Bowling Lead

The Baxter No. 1 bowling team continues to pace the intramural bowling loop, but only by one point after dropping three out of four to Sigma Chi No. 1 in last week's action. The Phi Delt No. 1 team meanwhile moved into undisputed possession of second place with a clean sweep in its series with Beta Theta Pi.

Other action saw the SAE No. 2 squad take three out of four from Baxter No. 2, Sigma Chi No. 2 take three out of four from SAE No. 1, and Phi Delt No. 2 take all four from Baxter No. 3.

Don Phillips of the Phi Delt No. 1 squad had the high individual game with 196, while Ben Valdez of SAE No. 1 had the high individual series with 515, followed closely by Dean Mallary's 514.

Sigma Chi No. 2 had the high team series with 2662, and also had the high team game with 957. The 957 game established a new record for the intramural league.

Bearcats Win One of Three; Top OSC 6-5, Lose Twin Bill to Oregon 5-4, 2-1

After impressively opening their 1950 baseball campaign by beating Oregon State 6-5, the Willamette Bearcats absorbed two one-run nose-outs from the Oregon Ducks, 5-4 and 2-1, over the spring vacation.

Down at Coleman field the Bearcats found pitcher Bob Stoltz for two runs in the first frame and three more in the fifth. Then Ken Carpenter, powerful Beaver fullback, came to put out the fire. He was knicked for a run in the seventh as was Willamette's Gordy Lenz.

Roth Scores Two

The first scores for the 'Cats in the initial inning came on an error, a double by Dave Perlman, a single and a stolen base by George Matile, and a wild pitch, scoring Perlman and catcher Roy Harrington.

In the fourth, the Beaver batters discovered the mark again for four solid hits and another two runs, putting them out in front 4-2. The Bush fielders rallied in the fifth when Perlman and fielder John Markoskie stroled. Matile got on through an error. Irv Roth's timely double drove in two and Brouwer's fly another.

Beavers Muff Four

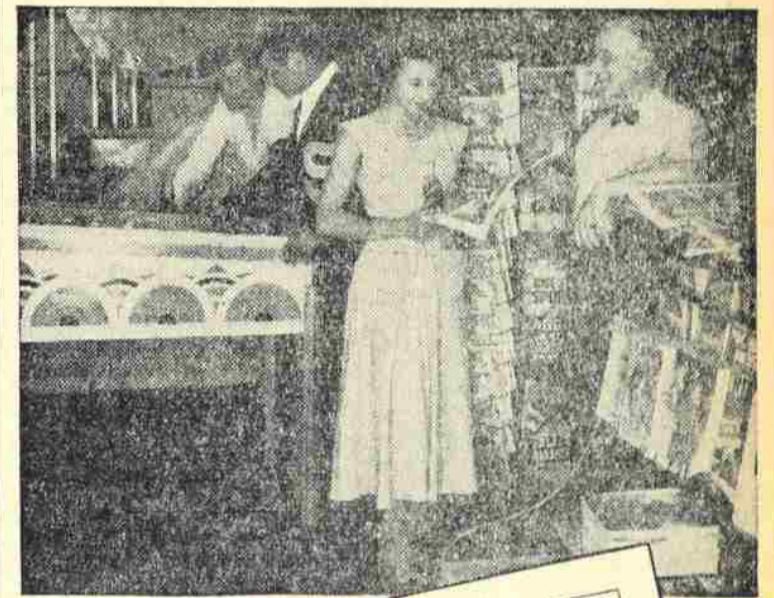

Lou Scrivens, Lefty Nordhill, Gordy Lenz, and Ray Pointer divided chucking chores, together yielding 9 blows. Though out-hit nine to five, the winners capitalized on the Beaver's four errors. The Bearcats only let two go by. Center fielder Irv Roth set the hitting pace with three for five, including a double.

Oregon Game Thriller

Willamette's first tally came in on a walk, an error, and Harrington's two-baser in the first. They added one to that in the fifth on four successive walks given up by wild man DeWayne Johnson. Two more runs in the sixth brought the Bearcats within shooting range of the Ducks, by this time with five runs. However, the 'Cats were rather weak at the plate that day and Dick Brouwer's two-sack slam in the final frame went begging. Johnson, who struck out five and issued seven walks, got the credit for the 5-4 victory.

Engagement Told Tuesday At DG House

Virginia Wilson surprised her Delta Gamma sisters Tuesday night with the announcement of her engagement to Bill Sheppard of Hood River. The door of the Delta Gamma chapter house was adorned with a triangle of cream colored roses. In the center of the triangle were two rabbits, one with pink and blue ribbons around his neck, one with gold and blue.

Inside, a table was set with pink and blue candles and ribbon surrounding a bridal couple. The names of the betrothed were not revealed until house meeting when a box of candy was opened which disclosed a doily backing a Delta Gamma pin tied to a Delta Upsilon pin belonging to Sheppard. The names "Virginia and Bill" were beneath the pins.

Miss Wilson is a sophomore majoring in home economics. Her home is in Parkdale. Sheppard is a senior at Oregon State college where he is majoring in engineering. He is affiliated with Delta Upsilon fraternity. His home is in Hood River. No date has been set for the wedding.

'Alcoholic' Theme Set For Dance

A slightly tipsy world will greet the men of Baxter hall and their dates tonight at 8:30 when they step into "Dementia Dypsomania" and spend an evening dancing in the realm of an alcoholic.

In keeping with the unique theme the hall will be decorated in hues of violent pink and bilious green. Weirdly askew lamp posts and doorways will line the walls and writhing snakes and other creatures of alcoholic delirium will be stenciled about the rooms.

Intermission entertainment will feature vocal and guitar numbers by Charlie Nee and Glennis Allen and Joan Dingman with her rendition of the tunes of the '20s. Following the program, canapes and punch will be served. Wayne Mussey's combo will furnish music for the evening.

Chuck Martin and Carl Blanes are acting as general chairmen of the affair; Ron Simons and George Waggoner are in charge of refreshments; Elliott Noshaka heads the decorations committee and Chuck Martin has secured the music and asked Prof. and Mrs. Charles Derthick and Prof. and Mrs. Maurice Brennan as patrons.

Dressy-sport attire will be in order.

Choir Members Faced Varied Conditions on Recent Tour

By Marilyn Whaley

Two of the choir members, returning from their recent tour of the northwest, were unable to keep up with their belongings. Gay Simons and Paul Jewell left their coats in Seattle, though Jewell later recovered his coat and Miss Simons is "still hoping."

Betty Jean Mullin and Bob Gwinn sang duets on the tour. In the middle of one of their numbers, Gwinn reached for Betty Jean's hand. Reaching for her hand, he caught her robe, and as he pulled, the robe swung back and revealed Betty Jean's red pedal pushers. This incident greatly amused the high school audience.

The tour took the choir to Bellingham, Wash. They went via the Chuckanut drive which goes around the sound and is part of the scenic drive in the state of Washington. To their dismay, the choir found that the road was closed so a few of the brighter fellows talked to a station attendant and found that trucks used the road.

As they rounded a few curves and bends they discovered there was just enough pavement for one vehicle to travel upon. There was a 300-foot drop on one side and a hill on the other side. Below the pavement were undermires, which added to the danger of the bus crossing this stretch in the road. The passengers left the bus and walked across and the bus made the trip on the dangerous road safely.
